Foy Proctor President Of New Fair Association

The name "Midland Fair, Incorporated," was chosen this morning by officers as the one best typifying the new organization and the primary objective. Although not local in its scope, but representing a wide cattle, agricultural and oil area, the organization was given the name of its headquarters city to avoid confusion with the various West Texas, Southwestern, Plains and other regional fairs already in operation. The Midland fair, Inc., will be advertised throughout the nation, especially in territories where buyers of feeder calves may be reached.

Foy Proctor, Midland cattleman and civic leader, was the unanimous choice last night of directors of the newly organized fair association to serve as president.

Foy Proctor, Midland cattleman, was elected president of the newly organized fair here at a meeting of stockholders and directors last night at the chamber of commerce office.

The stockholders first voted to form themselves into an organization for the purpose of staging fairs, rodeos, race meets, polo games and other events, with the name to be selected later; the organization to incorporate, acquire property and construct buildings and equipment.

Sixteen directors then were elected, including Clarence Scharbauer, Roy Parks, A. C. Francis, J. R. Martin, Roy Proctor, Henry Barton of Odessa, Addison Wadley, H. G. Bedford, Fred Turner Jr., E. B. Dickenson, John M. Gist, Tom Nance, Elliott H. Barron, M. C. Ulmer, W. B. Simpson and Harvey Sloan.

Other directors were expected to be added. Upon motion of the stockholders, the directors then went into executive session, electing officers and employing the secretary. Details of beginning actual steps toward incorporation and toward construction of track and equipment were left to be worked out at a meeting of officers today.

The report of A. C. Francis, finance chairman, to the stockholders last night showed that approximately $25,000 in cash had been paid in and that at least $2,000 to $3,000 was known to be available immediately. It was believed that the stock could be brought to $30,000 cash with a little more work by the committee.

The new body will take in as large a territory as possible, it was planned, representing the large cattle area extending even into eastern New Mexico. A name suitable to such a regional exposition was to be selected.

It was planned to hold the first fair, race meet and rodeo either late in September or early in October, as quickly as construction can be completed, with dates in cooperation of other meetings. Secretary Rowe was employed to serve through the months of July, August, September and October.

Contract was made yesterday afternoon by the organization committee to buy the 100 acre Frank Elkin tract on the east highway, just east of Peeler's tourist park, as soon as the title can be passed on. C. R. Fryer, who was farming the tract, was paid for his cotton crop in order to clear the ground for immediate construction.

A mile race track has been contemplated by those interested in the organization. Other equipment planned includes a steel grandstand to seat from 2,500 to 3,000 persons, exhibit buildings, livestock show ring, stable, rodeo arena and the features necessary to a first class fair and entertainment park.

Long Says Roosevelt "Liar And Faker" In Radio Talk

The blow that damaged the nose and eye of Paul Yates, chief witness against Governor P. M. Pearson caused a hurried adjournment of the Virgin Islands investigation

Senator Millard Tydings, chairman of the inquiry, and Gov. Pearson, whose tenure of office is at stake.

Long Says Roosevelt "Liar And Faker" In Radio Talk

NEW ORLEANS, July 9. (AP)—United States Senator Huey P. Long, in a radio speech here Monday night, called President Roosevelt a "liar and a faker" and defied "them" to "indict me for that."

Senator Long made the statement during the course of a review of the work of the recent special session of the Louisiana legislature at which he personally directed enactment of 25 laws designed to tighten his grip on the state government and strip his political enemies of their patronage.

Discussing a resolution adopted by the legislature calling on congress to replace the recently enacted old age pension bill with a measure drafted by Senator Long, the Louisiana "dictator" said:

"Let me tell you about this Roosevelt pension plan. Under it there are 280,000 persons in Louisiana who would qualify, and Louisiana would get about $1,000,000 which would mean that the state's old age pensioners would get $3.60 a year or a little less than one cent a day."

"That's what Franklin Delano Roosevelt sends you down here. 'Franklin Roosevelt is a liar and a faker. Now let them indict me for that and I'll prove him' said."

"That pension plan is a fake," Long continued. "Mr. Franklin Delano Roosevelt has never done anything but fake on things that never did the people any good."

The senator then switched to a discussion of what he termed the "original old age pension plan introduced by Mr. Huey P. Long."

"I first introduced an old age pension plan in 1932," Long said. "Then again in 1933 and 1934, and three consecutive years they turned it down and then came along and gave you this Roosevelt plan."

"Don't think these senators, presidents and congressmen are too big. I'm as big as President Roosevelt. Why, he's copying my share-the-wealth speeches now that I was writing when I was 14 year old. So he's just now getting as smart as I was when I was in knee breeches."

'YOU'RE A LIAR' SHOUTED TODAY IN LOBBY QUIZ

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—Representative Brewster, Republican (Maine), threw the House rules committee utilities lobby investigation into a momentary uproar just before the close of its first hearing today when he shouted, "You're a liar!" at Thomas Corcoran, RFC attorney, who was on the stand.

In concluding his recital of contacts with Brewster, Corcoran said that just before the House vote on the utilities bill that Brewster indicated that he would not make a speech for the mandatory abolition of holding companies nor vote for the bill.

Corcoran said that Brewster asked him if he thought it would be all right "if I duck back to the hotel and do not vote." "You're a liar!" Brewster shouted.

BEHIND ALL DEFENSES, GOLD MUST BE SAFE!

Official announcement that most of Uncle Sam's huge gold supply will be transferred to an underground vault at an army post in Kentucky might lead one to suspect that the enemy, if not actually at the gates, is anyway at the house next door and coming fast.

Caution is probably a praiseworthy quality in any national government. But this business of hustling our gold off to the inland, on the ground that coastal cities are subject to attack by enemy raiders, seems to be carrying caution to a fault.

We have been spending somewhere between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 a year on our navy, of late, and from all accounts it seems to be in pretty fair shape. If our gold reserve remained in Washington and we got into a war and the enemy decided to invade the continental United States—something which no enemy in his senses would dream of doing, probably—it would first be necessary for this enemy to sink our fleet, lock, stock and barrel.

The fleet sunk—and naval strategists agree that there is no fleet in existence that could successfully attack our fleet on our own side of the Atlantic—there would still remain our army air force.

You may recall that elaborate plans were drawn up by the army not long ago for concentrating our planes in such a way that a vast horde of them could swoop down out of the sky on any invader. Clearly, the enemy would have to bring something like a thousand fighting planes of his own before he could get within shouting distance of the treasury's gold vaults in Washington.

We have, also, certain coast defense forts, on which much money has been expended. British experience at the Dardanelles in the World War showed that even second-rate land forts can beat an attack by dreadnaughts. Coming up the Chesapeake with a fleet of troop ships would not be a simple task.

Lastly, we have an army. It isn't very big, to be sure, but it is pretty tough, what there is of it, and the time it would take to sink our navy, destroy our air force and crush our coast defense batteries ought to enable us to expand it pretty well to form a good reception committee.

All in all, it hardly seems that our gold reserve has been in any great danger. Digging a pit for it at Fort Knox may provide someone with good exercise, and give the garrison at Fort Knox a feeling of importance, but it is a little hard to see what other really important end it serves.

GREAT CHANCE FOR YOUTH

Establishment of the National Youth Administration seems to mark the inauguration of another of those jobs which, if handled properly, could be of immense service to the nation—and which, if the proper leadership is lacking, can swiftly decline into just another well-meant but fruitless bit of official boon-doggling.

With the aims of the project, no one can quarrel. It is planned to utilize the enormous potentialities of American young men and women—to see that they get the training they need, to provide recreational facilities for them, to make jobs so that they can at least partially support themselves, and to hunt for proper openings for them in private industry.

A national advisory board is to co-operate with the state and city boards throughout the country to achieve these ends. Much will depend on the way these boards do their work. They have an opportunity to be of immense service. Let us hope that they work with the efficiency and intelligence needed to put over a program of this kind.

Cooper, Director, Department of Research, Texas State Teachers Association. Dr. Cooper will be remembered by Midland citizens as the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Woody S. Elkin. He lived in Midland for sometime last year. The volume is a study of the permanent school fund made under the auspices of the State Teachers Association. It is dedicated "To taxpayers, parents, and children of Texas who desire to make the permanent school fund permanent." The book introduces general land policies and principles of the state, the development of the policy of land endowment for schools, administration of state public school lands, timberlands, agricultural lands, and mineral lands, development and administration of the permanent fund, major losses to the fund, and recommendations for making the fund actually permanent. In view of recent disclosures concerning this basic essential of the Texas school system, the book should be of current as well as permanent information and interest. son, remaining sweet and tender until almost ripe. The Bantam is a yellow corn with wide shallow kernels, very juicy, sweet and tender. A large strain has been developed within the last few years, but this variety is still smaller eared than the Evergreen. Country Gentleman is a late variety with small ears and deep white kernels.

Most of us prefer plain corn-on-the-cob, but there are many delicious ways to serve it besides. For instance, cut from the cob and cook for ten minutes in thin cream seasoned with butter, salt and pepper. This is easier to eat in polite society anyway. It should be stirred constantly while cooking to prevent sticking and burning.

Green corn waffles and fritters, corn soufflé and corn pudding are fine made of fresh corn and these are good ways to use up left-over corn.

Because corn is so rich in calories it's a good idea to plan menus with this in mind. Corn is lacking in fat so we can serve it with ham and bacon. Chicken and sweet corn are a fine combination.

Corn soufflé is a delicate lunch-eo dish. Try it with sliced tomatoes and berry roly-poly.

Corn Soufflé: Six ears of corn, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 3 eggs, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Refrigerator Center Of Happy Home in Sizzling Summer

By MARY E. DAGUE, EA Service Staff Writer. The thing to do with your refrigerator in hot weather is to give it the place of honor that your fireplace occupies in winter.

Make it the center of the home and center all activities around it. The housekeeper will have more time for herself as a result and the family will have better meals.

Fruit cocktails, fruit soups, and jellied soups should be made hours before serving and thoroughly chilled. Even hot soups can be quickly cooled and kept on ice for reheating when wanted.

All salad materials are nicer if allowed to chill thoroughly before serving, and salad dressings keep for a week on ice.

Jellied meat loaf can be prepared the day before. Cold boiled tongue, boiled or baked ham, cold roasts, such as lamb and beef, can be served as cold cuts from the ice box.

Many hot meat dishes are good reheated. Keep a dish of cold boiled potatoes on hand for potato salad, potatoes au gratin, potatoes in cheese, potato omelet, hashed brown potatoes or old-fashioned fried. These all are good with cold cuts and are economical besides.

Here are menus for refrigerator meals:

Menu No. 1: Jellied meat loaf, potatoes in cheese sauce, corn on the cob, stuffed tomato salad, red raspberries, shortcake, milk, coffee.

Menu No. 2: Cold sliced meat, lattice potatoes, green beans in cream, jellied cabbage salad, Dutch peach cake, milk, coffee.

Menu No. 3: Cold roast of lamb or beef, cold boiled tongue, pressed corn beef, cold boiled ham or baked ham provide variety in cold sliced meats. The potatoes can be made the day before or early in the morning and stored in an airtight box until wanted for reheating. Cook the beans early in the morning, cool quickly and keep covered in the ice box until ready to reheat in a thin rich cream sauce or real cream. Shredded cabbage, grated carrots and minced sweet green peppers are added to a lime jelly and the mixture chilled all day in the refrigerator.

The dry ingredients for the peach cake are mixed ready to add the milk and egg when ready to bake.

Here's Big Earful About Corn on Cob

By MARY E. DAGUE, NEA Service Staff Writer. The other day I got one of those sheets that various authoritative organizations send out, and on it was a lot of information about the food elements contained in green corn!

Can you imagine anybody taking the trouble to dissect an ear of tender-as-love, sweet-as-sugar new corn on the cob in order to make a formula of it?

Not for me, thank you. I'll just have my green corn steaming hot from the pot, salted and peppered lightly and rubbed with sweet butter. All the information I need about it is the way it looks and smells and tastes. And I'll have at least three ears and not much else for dinner, please. The first few times we have it, anyway.

Cook 3 to 8 Minutes: Do you know how to cook corn so that it will be at its best? Well, first catch it young, but not too young. And next, pluck it five minutes before you mean to plunge it into the pot. Finally, drop it into actively boiling water and boil rapidly for from three to eight minutes, depending upon taste. There is a great controversy about that.

For years the three stand-bys of the housekeeper in the way of sweet corn have been Evergreen, Golden Bantam and Country Gentleman. The Evergreen is large with deep white kernels and has a long sea-

I DO NOT ENVY

By Helen Welshimer

I DO not envy anyone a Heaven
That love has built in beauty... this I pray:
That it has sprung from high and noble leaven,
So if it last a century or a day,
No clouds will mar a sky that should be tender,
No shadows come while two possess the land.
May they keep faith with promises they render—
This way alone the spires of Eden stand.

NO wasted city lies within my dreaming.
When I look up the hill paths to the sun,
I see my minarets still bravely gleaming,
Though tenancy, once dear, is long since done.
They who retain the image of high places
Are never pilgrims in the frightened lands.
No clutter of debris leaves futile traces—
They build again with stronger, gentler hands!

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

"Knighthood Flowers Again in Canada" runs the headline above a certain feature article we've been perusing. An intriguing title and we wager that every woman and most men who see it will forthwith take time out to read it.

Is the age of chivalry about to experience a resurrection? Quien sabe? At least, the Canadians who 16 years ago decided that they had had enough of Lords and Ladies, and other titles, have reversed the order and are now allowing Canadians to be knighted by the king.

Among those recently honored in this way are a dean of music at the University of Toronto, a minister to Japan, and a president of a railway and the Boy Scouts, and the head of the famous Canadian "mountain."

It would seem that if the government is to return to the creation of a nobility in the land of the Mount-Ed Police it is at least using discrimination in making nobles of those who have proved their right to the distinction through service rendered their country and countrymen.

And yet, the whole affair makes us wonder. Can it be that royalty is coming back and that kings and princes and their retinues are again to take the center ring in the world's human circus?

There is one advantage to a holiday that is quiet and sane. There are no regrets afterward.

Pies for the new slapstick comedies, we learn, are made of stewed blackberries, stewed apricots, and a marshmallow frosting. With such a content in the pies, the actors who are smeared with them should be able to wear a realistic look of bliss while licking their fingers.

We've never been able to understand why the need for inspiration should come at the exact moment of the day when we haven't any. (Now we suppose some cynic will retort that the difficulty doesn't lie in the time of day at all.)

One of the things that we are perfectly willing to acknowledge is street, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Lucky Thirteen club will meet with Mrs. J. O. Vance at 110 West Louisiana, Friday afternoon at 3:30.

The Loyal Workers B. Y. P. U. will have a party at the Baptist Annex Friday night.

Mesquite troop, Girl Scouts, will meet at Pagoda Pool Friday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Each girl is asked to bring her swimming fee and lunch.

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Flowers to Suit Your Costume

If you like to pin fresh flowers on your summer clothes, make sure that they bear some definite relation to the costume you happen to be wearing. For instance, orchids would look silly on a two-piece linen outfit of the spectator sports type. However, they would be charming on a rather dressy, dark chiffon street suit. Daisies, nasturtiums and other casual flowers that grow in your garden make nice buttonholes for sports and simple printed office frocks. On hot days, save the more pretentious, carefully cultivated blooms for evening and dressier occasions.

Reviving Wilted Blooms

To revive wilted (not faded) flowers, take a pan of water as hot as the hands can bear, cut the stems under hot water and leave the flowers in the water for a while. They will soon be as fresh as before they done better by the men of the staff than by us: answering the telephone.

Explanation of the above magnanimity probably is that it's easy to confess that the other fellow can do better than we the things that we don't like to do anyway.

wilted.

Hot Breads for Summer
July and August are the months for hot breads — biscuits, light as feathers, muffins, rich and buttery, served with cold cuts and salads to give body to the hot-weather meal. Muffins may be made with nuts, blueberries, apricots, currants or practically any fruit you have in the house. Orange biscuits are favorites, too.

Green Cool Looking Summer Color
Green is one of the coolest-looking colors you can wear on hot days. A short-sleeved, rather dark green dress of washable silk, triple sheer, linen or cotton, matching jacket or one of green and white striped flannel, white shoes, hat and gloves and brown bag make an ensemble that looks cool even though the temperature is almost unbearable. On days when your white accessories don't appeal to you, wear brown ones.

Berets Return To Vogue in Paris
It seems that the vogue for berets hasn't died but merely has been sleeping for the past six months. Paris is talking about berets again. They're being worn to the races, on the street and for sports. By fall, whether you like it or not, you'll simply have to add one large, floppy beret to your hat wardrobe.

Making Cinnamon Toast

Instead of buttering in the ordinary way, try dipping strips of toast in melted butter before rolling in a cinnamon-sugar mixture for cinnamon toast. Then toast in your broiling oven until brown.

Did you ever try an appetizer made of cream cheese, mashed and flavored with chopped cooked bacon and a little horseradish, mayonnaise or Worcestershire sauce? It's a good way to use up left-over bacon, and tastes delicious spread on crackers or toast.

Test for Suitable Hat
Says a famous milliner a hat to fit the head perfectly, flatter the face and go well with the costume. An inexpensive hat may have these qualifications as well as an expensive one.

Will and Never, Fails, Succeed

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., (AP)—Never Fail, superintendent of an Oklahoma City laundry, tells how he happened to get his name.

His parents, the N. M. Falls, who now live at Altus, Okla., apparently decided to have a contest between their two sons to see who would be the greater success. They named one Never Fail the other Will Fail.

But the boys fooled their parents. Will Fail rose in the world along with Never Fail.

Never Fail said he didn't believe the name had helped him much and that Will's name didn't seem to hamper the brother any. A son has just been born to Never Fail. The family named the baby Never Fail, Jr.

Trench Silo Use Advocated as Big Feed Crop Looms

COLLEGE STATION.—Predicting not only the largest feed crop in the history of Texas but one of the most varied as well, Dean E. J. Kyle of the school of agriculture, Texas A&M College, in a statement issued today, urges the use of trench silos, protective measures against weather and insects and the marketing of surplus feed through livestock as cardinal points of a program whereby the grower may make the most of the coming harvest.

Feed enough to last for two seasons, provided proper care is taken of it, may be expected this year, Dean Kyle said. His prediction is based upon a recent tour of the Panhandle and Plains country, North and Northeast Texas, Central and South Texas and the southwest part of the state, central points of the tour including Lubbock, Amarillo, Dallas, Clarksville, Houston and San Antonio.

Observations made on this tour indicate rather definitely that Texas is going to produce this year by far the largest feed crop in the history of the state, he said. "It will also be one of the most varied. The feed crop in Central Texas is virtually made. There will be easily the largest and best corn crop ever produced in the state, and the season in West Texas almost assures one of that section's largest feed crops."

"It looks like the farmers of Texas are almost certain to produce this year enough feed to last two seasons if it is properly taken care of. If the farmers are forced to sell this fall all of the feed produced above what they can use themselves, they will surely have to sell at a heavy sacrifice. How to take the best advantage of the coming large feed crop may be found in the following measures:

1. It has been thoroughly demonstrated that in most sections of the state virtually all feed crops can be placed in trench silos and kept for several years. This can be done economically at almost no monetary cost to the farmer. Full information on trench silos can be obtained from the Experiment Station, Extension Service, county agents, vocational agriculture teachers and the Luling Foundation Farm. Whenever already available above-ground silos should be used to full capacity.
2. Wherever it is expected to hold grain for more than one season, steps should be taken immediately to protect it against the weather and insect damage. It should be harvested and stored as soon as thoroughly ripe. The place where it is stored should be made as nearly airtight as possible in order to fumigate against weevils.
3. In view of the fact that livestock is advancing in price and in view of the abundant feed crop prospects, indications are now that this fall will be an ideal time for farmers to feed out livestock. By marketing their feed through livestock rather than selling in the open market, the farmer can double the value of his corn, oats and grain sorghums.
4. There is hardly anything that pays as good returns as the production of surplus feed, especially in seasons when abundant crops are produced."

Site of Campbell's Next Record Speed Trial

The vast salt beds of Utah, a short distance from Salt Lake City, will be the scene of Sir Malcolm Campbell's next attempt to reach 300 miles an hour in his Bluebird racer. The Englishman, who recently hit 276 on the sands at Daytona Beach, Fla., believes he has reached the maximum on a sand course, and expects the flat beds of Utah salt will be just the type of runway he needs to reach his goal. Here is a view of the salt flats track, with a stock car undergoing a test.

CHEERFULLY FIGHTING THEIR BATTLE AGAINST MAN'S OLDEST ENEMY

The above scene in a typical modern tuberculosis sanatorium reveals the cheerful atmosphere and peace of mind that prevail and which are so important in curing the disease. The sanatorium is both a place of cure and a sanctuary which removes patients from contact with the well. Breaking this contact is the only method of preventing the spread of tuberculosis because the disease is transmitted directly from the sick to the well. One and one-half times as many girls as boys between 15 and 25 years of age die of tuberculosis. To protect his citizens adequately each state should maintain at least one bed for every annual death from the disease.

Mrs. H. P. Bybee of San Angelo, educational chairman of Texas, led a panel discussion on "What can A. A. U. W. do to promote national understanding." Mrs. William Dingus of Lubbock, international relations chairman for Texas, participated in a panel on "What can A. A. U. W. do to promote international understanding."

Dr. Dorothy Carrington of Huntsville, president of the Texas division, participated in a panel on "Releasing A. A. U. W. state resources."

Members of the Texas state executive board who attended the board meeting at the national convention included Mrs. Bybee, Mrs.

Dingus, Dr. Carrington, Miss Rowe, Mrs. Eleanor D. Pace of Wichita Falls, state corresponding secretary and chairman of legislation; Miss Gladys Morgan of San Antonio, chairman of resolutions and a past president; and Miss Lorena Drummond of Austin, state publicity chairman.

PROD. DEPARTMENT OF TEXAS RELIEF COMM. INCREASES

AUSTIN, July 7.—Texas Relief Commission's production department increased its activities in the month of May over April activities in producing articles for distribution to relief clients, it was revealed this week in a report issued by A. C. Allen, director of production.

Largest field of activity is in the canning program, in which are produced cans of meat, fruit and vegetables for relief clients. Production jumped from 154,471 cans in April to 1,053,352 cans in May, due largely to advance of the gardening season. Number of active canning plants increased from 48 in April to 236 in May, with a corresponding increase of budgetary employees of from 1,008 to 5,978.

A smaller increase took place in sewing rooms operated by the Relief Commission, the number of garments produced jumping from 144,982 in April to 190,530 in May. Four new sewing rooms were put into operation during the month, making a total of 224.

With only four mattress plants operating in May, as against six in April, a total of 2,681 mattresses were produced, and 25 old mattresses renovated, in both cases an increase over production figures for April. In April there were 361 relief laborers employed in the mattress plants, 1,031 in May. New mattresses are distributed when necessary to relief clients, who turn in their old mattresses, if any, to be burned.

With the coming of summer, operations in wood cutting yards decreased. In April, 6,596 cords of wood were cut, decreasing to 3,843 in May. Number of relief laborers employed on the projects decreased from 3,673 to 1,939.

Community gardens produced 106,432 more pounds of vegetables in May than in April, or an increase from 15,568 pounds in April to 123,600 pounds in May.

Osteopaths Named For Convention

CHICAGO, (P)—Eight Texas osteopathic physicians, Drs. Louis H. Logan, Mary Lou Logan and J. W. McPherson, all of Dallas; Phil Russell of Fort Worth; E. R. Norwood of Mineral Wells; Wiley Jones of Orange; Everett W. Jones of San Antonio and R. M. Peterson of Wichita Falls, have been named in connection with the 39th annual convention of the American Osteopathic association at Cleveland, Ohio, the week of July 22. The selections were announced by Ray G. Hulbert, D. O., director of information of the American Osteopathic association here.

Dr. McPherson will be active in the meeting of the society of divisional secretaries of the association, the announcement states. One purpose of the meeting of this group, of which he is vice president, is to arrange for the establishment of uniform producers in state societies and the American Osteopathic association.

Dr. Russell, president of the American association of osteopathic examining boards, also will represent Texas in the house of delegates of the American Osteopathic association here.

660 pounds in May. Number of gardeners from relief rolls employed increased from 3,071 to 3,343. Number of acres in garden increased from 2,949 in April to 2,970 in May. A similar increase was reflected in the home gardening program, with a jump from 14,382 pounds of vegetables grown in April to 35,715 pounds in May. A large growth was shown in the canning program in which produce from these home-gardens is canned by the clients. In April, 46 cans were filled, while in May the number of cans was 26,511. Relief clients retain what they need for budgetary food requirements, the rest is distributed to clients who have no gardens. Total number of acres under cultivation in May was 20,304, being worked by 51,781 families.

association. Dr. Peterson, program chairman of the eye, ear, nose and throat section, which meets three afternoons of the convention week, is scheduled to address the physical therapy section on "Application of physical therapy in diseases of the eye, nose, ear, and throat." He is a trustee and legislative chairman of the American osteopathy society of ophthalmology and otolaryngology (doctors especially interested in eye, ear, nose, and throat diseases).

Dr. Logan is scheduled to address the Art of Practice section on "The physician as an artist," and the proctology section on "The practice of Proctology."

Dr. Mary Logan is southwest district chairman of the Osteopathic women's national association, an organization not affiliated with the American Osteopathic association but meeting at Cleveland concurrently.

Owens Ox Yoke 100 Years Old

FARWELL, Tex. (P)—An ox-yoke built soon after the American revolution still is usable and in good condition. It is owned by W. B. Osborne, Farwell business man. His great-grandfather, Jim Osborne, made the yoke soon after he came from England during the early days of the revolution and settled in North Carolina. In 1800, John Osborne used the yoke when he moved by ox-wagon from North Carolina to Winnet county, Georgia. A half-century later in 1850, his son, Washington Osborne, used the same yoke in a journey to Clark county, Arkansas. In turn, his son, W. A. Osborne, father of the Farwell man, used it to move to Hood county, Texas. Although nearly 150 years old, the hickory bows of the yoke are still firm and the black gum cross-piece appears sturdy enough for another trip if oxen were available.

Texas Univ. Women Mentioned, Awarded

LOS ANGELES, (P)—Mention and an award for 100 per cent branch participation in the $1,000,000 fellowship fund campaign of the American Association of University Women was accorded the Texas division at the national convention of that organization here June 24-28. The 30 branches in the Texas division contributed $894.35 during the past year, a total of $9,279.06 since the fund was started in 1927. The branches, numbering nearly 700, have contributed $272,778.39 toward the $1,000,000 goal.

The Texas delegation of 42 delegates and visitors invited the Southwest Central section to attend the Texas Centennial in 1936 at the time of the State convention of the A. A. U. W. at Dallas October 28-31.

Plans for this convention were discussed at the executive board meeting of the Texas Division. Miss Edna Rowe of Dallas, state fellowship chairman, reported that the largest per capita increase in contributions for the fellowship fund this year came from Belton, Corpus Christi and Dallas, while the largest percentage increases over last year came from Corpus Christi, Belton and San Angelo.

Three members of the Texas delegation had places on the program.

Damage to Pecan Crop $5,000,000

Llano, Texas, (AP)—The damage to the pecan crop and timber in Llano county from the recent flood has been estimated at $5,000,000 by Agricultural Agent D. D. Steele. Trees, some 100 years old, were washed away along the river banks and many farmers and ranchmen report their pecan crop virtually a total loss. A native bearing pecan tree is said to be worth $100. Some Llano residents lived almost exclusively on revenue from pecans. Thirty cars of Llano pecans are shipped out in a normal year, but this fall only about five cars are expected to move. Not only will the pecan crop be short but the grade of nuts will be inferior because most of the trees left are on little creeks and creek pecans are not as good as those grown on the river because they lack sufficient water to mature. The greatest individual loss was by the Fitzsimons Land and Cattle company, which had the largest pecan orchard in the country. It stretched over some 10 miles of river front, and including about 7,000 trees, 3,000 of which were topped. Between 600 and 700 trees remain. This orchard had a prospective crop of 30,000 pounds, but since the flood damage, the yield is not expected to exceed 2,000 pounds. R. W. Deats, who had 50 improved trees, reports that none is left. Some of the trees were valued at $500.

Pennsy Coach Gets High Opinion of His Crew

Wave of Modesty Sweeps Beach

When Grandma was a girl, she went down to the beach in frilly skirts that exposed no more than five inches of her black-stockinged limbs ("limbs" was what Grandma called 'em). Well, Grandma was positively immodest in comparison to this 1935 model Parisian beach beauty who wears a skirt trailing almost to the ground. Still, Grandma's costume probably wasn't parted in the middle. It all just goes to show how times change.

Age of Child Must Be Considered in Applying Training

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
It is difficult to explain to a mother two sides of a question in one day's column. I hear things like this. "One day, Mrs. Barton, you advise us mothers to allow our children to finish tasks or whatever they are interested in. A few weeks later you say that postponement is the easiest habit to learn and to guard against it by making children come when they are called." Yes, I said just that, in both cases. The trouble is that mothers have difficulty in dividing time. There is the formative period, very early years, when we are trying to instill character, sowing little seeds of mental development and fostering concentration. During this time it is wise "whenever possible" or as often as routine will permit to allow the little fellow or the tiny girl to carry through his ideas to a complete finish. The little house of blocks, making the baby-doll bed, the small bucket with sand, finishing the game of tag. Thwarting Bad in Infancy. It cannot be permitted always, of course, but there is no question that interruption after interruption when a little lad is engrossed in some definite plan or other makes them irritable, confused and tends to carelessness and irresponsibility. Such thwarting, if persisted in, strikes at the very root of concentration as well as the habit of finishing a job once started. Now we come to the older brother or sister. While there is still need for them to go on cultivating concentration and being allowed to carry a thousand things to a finish, their first alibi. It shouldn't be, since those early years. And reason tells them that they can "resume" the game or the book at another time. There is great need of obedience, and it cannot always be argued about.

Avoid Being an Easy Mark
"I'll be there in a minute," is their first alibi. It shouldn't be, unless the parent is a short-grained, small patient person who becomes so unreasonable as to invite protest. I believe any mother can figure out quite easily when to allow her children to finish some engrossing event. She can certainly see when they are taking advantage of her. There is a right time for everything. If Johnny is out on his velocipede and, when she calls him in, he answers, "time after time," just one more ride to the corner," she need not be afraid of interrupting impulses. He's just playing her for an easy mark and needs to be handled in by the collar, if he won't come otherwise. But if he is making a box and has only the lid to put on, and there is nothing else terribly urgent at the moment it is well to let him finish; the trip to the bakers can wait for ten minutes.

Common sense, the fitness of things, the time occasion and circumstance all must govern discipline. There are times to build up and times to break down. The early years are planting years, more so than any other. The harder plant, expects some storms, and stands them.

Bedloe's Island, now the site of the Statue of Liberty, was once the scene of executions for federal offenses. Hundreds of excursionists made holiday trips to the hangings.

Russians Grow Blue And Green Roses

YALTA, U. S. S. R. (UP)—The experimental botanical garden, situated near Yalta (Crimea), on the shore of the Black Sea, has become one of the world's noted botanical gardens. It is known for its collection of specimens representing the flora or practicality of every part of the globe. Through cross-breeding, the garden succeeded in cultivating 400 different varieties of grapes, 300 varieties of apples, new varieties of pears, apricots, peaches, cherries and figs. The rosarium contains 1,500 different varieties of roses, among which there are such rare ones as blue and green roses. The garden has a grove of the cork-tree the grafting of which is extensively practiced for the laying of large cork-tree plantations in the Caucasus. Alleys of fan-shaped palms, laurel-trees and box-shrubs, also a 1,300-year-old turpentine tree, attract visitors.

A Four-Star Special at Charity Polo Sidelines

Charity began at the polo grounds for Hollywood's top flight movie talent the other day, when a host of famous cinema stars watched their male studio brethren perform in a round-robin polo match for the benefit of the Junior League's Children Hospital Fund. In this sideline group are, left to right, Joan and Constance Bennett, Dolores Del Rio and Virginia Bruce, four of Hollywood's reigning feminine stars, shown watching some sparkling action on the field. At least, three of them are; Joan apparently has her mind on other things.

Old Age in Repose

Typifying the graceful repose of old age, the restful figure of the spinster pictured here in her frilled bonnet and shawl, slyly "stealing forty winks," was judged the best portrait of 500 prints submitted at the annual salon of photography, held this year at the San Diego exposition. The subject, "Miss Jessie Brown," was taken by Drummond Young, of Edinburgh, Scotland. The picture won first prize in the portraiture class.

stroke of hard luck. Taking off at the Quincy, Ill., airport, we sideslipped and fell 50 feet to the ground. They had to rebuild me almost completely, but my principal regret was that Wiley was himself badly cut up.

Seeking Altitude Record
By December of the next year, however, they had a new job for me. Wiley Post wanted to bring the altitude mark back to the United States. European records of around 48,000 feet were made with new special low-wing jobs, but Wiley had faith in me. I was glad to try it. Of course what he wanted was not to break the altitude record as such, but to learn whether unheard-of speed is possible high up where the air is thin. Post designed his now famous "air driver's suit" and I was stripped down to minimum weight and new engines built in me. During the fall of 1934 we made many such flights, at Dayton, Chicago, and Bartlesville, Okla. Several times we thought we had broken all altitude records, but when the barographs were calibrated which we used in the official record attempts at Bartlesville we found we had just missed. Post was pleased at what I, a standard ship, had been able to accomplish. We must have come awfully close.

Four Gallant Efforts
Now came an effort to translate these experiments into practical use. During the spring of this year, Post groomed me for an effort to break the transcontinental record at high altitude. Plenty of ships are much faster than I by now, but Post said I was "like an old hunting-dog" to him, and wanted me to try. We made our first try in February, but a broken oil line sent us down in Muroc Dry Lake in the Mohave Desert. Post brought me down with utmost skill on the "belly-skids" which had been fitted to the bottom of my fuselage, the landing gear having been dropped after the takeoff to reduce wind resistance. In March, we got as far as Cleveland, but the oxygen supply in Post's "diving suit" failed him and we had to skid to another landing. The point was that at 30,000-foot altitudes Post was able to drive me 340 miles an hour, though my speed at ordinary heights would not be above 180. We proved our point.

Well Done!
We tried again in April and June, being forced down at Lafayette, Ind., and Wichita, respectively. All these were "belly landings" without wheels, but Post hardly scratches my fuselage.

If he tries again it will be in another ship. I know my best days are done, and that he flew me on these last attempts only to add to my glory. If he dies to Siberia this summer it will be in a new ship. For me it's retirement, and the best I could hope for would be that quiet place in the Smithsonian.

GUESTS OF ROMERS
Mr. and Mrs. Chas. V. Romer have as their guests a group of Mrs. Romer's relatives, including her mother, Mrs. S. Andrews, and her sister, Mrs. M. T. Sessions of Starks, La., another sister, Miss Christine Campbell of Bastrop, La., and a niece, Miss Lynette Campbell of Yoth, Texas. The party arrived Monday night.

Jackie Cooper Now Showing at the Ritz

Jackie Cooper the little star of "Skippy," "Sooky," "The Champ," "The Ritz" pictures, opens at the Ritz theatre today in the Warner Bros. production, "Dinky," for a two-day showing. The picture has the best known child actors taking part, including Betty Jean Hanes as Jackie's sweetheart, Jimmy Butler, George Ernest, Edith Fellows, Jimmy Miller, Richard Quine and Frank Gerardi. The scenes take place in a military academy for boys and in an orphanage next door. There are football and baseball games, cadet drills and every sport loved by the youth of America. There is also plenty of romance and glamor. The picture is said to appeal to grownups just as much as to children. Mary Astor heads the cast of grownups as Jackie's mother, with Roger Pryor, as a lawyer who is very much in love with the widow. Others in the cast include Henry Armetta, Henry O'Neill, Clay Clement, Florence Fair, Joseph Grehan, Addison Richards and James Burke.
