George Daggar, Welsh Laborite, speaking on the Labor party's motion to censure the Government's unemployment policy, said: "The passing of a Prime Minister will do no harm. Some of us would like to read the news in the paper that he had done the best, that is, go out and hang himself."

STATE WINS SUIT AGAINST GAS CO. IN APPEALS COURT

AUSTIN, July 10. (U.P.)—The court of civil appeals today ruled the gas rate of 32 cents per thousand feet of gas to cities served by the Lone Star Gas company reasonable and valid.

The ruling reversed the decision of a Travis county district court and rendered the case in favor of the state.

A jury, in the first hearing, found that the rate of 32 cents, eight cents less than is now charged, was unreasonable and unjust.

The railroad commission set the lower rate after seven months of hearing.

The company attacked it in Federal court which gave the state courts the jurisdiction to try the case on its merits.

LAMESA, (U.P.)—Joe C. Williams, county agent of Dawson county, reports that most farmers have finished replanting crops, some planting as many as four times. WASHINGTON, July 10. (U.P.)—Attorney General Cummings told the House Banking committee today that unless a resolution were passed barring damage suits against the government to collect losses arising from the dollar devaluation that "an international agreement to establish a gold standard would be almost impossible."

NAME COMMITTEE FOR GARDEN CLUB

With Miss Elma Graves serving as chairman, a group of women interested in the organization of a Garden club for Midland held a preliminary meeting in the children's room at the county library this morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Odd Habit Saves Life

ELVIRA, Ohio (U.P.)—Robert Willis' odd habit of carrying a piece of rope with him is credited with saving the life of his chum, Harold Lavins. The two boys were standing on a rock in Black River, fishing, when Harold slipped and fell in. When he emerged several feet away, Robert tossed the rope to his companion and pulled him to shore.

Bees Conquer Elements

HUGO, Colo. (U.P.)—Neither floods nor ice can keep Hugo bees from their honey-making. During recent floods, the bee hive was washed from a Hugo ranch five miles downstream. There the bees proceeded to buzz contentedly. Soon a frigid blast from an ice-field 100 yards long and eight feet deep on a highway several miles away quieted them—but not for long.

Provisions Of Social Security Bill Explained

Provisions of the much-discussed social securities bill were explained by Miss Helen Hardy, assistant chief of the child welfare division of the state board of control at a meeting of the Midland County Child Welfare board Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Hardy also explained the methods of declaring children dependent and delinquent, defining both terms, and discussing the steps to be taken by child welfare workers in handling children of either classification.

The speaker discussed the social securities bill under six divisions as follows: (a) old age pensions under which the federal government would make grants of money to the states to aid in the protection of persons coming under the following three groupings: (a) persons over 65 years of age who were unable to care for themselves; (b) dependent children. Under the bill $25,000,000 would be paid to this group through the mother's pension plan which allows the child to remain in its home, though being properly cared for.

There are now in Texas 10,171 widowed mothers with over 400 children on the relief rolls, Miss Hardy said. Although few counties in Texas provide a mother's pension the number has declined since the relief provided by the government. The third class, (c), who would be benefited by the old age security grants would be persons mentally or physically disabled who are heads of families where there is no able-bodied worker. There are now 24,000 families on relief in Texas, where the head of the household is disabled and over 65 years old.

The second provision of the securities bill would be for public health work grants; the third for reinstatement of the infancy and maternity act; the fourth for aid to crippled children; the fifth for special vocational rehabilitation of handicapped persons; and the sixth for extension of public welfare services to child care centers.

It is predicted that Federal relief will end by December. The securities bill provides, not for relief, but for Federal aid to the states for making laws to carry out the Federal grants, dollar for dollar.

In order for Texas to accept the working of the securities bill, the state must pass a constitutional amendment.

Miss Hardy brought out the fact that there are no special juvenile courts in Texas but that the regular courts go into juvenile sessions for consideration of children's problems. The purpose of the juvenile court, she said, should be not the trying of children but the hearing of evidence in order to understand the child and his actions.

Avoid institutional life if possible, she considers the proper remedy in dealing with dependent and delinquent children.

Miss Hardy, who spent Monday and Tuesday here, studied the files of the Child Welfare board and told board members that they have done an "excellent piece of work."

Local units are the heart of the thing, she declared in service work for adults and children.

She leaves today for Pecos.

Heat Records Fall Over State Today

CONFESSION MADE BY PEDDLER IN DEATH OF WOMAN

By The Associated Press CORPUS CHRISTI, July 10. H. T. Whittaker, 45-year-old married man, Tuesday confessed to "reporters that he had killed Mary Annabelle Evans, 30, whose battered body was found June 20 in brush off a lonely lane near Sandia.

"I done it, I don't know why. I've been a good man all my life. I worked hard and paid my bills. But it just happened," Whittaker said.

The vegetable peddler, arrested in Houston yesterday on murder charges, said he had made a trip to Kennedy with Miss Evans, later going to Sandia. He said they were parked on the lane and the woman demanded money.

He said he told her that he had given her all he had, but that she declared he was lying.

Whittaker said he struck her with a "club" and that she fell on her knees after she had gotten out of the car.

"She kept on screaming and I went to the car and got a piece of pipe and struck her again on the head," Whittaker said.

The Port Lavaca peddler told of selling the slain woman's car and other articles. He said he had told his wife that he had bought the machine in Corpus Christi and had got a phonograph and silverware belonging to the woman at a carnival.

The dead woman's property has been recovered, and today Sheriff Shely found a piece of pipe near the spot where Miss Evans' body was found.

Whittaker's connection with the case began when officers at Victoria learned he had sold the murdered woman's car there for $21 May 25. He gave his name as Evans, and said it was necessary for his wife to sign the transfer.

The garage owner accompanied him to Port Lavaca, where a woman, about 45 years old signed the bill of sales as Mary E. Evans.

Victoria City Marshal Ernest Weaver learned the car sold had been reported stolen and officers were notified. The Port Lavaca notary public who acknowledged the sale told officers the man was Whittaker, and the search for the peddler began.

Whittaker is being held without bond for the grand jury which meets Oct. 28.

Two of the hottest days of the season have had Midland citizens sweltering in their heat when the mercury touched 97 both yesterday and today. The hottest day of the year was registered June 20, when the mercury touched 107.

The blazing weather of the last two days brought distress and set new high marks for the season over a large part of the state, when registered June 20, when the mercury touched 107.

Three negroes and one white man succumbed while working in the fields on the Ranseil and Eastham prison farms, 125 miles apart.

W. A. Faddock, chairman of the state prison board, said that the three negroes were stricken during the heat of the day yesterday on the Ransey farm.

Bennie Daniels, white, died seven hours after he was overcome by the heat while working on the Eastham farm.

The body of J. R. McLaughlin, farmer near Sherman, was found in a field near his home where he had died after being overcome by the heat.

Temperature 107 at Greenville The peak mark Tuesday was recorded at Greenville, where the sun's scorching rays brought a 107-degree reading. At Corsicana citizens sweltered under 106-degree heat.

Thousands of perspiring persons flocked to municipal pools in the larger cities. Fort Worth and Dallas reported temperatures of 104 degrees. At San Antonio a 101 figure was recorded, one degree lower than the "all-time" July 9 record there.

Houston and Beaumont, however, fared better than others. Intermittent showers and a refreshing breeze broke the heat wave and sent temperatures tumbling.

After an official mark of 102 had been posted at Beaumont, an 11-degree drop in three hours brought relief behind the rain. Houston reported a 99-degree reading, which was reduced 20 degrees within two hours.

Reaching a new mark, the temperature climbed to 101 degrees and remained there for a three-hour period Tuesday afternoon in Abilene.

The figure, which is the highest mark for the season so far, was chalked up at 4, 5 and 6 o'clock. The previous high was 100 degrees. Uvalde and Longview felt a 101-degree heat visit.

Other high marks were reported from San Angelo, 101; Shreveport, La., 98; Gavieston, 96; Lubbock, 97, and Brownsville, 94.

San Angelo Cotton Crop Double of '34

SAN ANGELO, (U.P.)—Farmers in this section are busy chopping a cotton crop which, although several weeks late, is expected to be double that of last year. Relief has been discontinued in most West Texas towns and choppers are being paid $1.50 a day. It is the first important hiring of farm labor in West Texas for several years. Johnson grass has about taken over some fields since the recent rains, but most are being cleaned rapidly.

Another rain is needed to assure a bumper cotton crop. Maize is said to be about made.

Most of the oats have been cut and now is moving to market. One San Angelo brokerage firm has bought two carloads of oats at 33 and 34 cents a bushel. Small sales of wheat have been made over this territory at 70 cents a bushel.

Desperate Ethiopia Musters Forces for War With Italy

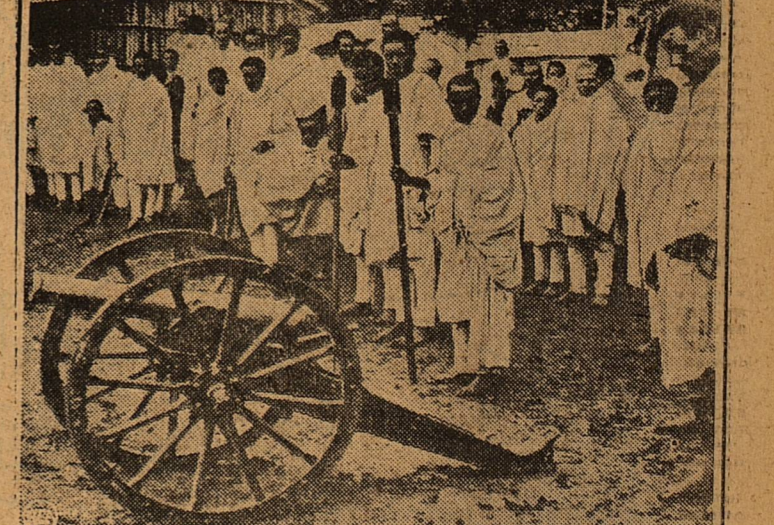

Tribesmen ride to country's defense with primitive weapons.

The throbbing war drums work recruits to fighting fever in a war dance at Addis Ababa.

Typical Abyssinian recruit.

Outmoded cannon called into action again.

"War! War! War!" Five thousand Black Shirts who volunteered for duty against Ethiopia roared their fighting enthusiasm at Premier Benito Mussolini. He had just assured them that "we have decided on a struggle and we will carry it to the end. . . . The decision is irrevocable."

Arrayed against them will be the fury of Ethiopia's army of paradoxes, mustered from the equatorial jungles and equipped with a motley array of modern and ancient weapons. Trained and partly officered by European experts during the long months of diplomatic negotiations, the black tribesmen far outnumber Il Duce's forces, just as they did at Adowa, in 1896, when the Italians were repulsed. Here The Reporter-Telegram and NEA Service cameras kaleidoscopically highlight Ethiopia's fighting forces, contrasting their sprucely uniformed and equipped divisions with units that rely on fighting frenzy, native courage and outmoded weapons to overwhelm foes.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

We think some one is trying to be sarcastic about our efforts to inject interest in this column by means of quoting comments on happenings in Canada and other parts of the world. Anyway, returning from an absence from the office during which we had left this column on the typewriter, we found a snippy little note advising us that Western Union reported that the ticker was out of commission and they couldn't get the typewriter connected up with NEA, so I'd have to write the column myself.

Well, here goes. Anything to please the dear public. We'll try to confine our few remarks today to strictly local affairs.

"The sales are coming, the sales are coming, the sales are coming, yo-ho, yo-ho!" That refrain is quite as rousing to most women as the old Scotch air "The Campbells are coming," is to the clansmen. Of course personally we wouldn't mind the resulting conflagration but it's difficult to wear a dress without some other eyes besides one's own viewing it. And other people often have exciting ideas about the clash of flaming hair and flaming dresses.

For those of us whose patience wears thin when a fountain pen goes dry unexpectedly in the midst of an important piece of writing, there is a new version which should be hailed with glee. This pen is so adjusted that by glancing at the tip of the pen, the writer can see at once whether he has sufficient ink for the task in hand or must make a trip to the ink well.

The Surgeon Helps Nature Cure Tuberculosis

Some of the most important advances in the modern treatment of tuberculosis have been made in the field of surgery. Pneumothorax, which has been called "the most important single measure in the treatment of tuberculosis today," is one of the simplest of these procedures. A young woman patient in a modern tuberculosis sanatorium is shown above receiving this treatment. Pneumothorax is the process of collapsing a diseased lung by injecting air into the pleural cavity—the space between the chest wall and the lung. Thus compressed the lung is given a chance to rest and healing takes place. Pneumothorax is used principally in the treatment of tuberculosis but it also is used occasionally in pneumonia cases.

Swimming Is Sport That Exercises Every Muscle

By ALICIA HART

NEA Service Staff Writer

Swimming is the one summer sport that exercises every muscle in your body. To swim vigorously and steadily for a full hour each day of your vacation will make you lose weight, of course. But the important and certainly the most enjoyable thing about this fun-to-do exercise is that it equalizes your weight, even when you do it in more leisurely fashion.

If you never have learned to swim this is a fine time to begin. Doing the strokes correctly will flatten your stomach, make your thighs and arms slim and improve your posture. Furthermore, by kicking correctly and forcing your arms upward and over in perfect crawl-stroke form, you probably will learn to swim before you know it.

Placing your hands on the edge of the pool or raft or putting them against the side of a life preserver, stretch out flat, relaxing your legs from knees to ankles. Pump the upper part of your legs up and down, letting your feet make rapid hard kicks that create quite a splash. Keep on pumping until your legs are tired and your feet no longer make splashes. When you have mastered this technique, you should be able to stretch arms forward and, without moving them at all, make your legs propel you back and forth across the pool. If not, you aren't kicking correctly or else you are holding your hands and neck too far upward from the surface of the water.

Remember that your body should be straight, your legs should do as much work as your arms, and your chin ought to be submerged. If you can't learn by yourself, it's worth while to spend some of your vacation money on professional instructions. Naturally, once you have learned, you'll have a great deal more fun and, in addition, a figure that shows no humps and bumps in the wrong places.

TODAY'S NEWS IN PICTURES

Wings Breaking Through Dawn

The photographer has turned artist in this depiction of a flock of geese winging their way through a wooded glen as the early sun filters through morning mist. The ethereal beauty of the picture so impressed the judges at the Annual Salon of Photography that they awarded it first prize in the pictorial class. The photo is by Erno Vadas of Budapest, Hungary. The salon was held this year at the exposition in San Diego.

He's Off! In a Big Spill

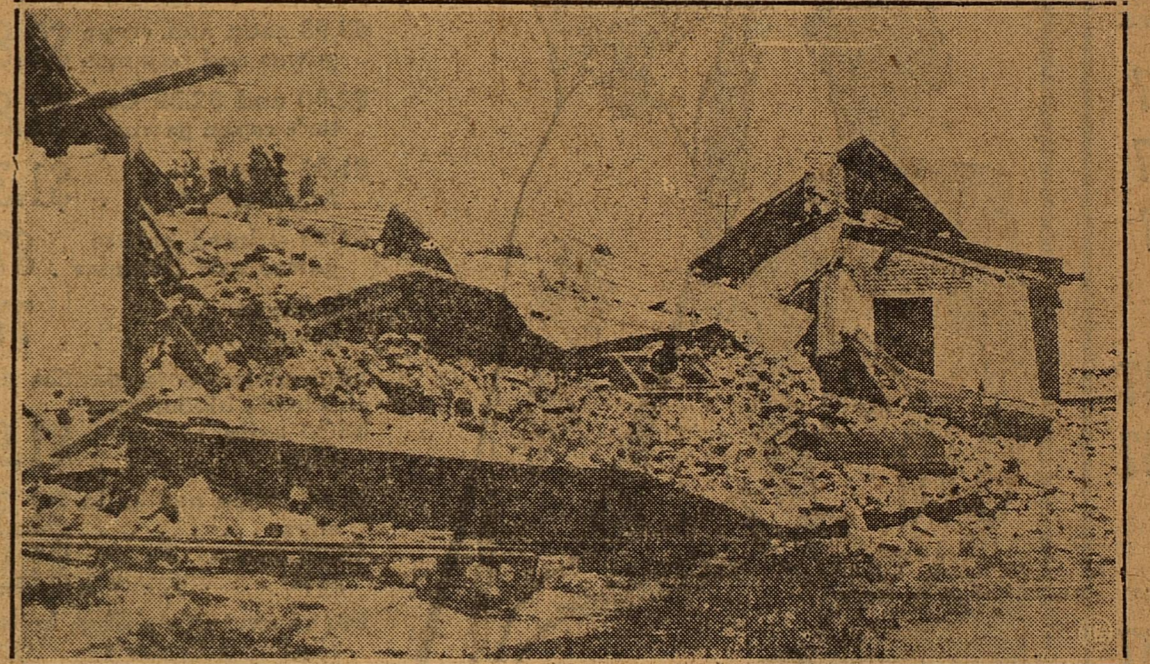

Spine-tingling spills abounded, but none was more spectacular than this one in the Mt. Peninsula, O., hill climb, sponsored by the Akron Motorcycle club, when one of the speeding mounts bucked off its rider, who showed his skill by alighting uninjured. More than 5000 people saw the climb, over a course of 265 feet of rough ground, almost straight up in two of the stretches.

Golden Sun Shines Through the Golden Wheat

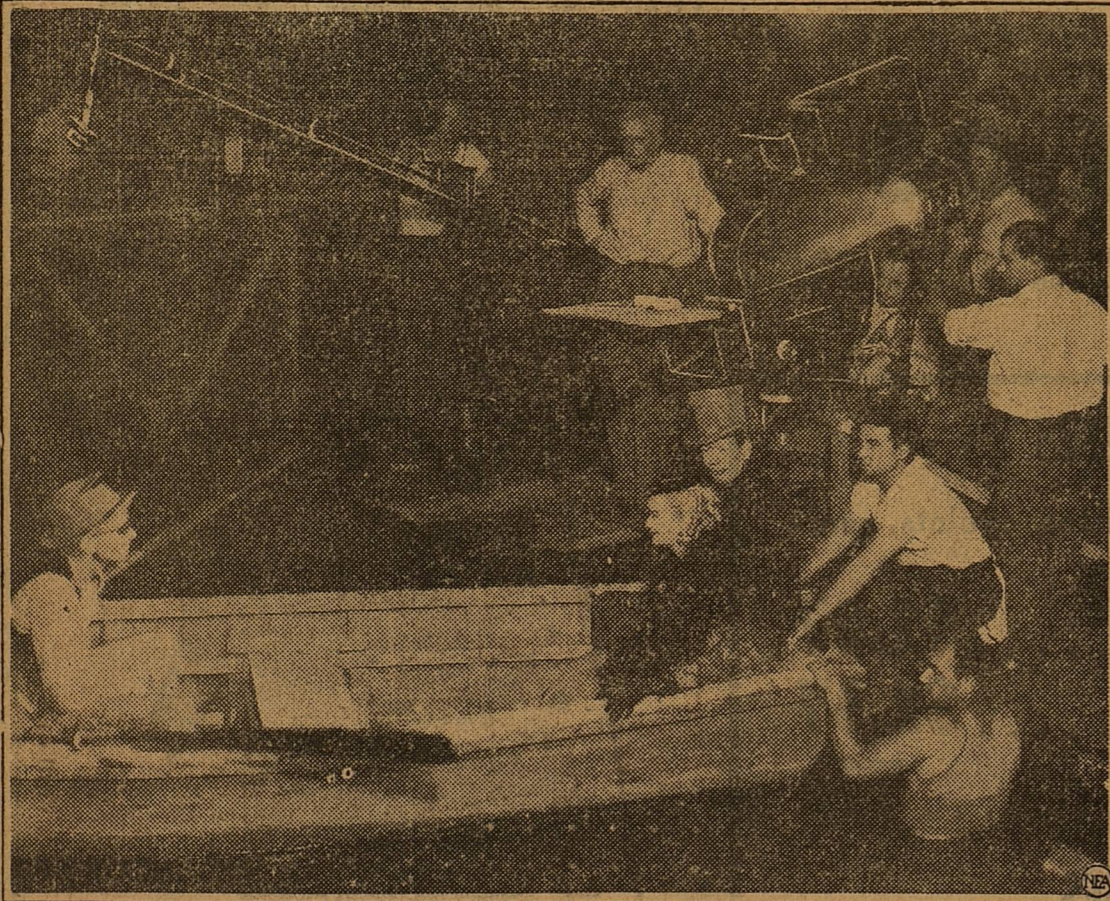

Even in the regions where drouth parched and burned the crops a year ago, scenes like this are assuring such plentiful crops this year that farmers are concerned about falling prices. Here as the sun filters through the waving grain tops, two men stand waist-deep in their 2000-acre wheat field just before harvest, discussing the outlook under a sky whose clouds are purely decorative and give no hint of rain to interfere with the cutting of the grain.

Shambles Left in Wake of Quake That Killed 60,000

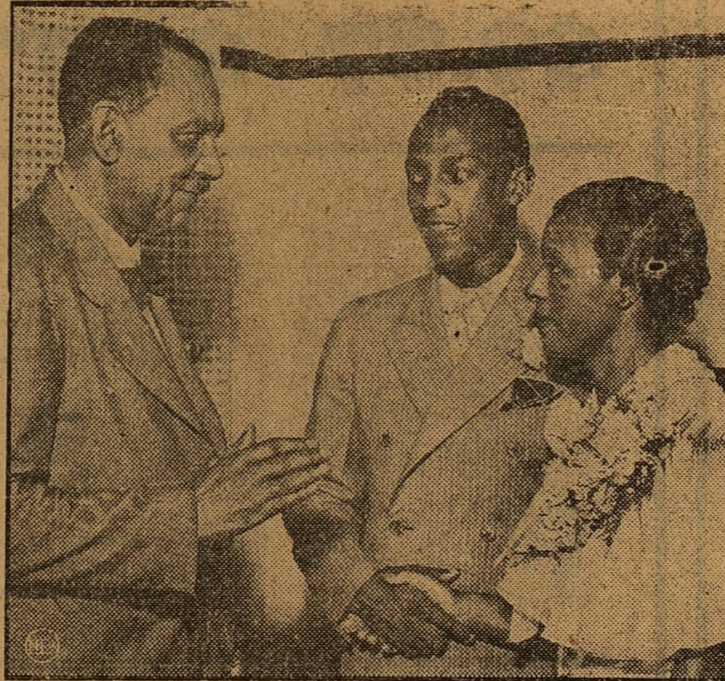

Taking nearly 60,000 lives, the most disastrous earthquake since the Japanese catastrophe twelve years ago made a shambles of the region around Quetta in Baluchistan. Even well-built European structures fell before the fury of the earth vibrations. Here is shown the wreckage of headquarters for Wing No. 3 of the British Royal Air Force at Quetta—in the destruction of which more than 40 airmen were killed.

Fogbound, but Safe, in a Hollywood Studio

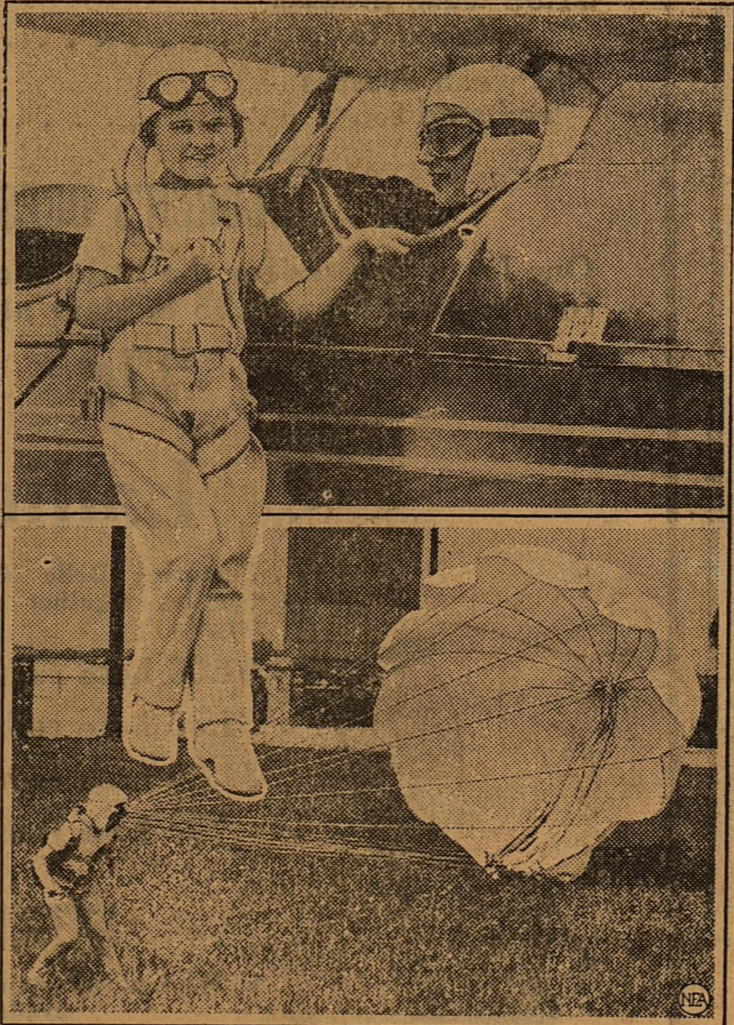

Fog envelops the iniquitous Barbary Coast of San Francisco. Off a four-master come Miriam Hopkins and Frank Craven, towed through the heavy murk by Walter Brennan. The arrival at this notorious spot, under such ominous conditions, would send shivers along anyone's spine. But not Miss Hopkins', for isn't that Director Howard Hawks standing at a movie camera behind her, and isn't there a whole company of studio hands at her elbow? Surely, this isn't the Barbary Coast; it's Hollywood, where the genius of Director Hawks has built a foggy shore scene under canvas.

Jesse Got a Tie in This Race

A fast stepper off as well as on the track, Jesse Owens, famed Ohio State University star, made a speedy trip to the Cleveland, O., home of Minnie Ruth Solomon to assure her that only idle rumor had him engaged to Quincella Nickerson, Los Angeles belle. A short time later the couple stood before the Rev. Ernest Hall, left, Baptist pastor, and were married, Owens then hurrying east for track engagements.

Tiny Air-ess to Flying Talent

At an age when other tots are warned not to venture out of the yard, Joyce Hartung, 5, is asked not to leave the plane! But if she should tumble off, she has her own little chute, with which she is shown below, to carry her safely to the ground. Joyce's mother, pictured with her in the upper photo, and Joyce's dad, who operates an airport and flying school near Detroit, are both licensed airplane pilots. And little Joyce is said to have more flying hours to her credit than any other child in the country.

Court Costume for Tennis Queen

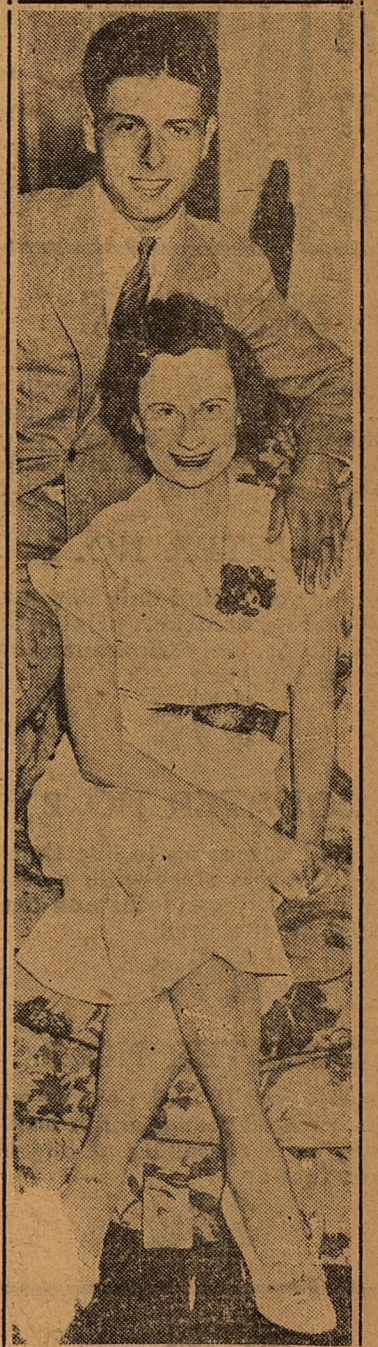

When Helen Jacobs, U. S. women's tennis champion, appeared on the courts at Wimbledon and at the royal court at Buckingham Palace in London on the same day, complications arose. Wimbledon authorities advanced the scheduled time of her match in the British championships to give her plenty of time to don the elegant presentation gown in which she is pictured.

Governor Scans Ominous Clews

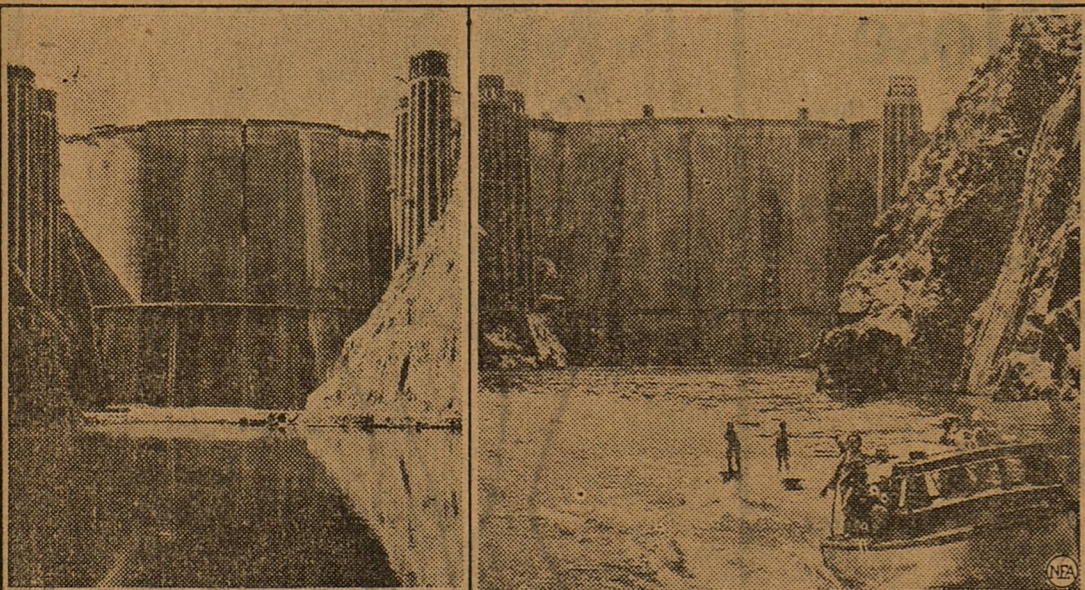

Discovery of charred baggage remnants in a canyon near Albuquerque, N. M., strengthened belief that Mr. and Mrs. George Heberer, E. St. Louis, Ill., tourists who vanished May 22, were robbed and murdered. Gov. Clyde Tingley of New Mexico, in personal charge of the search, is shown here studying ashes of the personal effects identified as belonging to the missing couples.

Honeymoon Bares Their Elopement

Well, Well, Boulder Lake! How You've Grown!

Issue Warnings on Counterfeit Bills

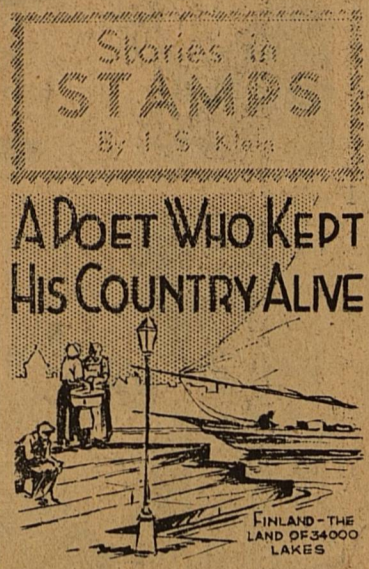

Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco California: Series of 1928. Check Letter "F" Face Plate number illegible, probably "4." Back Plate number omitted. Signature of H. F. TATE, Treasurer of the United States and A. W. MELLON, Secretary of the Treasury. Portrait of HAMILTON.

Description

In the Federal Reserve seal appearing to the left of the portrait are the words "Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, California" and in the center of this seal the numerals "11" which numerals are incorrect. The Check Letter "F" referred to above is the small capital letter appearing in the lower right corner, face of note, immediately above the word "MELLON" in the signature of A. W. MELLON, Secretary of the Treasury. Face Plate number "4" is the small numeral immediately following Check Letter "F" described herein; this numeral is somewhat illegible and resembles closely a badly etched dot or triangle. The Back Plate number which should appear in lower right white space, back of note, in the curve formed by the scroll has been omitted entirely. Care should be exercised not to confuse the above described characters with the serial numbers.

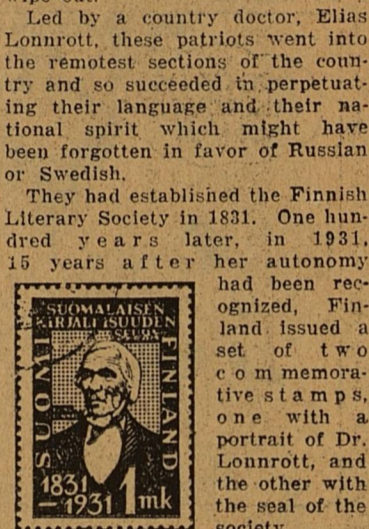

The counterfeit is printed on a poor grade of bond paper. No effort has been made to simulate the red and blue fibers appearing in genuine notes. Portrait of Hamilton, face of note, is poorly etched. The most noticeable defect therein is the large white spot in the hair at top of the head with blurred and dark splotches on left side. The cross hatchwork in back of the portrait is poorly executed. Treasury seal to the right of portrait face of note, is printed in too dark a shade of green and the edges of this seal show a black-sawtooth outline. Serial numbers appear in the upper right and lower left corners, face of note and are poorly formed, badly printed, unevenly spaced and the opening and closing letters are much larger than the enclosed numerals. Back of the note is printed heavily in a very dark shade of green. The U. S. TREASURY building is poorly etched and badly blurred; the small automobile in the foreground appears to be too dark and blurred.

The entire note is so badly executed that only a careless handler of currency will accept this counterfeit. This note has circulated spasmodically for some time. Repeated warnings have been given thru various sources. However we still receive complaints from persons who have been victimized. Should one of these counterfeits be offered you, detain the passer and notify the nearest officer. Mark the counterfeit with your initials and date received by you. Do this immediately—do not overlook this important detail! Watch for passers who travel by automobile. Obtain license number, description of car and occupant and report same to the nearest local officer without delay.

A DOET WHO KEPT HIS COUNTRY ALIVE

FINLAND—THE LAND OF 1000 LAKES

FOR more than a century, while Finland was under the yoke of Russia, a small group of poets and writers devoted their efforts to writing down the folk lore of their country in the Finnish language, which Russia tried desperately to wipe out.

Led by a country doctor, Elias Lonnrot, these patriots went into the remotest sections of the country and so succeeded in perpetuating their language and their national spirit which might have been forgotten in favor of Russian or Swedish.

They had established the Finnish Literary Society in 1831. One hundred years later, in 1931, 15 years after her autonomy had been recognized, Finland issued a set of two commemorative stamps, one with a portrait of Dr. Lonnrot, and the other with the seal of the society.

Tells Moods by His Feet!

Dancing isn't something you just do with your feet, says Clifton Webb, famous actor-dancer, shown above, who has tapped his way from Broadway to Hollywood. It's an expression of your moods, and should tell a story as clearly as any picture. And, despite his advancing years, Webb shows here how agile and graceful he is on his feet.

DUTCHER GIVES STORY OF BIG JOKE PLAYED ON NEW DEAL

By RODNEY DUTCHER
The Reporter-Telegram's Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 10.—This is a story of how a big joke was played on the New Dealers, of the way a congressman can most effectively guarantee himself a miserable future in Washington, and of the explosion of the theory that there is any such thing as a progressive Republican congressman from the east.

The hero of it all is Congressman Ralph O. Brewster of Maine. A former reporter with a reputation as a foe of the "power trust."

Brewster is now celebrated as the man who precipitated a House investigation by charging that Thomas G. Corcoran at RFD 111a threatened stoppage of Maine's famous Passamaquoddy project in case Brewster didn't vote for the administration's proposal to dissolve the biggest public utility holding companies.

The story of how Brewster reached his present position is remarkable and instructive.

It demonstrates the way things happened to congressmen in the history-making struggle between the administration and the "power trust" lobby over the holding company bill, in which the New Dealers and the congressional progressives had taken Brewster to their bosoms.

Fought Insult Rule
Some years ago Samuel Insull went to Maine with the intent of adding it to his empire. He is agents obtained passage of a legislative bill permitting export of electric power from the state. Brewster, as governor, vetoed the bill.

Thereafter, Brewster ran for the Senate and was defeated by the power and other interests. But last year he was elected to the House over a Democrat described as a "100 per cent power trust man."

Working closely with Brewster in his campaigns was Ernest H. Gruening once crusading editor of the progressive Portland (Me.) Evening News.

When Brewster came to Washington, Gruening, now director of the division of territories and insular possessions, introduced him to other liberals and soon the congressman became a popular figure at gatherings of New Dealers, who welcomed the strange spectacle of an eastern Republican congressman who professed to agree with their progressive views.

He became the associate of independent congressman, joining in their secret councils which discussed strategy on the holding company bill.

Welcome as Liberal
Brewster was recommended to Roosevelt as a progressive who merited support in the next campaign and could be counted on as a New Dealer in current congressional fights.

Brewster seemed pleased especially so when he was allowed to work with Corcoran, co-author of the holding company bill and one of the most active and effective brain trusters behind the scene on legal aspects of the Passamaquoddy power project, the administration's big work-relief award to Maine.

Progressives first began to worry about Brewster a few days ago, when the Bland-Copeland merchant marine bill was up. They opposed it, labelling it a steal for the ship operators and shipbuilders.

Brewster a member of the merchant marine committee, signed a minority report excoriating the bill, but merely voted present on the bill to report it out. At a time when Moran of Maine and Wearin of Iowa, leaders in the fight, expected him to be introducing amendments to the bill they found Brewster was out of town.

Turns on Progressives
Votes on the holding company bill followed almost immediately. Again Brewster was missing. A friend, advised by administration agents, found him and escorted him to the Capitol.

That friend and many others in the galleries gasped in amazement as the famous foe of the "power trust" marched up the aisle with Republicans and conservative Democrats in a vote against substitution of the Senate bill dissolving big holding companies.

LOUIS-LEVINSKY BOUT GIVEN OK

CHICAGO, Ill., July 10. (AP)—The Illinois State Athletic Commission Tuesday placed its approval on the date, site and price of tickets for the Joe Louis-King Levinsky heavy-weight fight, scheduled for the night of Aug. 7, at Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox.

Promoter Joe Foley posted a $20,000 bond with the commission, binding the match. Inasmuch as the commission demands a bond of 10 per cent of the anticipated gate receipts, it is evident that the ring board will expect the fight to draw at least $200,000. The ticket prices range from $10 downward.

The commission also granted Promoter Foley an option on the Aug. 8, 9 and 10 dates in the event unfavorable weather forces a postponement.

Amarillo Abstractor Is Named Supervisor

AMARILLO (AP)—J. S. Fischer, Amarillo abstractor, has been named supervisor of district one of the Texas Farm Debt Conciliation Committee, R. J. Murray of Austin, State Supervisor announced.

Fischer will be in charge of the farm conciliation program in 26 north Panhandle counties which formerly were among the 54 west Texas counties under the direction of Gulton Gregg of Lubbock.

Gov. James V. Alfred changed the former six Texas districts into 10 in an effort to speed up the farm debt work in the sections which had suffered most seriously from the drought.

Fischer said he would appoint an office assistant and would do the field work himself. He said he would meet with the different county committees at least once a month and would assist committees in bringing farmers and creditors to friendly adjustments of debt problems.

Loan compositions or extensions will be necessary in many instances to save farm and ranch homes in cases where the property is heavily burdened with indebtedness, he said.

Geological Charts Are Being Prepared

CANYON. (AP)—Charts on geological formations in Palo Duro State park near here are to be prepared by the National Park Service by the Panhandle Geological society.

Members of the society studied the formations on a recent field trip to the park. C. Don Hughes, leader of the party, and J. D. Thompson are members of a committee named to draft the geology of the canyon. Their findings will be submitted first to the Panhandle society for approval and then to the National Park Service.

Contact points, marking the division between various formations, were located during the field trip. The points are between the Tertiary strata and the formations of the Triassic age, between the Triassic and Permian formations, and between sub-divisions of the formations.

Louis J. Bryan, superintendent of the park, said that signs would be erected at the contact points for the benefit of visitors.

C. C. Anderson, chemist of the U. S. Bureau of Mines at the government helium plant near Amarillo, is president of the Panhandle Geological society.
