TRI-STATE CONFERENCE

Terrell Says He Is Not Informed of The Meeting

AUSTIN, March 18. (UP)-Efforts to hold a new tri-state oil conference this month are likely to be discouraged here.

Chairman Terrell of the railroad commission, returning to his office this morning, said he knew nothing of the proposed conference other than a telegram from Thurman Hill, Kansas corporation commissioner, asking for a Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas conference March 25 at Austin

One official who declined to be quoted, said calling of such a conference five days in advance to the railroad commission hearing to consider Texas allowables is "a palpable attempt to influence the commission's decision."

PUBLIC INVITED TO GEOLOGISTS MEET SATURDAY

If it were not for the Rio Grande, many Midland fishermen would be denied much sport, and fewer Midland people would include fish in their Friday diet.

"The Cause of the Rio Grande" will be discussed here Saturday evening by Charles Lawrence Baker of the Bureau of Economis Geology at Austin. He will speak before a group of the West Texas Geological society, and business men and all others interested are invited.

The meeting will be held in the ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer, beginning at 7:30. Arrangements were completed at the Midland geologists' luncheon club today.

Geologists from throughout West Texas are expected.

Calf Monstrosity To Be Exhibited

How Congress Vote Mapped Prohibition

When congress voted on a proposal to bring the Beck-Linthicum prohibition amendment out of committee in the first wet-dry test of importance since 1917, representatives lined up as shown in sketch map above. The Beck-Linthicum resolution, still locked in committee, would amend the 18th amendment to allow state control of liquor. Wets piled up a supreme vote of 187 to bring the proposal before congress. They were defeated by 227 dry-voting congressmen. The 18th amendment originally was adopted in the house by a vote of 282 for

Lively Dispute In Coyote Demise

If you think those rabbit hunters drew apart to let coyotes pass, you have another think coming.

Maurice King, son of Jno. M. King, shot down a coyote during the rabbit drive Thursday, and before the wolf had fallen a load of shot was fired into him by Paul Cole. Both claimed the pelt, but King was given the scalp.

To make the dispute more uneven, Frank Midkiff, high school athlete, emptied the barrel of his toy 410 into the coyote after it was on the ground. He claimed the kill, even though admitting the even though admitting the others had shot the animal

The largest mining crews worked for several years in this area are now employed. More than 60,000 tons of ore are ready for shipment at the Pankey mines.

Eleven Sections Are Cleared Result First Drive

More rabbit drives are being planned for the immediate future.

Claude Haley has been talking to those in charge of the Thursday drive at Prairie Lee, seeking information as to how much meat is required for the noon barbecue and of other preparations.

From 150 to 200 were at the barbecue at the Bethel Graham home. The 11 o'clock check of hunters totalled 80, but there were many more during the afternoon.

Estimates of the number of rabbits killed varied, from 1,000 to John King's estimate of 3,500.

King's estimate of 3.500. Eleven sections were driven, hunt-ers walking about 150 yards apart and continually keeping up the march.

"We had little trouble with the "We had little trouble with the big party," King said. "Now and then someone would get excited and walk a few steps out front, or someone would lag a few paces. Captains guarded carefully that sort of thing, or someone might have been injured. As it was, the only casualty was the bull's-eye made on Sam Preston's chin and the peppering of shot around Barney Hightower."

Several Midland stores were thanked by the drive committee for donating coffee, pickles, onions, vinegar, pepper and other supplies. Among these stores were: M-System, Clarence Saunders, Piggly-Wiggly and Smith & Stevens.

"A rose by any other name would smell as sweet," said the poet, and tests in Germany have disclosed that even if the rose were artificial, it would be as attractive to the butterfly in its search for food. It is the color, and not the odor, that attracts, it has been found, the insects settling indiscriminately on paper and on real flowers that were scattered about a garden.

Legalizing beer in the United States that it may be taxed is proposed as a means to relieve the deficit in the national Treasury and to give workmen jobs, but it seems clear that it would do so only at the expense of other more numerous workmen and of a deficit in the national integrity.

Barelay has been married and di-vorced. Scandal accompanied his divorce from Leda Grayson, dancer, and, fearing this talk may be re-vived, he and Ellen agree to keep their marriage secret until they sail for Europe. Barclay wants to settle a fortune on Ellen but she persuades him to wait until after the coremon Parker. ceremony. Barclay's lawyer, Symes, regards Ellen as a gold-digger. In a double marriage in a small Connecticut town, Barclay and El-len and Myra and Armstead are married. Barclay and his bride drive to his Long Island home. The girl is terrified, knowing her marriage to be a mistake. She reads in a news paper that Larry's engagement to Elizabeth Bowes is broken.

That night when Barclay comes to er bedroom Ellen faints, recovers consciousness to find Barclay has suffered a heart attack. She calls for help. Doctors, nurses, and Symes the lawyer arrive. Symes has been trying to reach Barclay all day. He tells Ellen the papers proving Barclay's divorce from Leda Grayson have been stolen.
