BOY SCOUT CAMP AT MERTZON WILL BE ENDED TODAY

By CLAUDE O. CRANE
Buffalo Trail Council Boy Scout Camp being held at Camp Louis Farr near Mertzon, Texas ends today. During the three weeks' camp there have been in camp 229 different boys. Midland Troop No. 52 had the largest percentage of the troop present. Troop 54 of Midland had the largest number. Scouts from 17 other single troops in the council with twenty-five boys. A Sweetwater troop ran them a close second on attendance.

Local scout officials of the council are well pleased with the way the camp has been conducted this summer. While the weather has been somewhat irregular and more rain than there were only two boys during the camp sent home because of illness and that was minor. The healthfulness of the camp was due to the sanitary conditions. It is equipped with government latrines built of cement and the garbage from kitchen is immediately taken care of.

Buttler talked with many of the boys and found that many wanted the camp to last longer, so that alone speaks well for the program. One of the known facts that many fathers and mothers want to spoil a camp for a boy by having too many of the comforts at home. Purpose of the camp is not only to teach them to take care of themselves under conditions different from that of the home, but is the sleeping out in the woods, the rains, the mosquitoes and the many other little incidents that happen in camp that make it an adventure for the boy and if a vote were taken to let one of the scouts would want to make it any easier. Several of the so-called tenderfoots who entered the camp are coming out full-fledged campers and we take our hats off to them for their sticking it out, though they were not accustomed to that mode of living. The writer is happy to report that his two sons have spent the three weeks in camp and they are returning home better off physically and mentally for having attended.

The local council wishes to express appreciation to all the Scouts who took time out and attended camp as counselors, especially G. B. Brock who was with the boys the three full weeks as the official Scoutmaster, J. B. Thomas, who was senior patrol leader, and who assisted Brock the full time. Malcolm Breneman, Assistant S. M. of Troop No. 52 and Wallace Wimberly who gave a week's service to the camp. We cannot speak too highly of the manner in which A. C. Williamson, Scout Executive of the Council, has conducted the Camp and after making comparisons with some larger and richer council camps believe we are fortunate in having him as our leader and a camp site as healthful as Camp Louis Farr available.

ends another three weeks of happy times for the Boy Scouts of Midland.

JAPANESE FIGHT IN ROME CAUSES EMBASSY GUARD

ROME, July 23. (AP)—Fascist troops and police were assigned Monday to guard against political demonstrations it was feared would rise from the newspapers' violent anti-Japanese campaign over the reported Japanese opposition to the Italo-Ethiopian pact.

The Japanese embassy was placed under heavy guard as the front pages of the newspapers making the sharp accusations were posted on orders from above.

The Japanese Ambassador said his mission is to preserve good relations between Italy and Japan and his policy is to postpone any action at this moment when feeling seems at fever heat.

Sigumura said he has not transmitted in extreme phrase Japan's comments to his Government and will not do so for several days until the situation becomes calmer. He said the Japanese are apt to be overly excited and because the comment in all of them was similar they were undoubtedly acting on orders from above.

The well-trained Italian press turned a blast on the Far East which corresponded to the lambasting it gave the Germans for supplying the Ethiopians with arms and the British for its opposition to the East African campaign.

The play-off will be between the Ice and Gulf as they have a higher average than the other two by virtue of having played one game more than the second place clubs.

PIONEERING NEVER WAS A HOLIDAY AFFAIR

Glancing in the direction of Alaska's Matanuska Valley, one is compelled to wonder just what has happened to the old-time pioneering spirit in this country.

The Matanuska Valley harbors several hundred homesteaders who were moved from farms in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota and sent to the northland to carve new homes out of the wilderness.

They were victims of the depression. There was no hope for them if they stayed at home. Unable to support themselves where they were, they had to move or sink into pauperism. The Alaskan venture, subsidized by the government, offered them a chance to make a new start.

When they set out for Alaska we heard a great deal about the new pioneers, about the revival of the old days, and about the rediscovery of the frontier in the twentieth century. Everybody sat back and wished the colonists lots of luck.

But lately the welkin has been ringing with all manner of complaints. These range all the way from protests over a shortage of farm equipment to moans about the excessive number of mosquitoes in Alaska's fair valleys.

Cabins that were to have been built to house the colonists are far behind schedule. The colonists are still living in tents, and are not enjoying it. Sanitation is imperfect, roads are practically non-existent, tools have not been delivered and political bureaucracy does not seem to be functioning very well.

Now these charges, having been aired on the floor of the Senate, deserve and should get a complete, impartial investigation. And yet, when all allowance is made, one does have to wonder—what has happened to that old-time pioneer spirit?

These colonists were right back of the eight-ball, before the Alaskan venture started. They were broke and had no chance of remedying their condition. They were given a chance to better themselves by indulging in a little pioneering—and pioneers never did have it soft.

All of America was developed by people who lived in imperfect houses, lacked proper tools, suffered plagues of mosquitoes, toiled over boggy roads and in general had to put up with a whole lot of annoyances and inconveniences.

It seems likely that a small minority is doing most of the complaining. Most of the settlers, one suspects, are plugging away and saying nothing. The majority, probably, realize full well that the pioneer never did have a picnic.

NEW DEPARTMENT PROPOSED

A new federal department to handle all conservation matters is proposed by the American Nature Association. This is a counter-proposal to Interior Secretary Ickes' suggestion that the Interior Department be changed into a Department of Conservation and Public Works.

Arthur Newton Pack, spokesman for the Nature Association, points out that there is no necessary connection between such public works as bridges and highways and the conservation of natural resources. He also makes the point that at present our conservation measures are split up among three federal departments, and that a certain amount of lost motion inevitably results.

Most citizens will probably agree that all conservation efforts should be grouped under the general direction of one cabinet minister. There seems to be logic, too, in the proposal that they be given a separate department, entirely apart from such unrelated things as public works.

They've Had Enough of Alaska

Just recently one of several hundred midwestern families heading jubilantly toward Alaska and the promise of a rosy future. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dury and their children, one of the nine families returning to the United States because of dissatisfaction with conditions in Matanuska Valley, were pictured here at Seattle, Wash., en route to their former home in Sheboygan, Mich. Reports of general discontent in the Alaskan colony have been greatly exaggerated in this country, the erstwhile colonists contend, any trouble there having arisen from climatic conditions and clashing of political factions at Matanuska.

Sanatorium Care Big Aid in Fight On Tuberculosis

Increased use of sanatorium and hospital facilities in Texas for treating tuberculosis would be one of the greatest steps in further reducing the mortality from this dangerous disease.

This statement was made by Dr. John E. Thomas, Medical Advisor on the Midland county Public Health Board in referring to the campaign of the organization being carried on under the slogan, "Fight Tuberculosis With Modern Weapons."

"This is a reasonable prospect for two important reasons," continued Dr. Thomas. "The sanatorium can arrest, or 'cure' the disease through the newer methods in contrast with the hopelessness or failure of former years. An even more important service is rendered toward controlling tuberculosis by breaking the contact between the patient and his relatives and friends. The disease is communicable and every case comes from another. It is spread usually by coughing or sneezing without properly covering the mouth and nose and by careless spitting."

Dr. Thomas declared that quarantine might be effective in controlling tuberculosis if it were an acute disease like smallpox or scarlet fever, but explained that this is not possible because we cannot imprison human beings who carry about the germs of the dangerous disease.

"The next best thing is to place the person actually sick in a sanatorium or hospital. He is automatically removed as a 'spreader' of infection among his associates and is taught a new routine in which rest, food and fresh air are prominent. He learns to adjust himself to an occupation that can be safely followed."

"A person should remain in the sanatorium until the doctor says it

Stories in STAMPS By I. S. Klein

KING OF THE GRACE OF AN ENGLISHMAN

TO the late Lawrence of Arabia, El Ourens, as the Arabs called him, King Emir Feisal of Iraq owes his throne. The two had become fast friends when they joined the tribes of the desert to defeat the Turks in Mesopotamia and so weaken the hold of the Central Powers in the East.

For this effort, Lawrence, believing that he had the sanction of the allied powers, had promised Feisal kingship over the conquered territory. But the Treaty of Versailles ignored the promise and refused Lawrence to repudiate all the honors bestowed upon him and retire to private life.

In 1927, however, England permitted a national vote on this issue, and Feisal became king by approval of 96 per cent of his people. That year appeared the first stamps portraying the new King of Iraq. In 1932, upon change of the country's coinage, a new set of King Feisal stamps was issued, one being shown here.

This is unfair: A dissipated woman looks more dissipated than a dissipated man.

The worst humiliation I ever suffered: Right after I had dodged 15 auto mobiles and five motorcycles, an old horse bumped into me and broke three of my ribs.

Here is one that we have heard before but we are passing it along regardless of its age. An old country boy returning from a visit was met at the depot by his hired hand and said: "Has anything happened while I have been away?" "Naw; nuthin' to speak of 'cept I had to bury the dog this mornin'."

"Bury the dog! How come him to die?" "He ate too much burnt meat. Where did he get any burnt meat? It was our horses that burnt up when the barn caught fire."

How did the barn get on fire? Sparks flew from the house while it was burning down and set it on fire. Well, how did the house happen to burn down? It caught from the candles on you wife's coffin. You shore used to have a fine wife, Mr. Peters.

I will long remember what my father said: "Success comes in cans; Failure comes in can't's."

Incidentally, rubber bathing suits take up little space in a bag. An habitual week-ender will do well to have at least one. In addition to being splendid for active swimming and extremely smart this year, rubber suits do not have to hang in the sun for hours before you can pack them. Simply take off your suit, wipe it, inside and out, with a towel and tuck it away.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

It seems that women are not the only ones who get "mad enough to fight" over clothes.

Monday's papers carried press stories to the effect that many persons were killed in Persia as the result of rioting when the government decreed that the Persians should throw away their usual fez (or whatever they call their native headgear) and henceforth wear European hats.

There is no designation of the rioters as being women only.

We daresay that many an American wife has felt as if she were starting a riot when she told the head of the family that she had thrown away that worn-out "disgraceful hat" that he had been clinging to for the last five years.

After all, though, there must be something out of joint in the reasoning that sees a change of clothing style as more important than human life.

Headlines recently proclaimed a parody on Kipling's "East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet" by saying that East had met West when the son of China's president married an Ohio girl who was a clerk in a five-and-ten cent store.

It now appears that the son had two legal wives in China and that Papa the President is not in favor of another daughter-in-law and a foreigner to boot.

In the light of recent developments, it is likely that Kipling's lines may still stand as truth.

Poets are bound to be right sometimes.

Sometimes the regularity with which unforeseen misfortune comes even to the person who is doing his best to accomplish something makes us think that life must be like the travels of the early religious pilgrims who made two steps forward and one back. The encouraging feature is that one step is gained.

Home Dem. Agent Instructs How To Can Tomatoes

Detailed instructions in the proper canning of tomatoes were given by Mrs. Lura Hollingsworth, county home demonstration agent, at a meeting of club women at the courthouse, Saturday, July 20.

"For canning of tomatoes, select fruit that is uniform in shape, size, and color," she said. "If the same shape, a much more compact packing will be obtained; if the same size, all tomatoes should be tender in the same length of cooking time, and if the same color, it indicates about the same ripeness and makes a much more attractive exhibit."

"After grading the tomatoes, they are blanched in boiling water just long enough for the skins to slip off easily (about one minute)," Mrs. Hollingsworth continued. "Remove and plunge immediately into cold water. Drain, core, and peel promptly. Pack into jars as closely and quickly as possible."

"Fill with thick tomato sauce or puree, or with the juice of other tomatoes. Season with one teaspoon salt per quart. Process quart and pint glass jars 45 minutes in boiling water."

GULF-SOUTHERN ICE END FIRST HALF IN A FIRST PLACE TIE

The softball race for the first half ended in a tie for first place last night when the Hardware upset the dope bucket by drubbing the Gulf by a score of nine to three in one game and three to nothing in another, a game that went only two innings due to a previous agreement between the managers of the two teams.

In a previous game between the two teams this season a score-keeper's error caused a game to end in a tie and the managers agreed that if it were necessary to play the game that play would start at the beginning of the eighth inning, where it was stopped in the other one.

In what is listed officially as the ninth inning of the game, the Hardware rushed over three runs and protected their lead in the Gulf's half inning.

The Southern Ice team cinched themselves a chance at a playoff with the Gulf team when they rapped McCumber's offerings, immovably to hang up a 17-10 win over the Cox Motor team in the last game of the night.

Virgin Isle Probe Resumed Monday

WASHINGTON, July 23. (P.)—Congressional intervention in the Virgin Islands controversy to set up a revised form of government was considered Monday at hearings before Senator Millard Tydings' (Dem.) of Maryland investigating committee.

Whether the islands would be removed from Secretary Harold L. Ickes' Interior Department control was not mentioned. Rumors have mentioned this possibility.

At the hearing, which resumed after a twelve-day recess taken when President Roosevelt intervened to cool off the recent Tydings-Ickes feud, Paul M. Pearson, Republican Governor against whom charges of maladministration rest, sat through the session without hearing his name mentioned.

The inquiry was directed instead toward possible remedies for what one witness called "too much government in the tiny Caribbean islands, whose present economic condition was unfavorably contrasted with that under the Danish administration in 1917, before the United States bought them for $25,000,000.

To one witness, Dr. David C. Canegata, president of the Municipal Council of the island of St. Croix, Tydings said: "Speaking for this committee and for the Senate Territories Committee, we would welcome a plan worked out by your people suggesting changes in the organic act of the Virgin Islands."

Canegata said the Virgin Islanders would welcome the opportunity to present such a plan, and said he thought it could be done by December or January, in time to be considered at the next session of Congress.

To Paint Murals of Spanish Missions

AUSTIN, July 23. (P.)—Large Murals of several old Spanish missions at San Antonio are being painted at St. Edward's university, where John Bednar, C. S. C. When completed they will hang in the main corridor of the Administration building at St. Edward's.

The missions to be portrayed are San Francisco de Espada, Mission San Jose de Aguayo, Mission de la Concepcion Purisima and the Alamo. The panels will all be six and a half feet high but of different widths. Three of them will be approximately 12 feet long, and the San Jose canvas, which will show the mission from a side view, will cover an expanse of 21 feet.

The buildings all date from about 1720 to 1730, or about 50 years before the American Revolution. The artist was especially delighted with the entrance and the baptismal window of the San Jose mission, which he said contained some of the most beautiful carving he had seen.

The painting of the murals is a project that has for some time been contemplated by the Rev. Joseph Maguire, C. S. C., president of the St. Edward's. It was made possible at this time through the efforts of the Association of Former Students of St. Edward's, which voted at its last meeting to defray the expenses of the artist.

Wheels made of laminated wood were tried out in London subway to lessen noise and reduce weight.

he examined the body at the hospital but that he did not find the jaw broken or other bones broken. He said he had seen X-ray pictures taken later and that they showed no broken bones.

He said that death from a blood clot or hemorrhage of the brain would not necessarily cause death in such a short time but that it was possible. He said he had not known Mr. Whitt, had never seen him before and that from what he could learn and his examination, he died of a heart attack.

The funeral was delayed until Wednesday to allow for the arrival of a son, Junia A. Whitt, Hollywood, Calif.

Survivors include the widow, four sons, Parley L. Whitt of Alice, Junia A. Whitt of Hollywood, Seaton Keith Whitt and Tom Mayes Whitt, both of San Angelo, three daughters, Jo Whitt, of San Angelo, Mrs. J. W. Griffin of Abilene and Mrs. Felix Welch of San Angelo and three grandchildren.

Mr. Whitt was a member of the Masonic lodge and the Methodist Church. He lacked a short time of serving for 10 years as night-watchman in the downtown district of San Angelo, and was, perhaps, as well known as any man in San Angelo. He had a speaking acquaintance with many West Texans and a wide circle of friends.

Horace Bishop Whitt was born Oct. 11, 1870, at Butler, Preestone county, and had lived in this section for many years. He was named for the late Dr. Horace Bishop, pioneer Texas Methodist minister.

they will begin to learn how to live in cooperative communities.

"They will grow their own food for a start. Rural electrification will permit little factories to open in their rural communities. Many can be owned by the groups themselves. Schools will teach self-help and from the time they are two years old the children will be under the spell of a new life. Through economic freedom and a training for living they will build their own new civilization. It can be finer than anything Russia has. Statorship can possibly construct."

Pioneers of Today

The next day I rode at 50 miles an hour down the same road my great-grandfather had driven his horses and a covered wagon over 135 years before. He was the old pioneer going forth to broad acres and fortune. These men and women back at Arhtadale were the new pioneers searching for a tiny home on a bit of ground. They wanted land to live on. They had no thought of fortune.

In those 135 years covered wagons had become motor cars and mud trails had become roads. But in the same period the wooded slopes and green valley of Scott's Run had become a hideous scar where human beings lived and thought like animals.

Water and human erosion had done their worst. Fifteen miles away somewhat the same hope for opportunity that had filled the heart of my bearded ancestor was being transmitted to defeated miners of today's America.

New worlds are discovered only by seekers.

Electrocuted for 'Wedding Murder'

BELLEFONTE, Pa., July 23. (P.)—Twenty-nine year old Sherman Strawser, who killed to buy his young sweetheart a wedding dress, died in the electric chair yesterday after saying in his last message: "You know women can be a curse, and again they can be a blessing."

Strawser was electrocuted at 12:35 a. m. in Rockview penitentiary for slaying Charles Gable, elderly Jack's Mountain farmer, in order to obtain funds to be married.

The crime netted $77 for a tressure for the intended bride, a wedding license and a honeymoon, but Strawser went to jail before he could be married.

Zella Gill would have been Strawser's third wife. She is in an eastern house of correction as an incorrigible.

Gold produced in Alaska during 1931 was valued at $9,342,000, an increase of approximately a million dollars over the previous year's production.
