TWO KILLED IN ITALO ATTACK

Tigers Even World Series By Defeating Cubs 8 to 3

FOUR RUN RALLY IN FIRST INNING CINCHES VICTORY

Three Hurlers Used
By Cubs Fail
To Help

Unleashing a savage base hit attack in the first inning today, the Tigers made four runs off the veteran Chicago hurler, Charley Root, and continued their attack against two other pitchers to win by a score of eight to three and even the series at one-all.

To start the first inning, White, first up, singled, Cochran doubled to score White, Gehring singled scoring Cochran and Greenberg hit one into the temporary stands in left field to give his team a lead that they never relinquished.

Root retired after Greenberg's hit and was relieved by Henshaw, diminutive left-hander, who fared but little better, being relieved in the fourth by Kowalik, a rookie.

Kowalik retired the Tigers for the rest of the game and gave up only one more run, that one coming in the seventh.

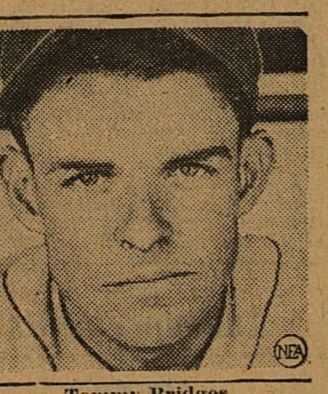

Bridges hurled masterful ball for the Tigers all the way and was never in danger of losing the large lead built up for him in the first inning.

He helped cause the downfall of Henshaw when he singled in the fourth and later scored on a single by Gehring.

Winning Hurler

Tommy Bridges, ace of the Detroit staff, who gave up only six hits and scored one run himself to lead his mates to a 8-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs and even up the series at one-all.

Losers

Charley Root, veteran Cub right-hander who had been one of the mainstays of the Chicago staff this season, failed to get a man out in the second game of the series today. Two singles, a double and a home run chased him early in the first inning.

Hero

Hank Greenberg, slugging first baseman of the Detroit Tigers, who landed on one of Root's curve balls in the first inning to hit a home run with one mate on base and drive the veteran Cub from the box. It was the big blow of the nine hit attack of the Tigers in the game.

BUS TRIP SEATS MAY BE SOLD OUT BEFORE DAY ENDS

More than half the tickets for the three bus trips advertising the Midland Fair next week had been sold when committees checked in at noon today. Effort was being made to complete the sale this afternoon, but those who had not been approached were asked to telephone the chamber of commerce where last minute reservations would be made.

It was pointed out by George Philippus, general chairman, that only 60 tickets are available, with 20 each day, consequently the committees could not see all business men before the seats were exhausted.

Three business firms had taken a ticket for each day and several others made reservations for two of the three days. It was reported that the sale of tickets would be completed before 5 o'clock this afternoon. However, a telephone call to the chamber of commerce or to Philippus at the United Dry Goods company will hold reservations up to the time all seats are sold and paid for.

The Tuesday, October 8, trip takes the chartered bus with its 20 passengers to Crane, McCamey, Fort Stockton, Pecos, Barstow, Pyote, Monahans and Odessa.

Wednesday, October 9, the second bus load will visit Stanton, Big Spring, Coahoma, Colorado, Loraine, Roscoe, Sweetwater, Snyder, Gall, Lamesa and Ackerly.

The third day, October 10, will take in Odessa, Andrews, Seminole, Hobbs, Eunice, Jal, Cheyenne, Kermit, Wink and Monahans.

U. S. Resolved On Neutral Attitude In Next Conflict

With war clouds hovering over Europe and Africa, the most vital question facing the American people is, "Can we keep out of conflict if it comes?" The grim lesson of 1917 is before Congress as it seeks a way to insure neutrality. The perils that face this country and the efforts that are being made to avoid them are told in an enlightening series of three articles by Willis Thornton, NIA Service staff correspondent, this being the first of the series.

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—With Europe in the midst of the worst war scare since 1914, U. S. State Department experts and Congressmen are hard at work on further plans to preserve American neutrality.

No one here considers that the neutrality act passed by the last Congress is the final answer. When this act expires, Feb. 29, 1936, several more plans will be presented to Congress to build a complete program of "waging neutrality." That job will be almost as hard as waging war.

For instance, Maverick, of Texas, would prohibit export of any material declared contraband by any fighting country.

Senator Gerald Nye, of North Dakota, though he believes the present neutrality act is the best, would still further limit foreign loans, already restricted by the Johnson act prohibiting loans to debtors.

The present neutrality act, admittedly a hasty job, does two things: It tells the world that the United States is going to make a determined effort to stay neutral, no matter who fights. That definite knowledge has already had a restraining effect on the European situation.

Second, the act prohibits direct sales of war to fighting countries, and specifies that Americans sailing on ships of those countries do so at their own risk.

Cites World War Lesson
These provisions boldly attack two of the practices that helped get the United States into the World War.

Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, says today and 1917. He knows that the neutrality law is incomplete, but believes it will be highly effective.

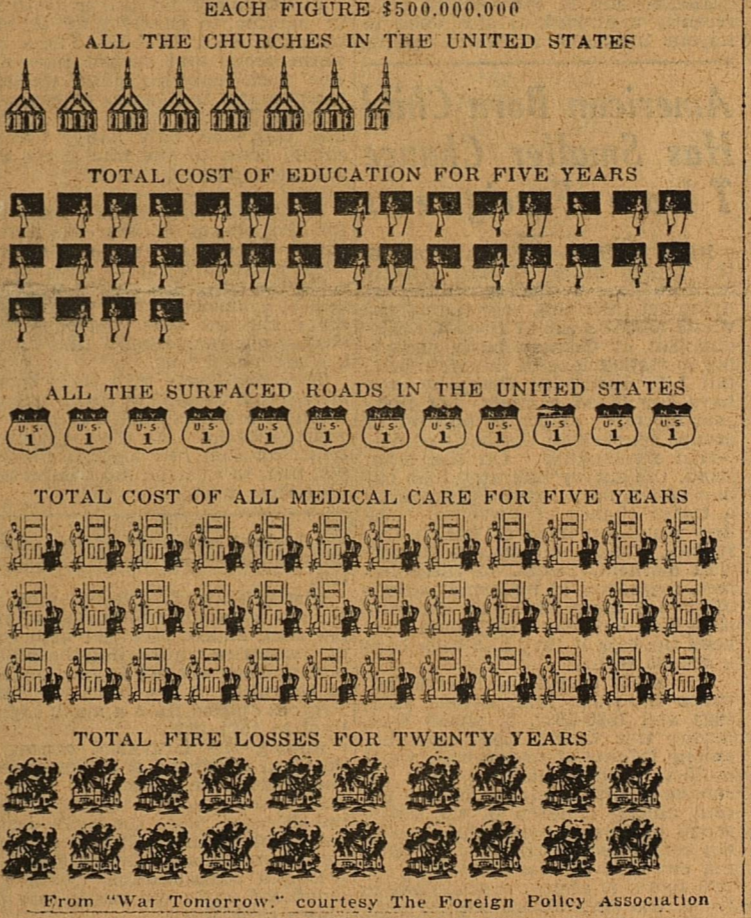

Pittman believes that "we will avoid another war because we learned our lesson from the World War."

The sudden and unexpected "break" that came with Ethiopia's effort to assign oil and mineral rights to a mysterious British and American syndicate shows how hard it is to foresee neutrality emergencies in advance. But even here the definite will of the American people, expressed through Congress in the neutrality act, was a guiding light for the State Department.

Deadly Parallels Seen
Those studying means of "waging neutrality" here are spurred by a series of deadly parallels between today and 1917. They know that the neutrality problem the United States failed to solve in 1914-1917 will be even knottier tomorrow than it was then.

You think, perhaps, that the United States has no particular interest in Ethiopia, or Manchuria, or the Polish Corridor. You aren't interested.

Well, neither were you in 1914, nor were the people who were your present age in 1914.

Geologists to Meet Friday Noon

The Midland Geological Society, luncheon club of geologists in Midland, will meet tomorrow noon at the Scharbauer Hotel, according to announcement of James Fitz-Gerald, newly elected president of the organization.

On behalf of the Society, Mr. Fitz-Gerald invites all geologists new to Midland to attend the meeting tomorrow. Luncheons are held regularly on the first and third Fridays of each month.

22 SPONSORS ARE NAMED FOR FAIR

Registration of two additional sponsors for the Midland Fair has been received by the chamber of commerce bringing the total registration to 22.

Del Rio has selected Mrs. Mary Lane Sellers Young to represent that town during the eight-day fair and rodeo, while Miss Joyce Leonard Glass will be "Miss Crosbyton."

Visiting sponsors will enter the contest in which four handsome prizes will be awarded to the girls placing first, second, third and fourth in the event. First prize will be an elaborately decorated saddle now on display in the chamber of commerce.

Neutral Has No Rights
Today you will find well-versed men in Washington who will tell you that a neutral has no rights at all today that a war-desperate country is likely to respect; no rights, in other words, that the neutral country is unwilling to fight for. And when you fight for neutral rights you are no longer neutral.

What neutral rights are worth insisting on at the risk of war? That is the question being studied in the capital today, in the hope of perfecting better plans to insure neutrality in the future.

Security Was False
Most people felt as did David Starr Jordan, director of the World Peace Foundation, who wrote in 1913: "What shall we say of the Great War of Europe, ever threatening ever impending, and which never comes? We shall say that it will never come. Humanly speaking, it is impossible."

The assassination of the Austrian archduke on June 28, 1914, was a one-day sensation in the American papers. Few had ever heard of either the archduke or Sarajevo. It couldn't be important.

For nearly a month America forgot it, and then suddenly, about July 25, the papers blossomed with "Europe at Point of War!"

Even when on Aug. 4, all Europe was ablaze, few people believed it could have any direct effect on America. The New York Sun well represented thinking American opinion when it said: "There is nothing reasonable in such a war as that for which Europe has been making ready, and it would be folly for the country to sacrifice itself to the frenzy of dynastic politics and the clash of ancient hatreds which is urging the old world to destruction."

Such words are being written today. But the important thing is that 22 months after the Sun wrote them in 1914, the United States was at war. The mere fact of essential indifference to a war is no longer any guarantee that you can stay neutral.

There are other ominous comparisons. In the summer of 1914 slack times were coming on, as today business is still far below normal.

The political situation was somewhat similar. Opposition to a reform Democratic administration, to Wilson's in 1914, to Roosevelt's in 1915, may be noted.

There are other ominous comparisons. In the summer of 1914 slack times were coming on, as today business is still far below normal.

There is an even less definite understanding of the rights of neutrals than there was in 1914. Such rights were then believed fairly well-defined.

UNDECLARED WAR IN ETHIOPIA IS STARTED

PARIS, Oct. 3. (AP).—An agreement between French and British leaders on League of Nations action for the immediate rupture of financial and economic relations with Italy was announced today.

The action followed hours of conference between Premier Laval of France and Anthony Eden, British minister on League of Nations affairs.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was reported that 1700 persons were killed in an Italian bombardment of Aduwa.

Selassie sent the League of Nations a protest attacking the action of airplanes that smashed 78 bombs into Aduwa, damaged the hospital with casualties, and brought war into Africa.

Ethiopia ordered Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, Italian minister to Ethiopia, to get out of the country and gave him his passports. He leaves tomorrow.

In the Tigre Province, Italians who advanced across the border were reported fleeing with airplanes covering their retreat. It was estimated that 50,000 Ethiopians opposed the Italian advance in the Aduwa region.

The League of Nations council committee met suddenly to discuss the emergency.

The United States legation at Addis Ababa displayed the American flag as warning to bombing planes.

Greece ordered three military classes to report for service as a precautionary measure as the result of the international situation. The war minister was considering mobilization.

Germany officially adopted President Roosevelt's peace declaration as its viewpoint regarding the outbreak of an Italo-Ethiopian war. The German attitude had been anxiously awaited.

League of Nations officials seemed inclined to believe the council would reach a clear decision regarding the aggressor in the African dispute.

Ethiopia charged that the Aduwa bombardment had wrecked 15 houses and that a hundred more had been destroyed at Adigrat.

Officials said they believed the attack was intended to invite reprisals on Italians who still were in Ethiopia in order to justify the Italian conquest.

The correspondent of Le Journal, Paris, reported General Emilio de Bono, commander of the Italian forces in Eritrea and Somaliland, had ordered troops to cross the Mareb after it was reported an Italian motorcyclist was slain.

An undeclared Italo-Ethiopian war started today as fighting in Agame, Ogasden and Tigre provinces and Italian planes' bombardment at Aduwa was reported.

Selassie ordered mobilization and three thousands of men toward the Eritrean border, from which the Italian troops were reported to be advancing. The League of Nations received an Italian protest of the Ethiopian mobilization. Mussolini ordered "defensive measures."

The situation has Great Britain undeniably alarmed. An excited crowd milled before the prime minister's residence.

Demonstrations were reported scattered throughout cities of the world. Fifty Italian conscripts were mobbed in Toulouse, France. The Italian consulate at Sao Paulo, Brazil, was stoned.

The League of Nations council was convoked officially for an emergency session Saturday.

Says Legislature Was "Stitched Up"

AUSTIN, Oct. 3. (AP)—Senator Tom DeBerry charged before the senate investigating committee that former Senator George Purl and others so "stitched up" the session of the legislature that the chain nest Goens, Tyler, on the public safety and utility regulation bills were killed.

Purl, being investigated regarding chain store lobbying, denied the accusation. He admitted he wrote Robert Lyon, of Washington, last April 17, that "we are about to put the government in a position where there will be no reason for a special tax session."

The governor said the pardon board "states the indictment is fatally defective" and it appeared Rodriguez "is now confined in the penitentiary on an illegal indictment and is illegally convicted."

Rodriguez was convicted April 10 and released on a furlough after two months in the penitentiary. The governor said petitioners reflected almost unanimous sentiment for Rodriguez "and they seem that the best citizenship of Tom Green county are righteously indignant at the judgment against the defendant."

The proclamation quoted President W. L. Smith and Secretary I. H. Verfuth of the Central Labor Union of San Angelo as asserting "We are convinced that he was railroaded to the penitentiary for his activities in connection with the Sheep-Shearing Union of North America last spring." Rodriguez was state organizer, they said, and built up an organization of several hundred members.

The governor granted M. J. Jenkins, convicted in Taylor county of breaking and entering and sentenced to two years, a conditional pardon.

FLUB DUBS By JESS RODGERS

Say, look! It is only 95 miles to Pecos and the game there does not start until 8:15 tomorrow night so why not just lock up practically everything here in town by about six Friday afternoon and everybody take off for the Reeves county capital?

The game will be exactly that—"The Game"—for the Bulldogs. If they lose then one more time their chances of coping a district pennant are practically nil, but if they are able to hand the Eagles a thorough trouncing it will help them in every way, particularly their mental outlook for the game with the Wink team which must also be played away from home on the 25th of this month.

The Bulldogs will have plenty of incentive to win the game tomorrow night as revenge is the force that makes people do things they are thought to be impossible of doing and revenge is what the team will be after in the game with the Eagles.

It was that team that knocked the local boys for a loop last year when they felt that they had the championship cinched after defeating the powerful Wink Wildcats after that team had won a streak of 33 games without a defeat.

The team is confident—and not over-confident—that they will cop tomorrow night but their job will be easier if they have a large number of Midland fans on the sidelines giving them their vocal support.

Playing on their home field, the Eagles seem to be generally favored to cop the game but we cannot say.

Pecos publicity builders for the game are calling it a duel of Kelson vs. Midkiff and wagering that the hero of the game will be the one to bring light of the contest but neither will do anything unless they have a line in front of them opening the door to a big game.

Crum, Pecos fullback, is liable to do more damage to the Midland team than Kelson. It is an admitted fact that Kelson is liable to get loose anytime and be off for the races but Crum is the pile-driving type of fullback and it is almost impossible to pull him down without his gaining a yard or two. Kelson is at his best only on end runs and quick stabs off tackle and if the Midland ends charge in there and bust up his interference and leave him open for a few teeth-jarring tackles by Prothro and Adams then we believe he can soon be taught to leave the ball-carrying to other mates.

Kelson is good at only one thing—carrying the ball—and if Midkiff can gain control of his game then Kelson should see Midland complete a bunch of passes right under his nose as a defensive player Kelson simply does not know how to play.

If the Midland line functions as it should then it is going to see the "Touchdown Twins", Wofford and Midkiff, go for plenty of yards tomorrow night.

Final guess: Midland 13, Pecos 0. But not give any points.

TEAM BEING WORKED HARD BY COACH IN PREPARATION FOR GAME WITH PECOS

With the Pecos line outweighing that of the Bulldogs on an average of five pounds per man Coach Baumgarten is working his men hard this week for the game in Pecos, Friday night.

The Midland backfield averages 154 to 145 for the Eagles but it is the line that must clear the way for the men and most of the attention of the coach has been devoted to the linemen this week.

Passing has also been worked on a lot this week and Baumgarten is hopeful that phase of the Midland game will finally start clicking. In two games thus far this season the Bulldogs have not completed a single pass.

The game will be largely a "make or break" affair for the Bulldogs because if they lose their chance of going far in the league this season will be almost nil as they also have to play Wink, admittedly stronger than Pecos, on that team's field.

To win the game tomorrow night the Bulldogs will have to successfully stop Kelson, 125 pound speed demon, and Crum, 170 pound fullback and line plunger deluxe. Medaniel, Pecos end, is also one of the outstanding players of the Pecos team and reputed to be a pass catcher extraordinary.

The game will start at 8:15 tomorrow night, thus giving a large number of Midland people a chance to drive out there after getting off work here tomorrow afternoon. It is expected that the Midland delegation will be the largest for the game ever recorded in that city.

Brent, Francis Star in Yucca Picture

One of the gayest and yet most exciting comedy dramas, involving both the theft of hearts and of costly jewels, is showing today and tomorrow at the Yucca under the title of "The Goose and the Gander."

Kay Francis and George Brent, who made such a hit in "Living on Velvet," are again teamed in the romantic leads. They make an excellent pair of screen lovers and carry out their characterizations with great artistry.

Miss Francis, stately and beautiful, plays the part of an ex-wife whose millionaire husband had fallen for the wiles of a pretty blonde, married her, and then attempts to flirt with his first wife.

George Brent plays the role of the friend who is persuaded by the blonde wife to take her to a mountain resort. He enacts his role convincingly even when put in most embarrassing situations.

Genevieve Tobin gives an excellent characterization of the vampish blonde, who having won a husband from another woman, turns around and flirts with his friend, Ralph Forbes, who gives a fine performance as the philandering husband who likes to flirt himself but who flies into a terrific rage when he finds his wife doing the same thing.

2500 Yards Cloth for Convicts Clothing

HUNTSVILLE. (U.P.)—Approximately 2500 yards of mixed wool and cotton suiting have been ordered by the Prison System for making around 500 discharge suits during the remainder of the year.

"This is just a 'fill in' order," said officials, explaining that women convicts on the Goree farm make 3,000 or more discharge suits each year.

Dark blues, grays, or light blues with pin stripes probably will be the garb that the well-dressed convict will wear on leaving Huntsville for the rest of the year.

In addition to discharge suits, the 125 women convicts on Goree Women's Farm, a short distance south of Huntsville, each year make around 1500 of the white heavy-duty uniforms worn by the convicts in the walls.

Materials for the convict uniforms are not ordered by the yard but by carload lots. About 15,000 are made yearly.

BOSTON. (U.P.)—James Hamon, 26, of Brockton, and William Powers, 23, of Valley Falls, R. I., were among the 209 persons who successfully passed the Massachusetts bar examination. Both were blind.

San Angeloan Given Pardon by Governor

AUSTIN, Oct. 3. (U.P.)—Governor Alfred Woodworth granted a full pardon to Jose Rodriguez who a San Angelo union head charged, was "railroaded" to a two year sentence on a perjury charge in Crockett county.
