Amendments providing for repeal of prohibition, temporary commitment of insane without jury trial, old age pensions, suspended sentences and abolition of the fee system in counties of certain size had piled up majorities late Saturday night, when the Texas Election Bureau tabulated 415,000 votes, with indications that late returns would not upset the results shown.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24.—Piloting her own Stinson plane as the official pathfinder, Ruth Chatterton, motion picture star, will fly ahead of the amateur men and women contestants in the transcontinental air derby she is sponsoring, starting at the Los Angeles Municipal Airport, Sunday morning, August 25.

As the Derby will be judged by points based upon accuracy, skill and cruising speed, the flyers will pursue a leisurely route. Sunday noon they arrive in Yuma, and Tucson that night. The next day brings them to El Paso, Midland and Abilene, Texas. Oklahoma City and Tulsa are the next stops. Then Springfield, St. Louis and Indianapolis, Toledo and Akron are the last control stops, Miss Chatterton and her derbyists arriving at Cleveland August 30 at 2 p. m.

The National Air Races will be officially opened by Ruth Chatterton upon her arrival. For her own Derby she is offering $1000 in cash prizes and an elaborate trophy, on the order of the famous Bendix trophy.

Competing in the Chatterton Derby are approximately a dozen entries. Among them are Gladys O'Donnell, one of the noted feminine flyers who has won races previously, Cecille Hamilton, Mrs. Ethel Sheehy and Mrs. Clarence Prescott. Of the men, Leland Hayward, noted actors' manager in Hollywood and New York, Everett Wedell, and Bill Williams of Los Angeles, Neil McGaffey, Pasadena, Grant Nichols, El Paso, and Earl T. Ricks, Hot Springs, Ark.

Accompanying Miss Chatterton in her plane are Miss Brenda Forbes, young actress, and Bob Blair, manager of the Los Angeles Municipal Aliport, who is technical advisor of the Derby.

AMERICA GIVES YOUTH ITS OPPORTUNITY

Thousands of college graduates today have their diplomas and their education because the government interested itself in them. There will be more thousands

That is the first answer of the National Youth Administration to the query, "What are you doing for American youth with that $50,000,000 fund you were handed, to give it a boost?"

A hundred thousand young men and women were enabled to attend college during the year 1934-35 because the government paid them $15 a month for work on or near the campuses of nearly 2000 colleges. This coming college year of 1935-36, some 250,000 will be so aided. The NYA has taken over and expanded the work started by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration last

This is the newest effort to answer the pressing prob-lem of youth, a problem that is answered in Germany by labor camps, and in Italy by the army. The answer means a chance to work one's way through the college of one's choice, studying what one wishes. The chance is given only to those who could not otherwise attend.

The plan has been tried long enough to get some idea of how it works. The University of Minnesota, for instance, graded its federal-aid students and found that 72.2 per cent of them ranked excellent or superior, while 92.8 per cent were better than average. That would seem to show that the young men appreciate the opportunity being given them.

Note that for the time being, such young men and women are removed from competition for jobs with the unemployed. The work given them at college, assistantships, community work, surveys, library, nursing, community center direction, research of one kind and another, is generally work not competing with wage-earners. It is usually work that impoverished colleges would not be doing at all were it not for this youth program.

Unlimited good may be accomplished by this activity if it succeeds in creating leadership in the persons of men and women better equipped to face today's complex life. Seeds of citizenship yield a greater return if the crop is properly harvested than any other investment the government could make.

You can think much better on your feet, says a Yale professor, as any pedestrian will attest while trying to avoid onrushing motorists.

per month in mid-1935.

At the same time, food which could be bought for the family's normal budget allowance of $30 per month in the second quarter of 1934 cost $34.86 in the corresponding period of 1935. The average housing rental advance of 7.8 per cent had meanwhile increased the shelter item from $25 to approximately $27 for the same living quarters.

The deficit caused by these increases was helped slightly by a small decline in clothing costs. Total changes resulted in an increase in the cost of the average family's living budget to $131.14, as against $130.13 average earnings, or a reduction in net buying power to 99.2 per cent compared with mid-1934. This would necessitate cutting the safety margin for savings and insurance, reducing the quality of food consumed, or otherwise lowering the living standards slightly to compensate.

Stead of fancies.

Stead of fancies.

After trying to write society stories, receive telegrams, and see that election remains are posted all at one and the same time, we begin to feel that tranquillity is among the birthday of Rob Morris, which was held in the Masonic Hall Friday evening.

The feature of the program was a biography of Mr. Morris which was presented by Mrs. H. E. Eaves.

Miss Lydie Watson and Mr. Ned Watson presented a duet and two orchestra selections were given.

Eileen Eiland read "The Judgment Day."

During the social hour, games of 42 were played and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Dewey Pope, Mrs. Nettie Mae Currie, and Mrs. H. P. Fagg were in charge of the program. Mrs. Currie presided.

Stead of fancies.

After trying to write society stories, receive telegrams, and see that election remains are posted all at one and the same time, we begin to feel that tranquillity is among the lost arts. But it's a great life anyway. One never knows what will happen next.

We've never seen as many clever novelties displayed in town as are being shown by the various stores just now.

"Laughter is life saver from woe" reads the title of a sermonette by a popular writer. That, we think, is a reather profound truth. We have always held that no man is beaten in the battle of life who can still laugh.

the battle of life who can still laugh.

We agree with the writer who says, among other things:

There is a tendency to look at the sordid surface of living instead of interpreting it in colorful, sensitive terms. A sense of humor is the best antidote for sensible living today. If you can laugh at the slightly cock-eyed way that fate plans her parties you won't be hurt much if you aren't invited.

An imaginative, colorful viewpoint does not mean looking at life from an angle of avoidance. It does mean accepting life with a full realization of its meaning, which is the thing the unimaginative, humorless person doesn't do. Hershel W. Tom Beasley: Thanks for the story on the game.

Lets consider analogies. Man for man the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants would appear to belong in different leagues. Say to the plate.

The Jal men duplicated the feat of their women team when they made one run in the first inning on three walks and a fielder's choice and managed to hold the lead until the second inning by retiring one Hardware team in order in their half of the first but once the local players got started they made things exceedingly rough for the visiting team.

The Hardware started landing on the offerings of the Jal pitcher in the second inning and made six runs in that frame. They made seven more in the third, and after going scoreless in the fourth they made two in the fifth and nine in the sixth made two in the fifth and fine in the sixth.

B. Hurst, Morgan, D. Hurst, and Roberson each got three hits to lead the Midland hitting. Roberson had a single, double, home run and walk in four trips to the plate.

Jal was only able to get only four four hits off the pitching of Pyron and these wert divided among as many players. No two of the hits came in the same inning.

LANHAM TO MEET BEAN IN SINGLES FINALS; LANHAM AND BALLARD MEET DEBERRY AND POWELL IN DOUBLES

By GEORGES VORBE

The second day of the West Texas Invitational tournament, sponsored by the City Tennis club of Midland, was marked by several very interesting matches.

In the singles, Shorty DeBerry of Abilene defeated R.-F. Powell of the same city in a two set match, marked by DeBerry's smooth playing involving a rather tricky drive and a very confusing change of pace; Powell's game defense and his powerful service were unavailing; the score was 6-0, 7-5.

W. S. Lanham rather easily disposed of the Roswell-Abilene complication of Bean and Turner in spite of Bean's very nice back-hand stroke and Turner's desperate efforts at impossible recoveries.
