WAS UNCLE SAM HASTY IN BANNING DIRIGIBLES?

The United States has taken quite a beating in connection with its attempts to make something of the giant dirigible, and after the Macon fell into the sea off the California coast it was generally admitted that the beating was final and permanent.

Now, however, the ghost of the big sky liner is gliding through the clouds once more. The committee of scientists appointed last March by Secretary of the Navy Swanson reports that Uncle Sam quit too soon. The group wants to see more dirigibles built, and believes that continued experimentation will show that these monster airships really do have a useful function to perform.

Practically all of America's experience with the huge rigid dirigible has been confined to the navy; and it is not an experience which the navy recalls with pleasure.

First there was the Shenandoah, ripped to pieces in a line squall over Ohio. Then there was the Akron—bigger, stronger and safer than the Shenandoah—and the Akron was torn to bits by a storm off the Jersey coast. Last of all was the Macon, which was in its turn an improvement on the Akron; and the Macon, like the others, ran into weather that was a little too much for it, and fell into the sea.

With that dismal record, it is hardly surprising that the Navy Department feels like doing all of its flying in airplanes hereafter.

Yet this report of the scientists is something that can't be laughed off. These men had no ax to grind; they are, furthermore, men who know what they are talking about, and they have had ample opportunity to study the question from all angles.

When they announce, then, that it is their sober belief that big airships like the Akron and Macon can be built and operated with reasonable assurances both of safety and of usefulness, they must be listened to. When they say that it would pay the country to build more of these craft, and experiment thoroughly until airship potentialities and limitations were fully known, their statement demands respect.

After all is said and done, the Germans seem to be able to use these giant airships without dropping them into the ocean. Our technical skill should be at least equal to that of Germany; our willingness to experiment with a spectacular new form of transportation should be fully as great.

It is hard to avoid the feeling that the big rigid dirigible will yet play an important part in man's conquest of space and time. The report of this committee of scientists compels us to consider the whole question from a fresh viewpoint.

—AND SUDDEN DEATH!

Ninety-nine thousand Americans died in accidents last year—one every six minutes, National Safety Council records have revealed.

The only consoling factor in the council's report was its note that there were 3000 fewer deaths than in 1934.

Surely we can ask for no more graphic illustration of our national negligence than these figures. Drunken driving and careless hunting, to mention only two types of accidents, ought to be severely prosecuted as one means of cutting the tragic toll.

This is a public responsibility, and Americans who value their lives will do well to think it over.

It pays to know Joe Louis. Retzlaff stepped up, got a knockdown, and left with $9800.

More Space Is Sold On Centennial Lots

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 14.—Participation of major industrial and commercial organizations in the Texas Centennial Exposition opening here June 6 was increased recently with the announcement of exhibit space purchases by the General Motors corporation and nine leading railroads.

General Motors will take over the 4,600 seating capacity auditorium on the Exposition grounds and will use it for the display of products and the presentation of an elaborate entertainment program which will feature outstanding dance bands, stage, radio and screen talent and other attractions. Improvements of the auditorium contemplate a complete air cooling plant installation, resurfacing of the ground floor of the theatre which will be made level with the stage and the removal of seats in that section to allow visitors an opportunity to move freely through the exhibits of General Motors lines.

Announcement of General Motors participation in the Texas Centennial Exposition was made by W. S. Knudsen, executive vice-president of the corporation.

Approximately $400,000 is involved in the participation of nine major railroads in the Texas Centennial Exposition. They will maintain exhibits in the Travel Transportation Building. Lines which will be represented by animated exhibits covering railroad operations, scenic dioramas and historical displays include Texas and Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Santa Fe, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, Burlington, Southern Pacific, Cotton Belt, Rock Island and National Railways of Mexico. American Railway Express and Pullman Company have also indicated they will maintain exhibits at the Exposition.

"The participation of these railroads in the Texas Centennial Exposition is most significant," said W. A. Webb, general manager of the Southwest's first World's Fair.

"No other exposition of recent years has had this extensive railway maintained exhibits and it is indicative of the value carrier lines place on this form of advertising."

YOUNG TEXANS RECEIVE NYA AID

Grand Total of Part Time Jobs in 30 Days Is 17,325

AUSTIN, Feb. 14.—Through the National Youth Administration 8,371 young Texans have been given part-time employment in the last thirty days.

The figures were announced by Lyndon B. Johnson, state NYA Director, after a check-up with representatives in 20 Texas districts. In addition, 1,312 have been assigned to work, and jobs have been made available for 7,642 others. The grand total of part-time jobs provided by the National Youth Administration in the 30-day period is 17,325.

The boys and girls are working on 467 projects scattered throughout the state. A total of $417,378 is being expended by the NYA and co-operating sponsors are contributing approximately 40 per cent of the entire cost of the projects. The remaining funds of the $450,000 allocated to Texas are being used in projects approved daily.

The youngsters are working on various projects which will be useful memorials to their efforts. Chief among these are 150 "pocket-size" parks, so called because of their tiny size. The small pleasure grounds are a pipe dream of Gib Gilchrist, state highway engineer. The highway department is sponsor of the construction of the parks and also of school bus stops and gravel school walks.

Other work includes the beautification of school grounds and the improvement of recreational facilities. Youths are also assisting in the organization and leading of recreational and community activities.

Girls, too, have an active part in the NYA program. In several districts, sewing room projects are under way. Many are working in libraries, repairing and cataloging books. Some are employed in school cafeterias and others are doing clerical work in public service offices.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Vice President John N. Garner have been invited to open the University Centennial Exposition in the first breaking of ground for the Texas Memorial Museum on the campus of the University of Texas on June 7th.

HAVEN FOR THE CONDEMNED

EVERY once in a long while a small boat is washed ashore on the island of Trinidad, off the northeast coast of South America, and two or three exhausted, unkempt men drag themselves out in relief. They are convicts from that dread Devil's Island, who took a chance against the sea and won. Having landed on this British isle, they are safe from return to their tragic exile.

Port of Spain, capital of this island where lakes of asphalt exist, is a city as magnificent as it is hard to approach. When Columbus sighted the great rocks that rose as sentinels against outsiders, he called them "Bocas del Dragon," or the Dragon's Mouths. There are four of these stern sentinels, passages so narrow and treacherous that only experienced navigators can guide their ships through them.

The 1-cent stamp of Trinidad's latest issue pictures the First Boca, a passage so difficult that few captains attempt it.

Klaus Abegg who for years was connected with the Field Museum in Chicago as a preparator of Habitat groups has been appointed to the staff of the Texas University Centennial Exposition and will assist in the preparation of exhibits for Division of Zoology. All exhibits for the University Centennial Exposition will be prepared with a view to placing them in the Texas Memorial Museum.

Texas Centennial half-dollars proceeds from the sale of which will be used in building the Texas Memorial Museum on the campus of the University of Texas in Austin are now on sale in 314 banks in 236 Texas towns. The Texas Memorial Museum Coin campaign under the direction of Beauford H. Jester of Corsicana will be conducted throughout the entire state in order to give every person the opportunity to help build the museum by the purchase of Centennial coins.

The Sports Horn

Bill Collins, President of the Permian Basin baseball league, has issued a call through the secretary of the league, Fred Haddock of Texon, for towns interested in entering a team in the league this year to have representatives at a meeting in McCamey on the afternoon of March 1.

Collins, a resident of Midland after several years at McCamey, is confident of an eight-team league this year for the first time in the history of the organization. Texon, Iran, Ozona and Crane have already signified their willingness to enter the league and have started players to conditioning. Other towns that Collins is hoping will enter are Odessa, McCamey, Midland and Big Spring of Wink. Also a possibility exists that San Angelo might want to enter.

In view of the economic situation in West Texas this year there is no reason why Collins' vision cannot become a reality. Any of the above named towns are thoroughly capable of supporting a team in the league, if they are placed in the hands of managers that are interested in really having a winning team.

What Midland will do in regards to entering the league remains uncertain, but only a short time ago "Dutch" Baumgarten and Fred Pipkin announced their intention of promoting a semi-pro team here that would make things warm for any other clubs in the section. Whether they are still planning that is unknown to this department. Midland will support a winning team. That has been proven more than once, and with the population of the city at its peak as it now is, all that would be asked of a manager would be that he place a team on the field that could and would play baseball.

To us, Baumgarten and Pipkin are logical ones to head a club here, but should they back out there are others that would be glad to inherit the opportunity. More than one other person has admitted an interest in promoting a club here should Dutch and Fred back out. Cooperation between all groups should be considered immediately.

The Texas Memorial Museum to be built by federal and State aid and from the sale of Texas Centennial half-dollars will be one of popular appeal. It will be erected on the campus at the University of Texas and will give special emphasis to displays from the fields of natural and civic history.

AGGIES ARE GIVEN SMALL CHANCE TO STOP RICE OWLS

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Feb. 14.—In the Southwest Conference cellar at their season's mid-point, Texas Aggie cagers see little hope of their pulling the giant-killer act here Friday night, Feb. 14, against the powerful Rice Institute Owls. It will be their last home tilt until Feb. 29 when they will meet Texas Christian.

Contemplating his team's fortunes to date, Coach "Hub" McQuilhan has planned to revamp his line-up somewhat for the Owls' invasion. The changes may bring Capt. Monte Carmichael, veteran guard, to center, a post he manned effectively for a short while against Baylor, and may elevate Walt Robert, sophomore from Crockett, to a starting guard berth.

Statistically the Owls seem to have a ten-point advantage. They averaged nearly 34 points a game in their first seven tilts and had an average of 29.3 points scored against them. The Aggies defensive average for six games is a tenth of a point better than the Owls' but their offensive average measures only 23.2 points a game.

TIMES SQUARE · NEW YORK
A World-famous Address at the Crossroads of the World

The organization of a group interested solely in giving Midland a winning club and one that the public would support should not be delayed much longer.

There are many things to be done here before a club would become self-supporting. Fencing of the diamond coming first. With a fence around the park the crowds might be slightly smaller but the treasury would be larger. The diamond, particularly the infield, needs a lot of work done on it before it will be fit to play on.

Our suggestion is that a meeting be called within the next week by interested parties and work begun on the organization that will promote a club here this year.

Mrs: "See how little our Electricity Cost this Month."

Mr: "It's not so much the Money that Counts... It's been a Life Saver to You!"

Mrs: "You mean a WIFE SAVER!"

Take the Guess-Work Out of Making Toast

You may be among the hundreds who have discovered that in the face of rising prices, electric service is one of the smallest items of expense in the average household and now costs less than ever before. Compare the cost of electric service to the many ways you use it during the month, for light, radio, cleaning rugs, refrigeration, cooking . . . and you realize more than ever that it is a WIFE-SAVER.

For instance, the electric cleaner eliminates the back-breaking drudgery of sweeping . . . and the cost for electricity is only 1/2 cent an hour. Light for an evening's reading for the entire family costs only a few pennies . . . the radio costs only about 1/2 cent an hour. Other uses of electricity are also cheap. Let electricity do more work for you.
