Hauptmann Is Again Prepared for Execution

REPORT HOFFMAN IS PREPARED TO ISSUE A REPRIEVE

Fisher Demands Jury Study Charges on Wendel

JURY ADJOURNS "Last Mile" Will Be Started at 7:00 C. S. T.

TRENTON, Apr. 3. (AP)—Hunterdon county prosecutor Anthony Hauck Jr., today announced C. Lloyd Fisher, Hauptmann counsel, had demanded the grand jury convene to consider kidnap charges against Paul Wendel.

Hauck said that he planned to confer with Attorney General David Wilentz today. He reported that TRENTON, N. J., April 3. (AP)—Attorney General Wilentz advised Prison Warden Mark Kimberling late today that execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann must be carried out this week unless there is a reprieve, court stay, or clemency by the pardons court.

Fisher said Wendel might be guilty of kidnaping the baby, which, Fisher wired Hauck, "admittedly occurred in Hunterdon county."

Meanwhile Hauptmann's head was shaved again in preparation for his electrocution tonight at eight o'clock, (seven o'clock central standard time) after the Mercer county grand jury had adjourned. It was announced that Bruno would not request a stay of execution.

Colonel Mark O. Kimberling, prison keeper, declared "as it now stands it looks as if the execution will go through." Referring to the Wendel "confession" angles he said "I am sure it is not settled."

Observers believed Governor Hoffman might take Fisher's demand for a jury probe as cause for a second reprieve. A close associate of the governor said Hoffman was prepared to grant another reprieve, but the governor's office refused to comment on the report.

"IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS" EXPECTED LATER TODAY

BROOKLYN, Apr. 3. (AP)—District Attorney William Geoghan said today that he expected "important developments" this afternoon in connection with "Paul Wendel's story that he was kidnaped and forced to sign the Lindbergh abduction 'confession.'" He said Wendel's confession was found true as far as the investigation had gone.

One-Time Ranch Headquarters Is Burned Thursday

ODESSA, April 3.—The remaining building in Judkins, once thriving ranching community headquarters, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin early Thursday morning. Rejoicing Christians Again Await Palms

From time immemorial the palms with which Jesus was greeted upon his re-entry to Jerusalem have played a prominent role in religious observance throughout the world, as joyful Easter has approached in tropical climes, as shown above, field hands are busy cutting palm branches which had been properly whitened by compressing the crowns of the trees for the previous 10 months, and shipping them to churches, everywhere. There they are blessed and distributed to the pious on Palm Sunday, the beginning of the Holy Week which culminates in Christianity's great Holiday, Easter Sunday, commemorating the Resurrection of Christ.

Shows Sulphur Water

Hopes for production from Magnolia No. 1 State-Walton waned with the recovery of lime cores showing sulphur water saturation. The test is believed to have entered the water horizon at 3,690 although the cores were from 3,691 to 3,695. The No. 1 State-Walton is shut down today pending decision of operators to plug and abandon or drill deeper. No estimate is available on the rate at which water is being made.

Located in section 7, block B-3, public school land, the Magnolia No. 1 State-Walton is about two miles east of Winkler's Sayre pool. Although it is reported running 230 feet higher than some of the pool wells and 111 feet lower than the Leonard 1 Lanehart Oil Spray.

Military Leaders to Meet in London Next Week

READY TO FIGHT Britain, France and Belgium Prepared To Unite

By Associated Press
Germany today flatly refused to promise not to fortify the Rhineland, even temporarily, in a note to the Locarno powers. The Reich said it was unable to make any "contribution" with respect to fortifications.

Foreign secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons at the same time that Britain, France and Belgium are ready to fight as Allies if attacked by Germany, but that Britain was anxious to discuss permanent peace with Hitler.

The military staffs of the three nations will probably meet next week to discuss united action in the event of hostilities.

An Italian report said that Fascist troops had reached the strategic Lake Tana area, vital to Britain. Italy reiterated Mussolini's promise that British interests there would be respected.

London sources foresaw direct peace talks between Italy and Ethiopia as Everett Colson, Sclessie's most trusted adviser, left Addis Ababa for Egypt for a conference with an Italian representative.

Baptistry Picture Will be Unveiled at Christian Church

The picture painted by Mrs. G. H. Butler, pioneer Midland resident, for the baptistry of the First Christian church will be unveiled Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. The scene is a view of the mountain country of Galilee, with the beautiful river winding its way through the hills to the low lands, a mile below. As the river journeys it passes olive trees in bloom, and beautiful wooded sections and on down into the valley, where the earth is filled with beautiful blossoms, representing spring time in the Old Country. The picture is eighteen feet long and seven feet high.

"All who have viewed the picture agree that it is one of the most beautiful baptistry pictures they have ever seen," Rev. J. E. Pickering said.

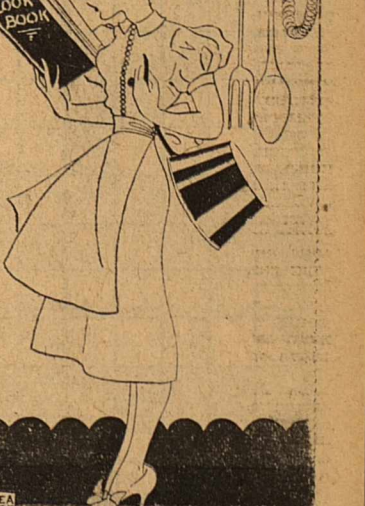

The Christian Church has only recently completed a modern baptistry, when the Bible School annex was completed and the auditorium remodeled. With the added beauty of the picture, the church possesses one of the most beautiful auditoriums and church plants in this section of the state.

BEHIND THE SCENES -IN- WASHINGTON By RODNEY DUTCHER Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Gentlemen of the AAA are heading out of Washington in all directions, armed with portable blackboards and large supplies of chalk. With these they will undertake to explain how the individual farmer can participate in the soil conservation program of 1936 and collect his portion of the $470,000,000 which Congress has appropriated for payments for such participation.
It is estimated that 80 per cent of American farms will be under the program and each farm will be a separate problem, to be solved by community and county committees.
Experts, however, have been busy working out "examples" which can be presented to state and county committees now to show how the regulations should operate under a given set of conditions—and there are as many such sets of conditions as there are combinations in a deck of cards.
Some experts say it is all horribly confusing and others say it is as easy as pie when you get to understand it. Anyway, given below is an "example," worked out for the cotton belt, which may be illuminating, although rates, types of farming, productivity, and many other factors present innumerable variations.

A Cotton Belt Example

Cameron County Will Spend Half-Million

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—More than half a million dollars worth of new construction has been started, or announced, for Cameron county, including a $200,000 cotton compress near the Brownsville-deep water port. Other buildings projected involve $200,000 in new construction at the Port Isabel turning basin and a $75,000 development by the Texas Company at the Brownsville port in addition to considerable smaller building in the section. The large commercial mark a change in building in the Valley federal-financed to commercial, privately financed developments. Several large construction projects in the county are nearing completion.

90-Year-Old Brands Will Be Exhibited

CUERO, Texas. (AP)—Ninety-year-old De Witt county cattle brands will be included in the cattle brand exhibit at the Centennial Central Exposition in Dallas. Eleven thousand three hundred and twenty cattle brands have been registered in this county.

of "soil-building payments" if he plants the shifted acres in soil-building crops—which include alfalfa, clovers, field peas, soy beans, lespedeza and other legumes—or takes other steps to improve fertility of his land. The rate here is limited to $1 an acre for soil-building and soil-conserving crops and is set by state committees. This type of payment is designed to offer special consideration for farmers who already have large acreage in soil-conserving crops. The same 130-acre farmer, if he planted his shifted land with soy beans or cow peas and left the forage on the land, might collect a dollar for each of those 17 1/2 acres as well as for the lespedeza acres, which would be $32.50 in soil-building payment and a maximum of $218.75 on his farm. Special bases are provided for cotton, tobacco, sugar, rice, peanuts, and flax. Generally, it is required that total acreage of soil-building and soil-conserving crops must be at least 20 per cent of the farm's soil-depleting base if payment is to be made. Farmers can't be paid for changing more than 15 per cent of the soil-depleting base to conserving uses—with exceptions to the former rule where there's no soil-conserving base to start from.

How It Works in Corn Belt A corn belt farmer with a soil-depleting base of 140 acres might find himself asked this year to put 50 acres in corn, 40 in red clover, 30 in oats, and 30 in wheat. The red clover would include 21 acres shifted, presumably, from land which has been used for corn, the 21 acres being equivalent to the 15 per cent of soil-depleting base for which payments are permitted. At the national average of $10 an acre for such payments, he would receive $210, although it might be more or less according to the normal rate of yield. Assuming he does something to improve the red clover 40 acres—such as liming, seeding, or tilling—he might also receive another $40 in soil-building payment, making a total of $250. On the basis of such examples as these, which will soon be presented to them, millions of farmers must determine whether it is to their best advantage to participate in the program and at the same time build up their soil. FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

The inelasticity of the average dollar is a source of perpetual wonder to us.

We can't decide which we really prefer as a lesser evil—sandstorms, undue heat, or cold weather.

"Bluebonnet Blue," the Centennial color, has made its official debut. It was worn by Miss Janice Jarrett, of San Antonio, who is known as America's most-photographed girl. The color's official display to the fashion world was made in a gown designed especially for the occasion by Vogue.

The shade, copied from the famous flower, is attractive in crepe and especially tempting in georgette. If the sheer we are thinking of still retains the name of former years.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has the happy faculty of doing the tactful thing which will endure her to thousands. Just recently she chose her Easter dress, two dresses in fact, from material whose designs were drawn by high school girls in New York.

Results: She has two lovely dresses and the worshipful goodwill of hundreds of girls who think (ungrammatically) "Why, it might have been me who made that design."

No one can tell better than you self how many hours sleep you need each night. Most people require between seven and eight—some six—but the ones who can get along on less than six are few and far between. The woman who cares about her beauty ought to make simple, but rather exact tests to determine how much sleep she should have in order to feel energetic and good natured about ninety percent of the time.

For one week go on with your regular sleeping habits, but each morning when you get out of bed, jot down in a notebook as accurately as you can exactly how you feel. Are you dying to get back into bed? Does your head ache? Does your neck feel tired? Do you resent, even slightly, the cheerfulness of some member of the family? Answer honestly, and save the answers.

The following week sleep one hour longer each night. Analyze your mental and physical feelings every morning, and save this record. At the end of the week, compare the two lists. If the second doesn't make pleasanter reading than the first, begin the third week by increasing your nightly sleeping one hour more. Each morning, make the same kind of test and write down the answers. If these are even more discouraging than those of the first week may be you've been getting too much sleep all along. Try less for a few days and see what happens.

AS A TEXAN, WHAT WOULD YOU SAY?

This Picture Tells the Story of the Massacre at Goliad, March 27, 1836. Col. James W. Fannin, with 371 Texans, surrendered to the Mexican army after a two-day fight on Coeto Creek. The Texans were marched back to Goliad, where they were treacherously shot down en masse. Only 20 of the 371 escaped. If you had been one of these Texans what would you have said when told you were to be shot? See the small sketch to the right.

Manufacturing in Texas Expanding

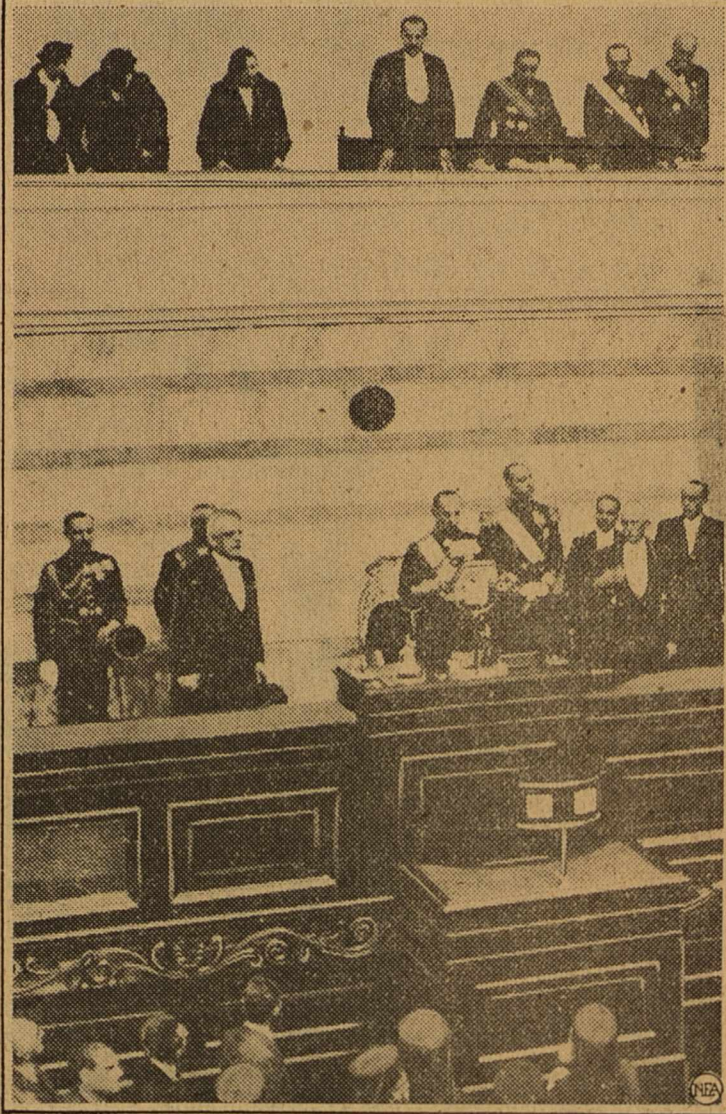

AUSTIN, Texas.—Reflection of Texas' expansion as a manufacturing state is seen in the 1936 issue of the Directory of Texas Manufacturers, just published by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas. This is the second edition of this directory, the first having been published in 1933, and the Bureau plans to make it a biennial publication hereafter. The directory has been enlarged, revised and brought up to date in an effort to present as clearly and concisely as possible a true picture of Texas industry at the present time. Copies may be obtained directly from the Bureau, a nominal charge being made to cover printing and mailing costs.

directory, many changes, national and world wide, have taken place which have affected industry in every section of the United States," Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the Bureau, explained. "The effects of many of these changes and influences on various Texas industries are mirrored in the directory pages.

"More than four hundred manufacturing plants have been closed since a survey was made in 1933, while approximately one thousand new firms have been established since that time," he continued. "It is particularly interesting to note the advancement made by certain types or classes of industries for the three-year period. Petroleum refining has shown a steady increase both in number and capacity of refineries in operation. The recent establishment of new plants for the manufacture of heavy chemicals indicates the possibilities for the development of this type of industry in Texas.

"The number of plants engaged in the canning of fruits and vegetables has shown a substantial increase, both in the Rio Grande Valley and in other sections of the State. For instance, the present directory lists twenty firms now canning fruit juices, in contrast with one manufacturer listed in 1933. Although Government restriction of cotton planting has resulted in the curtailment of production, the number of plants processing cottonseed and its by-products, shows a gain. This is noted particularly in the number of edible-oil refineries reported—twenty-five are listed in the 1936 directory as compared with five mentioned under the heading 'Cooking Oil' in the 1933 edition. In making comparisons, however, attention is called to certain changes in classifications made in the present edition, also, to the greater number of manufacturers reporting and to the more detailed information submitted in the reports."

Crisis Grips New Greek Chamber

Though all was order and dignity when King George II of Greece opened the new Chamber in Athens, as shown above, the political tension which has prevailed since he was recalled from exile last year showed no signs of abating. Since the new Greek parliament is made up almost equally of fiery anti-Venizelists and their opponents, the fate of the new Greek governing body really rests upon King George's prestige, menaced recently when army followers of the late General Kondylis warned the monarch not to attempt to grant amnesty to pro-Venizelos officers who fled from Greece during the last revolution.

In compiling data for the directory, lists were copied from the '33 edition for the towns listed and sent to the chambers of commerce asking them to check the names, and add new firms, cross out those names of those no longer in operation, and return the revised list. Dr. Buechel said. Letters asking for the lists of manufacturers were also sent to the chambers of commerce for towns which did not appear in the 1933 directory. A similar request was sent to the postmaster of every town in Texas having a population of 500 or more and which did not have a chamber of commerce. Upon receipt of these lists, a form letter and questionnaire were sent each manufacturer reported, requesting the necessary information for listing his firm and explaining the purpose of the work. In this way the Bureau has sought to contact every manufacturer in the State.

The first section of the directory lists the names of the manufacturers alphabetically under the towns. Opposite the name is a letter or symbol indicating the distribution of the products manufactured. The subject headings are arranged alphabetically, listing under each subject the names of the manufacturers of the various products.

The number of towns listed has almost doubled since the publication of the 1933 edition; partly, because of the inclusion of classes of industries omitted in the previous issue. The total number of pages has increased from 122 to 185.

Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the University Bureau, in his report, "Causes of Unemployment in Texas and Ways of Increasing Unemployment," gives a detailed account of conditions existing in Texas today. Mr. Elmer H. Johnson, industrial geographer of the Bureau, in his report, "Possibilities of Industrial Expansion in Texas," presents an interesting picture of the possible future of the State. These two reports presented as Part I and Part II of "Studies of Employment Problems in Texas," together with the directory of this year, furnish an effective study of the State's industrial development—its possibilities for greater advancement and its present status. Dr. Buechel added.

The chief purpose of the directory are to stimulate interest in Texas as manufactured goods at home and abroad, and therefore, create a larger market; to advertise Texas industries outside as well as within the State; and to serve as a convenient and reliable guide, and quicker means of contact between those who buy and those who sell Texas Products, it was explained.

Astaire and Rogers
Do Their Stuff in
"Follow the Fleet"

Ginger Rogers fans are handed a treat in RKO Radio's musical, "Follow the Fleet" coming to the Yucca—Preview Sat. night and Sun.—Mon. and Tuesday in which the vivacious titan-haired star dances four times and sings two of Irving Berlin's haunting melodies.

Three of Ginger's dance numbers are done with her bewildering partner, Fred Astaire. They perform a sizzling hot collegiate ballroom routine to the tune of "Let Yourself Go."

Later, they do a screamingly humorous eccentric pantomime dance to "All My Eggs in One Basket," and they also join in a vocal rendition of this number.

For the final, Miss Rogers and Astaire perform a different interpretative dance to "Let's Face the Music and Dance."

Dressed in rehearsal short, Ginger establishes the fact that she has no peer as a tap dancer as she goes through her solo routine to the strains of "Let Yourself Go."

Miss Rogers and Astaire are supported by a "top-hole" cast including Harriet Hilliard and Randolph Scott and Astrid Alwyn.

Strange Cult in a Wild Utah Retreat
Labors to Bring Dead Member to Life

BLANDING, Utah.—About the body of a woman, lying in graceful repose in a casket, clusters one of the strangest religious cults ever seen in this state, which has seen a great many.

In the rough desert of southeastern Utah, in a spot of wild beauty called Photograph Gap, clusters almost a score of men and women in a dozen houses built around that of Mrs. Marie M. Ogden. Formerly a Newark, N. J., clubwoman, Mrs. Ogden heads the cult of Truth Seekers.

Mrs. Ogden and her followers firmly believe that the body of Mrs. Edith Pakchals, who died in February 1935, will come alive under their ministrations. The body is perfectly preserved and each day receives "healing" treatments at the hands of "Sister Ogden."

Already, Mrs. Ogden believes the full spiritual life of Mrs. Pakchals has been revived.

"Recently," she adds, "the work of bringing back material life was begun. Now when I place my hands on the flesh, I can feel throbs of life."

Visions Resurrection
"We all arise after death," Mrs. Ogden explains. "We return to material life and perform deeds under the direction of the divine spirit guiding us. I have been given the power to resurrect the dead, but I have not the power to appoint the time of resurrection. So I must keep on following directions until 'the time'."

The body of Mrs. Pakchals, so perfectly preserved that health authorities have found no ground for insisting on burial, lies in a half-darkened room from which the desert is cut off by a curtain.

The house is furnished with taste and refinement, filled with furnishings brought west by Mrs. Ogden when she left Newark. From the small veranda, blue mountains are seen across an expanse of red and green pinon hills interlaced by vividly colored canyons.

Gold Mine Aids Cult
Mrs. Ogden points to a great white conical rock on the mountain. Out of it some day, she is convinced, will spring a great fountain of water, bringing flowers and fruit to the valley and making a new Eden.

Meanwhile, cult members succeeded in developing an old gold mine shaft in the nearby mountains, and income from this is to be used in building a community house and otherwise developing the 640-acre tract occupied by the devotees of the cult.

Members come from all walks of life. Two are trained nurses, several are business and professional men and women. The movement is expanding, and several branches have been started, one in the wilderness of western Idaho.

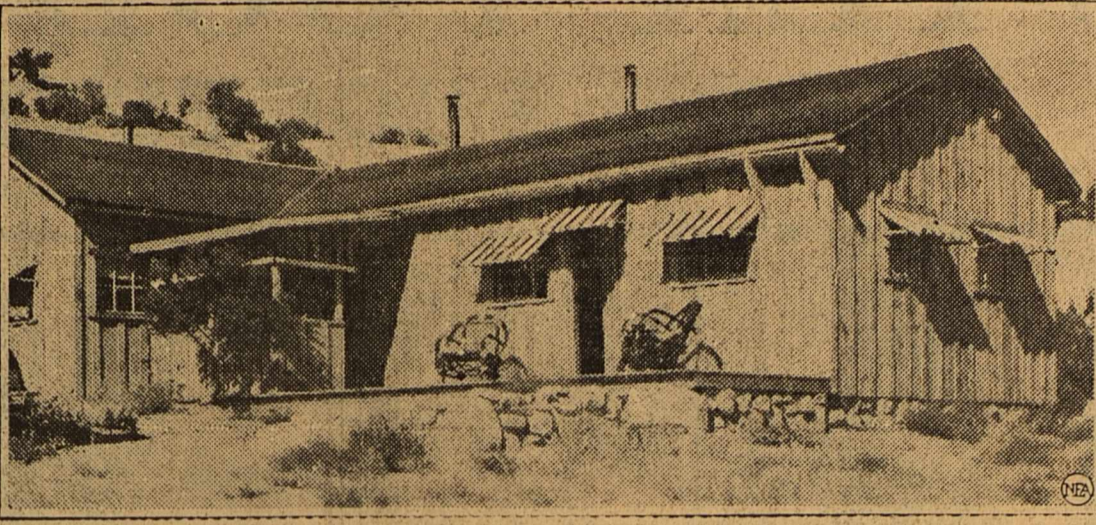

For many years Mrs. Ogden had studied occultism and religion. When her husband died, she determined to devote all her time to her beliefs, and established her colony two years ago. The dead Mrs. Pakchals was a member.

Hears Dead Speak
Now each day, at the appointed hour, Mrs. Ogden enters the half-darkened room, and stands beside the body until she receives the command to begin the work of bringing back life.

The "laying on of hands" figures in the rite, as Mrs. Ogden contends that it is through her fingers that contact with spiritual world is completed.

There is no sound in the dim room, yet Mrs. Ogden says she can hear the voice of the sleeping woman speaking to her, and feel the beating of her heart.

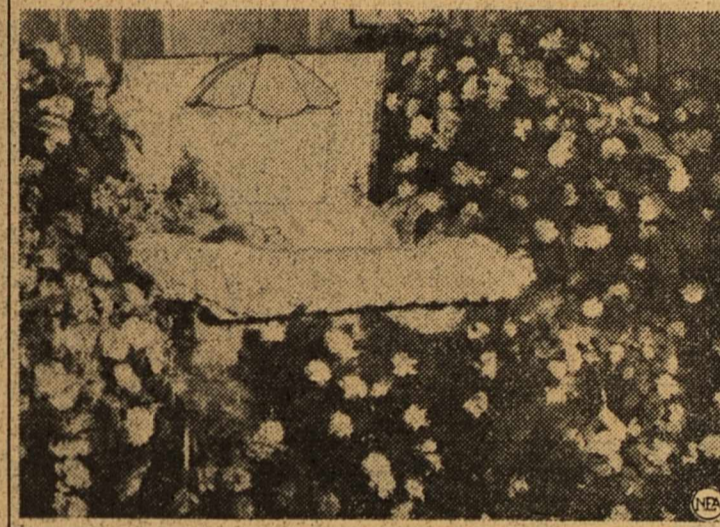

The desert country at evening is filled with an awful beauty. It is a setting that draws from Mrs.

The "House of Truth" in Photograph Gap, southeastern Utah, where the strange religious cult of Truth Seekers hopes to bring a dead member back to life.

Left, Mrs. Marie Ogden, former Newark, N. J., clubwoman, head of the cult. Right, the bier of Mrs.

Edith Pakchals, who died in 1935 and whose body is given daily "healing treatments," by Mrs. Ogden.

Ogden a quiet expression of her faith: "Silence and peace and beauty forever, just as we shall live forever."

Students Eligible For Scholarships

ITHACA, N. Y.—The ambition of a self-made man to help outstanding American young men securing an engineering education at Cornell University, would award each year thirty McMullen Regional Scholarships in Engineering, beginning September 1936, thus doubling the number of McMullen awards of last year.

John B. McMullen, of Norwalk Conn., president of the Atlantic Gulf and Pacific Dredging Company, bequeathed to Cornell in 1923 a portion of his estate, consisting largely of stock in his dredging company. The income from this going concern has steadily mounted until the McMullen Fund at Cornell now exceeds a million dollars.

Until last year aid was furnished only to engineering students in attendance at the University. Last year the benefits of the fund were also made available to students in leading preparatory and high schools in fifteen regions of the United States outside of New York state.

Next September thirty incoming students in these regions, to be selected on the basis of scholarship, character, and personality, will each receive cash scholarships ranging from $800 to $1,000 at the rate of $200 a year for four or five years, depending on the course selected.

In Southern Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Texas, which constitute Region Number 10, two scholarships will be awarded. Candidates may secure blanks from the school principals or directly from the University. After the blanks have been received by Dexter S. Kimball, dean of the College of Engineering at Cornell, the five best candidates will be selected by a faculty committee. These names will then be submitted for final recommendation to an alumni committee, of which Shurly R. Irish, Union Electric Light & Power Co., St. Louis, is chairman. The appointments will then be made by President Livingston Fairand.

The holder of the McMullen scholarship from Region 10 this year is William H. Scott, of Omaha, Neb.

Winners of the award next year will be permitted to elect any of the four-year courses in civil, mechanical, or electrical engineering offered by the College of Engineering at Cornell. An additional course available next year will be the five-year course in chemical engineering. A student may pursue a straight, civil mechanical, or electrical engineering course or he may elect in each of these divisions a course in administrative engineering, which offers a combination of engineering and business training.

In commenting on the scholarships Dean Kimball, one of America's foremost industrial engineers, stated:

"There is a growing conviction among those conversant with the trend of the time that in the solution of our economic and national problems minds trained in science and technology must play an important and ever expanding part. Any step toward offering such training to the best intellects among youth in the country is therefore of national service, and Cornell University is glad to be able to contribute in modest degree to that end through the medium of these scholarships."

PENNY WISE SAYS:

"A penny does a lot of things when it is spent for electric service. Who, for example, would want to beat rugs by hand when an electric cleaner will do the work for 1/4 cent?"

If you paid for electric service each day, just like you buy groceries, this is about the way your daily bills for electric service would look. The cost of electric service in the average home is very similar to the amounts shown in the illustration above, but will vary according to the daily use of electricity.

But it is impractical to divide the cost of electric service for each appliance. Yet at the end of the month, your electric service bill accounts for these few cents worth of electric service you use each day.

When you receive your electric service bill, think back over the many times you have used electric service during the month; divide the total by the number of days and see how little electric service costs in comparison with other expenses.

Vacuum Cleaner—Sales & Service
 After 12 years of service on cleaners, I recommend the Eureka, because it cleans hair and lint instantly, as well as embedded dirt. The new motor driven brush Eureka removes more dirt per minute than any cleaner made, regardless of price. Also cleans walls and furniture; paints, sprays wax on floors, polishes, kills moths, shampoos rugs and purifies the air. See a new Eureka demonstrated in your home before you buy, selling at $39.50 and up. Used cleaners—Eurekas, Hoovers, Electrolux and others. Cleaners on display at the Light Co. and Barr's Furniture.
