LIQUOR DEALER IS ARRESTED IN 6-YEAR OLD CASE

Murder of Woman, Child Believed Solved

CORPUS CHRISTI, April 7 (AP)—A prominent South Texas liquor dealer, Wilbur Garton, was arrested here Monday under what George E. Lawman, Nueces County deputy sheriff, said were murder warrants in connection with a six-year-old West Texas double slaying case.

Officers from Fort Stockton left shortly after the arrest with Garton en route, they said to the West Texas town.

Garton, whose business is one of the largest of its kind in this section was detained in connection with the deaths of a woman and a girl whose bodies, wrapped in a sheet and a blanket, were found in the Pecos River by fishermen.

Officers veiled their investigation with an air of secrecy and Sheriff Will Rooney and Deputy Walter Stapp of Pecos County left quietly for Fort Stockton shortly after the arrest, which was made by Nueces County officers.

The West Texas officers were accompanied by State Rangers A. R. Mace and W. H. Kirby.

Sheriff Rooney's party was not expected at Fort Stockton until tonight and his deputies there protested they knew nothing about developments in the case.

The bodies of the woman, apparently about 35, and the girl, about 12, were taken from the river 35 miles north of Fort Stockton after they were hooked by a fisherman from a bridge Feb. 21, 1930.

An autopsy showed the child apparently was choked to death and the woman was beaten fatally. The bodies, that of the child dressed in a school dress and the woman's in a nightgown were wrapped in a sheet and a blanket. Two rings were found on the woman and one on the child.

The bodies were viewed by hundreds at a local mortuary at that time and once were exhumed for inspection. Officers said, however, they never were identified.

The Midland car carried Mr. and Mrs. Carl Covington and Mrs. Paul Chapas of Lake Charles, La.

Tonight's stop is scheduled at El Paso. H. W. Stanley, president of the organization and on the staff of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, is head of the motorcade.

Sub-Strato Sea Hop, Air Ace's Aim

A 5,000-mile sub-stratosphere flight from Dallas, Texas, to Paris, to test benefits of flying in lighter air, is the ambitious aim of Clarence Chamberlin, pioneer ocean pilot, right, with the type of plane he will use pictured above. The Douglas air liner, with two 1,000-horsepower motors, will carry a navigator, radio equipment, about 1,500 gallons of gas, and be sealed for liquid oxygen in the high altitudes. As the hop, set for June, will require 2,000 gallons of gas, Chamberlin plans to refuel over New York, as indicated by the loop on the route shown in the map.

Impetus Given Basin Oil Development By 2 Wells

Huge Producer Seen After Winkler Strike

Yoakum Well Flows 190 Barrels in 15 Hours

Exceeding expectations and definitely opening a new pool in southeastern Yoakum county, Honolulu and Cascade No. 1 Bennett flowed 190 barrels the first 15 hours after shooting with nitro late yesterday. The charge of 370 quarts from 5,078 to 5,260 was set off at 2 p. m., and the well cleaned itself in the first 30 minutes after. It stood for an hour and a half, then at 4 o'clock flowed 33 barrels into tanks in 10 minutes. The next flow occurred at 5:20 p. m., lasting 13 minutes and totaling 20 barrels. The 24-hour gauge is still in progress, and the well is reported flowing by heads.

While the production immediately after a shot is usually larger than can be maintained later, the No. 1 Bennett is making its oil through 7-inch casing and may settle down to a steady flow when tubing is run. It is producing from three distinct oil horizons: 5,094 to 5,096, 5,215 to 5,230 and 5,243 to 5,260. Originally drilled into sulphur water at 5,882, it is bottomed at plugged-back depth of 5,266. Prior to shooting, it was making about 70 barrels daily on swab.

The performance of the Honolulu and Cascade discovery will probably result in a burst of drilling in the vicinity. Other wildcats are already scheduled to start up farther north, and it is likely that the northern part of the West Texas Permian Basin will undergo much exploration in the next few months. Located in section 67B, block D, John H. Gibson survey, the No. 1 Bennett is the most northerly producing oil well in the region.

TEXAS STILL "Land of Mystery" And The Last Frontier

Despite 100 Years History

EAGLE PASS, (AP)—Texas, with a century of history and progress as an independent republic, unit of the Confederacy and member of the Federal Union, still is the land of mystery, the last frontier.

An almost unpopulated wilderness of mesquite and cactus, stretching 102 miles along the Rio Grande between here and Laredo, typifies those sections of this state's geographic and visual medley. Known as the "Indio country," it is a land where bad men hide, smugglers cache their contraband, where rustlers cross the famous river with stolen herds, where coyotes travel the night echoes with their screams.

It is a region almost unknown to men of the cities and remote from the tourists who travel the state's fine highways, yet King Philip of Spain granted the area to Antonio Rivas Cacho in the 16th century. Today, a portion of it is the site of a lonely ranch with barb-wire boundaries reaching many miles to the east and south and fence riders patrol 40 miles of river front.

Antonio Rivas did not trouble to survey the king's largest land, accepted it as a mighty place. In the 19th century, however, the ranch was defined as an area of 10,143,897 varas, or the equivalent of 150,000 acres, the largest in this region.

At the outbreak of the war with Mexico in 1845, Gen. Zachary Taylor sent Gen. William Duncan and a troop of soldiers through this uncharted wilderness to establish Fort Duncan here. So remote were they from the main line of communications they were compelled to build what Jake English, an old settler here says, "was the first telegraph line in Texas."

The wire was strung on tall pine poles along the muddy Rio Grande from the outpost here to Fort McIntosh at Laredo. The poles were more than 40 feet high "to keep Indians from climbing their ladders over the wire and pulling it down." Col. Bullis and his Seminole Indian scouts, known as "Wildcat nigger scouts," had the difficult job of patrolling the telegraph line.

USE OF RAVEN TRAPS ADVISED BY COWDEN

Use of raven traps by ranchmen and farmers is advocated by Elliott P. Cowden, ranching west of Odesa, since for an investment of less than $10 he has done away with more than 1100 ravens.

Cowden built the trap of exceptionally good material and said he could have constructed it more cheaply. He maintains the trap near his ranch house, using clabber or sard milk for bait, and has practically ridden his range of ravens.

He pointed out that if all ranchmen of the country had raven traps near their headquarters places, from 50,000 to 100,000 ravens could be exterminated in a season. The plan of construction is simple, he said, and does not require skilled labor.

The grounds where the eggs will be staged at will be divided into three sections, one section for children of pre-school age, another for children between the ages of 7 and 10 years, and the third section for youngsters above 10 years of age. Plenty of Lions club members will be on hand to care for the throng of expected participants.

The Lions committee in charge of the hunt is composed of Claude O. Crane, chairman; Ellis Conner, Jim Williams and L. E. Jones.

BEHIND THE SCENES

WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 6.—It isn't considered good form to ask why Congress is going to appropriate more than a billion dollars this year for the army and the navy. And anyone who suggests economy or budget-balancing in that direction is sure to be called un-American and Communist.

The Senate army bill appropriates $384,699,619 for military purposes and Roosevelt's budget estimates $620,184,977 for the navy.

If you're still impolite enough to ask why the navy can give you a more definite answer than the army, which seems rather vague as to whom it is going to fight.

The navy is sure that it's going to fight the Japanese sooner or later. That idea is shared by some officials in other quarters. Nobody seems to know how either the Japanese or the American navy could cross the Pacific and wage successful combat so far away from home—but the navy, at least, has a goal.

The army obviously isn't expanding for battle with Canada or Mexico. No one seriously contends that a foreign foe can break through the navy and land troops on our shores.

And you can't get any high army official to admit that the army is being built up—from 115,000 to 150,000 men and hundreds of new planes each year—to invade foreign territory. That's what makes it all so mysterious.

They Fear "Somebody"
Inside the congressional committees on military affairs, when these matters are up, there's only a vague psychology of war—with an unknown foe in some unknown territory—and a vague fear of the "reds".

Someone suggests the Japanese are a long way off and someone else hastens to assure him that the Japanese are smart and might pop in on us by way of Alaska. Another representative or senator suggests that "conditions are pretty bad now and we're likely to need that army at home."

Committee sessions seem dominated by the belief of certain members and certain army officers that the nation is menaced by a Bolshevik revolution. Copeland of New York, in Senate debate last year, emphasized possibility of "internal trouble" and General MacArthur chief of staff who drove out the 1932 bonus army, was always stressing preparation for the necessity of American soldiers subduing American citizens.

Army manuals given instructions on how to attack mobs and in recent years troops have been concentrated nearer industrial centers. All this means, of course, that the army is preparing against strikes and serious labor troubles. Perhaps because it has nothing better to do.

Stick to Old Theory
Instead of building up a small, mobile, mechanized force for quick action in any necessary area, the army sticks to the theory of immediately mobilizing the mass man power of the nation in event of hostilities.

Mobilization plans call for an army of 4,000,000. The peacetime army is scattered over the country now with the idea that it can serve as a skeleton for a vast force and you'd have a hard time pulling it together.

War plans call for an officers' reserve corps and an enlisted men's reserve corps. You'll be interested to know that the former has about 120,000 members and the latter about 6,000.

And next year you're likely to discover that the army needs a lot more than $384,000,000.

No Shock if War Comes
A high state department official, perhaps more conversant with Far Eastern affairs than any other, tells his friends this as to the imminence of a Russo-Japanese war: "I don't think there will be a war very soon. But if I were to wake up tomorrow morning and find the Japanese had started one, I'd be the least surprised man in the world."

Someone Has Blundered
Invitation lists to White House dinners have become such a town laugh that more discretion may be exercised as to the identity of future guests.

The foremost political lawyer-lobbyists with Democratic connections have had no trouble getting themselves invited to the formal dinner parties. It's good for their business.

One of them even wangled an invitation for the head of a race wire service who had retained the lawyer-lobbyist in the face of the prosecution—presumably on the theory that it would impress Democratic U. S. district attorneys.

The most recent bloomer was dispatch of a White House dinner invitation to Democratic State Chairman Elmer O'Hara of Michigan, who had to refuse because a jury was busy finding him guilty on a charge involving campaign funds. By the time of the dinner, O'Hara had been sentenced to from four to five years.

Man Conquers Desert in Giant Aqueduct Project

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
INDIO, Calif., April 7.—On no single vantage point can you stand and gaze at a panorama of the Colorado Aqueduct as you can at nearby Boulder Dam.

This half-completed aqueduct, an engineering marvel, which will carry water from dusty Arizona to southern California, is a greater undertaking than even spectacular Boulder Dam. It is costing nearly twice as much, more cement and supplies are being used, and three times as many men will be employed at peak periods.

Only from a stratosphere balloon would you see a complete picture of this tremendous $220,000,000 job, on which 8,000 men now are working.

Peering downward, you could see the aqueduct, 242 miles long, stretching across deserts and through mountains, like a gash made by a mighty razor. And you could see, tucked away in one corner like a child's building block, the massive chunk of cement that is Boulder Dam.

Mountains Pierced
The only way to grasp the aqueduct's magnitude would be to follow it across the shifting desert sands, through 37 tunnels, up and down rugged hills. It would take you 12 days and nights to do it, but you would be convinced.

You would hold your breath in the 108 miles of damp, rocky, 18-foot tunnels punched through jagged peaks that reach toward the sky.

Between the tunnels, shimmering in desert heat that drives men mad, or Mexico. No one seriously contends that a foreign foe can break through the navy and land troops on our shores.

And you can't get any high army official to admit that the army is being built up—from 115,000 to 150,000 men and hundreds of new planes each year—to invade foreign territory. That's what makes it all so mysterious.

Like a great spider web of steel, when concrete has been poured this framework will be a pipe around the reinforcing rods.

In the parching, killing heat of desert sands, divers submerge in the cool water of tunnels, testing the culvert bottoms.

you would see mile after mile of wide, cement-lined, steel-ribbed canals. Across yet untracked desert wastes, you would see thousands of sweating men scratching out more of these canals.

You would see the great black pipes, 16 feet through climbing rocky hills like serpents. Up these inclines, the water will be pumped, to fall again in mad, swirling rushes downgrade to more canals, more pipes, more tunnels.

Desert "Drivers" Busy
Pushing onward you meet booted engineers who tell you that they are using 170,000 more barrels of cement than were poured in Boulder Dam; that it is taking 41,000,000 pounds of explosives to clear the way for excavation of 45,000,000 cubic yards of rock and dirt.

In the midst of the desert are men in deep-sea diving outfits inspecting the sides of flooded tunnels. Light gleams through the darkness at night—surveyors sighting on them instead of on flags, to avoid the killing heat of the day.

The engineers can tell you of prehistoric animal footprints, millions of years old, dug up from strata below the desert floor; and of the fact that not a single grain of precious metal has been found during all the tunnel-drilling in supposedly rich mineral fields.

Huge Dam to Rise
You would see the five pumping stations which are to lift the flow of water a total of 1617 feet. You might see the operating bills of $5,000,000 every month.

Climaxing your tour, you would come to the Colorado river near Parker, Ariz. There several miles below the Boulder Dam site, you would see men preparing to throw across the stream a $10,000,000 diversion dam, 320 feet high, to capture the water supply for the aqueduct. This water will be diverted from the great Boulder Dam storage reservoir.

Then, at the rate of a billion gallons a day, it will race across the desert and under the mountains to a 40-mile-square reservoir in southern California. From here it will flow to the 13 cities which banded together in 1931 to engineer this gigantic task and to assure themselves a water supply for the future.

Men, not machinery, have been the stars of the big show. There are 8,000 of them laboring in the desert heat and the damp mountain tunnels. And they are no

"hard-rock" men, no experienced miners, but "white-collar" men, butchers, barbers, and salesmen before the depression, rescued from the ranks of the unemployed.

Fight Deadly Heat
Now with drill and jackhammer, these pale-faced, inexperienced "underdogs" are writing engineering history. They have set new records for speed and efficiency. They drove 108 miles of tunnels through solid rock at the rate of 4 1/4 miles a month in peak periods.

Champion drillers on this task were two college boys and a middle-aged man who once sold automobiles.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

Even when we were hugging a coat about us, yesterday morning, we couldn't help admiring those fascinating net dresses that a department store in town is displaying.

There's something intriguing about net, anyway. We never see a net dress without wanting to buy it forthwith.

There was a black net two-piece affair with the wide jacket lapels edged in black patent and the narrow belt of the same material, plus a severe little white collar and cuffs that won a place in our heart instantly.

Another we liked almost as well had large broken white dots on the black net of a one-piece dress and a prim little jacket of the same dotted net lined with crisp black taffeta.

Emphasizing the vogue for patent are also the patent bags which come in a smooth and grooved leather in pastel shades, some being lined in a darker hue.

Numerous articles are now being published in the high class magazines pertaining to cookery in the earlier days of the century or the late 1800's.

Wonder if such an interest in cookery is indicative of an advancing culture—or a return to primitive man's interest in food.

GARDEN GATE GOSSIP

TYPES OF SMALL FLOWERED ANNUAL SUNFLOWERS FOR THE YELLOW BORDER.

Yellow is a cheerful color, and is a favorite with many amateur growers. A yellow border with some blue plantings to go with the pale yellows, scarlet and clear reds for the brilliant yellows, and little lavender for the orange yellows, gives a strip of brilliance and beauty.

Among flowers, the annuals furnish a fine list of yellows of various textures, tones and intensities. The dwarf sunflowers are good for the tall portion of the border. They are dwarf only as compared with their tall varieties, which may grow from 3 to 10 feet. The dwarf reach only 3 feet and have delicate flowers and foliage compared with the old fashioned barnyard sunflowers. They are known as the cucumber-leaved stram, cucumerifolius in the catalogs, and range from creamy white to intense yellows with black centers, and the latest development gives a strain with red zones.

They are easily raised annuals and fine for cutting, the petals being long and often gracefully twisted.

Along with the sunflowers for tall yellows is the hummanna or bush California poppy.

The cathopis, annual co-opsis, with golden flowers zoned with crimson is indispensable in the yellow borders, and the marigolds, both tall and dwarf with their cousins, the favorite calendula or pot marigold, will furnish beautiful cutting material. The California poppies furnish low growing brilliant masses of yellow.

The annual chrysanthemums give softer yellows. In a burnt orange or glistening texture unknown in other annuals are the African

Make The Most of Beauty Treatments, Miss Haviland Says

By ALICIA HART, NEA Service Staff Writer.

Although she thinks the millions of dollars women invest every year in cosmetics and beauty treatments are money well spent, Olivia de Havilland, one of Hollywood's outstanding beauties, doesn't believe for a moment that the majority get full benefit from their expenditures.

"It is not enough to buy the correct creams and lotions for your skin—not enough to cling to regular facial schedules," Miss de Havilland insists. "In order to get the most good from her home routines and her trips to the beauty shop as well, a woman should learn to preserve and protect the beauty she buys."

"For instance, every woman cleanses her face thoroughly at night, of course, and she applies a tonic or astringent especially adapted to her particular type of complexion."

Act to Preserve Facials. "At least three nights a week she uses a good nourishing or tissue cream. To these routines she adds weekly home facials or professional ones, scheduled as often as her finances, the condition of her skin, and the proximity of a beauty shop warrant."

"However, there is something else every girl must do. And this is to give such regular care to the preservation of her facials that the flattering efficacy of them will be lengthened.

"After getting a face treatment from a trained operator, she should form the habit of holding her head up as it was when the beautician finished her complicated manipulations. This prevents lazy chin and neck muscles from sagging."

Then Olivia de Havilland went on to say that each of us should avoid squinting or straining our eyes and frowning when thinking or talking.

Squinting Brings Wrinkles. Squint and frown lines are the forerunners of real wrinkles, you know. Once tiny lines become deep furrows, even the best facials will have little effect.

Remember that time you spend on your face never is time wasted. However, after you have taken an hour from your busy life to treat your skin to a fine homemade egg or oatmeal or milk facial, don't spoil the effects of it by neglecting all regular routines for three or four days. Go on as usual with each of them. Meanwhile, keep forehead smooth and corners of your mouth turned up as they were when you finished the facial treatment.

A LIGHT SMOKE OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

The Sports Horn

By Jess Rodgers

Kathryn Hemphill, young Carolina golf star, continues to reap publicity of varying degrees all over the country, as witness the following article written about her by the Associated Press:

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 7 (AP)—Kathryn Hemphill, who does pretty well with a set of out-moded clubs, thinks she might break into the upper brackets of feminine golf with a kit of modern irons.

The 23 year old Columbia girl golfer disclosed here that when she beat national champion Glenna Colelet Vare in southern tournament play it was the first competition for which she ever used a driver for tee shots.

"I think I'd do a lot better," she declares, "with modern clubs."

The obsolete irons she now has were made before the style in golf balls changed. They supplement a new set of woods given her last Christmas.

Driver Adds 20 Yards.

When she began using a regulation driver instead of her brassie for tee shots this year, her driving average jumped about 20 yards and was a big factor in her victory over Mrs. Vare at Bellaire, Fla., March 13.

With the Christmas-gift "big stick" she out-drove everyone except Babe Didrickson, the long-range gunner of women's golf, in exhibition play.

Kathryn's guiding star, elder brother Melvin Hemphill, says she is both "a natural-born competitor and a natural-born golfer."

From the time she first strayed out on the links with only one club in 1930, her temperament and mechanical control have swept her through tournaments. Her first instinct after learning to keep her eye on the ball was an attempt to knock it farther than any other woman in sight.

The tutelage of brother Melvin, then professional at the Ridgewood Club and now in a similar position at Forest Lake, enabled her to launch a competitive career almost immediately.

She entered the Ridgewood women's tourney six weeks after her first lesson. After swinging into the finals with booming brassie tee shots that offset unskilled play around the greens, she was defeated by Mrs. J. E. Timberlake, who had been club-champion three seasons.

A Week-End Golfer.

That remarkable start sent her on a tournament campaign and she won events up and down the Carolinas. Last May 11 she won the Carolina's women's title at Greenville, S. C. She beat the women's course record here so consistently that local tournaments were abandoned because of a lack of contenders to compete with her.

Working as an office clerk, she does little week-day golfing, but she plays 36 holes every Sunday to keep in practice. She heeded brother Melvin's advice that beginners should not take up a driver until their other play has matured. Proving she had arrived she put together three shots for a total of 583 yards in a recent driving competition at Ormond Beach, Fla.

Kathryn looks forward to a busy spring and summer of competitive golf and she'll try to lift Mrs. Vare's national crown this year.

Fredericksburg Covers Will Be Mailed on May 8

FREDERICKSBURG.—Texas Centennial covers, sponsored by the Gillespie County Historical society and the Fredericksburg chamber of commerce, will be mailed in the Pioneer memorial here on May 8, according to plans now being made. Stamping and cancellation would be in the memorial which is a replica of the old octagonal community church, according to the plan.

The cover design shows the old historical, octagonal community church, town house and fort. Information may be secured from Paul Loerner here.

The special covers are planned to commemorate the arrival of Gillespie County pioneers 90 years ago. Fredericksburg plans its Centennial celebration May 9 and 10 when Founding Anniversary ceremonies will be held.

Warmth Closes Schools.

MEAD, Wash. (U.P.)—Winter weather closes many country schools, but spring closed the schools of this district for several days. With the temperature near 60 degrees, the roads softened and emergency weight restrictions were ordered. All the school buses weighed more than the 6000-pound maximum, so the schools were closed.

Rogers Memorial Week To Be Held By All Theaters

NEW YORK.—Plans for a Will Rogers Memorial Week, to be held in all motion picture theaters throughout the country in happy memory of the screen philosopher, were announced here by Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

The celebration will be held during a full week in May, and all people in and out of the theater profession will be urged to participate. The week will also mark the dedication of the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital at Saranac Lake in the Adirondacks, a million dollar institution, formerly known as the N. V. A. Sanitarium and Lodge, which has been presented to the Will Rogers Memorial Commission. The hospital will be dedicated to the service of those of Will Rogers' profession of stage and screen who are sick and needy. This tribute is considered by the commission and many of Will Rogers' most intimate friends as the type of memorial which would have been most pleasing to him. It will give aid to the unfortunate members of the profession which he loved and to which he in his lifetime contributed so greatly.

Among the purposes of the celebration in May will be the raising of funds which will be used for the maintenance of the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital, and for the general purposes of the Will Rogers Memorial Commission. This program is in line with announcements made by Jesse Jones, treasurer of the Will Rogers Memorial Commission, and by Mr. Hays, on behalf of the motion picture industry, at the time of the acceptance by the commission of the gift of the hospital.

No part of the funds which were obtained in the original drive of the Will Rogers Memorial Commission will be used in connection with the support of the hospital, and it is expected a substantial part of the money received in the celebration next month will be given to the commission for its general purposes. The activities of the Memorial Commission in the use of its general funds are dedicated to the aid and establishment of useful agencies for assisting handicapped children. Thus, those who contribute in the coming campaign will be devoting their gifts toward the useful humanitarian endeavors conducted at the memorial hospital on behalf of the needy and afflicted of Will Rogers' profession.

Mr. Hays announced that Major L. E. Thompson, president of the McKibbin-Albee-Orpheum Corporation, has consented to act as chairman of the campaign committee. He will be aided in the conduct of the drive for funds by members of the industry at large, by members of the Will Rogers Memorial Commission and by leading friends of Will Rogers. It is hoped to enlist in this activity all theaters in the United States, including those operated by the major circuits and those operated independently, in order that the tribute to Will Rogers may be truly representative of the entire motion picture industry.

Summer Health Plans Recommended by Dr.

AUSTIN.—Recommendation to children and their parents to get together for some sessions of plan making in preparation for warm weather recreational activities was made this week by Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer.

"Texas has done a pretty good job in awakening health consciousness in the home and school," Dr. Brown said, "and it is an excellent idea to carry it into our out-of-door life. Texas is essentially an out-of-door state. From early Spring until late Fall weather conditions make the countryside inviting. The warm weather comes on with a rush and there are dangers alike to children and adults.

"One excellent bit of advice, particularly for the grown-ups, to heed is to avoid over exertion at the outset. Too much haste in everything is a constant menace to the health of the people, and the eager father who attempts to keep pace with his school boy sons and daughters on the first spring outing may be laying up trouble. Over-exposure to the sun is a danger that confronts all of the members of the family in their eagerness for the benefits of sunlight.

"For the whole family there can be no better practice in advance of spring and summer outings than to make a check list and obey a few simple rules. It is well to look to the source of water and milk, and to be wary of poison ivy and poisonous insects. A first aid kit is always a satisfying reliance. Watch-

Prison Cooking Job Keeps 50 Men Busy

HUNTSVILLE, Texas. (AP)—Three times daily the 1,200 prisoners in the penitentiary here must be fed. This means preparation of nearly 1,500,000 meals a year—if one is sufficiently mathematically minded to apportion the contents of vast pots, kettles and pans. To perform this task efficiently, two civilian and about 50 convict cooks, waiters and dishwashers are busy throughout daylight hours. Some available for call any hour of the night.

In addition to seeing that each meal is properly balanced as to calories, iron and vitamins, Capt. Ira McDaniels, chief steward and former mess sergeant with the 36th Division overseas, has a big task checking supplies and arranging menus.

"That job of making menus," he said, "is about the hardest I have but a daily inventory of supplies and seeing we always have the necessary foods on hand also keeps me busy."

McDaniels, who hails from Greenville, has been steward since November, 1935, when he succeeded Horace Coon, now dietician for the full care should be taken of the youngsters who cannot resist the temptation to go barefoot, and immediate treatment should be given bruises and cuts. When wounds are inflicted by rusty nails or similar objects the child should be taken immediately to a physician."

whole prison system. He is looking forward to the construction of a new kitchen for which $40,000 has been appropriated to be made available in September. The new building, he said, would permit feeding the prisoners in one shift instead of three, as now, and save three or four hours a day to workers and diners.

A representative menu lists for breakfast. Oatmeal, wholemilk, granulated sugar, butter, syrup, rolls, coffee and small cakes. Dinner: steak, greens, blackeyed peas, syrup, prunes, bread. Supper: boiled beef, cabbage, greens, pudding, syrup, corn bread.

McDaniels' report for January showed prisoners were fed for approximately 6 1-2¢ each per meal, with 82 per cent of the food being produced within the system.

Traffic Penalties Skiked. HONOLULU (U.P.)—Honolulu's school for traffic offenders nearly went out of business owing to the fact that the "students" and even the faculty preferred the pleasures of the beach to the duties of the school. Finally traffic judges decided to use subpoenas for the missing students.

Worms Sell at Premium. SIDNEY, N. S. W. (U.P.)—Tapole and worms are at a premium in Sydney and Melbourne, and hordes of small boys have joined in the hunt. The explanation is that zoos have a Platypus, a rare animal which eats 600 worms, a few dozen tadpoles and a hard-boiled egg daily.

"Voluntary comments from satisfied customers tell their own story of HUMBLE products and HUMBLE service"

Humble Service Stations are carefully designed and landscaped to make them attractive features of the neighborhoods in which they are located. They are fully equipped for your comfort and the expert care your car requires. Humble men are proud of the Stations which they man, and this Centennial year, they're putting their best foot forward.

Restrooms at Humble Service Stations are as carefully kept as your bathroom at home. Many of them are tiled—all of them are spotlessly clean and sanitary. They are equipped with every modern convenience for your comfort.

In a recent study of Humble Service Check Cards mailed to the Company by Humble customers, nearly half the comments complimented Humble Service Station men on their friendly courtesy. These trained men render the kind of service which motorists find helpful.

We make no exaggerated advertising claims for Humble products, but we do say, you'll find them definitely second to none. We ask you to try them in your own automobile; to test Humble Motor oils and Humble motor fuels under your own driving conditions. When you do, we're confident you'll come back for more.

we've some right to be proud of the fact that over 99% of the comments are complimentary... They come from homefolks—from Texans, that is—and from out-of-state visitors alike. They tell us that motorists like the courteous, helpful service they find at Humble Service Stations, that they like the spotless cleanliness of Humble restrooms, that they appreciate the care with which Humble stations are maintained, that they like the products they get at the Humble sign... We invite you, too, to stop for service, for products of tested quality, where you see that sign. We are confident that both will please you—that you'll come back for more."

HUMBLE SERVICE STATION SALESMEN

"ALL our stations are furnished with Service Check cards. These cards are provided for the convenience of customers who wish to comment on our service and our products. Advise Farmers Not To Boost Acreages COLLEGE STATION, (P)—Farmers who want to participate in the benefits of the new Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act but also want to go ahead with their seasonal planting without waiting for full details might do well to be guided by their last year's plantings, Jack Shelton, vice director and state agent of the Extension Service, has advised. They should put acres which were "retired" under the old program in soil building crops for 1936. Shelton recently returned from regional meeting at Memphis called by secretary of agriculture to help work out ways to put the act into effect. "It is a soil utilization and soil conservation program and crops will be classified as soil depleting crops, soil conserving crops and soil building crops," Shelton said. "Cotton, corn, wheat and grain sorghums are our principal soil depleting crops in Texas and farmers making planting plans will have to remember this," he explained. "There will be no crop control program, the secretary of agriculture has stated, but for working out the details of administering the act, a job assigned to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, recommendations made at the four regional meetings will be assembled in Washington and from these will be developed the program which will finally be sent to the country. "It now seems that payments will be made directly to farmers based on the productivity of the land devoted to soil conservation and that they will be made on proof of compliance." Since experts regard that means of transport as best suited to streets crowded with traffic, a "flying squad" of London's police force is equipped with bicycles.

Soil Erosion Moves Called "Very Good"

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—West Texas methods of combating soil erosion were called "very good indeed" by Dr. W. C. Lowdermilk, associate chief of the soil conservation service, after inspecting work in this section.

"This is to be a very productive piece of work with definite results in a short time," Dr. Lowdermilk said of the "syrup grinder" system of terracing by which water is run off gradually from a high point to lower levels. The farmers participating in the program have agreed to co-operate with the soil service for five years with the cost to the land owner running from $1 to $3 an acre.

Dr. Lowdermilk, who termed erosion the prime enemy of sustained civilization, has studied soil conservation in many parts of the world. During President Wilson's administration he went to China and studied means of stopping famines in that country. There he found 1000 to 1200 persons living on one square mile in many of the farming areas.

20,000 Alumni Will Observe Univ. Night

Twenty thousand alumni and old students of the University of Notre Dame, together with thousands of radio fans all over the world, will observe the thirteenth annual Universal Notre Dame Night in unison on April 20th by means of coordinated radio programs.

The key program of the evening will be a combined broadcast from the university campus and from a dinner at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D. C., reaching all sections of the country through a national hookup. In addition there are two hundred independent broadcasts scheduled from various sections of the United States and from South America, Italy, Porto Rico, Honolulu, the Philippine Islands, and British Columbia.

Three hundred Notre Dame men in the District of Columbia are sponsoring the annual dinner at the Capital where the Rev. John F. O'Connell will preside.

Dr. Lowdermilk said he found an irrigation system dating back to 400 B. C. with evidence of a great prosperity at one time. His studies convinced him that the cause of the decadence of that area was erosion and books he wrote on the subject were translated into several languages.

Dr. Lowdermilk said the Incas in Peru had mastered erosion before America was discovered. Recently he directed his attention to the work on the Navajo reservation where an increasing population was meeting with a steadily eroding area.

British Regiment Gets Honor Mark; Wore Patched Uniforms For 60 Years

LONDON (U.P.)—A British infantry regiment once wore the same uniforms for nearly 60 years.

That revelation was made to the public when an official change was ordered in the regimental uniforms to commemorate those "good old days" when they fell into such an indecent disreputable state of repair that they had to be patched and supplemented with old sacking. In the 18th century army control was vested over 13 different government offices and lack of central control often resulted in regiments being sent overseas and left there for long periods. In those days soldiers took the "King's shilling" and enlisted for life.

The South Staffordshire Regiment, then called the 38th Foot Regiment, in 1765, three years after being raised, was sent out to the West Indies and left there for nearly 60 years. When it was recalled in 1763 hardly a man or an officer of the original unit returned with it.

In the latter part of the Seven Years' War which ended in 1763, the regiment was engaged in operations to capture the French and Spanish West Indian Islands. For their services in Martinique and

CHRISTIAN CHURCH TO HAVE SPECIAL SERVICE THURSDAY

Pre-Easter Worship Observes Last Supper

The first Christian Church will observe perhaps its most sacred and beautiful service of the entire year Thursday night at 8 o'clock when the Lord's Supper will be held. The church will be decorated in white. At the communion table will be the vacant chair of the Lord, decorated in white beneath a cross in white. Only candle light will be used throughout the service.

The pastor will bring a brief message on "The Seven Words From The Cross," followed by the communion supper. Special music has been prepared by Mrs. Lee Cornelius, the music director of the church.

Rev. J. E. Pickering the pastor, in commenting on the service said today: "It was upon this night some nineteen centuries ago that our Lord sat with His disciples in the last supper. He left us this sacred memorial to remember His sacrifice and death. On Friday He was nailed to the cross and was buried that afternoon. He arose from the grave on Sunday morning. Thus He returns to the campus during commencement week.

NEW JERSEY WILL NOT PROBE CASE

Investigation of Bruno's Case Is Refused by State Assembly

TRENTON, N. J., April 7 (AP)—Two resolutions providing for investigation of the Bruno Richard Hauptmann case—one by a citizens' committee and another by a legislative committee—were defeated by the New Jersey assembly Monday night.

The citizens' committee investigation, proposed by an anti-administration Republican, was directed at Gov. Harold G. Hoffman's activities during his reopened investigation. The proposal was defeated 32 to 31, eight votes short.

Immediately after its defeat, a Hoffman supporter presented another resolution for an investigation of the Lindbergh kidnap case from its inception, including the activities of the governor, the state police, prosecution officials, and the cost of the Hauptmann trial, which approximated $125,000. It was defeated by a vote of 10 for to 45 against.

Invite Midland People Appear On Air Program

Mrs. Sallye Covington, secretary of the chamber of commerce, has received a letter from radio station WFAA, extending an invitation to Midland persons to participate in a broadcasting feature, "Parade of Texas Cities," on June 22.

The letter follows: The Centennial, we have just learned, has designated June 22nd as Midland Day at the Central Exposition in Dallas, and as part of our welcome to you we extend a cordial invitation to your organization to participate in a broadcasting feature to be called "Parade of Texas Cities."

Undoubtedly, you have many talented entertainers in Midland who would welcome an opportunity to represent their city on a program over WFAA, and our plan has been formulated to afford them that chance. As a goodwill feature, it will be of considerable value to you in promoting your city.

Our plan, briefly, is to make our facilities available to you and to other civic organizations who would participate in this series. Through the cooperation of the Centennial Corporation, we shall have broadcasting studios located on the Exposition grounds, which will make it possible for your program to be witnessed by a large audience as well as transmitted over the air to thousands of listeners.

The featured talent on your program will be secured from Midland, and WFAA plans to provide a fine orchestra to play the accompaniment. Our Program Department will cooperate in arranging the details of the broadcast, rehearsing the program, coaching the singers, writing the continuity, providing the announcers, and helping to select the Midland talent.

The cost to you will be nominal, and if you are interested in taking advantage of this opportunity to publicize Midland, we shall be glad to provide you with more detailed information.

We shall welcome your reaction to this plan. May we hear from you?

MIDLAND WOMEN GO TO ABILENE

Second Group Leaves Today For Federated Club Convention

A second group of Midland club women left for Abilene today to attend the sixth district convention of federated clubs now in session there. The party included Mrs. T. Paul Barron, Mrs. Elliott Barron, Mrs. J. M. Haygood and Mrs. John W. Skinner.

Mrs. W. G. Whitehouse, Miss Lydia G. Watson, and Mrs. J. Howard Hodge left Monday for the convention.

An elaborate series of entertainments has been planned for the visitors at Abilene including, among other features, a Centennial dinner at the Hilton Hotel tonight and a free show at the Paramount Theatre.

Special significance is attached to this, the twenty-first annual meeting, because it marks the division of the vast sixth district into the sixth and eighth districts, Midland falling into the latter classification.

The division ceremony will be in the form of class commencement exercises at a luncheon Wednesday at which Miss Lydia G. Watson of Midland, will present the class prophecy.

Easter Music Tops Ford Sunday Hour

Easter music will feature the Ford Sunday evening hour broadcast Easter Sunday, April 12, when Frederick Jagel, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be guest artist with the Ford Symphony Orchestra and chorus, under the direction of Victor Kolar. The program will be broadcast from 9 to 10 p.m. EST over the coast-to-coast CBS network.

Mr. Jagel, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., rose swiftly to the present peak of his musical career. It began when a wealthy business man heard him singing solos in a church and offered to finance his musical education. He went abroad, and in August, 1924, made his debut at Livorno, singing Rodolfo in "La Boheme." Engagements followed in the major cities of Italy, Holland and Spain. During this period his one idea was to sing in the Metropolitan Opera in New York. General Manager Gatti-Casazza signed him up for the 1927-28 season and since then his rise has been rapid.

The orchestra, presenting the overture to "Oberon" by Weber, will open the broadcast, the orchestra and chorus following with "Easter Prayer" from "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni.

Mr. Jagel's first group of songs, accompanied by the orchestra will include the recitative and aria, "If With All Your Hearts" from "The Elijah" by Mendelssohn, and the improvise from "Andrea Chenier" by Giordano. Humperdinck's "Witch's Ride" from "Hansel and Gretel" by the orchestra will close the first portion of the program.

The orchestra will open the second half with Bach's "Air" for G. String. Mr. Jagel's second group including "Ah, Moon of My Delight" from "In A Persian Garden" by Lehmann, "Canto de Amor" by Carnevali, and Granier's "Hosanna," will be followed by Rossini's Overture to "William Tell," by the orchestra. The program will be closed with the chorus and organ presenting "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today."

Another short talk on current affairs will be presented during the intermission by W. J. Cameron, of the Ford Motor Company.

In addition to the chorus numbers 40 voices, selections will be presented by the university's male quartet, the ministerial quartet, the university "Golden Girls" quartet, and the girls' sextet.

Mrs. Lola Gibson Deaton will direct. Thursday morning the singers will present a secular concert at the high school at 8:30 o'clock, featuring a ministerial quartet, the university "Golden Girls" quartet, and the girls' sextet.

Preceding this appearance they will present a concert over KRLH from 7 o'clock to 7:45.
