Frenzied Mob Strings up Assaulter of Murdered Child

OFFICERS NOT ABLE TO GUARD

"You Are Lynching a Guilty Man," Are Last Words

ST. FRANCIS, Kansas, April 18. (UP)—An infuriated mob of western Kansas farmers early today lynched Richard Read, 53, confessed abductor and killer of Dorothy Hunter, 8, near Selden Thursday.

The mob, estimated to be 200, overpowered Sheriff A. A. Bacon and seized Read from his jail cell.

Read was taken to an isolated spot near Atwood and hanged from a tree.

As Read stood beneath the tree with a rope around his neck, he said: "You are lynching the right man. I was intoxicated or it wouldn't have happened."

The child's body was found with her head crushed, under a haystack Saturday. She had been assaulted.

Read was brought here secretly for safe-keeping but the news leaked out of his whereabouts and the word spread over the Kansas prairie like fire.

Read was the second man to be hanged in Kansas in this century.

Cowden Sets New Course Record

J. Ellis Cowden, Midland's most consistent golfer, established a new course record at country club Sunday, when he shot a 68.

Both his out and his in round were made in 34.

The next best round ever played on the course was held jointly by Walter Hagen and Cowden.

Cowden's best score for 9 holes is 33. He missed making a 32 once by failing to rain down a short putt.

Delo Douglas beat Frank Day on the 19th hole Sunday in a special match for position on the club ladder, winning with a birdie four.

Both shot 39 on the out round, 40 on the last nine. Sandy Auchterlonie, professional, played one round, shooting par.

Enthusiasm among golfers has increased each week. The course is in better condition than ever before and requires more skill in shooting par golf.

Spikes Removed On Fasken Road

Andrews county has removed the spikes from the segment of the road from Fasken to the Gaines county line.

The work was done under direction of H. H. Woolley, county commissioner, making the road of peace, and general factotum of Fasken.

When oil men and business men reported the road almost impassable because of spikes since the recent sandstorms, the Midland chamber of commerce took the matter up with the Judge H. T. Wilson of Andrews, and Judge Kendrick of Seminole.

Judge Wilson forwarded the Midland letter to Commissioner Woolley, and the work was immediately done.

The spikes were so bad that damaging fires, that some people were going to Hobbs via Monahans. It is believed Gaines will clear out the spikes in its segment of the road at once, if the work has not already been done.

Oil men and others who spend money in Seminole, and Fasken point out that the only way they can continue using this road is for it to be kept in reasonable traveling condition.

Chamber Informs On Tank Cleaning

Ranchers and farmers can kill the cat tails, weeds, moss and other vegetation in their tanks for from 50 cents to $1.

The Federal Bureau of Fisheries has developed a chemical treatment for these submerged vegetable growths which does not kill fish.

Eugene W. Surber, director in charge of a Virginia U. S. Fisheries station, says experiments show a cow would have to drink 60 gallons of the water at one time to get enough to kill her.

Full directions for using the sodium arsenite may be had by any cattleman or farmer by calling at the office of the Midland chamber of commerce.

The account of the new discovery for killing vegetation growths in ponds and tanks was carried in a newspaper article some time ago, and the account of commerce wrote for complete data. These data are now available for owners of tanks or ponds in the Midland area, merely for the asking.

This is believed to be an important discovery and of much interest to Midland land owners, as tanks are often almost taken by submerged vegetation which is difficult and expensive to remove. The new government method entails no work and very little cost.

PROGRAM APRIL 29 The spring presentation of pupils of the Vickers studio will be on Friday evening, April 29, instead of April 28, as previously announced.

"I wanted to see you at the close of the contest today and tell you how much I appreciated the fact that you brought your folks and entered our contest. I think your crowd made a mighty good showing and I would be proud if I had your bunch of young folks.

"Everything did not go off just to suit me, but I did the best I could under the existing conditions. I was very sorry that my man Hopkins of Waco could not be here to take charge of the judges. I hope that I can get him the next time. In looking over the report of the judges I found that your girls club was only a few points below the first place. I guess that it is not good form to go counter to your own judges by my opinion on your boys chorus is that it was far ahead of the winner of the first place. I did not think that they had a good balance of parts, and yours was very good and I liked the bass section. I am going to have another contest next year and I hope to have a better one. I will greatly appreciate it if you will make any suggestion that you think will help me in arranging these contests. (This is my first See TRACK MEET, Page 6)

Five Die, $1,200,000 Loss in Ohio Blast

An inside view of Ohio state's new $6,500,000 state office building at Columbus, showing terrific force of mysterious explosion that killed five men and injured 50 more, doing $1,200,000 damage. Giant marble slabs were ripped from the walls. Steel door casings were jammed out of place on the elevators as shown above. Two men missing were feared buried in the ruins. A gas main break was generally believed to have caused the explosion, although accumulated marble dust or a bomb were other causes advanced. A series of labor clashes marked construction of the building, which was nearly completed.

Above is a general view of the huge structure, with an outline marking portion blown out by blast. The structure is located on the east bank of the Scioto river, about two blocks from the state capitol. Construction was nearly completed, at a cost of $6,500,000, and the building would have been occupied this summer.

MCGAUGHEY WAIVES AN EXAMINING TRIAL AND IS BEING HELD IN THE JAIL

Family Trouble Blamed for Shooting, Which Is Alleged to Have Followed a Conference of Principals

Jess Fore, 23-year-old cowpuncher of Midland, was shot to death Sunday afternoon about 1:30, at the Haley apartments on West Wall street. John McGaughy is held in the county jail awaiting action of the grand jury in connection with the case. He waived examining trial inasmuch as the grand jury was impaneled this morning for the April term of district court.

In a statement made to officers, McGaughy indicated family trouble as the basis for the shooting, claiming his wife was about to leave him because of Fore's alleged alienation of her affections. He said Fore was breaking up his home. The McGaughys have a 12-year-old son.

The shooting took place in the second story of the apartment house, when Fore and McGaughy met in Fore's room to "talk the matter over" as a witness to authorities. Mrs. McGaughy was with them. Jeff Cowden, Midland man, was in his apartment between those of Fore and McGaughy and heard part of the conversation between them. He said while they were talking Date Layman, another Midland man, drove up outside and called for McGaughy, that McGaughy went out leaving his wife and Fore, and talked with Layman for a short time. He said the report of a gun sounded almost immediately upon the re-entry of McGaughy to Fore's apartment.

McGaughy and Fore had worked on ranches and at other jobs. McGaughy having run a restaurant here for a time. For the past few months Fore had been working on a ranch in Midland county. He and McGaughy had been friends until a few months ago, when their friendship was terminated in a fight. Fore beat McGaughy, court testimony shows, and paid a fine. He went back to work on a ranch.

Fore returned to Midland Friday night and on Saturday night talked to Jeff Cowden, assertively mentioning some of the aspects of the trouble between him and McGaughy. He took an apartment adjoining Cowden's on the east. McGaughy, his wife and son lived in the apartment joining Cowden's on the west.

Cowden told of having knocked on Fore's door Sunday morning, wishing to borrow a match. When he swung the door open he saw Fore standing inside the room, a knife in his hand. Fore explained, according to Cowden, he was afraid the visitor was McGaughy. Cowden said Fore was afraid, presumably, to leave for town, but that he went.

Not long afterward, McGaughy decided to go down town and talk with Fore, McGaughy said to officers. He found Fore and the two returned. The two men, with McGaughy's wife, went into Fore's apartment and began talking. Cowden, in the adjoining apartment, did not hear all that was said.

Then McGaughy left to talk with Layman, returned, and the shot was heard, officers were told. Fore's body was found with the feet pointing north and the head several inches under the bed.

The body was shipped by the Ellis mortuary to the S. B. Near mortuary near Greenville. His father, Walter Fore, lives there.

A GREAT IDEA

Leopold Stokowski's remark that he will lead street bands in free concerts, if the depression doesn't end soon and enable music lovers to pay for their tickets, starts an interesting chain of thought, even if he didn't mean his remark to be taken seriously.

Perhaps, at that, he really meant it. Explaining his statement, the famous Philadelphia orchestra leader said: "I am a leader and not a follower. I am not trying to please. I have a task to perform, and that task is to lead people into the paths of greatness in music, to inspiration and to beauty. If they cannot see their way it is my duty to lead them through the darkness into the light."

It might be a good thing if those sentences could be studied for a while by musicians, artists and writers throughout the United States.

For a long time we have been hearing about the rights and privileges of the creative artist. He is not like other men, we are told, and he can't be treated as other men are treated. When, as occasionally happens, his nation permits him to live in poverty, it is a shameful thing.

All of this is perfectly true. But there is another side to it. As Mr. Stokowski points out, the artist has duties as well as privileges. Whether his nation provides him with a comfortable living or not, it is up to him to provide the nation with beauty; and his obligation is far heavier than the one that rests on his fellows.

The gift that has been given him—to create fine music, to write noble books, to paint lovely pictures—must be used freely, if he is to be worthy of it. Whether he gets properly paid or not, he must give his fellow-citizens the best there is in him. Mr. Stokowski's idea about free street concerts is really not in the least far-fetched.

A good deal has been said about America's inability to appreciate artistic works. A large part of the blame can be given the artists themselves. If Mr. Stokowski's idea were more widely accepted by artists the nation might show that it has unexpected capacity for recognizing and enjoying beauty.

KID GLOVES FOR GANGSTERS

Jack Guzik was Al Capone's right-hand man in the Chicago racket for a long time. Recently the federal government laid him by the heels because he failed to pay any income tax, and the other day he was shipped off to Leavenworth penitentiary to serve a five-year sentence.

But he didn't go with the rest of the prisoners. Instead he got permission to pay his own expenses and the expenses of the federal guards who had him in custody; so he rode in another car, in real style and wasn't soiled by contact with the lesser things and confidence men who were going to prison.

This, somehow, is apt to give the ordinary citizen an acute pain. Why should this man have been permitted extra privileges, even if he was able to pay for them himself? Are these Chicago gangsters such influential people that they must be handled with kid gloves even after they have been sentenced to prison?

EDITORIAL NOTES

Central Park in New York, following the lead of other cities, has geared down its speeding automobiles by offering continuous "go" lights to all who will travel at exactly twenty-five miles an hour. However, to lead motorists to enjoy thoroughly the beauty of Central Park on a spring morning, engineers should invent a magnet powerful enough to draw the cars irresistibly to a suitable parking space. Here polite uniformed attendants could point out a likely path where motorists afoot might see and enjoy the flowers which, to them, had formerly been only a blur of dazzling color.

If you are one of those who own no plot of ground on which to plant a tree this coming Arbor Day, you can at least buy a stamp or two, which the Post Office Department will place on sale April 22 to commemorate the sixtieth anniversary of the foundation of Arbor Day. For the idea, originated by J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska City, Neb., at last has literally won a stamp of approval.

of vital importance. Harpo took a crack at pictures and was an utter failure. The same holds true for his ability as a harp player. He can hold any audience when he goes to work on those strings. But he can't read a note of music, and according to musicians, he violates every musical canon.

Probably the leading portrayer of newspaper reporter roles on the screen today is Pat O'Brien, who started off his screen career in "The Front Page." Until he was cast for his current role in "The Strange Case of Clara Deane," Pat never played anything but newspaper roles on the screen. Yet the only time he ever has been inside of a newspaper office was when he visited one several years ago while playing in "The Front Page" on the legitimate stage.

Then there's Frances Dee. Frances Dee, who has been proclaimed one of the most beautiful women in Hollywood, was born right here in the film capital within a stone's throw of several studios. Yet it was not until after she had completed two years at the University of Chicago and came out here on a visit that she appeared before a camera.

Then take Russell Gleason, now playing opposite Miss Dee. For the last three generations Russell's family has been attached to the legitimate stage. Yet Russell never has appeared behind the footlights except in a school play some years ago. His mother and father both are in pictures now, but they still manage to get in one or two stage plays every year.

Things even are so topsy-turvy in Hollywood that if a casting director wants a blond for a certain role, it's an even bet that he will call a brunet and ask her to bleach her hair. And you have no idea how many blonds there are in town who are looking for work.

Anything Can Happen Where Motion Pictures Are Made

Here are four Hollywood stars whose lives illustrate perfectly the fact that you can't tell what to expect in the movie capital. George Arliss, left, was considered a poor bet because of his English accent, but now he's one of the greatest stars. Pat O'Brien, top center, plays the reporter in nearly all of his pictures, but he knows little of newspapers. Harpo Marx, below, who never says a word in the talkies, and Frances Dee, right, was born in Los Angeles, but couldn't get a chance until she went to the University of Chicago.

HOLLYWOOD—Fate brings many paradoxes into the lives of screen celebrities. In this topsy-turvy town where sound pictures are made in absolute silence and silent films were made amid much noise, anything can happen—and frequently does.

It is not a bit unusual in Hollywood to learn that a juvenile actor has children almost old enough to vote, to discover that a distinguished looking banker is simply a rain-sun shine. And if you're expecting hot weather, it snows.

All of which brings us right down to those people who earn their living by parading before the flick cameras. Fate even has crossed things up for them.

Just Look at Harpo Take Harpo Marx, for example. Harpo is now making his fourth talking picture and has not spoken a single word in any of them. He depends solely on pantomime. Yet several years ago during the silent picture days when pantomime was

Wins Apology

"My mistake and here's $2500 for it" was the substance of an apology given Lewis B. Tebbets, above, St. Louis insurance man, by former President Calvin Coolidge, pictured below. Tebbets had sued Coolidge for $100,000, claiming that a recent radio address of the former president had injured his business. Coolidge had warned the public against the so-called "twister" who offers to save money by placing life insurance policies with another company.

Strange Tragedy Of Sea Recalled

By NEA Service BAR HARBOR, Me.—A windswept mound encircled by a wooden fence and topped by a wooden cross—one of the strangest graves in the world—will be decorated again next Memorial day on lonely, barren Great Duck island.

There will be no parades, no martial music, none of the military display that accompanies Memorial day observances in mainland communities. For the population of Great Duck island consists only of three lighthouse keepers and their little families, and the grave they will decorate by long-established custom is not a reminder of war but of the sea's terrors.

Victims Buried Together In a January storm in 1893, a lumber coaster out of Dubuc was driven ashore on Great Duck close to where the light now stands. One man out of the crew of four saved himself by a miracle. He found refuge that night with the sole occupant of the island, a fisherman.

Next morning left high on the rocky shores were found the bodies of the three victims, clasped in each other's embrace and frozen like one solid mass. So intertwined were their arms and legs that in the terrific 20 below zero temperature it was impossible to separate them.

years old. Well, they certainly were a long time finding it. Hoover offers to work for $1 a year, but the experience we had with dollar-a-year men during the war leads us to believe that is too much.

Golf fees are being reduced drastically. The cost of living has gone down so much until it has affected the cost of loafing.

Syd Franklin, Brooklyn's famous bull fighter, had to go to Mexico to put on a demonstration. He was outclassed in New York.

A bunch of Los Angeles doctors think "No" is the most important word in the English language. They must have forgotten the thousands who "hold" their jobs simply by saying "Yes" at the right time and place.

Hoover had no opposition for the job of tossing out that first ball in Washington this year, but several democrats are in training for the ordeal in 1933.

Other than they made him pose for them in a Mexican news reel.

Mexico's "Raffles", who perpetrated 105 robberies during a sensational one-man crime wave, is Roberto Hernandez Alexander. A polished trickster, he spent much of his time dressed as a dancing girl. His latest escapade was to carry a funeral bouquet to the home of a wealthy man. In his female attire, Alexander presented the bouquet to the widow, spent some time weeping with her and then looted the house while the funeral was going on.

He had been captured twice before. The first time he begged police to take him home for a moment. While they waited in front, he changed to his dancer's costume and escaped through the back.

Recently he was picked up in Mexico City and sentenced to the Carcel de Belem, a great, grim stone building in the heart of Mexico City that was considered escape proof. Within a few weeks he made his getaway.

Alexander's specialty was robbing the homes of American residents. Often he posed as an American. Being a great mimic he was able to speak Mexican with a "gringo" accent. He would convince Mexican maids that he was a friend of the owner, gain admittance and pillage the rooms.

He was a skillful dancer and he sometimes entertained in cabarets. For a time he was on the stage. Tompson police chanced to pick him up on suspicion, but at headquarters he was identified. Then they posed before the movie camera to show him off. The Mexican newspaper Universal printed the news under the heading: "The Limit!"

door on latch. In the midst of these activities the telephone rang. It was Mr. Heath announcing he had been delayed and would not be down until half-past 10.

There she was! No, that wasn't Aunt Jessie, after all. Men and women came trailing through the gate. Clusters of family groups, a dapper traveling salesman or two, last of all brisk and efficient and scolding the red cap who carried her baggage.

There was a suspicion of moisture in Aunt Jessie's eyes as she surveyed her niece.

"I declare, you've got real thin," she worried. "No telling how you've been eating since I've been away."

Susan laughed and squeezed her arm. In an instant they were back on the old footing. "You'd be surprised," she said, "Rose has cooked spinach and I baked potatoes and the house is so clean you won't know it."

Aunt Jessie sniffed incredulously. They had reached the main exit of the station and the youth carrying the baggage murmured something about getting a taxi.

Aunt Jessie fixed him with an intimidating stare.

"Nothing of the sort, young man!" she announced. "You put my things on the street car right across the street and I'll be obliged to you."

"Now tell me what you've been doing while I've been away."

Susan had to think quickly. She wanted to be honest with her aunt but there were after all, some things she could not make her understand.

"She realized with a clear, blinding flash of perception that it was because of Robert Dunbar that she had refused to encourage either Ben Lampman or Waring."

"Ah, but Mr. Right had come and hadn't known her! What an idiot she had been to believe all that silly, old tales of true love."

She twisted her lips in a cynical smile. What, she wondered dimly, was the use of waiting and striving and hoping if the one really perfect thing were to be snatched away from you?

Resolutely all this time Susan had been pushing all thought of Bob Dunbar into the background. On the Monday after her aunt's return, the girl reached the office a few minutes ahead of time.

MIDLAND NOSED OUT IN TRACK MEET BY A SCANT TWO POINTS

GRAMMAR SCHOOL WINS ITS CLASS; MIDKIFF HIGH POINT MAN FOR THE MEET; SAN ANGELO COPS THE BACON

SAN ANGELO, April 18.—Doubling the pointage of Paint Rock, its nearest opponent, San Angelo won the all-round interscholastic league high school championship for district 18 in the meet here Friday and Saturday.

Midland, third in the high school division, took the grammar school championship, Carlsbad won the rural school championship with a total of 25 points including placing honors in the track and field meet Saturday afternoon. All-round championship loving cups were given only in the high school and rural divisions.

In winning the track and field meet, nosing out Midland in the last event, the mile relay, the San Angelo high school compiled a total of 72 points in both literary and athletic divisions. Paint Rock scored 35 points in all events and Midland 30.

Other placings in the high school division follow: Ballinger, 27; Eden, 20; Winters, 15; Miles, 10; Ozona, 10; Eldorado, 10; Breyte, 10; Sterling City, 10; Big Lake, 5; and Robert Lee, 5.

In the grammar school class, Midland received 15 points; Big Lake 10, Robert Lee 2, and Sterling City 2.

Results in essay writing were not reported by H. C. Lyon of Ballinger, director of that division, but the pointage differences could not affect the all-round championship standings. It was explained by Felix E. Smith, of San Angelo, director general of the meet.

Last Races Takes Meet from Midland
Midland high school's first effort to have a real track team proved highly successful last Saturday at the interscholastic league district track and field meet at San Angelo when the Midland team won four first places, three fourth places, and a third place to score 24 points while the San Angelo team, perennial champions in track, were gathering 26 1/2 points.

Contestants and spectators were favored with a beautiful day and a warm sun that kept the athletes "limbered up" and feeling fit to do their best. Preliminaries were held in the morning, beginning at 8:30 in all field events and in the dashes and hurdles. The Midland team got up at 3 a. m. and drove 140 miles to reach San Angelo in time to compete. Midkiff, Straughn, Hallman, and Bonner qualified in their events and gave advance notice to the San Angelo team that the Bulldogs were going to be in the money.

Midland started scoring with the first event in the finals, Straughn taking first place in the high hurdles. Midkiff won first place in the next event, the 100-yard dash, and Midland had 10 points before anyone else had anything worth mentioning. Straughn placed fourth in the quarter and in the discus throw; Hallman won first place in the broad jump with a leap of 20 feet 3 inches; Midkiff won the 220 yard dash; Narn Lee was fourth in the mile race in which the record was broken and the Midland relay team composed of Midkiff, Straughn, Hallman, and Bonner, placed third.

Midland was leading San Angelo by a score of 22 to 21 1/2 as the teams lined up for the final event, the mile relay. Although the Bulldogs did their best to keep the lead, they were no match for the more experienced and better seasoned Angelo mile and the meet went to San Angelo.

Captain Frank Midkiff of Midland was high point man of the meet with 10 1/2 points.
To my mind prohibition has brought a great moral crisis that can be safely passed only by repeal. The republican party should face this issue honestly and I shall do my part to see that it does.

Thinking Out Loud About Fights

Horses, Pitchers and Babe Herman

Between now and June 16 things may become very much better or very much worse, but the Schmeling and Sharkey fight ought to draw $500,000 anyway. With a $15 top, the gate might go even beyond that. Not even the most optimistic will venture a guess above $600,000.

One Lesson Learned

Having predicted last year that the United States would win back the Davis cup and that Cornell would be first under the wire at Poughkeepsie, this column has ceased forecasting on tennis and crew events.

About Top Flight

Old horsemen say Top Flight will not win the Derby because fillies cannot keep their minds on the race in the spring of their third year of life. The flirts!

Guessing Is Free, Too

One guess is about as good as another on the Derby. If you leave Top Flight out of the reckoning, but it seems to me that this Lucky Tom will be the one the winner will have to pass.

Too Many Finds

New York baseball writers declare Schumacher of the Giants will be the year's pitching sensation. Cleveland writers believe the great discovery of 1932 will turn out to be Oral Hildebrand. Just as a rash guess, this column believes that either the New York writers or the Cleveland writers, or both, will be wrong.

Dempsey-Camera

While it is the unalterable belief of this corner that Jack Dempsey is not coming back at all, he is the very man to knock Camera for a loop.

Ramage-Rosenbloom

If Lee Ramage ever gets his hands on Maxie Rosenbloom, the light heavyweight championship of the world will go west.

The Schafer Bat

The chamoufflager bat that Goose Goslin tried to get away with recall the curved club that Germany Schaefer wanted to use many years ago.

SWEEPING LIGHT EUROPEAN HOPE IN DERBY; DOTES ON LONGER DISTANCES

By MAX RIDDLE

(Copyright 1932, NEA Service)

The year 1932 brings a possibility of five imported horses competing in the Kentucky Derby May 7. How many of these foreign bred horses will get to the post is hard to say, but Sweeping Light, Mrs. Graham Vanderbilt's almost son of Manna, seems to have the best chance, not only of getting to the post but of winning.

Foreigners have discovered that the Kentucky Derby is an exceedingly hard race to win. Omar Khayyam was the only foreign bred horse to win the coveted event. The task, therefore, of Sweeping Light, Hero-ville, Border Warrant, and the others is not an easy one.

Sweeping Light has done all his racing in this country and has met Top Flight and Tick On, and the lesser lights among last season's two-year-olds. His record might not at first seem to give him much of a chance in America's greatest race, but his ability late in the fall was such as to make him a very formidable contender.

The Fair Stable colt began his racing rather inauspiciously, being sixth in a maiden race to Black Jacket, and second in an allowance affair to Espinaca. His next start found him several lengths in front of Pompeius, Jack B., and Cambal. He was at even weights with the others and finished unimpressed.

When shipped to Saratoga, Sweeping Light finished second to the good Curacao and then attempted to take the measure of Top Flight. Because of very bad acting he was placed outside the stalls, and on the extreme outside. From this position he ran a good race to be fourth to the inimitable Top Flight, Indian Runner and Curacao also finished in front of him.

Although Sweeping Light again beat Pompeius and Cambal in mid-September, his best race was in the Hopeful Stakes, on the last day of the Saratoga meeting. Tick On won that race, but Sweeping Light showed the best performance of the day. After being left far in the rear he put on an amazing burst of speed to pass all but Tick On. At the end he was going fastest of all and was gaining rapidly on the winner.

In the Junior Champion Stakes Sweeping Light once more gave evidence of his ability to come from the rear. In this race he was left at the most. It lost him all chance of winning, but he made up enough ground barely to miss getting in the money.

Sweeping Light is a son of Manna which won the English Derby in 1928, and his brother, Mannamead, is co-favored to win this year's English Derby. Sweeping Light therefore ought to be a splendid distance horse, and his performance against Tick On lends substance to the belief he will be. During the winter he has developed splendidly, and trainer Gordon is taking no chances of his going wrong as did Desert Light several years ago.

Are you ever "TALKED INTO BUYING" things you DON'T want?

OVER the counter, you know, extravagant claims are so easily made. But remember this—it takes a lot more than a clerk's promise to put quality into any product! » Then why should you or any other woman ever listen to a clerk who offers you something "just as good" as the thing you ask for? Surely your knowledge of the dependability of widely-used products is worth more to you than all the claims any clerk can make for products of which you know absolutely nothing! » Whenever you find any store that continually urges you to buy unfamiliar products instead of the reliable brands you ask for, look out! All too often, that merchant reaps an extra profit, or his clerks a commission, by switching you to the unknown, often inferior merchandise. » Many of the best stores everywhere forbid this practise. When you buy from them you are always sure of getting exactly what you ask for, with full value in the merchandise you want for every penny you spend. » But if you are urged to buy something "just as good" as what you ask for, be firm! Insist on products you know by experience, by their brand-names, or by the reputations of their makers. You will often read about such products in the advertising columns of this newspaper. » Think of this whenever you shop. Then you will always get your money's worth in both merchandise and satisfaction.

Invisible Rays Give Black Light

DETROIT, (UP)—Invisible ultra violet rays, which produce "black light," are advocated for use in lighting the cockpits of airplanes. The light was demonstrated at the National Aircraft show, here, this spring.

The violet rays prevent stray light in the pilot's compartment, thus giving him a better view of the ground when he is flying in darkness. The violet ray light is particularly useful during the hours of dawn and dusk, when it is not dark enough for the radium glow to show well, and still too dark for the figures to show well in natural light.

Old Teamster Recalls Custer

SHELBY, Mont. (UP)—Another reduction was made in the ever thinning ranks of Montana pioneers recently, when David P. (Baldy) Smith died at 84.

Smith was a teamster with the ill-fated Custer expedition in 1876. He was stationed at the Powder River camp, from which Custer was sent on the reconnoiter that had its finale in the slaughter at the Little Big Horn.

He was present when three Indian scouts brought word of the massacre and he talked with the men who were wounded in the relief work.

Smith also followed an expedition led by General Miles, which reconnoitered for 40 days on 15 days rations, and which was attacked by a force of 600 Cheyenne Indians, under Crazy Horse.

After the Indian wars came to an end, Smith roved over Montana, placer mining, packing, sheep herding, and "doing nearly everything," as he was accustomed to say.

He attended the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Battle of the Little Big Horn, in 1926. Only 15 men were living at that time who left Fort Smith with the Seventh Cavalry when Smith did. Of that number eight were in Montana.

WANTED TO BUY CLEAN Cotton Rags 5c a pound REPORTER TELEGRAM

40000 miles for better taste CIGARETTE smokers owe a lot to Turkish tobacco, for it was cigarettes made out of Turkish tobacco that first became the vogue in this country. Then it was found that a blend of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos was better than either kind of tobacco straight. It takes just the right amount of the right kind of Turkish tobacco to give a cigarette better taste. For Turkish tobacco is to cigarettes what seasoning is to food—the spice—the sauce. You want enough but not too much. There is just enough Turkish in CHESTERFIELDS to give them a better flavor, a more pleasing aroma; to make them taste better. Turkish tobacco must pay an import duty of 35c a pound; but cost doesn't count when it comes to making CHESTERFIELD the best cigarette that science and money can produce. CHESTERFIELD CIGARETTES THEY'RE MILDER THEY TASTE BETTER

FROM Xanthi and Cavalla... Smyrna and Samsoun... the finest Turkish tobaccos travel 4,000 miles to add flavor and fragrance to CHESTERFIELD.

TURKISH tobacco is strong leaf-by-leaf and hung in long strands to dry and cure in the sun. In every important tobacco-growing center of Turkey, CHESTERFIELD has its own tobacco buyers.
