C. WILLIAMSON RESIGNS POST AS SCOUT EXECUTIVE

Will Accept Similar Position in El Paso Area

BIG SPRING, April 30 (Sp.).—A. C. Williamson, executive of the Buffalo Trail council for the past seven years, Tuesday evening announced his resignation to accept a similar post with the El Paso council.

His resignation came as a surprise move at the council executive board session here. On motion by George Gentry, chairman of the Big Spring district, the executive's resignation that while the council naturally would feel a sense of keen loss, it should feel proud that Williamson was the first choice of the El Paso council.

He pointed out that the border area has an annual crop of 10,000, of which 60 per cent are Mexicans, declared Fitch in pointing out that an opportunity for greater service existed for Williamson. The regional executive urged that the council committee composed of B. Reagan, Big Spring, Dr. C. A. Rosebrough, Sweetwater, and Claude O. Crane, Midland, give due consideration to regional recommendations before exercising a choice.

Williamson came to the Buffalo Trail council from Mexia where he entered the scouting program as a professional worker in 1927. He was second executive for this council.

Resignation of the executive was accepted effective May 15. Charles Paxton, president of the council, said that he hoped a replacement could be made within two weeks with the aid of the regional personnel division.

TOWNSEND PLAN CALLED 'RACKET'

Michigan Congressman in Attack on Assistance Mode of Doctor

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., April 30 (AP).—Representative Hoffman (Republican, Michigan) today said that his congressional investigation of the Townsend old-age pension plan in Michigan and hearings in Washington have convinced him that the plan was a "racket," and said that there was no doubt whatsoever that it is a racket.

"FLEET THREAT" Intelligence Chief Asks Protection of Navy Plans

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP).—A record peace-time appropriations bill providing $531,068,707 for adding ships, air fighters and men to the nation's sea forces today was approved by the House appropriations committee. Authority for the building of two new battleships was granted.

Meanwhile, a sub-committee revealed a report in which congress advised that "subversive activities" are threatening the "security of our fleet."

The warning was attributed to Captain William S. Puleston, chief of the naval intelligence. During hearings on the appropriation, he said that the necessity for protection against "subversive activities" was "clearly evident."

MORGENTHAU PREDICTS RECORD DEFICIT
WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP).—Treasury Secretary Morgenthau today forecast the biggest peace-time deficit in history—$5,966,000,000—for the current fiscal year in urging congressional enactment of President Roosevelt's full tax program.

He said that prepayment of the bonus was partly responsible for the huge figure. He recommended that the Senate add temporary processing taxes asked by the president to the $803,000,000 bill approved by the House Wednesday.

AUSTIN, April 30 (AP).—Chairman Ernest Thompson of the Texas Railroad Commission today announced that he is conferring with Louisiana authorities on a joint prosecution hearing for the bi-state Redessa field.

THOMPSON SAID HE BELIEVED THAT sufficient data had been assembled to show characteristics of the field necessary to develop joint rules and regulations. The place and time proposed for the joint session have not yet been determined, he said.

Child's Eager Hope Doomed

Between flashes of agony that came to her as she lay on her Dallas, Tex., hospital bed, little Grace Marie Long confided to her nurse that "she could hardly wait until she could get up and play games with her friends." But the child never will romp again as she has through 10 happy years. Her right leg was amputated at the knee after it had been cruelly shattered by a truck—and parents, nurse, and doctors waited in dread for the moment they would have to tell her.

LEGION AUXILIARY TO BE ORGANIZED

Meeting Is Called in Hotel Scharbauer for Friday Evening

A meeting for the purpose of organizing an auxiliary of the American Legion has been called for Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the junior dining room on the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Scharbauer.

Mothers, wives, widows, sisters or daughters of members of the American Legion or of World War veterans are eligible for membership in the auxiliary as well as women who of their own right are eligible to membership in the Legion. All women eligible who are interested in auxiliary work are invited to attend the meeting.

Committees will be appointed to assist with the entertaining of the Legion and Auxiliary convention here May 9-10. Mrs. Edith Hopson, district committeewoman, on a recent visit here stated that 100 women are expected to attend the convention.

James H. Goodman, commander of the local Woods W. Lynch Post, will be present to assist with the organization of the Auxiliary.

The American Legion Auxiliary was formed to work with the Legion in attaining the latter's goal of peace time service. Of special interest are its relief activities in time disaster such as flood or earthquake. In addition it sponsors rehabilitation work for disabled veterans, educational aid for war orphans, local community service, and various other projects.

BEHIND THE SCENES

—IN— WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Recent reports of indications that the big business-big finance opposition to Roosevelt was abating in its fury—with belief in the probability of his reelection resulting in an increasing disposition to make the best of a "bad business," even to planning horse trades with the administration—have brought corroborative details to this writer, but no denials.

Whatever the future of this tendency among the big boys, it can be reported that Roosevelt himself is right now as "cocky" as he has been at any time in the last four years and that his "cockiness" spreads right down through the administration. The president has felt himself on the upgrade ever since Al Smith made that Liberty League dinner speech. He believes that even the hostile shrieks of big business are subsiding behind mounting piles of industrial profits.

High officials in intimate touch with the private banking industry have told Roosevelt that as business improves the fears of the industrial-financial groups are subsiding. This is the way they explain it.

The administration has stood up against the threat of printing press money and the inflationists have practically folded up.

"So, all you would have to do is finance the thing and I would do all the worrying."

Milwaukee Wins Traffic Safety Honors by Vigilance and Rules

BY C. F. BUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
MILWAUKEE.—Strict enforcement of traffic laws must get final credit for making Milwaukee the safest large city in the United States.

Many motorists still must be forced to observe speed limits and heed stop signs and traffic control signals. But Milwaukee has simplified the task of enforcement with a system of traffic engineering that leaves no doubt in the mind of either driver or pedestrian as to what is

The inflation threat from excess reserves seems less menacing the longer it exists without materializing, and the more it appears that bankers aren't eager to lend rashly and that few wish to borrow.

The inflation threat from a rising stock market is discounted, because the Federal Reserve Board has twice boosted margin requirements and it's felt that the board won't hesitate in an emergency to use other ways to halt a runaway boom—such as its power to eliminate excess reserves.

Spending Worry Alleviated. Worry over government spending isn't what it was, because government itself has indicated an increasing concern over it. Better business means increased tax collections and there is promise of decreasing deficits.

Many corporations don't want the budget "balanced too much." Government spending has gone back into bank deposits until adjusted demand deposits are now back at approximately the 1929 figure.

The deposits are idle, but are largely in favor of large corporations, which finally skim off most of the profits as the government money goes "round and around."

RFC, HOLC, and FCA are now liquidating, taking in more money than they're paying out, and creating a profit.

All of which is a pretty picture drawn by important gentlemen with offices on Fifteenth Street, where you'll find the Treasury and Federal Reserve Board quarters.

Kickback for D. A. R.

The D. A. R. seems to be another of those organizations which produce boomerang type attacks on the administration.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who gets very little sympathy around Washington, benefited rather than suffered from a yarn said to have been circulated by the Pennsylvania D. A. R. recent to local chapters, to the effect that Miss Perkins had been one Matilda Wutski, who married a man named Paul Wilson in 1910.

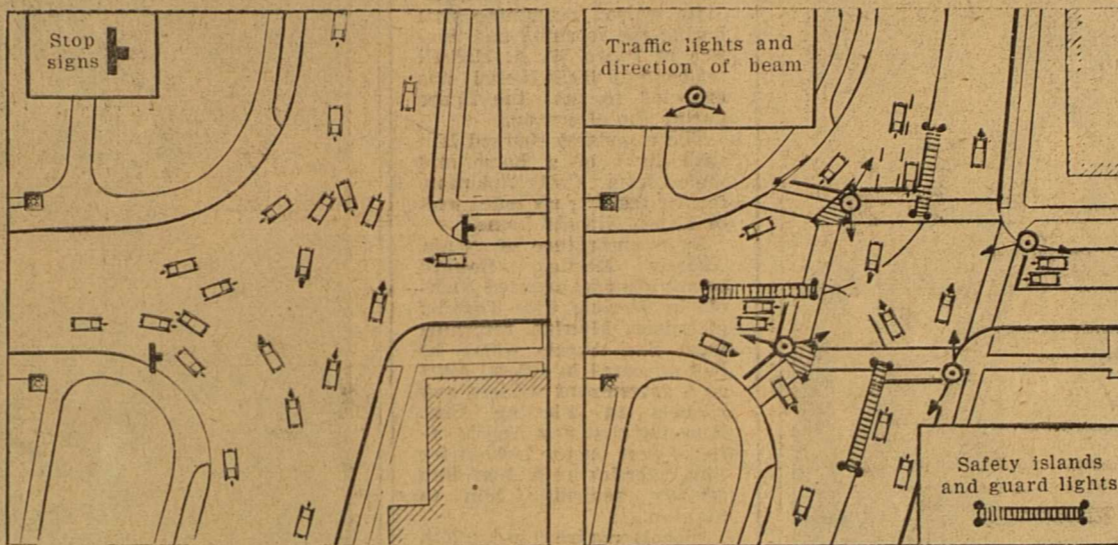

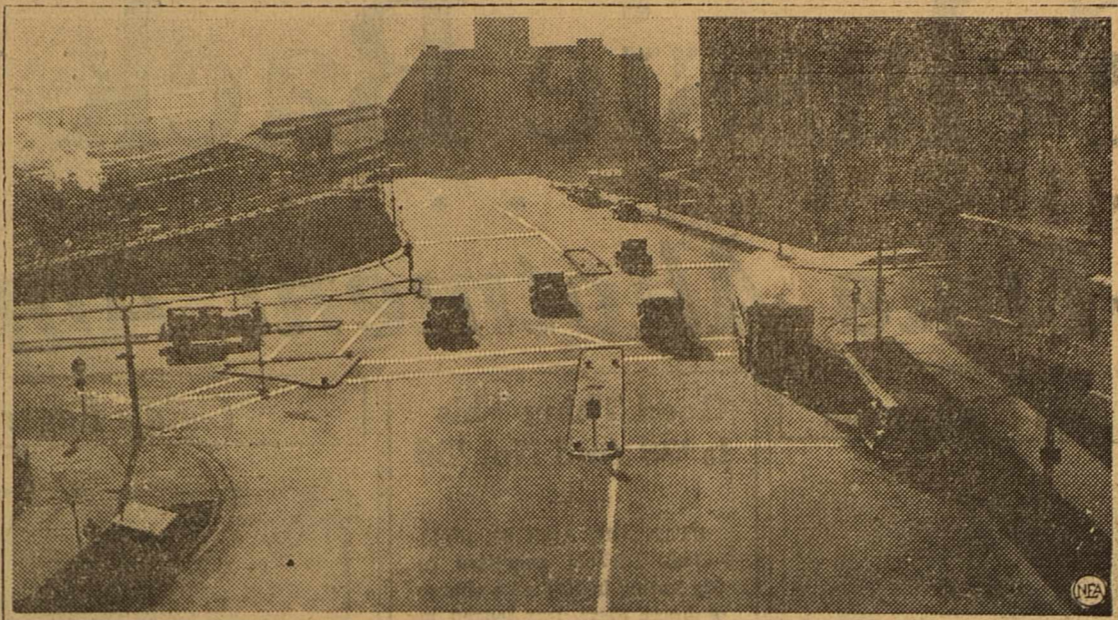

Senator Likes His Chew.

Senator Bob Reynolds of North Carolina: "I used to chew tobacco. We all have to learn the ways of our friends. With every chew of tobacco I took, however, I made a vote or two, and I have not forgotten how to chew tobacco."

Source of the falsehood was revealed at the D. A. R. convention here when Mrs. William A. Becker, president general, disavowed with visible embarrassment all responsibility for its circulation to the chapters.

Tricks Played on G. O. P.

There's plenty of room for suspicion that Democratic leaders aren't at all impressed with the desirability of adjourning Congress before the Republican convention in Cleveland June 9. Although the more important Republican members probably will be able to get to Cleveland, the fact that congress is in session tends to take a bit of the edge off a party's political show. Roosevelt himself has arranged to take the limelight off Cleveland will be willingly contributed.

Until channels, safety islands, and signal lights were installed to give this street intersection in Milwaukee the orderly appearance pictured, the intersection was a danger spot. Now safety islands and automatic signal lights guard motorists in their proper channels, and pedestrians have to look only in one direction as they hop from island to island. The two sketches below show conditions before and after channelization at the intersection photographed above.

Milwaukee's "safety campaign" is an all day, every day, year around affair. The city never puts on safety "drives" or indulges in other circus stunts.

"A 'drive' to enforce a particular item of the traffic code is an admission that the police department has been lax in such enforcement before," Chief Laubenheimer says.

"Every man in the department is trained in traffic work, 'beat' men as well as traffic officers, and all are ordered to enforce the traffic code to the letter every hour of the day and every day of the year."

No "Fixing" Here. Of the 45,215 traffic violators who were taken to court, 30,287 were fined, three were sent to prison, 13,560 were released after warning, 349 were released for want of sufficient evidence, sentence was suspended on 662, and the charges against 354 were dismissed by the court.

Police Enforce Law. The city's police "crack down" on the violators of a traffic law just as they do any other criminal.

If a motorist is given a ticket for anything from illegal parking to reckless driving, he knows that the possibility of "fixing" it is slim. Only three high police officials have the power to keep a case out of court after a "pinch." They are Chief J. G. Laubenheimer, Inspector John Bauschek, and Capt. Hugo Goehlen of the traffic bureau.

Of 45,433 arrests for traffic violations last year, only 218 failed for one reason or another, to reach court. Some were dropped for lack of evidence or because of mitigating circumstances. But none was dropped because the accused was a friend of a city official or because he had social, financial, or political power.

Milwaukee motorists know that they haven't forgotten that a couple of years ago one of the most influential aldermen in the city was arrested for drunken driving and, in spite of the pleas of other city officials, was compelled to stand trial

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything).

The fellow who got a black eye in a lover's quarrel finally admitted that it was his girl's other lover who hit him.

The man who tires of his wife's wrinkles and looks for smoother skin should remember that he had a part in causing the wrinkles.

Women often refer to men as fools, but I notice the women are still ready to marry 'em.

A young couple was attending church. When the plate was passed the young man searched every pocket and in his embarrassment audibly whispered to his girl: "I guess I haven't a cent. I changed my pants." Fortwith, the young lady canvassed her costume for a purse, turning very pink, she exclaimed: "I am in the same fix."

Some people never think of giving a newspaper item to a paper, but they remember the old paper when something happens which they want left out.

A recent police check at 2 o'clock in the morning at an intersection where traffic is controlled by a "stop and go" light showed that every driver on the street at that hour waited for the green light just as during the day when traffic was heavy.

Better Every Year. In 1928, 132 persons were killed in Milwaukee traffic accidents. The next year the toll was 127. In 1930 it was cut to 107; in 1931, to 102; to 86 in 1932, 72 in 1933, 66 in 1934, and 65 in 1935.

The Milwaukee Safety Commission, of which E. L. Corbett is executive secretary, is the clearing house for safety activities and information. The common council refers all questions of traffic control to it, and it never lets up in its program of education.

The commission is an unofficial bureau of the city government, composed of 15 representative citizens appointed by the mayor. Its chairman is William C. Knoek, assistant superintendent of public schools. He was responsible this year for safety instruction being made a compulsory part of the freshman English course in every high school.

Captain Goehlen is a member of the commission, as is Eugene Hackett, assistant fire chief. Another member is W. W. Rowland of the Milwaukee Journal, who pioneered in safety work in Milwaukee 30 years ago. Operators of truck fleets, merchants, and professional men complete its membership.

"Break" for Everybody. Howard F. Ilgner, superintendent and chief engineer of the bureau of electrical service, department of public works, is chairman of the commission's traffic committee. He planned and directed installation of the city's efficient system of mechanical aids to traffic control.

"We try to give both the motorist and the pedestrian a 'break,' Ilgner says. "Good traffic engineering must provide for the safety of both motorist and pedestrian with a minimum of annoyance and interference with either.

"An important reason for the success of Milwaukee's traffic control system is that it makes clear to everybody just what he is expected to do. Signals and signs are standardized and are always placed at the point of obedience.

"The driver knows, when he comes to a stop sign or an automatic stop signal, that he is expected to stop his car right there.

"A control device which is not needed is worse than none at all," expected of him.

Steady plugging away at the "Three E's" of traffic safety—education, engineering, and enforcement for five successive years has been responsible for Milwaukee having the lowest traffic death rate among cities of 500,000 or more.

The Milwaukeean's chance of being killed by a motor vehicle was only a little more than one in 1,000 in 1935. The city's traffic death Ilgner says: "It breaks down the drivers' respect for all such devices. Here a 'Stop' sign means stop, and not 'slow'."

We've just noticed a pamphlet in the office entitled "Your Rights Under the Constitution". Just now, we're more interested in our rights under the weather—and first of these we'd place as the right NOT to have a cold on spring days.

Reading all these accounts of children's birthday parties with cakes containing five or eight or 12 candles makes us wonder if there isn't some way for those of us who are older to have a birthday cake with candles without having the number of them betray our age.

Certainly nobody appreciates the number of trying to compose a column in a newspaper office. Just as we have our brain clicking along nicely (considering its limited ability to click), we are thrown off our line of thought by what appears to be serious and heated discussion in the other part of the office. We pause to investigate. It proves to be nothing except a high-pressure salesman trying to convince a more or less determined advertising manager that the latter is all wrong in his ideas—and not getting anywhere with it.

Probably the only reason that man-tailored shirts are not more popular with women is that not one woman in five can knot a tie in the proper way to accompany one.

Wednesday Club Has Program on "Music" in Study Session

Presenting a program on "Music" the Wednesday club met for its last study session of the club year at the home of Mrs. John P. Butler, 308 S. Marienfeld, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Geo. Glass was leader for the afternoon. She presented a paper dealing with music in the home and the great operatic singers of the present day, such as Lily Pons, Lawrence Tibbett, Gladys Swarthout, and others.

The hostess, taking the place on the program of Mrs. C. M. Goldsmith, presented a short paper on "Evolution of the Opera".

The Atlantic "Panel Plan" has been adopted as the course of study for the coming year. Mrs. W. T. Walsh giving the report on the plan. Sixteen members of the club have taken subscriptions to the Atlantic Monthly. Under the "Panel Plan", outlines are sent to five panel speakers to be prepared for each program, together with a leader's introduction for the chairman and 19 general outlines for members to use in the discussion following the program speakers.

The Atlantic Monthly also sends each member a brochure, "A Tonic for Book Reviewers" by Edward Weeks. Prizes will be presented twice this year to the member of the club who sends in the best written review of a book. Three prizes will be awarded.

Announcement was made of the leasing of the library property where the former library building stood. The club will use the proceeds from the lease for the purchase of additional books for the county library.

Mrs. Geo. Glass will be hostess to the social meeting which will close the season's work in May, it was announced.

Present were: Meses. Hugh Barnes, J. M. DeArmond, Frank Elkin, Andrew Fasken, Geo. Glass, M. E. Hill, R. L. Miller, John Perkins, M. D. Seif, W. T. Walsh, W. G. Whitehouse, a visitor, Mrs. Murray, and the hostess.

EDEN

By Helen Welshimer

THE hills that march to Eden
Grow higher with the years;
When one begins the journey
The higher land appears
To be a little distant,
Oh, never very far,
A mile or maybe two miles
From any place you are.

A S mountains in a clear land
Seem close when they are not,
So Eden is chameleon,
And when its fields are sought
It drifts beyond the questing,
It lifts a spire to say:
"What makes you think you'll enter
My premises today?"

BUT Eden is surprising,
Oh, suddenly, sometimes
Its clean fields, its green fields,
Its sweet, unbroken chimneys,
Come hastily before us—
A miracle is wrought,
Heaven is a strange land,
Not found when it is sought.

Elma Jean Noble Has Poem in Anthology Of Child Verse

"The Forgotten Toys," a poem written by Elma Jean Noble, daughter of Mrs. Susie G. Noble, is included in the anthology of children's poetry, "Colts of Pegasus," which has recently come from the press of the Tardy publishing company at Dallas. The poem was written when Elma Jean was only eight years old.

The anthology is compiled by Frances Coffin Boaz who conducts poetry programs over station KTTAT and in this way collected most of the material for the book. A second poem of Elma Jean's was also accepted by Mrs. Boaz but since it was written at the age of nine, it was not included in the volume because of the difficulty of classifying according to the two ages, she explained. "Colts of Pegasus" is a novel adventure in anthology making in the Southwest as it presents poems actually written by children of various ages. The volume is attractively bound, and is now on the shelves of the county library.

Order Destroyer to Port At Brownsville

BROWNSVILLE (AP).—The U. S. S. Dickerson, a destroyer now at Jacksonville, Fla., has been ordered here for the three-day Brownsville port celebration, May 14, 15 and 16, a telegram from Congressman Milton H. West announces.

This brings to five the number of ships to be in the turning basin for the celebration and others are expected. Announcement had been made that the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Saranac would be here, and the Coast Guard patrol boat Woodberry has been ordered to be present.

The Texas Company has announced it would have an oil tanker in port and the Commercial Tanker of More & McCormack Lines will be on hand. Several large private yachts also are expected.

Brownsville Areas Without Donkeys

BROWNSVILLE (AP).—This border country once so well populated with donkeys that some sections of it were named for the animals, now finds it is practically donkeyless.

At least the Democratic national committee has found it that way. A. Porter, representative of Women's Press Association of Washington, D. C., left here recently more or less in disgust after roaming the prairie lands hunting for a dozen donkeys for the Democratic convention at Philadelphia this summer. He wanted them for a baseball game.

Thousands of donkeys formerly roaming wild over the lands near the coast and some of these sections are listed on the maps as "jackass prairie". A number of the animals were shot for lion food at Snakeville, local zoo, but the dipping regulations proved more expensive to the owners than the value of the donkeys. Cowboys then drove them across the Rio Grande in a body to purchasers in Mexico and silence broods where once the bray was a familiar echo.

Banded Bluejay Recaptured

WAUKESHA, Wis. (U.P.)—A bluejay, banded here three years ago by Vernon Rossman, government ornithologist, recently was recaptured by Harold Frank, Waukesha. Rossman said he had banded 2336 birds but the bluejay bird is the first bird to be recaptured.

Nervous diseases are much more prevalent among brain workers than among other people.

expected to pour from the Treasury during this short period classified as follows: $300,000,000 on old Agricultural Adjustment Administration contracts, $200,000,000 monthly for relief and public works expenditures, up to $2,000,000,000 in soldiers' bonus money, and $440,000,000 in farmer payment contracts under the substitute farm program. Since early November, commercial bank lending has shown definite indications of expansion. Total loans on securities of the reporting member banks increased from $3,033,000,000 on November 8 to $3,995,000,000 on April 8, indicating a growing flow of commercial bank credit into security speculation channels.

"The 'other loans' of the reporting member banks expanded during November and December, and then dropped off slightly during January. From January 20 to April 18, however, these loans have increased from $3,304,000,000 to $3,508,000,000. This expansion of some $200,000,000 is significant in that 'other loans' represent largely lending to finance the working capital needs of business. A continuation of this trend would be highly significant as it would indicate an expansion in the effective demand for short term commercial credit.

"Excess reserve balances of the member banks continue to be huge, aggregating in mid-April some $2,450,000,000. These balances can be expected to increase with the expected spurt in government spending during the next few months. A tremendous volume of idle bank credit therefore will continue to hang over the money market thus guaranteeing low interest rates for many months to come. Indeed it is unlikely that the government will permit any material tightening of the money market so long as heavy Treasury deficits necessitate new borrowing."

Get Feet Ready For the Outdoors

By ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer.

The fact that European soldiers massage lard into the skin on their feet before they start on long marches should make all of us realize that foot softening beauty treatments are important to foot comfort.

You may not contemplate any ten-mile hikes this spring, but you will be walking more than you did during the winter, and you might as well see that your feet are in the best possible condition. If you doubt that correct care makes a difference in the way your feet look and feel, make this test:

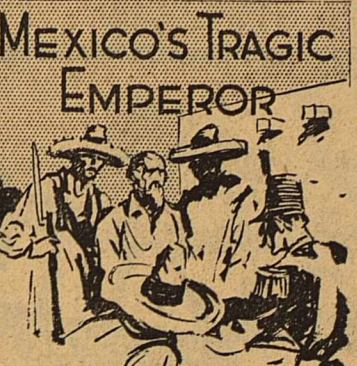

Every night for two weeks rub a good foot cream or some of your richest nourishing cream from toes upward to ankles. Keep rubbing until almost all of it has been absorbed. Wipe off the excess before going to bed. If you like, substitute camphor ice for cream. Callouses and rough spots can be removed with pumice. After a bath, dip a piece of pumice in water, then gently rub it over the hardened areas for no more than thirty seconds. Don't try to remove a hard callous during the first, or even the fifth treatment. Be patient. It took plenty of time for the rough spot to develop and you shouldn't expect to remove it in two evenings. Always use cream after a pumice stone treatment.

For extra sensitive feet, semi-weekly baking soda baths are excellent. Simply dissolve one-half cupful of soda in a basin of tepid water and soak your feet for twenty minutes.

Not until the end of the 16th century did the cult of pillar saints disappear.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

MEXICO was under great debt to Europe, when Louis Napoleon of France saw in it a means of strengthening his influence in America. And so, despite the refusal of England and Spain to back him, he sent over a French squadron. In the fall of 1862, while the United States was busy with its own Civil War, Napoleon raised the French flag over Chapultepec, then capital of Mexico.

Then came Prince Ferdinand Maximilian, Archduke of Austria, to ascend the throne of the new empire which Napoleon III had created for him. It was a tragic turn in the life of a noble dreamer. A plebiscite had elected him emperor, in 1864, but protests of the American Congress, and guerrilla warfare of Mexico's former president, Juarez, soon weakened his power and brought about the end of his rule in 1867.

The empress, Carlotta, rushed to France and then to Rome for aid; and when she was rebuffed, became violently insane. Maximilian never saw her again, for she remained abroad and he was taken prisoner and shot.

The portrait of this tragic ruler appears on a single stamp that Mexico issued in 1866. It is shown here. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

NYA Enabling Many To Enter Colleges

AUSTIN, April 29.—Twenty freshmen college centers set up by the National Youth Administration last fall, have enabled more than 900 students unable to enroll in regular colleges, to continue their higher education during the current school year, J. C. Kellam, director of NYA student aid, said today.

Mr. Kellam stated that each student will have had an opportunity to secure an average of six semester hours of accredited first-year college work by July 1, the date on which the last center will close.

Each center is co-sponsored by a college or university. Twenty-four teachers are employed in the centers and subjects taught include: Business administration, history, social science, education, mathematics, orientation and English.

Where students have been unable to purchase books, they have been provided by civic clubs. Parent Teachers Associations, and sponsoring institutions. Youths with high school diplomas and from families subject to work relief are eligible to attend the centers.

Past Month Devoid Of Developments in Finance and Banking

AUSTIN.—The past month has been singularly devoid of striking new developments in the field of banking and finance. It was pointed out by Dr. J. C. Dolley, University of Texas economist, in his monthly survey of the financial situation for the University Bureau of Business Research.

"During this period the Supreme Court has had an opportunity in the Jones case to rule on the constitutionality of the Federal Securities Act," Dr. Dolley said. "The six to three majority opinion against the government, however, carefully avoided any reference to the legality of the Securities Act itself, being limited narrowly to a ruling on Securities Exchange Commission procedure. In brief the court held that the registrant of a new security issue could change his mind about issuing the new securities and, prior to the date on which his registration statement became effective, could withdraw his registration statement without being subject to any further investigation by the Securities Exchange Commission."

"Late in March, the Federal Reserve Board issued new regulations tightening somewhat the existing requirements as to margins in security trading. Under the new rules both brokers and banks are forbidden to lend more than 45 per cent of the market price of stocks to traders, although, in lending to security brokers and dealers, banks are permitted to lend up to 60 per cent of the current market value of registered securities. These regulations apparently apply only at the time of original purchase of stock by the trader, the maintenance of minimum margins subsequently being left to stock exchange regulation.

"The Federal Reserve Board therefore has substituted a flat margin requirement for traders of 55 per cent of the market price of the stock for the old complicated regulations which were designed to prevent pyramiding of profits and to cushion a possible severe decline in stock prices. The practical effect of the changes will be to require somewhat higher margins on new commitments and thus to discourage very slightly stock speculation. Certainly the new requirements will not constitute any effective brake on the present stock market as is evidenced by the rather steadily rising security prices of the past month.

"Some weeks ago, the Federal Reserve Board completed the re-organization of the Open Market Committee as provided by the Banking Act of 1935. The new committee will be composed of the seven members of the Federal Reserve Board and five presidents of individual federal reserve banks, thus placing control in the hands of the board. The committee apparently will have broad powers to determine open market policy and procedure, all reserve banks being required to participate pro rata in any open market program which may be adopted. Apparently no change in open market policy is in immediate prospect. Under the present set-up, however, any marked tendency toward a tightening of money market interest rates would doubtless touch off another open market buying campaign.

"Aside from a modest gain in commercial bank lending, monetary and banking trends continue to be largely unchanged. Currency in circulation continues to expand rather steadily. Since December 26, 1934, when this trend developed, the total of money in circulation adjusted for seasonal variation has increased from $5,308,000,000 to $5,916,000,000, as of April 15, 1936, an expansion of some $600,000,000. The figure of $5,916,000,000 compares with $4,717,000,000 of money in circulation reported by the Treasury for July 31, 1929, the peak of the last cyclical prosperity period.

"Not only is the country using a great deal more currency than in 1929 but the volume is steadily expanding. The explanation usually offered for this phenomenon is that more money is now needed in circulation than in 1929 because fewer banks are operating today and fewer people are carrying checking accounts. To a considerable extent this is doubtless correct. Nevertheless, the steady increase in circulating currency during the past fifteen months is somewhat disquieting.

"Foreign exchange rates during the past six weeks have moved definitely in favor of the dollar. As a result the net gain in monetary gold imports from March 11 to April 15 amounting to $11,223,000. Pressure on the French franc appears to be subsiding once again but little progress apparently has been made in correcting the underlying maladjustments. The critical position of the French budget, political upheavals, or another European war scare could easily start another flight from the franc and result in the long expected franc devaluation.

RIDDLE SEES BREVITY TOW-ROPING KENTUCKY DERBY FIELD

Picked Out of the Iron Hat

BOLD VENTURE, NED REIGH, GRAND SLAM COLDSTREAM AND THE FIGHTER THREATS

By MAX RIDDLE

NEA Service Turf Writer

LOUISVILLE.—Brevity appears a certainty to tow-rope the field in the Kentucky Derby, May 2.

I look for the Joseph E. Widener star's main opposition to come from Bold Venture, Ned Reigh—if he is right—Grand Slam, and possibly from the Milky Way Farm entry of The Fighter and Sangreal.

Coldstream is another which may make a fight of it. Some say that if some horse races Brevity eye to eye, the current pride of Elmendorf will be beaten, especially if some distance horse is behind. But name the sprinter that will do this trick, or the stayer which will come on!

Brevity has speed, even though to match that of Tintagel. He can carry weight and apparently will go the distance without shortening up. Tintagel is almost certainly a sprinter which will stop short of the distance.

Hollywood looks to me to be little better. His early class has been lacking.

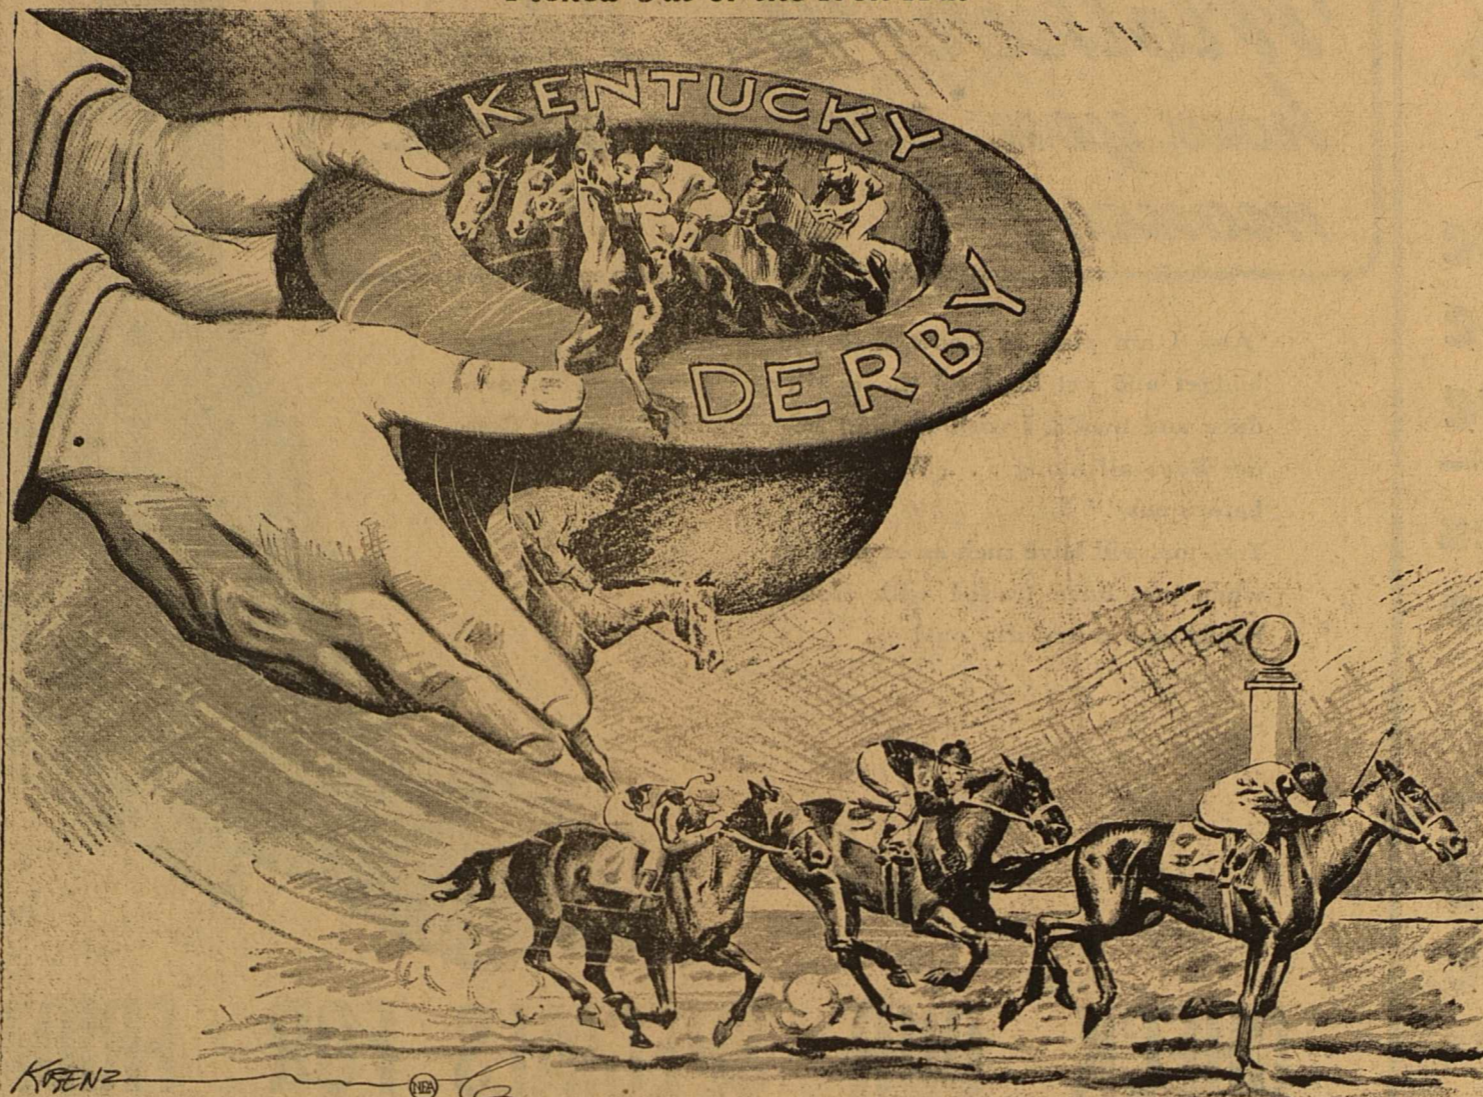

The Fighter and Sangreal may go a mile and a quarter, but their races haven't been smashing enough to warrant the assumption they can beat Brevity, even as a team.

Teamwork of Milky Way

Pair Held Not Enough

The Fighter has speed. So has Sangreal. But if they get out with Tintagel and Brevity will have anything left for the finish. Brevity, Bold Venture and Ned Reigh can make it. If they lay off the pace Brevity may too far in front to catch. The teamwork of the Milky Way pair won the Texas Derby, but not by enough to hope for a repeat in the Kentucky affair.

Tintagel's dam was Heloise, dam of the sprinter Sergeant Byrne.

How They Finished Place ??? Show ??? Win ???

by HARRY GRAYSON

Whole hearted support of patrons spurs Detroit teams and individuals to a monopoly on major sport titles never equalled by any other city. DETROIT.—What makes Detroit teams and individual competitors so outstanding? The automobile center boasts a monopoly on championships never equalled by any other city.

Harry Leduc, Detroit sports writer points out that the encouragement of this city, as a spending, sport-loving populace, has given its representatives has played an important part. Toward the end of the 1934 campaign, when Mickey Cochrane was completing the job of lashing the Tigers, who finished a scraggly fifth the year before, to the first American League pennant in 25 years, he remarked that he wouldn't dare return to Detroit if the club failed to win.

The Tigers have played to a million paid admissions at Navin Field in each of the last two seasons. Being from Detroit means something. Look at this list of champions:

Baseball: Tigers, world champions. Hockey: Red Wings, champions of the National League; Olympics, champions of the International League.

Football: Lions, champions of the National League. Boxing: Joe Louis, generally considered the best heavyweight since Jack Dempsey.

Bowling: Hank Smith, national team champion. Golf: Walter Hagen, captain of the victorious Ryder Cup team.

Billiards: Jake Ankrom, national amateur three-cushion champion. Motorboating: Gar Wood, with Miss America X, holder of the world record for speed on water; Herbert Mendelson's Notre Dame, winner of the President's Cup.

Outboard racing: Gar Wood, Jr., national Class A interscholastic champion.

Tennis: Constance O'Donovan and Esther Chalove Politzer, national public courts doubles cham-

Amateur track: Bill Bonthron, 1-500 meter world record holder.

Field: Clark Haskins, national A. A. U. 56-pound weight champion.

Diving: Dick Degener and Al Root, national champions. Swimming: Detroit Athletic Club, national A. A. U. team champion.

Customers String Along With Teams

COCHRANE and Jack Adams, manager of the Red Wings, will tell you before the start of any season, "If I can get this bunch up, if I can make them fight, if the fans will string along until we get going, we'll go places—we'll be there at the finish."

Detroit, of course, struck with no success formula heretofore hidden to the history of thought, but it has, in the last three years, enjoyed something of a renaissance or re-discovery of the value, or rather the absolute necessity for applying the mind and the heart to the physical; the encouragement of the patrons having been a natural sequel to a realization that sincerity and determination were utilized factors. "In a way this rebirth dates from the hockey season of 1933-34 when Adams took a squad of youngsters misfits, and inferiors, and kidded, cajoled, and threatened them into the playoffs against the Toronto Maple Leafs, with the National League championship at stake," says Leduc.

"The Toronto team that the Red Wings defeated in the deciding game for the Stanley Cup the other night still may be a great one but the Leafs of 1933-34 were infinitely greater, where as the Wings of that season do not bear favorable comparison with the Wings of the season just ended.

"The Wings beat the Leafs in the '34 series to win the title and they did it almost wholly on nerve and fight and determination; on all other counts they were obviously inferior.

Cochrane Takes Cue From Hockey COCHRANE was in Detroit during the winter of 1933-34, having just been signed to pilot the Tigers. The Scotch-Irishman was round the city a lot, making friends, giving speeches, and seeing things. He saw a number of hockey games. After one of the Wing's victories, Cochrane remarked:

"If I can get the Tigers to play ball the way Adams has the Wings playing hockey, we'll be up there; at least we'll have a team worth watching, a fighting team."

Detroit, which has supported Adams' teams to the extent of spending thousands of dollars to see them put up an honest, whole-hearted fight, believed what Cochrane said. Detroit turned out to Cochrane's team, paying more thousands for the privilege.

Potsy Clark just missed the professional football title in 1934 and lifted his array to victory in 1935. Again the word spread around that the Lions were leveling" and Detroit went out to see.

Detroit individuals have had the encouragement of the groups interested in their sports.

Just what part the mind, the heart, and the mob played in supplementing the physical is something, of course, that cannot be ascribed, but Detroit's record today is proof of the value of these attributes.

Detroit is supreme because of what is "above the ears" and "in the heart" and "in the mob."

Summer of Racing Seen At Salt Beds

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A summer of speed racing, with streamlined automobiles of revolutionary design streaking across the Bonneville Salt Flats to attack world records, is in prospect here.

Capt. George E. T. Eyston, England's 39-year-old speed driver and Ab Jenkins, American automobile ace, will be the participants.

Eyston will attack all existing records above 100 miles an hour with his mysterious new Diesel-powered car. The Flying Spray. He will attempt to regain all records up to 100 miles an hour with his Speed of the Winds, a 12-cylinder 450-horsepower "petrol" powered car.

German Holds Records. Eyston held all records up to 100 miles an hour, established on the salt flats here, until a German, Von Stuck, averaged 156 miles an hour a few weeks ago, to shatter his records.

The English driver, who arrived in America on April 14, will seek his 191st automobile racing record. He piloted his queer-looking Speed of the Winds at 167,098 miles an hour to shatter the world's speed record for 10 miles last September. Eleven days later, he broke the 12-hour record at 139,847 miles an hour and the 24-hour run at 140,522 miles.

Single Sleeve Valves Used. The Flying Spray is powered with a 12-cylinder Ricardo Aviation Diesel engine with a 17-liter piston capacity. This should give it up to 900 horsepower. It has single sleeve valves.

His Speed of the Winds, a 12-cylinder 450-horsepower car, has been overhauled and streamlined since the speed attacks last fall. It will use special British Ethyl spirit gasoline sent from London.

Jenkins recently announced plans to attack Sir Malcolm Campbell's 301-mile-an-hour world's speed record and recapture the 24-hour speed crown.

He expects to have a new 700-horsepower car ready for the 24-hour grind by June 1. Equipped with an airplane motor, the car will be more than twice as powerful as the 325-horsepower machine he drove at a world's record speed of 130 miles an hour for 24 hours last year.

Rated at 350 M.P.H. The speedster in which he plans to attack Campbell's record is expected to be capable of a speed of 350 miles an hour, he said. Two airplane motors, capable of developing 1500 to 1800 horsepower each, will power it. Campbell's Bluebird generated 2400 horsepower. Jenkins expects his new juggernaut to develop from 3200 to 3600 horsepower.

The new car, costing approximately $50,000, is being built at the Lycoming plant at Williamsport, Pa., and will be completed this fall or

WEIGHT MAY BE TOO MUCH FOR FLEET INDIAN BROOM; GRAND SLAM IS MUDDER

Hollywood has more speed blood in him than staying. Bull Dog got in St. Bernard a colt that could go a distance, but not against the tops. Coldstream will be in better Derby shape than was St. Bernard a year ago, but both he and The Fighter will have to prove their distance ability before they can be rated as formidable over a route. The same is true of Sangreal, the dam of which, Hayai, was pure speed blood.

Coldstream proved that he could slaughter St. Bernard, and his connections believe him a winner.

Grand Slam Likes Mud;

Bold Venture a Stayer

Grand Slam, always something of an enigma, should go well in mud, but his first outing on a fast track was none too impressive. Yet, he is a shifty sort that surprises with a tremendous performance just when you least expect it.

Indian Broom is as speedy, or faster, than either Brevity or Tintagel. The son of Brooms-Kawita might be the thoroughbred to run those two and Coldstream into the dirt. Yet weight will stop a train, and the Canadian-owned horse will pick up 32 pounds more than he had in the saddle in his world record race at Tanforan. The 2000-mile journey won't do him any good, but if he is in top shape, the burden of 126 pounds still figures to cut him down to a conquering size.

Stretch one length farther now and assume that M. L. Schwartz's Bold Venture, apparently one of true high class, has no better luck than he had in 1935, and you have Brevity in a class by himself. Bold Venture suffered all manner of ill fortune just when he seemed to be the best juvenile of last year.

Brevity will win.

Bold Venture will be coming from behind.

Coldstream possibly will be making it tough for both of them.

Forget Bradley and forget the sprinters.

early next spring.

The salt flats said to be the fastest racing grounds in the world, were used by Campbell to establish his world's record. They are expected to be dry enough for the speed trials by July.

Bird Collection Is Loaned University

AUSTIN, Texas. (AP)—A collection of native Texas birds, considered one of the largest of its kind in the state, has been loaned to the University Centennial Exposition and the Texas Memorial Museum by the state game, fish and oyster commission, William L. McGill, director of the Exposition, announces.

Now being renovated by division of zoology experts, the collection, which represents some 10 percent of the total species of birds native to Texas, will be displayed during the June to December period of the University Centennial Exposition and then placed in the Texas Memorial museum.

Originally meant to be a complete representation of all known Texas birds, the collection was started eleven years ago when the Commission was headed by W. V. Boyd. The actual collection and preparation of the specimens was done under the supervision of R. D. Camp of Brownsville, well-known Texas naturalist.

STOMACH SUFFERERS

If you are suffering from indigestion, atonic dyspepsia, sour stomach, gas pains, "raw stomach," inflammation of the intestines (enteritis), gastric acidity and sick headaches, due to excessive acidity, you can't afford to ignore these warning signs. You should try at once the Doctor's Prescription, known as Gasa Tablets. If you allow these conditions to become worse, the acids may eat into the delicate mucous membrane of your stomach and intestine and possibly cause dangerous ulcers. Gasa Tablets soothe the raw, inflamed lining of the "acid stomach" and help convert starchy foods into dextrins, which is so essential to energy of the body, and preservation of health. Take just one or two Gasa Tablets and see how they help your stomach to "tackle a hearty meal." The first bottle must produce results or money back. On sale at

Children Round-Up
New Health Project

AUSTIN—One of the most interesting round-ups of Centennial year in Texas is the summer round-up of the children who will enter school next fall. The summer round-up of the children is the major health project of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The local parent-teacher group of each community endeavors to have parents who have children ready to enter school next fall, take those children to their family physician for a physical examination so that any defects they might have may be corrected during the summer months. It takes the special knowledge which a physician has acquired to discover and remove any physical or mental handicap which threatens a child's well-being. A fall check-up is made of these same children, with the result that the child entering school for the first time may be free from physical and mental handicaps as possible.

It is a most essential factor in the life of each child that he be free from all physical defects in order that he may do his best work when in school. The child has been allowed to play most of his time until he comes of school age, so it is most important that all handicaps be removed when he is asked to take up

Public Praises Play by Faculty

The following statements made by members of the High School faculty and pastors express the reactions of citizens to the faculty play which was presented to an audience of approximately 600 at the High School auditorium Tuesday evening.

"The faculty play reached again the high standards of excellence which we have learned to expect of it. It was well chosen, and excellently well cast. It was entertaining, amusing, and instructive.

To mention any one or two actors as stars of the play would be unjust; for there was not a single character that was not made over-flowingly vital and convincing by the one who impersonated it.

To choose such a play, to prepare it so perfectly, and to present it so admirably would reflect credit upon any school faculty in Texas. It demonstrates the very highest standards in intelligence, training, and talent.

We say to the faculty, 'Again we congratulate you, and thank you.'

—Rev. K. C. Minter

characters were projected, and the smoothness of the whole three acts reflected careful selection of both the play and cast, hours of hard work, perfect cooperation, and unusual ability on the part of every one concerned. The excellence of the entire performance warranted without question the spontaneous and hearty applause accorded it by an appreciative audience."

—Miss Jessie Belle Cummings

"It was my pleasure to be one of a great crowd that witnessed the annual faculty play, 'Xen-opy,' a three-act comedy given at the High School auditorium Tuesday evening, by eight members of the faculty.

It is one of the best plays that I have seen in a long time. Full of human interest from the first to the last. True to life and its experiences that are so common to all. Splendid judgment was shown in the selection made.

As to the rendition of the play, every character seemed to fit perfectly into the part assigned them, and rendered the same in such a way as to develop the peculiar characteristics of each character. Each player proved to be an artist, and I think we as patrons should feel justly proud that we have such splendid talent among our teachers.

I am proud of our fine superintendent, Mr. Lackey, and every member of the faculty, and I want to say that I believe that we have one of the best school systems that I have ever known. I congratulate you and the very fine work that you are doing."

Former Midland Boy Is Named Missionary To Nigeria, Africa

Word has been received here that Dr. H. Glenn Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Walker and former resident of Midland, and his wife have been appointed medical missionaries to Nigeria in West Africa. The appointment has been made by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

Dr. Walker, who was born in Oklahoma and completed high school at Dalhart in 1925, came to Midland in 1929, after his parents had moved here the previous year. He was employed at the Anderson-Sundquist lumber yard.

His college work included two years at Baylor University at Waco and four years at Baylor Medical school in Dallas. He received both his M. D. and bachelor degrees from the latter institution in May, 1935. He is also a first lieutenant in the Medical Reserve corps of the United States army.

In December, 1933, he married Miss Olive Balcock of Dallas. The couple has one child—a nine-months old son—David Ray Walker—who is now visiting his grandparents here.

Geaslin Rites Will Be Held On Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Jack Geaslin, the former Miss Francine Fowler, who died at Odessa early Wednesday morning will be held in the First Christian church at Odessa Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. It was learned here today. A number of Midland people are expected to attend the services.

Mrs. Geaslin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fowler, formerly lived at Midland with her parents. She was a former student of piano under Miss Lydia G. Watson who presented her in a recital at the Hotel Scharbauer two years ago. Although only 19 years of age, Mrs. Geaslin had won wide recognition of her ability as a pianist and a promising future had been forecast for her.

She is survived by her husband, a baby daughter, and her parents.

Funeral Services Today for Garrett

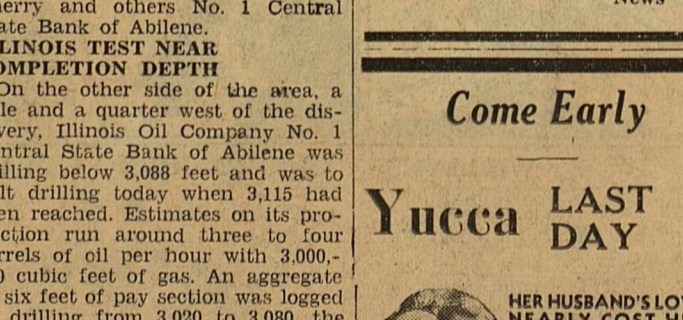

Funeral services will be held at the Ellis Funeral Home at five o'clock this afternoon for Al Garrett 53, McCamey man who died here yesterday morning following a long illness.

Garrett was brought here from McCamey late Tuesday night but succumbed at about ten o'clock yesterday morning in a local hospital.

The services this afternoon will be in charge of Winston F. Borum, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Surviving Garrett are his widow and nine children, also three sisters, Miss Lizzie Garrett, and Mrs. Sam Holmes of Midland and Mrs. Gordon Reiger of Grand Falls, and one brother, H. M. Garrett of McCamey.

Now at Ritz

Engaged couples will learn what every married couple shouldn't know when they see Ross Alexander and Anita Louise in "Brides Are Like That," First National's hilarious nightmare of newlyweds and wild relatives which is now showing at the Ritz theatre.

ILLINOIS TEST NEAR COMPLETION DEPTH
On the other side of the area, a mile and a quarter west of the discovery, Illinois Oil Company No. 1 Central State Bank of Abilene was drilling below 3,088 feet and was to halt drilling today when 3,115 had been reached. Estimates on its production run around three to four barrels of oil per hour with 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas. An aggregate of six feet of pay section was logged in drilling from 3,020 to 3,030, the thickest, some three feet, being found from 3,070 to 3,080. Operators believe that they are now in the Brown-Altman pay. They will run tubing and make a test of natural production, although the well may be shot later. It is located in the southeast corner of the southwest quarter of section 23, block 26, public school land.

After some delay while waiting for delivery of 3-inch drill-pipe to the rig, Bert Fields and others No. 1 Pure-Clapp in the northeast corner of section 26, block 26, public school land, a half mile west of the Keyes and Cherry discovery, yesterday drilled plug from 7-inch casing set and cemented at 2,700 and when last reported was drilling lime at 2,740.

E. R. Baban and R. R. Rhodes, Fort Worth oil men, are in town. They are associated in the drilling of a wildcat test in Yoakum county.

Horace Butler of the Arab Gasoline company at Eastland was in Midland yesterday.

3-D Horse Is Now Stabled at Downs

Porte Andy, 4-year-old gelding formerly in the Three-D stables, is at Midland Downs awaiting the opening of the meet May 22-30, his owner, J. R. Dillard of Big Spring, in charge. The horse was raced by the Waggoner stable here at last fall's meet.

Sired by Porte Drapeau, out of Harry Mandy, the brown gelding is considered a likely candidate for the $1000 added Merchants Handicap May 30. Dillard said he would nominate the horse soon and will train him here constantly until the meet opens.
