Winn Remembers Years Of Gas Service Here

Jess P. (Pesky) Winn reviews his 42 years as an employee of what is now known as Energas. Winn officially retired on March 31, 1992, although he had served as a consultant the past few weeks before retirement.

"I thought I had a sense of familiarity, at least, about all facets of the natural gas distribution business, and then came retirement, which I found I was a novice at," Winn stated. "But as of the first part of April, I got my first retirement check, and finally a conviction that I was retired."

"People said it would not last (working for the gas company) and I guess they were right, I only worked 42 and a half years, Winn continued.

Winn began his career with the gas company the day after Thanksgiving in 1949, for the old original West Texas Gas Company, as the first service man in Muleshoe.

"As I remember it we had one irrigation well on natural gas, that was a constant worry to me," said Winn. "I don't know how they drilled the well so close to our Lubbock to Farwell Transmission line. I was concerned when I read that meter, thinking the motor might thrash and I would get blamed for it. The well owner was

Report Child Abuse Stressed By Local Board

Some children can't, or won't, cry for help when they need it—even when their lives may be in danger. They are the thousands of victims of child abuse and neglect whose suffering may go unchecked for years, often permanently impairing their health and development and sometimes costing their lives. Such children may be too young, too terrified or simply too confused to be able to tell anyone about it.

But even without being told, you may be able to spot the symptoms of abuse and neglect if you know what to look for in a child's appearance and behavior and in the parent's or caregiver's behavior. When you think you've seen evidence of child abuse or neglect, you must act in the child's behalf. It is essential that you report any suspected case of child abuse or neglect to the people who are prepared to help the child.

Your phone call may be that child's only cry for help.

There are three kinds of child abuse: Physical abuse inflicting bodily injury on a child.

Sexual abuse is involving a child in sexual activities with or without the child's consent, and Emotional abuse, which includes demanding more than a child is able to do, or severely criticizing or humiliating him/her.

If you suspect a child has been abused or neglected, you are asked to report it to the Texas Department of

Muleshoe Passed Over For Prison Location

Muleshoe was not among the communities selected as a site for a correctional facility. Duane Lloyd, chairman of the Muleshoe Area Industrial, who was in Austin Friday called Kenneth Henry, member of the Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation, and he in turn called a press conference at 2 p.m. Friday.

"The MAIF regrets this initial setback, but reminds the citizens of this community that this was our first attempt to obtain such a project," said Henry. "Most of those communities selected in this round of bidding were communities who had applied two years ago, and were passed over, and had now re-applied for a project.

"We feel that the Justice Department was very fair with us, this was just a political thing," said Henry.

"Most importantly of all, the MAIF thanks the people of this community for their wholehearted support of this project, and assure the citizenry that the efforts to bring industry to this area will continue.

"The people of the Muleshoe community played an important role in preparing this prison site proposal and will be of importance in the continuing efforts. The MAIF is very proud of the support given from start to finish," Henry continued.

"We missed out this time but we

LOVE QUILT--presented by the women of the Progress Circle of the First United Methodist Church here was given to Jerri (at left) and Bill Savuto. "We are folded in the arms of God now," notes Jerri. She and her husband note that there are Muleshoes quilted in the corners of the quilt and that almost fifty names of friends and associates are embroidered on the quilt. On receiving the quilt, Jerri and Bill "couldn't believe the generosity" of the women who gave of their time and energies to create it. (Journal Photo)

Gift Of Love Showers Savutos

By Joyce Adams

Recently members of the Progress Circle of the United Methodist Women presented Jerri and Bill Savuto a gift of love. After many painstaking hours, participants in a quilting bee presented the Savutos a quilt to honor their involvement in the life of the Muleshoe community.

"The Savutos have reached out in so many ways," notes Velma Gwyn of the Progress Circle. So, the group did a quilt with 49 names of friends embroidered.

Those working on the quilt project were Loma Baker, Fern Davis, Velma Gwyn, Clydetta Mitchell, Ada Murrah, Katie Roubinek, Crystal Walton. Many others worked on the embroidery.

Making the formal presentation was Clydetta Mitchell, president of the circle. Her daughter Helen comments that Jerri has "been super for our church and community. She is a real good personal friend and has offered constant support."

Among the ways that Jerri has contributed to the life of the Muleshoe community are in her professional role as Total Quality Manager and Discharge planner at the Muleshoe Area Medical Center, and as District Director for the Texas Society of Quality Assurance as well as a leader in the American Cancer Society serving as patient and services chairperson.

Mrs. Savuto was also instrumental in starting the Dialogue Group that serves as a support for family members and patients affected by cancer. She was highly effective in starting the Muleshoe Prescription Fund for helping people who need medicines but who cannot afford them.

Jerri started the Chaplain's program at the Muleshoe Area Medical Center. Here, each minister involved takes a turn ministering when the patient's minister cannot be reached.

Both Jerri and her husband Bill have been participants in choir and the Pairs and Spares Sunday School Class at the First United Methodist Church. They have served on the missions and membership concerns committee. Jerri and Bill organized the Abinchi Addu'a fellowship share group. The group brings people of all generations into fellowship meals.

All who have heard Jerri speak know how dynamic she is in this role. Besides speaking to numerous groups such as Esther Dorcas Circle and the Progress Circle and civic clubs such as Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis. Jerri is a member of the Wesleyan Service Guild through the Methodist Church here. She has spoken at the Mission Education Event for United Methodist Women and its District Conferences. She speaks in many other Methodist churches in the region.

Reverend Edwards says, "Jerri is dedicated and sincere in her outreach to people and has a very caring spirit."

Other honors include runner up for Muleshoe's Woman of the Year, named by the Chamber of Commerce. Jerri is a member of the local Advisory board of the South Plains Health Providers.

Formerly missionaries in overseas missions, the Savutos have changed their mission focus from essentially that on the foreign mission field to a home mission emphasis here in this community. Here they changed lives and as Frances Minckler notes, "My whole outlook on life has improved since becoming acquainted with them and their giving nature."

Linda Swint, a co-worker of Jerri's terms her an "angel of mercy."

PROGRESS CIRCLE--members were hard at work on the Love Gift presented to the Bill Savutos in honor of their high level of involvement and participation in various events and programs they have initiated. Here quilters of the circle show their skills in preparing the gift. (Guest Photo)

Comic Folk Operas Presented To Delighted Audience

By Joyce Adams

Sixty five people of all ages attended the "Afternoon at the Opera" staged here in Muleshoe at the First United Methodist Church. With the help of five vocalists and three accompanists, the troupe delighted "opera" goers.

Mila Beth Gibson, former voice teacher here in Muleshoe, now at Amarillo College promoted the idea of bringing such an opera here.

"We had 300 people gather in Childress recently," says Gibson. Gene Murray who wrote the operas staged Sunday, April 5 was recently awarded a grant as outreach director for the opera effort. Gibson wrote the grant to the Amarillo Area Foundation.

The two comic/folk operas presented Sunday were "Dear Doctor" and "Whirligig." Writer Murray was in the musical "Texas" at Palo Duro Canyon for 14 years before joining the opera effort. He also sings the part of the judge in "Whirligig," that tells the story of a couple who want a divorce so they ask that the marriage ceremony be performed backwards.

Murray has set about to write "operas" for this part of the country that poke fun at traditional opera, but maintain the sound and the feel of the more accepted form.

Jerry Perales plays the part of Rancie Bilbro in "Whirligig." One of his melody lines is "Women don't think like a man." Mila Gibson is Airella Bilbro, the wife in "Whirligig," which is taken from an O. Henry short story.

"Nobody comes and nobody stays in the Cumberland Hills," sang Murray in "Whirligig." The couple in that opera want a divorce at first, but finally after getting it, decide to remarry. Gibson plays the wife in this opera.

Proceeds from the sale of tickets for the opera presentation go to "Meals on Wheels," through the efforts of Beta Sigma Phi and opera co-ordinator Pam Miller here.

Want to start a food fight? Certain foods just might help in fighting cancer by lowering risks. To find out which ones, call the American Cancer Society and tell them you want to join the Great American Food Fight Against Cancer. Contact your local American Cancer Society or call 1-800-ACS-2345.

MARINATED BEEF STEAK

1 pound boneless beef chuck shoulder steak, cut 1 inch thick
1/4 C. minced onion
2 T. each chopped parsley and white vinegar
1 T. each olive oil and Dijon-style mustard
1 clove garlic, minced

Close bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours (or overnight, if desired), turning at least once. Pour off marinade; discard. Place steak on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 3 to 4 inches from heat. Broil 16 to 18 minutes to doneness desired (rare to medium-rare), turning once. Carve steak into thin slices to serve. Makes four servings.

Cruciferous vegetables are often referred to as cabbage-family or mustard-family vegetables. Their name comes from a four-leaf pattern that resembles a cross. Other than cabbage and mustard greens, cruciferous vegetables include broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, and cauliflower, all of which may help prevent certain cancers from developing. For more information, contact your local American Cancer Society or call 1-800-ACS-2345.

Background And Supporting Evidence On Cancer

The Bailey County Unit of the American Cancer Society is sponsoring the Great American Food Fight Against Cancer, April 13-17. The emphasis of this program is to encourage people to choose a diet of healthy foods. The directive is for persons to consider picking foods rich in vitamins A and C, low in fat, and high in fiber, as well as cruciferous, or cabbage-family vegetables. Research suggests that eating healthier foods might lower the risks for certain cancers. We want to make people aware of some nutrition guidelines, while allowing everyone to have some fun in the process.

In 1984, the American Cancer Society introduced its seven Nutritional Guidelines which could help reduce the risk of cancer. This paper explains the types of studies used to formulate the guidelines, lists the guidelines themselves, and references major supporting scientific works. Many of the references are books, whose authors drew their conclusions after reviewing many scientific articles.

Spring is sooner recognized by plants than by men. Chinese Proverb.

Please feel free to use any of the enclosed materials to help us promote this event in Bailey County.

Studies indicate that high fat consumption could play a role in cancers of the colon, rectum, prostate, and breast. The American Cancer Society's Great American Food Fight Against Cancer can help you to reduce fat intake and thus reduce your risks for these cancers. For more information, contact your local American Cancer Society or call 1-800-ACS-2345.

Bailey County Leaders Give Up Junk Food

Local leaders and officials of Bailey County will help kickoff a week long emphasis for the American Cancer Society's Great American Food Fight Against Cancer staying away from junk food for a day.

Leaders and officials participating on the Monday, April 13 kickoff event by giving up food for the day are: District Judge Jack Young; Bailey County Judge, Marilyn Cox; Lazbuddie ISD Superintendent James Warren; Three Way ISD Superintendent, Don Parker; Muleshoe ISD Superintendent, Bill Moore; Muleshoe ISD Athletic Director, Randy Adair.

And Muleshoe High School Principal, Al Bishop; MAMC

Every resident of Bailey County can participate in this effort to raise awareness of the link between diet and cancer risks. Studies indicate that diet alone might account for perhaps as many as 35 percent of all cancers, except for those of the skin. The American Cancer Society recommends that in order to reduce risks for cancer, Americans should eat foods rich in vitamins A and C, low in fat, a high in fiber, as well as cabbage family (cruciforms) vegetables.

"We're going to be giving each celebrity participant a lot of encouragement," says, Rev. Richard Edwards, local chairman for the Great American Food Fight Against Cancer. "But what we hope each person will find is that making healthy changes in their diets will be simple and delicious. The Great American Food Fight Against Cancer is a day of fun, not penance."

For more information of the Great American Food Fight Against Cancer, contact the district Three Office of the American Cancer at (806) 792-7126 in Lubbock.

Eleven Kiwanians, two honorary Kiwanians and Sweetheart Tiffany Angeley met this (Friday) morning at the Dairy Queen for breakfast. Honorary Kiwanians present were Bekki Bowen, Stacey Langfitt and Jon Keith Turner. It is good to have Sweetheart Tiffany back this morning after that long sleep last Friday. It seems that Tiff forgot last Friday. Don't pinch her this week. We do not want her black and blue. School is nearly out and it seems that all of the school kids are tired and ready for school to be out.

Larry Parker called the meeting to order. Hugh Young led the pledge to our flag and R.A. Bradley gave the invocation. Larry had been looking for a friend this last week and he asked Hugh Young to hold the friendship coin for a week and see if Hugh or Larry either one could find a friend.

The club voted to donate $25.00 to a group who are putting some pecan trees in the East City Park. This group is trying to get as many pecan trees as possible. If you would like to help on this please contact Juan Chavez, 304 East Ave. F or Gilbert Recio, 808 irrigating a quarter of section of farm land for about 60 to 80 dollars a month. Natural Gas cost was 19 cents a M.C.F."

Winn joined the Air Force during the Korean Conflict and came back to his job in the fall of 1953. In 1954, after Eisenhower was elected President, it was beneficial to be a large company, instead of small companies, so Pioneer was formed. He moved to Sudan in 1959, as a Senior General Plant Operator, and to Crosbyton in 1960, as a working manager.

"The irrigation group line take over program was established and I was offered a chance to come back to Muleshoe in 1969, to pursue the take over program which was highly successful in this area," Winn said.

"It was my pleasure and enjoyment to offer many of my lifelong friends and acquaintances the help that was afforded by the take over program and, also it solidified the irrigation income to the company during our summertime sales, which was unavailable to most gas company retailers.

"When Energas was formed, I continued to manage the Muleshoe office, and sold our share of gas air conditioning, gas lights, barbecue grills, etc.

"With the forming of Atmos, our participation in revenues, sales service, etc., was a pleasure for myself and employees of the Muleshoe office.

"My thanks to all employees and especially, Mrs. Barbara Blackman, my "office manager", during all these years.

"My sincere appreciation to all of my lifelong support team, the transmission employees, my fellow workers, and to all of my lifelong friends. I thank you for the good years," Winn continued.

Winn is married to the former Laverne Lewellen and they have four children, Bobbie Weir of Floydada, and Jimmy Dan Winn, Judy Bruns and Audrey Tipton, all of Lubbock.

When asked about his plans now that he is retired, Winn stated, "I have no immediate plans, Laverne is still working."

physicians have long warned of the health hazards of nicotine, but many long-term smokers have found that quitting isn't so easy.

"Transdermal nicotine therapeutic systems are good news for people trying to give up smoking," said Mina Horne, R.N. at Methodist Hospital. "The patch's ability to deliver medication at a constant rate into the bloodstream and reduce the frequency of drug induced side effects makes it easier for the patient to adhere to the therapy."

The skin has natural absorbing qualities that allow a steady concentration of the drug into the bloodstream, enabling the dose size of certain drugs to be reduced.

"The only side effects I've heard of from the transdermal nicotine patch have been a slight skin irritation where the patch was placed and some sleep disturbances. Continuing to smoke while wearing the patch may result in a nicotine overdose making the individual very ill," Horne said.

According to the February 1992 issue of P&T, the transdermal drug delivery offers many advantages over conventional drug administration.

*When drugs pass directly through the skin into the bloodstream they bypass the gastrointestinal tract, avoiding the neutralizing effects and the breakdown of the drug that occurs in the stomach, intestine and liver.

*Rate controlled transdermal systems produce much steadier concentrations of drugs into the bloodstream, reducing side effects.

*A once daily or weekly regimen is easier to follow than taking oral medication or injections.

*It is easy to discontinue treatment by simply removing the transdermal patch.

For more information about Methodist Hospital's smoking cessation program called Smoke Stoppers or the nicoderm transdermal patch, contact Mina Horne, R.N., or Frank Horne at Methodist Hospital's LifeStyle Center at (806) 793-4386.

Oil & Gas News

In just the first six months of Fiscal Year 1992, the Railroad Commission has plugged 467 abandoned wells across the state, topping the 455 wells plugged during all of FY 1991, according to Commission Chairman Lena Guerrero.

"We're delivering on a promise we made to the legislature last year when it passed Senate Bill 1103," Guerrero said. "We said give us the resources and we'll find more potentially-polluting wells and plug them. The numbers speak for themselves—we're getting the job done. We're devoting more time and resources to oilfield pollution than ever before."

Fees, penalties and other payments collected from the oil and gas industry support a multi-million dollar oilfield cleanup fund which the Railroad Commission uses to plug wells and cleanup polluted sites that operators have abandoned.

Commissioner James E. (Jim) Nugent said the Commission has spent over $1.8 million for well plugging in the first half of the fiscal year and more than $24,000 cleaning up oilfield pollution. "We're on track for a record year in well plugging," Nugent said. "That is going to pay big dividends to the Texas environment in future years by eliminating these wells as pollution hazards before they can contaminate our water resources."

Hard times in the Texas oil industry make the Commission's well plugging program all the more important. When a struggling operator goes bankrupt, the state is often the resource of last resort to prevent pollution from unplugged wells.

"Skeletons of once-active pump jacks dot the oilpatch," said Commissioner Bob Krueger, "grim reminders of the devastation the industry is experiencing. Sometimes the only rig you see active in an oilfield is the one belonging to our plugging contractor. We're plugging wells as fast as we can and more are being added to the list every day."

Since the Commission's well plugging program in 1984, more than 4,500 abandoned wells have been plugged at an expense of over $18 million.

Future Armed Forces Will Be Smaller

American military forces of the future will be smaller, highly mobile and self-contained, the chairman of the U.S. House Armed Services Committee told a Texas Christian University audience.

Congressman Les Aspin suggested U.S. military policy will shift from one of Soviet containment to a model resembling Desert Storm.

Mobile, self-sufficient forces will be key factors in future policy, Aspin explained. Unlike the cold war, here Europe was believed the prime location for war, he said future conflicts may be fought anywhere in the world and rapid deployment will be crucial. And since allies may vary among conflicts, U.S. forces won't be able to rely on outside help for battle readiness, he said.

Aspin stressed the importance of building up the U.S. economy as part of an overall defense strategy and predicted American's world leadership position will be lost unless the economy is stabilized.

"The real national security question right now is the strength of our economy," he said. "Now is the time to reinvest in America to get some more economic growth. This is absolutely critical."

"If the defense budget comes down and we don't take that resource that is coming from it and apply it to our economic problems and our economic growth in a way that restores productivity and economic growth in this country,

Smokers can now resist the urge to light-up by patching up with a 2-inch strip called the transdermal nicotine patch.

This small patch can be attached daily to the upper body for six to eight weeks. A gradual reduction in the dose of nicotine administered through the patch helps a person stop smoking without symptoms of nicotine withdrawal. Symptoms of withdrawal include irritability, lack of concentration, anxiety, restlessness and an increased appetite.

The surgeon general and most

Each month, more than half a million pregnant women, babies and children younger than five now can benefit from the state's Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC). The program provides free, nutritious foods, nutrition education and counseling, as well as general information and referrals to other health and social services.

Debra Stabeno, chief of the Texas Department of Health's (TDH) Bureau of WIC Nutrition, said, "The Texas WIC program has expanded in the past year because we have begun highly effective cost-containment measures and because of the cost of WIC foods have not risen as quickly as projected. The savings allow us to serve more eligible participants."

Stabeno said that the combined factors have produced an over-all increase of nearly $33.4 million dollars for the program.

"We have for years aggressively sought to extend services throughout the state. Just five years ago, we were only able to serve 182 of Texas' 254 counties—about 21.2 percent of the state's eligible clients. With improvements in the program, we now serve all Texas counties and can reach more than 33 percent of those who are eligible.

Among the state WIC programs only California now serves more clients than Texas.

By the year 2000, WIC expects to be able to serve at least 80 percent of eligible applicants anywhere in the state, Stabeno added. "To do that, we need to dispel some public misunderstanding about who is eligible for WIC. Many lower-income pregnant women, their infants and children younger than five are eligible—if our nutritionists find they have nutritional need. A large proportion of our clients learn about the program when they apply for other public assistance, such as AFDC, Food Stamps, and unemployment benefits, but other prospective clients may not realize that WIC may be available for them also," she explained.

Working families, college students and families of enlisted military personnel are among groups who may not know that WIC is an important resource. Stabeno said that WIC, now 18 years old, "has a responsibility to serve every eligible woman and child it can."

She said that even many working families, unable to stretch their resources, cannot afford nutritious foods. Others know little about choosing the best foods to ensure healthful diets for their babies and children. "WIC serves as a safety net for these people," she said, adding that, beginning in April, a family of four can have an annual income up to $25,808, and still be eligible for the program.

Although the main benefits of WIC are better health for newborns and young children during critical periods of their growth, the program also saves state and federal dollars that otherwise might have to be spent on hospitalization and other health care for the very young.

Stabeno said that a recent nationwide study showed that pregnant women in the Medicare program who participated in WIC had fewer premature births than did other low-income mothers who did not participate in WIC. The babies of the WIC participants were heavier and healthier.

The Bureau of WIC Nutrition operates a toll-free information line in Austin to explain WIC eligibility and services, and to help applicants locate their nearest WIC clinic. That phone number is 1-800-FOR-U (1-800-942-3678).

"Productivity appraisal" may lower the property taxes on your farm, ranch or timberland!

Texas law allows farmers, ranchers and timber growers to pay property taxes based upon the "Production value" of their land rather than on its market value. This "Productivity appraisal" means qualified land is taxed based on its ability to produce crops, livestock or timber—not on its value on the real estate market. And it can mean substantial property tax savings.

When is the application deadline?

If your land has never had a productivity appraisal, you must apply to your local appraisal district by April 30th to take advantage of this benefit on your 1992 property taxes. You may get up to 60 extra days if you have a good reason and ask for it by April 30. If you miss this deadline, you may still be able to apply, but you will pay a penalty. Check with your appraisal district office.

Do you need to reapply annually?

If your land already receives agricultural or timber productivity appraisal, you normally don't need to reapply unless the chief appraiser requires you to. If a new application is required, the appraisal district will notify you by mail.

Money Talk

by Kay Bailey Hutchison

(Editor's Note: Texas State Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison addresses various issues related to personal finance and state government. However, these views are not intended to replace the advice of reputable financial advisers or other professional counselors.)

Q. For several weeks, I have been receiving phone calls from someone who claims I have money in another state's unclaimed property fund. This person said that for 30 percent of the unclaimed money he can retrieve it for me. He also said that because the statute of limitations was running out I could lose the money. Can your office help me with this?

A. Since the publication of the Texas Unclaimed Money Fund List on March 1, we have received several inquiries similar to yours. These persons or companies charging so-called "finders fees" for unclaimed property are called "heir finders." For a price, sometimes as high as 50 percent of your unclaimed money, and your signature, on a contract they claim they can get your money. Some companies may even say that the statute of limitations on the money is running out to coerce you in to signing a contract.

The truth of the matter is that in Texas, as well as in every other state, the retrieval of unclaimed property held by the state is a free service. Furthermore, there is no statute of limitations on unclaimed property. It's never too late to claim your money or property.

According to Texas law, no one may charge a prospective unclaimed property claimant more than 10 percent of the total amount of property held by the state. Other states also limit the percentage of money that can be charged by heir finders, but it varies from state to state.

Call our unclaimed property office at 1-800-654-3463 or 512-444-7891 if you have further questions. You also can write us at Texas Unclaimed Property Fund, P.O. Box 17728 Austin, Texas 78760.

If you have a question, write Texas Treasury, P.O. Box 12608, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

Absolute loneliness is probably the most terrifying experience that man can ever know on this earth. We have but to remember the shipwrecked Robinson Crusoe who cried, "I would gladly exchange five years of my life for but one word from another human being." A high price for a single utterance; but who of us would not pay it had we been the abandoned sailor.

And yet how many of us become like Robinson Crusoe or this single flower in the desert cut off from our own kind by our own choosing. Shipwrecked on a desolate island by our unconcern for our fellow man... stranded in a desert of barren waste by our disinterest in the common good of the community in which we live. And in turn, being forgotten by those who love us and need our love. We should surely thank God each day for the warm love of our family; for the fine community we live in and for the church which is the focal point of all worthwhile things in that community. Begin now to take an active part in your church... for there is no loneliness when we walk with God and our fellow man.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
