He was relieved by Carl Hubbell who gave the hard hitting American leaguers only two hits in his three innings.

Taxicab Routes In Dallas Guarded As Service Started

400 Striking Drivers Mutter Threats As 100 Cabs Ply Business In City

DALLAS, July 7. (P)—Every policeman in this city of 300,000 was on duty Monday as 100 taxicabs plied over heavily guarded routes in the face of muttered threats from 400 striking taxicab drivers.

Operators won the first skirmish with strikers when one third of the city's cabs were brought from storage where they had been idle for seven days. Each car bore a special armed guard.

Hundreds of strikers and sympathizers crowded about the doors of two garages from which the taxis were brought. Dispersed from the sidewalks by cordons of police they loosed choruses of "rat" and "scab," as each car made its appearance.

Companies attempted to begin service earlier in the day and were forced to abandon plans when a near riot ensued. Four men were injured, one knocked down by a cab as it left the garage.

LON WARNEKE IS HERO OF BATTLE HELD IN BOSTON

Stops Rally When He Relieves Davis In Seventh

DI MAGGIO GOAT Rookie Is Indirect Cause of 3 Runs Of Winners

The National League All-Stars finally asserted supremacy over the American League All-Stars, but it took all the cunning, power and ability they could muster before they could finally eke out a 4-2 victory this afternoon.

An estimated crowd of 35,000 persons crowded the Boston Bee's field to see the National Leaguers take a four run lead in the first five innings and almost lose it when the Americans put on a superlative rally in the seventh to come within one run of tying the game.

Lon Warneke, ace of the Chicago Cubs, was the hero of the game. He relieved his teammate Curt Davis in the big seventh after the Americans had made three runs and had two runners on base. He walked the first man to face him, Charley Gehringer of the Detroit Tigers, but made Joe Di Maggio line out to Leo Durocher at short to end the rally.

Di Maggio, sensational rookie of the New York Yankees, was truly the goat of the game. He went to bat five times, each time with men on base, and hit into one double play, lined out to short twice, popped out to second once and rolled out weakly to the pitcher on the other. His failure to make an attempted shoe-string catch of Hartnett's liner in the third allowed the burly Cub catcher to stretch his hit into a triple, scoring one man ahead of him, and later crossing the plate himself. In the fifth he made an error on Herman's hit to him in right, Herman later scoring with the winning run.

The mound batteries opening the game were Grover and Dean and the "Great Dizzy" conclusively proved to the Americans his right to any title he prefers. He walked two men in his three inning tenure on the mound but struck out three, two of them the last two batters he faced, and never gave them anything resembling a hit. He was relieved by Carl Hubbell who gave the hard hitting American leaguers only two hits in his three innings.

The Nationals picked up their first two runs off Grove in the second when Demaree singled and scored on Hartnett's triple. Hartnett scored on a single by Durocher. Their other runner came in the fifth when, after Galan had hit a home run into the right field bleachers, Herman singled, advanced on Di Maggio's error and scored on a single by Medwick.

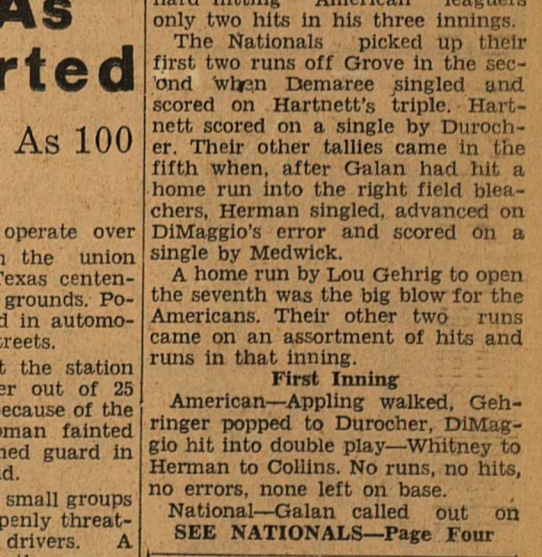

A home run by Lou Gehrig to open the seventh was the big blow for the Americans. Their other two runs came on an assortment of hits and runs in that inning.

First Inning American—Applying walked, Gehringer popped to Durocher, Di Maggio hit into double play—Whitney to Herman to Collins. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left on base.

What Has Happened
Princess Elizabeth, or Cissy as her father, Duke Max, nicknamed her, goes to Hellbrunn, seat of Emperor Francis Joseph's summer palace to rescue her sister, Helena from the fate of having to marry the young ruler. She and the Duke go incognito, as they are afraid of what the Duchess and the Dowager Empress, who arranged the match between them, might do if they found them meddling. Cissy, in the guise of a dressmaker, meets Francis, who falls in love with her. In answer to her taunts that he's a "mama's boy," the Emperor disguises himself as a lieutenant and takes Cissy to the town carnival in honor of his birthday the following day which is also to be the occasion to announce his betrothal to Helena, whom he doesn't care for. He returns to the palace the morning after the carnival; the Dowager Empress spies him returning home, and is outraged. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY surprise. She told Helena, with much glee, that the Emperor would probably not force her to marry him now, as he would want to marry Cissy.

"And so you saw a chance to be Empress yourself," said Helena jealously.
Cissy was puzzled at this sudden attitude. "No, Helena. Why do you say that?"
"You're lying," cried Helena. "You're envious! You couldn't bear the idea of my becoming Empress!"
"No, Helena!" said Cissy frantically. "I only thought of you and Foidl!"
Duchess Louise, the girls' mother, came in at this point, and was astonished to find Cissy as to details before Sofia and Herlicka burst into the room.
The Dowager Empress looked at Cissy poisonously. "So this is the creature who nearly upset all my plans by spending the night with the Emperor!"
Cissy bewildered, hurt at Helena's distrust, said not a word in her own defense, while Helena and Louise could not admit they were related to her. So Cissy, at Sofia's orders, was taken off to prison.
There she remained, dejected. Poldi, Helena's former fiance, came to visit her, and they talked over the strange change that had come over Helena. Cissy seemed beaten, disinterested in whether or not she remained in prison.
Poldi, feeling that he was responsible for Cissy's unhappiness, went to Duke Max and told him of the girl's predicament. Max was outraged. His favorite daughter, Princess Elizabeth of Bavaria, in prison, by the Dowager Empress' orders! Immediately, Max forgot his fear of the Emperor's mother, and stormed down to the prison to free Cissy.
Cissy, heartbroken told her father that she was going home in the donkey cart right away. Max, boiling mad, told her to go ahead, if she wanted to; as for himself, he had important business with the Dowager Empress!

CHAPTER FIVE
The Dowager Empress Sofia, instantly summoned the Captain of the Guard and the Chief of the Secret Police, and let them know in no uncertain terms exactly what she thought of them and everything remotely connected with them. All the harassed Captain of the Guards knew was that the Emperor, in the uniform of an infantry lieutenant, had ordered the guard to remain silent as to his whereabouts.
Weary and disheveled, the Chief of the Secret Police at least had some information for Sofia, which probably saved the entire Court from a horrible fate. The story, as far as the secret service men knew it, was that the Emperor had called for a very pretty young girl at the Golden Ox Inn and had taken her to the carnival. At two in the morning, the Police Chief admitted regretfully, the Emperor and the girl managed to shake the police.
Sofia, furious, ordered that the sixty ballet girls at the inn be cross-examined in an effort to find out which one was "guilty". Of course, Cissy had nothing to do with the girls from Vienna, though she had promoted one of their passes to the Palace grounds.
Cissy, suspecting nothing of the furore she had caused, returned to the Palace with her sister Helena's dress in a further effort to see her. The Captain of the Guards, fresh from Sofia's tongue-lashing, sternly questioned the pass, and detained her for Baron Herlicka.
When Cissy flashed a pass from the Emperor himself, Herlicka could do nothing more than allow her to proceed to Helena's room with the dress. There she was due for a

All fathers and mothers want their children to succeed and as long as they can, mothers and fathers the country over sacrifice and plan to give their boys and girls every advantage, every opportunity, for they want them to have a start which they too often were denied.
"We want to send Jim to college if we can afford it," they say. "We plan to give Mary special training in music if we have the money when she has finished high school."
But why should an IF threaten these dreams? A PRAETORIAN EDUCATIONAL POLICY can erase that IF and permit mothers and fathers to say positively: "MY CHILDREN ARE GOING TO COLLEGE."
