BEHIND THE SCENES -IN- WASHINGTON By RODNEY DUTCHER Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

CLEVELAND, June 17.—The republican platform of 1936, like most political platforms, would have been another meaningless dud if it hadn't been for Alf Landon. The Kansas governor's dramatic stroke in sending a telegram to the convention...

Landon-The Silent Kansan

BY WILLIS THORNTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent

A curious little recollection about Alf Landon tells volumes about the man. A hotel-keeper at Lawrence, Kansas, seat of the state university, recalls that it was young Landon...

PA LONDON LIKE COOLIDGE

Alf Landon is not nearly so much like Calvin Coolidge as some stories might make you think. But there is a considerable resemblance between Coolidge and Alf's father, the 79-year-old John Manuel Landon.

never had to practice pinching economy by necessity. But nevertheless, Alf Landon's activities as head of the local chapter of Phi Gamma Delta are recalled with some amusement by his fellow-members. It was Alf who insisted on systematic book-keeping for his fraternity chapter...

Grows Attached To His Old Clothes

Yet he was not stingy; he liked the best when he really wanted something. Campus tradition credits him with sporting the first "Tuxedo coat" at Lawrence. Today when Landon wears four-year-old hats, it's because he likes them, not because he is too stingy to buy new ones.

party and see who cared. The degree of Landon's independence and courage—virtues which his friends have always insisted he had—is indicated by the fact that mention of a constitutional amendment empowering states to regulate hours, wages, and working conditions of women and children had been supported by but one vote at the secret sessions of the subcommittee which wrote the platform.

Big and substantial, this well groomed house at Independence, Kans., has been the Landon family house since purchased by Governor Landon's father in 1900.

Alfred M. Landon, undergraduate he put his fraternity at University of Kansas on a budget.

Lure of Oil Field Half Bank Career

Behind the cages of the State Bank of Commerce and the First National Bank of Independence, Kan., the young member of the bar toiled over the bank's books. In three years he had risen to a salary of $75 a month. It was not a stimulating prospect.

Will Push Own Ideas

Landon's personal friends predict that he will make further "interpretations" in his campaign speeches and that he will publicly declare for other proposals which he had hoped to get into the platform. Those proposals included: A balanced budget within 18 months after election day.

Target for Democrats

Democrats will pick the document to pieces and ask, with respect to the methods by which it promises to achieve re-employment— what "restrictions on production" the party plans to remove; what "New Deal policies that raise production costs, increase the cost of living, and thereby restrict buying" it will abandon; what "hindrances to legitimate business" it will remove; what "government competition with private payrolls" and what "unnecessary and hampering regulations" it will abolish; and what "such other policies as will furnish a chance for individual enterprise, industrial expansion, and the restoration of jobs" it will adopt.

Various other planks, which should be important, are similarly vague and evasive, including the one on relief, which promises the impossible job of turning responsibility over to "non-political local agencies" (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

ed nor has there been any indication of when it will cease. On June 1 the treasury reported that $18,622,038 in gold was received from foreign ports in one week. Governmental statistics show that more than $140,000,000 was imported during the four preceding weeks.

There are two predominant reasons why Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and some of his chief advisors would be delighted if the movement could be stopped. Excess Reserves Mount 1. Every ounce of gold that comes to these shores that is not "earmarked" for special foreign account finds its way into the treasury and boosts the steadily mounting excess reserves that worry the board of governors of the federal reserve system.

That young Landon was intellectually curious is shown by the fact that he established a custom of inviting interesting visitors to Lawrence to visit the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity so the students could meet them and hear their informal talks. Young Landon was chosen for an honorary legal fraternity in the law school, Phi Delta Phi, though it was known that he did not intend to practice law.

FLOW OF GOLD TO U. S. RAISES MANY VEXING ISSUES

WASHINGTON (UP)—Treasury officials are puzzling—as they have for many months—over some method of halting the persistent flow of gold to the United States where it isn't wanted from nations that wouldn't be only too pleased to keep it. Thus far no effective method for stemming the flow has been broached.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 17—Washington beat California by two lengths in a three-mile race and is here with a boatload built for a four-mile pull.

California is on the Hudson smarting for revenge and its fourth consecutive victory in the ancient Poughkeepsie Regatta on June 22. Navy and Cornell easily could finish in the first four, but Pennsylvania has one of the more interesting eight-oared arrays in the big number.

Eyes of eastern crew adherents will be resting on lane No. 3 when the gun sends eight of the fastest shells in the country on their way, for that will be the position of the surprising Red and Blue boat which has forged ahead as the outstanding representative of the Atlantic coast after combating several handicaps.

Eusty Callow's frail craft is propelled by probably the lightest crew of big-time sweep-pullers in the sport, which, tradition holds, is kind to those shells carrying giants such as those of the favored Washington and California outfits.

Pennsylvania averages 167 pounds, which, anyone will tell you, is plenty light for a varsity boatload. Yet Callow's crew has swept everything in sight this year under the great stroking of Lloyd Saxton, the unofficial hero of the event last year, when he stroked his boat after being in bed with a high fever just a few days before.

In an effort to get better balance, Callow has shifted Webster and Wakelin in the 2 and 4 seats, so that the heavier Webster is at the No. 4 oar, thereby putting more weight in the waist of the shell.

It's Been Done Before
Only twice in the history of the large number at Poughkeepsie has a crew of Penn's weight prevailed. In 1901 Cornell's 165-pound boat set a record of 18:53 4-5 over the four-mile course that stood until California set a new mark in 1928. Columbia, in 1914, won with a shell that averaged 164 pounds, and which was stroked by little Charley McCarthy, who tipped the beam at 146.

Callow is hoping for cool weather on the day of the big program. The heat that has been baking the east would give the Philadelphia entry an added handicap and, under a four-mile pull, would hit the Red and Blue sweepers harder than the others.

Despite their lack of weight, the Pennsylvanians have the necessary height and arm reach for good leverage.

Callow has performed wonders with the material he has had since he left Washington nine years ago to take his present job. Few undergraduates were interested in rowing at the Quaker institution on his arrival, and he not only had to build up an enthusiasm for the sport, but also had to lay the foundation for enticing material with which to build a crew.

Coming from an institution where rowing is on the same plane with football, Penn's lack of crew ambition was discouraging to Callow. But the coach didn't remain in that

SUSPEND OWNER FOR ACTIONS AT MIDLAND DOWNS

AUSTIN, June 17 (AP)—The State Racing Commission Tuesday ruled one trainer off Texas tracks for life, suspended three others for six months and revoked a jockey's license.

L. Marks, owner-trainer of Carnival, was suspended for six months on a charge of taping back a bridle buckle at Midland May 30.

J. Singleton, trainer of Vin Noir, was suspended for six months from last April 24. The state chemist alleged that Vin Noir was stimulated at Arlington Downs when he won a race by five lengths on April 24.

The purse was ordered divided among the horses which finished in the next four places. Vin Noir's owner was given permission to sell the horse.

J. R. Kelly was assessed a six-month suspension on a charge of using a chain on the horse, Mike Reynolds, in a race at the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo May 15.

C. Kindle, trainer of Big Moment was ruled off for life and the horse now running under the name of E. C. Gesche likewise was ruled off. The allegation was that Big Moment was stimulated at Rusk.

Jockey J. J. DeWitt's license was revoked for alleged indifferent riding at Rusk and Seguin.

Typhoid Vaccination Protects Individual

AUSTIN—Parents of Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and other young people going to camps of any kind, are urged by Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, to have the family physician vaccinate each individual against typhoid fever.

Some of the danger points for spread of typhoid it was said, are creek swimming holes and flowing springs. Even though the water at these places may appear clear and sparkling, there is danger that it is contaminated.

"Typhoid fever is an unnecessary disease," Dr. Brown said. "Every case is due either to community negligence or to the carelessness or ignorance of some individual. Eternal vigilance in maintaining sanitary surroundings and a pure water supply is necessary."

"Three 'shots' of typhoid vaccine—a week apart—will put your child in the 'protected' class. As it takes several weeks for the protective treatment to establish itself in the body, have it done now."

"Typhoid fever is an intestinal complaint caused by the typhoid bacillus. The digestive tract of a patient is consequently infected with typhoid germs. Anything that may be contaminated by the body discharges is apt to be infectious and dangerous. "The prevention of typhoid fever is peculiarly a matter of community responsibility. In cities large and small most urgent control measures are those providing for (1) proper disposal of human excreta through sewage disposal plants and toilets of sanitary type; (2) safe public and well water supplies; (3) extermination of flies; (4) healthy food handlers; (5) supervision of disease carriers and (6) public milk supplies of high quality with the added safeguard of careful pasteurization."

"Prevention of single cases or of epidemics of typhoid fever is dependent upon co-operation of individuals with public health officials in endeavoring to stamp out typhoid entirely."

meter route, just a little more than a mile. That is right down the sprinting Pennsylvania boat's alley. Under the circumstances, Washington, California and other boats more highly regarded at this time, might find themselves holding the bag while the Quakers make the trip to Berlin.

Three Venerable Turtles Brought from Galapagos

SAN FRANCISCO, (U.P.)—After covering more miles in a few weeks than they had covered during the previous century of their existence, three turtles from the Galapagos Islands have reached San Francisco via modern steamship transportation.

They were captured in the islands by the Falmestock Expedition and what they lacked in speed was made up by age. Members of the expedition listed them all far past the century mark.

The turtles belong to a species that is fast becoming extinct. They are herbivorous but require little food.

Waterscope Aids Rescuers
VANCOUVER, Wash. (U.P.)—A "waterscope" by which it is possible to see far below the surface with clarity, is the invention of Sheriff Leland F. Morrow. The instrument was mounted on the rear of the Vancouver fire department's rescue boat, and is expected to be valuable in recovering bodies or finding drowning persons.
