19 DROWNED WHEN CANADIAN SHIP IS SUNK DURING GALE

Seven Rescued After Freighters Find

LIFEBOATS SINK

Capsized Craft Used To Cling to By Sailors

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 19. (P)—Eighteen crew members and a woman passenger of the Canadian ship, Sand Merchant, were drowned when the 252-foot sand-sucker rolled over in a fifty-mile gale, which swept across treacherous Lake Erie fourteen miles northwest of Cleveland.

Many of the sailors desperately clung to two capsized lifeboats for hours before sliding off to their death. Seven men were rescued early Sunday by two freighters on the way to Lake Erie ports.

Those saved were Jack Meusa, deck engineer; William Gifford, crane operator; Fred Morse, crane operator; Martin White, second engineer. Three other rescued men, who were taken to Sandusky aboard the freighter Thunder Bay Quarries, were Capt. Graham MacLellan of New Brunswick, Herman Dault and John L. Ideson.

The first four were picked up by the Bessemer & Marquette No. 2. They were suffering from exposure and White's condition was described as serious. Gifford, who suffered least from the ten hours of exposure, said the woman on the boat was Mrs. Bernie Drinkwater of Port Stanley, Ontario, Canada, wife of the first mate. She had boarded the boat at Windsor for a short trip.

Gifford said most of the crew was thrown into the lake as the boat rolled over. They swam to the lifeboats, which capsized immediately one by one they slid into the lake. At dawn when the two freighters have into sight only the seven were left.

RECORD THRONGS ATTEND REVIVAL

Other Churches Dismiss
Sunday Evening Services

The attendance at the revival now in progress at the First Christian church was splendid throughout the day Sunday, climaxing at the night service when other churches of the city dismissed their services, filling completely the large auditorium and chairs down the aisle and every available space. A thirty minute song service of congregational singing preceded the sermon by the evangelist, Rev. C. A. Johnson, who brought a masterful message on "The Downward Journey." Pointing out the awfulness of sin and its sure results in that it leaves us robbed, and beaten, bruised and left for half-dead, he pointed to Jesus Christ, the only Saviour of all the world, who alone could take away the scars of our sins. For some forty minutes the congregation listened with intense interest to as great a message as ever delivered at the First Christian church. Services will continue through this week, beginning at 7:30 o'clock each evening. The pastor, Rev. J. E. Pickering, expressed high appreciation for the splendid cooperation given by his own people and the churches of Midland, and especially commended the help and cooperation of the visiting pastors present from the other churches.

Mrs. Simpson Rebuffed by Church Heads

Archbishop of Canterbury

Refusal of the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Archbishop of York to attend a royal function at which Mrs. Ernest Simpson was to be present is said to have started speculation in London over the possibility that church and state pressure may be brought to bear to oblige King Edward VIII to make his friendship with the American woman less apparent. Mrs. Simpson has filed suit for divorce against her husband.

H-S Prepares For Creighton Battle

ABILENE, Oct. 19. (Special)—Coach Kimbrough's Cowboys, rated last week as fifty-ninth among approximately four hundred college and university football teams, prepare this week for their start north into Nebraska Thursday.

The special train to carry the Hardin-Simmons squad, Cowboy Band and football fans will arrive in Omaha in time to permit a workout before the ranchers meet Creighton university Saturday afternoon.

Despite defeats by Aggies and Bears, the Cowboys rated above both Texas and Baylor, with S. M. U., T. C. U., A. & M., and Rice the only Texas schools to be listed among top notchers.

Awaiting the southerners in Omaha is the best gridiron eleven the Creighton has ever sent into action, decisive victories over the University of South Dakota and the powerful Grinnell College eleven.

With the possible exception of Marham, Cowboy regular quarter who has been out with an injured ankle most of the season, all of Kimbrough's first stringers are ready to brave the northern clime.

The ranchers left Hardin-Simmons standard bearing last week to freshmen who met Weatherford Junior College and start into Nebraska with two weeks' rest to their credit.

Probable starters in the Omaha stadium next Saturday will be co-captain Tyler, Frost, Cherry and Adlington in the backfield; Harris and Serrogins at end; co-captain Murphy and Crowell at tackle; Newberry and Calloway at guard and Jarnagin at center.

Although Mahuron will likely accompany the squad, the Ft. Worth quarter is scheduled to start. Coach Kimbrough declared in discussing starters.

McKinney, Wichita Falls, back, will be ready for work at half and Day Emery, Temple, will relieve Adlington at quarter.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (P)—The Texas Utilities Company and Alabama Power Company lost today in an effort to obtain a supreme court decision, before granted on by a court of appeals, on the validity of government loans and grants for municipally-owned electric systems in Texas and Alabama.

The court refused to review an attack on provisions of the National Recovery Act in 1935 relief measure authorizing loans and grants for such plants.

The government also won a tactical victory on one other new deal law constitutionally question, the court refusing to reveal an appeal on the "truth in the securities act," requiring stock registration before a public sale.

COCHRAN STRIKE FLOWS 20-MINUTE 60-BARREL HEAD

Report No. 1 Duggan
Showing Little Water

BY FRANK GARDNER
Reports today from the Honolulu, Cascade and Devonian No. 1 E. B. Duggan, prospective pool opener, in southeast Cochran county, were that the well was showing a small amount of salt water, estimates on the amount varying from a barrel an hour to one barrel every four hours. Drillings was in progress below 5,085 feet. At that depth, it made an oil head of 20 minutes duration, estimated at 60 barrels although only 12 barrels could be turned into tanks.

Whether the salt water showing in the No. 1 Duggan is of any particular significance remains to be seen. The Honolulu and Cascade discovery in southern Yoakum on the Bennett showed salt water below the first pay and deeper drilling revealed more pay below the water horizon, with the water finally exhausting.

Saturday, the Cochran well halted at 5,080 and was let stand 24 hours. It was then swabbed dry with recovery of 55 barrels. The well is located in the center of labour 13, league 55, Oldham county school land, 27 miles north of the Bennett discovery in Yoakum, closest production.

After a delay of several weeks while fishing, bit lost at 2,910 in the Texas Co. No. 1 Bob Slaughter, Hoekley, wildcat, was recovered, and it is now drilling ahead below 3,015 feet in anhydrite. Some are calling the top of the Yates sand at 2,950 to 2,970 feet.

New Winkler Producers
In the Sayre pool in Winkler, Humble No. 15 Howe has been completed for initial daily production of 1,037 barrels. It was shot with 330 quarts from 2,818 to 2,995, the total depth.

Marion No. 4 Colby, Brown-Alman pool well, flowed 576 barrels in 24 hours. The well is bottomed at 3,140 and was shot.

In the Keyes pool, Sinclair-Prairie No. 8-B Walton flowed 960 barrels in 24 hours after cleaning out following a shot of 200 quarts from 2,880 to 2,980, the total depth.

Another well in the Keyes pool, Sinclair-Prairie No. 2-C Walton, gauged 1,286 barrels on the 24-hour potential test. Shot was with 200 quarts from 2,875 to bottom at 2,975.

Shut Down For Orders
California and others No. 1 Calverly, Glasscock wildcat in section 25, block 35, township 3 south, T. & P. survey, is shut down for orders at 3,454 feet. It encountered sulphur water at 3,416 which gradually increased to a baller per hour in drilling to the present depth.

Henderson et al. No. 1 Parker, Andrews test southwest of the Furman pool, had reached 4,410 feet in time.

Deep Test Repairing
Moore Bros. No. 1 T. C. Barnsley, western Crane deep wildcat, is shut down for engine repairs at 6,045 feet in time. It developed a ball of salt water hourly from 6,010 to 6,015.

Gulf No. 2 Waddell, another deep test in the same area, is coring below 6,470 feet in time.

Humble No. 4 Tubbs is drilling time at 3,920.

Gulf 2 McKnight, bottomed at 3,633, is reaming hole at 3,045. Previous tests showed two barrels of oil and one barrel of water per hour from the upper Permian lime.

BRITISH SOLDIERS TRY TO SUPPRESS RIOTS IN BOMBAY

Forty-Six Are Killed,
Over 400 Wounded
In Four Days

BOMBAY, India, Oct. 19. (P)—British troops were called into action Sunday to suppress mass rioting between Hindus and Moslems stretching into the fourth day.

Arson and looting spread menacingly and sixteen truckloads of soldiers were deployed through the streets and the thickly-populated native districts to restore order.

Up to midnight Saturday at least forty-six persons had been killed and 400 injured in the frequent bloody clashes of Indian factions armed with knives and guns.

A British sergeant was struck by a hurled stone and taken to a hospital.

Sunday opened quietly after fighting Saturday in which nine were known to have been killed and at least 100 injured, but roving bands raided shops and homes and started a new wave of incendiary fires.

Police rescued a Hindu doctor who was attacked savagely by a crowd of other Hindus when he tried to shelter a Moslem.

The rioting, which started during the construction of a Hindu place of worship near a mosque, spread steadily toward the closely settled mill area.

Lord Brabourne, British Governor of Bombay, hurried back from Poona, the summer capital, and conferred with Hindu and Moslem leaders. He later announced daily military patrols would be established.

REBELS NEARING CITY LIMITS AS WAR CONTINUES

Laborers and Office
Employees Rushed
To The Front

By Associated Press
Madrid imposed virtual siege orders today on the population as insurgent forces pushed their lines within 20 miles of the capital.

The government massed a large force at Torrejon, south of Madrid. Laborers and office workers were drafted to rush to the capital's exterior defense.

Fascists predicted they would enter the city "within a few days."

Thousands of government troops were killed when insurgents routed socialist miners to seize Oviedo.

Railway connections from Madrid to the south, including the line to Valencia, were severed and the Fascist command said the city practically is isolated from the outside world.

Trucks were the only means by which Madrid could bring in food supplies or evacuate citizens, the insurgents said.

The insurgents bombed and occupied two important junctions, Estacion de Algodor and Estacion de Castillejo, midway between Toledo and Aranjuez, effectively cutting all rail transportation to and from the capital.

This attack was part of a swift and unexpected onslaught from Toledo which surprised Fascist troops more than halfway to Ilescas, last important city on the Toledo-Madrid highway.

Cila del Rey and Cabanas de la Sacra were occupied with only spasmodic resistance from Government troops. One Government bomber which ventured out from Getaje airport was shot down. Three columns participated in the Fascist attack.

The new formation now provides a right flanking movement for attack on important Navacerrero and contributes another step to the gradually narrowing front against Madrid.

ROOSEVELT BACK IN WHITE HOUSE; LONDON TO COAST

Tour Through East Is Booked By The President

(By Associated Press)
President Roosevelt returned to the White House today for a 40-hour stay between campaign travels while Governor Landon headed toward Los Angeles.

Landon challenged the president to say whether he intends to perpetuate the National Recovery Administration, referring to a speech made by James Roosevelt, son of the chief executive.

Landon said the remarks showed "understanding that the president intends to make NRA principles live, and to operate the government by one device or another."

The Landon program for this week contained engagements for addresses at Los Angeles on Tuesday, Oklahoma City Friday and Indianapolis on Saturday.

The president plans to go from Washington to Providence, R. I., where he is to make a speech Wednesday morning from the back seat of an automobile. That afternoon he plans to speak in Boston. Wednesday night he is to make the principal address of the tour in Worcester, Mass.

Thursday, Mr. Roosevelt plans to speak at Hartford, Conn., after an overnight train trip from Worcester and then go to New Haven, Conn., for lunch. He plans to return to Hyde Park, N. Y., by way of Bridgeport, Norwalk, Stamford and Danbury, Conn.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Nothing has given Gov. Alf Landon's lieutenants more pleasure than their candidate's marked improvement in platform presence, in radio delivery, and in the belligerent nature of his speeches.

His Chicago address on the budget found him in the best oratorical form he has shown to date. And even some of Alf's bitterest enemies agreed that the speech in its content probably was the most politically effective and best written message he had yet delivered.

Credit should be given where due. The governor has been under the constant tutelage of an expert who travels with him and who seeks to perfect him in such devices as driving his points home, stopping to smile at the right spots, shaking his fist, pausing at dramatic points for applause, and clear enunciation of catch phrases.

The most important author of the speech was Olin Glenn Saxon, head of the G. O. P. "brain trust," or research division, who has been concentrating on a study of federal expenses ever since he and his aides were hired last spring amid a chorus of gruffaws.

Saxon now 'On Inside'
Saxon appears to be vindicating the idea of Henry Fletcher and Finance Chairman, W. B. Bell that the Republicans should have a "brain trust" too. Landon has come

WPA---What It Is and How Operated

This is the second of three stories telling the pros and cons of the federal Works Program which is coming under heavy fire during the presidential campaign.

BY WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

The idea behind WPA is this: As long as there are many people who can't get work, they must be supported by the public. If they are given work instead of a dole, they can better preserve their self-respect, morale, and skill.

The added expense will also be more or less justified by the wealth they have added to the country, in the form of new buildings, roads and such tangible assets.

Has it worked out this way? Or has the added expense (giving work costs far more than a subsistence dole) been sheer waste?

Let's try to understand what all these people have been doing.

First of all, whatever they do the idea came from local officials, city, county, or state, in almost every case. And those communities have backed up the work they recommended by making contributions to it which have averaged almost 20 per cent.

The local contribution goes mostly for materials, so that federal money can go almost exclusively for wages. Value of the local work done is closely proportioned to the ingenuity, energy, and wisdom of local authorities who proposed it.

Work Must Fit Workers
Next, the projects have to be adapted to those who are to work on them. As four-fifths of those on relief are unskilled laborers, it is plain that most of the work must be open-air construction work, and that some non-relief people must be hired as supervisors and in skilled trades where few are on relief.

That is why 81 per cent of WPA jobs are heavy outdoor construction work.

Here is an official WPA list of some of the things which are being accomplished by men and women working on the program:

- 6,201 schools built or repaired.
- 5,338 other public buildings repaired or built.
- 5,722 public parks or playgrounds built or improved.
- 5,384 sewer systems built or improved.
- 2,545 water systems built or improved.
- 3,783 flood control and conservation works built.
- 551 airports and landing fields improved.
- 130,000 miles of farm-to-market roads improved or repaired.
- 1,000,000 diseased trees removed in Dutch elm disease fight.
- 13,588 miles of electric lines to be built, serving 50,000 patrons.
- 289,000 young people helped to remain in school and college by NYA.

Propaganda is distributed to 9000 newspapers, including six cartoons a week, a special three-a-week "news feature" service, and section-alized releases to states.

That's quite apart from the research division under Saxon, which expects to put out 100,000,000 pieces of campaign literature—mostly small leaflets—before the campaign is over.

One rumor is that so much of this stuff has been prepared and ordered that most of it will never be passed out before Nov. 3, but that's denied.

Already there's threat of an awful howl from professional politicians who fear there won't be enough money at the last minute with which to "get out the vote."

Budgeted sums call for $1,750,000 for "public relations" including press, movies, radio, and billboards and $750,000 for the research division.

The Usual Feuds
In Chicago Republican headquarters, as at national Democratic headquarters in New York, you hear many tales of jealousy, feuds, and confusion. In an early effort to straighten things out, Hamilton named seven assistants to himself, which, according to some insiders, means most matters are still balled up.

That's not apparent to the visiting outsider, however, and may be exaggerated.

One explanation given to show cause for the considerable amount of pessimism at headquarters as to Landon's chances, was as follows: "Every one of our division heads think he's the only one who is doing a good job. He's so sure that all the other fellows are doing such rotten jobs that he can't see how the party can win."

Landon Won't Rush 'Em
Landon hasn't yet acquired the are of running people through fast when he has a large visitors' list. His favorite expression at conferences and meetings with local politicians on tour is, "No, no—don't go!"

He likes people so much that he hates to see them leave. Most people like him when they meet him, too.

But the governor's failure to speed them through his reception headquarters often results in a headache for those who try to get large numbers in to see him in a relatively short time.

Striking WPA workers, demanding a raise of $12 a month, sleep on the speaker's rostrum in the state capitol at Madison, Wis., as part of their protest demonstration.

Project under FERA.
These "white collar" projects have received publicity far out of proportion to their relative magnitude. They got it because they were novel and dramatic, and hence news in themselves, and because they were almost all direct federal projects not sponsored by local communities.

But they have been and are a small part of the Works Program. Fewer than 1 per cent of those on relief rolls are people who have devoted themselves to the arts.

The Youth Administration had been allocated less than $14,000,000 up to midsummer.

This Task Returns Profit
Least known, perhaps, of the WPA's projects have been those prepared by various government departments and supervised by them. For instance, the Treasury, which has never had enough help to make an adequate check picked body of whom were taken from relief rolls or relief families.

The Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture used them to fight the cattle tick in the south and the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine put as many as 25,000 to work fighting plant diseases and pests.

The National Park and Forestry Services, Bureau of Reclamation, Library of Congress, Navy Department, Rural Electrification Administration, Coast Guard, and Bureau of Internal Revenue were enabled to carry forward work they had long wished to accomplish, given the aid of WPA workers assigned on projects they prepared and supervised.

So vast and so complicated a piece of improvised employment machinery could scarcely have been set up without cracks and strains. There were, and are plenty of them.

These are being examined today under the spotlight of a national political campaign. Result of that criticism will be reflected in whatever action the new Congress takes in January regarding the colossal programs.

NEXT: Politics, waste, and incompetence are the charges hurled at the gigantic WPA venture, which is assailed on one side as prodigal and on the other as inadequate.

Fish do not suffer pain when caught on a hook, since there are few nerves around their mouths.

Other Agencies Helped
But other regular government services were also given a helping hand by WPA appropriations and workers, from 80 to 98 per cent of whom were taken from relief rolls or relief families.

A preacher said Sunday, "The devil doesn't have any happy old men." That's something to mull over.

If young people waited to get married until they had good sense, there would be few marriages. But most of us probably are happier because we don't have too much sense.

How Shirley Has Grown Since 1933

Proving that the famed child screen star is growing up, this composite photograph reveals at a glance how the Shirley Temple of today would look alongside the Baby Shirley of 1933, when the tiny actress launched on her meteoric career. Today, she is eight inches taller and 26 pounds heavier than when, three years ago, she captivated in "Baby Burlesk" comedies in the safety-pinned costume shown at left. These figures are scaled in proportion to reveal that growth.

The average person uses about 34 pounds of air a day. A load up to 1500 pounds can be carried by a full grown camel.

By Miss Elma Graves,
Past President of the Garden Club
Though 1936 is mostly behind us, we don't have to stretch our imaginations or tax our memories to any great extent to remember the "Centennial" and "Beautification" were the main subjects of conversation early in the year. Every city, village and even rural community went to work with a vengeance to pretty up for Texas 100th birthday.

It was due to this campaign that a few of us decided to organize the Midland Garden club, for we believed that more could be accomplished through organization than through some hit and miss way. And so in July of last year, The Midland Garden Club was organized with constitution and by-laws suitable to our prospective needs, joining the Federation in January of 1936.

Enthusiasm and zeal fired us with great hopes and ambitions and we laid out plans which if we had been able to accomplish, would have won for Midland every prize offered for improvement and beautification. But, in some of our undertakings we were doomed to disappointment. However, we did make great strides and while most of you know what we did, for the benefit of our visitors, we shall give you a resume of our work for 1935 and 1936.

Our first undertaking was our float which we entered in the parade which opened Midland's fair and races last October. We received $40.00 as the first prize given by the Fair Association for our efforts in this matter. At the same fair, we sponsored a flower show and this too was a fair success when our inexperience was taken into consideration.

When the State Highway Commission took up the beautification of highways and asked Midland county for 1000 trees to be planted in our county, the Commissioner's Court would not appropriate the money, the Garden Club accepted the challenge, and while we felt a few trees short of 1000, we did get 685; 250 locusts and wild chinias were given us by citizens having more than they wanted or needed and 385 chinise elms were bought and paid for with money solicited from various public minded men and women and business institutions in our city. If you drive out our highway in either direction, you may be pleased to note that most every elm is thriving and only a few of the locusts and wild chinias failed to live. With such success in our first year, we should not be satisfied with less than one more 1000 this year. In fact, we wonder if we should not sponsor tree-planting along our Rankin and Andrews Highways, since the Highway Commission is so careful to keep them watered.

Our greatest accomplishment however, was in interesting the city in remodeling Goodman park on the east highway and in purchasing the land on the west highway owned by Will Crier to be made into a park. This land, one block, was landscaped and planted by Baker Brothers last spring, and while there are some features yet to be added, it is a beautiful yard and trees, flanked delight to every man, woman and child in our city.

In the spring of 1936, we decided to sponsor a yard beautification contest and give prizes in the fall for the yard making the most progress, but due to indifference, or maybe a prospective drought, interest could not be kindled and with no entries, we failed in this project.

Midlanders have always pointed with pardonable pride at our churches, our schools, our homes and other buildings. This is as it should be.

For Wear With Shorter Dresses

SHORTER, swinging skirts call for shoes that are higher. This is no season to wear sandals or opera pumps which are cut out in exaggerated manner at the sides. Instead, one needs smart "highs," like these. All are of soft black suede.

The model at the top of the panel is finished with a shiny patent leather bow effect to match the high patent heel. Below it is a one-eyelid tie type with medium heel, interesting scalloped edges and a more bow. At the bottom is an even higher shoe, also with patent leather-trimming.

but we wonder what tourists think when they see a lovely home with a beautiful yard and trees, flanked on all sides by lots growing in weeds and bushes matted with old papers and other unsightly debris. Can't we, as a club, devise some way to have our vacant lots kept free of ugliness?

With the new officers taking charge, each member should pledge unstinted support to them and with concerted effort, knowing that "where there is no vision the people perish," get a vision of what Midland can be and then work with undying effort to put her among the stars.

Cleanliness Is Foe of Dandruff

By ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer
The woman who has dandruff should shampoo her hair at least twice a week and give her scalp a brisk, ten-minute massage night and morning. Absolute cleanliness is the first step toward clearing up the troublesome condition. Stimulation of circulation is the second.

It is a perfectly good idea to use a tonic or medicated pomade, made especially to correct dandruff. However, one of these will be ten times as effective if you put it on, then rub for ten minutes.

If you have ignored the first falling flakes and allowed the amount of dandruff to increase until you have thick, matted-looking patches of it here and there, by all means see a scalp specialist at once. Ignore this condition and you are headed for all kinds of trouble—perhaps even baldness.

Dandruff, like almost any other beauty defect, generally is the result of some physical condition. After a long illness, hair falls and the scalp becomes scaly. The patient should begin at once to wash her hair frequently, massage her scalp and use her brush diligently. If, although you have not been in a hospital, or seriously ill, your hair gets dull and lifeless and your scalp becomes covered with white flakes, perhaps your diet is wrong or maybe you are overworking or allowing your nerves to get the better of you. Any of these reacts on the hair immediately.

Try to get more sleep and rest. See that your diet includes some of

Natural Beauty Is Smart

By ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer
It's smart to look natural these days. The most famous beauties in the country have demonstrated shaved eyebrows, over-painted lips and layers of rouge and powder in favor of natural effects that make their skins look fresher and younger. The vogue for corkscrew curls and theatrical makeup on the street has disappeared along with the idea that beauty is a substitute for brains.

Our standard of beauty really has changed a good deal. Nowadays, even beauty contest entrants are judged according to their personality intelligence and charm as well as physical pulchritude. Everyone seems to agree that beauty is a fine thing, indeed, but that no girl should attempt to get by on looks alone.

Rose Veronica Coyle, the Philadelphia girl who won the title of "Miss America" this year at Atlantic City is a shining example of the kind of beauty that is most highly prized these days. Black-haired, brown-eyed Miss Coyle uses makeup with discretion and the artifices she does employ are put on artistically. Also, her interesting manner and sparkling personality contributed as much toward winning the contest for her as did her perfect figure and pretty face. She is the natural looking, typically American type.

"I never diet and I seldom do setting up exercises," Miss Coyle says. "You see, I practice tap dancing about two hours every day and these, plus the number of hours per week I spend golfing, swimming and riding keep me physically fit. I do not eat between meals, but at meal-time, I have anything I want."

Rose Coyle is 5 feet 6; weighs 114 pounds, wears a 4B shoe and a size 12 dress. She has pearly white teeth, curly hair, and olive skin and freckles. Incidentally she does not like freckles, but she does not worry about them or spend hours fussing with freckle remover preparations. Instead, she covers the tiny brown spots as much as possible by a normal use of foundation cream and powder, then forgets about them.

Future Farmers To Meet at Centennial

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 19.—Five thousand Future Farmers of America are expected as the Texas Centennial Exposition November 7 to inaugurate Junior Livestock Show which will continue to November 14.

The organization is composed of students in the schools of the state, taking special courses in farming under the direction of the Federal Smith-Hughes act. On their visit to the Exposition they will be accorded the same railroad rates and other reduced prices that have been granted all the school children of the state.

The group will present a program in the Livestock arena, beginning at 9:30 a. m. on November 7. It will be broadcast.

The group is under the direction of a committee of which I. L. Samuels of North Texas Agricultural College, Arlington is chairman.

On November 12 a total of 10,000 4-H club boys and girls of the state will visit the Exposition. Ages range from 18 years down. Prof. L. L. Johnson of the Agricultural & Mechanical College of Texas is in charge of arrangements for the group.

Its first meeting also will be in the Livestock Arena at 9:30 a. m., when trophies won in the Junior Livestock Show will be awarded, probably by Governor James V. Allred of Texas.

Concessions as to railroad fare and reduced admission rates also have been granted this group on the same basis as the movement of schoolchildren to the Exposition.

Best Football Fakes Pulled by Stronger Teams

Power Draws Defense Out of Position For Gains

BY MAJ. LAWRENCE (BIFF) JONES

Oklahoma's Head Coach NORMAN, Okla. — Most of the better football fakes are pulled by big teams just as strong or stronger than their opponents.

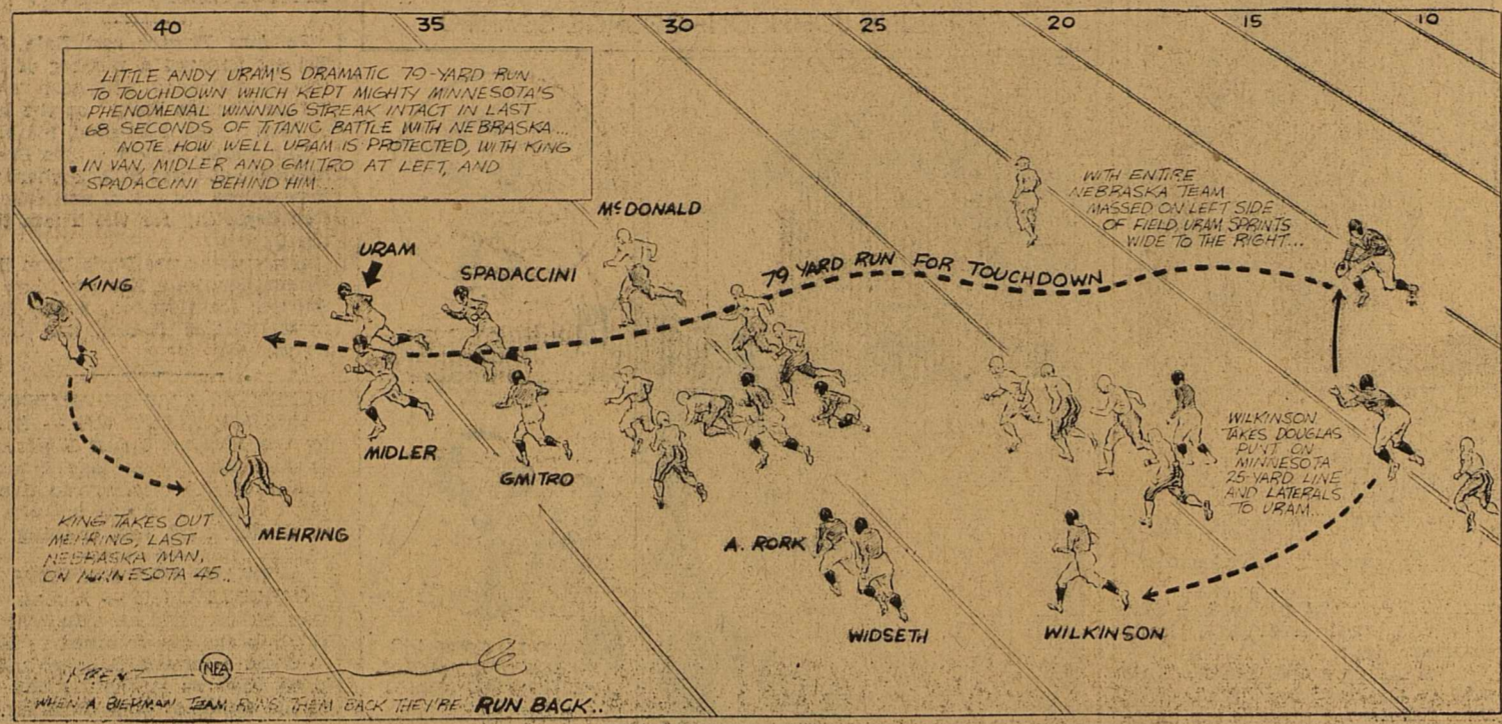

The situation usually is set up by the offensive club having sufficient power to draw the defense out of position, or causing it to play in an unorthodox manner, thus opening it so a trick can click.

The most perfect fake seldom fools all 11 men of an opposing outfit. If you can fox two or three college players today, you should get yardage. For instance, on a simple off-tackle play, if the blocking back is clever enough to draw the end out with threat of a sweep around him he can do a much nearer perfect job of clearing the way than otherwise.

No inferior aggregation ever repelled a superior team on tricks alone. Deception must be handled by good players who have acquired timing, physical ability, and his-tonic talent.

Perhaps the most thrilling bit of deception in intercollegiate football in the last few years was executed by Louisiana State against Georgia in 1935. The Tigers lined up for a punt in their end zone. Jess Fatheree, Louisiana State tail back in the tandem of punt formation, took the ball off the punter's hand after he had faked a kick, and ran 105 yards for a touchdown.

To add further peril to the play, it was raining, the footing was bad, and the ball slick. Any mishandling of the ball, or failure to get up to the goal, would have meant a safety, or a touchdown, if the other team had recovered. Both his goal and the opponent's was in front of Fatheree when he began running.

Receiver of Forward Pass Must Have Histrionic Talent

Very fine deception can be had in a forward pass game. In spite of all the intricate ball handling behind the scrimmage line, the bulk of the deception in forward passing is practiced by the receivers racing down the field. This deception takes the form of sudden breaks and darts and changes of pace, not only by the actual receiver, but also by decoys, who seek to lure the defense away from the true receiver.

We hear and read a lot about famous football trick plays of grandfathers' day — the Carlisle Indian who ran to a touchdown with the ball stuffed under his jersey, the old "hidout" play, the "Statue of Liberty," the "lower play," and many others — yet it's a fact that most coaches today spend even more time trying to develop deception than they did back in the noseguard era.

Today we have spinners, reverses, double reverses, false reverses, and fake spinners, all of which come under the heading of hidden ball plays. Some of them are close kin to the old dazzlers. For instance, take the double reverse, which is nothing but the old "criss-cross." Pop Warner probably gave these plays more impetus than any other coach, although Percy Haughton of Harvard used considerable hidden ball stuff.

Exhaustive Scouting Spurs Development of Fake Plays One of the most pyrotechnical modern fakes is Bob Zuppke's "Flying Trapeze," which Illinois executed by pushing out a lateral off a reverse and then throwing a long forward pass off the lateral. All this multiple handling of the ball took up enough time so that the receiver could get far down the field. This play dealt Ohio State its only defeat in 1934 and scored several times for Zuppke.

There are several reasons why deception in the attack is used more than ever in present-day football. High school players come up to the university better coached, especially on defense, than formerly. Also, there are more good college coaches nowadays.

The forward and lateral passes have opened up avenues of deception. Players get a thrill out of executing deceptive plays, and crowds get a kick out of seeing them.

Also, exhaustive scouting makes it hard to run straight stuff all the time. Incidentally, our Big Six Conference scouting rules are the tightest in the nation. Where outside teams usually put from two to six scouts on a team, and at least one on every game an opponent plays, Big Six rules limit scouting to one man to a game.

YALE PASS KEY

It was expected that with the graduation of Jerry Roscoe, Yale's aerial game would suffer, but Clint Frank, above, stepped into the breach in as capable a manner as could be desired. Frank's accurate hurling of the ball again gives Old Eli what generally is considered the finest passing attack in the east. The young man can lug the leather, too.

Pennsylvania is still 46 per cent forest land, despite its 10,000,000 population.

Kipke Denies Dissension At Michigan As Wolves Howl At Losing Coach

ANN HARBOR, Mich. — Given time and excuse enough, the wolves howl for a football coach's head. Oftentimes they do not need much excuse.

No coach is immune when the going remains rough for any length of time. Coaches either win with some degree of success or get out.

Dr. John Wilce and Sam Williamson heard the wolf pack at Ohio State. Hunk Anderson listened to the growls at Notre Dame. Gilmore Doble at Cornell. Pop Warner at Stanford, and Eddie Casey at Harvard. In face of a remarkable record there and elsewhere, Howard Jones was severely criticized at the first sign of a Southern California slump.

Now Harry Kipke of Michigan is a target. The beating at the hands of Michigan State for the third consecutive year set the pack off in full cry.

It is claimed that Kipke has a defeatist complex.

It is said that authority is divided between Kipke and Fielding H. Yost, and that dissension and jealousy have undermined the coaching staff and ripped the team apart. Coaches are accused of failure in teaching the right kind of football.

Players of last year's squad are charged with not doing their best because many of them have been supplanted by sophomores.

Kipke in Command Campus gossip has been so bitter that Kipke sees fit to deny the reports.

"I am responsible, personally, for the performance of the team," says the All-American halfback and kicker of 1922. "I am head coach and all it implies. During the time of my employment here Mr. Yost has never acted in any capacity but that of a ball game aide. . . . Inter-district golf competition along the winter trail will be stimulated by the extra $1,000 posted for the lowest aggregate score for the Miami Biltmore $10,000 and the Nassau $4,000 opens cards by any three P. G. A. members from the same local district. . . . The Rev. Dr. Charles W. Baldwin, aged 96 and a graduate of Yale 75 years ago, was invited to attend the Eu-Navy game in Baltimore as guest of honor. . . . Japan is planning the largest polo tournament the game has ever known for the Olympic games at Tokio in 1940. . . . The recent United States-Argentine polo series drew approximately 69,000 paid admissions to two games at an average of a little over $2 a head, the lowest price scale in international history. . . . In the reigns of Dempsey and Tunney the heavyweight crown was worth around $3,000,000. Jimmy Braddock is finding that hard to believe. . . . Lou Little, taking time off as a demon statistician, found that football takes less time out of a college undergraduate's year than five other extra-curricular activities. It ranks behind student publications, crew, dramatics, lacross, and debating. . . . Louis Dutta, Italian speedboat designer, has his "Miami Queen" ready to challenge Gar Woods world's record of 124.86 miles per hour and expects the new craft

"We are all working together. There are rumors and reports to the contrary, of course, but that is natural, under the circumstances. But on the field we're just concerned with getting out the best football team possible with the material available. There is no dissension among either the coaches or players."

Kipke became head coach of Michigan in 1929 and carried out the Wolverines' "punt, pass, and prayer" system with great success until 1934. His clubs lost only one game in four years, and were unbeaten in 1930, 1932, and 1933. He was one of the most highly regarded coaches in the business at the conclusion of the campaign of 1933, when he was sought by Yale.

Spaulding System Sound

Dissenters forget the brilliant successes of the Wolverines and of the once famous Michigan system. Kipke has for the past three seasons attributed a shortage of Grade A material to a general tightening up on scholastic requirements. He has lacked the clever ball handlers of Ohio State and Minnesota.

Perhaps by this time Kipke agrees with Bill Spaulding, the old Minnesota coach who has spent a number of years at the University of California at Los Angeles, and others.

Members of this large group frankly assert that their systems consist of getting 11 young men who are better than the 11 young men on the other side. When such a thing happens and we get knocked off, I go back to my first system, which I have named the single setback."

When it is suggested that there is no deception to such a system, Spaulding insists that those who believe this are wrong.

"The system is very deceptive," explains the U. C. L. A. coach. "It has fooled me several times when I believed that my 11 young men were better than the 11 young men on the other side. When such a thing happens and we get knocked off, I go back to my first system, which I have named the single setback."

The SPORTS HORN

BY JESS RODGERS

No National Leaguers are out tossing the baseball around out of season. Bill Brant reports, but Charley Berry and some American leaguers are prowling in Mexico, keeping the bat and ball game alive. . . . Inter-district golf competition along the winter trail will be stimulated by the extra $1,000 posted for the lowest aggregate score for the Miami Biltmore $10,000 and the Nassau $4,000 opens cards by any three P. to hit 130. . . . Basketball, now getting ready to battle football for popularity, is supposed to be continuous action but Everett Dean, when he was coaching Indiana's Big Ten cagers, discovered that the average game had 108 interruptions and that the actual playing time was only 28 minutes 30 seconds.

Chevrolet to Keep Up Newspaper Ads

DETROIT, Oct. 19.—Chevrolet's achievements of all-time sales records in 1936 under a policy which trade newspapers the front line of the company's advertising offensive, has dictated continuance of that policy in 1937, and especially in the announcement of the forthcoming new models. This statement by C. P. Fiskin, advertising manager, was a feature of an all-day party which Chevrolet held for 300 newspapermen this week.

"The 1937 models are the finest Chevrolet has ever built," said Mr. Fiskin. "And the advertising budget then measures up to the product itself. Last year and for several years back, we have relied primarily upon newspaper space to get our message across to the public. In light of the amazing sales achievements of 1936, it is hardly necessary to justify to you our intention of adhering to that policy this year. The newspaper will be the foundation of our advertising effort."

McCamey made 17 first downs, Sanderson 3.

RAILROADS SERVE 25,000,000 MEALS ANNUALLY IN DINING CARS IN AMERICA

Approximately 25,000,000 meals a year!

That is the number prepared and served on trains to appease the appetites of the traveling public, according to tabulations just made by the Association of American Railroads.

This is a sizeable job particularly in view of the fact these meals must be served from dining car kitchens approximately 6 2/3 feet wide and 16 feet long, while speeding over the rails, in many cases, at better than a mile a minute. There is little, if any, opportunity for any part of these meals to be prepared other than in that small space.

Before dining car leaves a terminal, the steward must stock his car to meet the demands of the epicure and the passenger of simple tastes. Once the run begins, there is not always an opportunity for him to replenish his stock of supplies. The steward must see that an ample store of all things which will be needed is on his car before the train departs.

From experience, however, the steward knows that of every hundred patrons about 85 will want coffee and 15, tea. About 35 will ask for roast beef while the remainder will order chicken, fish, chops and steaks in about the order named. There is one thing upon which the steward can gamble with assurance, and that is the fact that apple pie is still the greatest American dessert, exceeding all others in demand.

The average equipment of each dining car consists of 800 pieces of china, 980 table cloths and napkins, about 240 pieces of glass ware, 550 pieces of silver, and 200 pantry and kitchen ware items such as pots, pans, knives, brushes, pails, and other utensils used by the chef and his assistants. Approximately 1,000 dishes of all kinds must be washed during a meal period by one man at a sink less than two feet square.

Some idea as to the immensity of this job of furnishing food to the hungry travelers can be gained by the fact that the dining rooms of the hotel, reputed to be the largest in the world, average approximately one and a half million meals a year. One large eastern railroad alone serves nearly two and one-half million meals a year on its diners.

Installation of air-conditioned dining cars and train equipment, according to officers in charge of the dining car service, has resulted in an increase in the number of orders for heavier meals.

That the hungry public likes meat best of all is shown by the fact that more than 15,000,000 pounds of meat, costing approximately $3,500,000 is consumed annually in railway dining cars contrasted with approximately $155,000 for meats in the largest hotel in the world. Mr. and Mrs. Traveler also enjoy their coffee and tea, using annually approximately 1,000,000 pounds of coffee and about 250,000 pounds of tea.

Keeping the dining car service supplied with milk is an enormous job not only because of the quantity used but also because it must always be fresh. Dining cars attached to transcontinental trains must be supplied with fresh milk at various points en route. This means that milk must be waiting at the station when the train arrives, for a train cannot be delayed because the milk man has over-looked or is otherwise late in arriving. Approximately 3,500,000 quarts of milk and cream are used annually in dining cars.

Eggs also play an important part in the diet of the traveling public. An average of 2,000,000 dozen eggs is used annually. The bread bill of the railroads also is a sizeable amount; an average of 1,125,000 loaves of bread and 30,000,000 rolls being served each year, upon which 2,000,000 pounds of butter are spread.

More than three thousand acres of farm land are required to grow the 9,000,000 pounds of potatoes which the dining car service of the railroads require each year. The other fresh vegetables, together with the berries and fruit that are used, would make a young mountain. Fifteen thousand barrels of apples, 1,625,000 oranges, and a half million grapefruit go to make up the larger part of the railroad's $750,000 annual fruit bill.

Ice cream ranks high in the public's choice of desserts, with the result that approximately 450,000 quarts are used on an average in each year, enough to provide a cone for every child in the United States between the ages of five and seven.

Efficient movement of the 1,500 dining cars now in service is an intricate task. On some long runs a diner will continue through from one terminal to another with the crew sleeping on the train. In other cases, dining cars are cut off from trains at certain points at night and restored to other trains in the early hours of the following morning so that breakfast will be ready to serve to the early risers. However, through years of experience, an efficient and dependable system of handling dining cars has been developed. There can be no slip-up in the arrangements by the commissary departments of the railroads. They know, and the passenger knows, that even though the dining car has been detached in the night, another one will be available the next morning and breakfast will be served as usual.

In addition to the regular dining car service, a number of railroads have installed lunch counter cars. Some railroads extend their dining car service direct to the passenger in his coach seat.

Before being employed in the dining car service, stewards, chefs and waiters are required to undergo a course of instruction at schools maintained for this purpose by the railroads. One large eastern railroad, for instance, has three such schools where there are reproductions, both in space and equipment, of the latest dining cars. These schools are conducted under the observation of skilled instruction

Confesses Killing to Hide 'Affair'

A confessor, Mrs. Ruth Moran, 21-year-old divorcee, is shown as she was questioned in Kenosha, Wis., by Detective Chief Frank Schneberger, to whom she admitted she killed Herbert Winter, 42, Kenosha auto salesman. The Highland Park, Ill., housemaid said she shot Winter because he threatened to reveal her affair to Leo Lindstrom, a chauffeur, who had won her affections. Lindstrom, captured by police of any connection with the crime, said he would stand by Mrs. Moran.

Much School Work Is Done By WPA Group

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 19.—When Texas school children reported for classes this fall, a large number of them found new buildings and improved facilities as a result of Works Progress Administration activities during the past year, it has been announced by H. F. Drought, state administrator.

On school campuses in 237 Texas towns and cities, WPA workers have wrought improvements sponsored by local school authorities. Projects range in magnitude from Fort Worth's million dollar citywide school improvement program to the installation of playground equipment, building of walks, and sodding of grounds at tiny rural schools.

By the end of August, WPA workers had completed the construction of 78 new school buildings in Texas schools. These newly-completed buildings are only a part of the WPA school improvement program. Drought explained. Erected at a cost of $298,363, of which WPA contributed $178,171, the structures are included in a $3,360,333 program of general improvement and ground beautification which has been undertaken in this state.

In addition to work on educational plants, WPA efforts have been extended to the improvement of athletic facilities in 113 Texas schools. Work has been completed or is in progress on construction and improvement of 85 gymnasiums and auditorium-gymnasiums and on 28 high school stadiums.

Texas sponsors have been particularly receptive to opportunities for improving school facilities. Drought said, and a large proportion of the projects which have been suggested by city and county authorities have been for such work. He declared that the following communication, received from C. Wedgeworth, superintendent of schools at Snyder, is typical of expressions from sponsors of school projects. Referring to the recently dedicated gymnasium at the Snyder school, Superintendent Wedgeworth wrote to Abilene district WPA officials.
