House Passes New Bill to Continue Pension Payments

WARRANTS WOULD BE SOLD TO KEEP UP CASH INCOME

Allred Recommends Action Taken in The House

TO DROP PROBE

Red Inquiry Called A 'Farce' By Member

AUSTIN, Oct. 15. (AP)—The House today passed and sent to the Senate a bill to continue old-age pension payments for the remainder of the year through the issuance of interest-bearing warrants.

Governor Allred had recommended the action to meet the pension needs until the treasury receives money from the new tax expected to be approved by the special session of the legislature now studying a bill.

Allred said bankers had assured him they would purchase the warrants if the legislature provided enough tax funds to pay them within a reasonable time.

A move to quash the legislative investigation of rumored communistic teachings in state-supported institutions appeared in the House.

Representative Roy Hofheinz, Houston, said the inquiry was a farce and introduced a resolution ordering the committee to report and cease labor. No action has yet been taken.

Chairman Joe Caldwell, Asherton, said the public would be excluded when the hearings are resumed tonight.

"Additional precautions" may be taken to prevent the repetition of a demonstration against exclusion by Texas University students last night.

Sun Carnival Will Attract Floats of Dozens of Cities

EL PASO, Oct. 15. (AP)—Twelve towns already have promised to enter floats in the Southwestern Sun Carnival Pageant of Beauty to be held here Jan. 1.

This is a greater number already than was entered by nearby cities and towns in last year's parade.

Towns that have promised entries in the parade include: Alamogordo, N. M.; Las Cruces, N. M.; Hot Springs, N. M.; Deming, N. M.; Carlsbad, N. M.; Pecos, Alpine, Marfa, Ysleta and Juarez, Mexico.

Eight bands from Southwestern cities will attend the Sun Carnival to compete for prizes in the Pageant of Beauty parade. Seven bands already have entered. The eighth band will be that of the college whose football team will play the Border Conference champion in the Sun Bowl Classic New Year's Day.

Bands entered include Hot Springs N. M.; Bisbee, Ariz.; Odessa, Fort Stockton, Jutez, Sol Ross College of Alpine and the New Mexico Aggie band.

Sun Carnival officials announced today that bands from out-of-town will not compete with El Paso bands but will compete among themselves for prizes.

Officials say that the enthusiastic cooperation they are receiving from local business and professional men will make this year's Sun Carnival an even greater success than last year's event.

They announced that the deadline for entries in the Pageant of Beauty Parade is Dec. 1. The officials explained that it is necessary to get entries in early in order that preliminary work may be done to insure smooth running for the Sun Carnival.

Gov. James V. Allred has notified officials that he plans to attend the Sun Carnival again this year.

Radio fans in all parts of the United States will receive a colorful word-picture of the giant parade as it winds through the city streets as Radio Station WFAA, one of the most powerful in the country, is sending a state's announcer to El Paso to describe the Pageant of Beauty. The microphone will be connected directly to WFAA in Dallas.

Newsreel cameramen will have their cameras located at strategic points along the line of march to get "shots" of the parade to be shown in theatres in all parts of the nation a few days later.

All Car Owners Are Asked To Aid In Project

Coming to Midland for a two-day automobile safety lane campaign Friday and Saturday, officers of the Texas Highway Patrol today asked all automobile owners to participate in the courtesy project in order to make it most effective as a means of reducing accidents.

Captain W. W. Legg and Sergeant G. E. Schauer of the Austin office addressed the Rotary club today, outlining the purposes of the campaign and asking complete cooperation on the part of Midland county citizens.

Talks will be made at the public schools, giving a double plan of instruction.

The safety lane will be located in the block on the south side of the court house, that being the 200 block on West Wall street. All automobile drivers going through that segment of the highway between the hours of 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. Friday, and 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. Saturday, will be asked to stop and submit to tests of brakes, lights, steering mechanism and windshield wipers.

Automobiles meeting the tests will be given blue stickers showing they are satisfactory. Those found defective will be given pink stickers pointing out the adjustments needed and drivers will be asked to have the corrections made as quickly as possible.

The talks to school children, being made in all places where the safety lane campaigns are staged, will be for the purpose of inducing the youthful "back seat drivers" on the causes of accidents and methods of prevention. Highway patrolmen, in their speeches today, said that children can be impressed more easily than adults. They are the drivers of tomorrow, hence should be given proper instruction as a means of holding down accidents in the future.

Funeral Services To Be Held Friday In El Paso

Funeral services will be held at Pecos Friday at 5 p. m. for John T. McElroy, 87, widely known cattleman and capitalist whose death occurred yesterday at El Paso. He had been ill since September 26 when he contracted a severe cold, the malady causing a complete collapse.

Formerly owner of the McElroy ranch in Crane county, where the Gulf Production Co. now has one of the nation's greatest oil pools, Mr. McElroy at one time was a frequent business visitor to Midland. His well known "Y" brand was outstanding throughout the country.

For several years he has made his home at El Paso, where he owns a packing plant and is heavily interested in various enterprises, and also with his wife maintained their magnificent ranch home near Deming.

Services will be held at Kaster & Maxon mortuary, El Paso, at 10 a. m. Friday, the Rev. Wistor R. Smith, Presbyterian pastor, officiating. The body then will be taken to Pecos for burial services at 5 p. m. at the family plot three miles west of Pecos.

Besides his widow, Mr. McElroy is survived by a sister, Mrs. Sarah J. Dawson, who is now an El Paso resident.

Mr. McElroy was born in Clinton County, Ohio, in 1849, the year of the California gold rush. When he was three years old his father caught the gold fever and went west.

The boy ran after his father, pleading to be taken to the fabulous land to the west. The elder McElroy was gone two years. He returned with the intention of taking his family to California, but his wife

A junior high student said that a natural death for a mouse is to be devoured by a cat. Back in the early days a man passed away and now his relatives say he died of throat trouble. The truth is that he was hanged for horse theft. One doctor said that low necked dresses ward off pneumonia. Now and then I believe some women are trying to ward off hip trouble. A local man was told by his physician that he was worn out and needed a vacation, but the patient said he was just back off of one. A local lazy bones refused to apply for a job because the employer advertised for two men. "He wants two men so he probably wouldn't hire me because I'm just one," said the ambitious citizen.

the man who last winter forced a partial investigation of the silicosis mass tragedy in West Virginia, which caused considerable horror around the country for awhile. Early this year he was arrested for trying to lead a parade of relief workers in New York. In Washington he has fought to prevent soldiers bonus recipients from being barred from relief rolls, for conscription of war profits and strict neutrality legislation, for the holding company bill, for "soak the rich" taxation, and for civil liberties.

Large populations of Italian-Americans and Spanish-Americans reside in the tough Harlem district which this vigorous 33-year-old fighter represents. Which means both the Fascist and anti-Fascists battle and the Spanish revolution are being fought in a small way, in Marcantonio's bailiwick.

Marcantonio is against the Fascists both times and they're against him and it is all very bitter. Marcantonio is the Republican nominee.

Opposed by Tammanyite His Democratic opponent is James J. Lanzetta, Tammany candidate and admirer of Mussolini. But several prominent liberal Democrats are out for Marcantonio—including his friend Congressman Maury Maverick of Texas, who will make a speech for him—where as conservative Republicans in many cases support Lanzetta.

An even stronger reminder of European political alignments, in this district where candidates usually travel with bodyguards, is the fact that Marcantonio is not only the candidate of the Republicans and the All People's Party, but also of the People's Front—all three parties appearing on the ballot. Marcantonio is not supporting Roosevelt—or Landon, for that matter—and the administration isn't supporting Marcantonio. But, unlike Roosevelt, he isn't repudiating Communist support and seeks all the radical votes he can get.

While ago there was a big Fascist celebration in the district and Marcantonio bought tickets for 50 of his hunkier supporters. He walked in unannounced and the 50 led off the chorus of "Viva Marcantonio!" "Mr. Marcantonio," cried the chairman, "why you come here?" "I come to make a speech!" replied the congressman and so many people yelled "Viva Marcantonio!" that they had to let him make a speech. He says he gained many votes

Subsequently, the congressman charges, big Puerto Rican sugar interests have been putting money into the campaign to defeat him.

STORIES IN STAMPS The STAR-GAZING GENERAL

THE stars and the planets formed the world of Milan Rastislav Stefanik, young Czech scientist and inventor, before the World War. But fame came to him more for his exploits on the battlefield, in the name of the newly organized country, than for his world-wide astronomical studies.

For Milan Stefanik became one of the leaders in the liberation of Czechoslovakia. WPA Sewing Rooms Aiding Destitute

SAN ANTONIO. — More than 4,700,000 garments for the destitute of Texas have been manufactured by women workers in WPA sewing rooms during the past year, it has been announced by H. P. Drought, state works progress administrator.

While thousands of unfortunate Texans were being provided with adequate clothing, the 16,000 women in WPA sewing rooms were earning monthly incomes which, through August 31, amounted to slightly more than $4,500,000. Since sewing room workers themselves were on relief rolls, most of these dollars, Drought explained, immediately went into trade channels in exchange for food and other necessities. Texas merchants thus benefited from consumers who previously were unable to buy and were dependent on the dole for subsistence.

Sewing rooms were established throughout Texas at points designated by city and county officials and where there were enough needy unemployed women to permit economical operation, Drought said. Sponsors provided space for the workers and utilities while the Works Progress Administration supplied equipment, material and supervision, in addition to paying the salaries of workers. During the year, 421 sewing room units were operated in the 20 WPA districts.

As in other types of work, employees were classified as unskilled, intermediate, and skilled workers, and monthly salaries ranged from $21 to $38. It is estimated that several thousand Texas women have learned to sew for the first time in these work rooms and have been permanently aided by gaining the ability to make most of the garments required by their own families.

Garments made included shirts, trousers and overalls for men and boys, dresses, suits, blouses and underwear for women, and dresses, play suits, pants and shirts for children. The garments are not sold but are distributed among the state's indigents, who are designated by officials of the Texas Relief Commission, which sponsors a WPA project for the distribution of commodities.

'Girls' Dormitory' Features New Star

A brilliant new screen star—talented, glamorous, beautiful—is revealed in "Girls' Dormitory," Twentieth Century Fox picture which comes to the Yucca Friday and Saturday.

Headed as the most important screen discovery in years, Simone Simon (pronounced See-MOAN See-MOAN) made her debut in a stirring and enthralling film that stands as one of Hollywood's outstanding achievements.

Herbert Marshall and Ruth Chatterton are starred in the production and their inspired performances aid in making "Girls' Dormitory" what it is—the most human, realistic and revealing story of rapturous first love ever brought to the screen.

selected this film to introduce Simone Simon to the American screen, and the chief attraction of the Twentieth Century-Fox studio also surrounded the famous Continental star with an impressive cast which, in addition to Marshall and Miss Chatterton, features Constance Collier, J. Edward Bromberg, Dixie Dunbar, John Qualen and Shirley Deane.

The story of a young girl knowing the tumult of love for the first time, "Girls' Dormitory" opens in an exclusive finishing school where the daughters of the very wealthy are sent to complete their education.

Herbert Marshall is director of the school, and it is with him that Simone, a pupil, falls in love. Ruth Chatterton, a member of the faculty also loves Marshall but conceals her affection behind a mask of friendliness and admiration.

Like a school girl, Simone at first whispers her love only to her heart but then, like a woman, she fights for the happiness that only love can bring.

In the lightning flash of a summer storm, Marshall and Simone kiss and she confesses her love. Happy in her new-found happiness, Simone's ecstasy is shattered when she discovers that Marshall and Miss Chatterton are really in love.

In a brilliant scene, Simone brings their tangled affairs to a climax—a climax that reveals the newcomer one of the most inspired actresses ever to grace the screen.

Corned Beef And Cabbage Modernized With Sauce

Corned Beef and Cabbage is just as good by any other name—especially when puffed potatoes turn it into Scalloped Corn Beef and Cabbage.

By NEA Service

Corned beef with cabbage seems to be based on an unending human desire. But you can refresh your menu with a variation of the ancient theme. Scalloped the dish and cover with a mashed potato top. Use 2 1/2 cups cooked corned beef, cut into 1/2 inch cubes, and 3 cups cooked cabbage. Make 3/4 cups smooth creamed sauce, seasoned lightly with mustard and a little lemon juice. Go easy on the salt because the corned beef will attend to that.

Beat Potato Well

Mix the corned beef cubes, cabbage and cream sauce. Pour into a casserole. Now for the cover. Mash your potatoes, mix with butter and hot milk, then beat and beat and beat. They should be fluffy, airy, ready to leap for joy. Spread over top of the other mixture, then place in hot oven long enough to brown the potato top. Garnish with a fresh sprig of parsley, then place before the family. A new idea certain to win old-fashioned enthusiasm.

Corned beef in a pie with tomato and corn meal—color plus reliability. Boil 4 cups water, stir in 1 cup white or yellow corn meal. Add salt to taste. Cook until meal begins to thicken. Grease a round baking dish. Line with corn meal. Use 2 cups cuber corn beef mixed with 1/2 cup cooked cubed potatoes, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, and 1 can condensed tomato soup. Pour into corn meal shell. Over top place small balls of the moist cooked corn meal. Bake in moderate oven for a little less than an hour. Here's a dish that is different, flavorful and calculated to wake up any jaded appetite. And it is very inexpensive.

A Ruined Toy Can Be Object Lesson

By Olive Roberts Barton
One day I bought little Lowrie a bunch of small trucks. You know, mother, the kind with small detachable rubber tires about the size of a nickel.

In about an hour he came running in to tell me that I'd have to buy him some more. "Where are the ones you have?" "They haven't any tires left." "What happened?" "I took them off and now they're lost."

Here we have the perfect example that what comes easy goes easy. Or, there's lots more where that came from. This, I think sets itself up in young children, and stays with us forever.
Yet the toy that is set up on the radio to be looked at may as well be back in the store. I have often growled at the makers of those pesky little cars for not sticking the tires on tight, but in my heart I know that they are far more valuable in teaching the child not to monkey with them. Perhaps that is why they are that way. Our toy-makers are getting most canny. They are far smarter than we parents.

Destructiveness Is Natural
I am going right on with those little trucks. They make a good subject to illustrate several things. The rest of the body is in one piece. Only a heel or a hammer can smash it. But suppose the top was removable or the hood came off, with intent. Then it would become a "technical toy" or "constructive" one. The child would learn to take it apart and put it together again. Some are made that way, and there are sets that can be built into almost anything.

Put one of the simple kind beside one of the latter. The child knows he is allowed to "demolish" the second, but not the first. One can be restored, the other not. What will he do? I mean the untrained child following his natural bent. He won't be interested in the mechanical one after awhile, and will get the other apart if he can, just as he would a watch. Destructiveness is natural in nearly all children.

Saved From Consequences
My little lesson is this. We can go too far in giving children—only those things they can't hurt. Along with them we should place things that teach care. I believe the old bisque dolls taught responsibility a bit more than the unbreakable dolls of today.

We are surrounding the child with too few of the things that teach the price of carelessness. We put away lamps, (and we should, valuable ones,) take up spillable rugs, use unbreakable dishes and have as many fool proof gadgets about as money will buy. And while I acknowledge the wisdom of such a course as an economy measure, and also as a boon to the lively kids who cannot be tied up in a bag, yet I am sure we can go too far.

As he grows, and is capable of more caution, every child needs to know that things are hard to get and must be guarded. I saw a young fellow one day set a handsome new suit case in the mud. I thought, "He has been brought up either on unbreakable things, or his destroyed belongings have always been replaced."

There is always a happy medium. Oh, dear, what a problem it is.

Winter Calls For Good Body Lotions

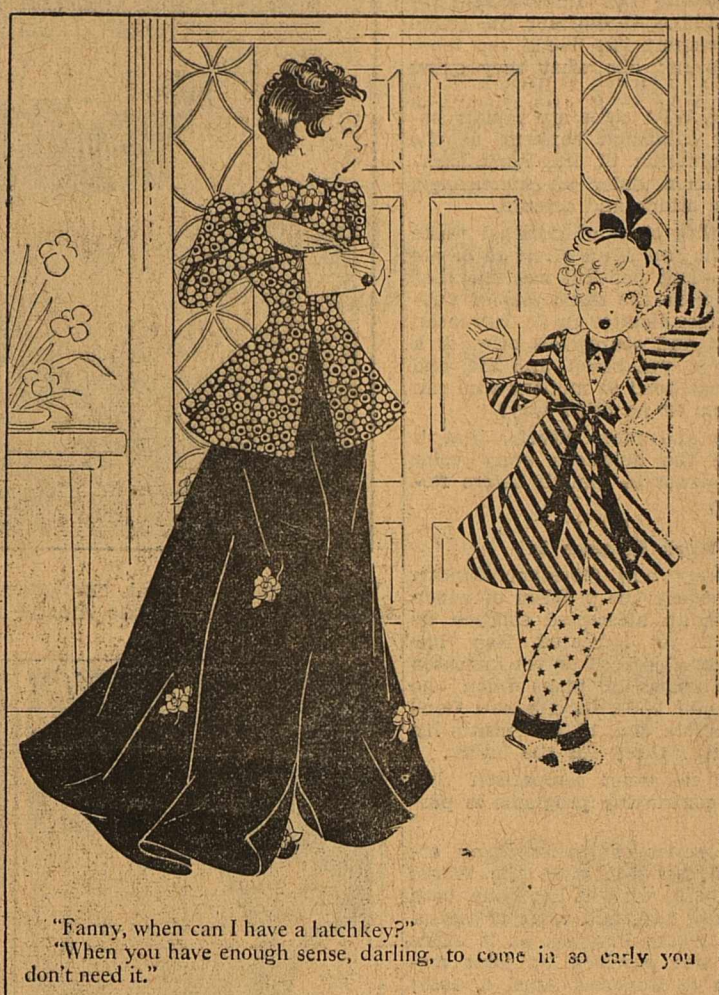

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer
New and interesting in cosmetic departments this week are preparations to use after the bath and to keep the skin on the body firm, smooth and soft. The woman who always dreads cold weather because her skin chaps and gets rough and dry will find these especially nice.

One important cosmetic recommendation is a body tonic to be smoothed on just before you start to do daily exercises. If you give yourself massage treatments at home, use this in conjunction with them.

Afterward, take your bath, then smooth on a good body lotion. There are several on the market, of course, and they certainly do away with chapped knees, ankles, elbows and heels. Women who have to bathe in hard water ought not to overlook lotions of this type. One especially good variety comes in an attractive, three-cornered bottle, is pale peach color and softens the skin without leaving a greasy film. A medium-sized bottle ought to last all winter.

It really is too bad that more women with fat arms do not realize the importance of home mas-

WPA --- What It Is and How Operated

BY WILLIS THORNTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent

There by the road stands the red, white, and blue sign: "U. S. A.—Work Program—WPA."

There are thousands of others like it, blooming like flowers at 170,000 locations throughout the country.

Those WPA signs are rapidly becoming campaign banners, as the work program of the administration comes under an increasingly hot fire attack and defense.

Are they signs of criminal waste of public funds, an effort to create a dependent political machine that will vote as the dispensers of public largesse dictate? Or do they mean a clean and courageous offer of a chance to win bread, and life, and hope, extended to millions who can get them in no other way?

More and more clearly, that is one of the questions every voter must answer to himself before November.

What Work Program Is Precisely how Governor Landon would attack the problem of which WPA is an attempted solution he has not yet indicated. Nor has President Roosevelt as yet indicated what changes he plans when he reports on WPA to one new Congress before Jan. 10, and makes his recommendations for the future.

Thus no exact comparison between contrasting programs is possible.

This series of stories is an effort to tell just what the Works Program is, what it has done, both good and bad, and what it means.

The Works Program as it exists today was provided by joint resolution of Congress April 8, 1935; it is almost 18 months old.

But its roots go down to 1933. There were then between 13 and 17 million unemployed—nobody knows just how many. Private institutional, and state relief had broken down. The federal government had to act.

There were three courses:

- 1. Let them starve. 2. Give them enough food and shelter to live (the dole). 3. Give them work.

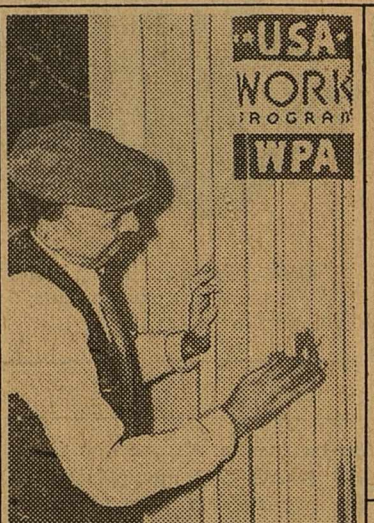

Jobs, Roosevelt's Choice

Roosevelt chose to give work. Through admittedly more expensive, it was decided that the keep up self-respect, morale, and skill through work was preferable to feeding men and women in idleness.

The Civilian Conservation Corps was established. The Public Works Administration followed, set up to spend $3,300,000,000 on permanent public works. But it soon found it could not employ many people for nearly a year, because it was so hard to sift out the best and most permanent projects. Autumn

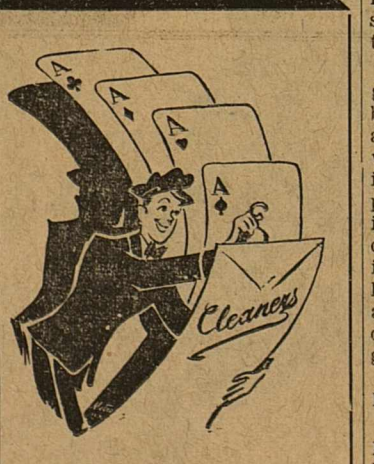

Work! Here are WPA employees getting under way a water conservation project, the Amsdn Dam, near Andover, S. D.

Projects! A man cleans the walls of New York's city hall beneath the now-familiar sign. A woman makes clothing for the destitute in Washington, D. C. Musicians rehearse a 285-piece orchestra for a WPA concert in New York. A Boston lad learns to play table tennis in a recreation-education project.

came on. Something had to be done. The Civil Works Administration was hurriedly devised. And between November and January more than 4,000,000 people were on its payroll. Many of the CWA projects were trivial and even foolish. But they tied people through a desperate winter, stimulated purchasing power, and established the principle that to get federal money relief people had to do something for it. In addition, road building, school improvement, and thousands of worth-while objects were furthered.

regardless of whether they were or had been on relief. By midsummer, rolls were still declining, and a scarcity of skilled labor began to be apparent as industrial employment continued to rise. Demands or organizers of WPA workers became more insistent, and red tape in getting pay checks was frequently protested.

Women at work. By March the rolls began to thin out. The political aspect of the vast move began to appear. Director Harry Hopkins sent out a blunt letter forbidding soliciting of political funds among project workers, but Senator Rush Holt demanded an investigation of political pressure on them in West Virginia.

Wages Take Slump Toward July, rolls were further reduced, though the mayors of 50 eastern cities united in protest. Wage scales had begun to simmer down, and a survey showed at this time that average pay in New York was $72.31 a month; in Houston, $34; in San Francisco, $64; in Cleveland, $65; in Pittsburgh, $68.

In April Hopkins went to Congress with his report, and faced a searching inquiry about WPA as preliminary to a new appropriation. In a five-hour grilling he pointed out that, of 170,000 projects, only about 150 had been specifically criticized, and these he defended.

Criticism began to rise that California pea ranchers, Colorado beet growers, farmers generally, could not get emergency help to harvest their crops because workers would not desert WPA jobs, which were steady and, on the whole, better paid.

More than 100 investigators and "trouble-shooters" were put on the job to straighten out these local situations. In some cases local WPA jobs were closed down during harvest time. Efforts were made to make it easier to get back on WPA if you left to take a temporary private job.

More Money for WPA

In June Congress again, after long investigation and debate, continued WPA was an additional appropriation of $1,425,000,000. The WPA lists were closed to "aliens illegally within the country," but opened to jobless and the effect on all of them was a permanent lesson to me. Remember it, mothers. If you have to, "paint" a smile on your face. If you don't, you will have to do as I did, and gaze at gloom from morning to dark. I, who am so good at dispensing advice, had failed to notice that my illness had infected my family. We seldom notice such things ourselves. Since then, my sister and I have had many laughs about our expressions. She or I will suddenly say, "Where is the smile?" But, since she is a soldier, I rarely have to say it to her.

Landon 'Swings Potential Votes

As the presidential campaign neared, repeated charges of political pressure on WPA workers to get and keep their jobs were cited by critics, despite emphatic assurances by Hopkins that if any local administrators were putting on any such pressure it was against his express orders.

In a congressional investigation of campaign methods in Pennsylvania, both pressure by private employers on their men, and pressure by WPA executive on their will be investigated.

Today there are about 3,000,000 men and 400,000 women working for WPA and 90,000 projects. That includes some 2,400,000 on "straight" WPA jobs, around 375,000 in the CCC, more than 350,000 in emergency conservation work, and thousands more in the Youth, Electrification, and Resettlement administrations.

Next: Boondoggling or wealth-building—what do all these people DO, anyway? A brief survey of the work of the WPA.

Mother's Blue Look Infects Whole Family

By Olive Roberts Barton I noticed the family growing bluer by the day. It worried me because everybody seemed well; there was no imminent catastrophe and the meals were as usual.

"What's the matter?" I asked one after the other. "Is anything wrong?" "Oh, no," came the usual answer. "Everything's just fine."

Household was Gloomy The sun shone, the wind blew and the morning glories bloomed, yet the smiles in my household were certainly conspicuous by their absence. A pall rested over the place.

In sheer desperation, I planned trips for this one and that. I had ice-cream often. I bought a new lamp with a rose shade. I gave little presents. In short, I tried for weeks to jack up the morale of my husband and kids (they're not exactly kids now—and even my small grand son who came to visit. But his own little face soon became as sober as that of a judge. Then I gave up. I said one day, "You all look like calamity itself. What's wrong with this house?" And I proceeded to parade my virtues and how kind I was, and bark that all the thanks I got was a bunch of sad faces.

Then one day I packed up and went on a visit. I visited my sister. She stood it for two days and then she said, "For heaven's sake, Olive, smile once in a while. Look happy. Smile if you have to stretch your mouth out of place and paste it there."

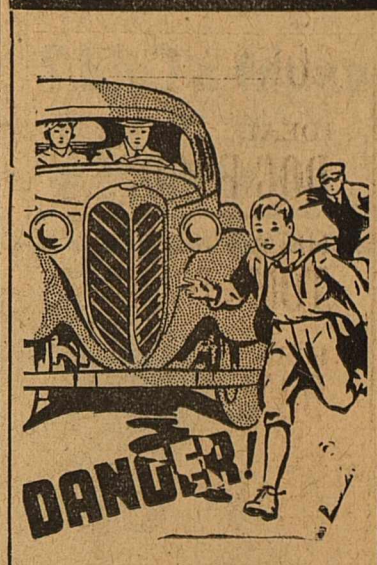

"What are you talking about?" I asked indignantly. "I'm as happy as a lark."

"Well, you don't sing like one," she said. "I know you haven't been well, and feel dreadfully sometimes. But you've let your face down and your voice down and yourself down so that I wonder how the family stands it." Faced Mirror—And Truth I went straight to my room and took stock of myself. True, I had been very miserable for a long time. But I wasn't miserable now, except when I ate chocolate at bed time. And suddenly I laughed. I made faces in the mirror and decided that if I had to look at my features, as the family had had to do for weeks on end, I should have exploded. Poor dears, how patient they had been! What I needed was a good shake. After awhile I went downstairs, grinning a ghastly grin. We had a lot of fun over my attempts at an engaging smirk, but when I returned home the family mobbed me. "Oh, mother, how much better and happier you look!" I felt neither better nor happier, but they did.

Remember it, mothers. If you have to, "paint" a smile on your face. If you don't, you will have to do as I did, and gaze at gloom from morning to dark. I, who am so good at dispensing advice, had failed to notice that my illness had infected my family. We seldom notice such things ourselves. Since then, my sister and I have had many laughs about our expressions. She or I will suddenly say, "Where is the smile?" But, since she is a soldier, I rarely have to say it to her.

Threshing Operator On The Job for 56 Years

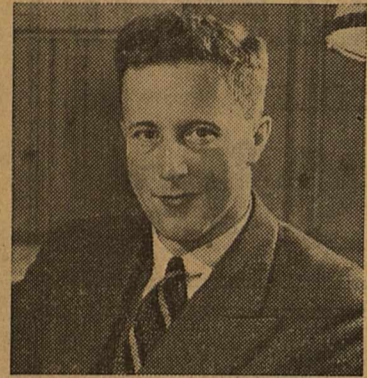

PROSPER, Minn. (U.P.)— Frank E. Rollins claims the state record for continuous service as the operator of a threshing rig.

Rollins, who is 75, says he has operated a threshing outfit for 56 consecutive years.

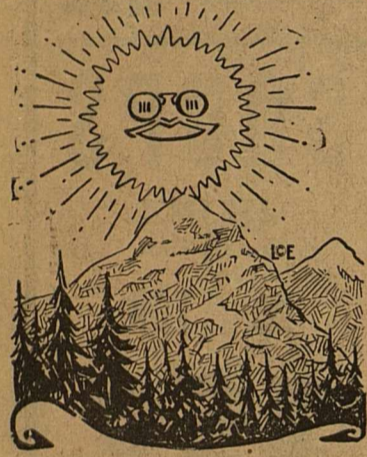

Fifty-six years ago, he recounts, he started work with a horse-drawn vehicle. He has gone through the various stages of the steam rig and now owns a modern outfit.

"I'm proud of my record," he said, "and you can bet a little money that I'll add several years to it yet before I'm through."

Travelers Assured Of Better Train Lighting

WASHINGTON, (U.P.)— Installation of improved lighting facilities, air conditioning and other improvements designed to add comfort to the traveling public, has resulted in greater demand for electricity on trains today than ever before, the Association of American Railroads reports.

Due to the fact that the public is becoming more accustomed to stronger illumination, the railroads are being called upon to provide illumination of comparable intensity in passenger cars. The trend to artistic effects in illumination also requires an increased amount of power.

BAYLOR-TEXAS TO CLASH SATURDAY

WACO, Texas, Oct. 15. (Sp.)— With courage undimmed after a heart-rending fourth quarter defeat at the hands of the powerful Arkansas Razorbacks last week end, the Baylor Bears are spending many hours this week drilling against the famous Notre Dame system which Coach Jack Chevigny's Texas Longhorns will use in the coming Baylor-Texas contest. Tuesday afternoon's drill for the Bruins consisted of a stiff scrimmage session against the husky Baylor Cub team.

Lack of reserve strength handicapped the Grizzlies noticeably last week when they dropped their initial conference encounter to the Ozark Porkers. For more than three quarters Coach Jennings' Bears were supreme on Razorback field, but the fourth quarter found the Baptists too weary to cope with the flashy aerial show which the Thomsenmen staged. John Reynolds, who has proved himself as one of the Southwest's greatest linemen, Owen Parry, husky Bruin tackle, and Sam Boyd, sensational sophomore wingman, all were sent from the Hog tilt with injuries. With the exception of Boyd, who suffered a recurrence of a pet knee injury, every man on the Baylor eleven will be ready to meet the onslaught of the Longhorn stampede Saturday.

Eight seniors on the Baylor team will be out for first blood from the Longhorns in Austin this week end. For the past two seasons the Bears have been conquered by the Chevigny-men, each time by a 25-6 score, and not a man on the Green and Gold squad has ever participated in a victory over the state eleven. Baylor's last win over Texas was in 1934 when a spirited team found victory with a miraculous field goal in the last 18 seconds of play.

Baylor "Bib Four" backfield performed capably against the Arkansans, but they couldn't defend themselves sufficiently against bullet passes from the Hog backs and startling leaping catches of the rangy Forker wingmen. The same quartet composed of Lloyd Russell as quarterback, Bubba Gernand and Bob Masters at the halfback berths, and Carl Brazell as full ack, will carry the Golden Wave banner against the Longhorns this week end. Russell shone brilliantly in the last Bruin encounter, averaging over forty yards per punt, shooting passes with deadly effectiveness, and whirling around end and back up field on punt returns with breathtaking sprints. Gernand played his usual consistent game at halfback.

Billy Patterson, sophomore triple-threatener will see reserve backfield service Saturday and will add measurably to the performance of the Bruin offense. Brazell and Reynolds have come to be regarded as the outstanding pair of line-backers in the conference by virtue of a trio of amazing performances already this season.

AGGIES WORK TO STOP TCU PASSES

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 15.—Flags fly over Texas Aggie land's streets and forward passes swish over Kyle Field's white-barred turf this week as the Texas Aggies make ready for the invasion Saturday, Oct. 17, of the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian University.

The flags and banners, showing triads of horned frogs being annihilated by Cadets, one depicting a sad-faced frog hanging from the scaffold, portray, poignantly the Aggies' hopes that a twelve-year victory drought in Frog tilts will be broken by a cloud-burst of maroon and white touchdowns. "Gig the Frogs," "Stomp the Frogs," "Fry the Frogs," the banners cry from above as the cadet corps tramps down the military walk.

The passes propelled by Freshman backs, are not designed to polish the Aggie attack but rather to bolster the defense against the wizardry of Sam Baugh, the Horned Frog's ace quarterback. On three occasions within the past two years Baugh has equipped his pass machinery with telescopic sights and pitched touchdown passes for distances of 30 yards or more.

While the Aggie students are painting their signs and the grid players are sharpening their pass defensive wits, Cadet officials are making preparations to handle the largest crowd to invade Kyle Field, except on a Thanksgiving Day, in nine years. One special train will be run from Fort Worth, home of the Frogs, and another may be run from Houston.

Employment Gains Reported In Texas

AUSTIN, Texas. — Employment and pay rolls in Texas during September made substantial gains over the like month last year and moderate gains over the preceding month, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has found.

Reports of the Bureau from more than 1,500 Texas establishments show a total of 79,773 employees, an increase of 7.5 percent over September last year and 2.9 percent over August. Average weekly pay rolls totaled $1,788,723, an increase of 8.9 percent over September a year ago and 2.9 percent over August.

Pecos Man New Golf Pro at Country Club

Fred D. Howe and wife, formerly of Pecos, have moved to Midland where he is golf professional at Midland Country Club. He succeeds "Sandy" Achteremie, who moved to Wichita Falls to accept a similar position.

Howe assisted the late J. Ellis Cowden in laying out and building the Midland course. He built the course at Pecos and was "pro" there for five years. He also built the "sporty" course at Stamford, spending four years with that club.

He studied both professional golf and landscaping under Sid Cooper of Dallas and has put in several years of active work at his vocation. Mrs. Howe, also an ardent golfer, will assist in women's tournaments and play.

Known throughout West Texas and New Mexico, from his association with tournaments, the new professional expressed pleasure at coming to Midland where much interest is taken in the game and where possibilities for development of the club are apparent.

Plans for Calcutta pool to be staged late in the month will be announced shortly. Mrs. Howe said today. Mr. and Mrs. Howe are parents of Mrs. R. T. McAden of Midland.

Arlington Downs Meet Opens Oct. 22

ARLINGTON DOWNS, Tex. Oct. 15.—Fifty or more of the nation's outstanding thoroughbreds, now quartered at Arlington Downs awaiting the start of the Texas Jockey Club's pretentious Fall Meeting of 33 racing days on Oct. 22, will be sent through their training routines next Sunday for the benefit of the many thousands of racing enthusiasts expected to visit the spacious Waggoner plant for the Open House, which always features the pre-opening events at Arlington. Presiding Steward Sam C. Nuckles and other official of the Texas Jockey Club will be on hand, and its was announced by General Manager Trav Daniel that several of the Waggoner Memorial candidates would work out, and that each would be identified for the gathering by Jockey Club attaches, and also that the public address system, under the supervision of James Looklear, would be in working order. Arlington Downs will be thrown open at day-break and training operations will continue until mid-afternoon. No inspection of the 'tote' will be permitted, though, on account of the large crew now working desperately to finish the installation in time for the opening on Thursday, Oct. 22.

The majority of thoroughbreds, however, will be seen in action before 10 o'clock, with only a few to be sent through their paces later. Among the former will be some of the outstanding horses at the track, and all of the three D's standard bearers. And, while final plans are being made for Sunday's open house, turf stars from all over the nation are daily arriving at Arlington Downs, and the Fall meeting will produce many that have never raced at the Waggoner plant, such as E. F. Seagram's Stand Pat, Tempetuous, Rossell and Sabin, the crack Display-Flamante four year old and full brother to the yearling now in the Waggoner barn, which E. Paul Waggoner purchased from A. Pons last year.
