Bulldogs-Wildcats Ready for Struggle

George VI, Ruler of Great Britain

The second of four articles telling of the life story of the Duke of York, heir presumptive to the throne of King Edward VIII of England.

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Dec. 11. —The future Duke of York—a slim, green young sprig of the House of Windsor—on May 31, 1916, got what was probably destined to be the biggest thrill of all his life. He was a young serving officer on a war vessel in the thick of one of the greatest and fiercest of all the naval engagements ever fought—the Battle of Jutland.

The Germans claimed a victory, basing it upon the fact that their fleet escaped destruction and that the British suffered more in vessels lost and sailors killed or drowned. But the British claimed it as a victory, because never again during the war did the German High Seas fleet venture out to do battle. It remained locked up in safe German water until the war was over and then came up to Scapa Flow to surrender to the British.

In a battle on land, the supreme command, if it desires, can throw a protective screen around a scion of the royal house by seeing to it that he is placed in a comparatively safe position far back from the front. Nothing of the sort can be done for a royal officer serving on a ship engaged in a battle. There are no safe places unless the ship itself is taken out of the fight.

On the Collingwood, Midshipman, Prince Albert took his chances and shared the peril with every man-jack from the commander of the ship to the humblest fireman. If the ship had been sunk or set on fire or exploded, Albert Windsor's chances would have been no better than those of plain John Smith. That's the spirit of most navies.

Made Knight of Garter After Battle

During the heat of the action in the Jutland battle, Prince Albert served in a big-gun turret. His doughty ship was doing mighty work. First she warded off a destroyer attack, later, she put out of action the German battleship Derflinger, which herself had sunk several British vessels. The young prince was mentioned in the dispatches for his courage and coolness.

Later in that year, as a sort of belated reward for his good work and also as a birthday present, his royal father made him a Knight of the Garter.

Incidentally here it may be mentioned that he was promoted to full

Lieutenant in the navy in 1918, to Captain in 1925 and to Rear Admiral in 1932. His brother, King Edward VIII, made him a full admiral early in 1936.

In November, 1916, Prince Albert was appointed to a position on the staff of Sir Stanley Colville, who was Commander-in-Chief of the Portsmouth Naval Station. But this land duty for an aspiring sea-dog did not suit the young man. He asked to be sent back to active service on the sea. Accordingly, promoted to sub-lieutenant, he was assigned to the battleship Malaya. As he had had actual experience as a gunnery officer during the Battle of Jutland, he was now made a turret officer.

But soon, to his own intense disgust, he became ill again. He had hoped that all the mysterious internal pains he had suffered would vanish after his operation for appendicitis, but they returned, more severe than ever. In his own mind there was the torturing thought that, perhaps, he had some incurable internal complaint.

At last, in 1917, the suffered could hold out no longer. He left the fleet at Rosyth and went into the hospital there. Sir Arbuthnot Lane, one of Britain's most famous doctors, happened to be there. He examined the Prince and pronounced his trouble to be a duodenal ulcer. An immediate operation was recommended. The patient went to join his father at Windsor Castle. The anxious King asked his own surgeon, who did not agree that an immediate operation should be undertaken. He feared it might kill the Prince, as the ailment had run on for so long. However, a few weeks later the pain became so agonizing that the Prince was operated on. The royal patient made a quick recovery and has been in comparatively fine health ever since.

Qualified in Air Force
As it was thought best not to send him back to the sea, Prince Albert now determined to identify himself with the air forces. Late in 1917 he went to Cranwell for training and duly qualified as a pilot. Later in the war he was on Tranche's staff with the air force in France and stayed there until the armistice.

Even after the war was over, he retained his interest in the air force, particularly when it was made a distinct branch of the armed power of the nation under the title of Royal Air Force. He became a wing commander in 1920 and one of his most cherished uniforms was that of the blue-gray worn by airmen. One of the last acts of his father was to name him on January 1, 1936, as Air Marshal.

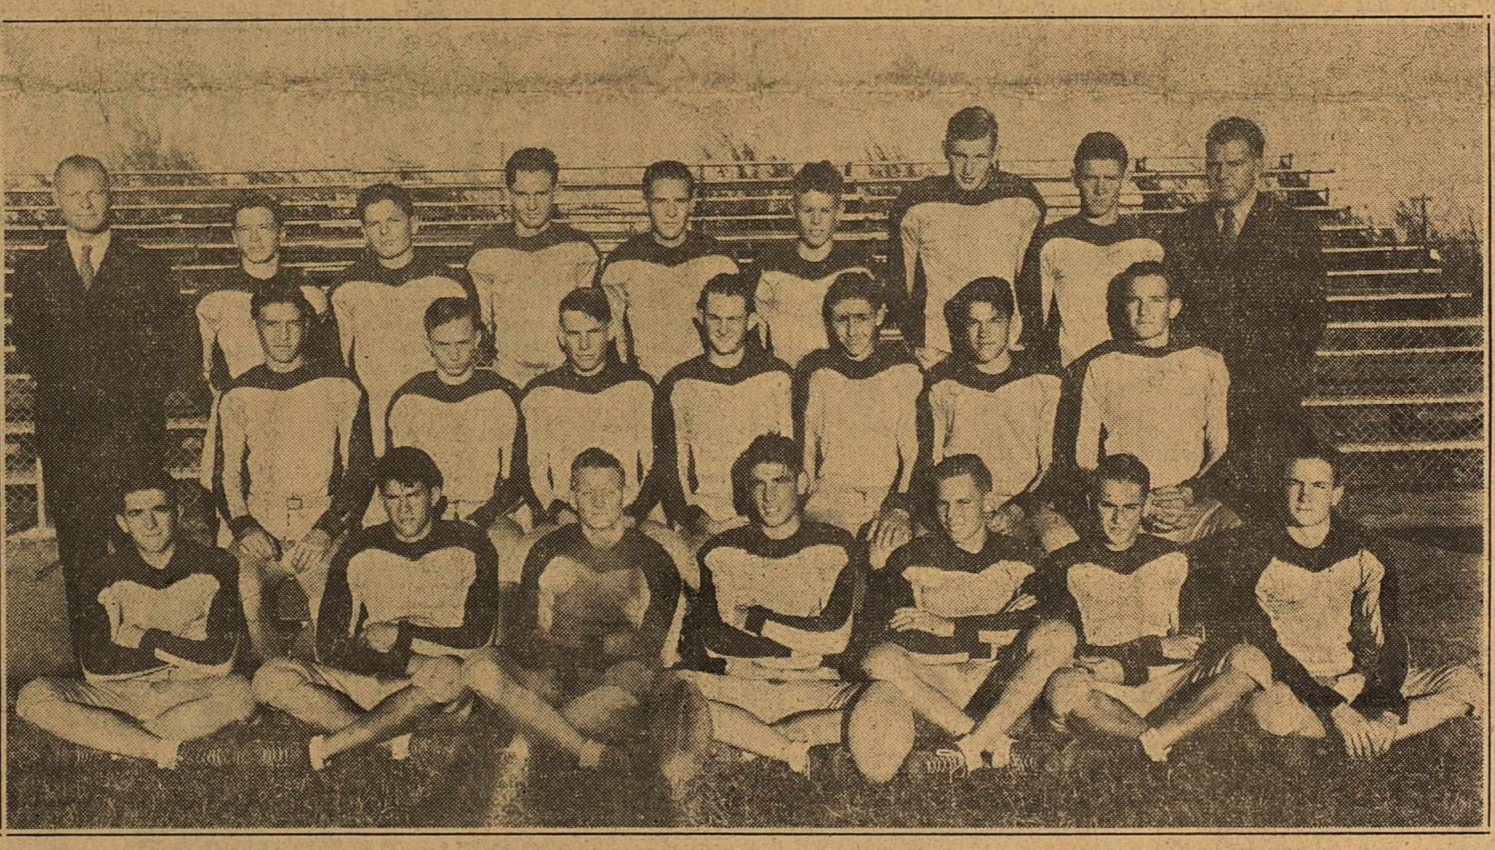

Resumed College Studies
The war over, Prince Albert, like many another young man of the various belligerent nations, sought to take up again the higher education which had been interrupted. Accordingly, in 1919 and 1920, he

Midland Bulldogs Fighting For Regional Championship

Bill came to Littlefield as coach in the fall of 1935. And with him he brought a heap o' experience in football and a record as a star player. He played four years with the Anson high school and four years as half back with Simmons. He made the all-conference team for two years and was captain of that group the last year.

The Littlefield team won their right to a place in today's encounter last week when they defeated a strong Snyder club 25-12. Snyder making all their scores in the last few minutes of play. The Bulldogs advanced through the bi-district game with McCamey by easily winning, 56-2.

The Midland offense is built almost altogether around Wafford, 195-pound field general, while chief ground gainers of the team from the north are New, 135-pound quarterback, and Nealey, 156-pound full-back. The club also features a dangerous passing game with Nealey passing frequently to Morgan, elongated end.

The Bulldog coaches believe they can effectively throttle the passing attack of the invaders but are doubtful of the ability of the lighter Bulldog line to stop the power drives led by Nealey and Moore.

The game will be the final one of the year for both clubs regardless of the winner. The Texas Interscholastic League does not sponsor the games of local affairs and it will be "curtains" for all seniors of both clubs.

Lawson, left end; Klebold, Mitchell, Cowan, guards; Wimberly, center; Rountree, end; Miles, tackle; Wafford, Reddy, Roberts, Bryant and Barber, backs; will all be closing out their careers in Midland uniforms.

Many persons are expected to appear at the game just for a final glimpse at Wafford, one of the most sensational and best all-around backs ever to grace local grids. "Big Dave" has scored in every game played this season and in at least half of them has sprinted for more than 50 yards for scores. On his broad shoulders has been most of the responsibility of carrying the team through opposing teams this year and most of the crowd today is going to be pulling for him to rise above heights reached yet before the day ends his playing for Midland.

Head coaches Sanders of the Wildcats and Baumgarten of the Bulldogs announced their charges as "ready" this morning, and while neither would concede his team a victory, neither would concede the other a victory.

It will be two ace teams in peak condition flying at each other's throats this afternoon at 2 o'clock on the Lackey Field gridiron as the Littlefield Wildcats and the Midland Bulldogs gather.

MAN HURT WHEN STRUCK BY TRAIN

Eddie Frank Conner Is In Hospital After Accident

Eddie Frank Conner, employee of the Hokus Pokus grocery and market, escaped with only minor injuries last night when struck by a freight train as he was driving his car across the railroad crossing on South Main street.

Conner was driving south at the time of the accident. Eyewitnesses reported the moving train carried his car at least 50 feet past to crossing to the east of the depot, approximately 450 feet in all. Luckily, the car never turned over, however, it was completely demolished by the impact.

Conner was found to have both arms broken and several teeth knocked out as his most serious injuries, it was reported.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

BEHIND THE SCENES ...ubb...
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Republicans will have their counterpart of the famous "firm of Michelson and Shouse," which went into action for the Democrats after the G. O. P. landslide of 1928 and by organization work and by hammering incessantly at Herbert Hoover, greased the ways for the Roosevelt cleanup in 1932.

sion of building up the party toward what he hopes will be a greater effectiveness in subsequent campaign.
He figures the 17,000,000 Landon votes offer a fine nucleus to work with, as well as an excellent source from which to raise enough relatively small contributions to pay off the party deficit of more than a million dollars. However, he expects that a few wealthy Republicans will underwrite current committee expenses for awhile.

Cotton Seed Called Most Valuable Feed Crop Grown in State at Present

AUSTIN, Texas.—Cotton is grown primarily for the cash received for the line, though the by-product, cotton seed, constitutes the surest and in many ways the most valuable food and feed crop grown in the State. Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, said in a recent analysis of the cotton industry.
"Prior to the depression, the sale of cotton lint accounted for about 50 per cent of the total cash income on all farms and ranches in Texas and about 80 per cent of the total cash income from crops," he continued. "Certainly cotton is the hub of agricultural prosperity in Texas. United States Department of Agriculture figures show decline in the total cash income received from the sale of line cotton in Texas from a three year pre-depression average of $407,000,000 to $156,000,000 during the past two years, a decline of $251,000,000 or nearly 60 per cent.

'Dancing Lady' Trio Coming to the Yucca

Reuniting the popular threesome of the highly successful "Dancing Lady," Franchot Tone appears with Joan Crawford and Clark Gable in "Love on the Run," coming to the Yucca theater Preview Saturday night and Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.
As Barney Pells, Gable's newspaperman buddy, who is always a lap behind his colleague on the biggest story of the year, Tone fills an outstanding comedy role.
Gable takes care of the romance angle with Miss Crawford playing an American heiress, who leaves a pompous nobleman at the altar and runs into trouble. When Gable agrees to aid her escape, their mad dash over the map of Europe causes international complications.
Tone recently completed an important part in "The Gorgeous Hussy" with Miss Crawford. The new M-G-M picture marks their second appearance together on the screen since their marriage nearly a year ago.
"Love on the Run" is based on a story by Alan Green and Julian Brodie which appeared serially in a national magazine. It was directed by W. S. Van Dyke and comes on top of such of this great director's hits as "San Francisco" and "The Devil is a Sissy."

When the index price is adjusted by the Bureau of Labor Statistics Wholesale Price Index and the spinners margin index of 1.1019, the indicated price for middling 7/8-18 spot cotton in New Orleans, is 14.87 cents. When the calculations are based on percentages, the indicated price is 13.75 cents.
"Who are calculated prices of American cotton based on supplies of American cotton more than a cent a pound above the actual prices?" he queried. "Many factors are involved, but the most outstanding one is the very large increase in foreign production of cotton. If United States Department of Agriculture estimates are approximately correct, the world supply of all cotton is greater than last year. As a result prices of foreign cotton are such that these growths are being substituted freely for American cotton."
Spinners weekly ratio margins on American cotton based on the price of 32 twist yarn in Manchester and the price of middling 7/8-inch cotton in Liverpool average 17d during October, compared with 16d for September and 16s for October last year, he said. The price margin for October was 4.90d compared with 4.47d for September and 4.18d for October last year. These figures indicate increasing consumption of cotton.

The Town Quack

at 11:00 o'clock this morning after spending last night in Big Spring. The squad is in excellent condition. I would like to contact the Littlefield backer who is giving 14 points on the Wildcats. Considering a moment, I would like to find a Littlefield believer who wants to wager even money, providing of course that Gardner, our oil editor would furnish the capital.
A group of local business leaders gathered yesterday afternoon and after discussing the proposition, promised the Bulldogs an all-expense paid trip to the Rose Bowl if they win today's game. A wonderful thing, and the Quack is highly in favor of such a venture which would be of untold benefit to the team and to the town.
Tony Slaughter, San Angelo sports writer, has wired for a seat at today's tilt.
The British people yelled, "God Save The King," but who would ask to be saved from an attractive widow.

WHY PUT UP WITH PIMPLES, WRINKLES AND A SALLOW SKIN?
So many women throw their charm and beauty away—look years older than they are—because they neglect common constipation. They forget that badly balanced meals, over a period of years, can change how they look and feel.
Often their menus lack the "bulk" needed for regular habits. Then constipation, the beauty-killer, sets in. Other effects may be headaches, listlessness, sleeplessness.
Get "bulk" back into your meals with a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It absorbs moisture within the body, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system.
Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily, either as a cereal or in cooked dishes. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

club woman, artist, and interior decorator" to the thirty women gathered to hear Mrs. Hunt, exponent of the Chicago Art Institute and the New York School of Interior Decoration, give an interesting and informative talk on "The Personality of the Home."

Mrs. Hunt animated her talk by showing various pieces of Spode, Wedgewood, and glass, telling something of the history of the artist who had designed the pieces.

When she had finished her talk, Mrs. Hunt answered questions asked her by the group of women who attended.

Ribs serve to strengthen the body walls against outside pressure, yet whales, which are able to withstand a body pressure of hundreds of pounds per square inch, have only nine pairs of ribs, less than any other mammal on earth.

MIDLAND HOMES BEING INSULATED

Home owners of Midland are taking advantage of the opportunity and are having their homes insulated with Eagle Rock Wool insulation. The Modern Home Insulators of Dallas and Fort Worth have sent their crew with their pneumatic machine to Midland. The work here has been under the direction of Mr. R. F. Currin, sales manager of the company, and N. E. Mays, vice president and engineer. Ten homes have been insulated in Midland during the last two weeks.

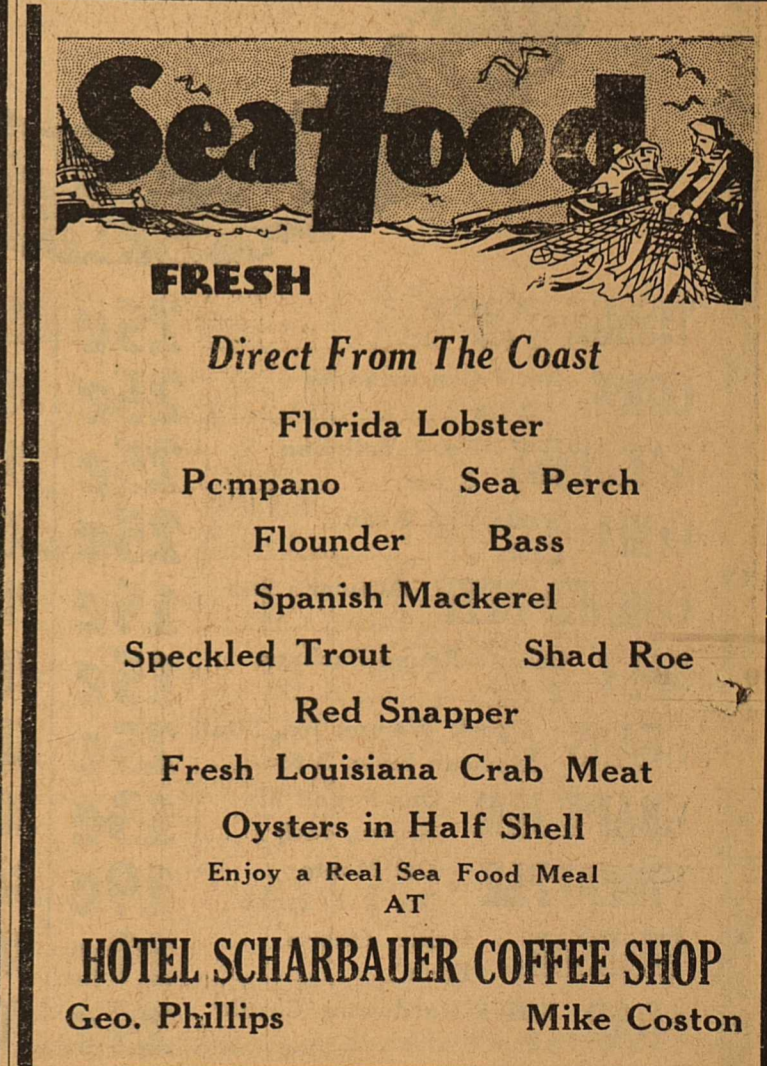

Mr. Currin says that his company has installed rock wool in more than 1,500 homes in Texas during the last five years. Insulation serves the home owner in two ways: It keeps the heat out in the summer and holds it in during the winter. It makes the home 10 to 15 degrees cooler in the summer and reduces the fuel bill approximately 1/3 to 1/2 in the winter, making an even temperature all over the home.

Mr. Currin is at Hotel Scharbauer and anyone interested can get in touch with him there. He will make a demonstration and estimate your home without any charge and without obligation to buy. Old homes, as well as new, can be insulated with the pneumatic blowing machine without muss or alterations. (Adv.)

WPA Places Many Toys Making Xmas Toys

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 11.—Service for young and for the aged is the result of Christmas projects operated by the Works Progress Administration in Texas.

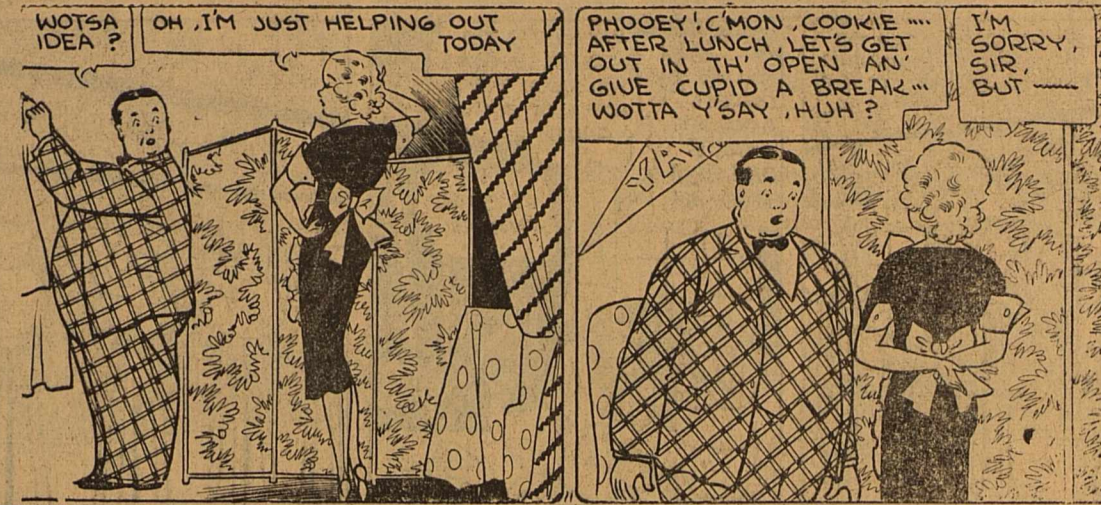

More than one hundred men and women, practically all of them past fifty years of age or physically handicapped so as to be unemployable for ordinary WPA projects, have been taken from direct relief rolls and given jobs manufacturing toys to be distributed this Christmas to underprivileged youngsters.

Using such prosaic articles as printer boxes, discarded inner tubes, and scraps from lumber yards and sewing rooms to supplement materials available, the workers produce bright, sturdy, and attractive playthings under the supervision of trained superintendents. More than 12,000 toys will be ready for distribution by Christmas. WPA commodity distribution facilities are utilized to deliver the finished articles to children in the cities where the projects operate.

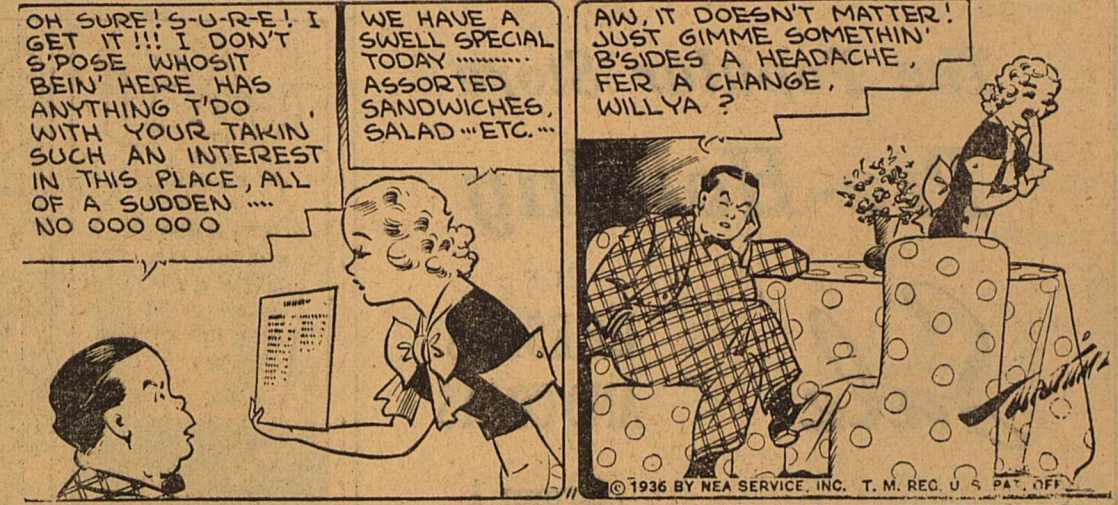

Serving the double purpose of taking people off direct relief rolls for several months and providing thousands of toys for underprivileged youngsters, these toy-making projects are receiving cooperation from local authorities wherever they are being operated, WPA officials declare. Sponsors of the projects supply equipment, work shops, and materials, and civic organizations help gather discarded toys to be repaired and made new.

Engineers of an American air line have perfected a new "anti-static" airplane antenna designed to insure clear reception of voice and directive beam signals in any kind of weather.
