FRENCH PRESIDENT IS WOUNDED

Jury Deliberates Hour, Then Gives McGaughey Liberty

DEFENDANT SAYS FORE DANGEROUS

Says Puncher Warned He Would Kill or Have Woman

A district court jury, after deliberating slightly more than an hour, Thursday returned a verdict of not guilty in the murder case of John McGaughey, who shot to death Jess Fore, Midland cowpuncher, on April 17.

McGaughey told on the stand of shooting Fore after the cowpuncher had told him he loved Mrs. McGaughey and that he would have her or kill McGaughey. He said Fore had been trying to break up his home for months and that finally he (McGaughey) began to fear Fore would kill him.

Taking of testimony was completed at 2:20. The jury was completed early that morning.

G. W. Dunaway was counsel for the defense.

The defendant took the stand in the afternoon. He testified to being 37 years old, to having lived in Midland seven years, having been a cow boy and laborer after moving here from New Mexico. He said he had never been convicted of a felony and that he had one son, aged 10.

He further testified to having known Jess Fore for four years.

Asked to relate a difficulty the men had two months before the shooting, McGaughey said that on a night and we played pitch, Jess got up and walked out and my wife followed and when I objected he invited me to come out, and fight. I had seen him and my wife together on several occasions.

"Had you ever seen them in improper attitudes," he was asked.

The state objected to this as a conclusion of the witness, and the court sustained the objection.

"State what you saw," the witness was told.

"I saw them getting one another when we lived at the Ellis house. That was in December. I talked about this to my wife and she up and said, 'I don't know what you're talking about.'"

Bachelor Adopts Baby; Mother Fights for Custody

When Joan McConnell, 14 months old, was turned over to the city as a public charge some months ago, Samuel E. Epstein, bachelor, Chicago's assistant city prosecutor, adopted the baby. Mrs. Agnes McConnell 25, shown at right, has started court action to recover her daughter.

Mrs. McConnell says she left Joan with city nurse, while seeking employment in Detroit. The nurse, she charges, turned the baby over to Epstein without her consent. Epstein is shown holding Joan, claims he can provide a proper home for the baby. Decision in the case, now before the courts, is expected to set a precedent.

MEANS GETS ORDER FROM GRAND JURY

Fails to Make Bond Of $100,000 in Kidnap Case

WASHINGTON, May 6. (UP)—Gaston B. Means was ordered before the United States grand jury at 10:30 this morning. His bond of $100,000 was not made.

The search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was echoed dramatically Thursday in the arrest of Means on a charge of obtaining $100,000 on false representations that he could obtain the child from his abductors.

Department of justice agents arrested the former justice department investigator after a secret inquiry into allegations that he had been paid the money by Mrs. Edward B. McLean, wife of the publisher of the Washington Post.

Lindbergh Knew It Mrs. McLean said in a statement through her attorney, Albert W. Fox, that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the kidnaped child, knew of her activities but that they were kept secret from her closest friends.

The world negotiations conducted by Mrs. McLean, her attorney said, led her to Aiken, S. C., where she met Means and a rough-looking individual armed with guns, who represented himself to be one of the kidnaping gang.

She was told, her attorney added, that it would be necessary for her to go to El Paso, Texas, as the baby was in Mexico. Arriving there, Fox continued, she was informed there had been a hitch in the plans and she would have to return to Washington and re-establish contact with the gang.

Later after additional demands for money had been made and Mrs. McLean was ready to pawn some of her jewelry to raise additional money, her attorneys learned of the negotiations, Fox said, and put a stop to them.

A source close to Mrs. McLean said the money involved was her own, but she had arranged payments with Lindbergh regarding the money. She is prepared to testify either at a hearing before the United States commissioner or a grand jury.

Demand Return of Money A demand was made upon Means to return the $100,000, Fox added, and he was given until last Wednesday to do so.

On his failure, at the attorney's demand, Means was ordered to return to Washington to face a United States commissioner, late today, Means, who served more than three years in the Atlanta penitentiary for accepting a bribe and for conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act, pleaded not guilty.

Leo A. Rover, United States district attorney, demanded bail be fixed at $100,000, saying his information regarding Means' "past activities leads me to believe that if the bond is not set he will not be here."

Commissioner Needham Turnage set Tuesday for a preliminary hearing and Means was placed in jail on his failure to make bond.

Means said he could not disclose whether he had been working on the Lindbergh case as that would "violate a confidence."

Released July, 1928 Means was released from the Atlanta penitentiary in 1928, after serving terms for conviction in New York of prohibition conspiracy and of attempted bribery with the operations of the Graeger Glass Casket company.

Means first gained notoriety as an alleged confidential agent of Count Bernstorff, German ambassador, and Captain Coy-ed of the German secret service, prior to America's entrance in the World War.

In 1917 he was indicted in Salisbury, N. C., for the murder of Mrs. Maude A. King, widow of a Chicago philanthropist, to "investigate" whom Means had been employed by relatives. He was acquitted.

In 1921, he became a special agent of the department of justice and later a confidential agent to the late William M. Burns, then with the department.

Daughter Investigation Means was a prominent witness in the senate investigation of the administration of Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general during the presidency of Warren G. Harding.

In her statement, Mrs. McLean said she conferred with a navy department captain here and a cousin of Lindbergh, and the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, a local Catholic priest, and arranged to place the ransom money in the custody of an intermediary whom I employed to make the ransom payment in case the Lindbergh baby were found."

"My plan was carried out without the knowledge of my closest friends and without the knowledge of my attorneys. When it became evident that no clue of any value had been discovered, I realized that the plan (See GASTON B. MEANS page 6)

FATHER HELD TO GRAND JURY FOR DEATH HEARING

EL PASO, May 6.—Melquiades Espinosa, charged with the slaying of his wife, one of seven members of his family massacred at his farm house near Berino, N. M., April 1, was held to the grand jury under $3000 bond at the conclusion of his preliminary trial at Las Cruces Thursday.

He did not testify.

His attorneys did not object to the bond. Atty. W. A. Sutherland said that though the state had not produced incriminating evidence against his client he would not object to the bond pending further investigation.

Mrs. Luis Espinosa testified that her husband, one of the slain members of the family, opposed the purchase of a ranch south of Juarez, where he had been living.

Her husband and his father had a dispute about the place, but never quarreled, Mrs. Espinosa said.

Frank Powers, police ballistic expert, testified that five bullet cases found at the scene of the massacre were of the same calibre as a pistol Librado Holguin said he sold Andres Espinosa, one of the slain family, a few hours before the massacre.

The gun never has been found, Powers said.

About 50 Plan To Make Trip

It is expected that more than 50 geologists will make a field trip into the Big Bend region, starting from Marfa, May 14. The expedition will be conducted under the auspices of the West Texas Geological society. Dr. E. H. Sellards, director of the bureau of economics geology of the University of Texas, who is familiar with the remote region that is to be visited, will serve as chief guide, and the assistant will be J. F. Hosterman, district geologist for the Amerasia Petroleum corporation.

Besides active members of the profession who will make the trip, several geology students of the University of Texas and the Texas College of Mines at El Paso, and professors of these institutions will take part in the expedition.

The camp of the expedition will be located at McGuirk's Tank, situated on the circular Solitario mountain dome, 70 miles south of Marfa and within a few miles of the Rio Grande. There are parts of the Big Bend region which have been but little explored and it is expected that much geological information of interest and possible value may be obtained.

The famous Terlingua quicksilver district is situated in the extreme lower part of the Big Bend, and recently there has been unusual activity in prospecting for cinnabar ore in that region. It is from this prospecting that the quicksilver is obtained. The entire region possesses special interest to geologists.

The expedition will be accompanied by a typical chuck-wagon which will carry the food supplies and provide the meats.

Several Midland geologists, who make up about half the membership of the society, plan to make the trip.

GRAND JURY MEETS

3 BULLETS PENETRATE M. DOUMER

War Hero Not Expected to Live, but Hope Held

PARIS, May 6. (UP)—Paul Doumer, president of France, was shot by an assassin three times, in the neck, chest and abdomen, at 3 o'clock this afternoon when he and other guests gathered in the Rothschild mansion in celebration of "book week."

He was taken to the Beaujon hospital across the street where physicians announced there was little hope for his recovery.

The assailant, Paul Gorguloff, who is believed to be insane, also shot and slightly wounded Paul Guichard, director of the municipal police, and Claude Farrene, president of the Authors' League of France, before he was overpowered.

At 4:30 this afternoon, Professor Gauthier said the bullet in the head failed to reach the brain, "therefore I refuse to say the president is lost."

A blood transfusion was performed shortly after he arrived at the hospital.

Doumer did not defend himself but fell into the arms of two cabinet members.

The celebration he was attending was to count, funds to aid needy authors and their families.

Doumer lost four sons in the war and is the author of several books. He started as a railroad employe and came to Paris from his home in Aurillac at the age of 14. He has been in public life 30 years. He was most prominently acclaimed in 1925 when he was elected with saving France financially.

BULL FIGHTS VS. MOVIES

The bull fight is popularly supposed to be Mexico's favorite diversion; but a brief article in a theatrical magazine recently indicates that the movies have pushed the bull ring into a very poor second place.

During 1930, there were sold in Mexico City and its environs some 18,500,000 admissions to places of public amusement. Of these, almost 16,000,000 were tickets to the movies; and only 160,000 were tickets to bull fights.

THE SHORT SELLERS

The Senate's investigation into the short-sellers of Wall Street is bringing out some interesting facts, but it would be a mistake to put too much emphasis on the disclosures.

After all, it is perfectly obvious by this time that the depression was not caused by the malign influences of conscienceless stock market operators who spread ruin by depressing stock prices below their normal levels.

In the main, declining stock prices have been a fairly accurate reflection of the state of industry's general health. To try to blame the whole business on Wall Street schemers is to delude one's self badly.

THE BEER TAX ANGLE

It is probable that during the coming year we are going to hear a whole lot more about the proposal to legalize the sale of real beer and collect a federal tax on it, both as a means of knocking the props out from under the racketeering beer barons and as a means of refilling an empty federal treasury.

In 1914—a normal pre-war year—Americans consumed a little more than 60,000,000 barrels of beer, on which customs and excise taxes were levied at the rate of about a dollar a barrel. By 1929, however, the tax on beer stood at $6 a barrel, and the public accepted it as a not too exorbitant rate.

Now—get out your pencil. Suppose legalized beer were sold in this country this year to the extent of 1914 consumption, and suppose it were taxed at $6 a barrel. What would Uncle Sam get? Just $396,000,000. Would it come in handy?

RUSSIA'S AIR PROGRAM

Dirigibles will be built in mass-production style in the shops of Soviet Russia before long, according to a recent announcement in Moscow. A government official declares the Russian government will establish a great network of dirigible lines and will turn out the huge ships in quantity, just as automobiles are turned out in the United States.

All of this will mean a great deal to the cause of aviation, if everything turns out as the Russian leaders hope. However, people on this side of the Atlantic can hardly be blamed if they are a trifle skeptical.

The Russian workers have not yet demonstrated that they can successfully handle mass production methods even where such relatively simple products as tractors are involved. Are they likely to have any better luck with such intricate and delicately balanced things as dirigibles?

The house was very silent as she let herself in with her key. Where was Aunt Jessie? Saturday was usually her busiest day.

"I hate to leave you," Susan told her. "You go right along, and don't worry," Aunt Jessie whispered. "Go to Rose and stay."

Susan departed, feeling utterly shaken. How small her own problems seemed beside this real, heart-shaking one!

What we love in others...
Nothing attracts like a clear, smooth skin, immaculately clean. Nothing repels like unpleasant body odor. And nothing but free-rinsing lather—and plenty of it—will keep your hands, scalp and body always clean and fragrant. Ordinary soaps do not dissolve freely enough—especially if the water is the least bit hard. They leave a dirty, soapy film on skin and hair. That's why thousands of families are turning to Kirk's Coco Hardwater Castile. Try it today—for hands, for bath, for a wonderful shampoo. You'll be amazed at the difference.
Oceans of lather—instantly!
Kirk's Coco Castile is made from 100% pure coconut oil. It dissolves immediately—even in water hard as the hardest, cold as ice. Its abundant foamy lather quickly softens and loosens that grimy film, then rinses off completely, leaving skin and hair as fresh and clean as a spring morning. Body odor vanishes like magic! You'll be delighted with its purity, its clean-smelling lather. And with the extra saving it permits! Hooks and Slides

By William Braucher

Babe Ruth has suffered only three backsets this year. The first was a stiff neck contracted in Florida. The second was a touch of influenza. The third was, and still is, a twisted knee sustained when he slid into third base recently. Otherwise the Babe is O. K.

Superstition?
This year, it has been observed from the press box, the Babe has not been following his ancient, superstitious practice of touching second base as he comes in to the bench from outfield. The guesses are that the thinks more of saving his legs than of the value of the superstition.

Venzke Saves Up, Too
Speaking of saving the legs, Gene Venzke, who ran a mile in 4:10, will compete in only three track meets before the tryouts for the Olympic team. The boy marvel from Boyertown, Pa., figures that will keep him in tune without burning him out.

On the Same Subject
Still on the topic of economy, have you noticed how Herb Pennock of the Yankees has been frisking around this year, his 20th in the majors? And Eppa Rixey, likewise a southpaw, of the Reds? Herb and Eppa always have been the kind of pitchers who saved themselves, keeping something back for a pinch.

The Rabbit, Also
Rabbit Maranville, of the Braves, who is having his 21st year in the majors, didn't think of saving anything, at least of all his legs, until the year 1927. He got the idea when he woke up and found himself in Rochester. Since then he has saved enough of himself to be good for 10 years more, to be conservative.

About Saving Speech
The National League has followed the American League by a year in taking a mile to play with the hand-picking words with the spectators. Art Shires and Rabbit Maranville agree it's a blow at free speech. The fans in most of the cities do not applaud this economy, because they like to go home and tell the folks they have been talking to Babe Ruth.

Saving Handshakes
With the rule against fraternizing in force, however, Babe Ruth, who never has been unwilling to shake hands with friend or tourist, ought to be able to play years longer. He won't have to go out to perform all tired out from autographing baseballs, shaking hands, etc.

Saving Victories
The charge has been filed officially that Lefty Grove, George Earnshaw and Al Simmons have been saving themselves for next year, but a thorough investigation that has led to no substantial findings.

Brooklyn's Parsimony
The Carey Canaries, otherwise the Brooklyn ball club, seem to be economizing on the win column. Baseball writers have been unable to discover a motive.

Golfers Staying at Home
Most of our golfers, perhaps with a rainy day in mind, will refrain from competing abroad this summer. Mac Smith, Billy Burke and Tommy Armour expect to tee up in British Open, but most of the transatlantic golf traffic will be coming this way. That ought to be a great help to home industries.

Tunney Finally Unhoards
Gene Tunney unhoarded an expensive word in an interview with the press the other day. The former champion classified Johnny Buckley's prompt action in preventing Jack Sharkey from leaping out of the ring in his battle with Primo Camera as "fortuitous." Spending a word like that now, then should help to bring back prosperity.

Odessa Plays Snyder Golf

ODESSA, May 6.—The Odessa golf club will meet the Snyder team Monday on the local links for the first game to be played in Odessa in the Sand Belt Golf association. The Odessa team has been in the cellar since the first round but it is believed it will take the match from the Snyder team, starting the ladder ascension.

German Ships Seek State Aid

BERLIN, (UP)—Progress toward "state capitalism" is seen in recent plans to help German shipping concerns, which have exhausted their own resources in fighting the depression.

Both Hamburg-America Line and North German Lloyd, the one-time rivals which now are closely cooperating, are in the same predicament. Both have announced that they are unable to meet liabilities. These liabilities estimated at 80,000,000 marks for both concerns, include claims from the Reich and other public bodies as well as debts to Dutch group to which shares of the Hamburg-South American Line were given as collateral.

The contraction of new debts is out of the question. Both Lloyd and Hapag already are heavily indebted to German banks; besides, they suffered heavy financial losses owing to the depression which slashed their freight and passenger traffic receipts, and these losses must be written off before new credits are obtainable.

Consequently, it is believed that Hapag and Lloyd must resort to state help to overcome their illiquidity.

It is recalled that public assistance was granted the big German banks some time ago, when the Reich, the Reichsbank and its subsidiary raised about 400,000,000 marks to restore the liquidity of the banks. A similar action in favor of the shipping companies would require about 70,000,000 marks.

CAMBAL WILL BE A LONG SHOT IN THIS YEAR'S RUNNING OF DERBY

By MAX RIDDLE
(Copyright 1932, NEA Service)
Cambal is one of the long shots that still exist to tempt the race of immortality in the Kentucky Derby. Cambal is splendidly bred, a son of Campfire, sire of Vanderpool. His mother, Celva, was a daughter of the Colt, who was second best in his year in the unbeaten Colin.

As a juvenile Cambal was not very successful, though he gave an excellent performance in beating Regula Badden's Lucky Tom and Fall Apple in the Remsen Handicap. He was an unusually busy colt, having run in over 15 races. That type of campaigning ordinarily would operate against his success as a three-year-old. Cambal, however, seem to be the sort that improves under campaigning.

The chestnut son of Campfire earned his tickets in an allowance affair in which he beat Hey There, Apprehensive and Straightlaced. He then ran third to sweeping Regula Badden at Belmont. The three colts were at even weights of 116 pounds.

Cabinet Lacks Beau Brummel

MADRID, (UP)—The Spanish cabinet at the present has no member who deserves the title of "fashion-plate."

It did for awhile, when Miguel Maura, a good-looking and a neat dresser, was in the cabinet, and was, as one might say, the Pat Hurley of the Spanish administration insofar as clothes were concerned. But Maura now is outside of the government.

The president, premier and ministers all dress well, but none are Beau Brummels. Nevertheless, Don Niceto Alcalá-Zamora has been unjustly criticized for his sartorial appearance.

The Chinks Had a Name for It: Crib For Passing Found

CHICAGO, (UP)—An ancient "crib," or "pony," used to pass a civil service examination in China hundreds of years ago has been received by the Field Museum of Natural History from Edward Barrett of New York.

Identifying the crib as belonging to the Kang-hi period, about 1662-1722, Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology and eminent Orientalist said:

LADIES and gentlemen, the noises of New York City. A microphone popped out of a skyscraper window and a fire truck, a riveting machine and the Sixth Avenue "L," obliged with the required obligato, as Norman Brokenshire saved the situation. A regularly scheduled singer had absconded, leaving the premises before singing her final number.

Resourcefulness is still his long suit, even though radio has come a long way since he used to tie into a studio, collect the artists, throw a switch and go on the air with no clear idea of what might happen.

Home Run? Oh, Baby!

When the 13th baby made its appearance at the home of John Peet, Ashtabula, O., ball fan, the supply of names ran out. So when No. 13 came along Papa Peet named him after Dick Porter, a member of the Cleveland American league ball team, who hit a home run the day the baby was born.

The christening was delayed until the first homer. The Indians went into a slump until Fielder Joe Vesmit hit one. But there already was a Joe in the family. Peet went to the game every day. Then Earl Averill connected. So now Peet is holding Dick Porter Peet, right, and Earl Averill Peet, left. Earl appears embarrassed at the publicity.

classical land of examinations. The country always was guided by an aristocracy of intellect rather than birth; in fact, there was no hereditary nobility. There was free competition for all in obtaining official positions, and a complex but just system of civil service examinations held by the government recruited from the best talent from all ranks.

They opened the way to official rank and service, but were bestowed on only two or three per cent of the average number of 2,000,000 applying at examination time.

City Urged as Dirigible Heme

MACON, Ga., (UP)—Mayor Glenn S. Toole wants a naval air base here. Since the government has decided to name an airship, now under construction at the Goodyear plant in Akron, O., after the city of Macon, the town's air-minded mayor can see no reason why the ship shouldn't make its home in the Middle Georgia city.

almost 11 o'clock. Rose picked up the instrument and Susan crouched in her low chair, every nerve taut. "Yes, Rose said, "Oh, I see," Susan watched her friend's face fearfully. She came and stood beside Rose, touching her arm impatiently until the other girl motioned her away. "Yes, yes," Rose kept saying. "In the morning. All right, doctor. Thank you." She turned a smiling face to Susan.

"That's all right," he assured her comfortably. "Your aunt's doing nicely. We have to expect these little ups and down for the first few days. I've been wanting to have a little talk with you, though. Your aunt isn't going to be able to rush around, working herself gray-headed when she gets up out of bed. She really should get away for a while if it can be managed." His shrewd old eyes searched the girl's face.

Trimotors Travel Ten Million Miles

DETROIT, (UP)—Ford all-metal trimotor transport airplanes flew more than 10,000,000 miles last year, a survey by the Ford Motor company reveals. According to the survey, the huge trimotor ships flew over the two Americas, above sub-arctic wastes and the jungles of the tropics and peaks of the Rockies, Cascades and Andes mountains. The 10,000,000 total is an increase of 40 per cent over the number of miles the preceding year.

American colleges and universities are spending more than $500,000,000 annually for the advancement of learning. E. M. Foster, chief of the statistics division of the U. S. Office of Education, reports.

MIDLAND SAND BELT TEAM PLAYS IN BIG SPRING ON SUNDAY

CLUB STILL ON TOP OF THE LOOP, BUT LOSS OF ELLIS COWDEN FELT IRREPARABLE; OUT FOR THE YEAR

Midland country club golfers play Big Spring there Sunday in the third game of the Sand Belt Golf association schedule.

Snyder goes to Odessa, Lamesa and Sweetwater and Colorado to Texon.

Standings in the association show Midland still on top:

| Entry | Points |
|------------|--------|
| Midland | 65 |
| Lamesa | 63 |
| Big Spring | 57 |
| Sweetwater | 44 |
| Snyder | 38 |
| Colorado | 32 |
| Texon | 32 |
| Odessa | 16 |

Midland, recognized two weeks ago to have about the best club in the association, suffered a severe blow in the illness of J. Ellis Cowden, perhaps an irreparable one when it became known that the doctors have told Cowden not to play in tournament the remainder of the season.

each other, and I am going to see her. I am going to have some kind of agreement and if you don't go something is going to happen."

"I told him I had rather he wouldn't go up there, that it wouldn't do any good, and he said 'Yes, we are going.' I saw nothing to do but go and he threatened me all the way there.

On the way, I said, 'You don't think enough of her to kill me, do you?' and he said 'Yes, I do, and if you want to see me do it, just start something.'

"I asked if he was healed and he said 'No.' I didn't see if he had a gun, but I figured he did and I thought he meant to kill me. We went to the house then, and nobody was in my room. I went to Lily Patterson's room and found they were in there. I knocked on the door and she said 'Wait till we get dressed.' When we went in Fore said he had come up to settle the matter. He said 'I want to find out which one you care for.' She said she wouldn't say that if she did it would cause trouble, and he said 'You can have the one that is left.'

"The room was small and it was hot and the door was wide open. I was trying to get away from there when he showed me out. I heard him say, 'Tell him you love me and I'll go to hell.'

When we went to my room, got the case back and he was standing there, kissing her, with a glass in his hand. I shot him. I shot him because I figured he meant to kill me.

A cross examination, McGaughy shot him because I thought he meant to kill me. I did not see a knife in his hand at the time I shot him. I did not see a knife on him, nor did I see any deadly weapon of any kind on him. The reason I thought he was going to kill me was because he made a play once or twice going to the house, like he had a gun. He did not make a play toward a gun before I shot him, but he did previous to that, before we got to the house. At the time, in December, when he was staying at my house and taking meals, he had showed he was dangerous.

"When I came back to the door with the gun I did not see anybody else in the room besides my wife and Fore. I did not stay there very long. I just got to the door, pushed it open and fired pretty quick afterward as I stuck my head in. At the time I fired the shot I could not say that my life was in danger, but I thought so. The reason I thought it was in danger was when I heard him say, 'If he comes back here I will knock him down with this glass.' I don't know if I thought it would kill me, but it might. I did not go back to see, I went back to kill him. When he shoved me out the door and said he did not care where I went, that was when I first made up my mind to kill him. I had not threatened to kill him several times before I saw him that day."

The testimony of Jeff Cowden, defense witness, presented a problem of keeping the courtroom from roaring its approval of his dry humor.

Cowden said:

"It was about 8:30 the day of the killing and I went into Fore's room to borrow a match. I found Fore with a knife in his hand. The door was opened and it seemed like some body was there, even before I went in."

posed of: C. L. Jackson, Frank Day, Red Knight, M. Miller, Billy Moran, Delo Douglas, Arch Thomas, and Joe Chambers.

Big Spring defeated Midland in the first game of those clubs last year, 29-15. Neither Cowden nor Jackson were in that game, which was played at Big Spring. Later, at Midland, the locals swamped Big Spring, sweeping the match, 36-6.

Q. Was anybody else in the room?
A. Yes, the Graves boy and Lily and, to make it sweeter, you might say Lily. I warned Fore to go and Fore said for me to go in and engage McGaughy in conversation so he could slip out.

Q. Did you ever converse with him before this visit?
A. Two or three weeks before the killing he came to my room one night about 9 o'clock with a knife in his hand. I was in bed and he pushed the door open, came in and turned the light on, and I said 'What is the matter, Jess?' and he said 'I'm hunting some meat to cut.' I told him he'd better go away and he said he was hunting John. I told him to go away and he said he wanted to talk to John, that he owed him some money. I went and asked John if he wanted to talk with him, and John said 'I don't want any conversation with him and told me to tell him to go and mind his business. I went and told him and he said he owed John nine dollars. He came to my room and was drinking. John said he wouldn't talk with him. He (Fore) said, 'I will talk with him through the wall.' He called John out and I heard John tell him that he didn't want to talk with him and for him to go on home. I said, 'Jess, the best thing for you to do is to go on down stairs and go home,' and he said, 'I will go if you will come out and help me,' and he did. I still had his knife in my pocket and went to town the next morning to give him the knife. The next day I came up the stairs and saw him and said, 'Yes, this is your knife,' and he said, 'Didn't I play hell last night?' and I said, 'Yes, I never saw anything like it.' I cautioned him to stay away from there and told him if he didn't, he would get into trouble. He said he was going to come up there when he got ready and I told him it was up to him.

Q. Did Fore give Mrs. Patterson any word to take to Mrs. McGaughy?
A. I went into the McGaughy room for conversation so Fore could get away. I went back to my room about five minutes later to see if the boys had gone, and I asked Lily to make it sweeter. Lily—if the boys had gone and she said, 'Yes,' and that Jess left word with her for Mrs. McGaughy.

(The court objected that the testimony about to be given was hearsay, and the court sustained the objection.)

Jeff Cowden broke in to say "No, by gosh, she told me that." G. W. Dunaway, defense counsel, took exception to the testimony. He said along the same line as that given by Mrs. Patterson and should be admissible, that it was valuable in order to impeach that given by Mrs. Patterson. Cowden broke in to ask, "Do you want me to tell it or not?" The judge turned to him and demanded that he wait a minute. The crowd roared and the judge had to caution that he would have the room cleared. The defense started questioning again: "Now, Jeff—when Cowden broke in, 'I didn't know I to have killed the . . . over his wife and I ought . . . Dunaway objected to the ruling of the court, because, he explained, the testimony was in evidence showing a fight took place and a difficulty between the defendant and the defendant's wife; that it was admissible for the purpose of showing Fore's mental attitude towards the defendant and his intentions concerning the defendant's wife; and also admissible as corroborating testimony of the defendant, that Fore assaulted the defendant and seriously injured him solely over a controversy involving his wife. The court sustained the objection still, and said it would permit the defendant to introduce the testimony if he could show that the defendant had knowledge of this prior to the homicide.

Hall was excused from the stand, and the jury came back after a recess.

Lily Patterson, first witness for the state, told of hearing threats. She said McGaughy said when entering her room with Fore, "I have brought him up here so we can talk this thing over." She left the room, she said, then Layman went into Jeff Cowden's room, and both he and McGaughy were going to McGaughy's room a moment later when she reentered her own room. A day or so before the killing, she said, McGaughy said he was going to kill Fore. "He said he never would be satisfied until he killed Jess Fore like a dog—shot him down. I had heard McGaughy make threats to kill Fore four or five times. I was

Platinum Blonde At Grand Sunday

Loretta Young and Jean Harlow, who work together in one picture for the first time in a dazzling and sophisticated romantic drama, "The Platinum Blonde," which opens at the Grand theatre Sunday, represent two extreme types of modern beauty.

Loretta is the calm, poised, tranquil type, whose beauty is best described as flower-like. It has an emotional quality seldom equalled among the favorites of the screen.

Jean Harlow, on the other hand, is a spectacular beauty, flashing, brilliant, devastating. Hers is a moody kind of loveliness, a type that dazzles and demands attention.

Loretta Young plays the part of a wise-cracking, wage-earning "society" woman whose heart is hidden behind the brusque good humor of her calling. Miss Harlow plays the role of the society debutante, chilled by social barricades and repressed by good breeding and family traditions.

This arrangement gave each star an opportunity to get away from herself and the stereotyped kind of performance on the part of each and a picture which each thoroughly enjoyed in the making.

FLOWERS EXHIBITED

The story of many flowers grown in Midland will be told by Mrs. George Abell at the children's story hours Saturday afternoon at 2 and 3:30 o'clock.

Exhibits of these flowers will be shown. There will also be handwork for the children.

A good friend to both of them."

On cross examination she related the incident at the saddle shop, when McGaughy met Mrs. Patterson and his wife. "I met everybody to be my friend," he said, "and everybody is my friend but Jess Fore and I won't be satisfied until I shoot him dead."

I asked, "why don't you make friends?" and he said, "I can't."

On recall, Mrs. Patterson said that after the shooting, McGaughy said: "Remember, it was your shell that did it."

She said she didn't know to whom he spoke.

Called to the stand once more, Mrs. Patterson said:

"McGaughy told us he brought Fore up there to talk this over."

Q. What happened when you and Jess and Mrs. McGaughy were alone together?
A. They were both standing (Mrs. McGaughy and Fore) pretty close to the door when I went in. He had a glass in his hand and said he was going to the bath room to get water, and then he caught Mrs. McGaughy by the shoulder and said, "If you love John more than me, he is the one for you." McGaughy came in shortly after that, did not at that time or any other time see Fore kissing Mrs. McGaughy. I did not see him kissing her at the time of the shooting.

Q. Was Jess Fore armed?
A. No, I didn't see any weapon of any kind. The glass was all I saw.

Q. Did you see Fore make a motion as though going after a weapon?
A. No, I didn't see any motion.

Colonel Lindbergh and Colonel Breckenridge, the statement added, "both gave their approval and authorized me so to inform Mrs. McLean. This I promptly did early in March."

JURY RECESSED FOR MORE THEFT INVESTIGATION

LONGVIEW, May 6. (UP)—The Gregg county grand jury recessed today until Tuesday at the request of District Attorney Taylor to allow assembling of additional evidence of the recent oil thefts.

State special Council Casey presented a mass of evidence shortly before adjournment.

Officials predicted sensational development when the jury reconvenes.

Texas and Pacific officials were here today investigating the indictments of two railroad agents.

Air Crash Seen At Ritz Saturday

An airplane, traveling at an estimated speed of eighty miles an hour, was crashed into the hacienda on the Paramount ranch, forty miles from Hollywood, for a scene in "The Broken Wing," in which Lupe Velez, Leo Carrillo and Melvyn Douglas are featured and which comes to the Ritz theatre for Saturday.

The feat was performed under the supervision of Capt. E. H. Robinson, a flight commander of the California National Guard. No one was injured.

Captain Robinson knows how to crash an airplane and perform all kinds of hazardous feats in the air. But he won't do any of these things himself.

The speed and weight of the plane was calculated by Captain Robinson so that cameramen would not be endangered by the plane plowing too far into the set and striking them.

One complete side of the hacienda was demolished as the plane crashed into the living room, stopping within two feet of where Captain Robinson figured it would.

Boys Must Keep Hands on Wheel

EL PASO. (UP)—If your girl friend necks you while you are driving in El Paso, police will not interfere—that is, as long as the driver has both hands on the steering wheel.

Police Sergeant J. W. Fitzgerald made this announcement in his campaign for safe automobile driving here.

"Boys should keep both hands on the wheel while driving," he admonished.

"There's nothing wrong—so far as traffic safety is concerned—with a girl putting her arm around her boy friend's neck, as long as she does not hamper his driving."

MORTON'S SALT

Football enthusiasts, looking not so enthusiastically, snapped at the 1931 Notre Dame-Northwestern game played in Chicago.

10c a month . . . less than 2 1/2c a week . . . is the trifling cost of using Morton's Iodized Salt. So why take chances with unknown brands that may clog saltcellars in damp weather? Made with cube-shaped crystals, which tumble off one another instead of sticking together like the flake crystals of inferior salts, Morton's pours just as freely on rainy days as on dry. Too, it prevents simple goiter, a cause of loss of appetite, lack of vigor and backwardness in studies among children between the ages of 6 and 18.

ADVERSE REPORT BY COMMITTEE ON VETERAN PAYMENT

It is doubted seriously now if there is a possibility of congress taking action on such legislation this session.
