50,000 TO FILL CAMP IS REPORT

Enlistment Campaign Starts; Vets May Flood Place

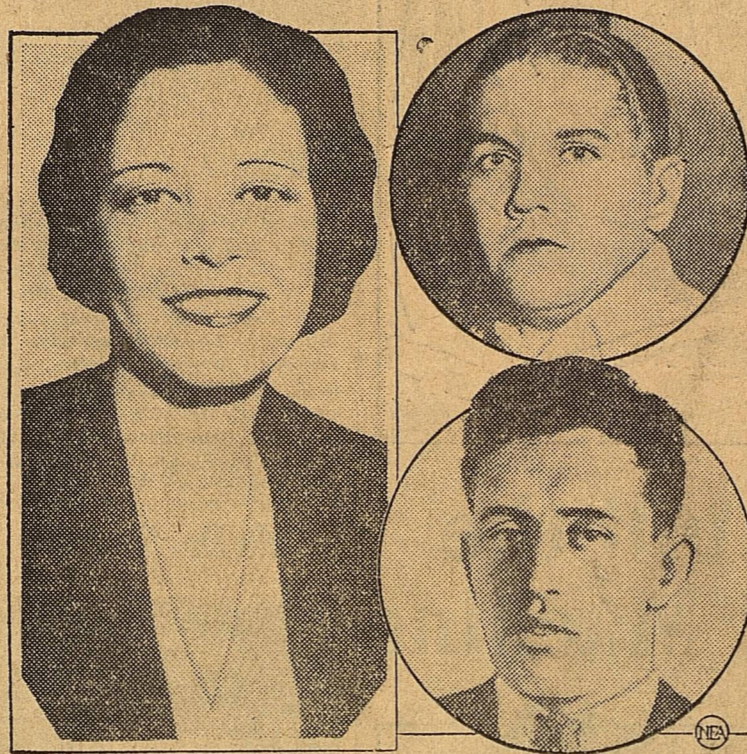

WASHINGTON, June 11. (UP)—Police today seized dynamite and a quantity of explosive caps in the bonus camp. The owner was not found and an investigation was ordered.

Police intended searching incoming automobiles to prevent possible arrival of additional explosives. Two taxicabs, loaded with liquor, were reported en route to the camp.

A meeting of the executive committee of the bonus expeditionary forces was called for this afternoon to decide whether to send delegations to the Chicago conventions, urging inclusion of bonus blanks.

An official count showed that 12,033 veterans are now encamped. It was expected that the number would reach 15,000. Commander Waters announced an enlistment campaign and claimed that 50,000 would start toward Washington to join the bonus army.

Pretty Typist-Sleuth Traps Two

Joining the Kansas City, Mo., police force, Miss Vera Brown (above), 29, pretty stenographer-detective, was called from her typewriter the day after her appointment to deliver the decoy pay-off package that trapped Walter Ogborn (lower right), who has confessed, police claim, to threatening to kidnap the 3-year-old son of a wealthy Kansas City drug merchant unless $6,000 was paid.

ADVANTAGE TO WOMEN TO RESULT

Value in Washington Visit Seen After Party Return

Agricultural interests will receive an additional $135,000,000 in loans, Senator Charles McNary said today when interviewed Saturday after his return from Washington, where he went as a representative of the interests of the state of Texas on requests of Governor Ross S. Sterling.

In addition to these funds to be loaned to farmers and cattlemen through the farm loan offices of the Federal Reconstruction Finance corporation, which the Midland man believes the government will make, he reported passage of a bill to loan to cattle loan companies 75 per cent of their stock. This bill, for which the Midland man and other representatives worked while in Washington, should mean many more hundreds of thousands of available dollars for the livestock interest, it is believed.

The Texas, Arizona and New Mexico committees acted in concert and, after speeches made before the agricultural committee of congress, the Midland mayor was chosen as official spokesman. The committee worked all day and part of the night, appearing before the president, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, and individual senators and congressmen particularly interested in agricultural affairs. Following the approval of the agricultural committee, Goodman was invited to address the farm loan board, which he did.

Belief that the farm loan appropriation will finally pass is based on the fact that both the house and senate committees have approved the increased credits, and on belief that the administration will not veto the appropriations, which, it is believed, will pass the house and senate as a whole.

It is pointed out that while the individual loan limit is $2,000, that will enable Corn Belt farmers and East and Central Texas farmers and other feeders to buy cattle to feed out, which will automatically create a better market for cattle.

The further benefit to cattlemen will come through increased availability of money through local loan companies. The Midland representative expressed the belief to the Midland chamber of commerce, by which organization he was sent to Washington, that the Midland country will enable Corn Belt farmers and areas would profit immeasurably by measures sought in Washington by the official representatives of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. He has returned to Midland with the outlook for increased credits to farmers and cattlemen at low rates of interest.

The King Reed murder case, pending on 32nd district court criminal docket at Colorado, is not to be tried at this term of court, Judge A. S. Manly stated today, assigned for continuing the case was that it would be difficult for the court to complete business originating within the county now pending on the criminal and civil dockets.

Reed is under indictment in connection with the slaying of W. T. Holcomb, night watchman at Midland, about three years ago. The defendant was chief of police at Midland at the time. After two mistrials, the case was transferred to Mitchell county on a change of venue. Reed was convicted and given a penitentiary sentence last October. Appeal was taken and the court of criminal appeals at Austin reversed and remanded the case.

HOPPER FUNDS ASKED FOR BY ANDREWS HERE

A telegram warning the Farmer's Seed Loan office in Dallas that grasshoppers are destroying Midland and Martin county crops was wired today by John S. Andrews, district inspector of the federal government, Midland.

"Many farmers to whom government loans were made are already in a position to obtain additional loans to be obtained to save crops and thereby secure loans already made? Leaf worms are also damaging cotton. Farmers need money for poison," his wire said.

In an interview with a reporter, Andrews said: "The extension entomologist, at intervals through county agents and the press, has during the last fall and winter presented to the public his views relative to possible grasshopper damage in 1932, these views being based upon observation made during the past season. About a month ago information was released to the effect that no general infestations were anticipated, but advising communities to be fully prepared for the possibility of a heavy locust invasion."

"A close watch has been kept of the situation and observations made during the last week or two indicate a very strong possibility of a general infestation over Texas, probably exclusive of the eastern section, prospecting in intensity that of 1931. Seasonal conditions of weather and other factors may operate to change this situation, but requests for the poison mass formations made the last few days seem rather to justify the warning that farmers keep careful watch and be fully prepared at the first appearance of small grasshoppers to spread the poison, and to fight infestations or communities find themselves faced with the problem of grasshopper control they should seek the advice and aid of the entomologist. Counties having no agent are invited to correspond with the extension service for such aid as it may be physically possible to extend."

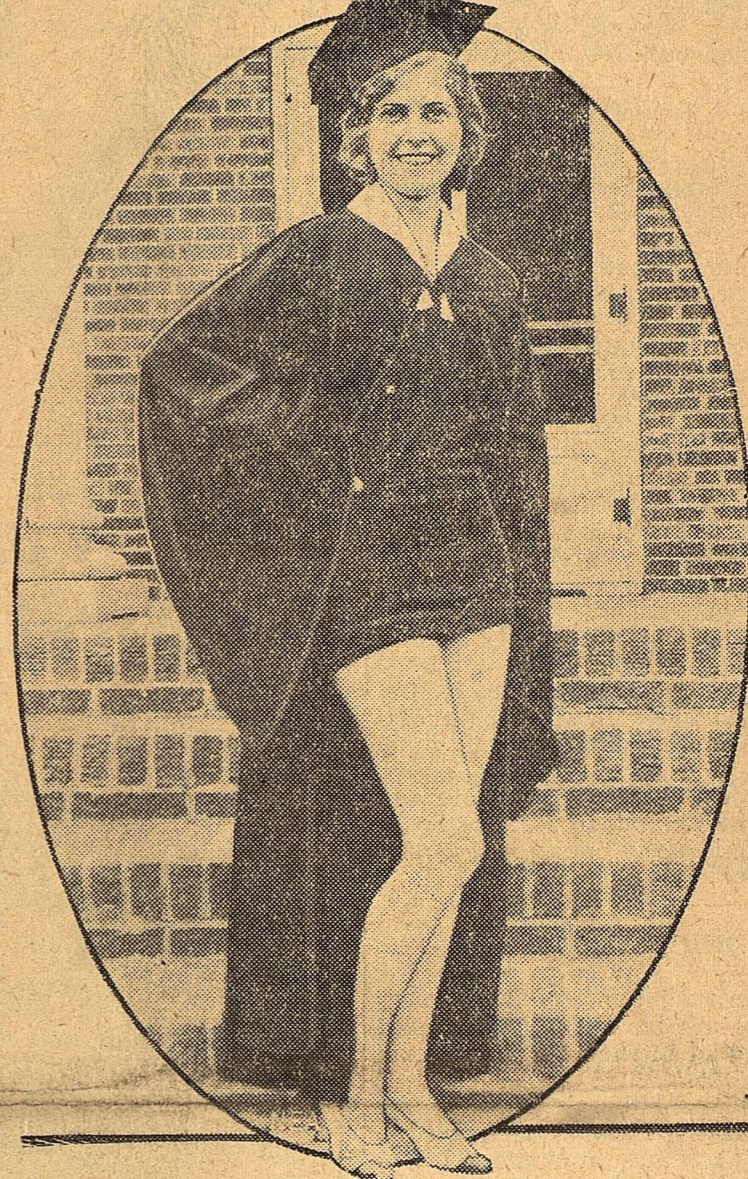

Following the recent warm rains eggs are hatching and small grasshoppers are making their appearance. Places to be watched are sloping pasture land and areas adjacent to ditches and creeks, grassy fence rows, and along stone fences and lines of outcropping rock ledges. (See HOPPER FUNDS page 6)

62-Mile Wind Heavily Damages Crops of Midland County Friday Night; Tank Farm Reports Tanks Damaged; Rain Over Area

A 62-mile surface wind that struck Midland Friday night at 11 o'clock and raged for 30 minutes did considerable damage to crops and gardens, and was reported to have brought damage to other property. Army station attaches said the gale aloft probably was more than 90 miles an hour.

A major percentage of the planting area of the county will have to be replanted, according to representative farmers. One farmer said he would have to plant his entire 150 acres again, at a cost of $750, and knew of several other farmers who face the same necessity. At the Magnolia tank farm dam-

Barbecue Given Judkins' Friends

Saturday was the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Judkins and, as is done each year, a barbecue was given on the Judkins ranch 25 miles southeast of Midland, for friends. A large group was present from Midland.

The barbecue was prepared by Virgil C. Ray, father of Mrs. Judkins, and was said to have been the best ever given on the Judkins ranch. Many cakes, pies and other delicacies were served. Bridge, boating on the Judkins tank and dancing, both of the modern and square variety, afforded pleasure until late Saturday night. Dinner, as well as lunch, was served.

Suspect Was With the Maid Kidnaping Night

TRENTON, June 11. (UP)—Ernest Brinkert, Violet Sharp's taxi-cab driver friend, faced further questioning in regard to the Lindbergh kidnaping following the suicide yesterday of Violet Sharp.

It was established that Brinkert was with Violet on the night of the kidnaping, March 1. Brinkert was arrested at New Rochelle. It was announced that he had a criminal record. Two women claimed to have married him but he represented himself to Violet as being single.

He was questioned during the night at New Rochelle. He was evasive and conflicting stories of his activities on March 1. He was detained at Alpine police headquarters today.

The location is described as being an excellent place for fishing and squirrel hunting, and the land of wild turkey and deer. The boys had their camp in the Davis Mountains last year.

Formal announcement of the opening of the Elder Chevrolet Co. is being made in this issue of The Reporter-Telegram by J. H. Elder, owner.

Four 1932 Chevrolts will be on the display floor tomorrow, according to the new owner.

Elder said he has been in Midland long enough to know that it is one of the most progressive cities west of Fort Worth and that he intends to give Chevrolet service in keeping with the progressiveness of the city. He came here from Roswell, N. M., several weeks ago.

Midland Old-Timers Recall June Frost

Two old-timers of Midland and of West Texas remember the cold spell that killed corn in this section of the state 55 years ago last Friday.

W. A. Dean and "Uncle Brooks" Lee have a recollection of the date, "just like it was yesterday." "Dean and a bunch of cow punchers of the old Wines outfit were encamped above a ridge of timber near the old Bad ranch. There was no Abilene at that time, nor was Midland even a name. That was before the day of the railroad. Just cattle outfits here and there, among them the Windom and Thomas ranches, the latter belonging at the time to the father of Dr. John B. Thomas, well known today as a Midland surgeon and hospital owner.

There were 2700 cattle in the herd driven from Falls and McClelland counties, and Dean and his fellow punchers were riding herd all night. A chilly wind blew up. Later frost before the day of the railroad. Just cattle outfits here and there, among them the Windom and Thomas ranches, the latter belonging at the time to the father of Dr. John B. Thomas, well known today as a Midland surgeon and hospital owner.

Taylor county was then attached to Tom Green county for judicial purposes. Buffalo Gap was the capital of Taylor, and Bell Plains of Callahan county.

JULY 4TH PLANS TO BE LAID WHEN DIRECTORS MEET

Directors of the Midland chamber of commerce will meet Monday night at 8 o'clock at which time a modest July 4 celebration will be discussed. It is proposed to hold a small celebration mainly for home people but to which visitors will be welcomed.

The plan as outlined will make the events nearly 100 per cent self-supporting. If there is any cost it will be nominal, as various events will, in the main, charge barely enough gate fee to pay expenses. The majority of Texas towns have cancelled their July 4 celebrations entirely or else curtailed them to nearly nothing. It is the hope of Midland men working on the proposed observance here to have a program to include six or eight different events.

A barbecue has been canceled due to its heavy cost.

Cases Transferred From Stanton Court

The case against Sid and Ruby Hedges will be tried in district court at Midland, it was decided after a crowded docket at Stanton last week prevented the case from going to trial. It had formerly been tried during the term, a mistrial resulting when the jury failed to arrive at a verdict.

Two Midland negroes, charged with the murder of another Midland black during a cutting affray, will also be tried again, and at Midland, a Stanton jury remaining sequestered for three days without arriving at a verdict.

RIDDLES RETURN

CHICAGO, June 11. (UP)—Fifteen raids last night apparently confirmed the intention of drug agents to dry up Chicago before the national convention. DALLAS, June 11. (UP)—Deputy Sheriff J. W. Fuller, 39, is believed to have been fatally wounded when alleged liquor hijackers shot him while he was investigating liquor thefts at the farm of Mrs. Gus Williams outside the city.

GRAFTERS AREN'T AMERICA

Nothing is much odder than the way in which the past couple of years have turned the average American into a sort of combination of Jeremiah and Job.

None of the jealous and suspicious Europeans have been able to say as many bad things about us as we have been saying about ourselves lately. Honest confession, of course, is good for the soul, and it's just as well that we are discovering that our civilization has its defects; but we're getting so that we overlook everything but the defects, and that isn't precisely healthful.

For example: the Lindbergh tragedy brings to the surface a horrible nest of human vultures, heartless chislers, cheap publicity-hounds and other vermin, and we promptly conclude "This is what our America is breeding in these times."

True enough; but we forget the lonely central figures in the affair, who showed such magnificent bravery, such noble character through it all. America also bred Charles and Anne Lindbergh.

Then we turn to the recent exposures of municipal corruption in New York, and wag our beards sadly over the revelations of crookedness, incompetence and moral obtuseness in high places, and we remark sadly that this is the sort of mess America makes of municipal politics.

That is very true—and yet America also bred Samuel Seabury, who exposed the whole business.

Next we get discouraged over the dilly-dallying of Congress in a time of national emergency, and we reflect that the republic is producing some fearfully inept statesmen these days. It is, to be sure; but it is also producing such high-minded, public-spirited and intelligent public servants as Senators Norris, Borah, Couzens and Wagner, who would be a credit to any parliament.

Do we read of the silly antics of the empty-headed rich who have more money than brains? Why can't we remember such men as William Turner of Chicago, the wealthy bachelor who has been living in modest circumstances and using most of his income to feed some 3000 school children daily?

The chislers, the easy-money boys, the grafters and the rest—they're simply vermin clinging to a sound body. They must be exterminated, and their presence is a disgrace. But they aren't America. Let's never forget it.

PIFFLING TECHNICALITIES

The funny quirks that criminal law occasionally takes to the delight of the crook—are beautifully illustrated in an appeal that recently landed in the Illinois supreme court.

Eight men were convicted of kidnaping a man for ransom. Their attorneys are asking for a reversal on the grounds that where a crime is a felony in common law—as is the case with kidnaping—the indictment must use the term "feloniously." And in the indictment in this case, that word was used in only one of the several counts.

Hence the lawyers want their clients turned loose. The presence or absence of that word can have had nothing whatever to do with the fairness or unfairness of the trial those men got. Their rights cannot in any real sense have been infringed by its omission. And yet—so strange are the ways of the law—such a piffling technicality can be the basis for an appeal!

A NEW ANGLE ON AN OLD JOKE

One of the oldest jokes in America is the one that tells how the poor candidate for Congress has to go about his district kissing the babies of his prospective constituents. And it has always been taken for granted that this was very hard on the candidate.

But the other side of the picture came to light the other day, in a little dispatch from a North Carolina town. There, it seems, several babies have come down with such afflictions as chicken pox and plain, old-fashioned itch—and their parents blame it on the politicians, saying that the children were all right until they got kissed by campaigning candidates.

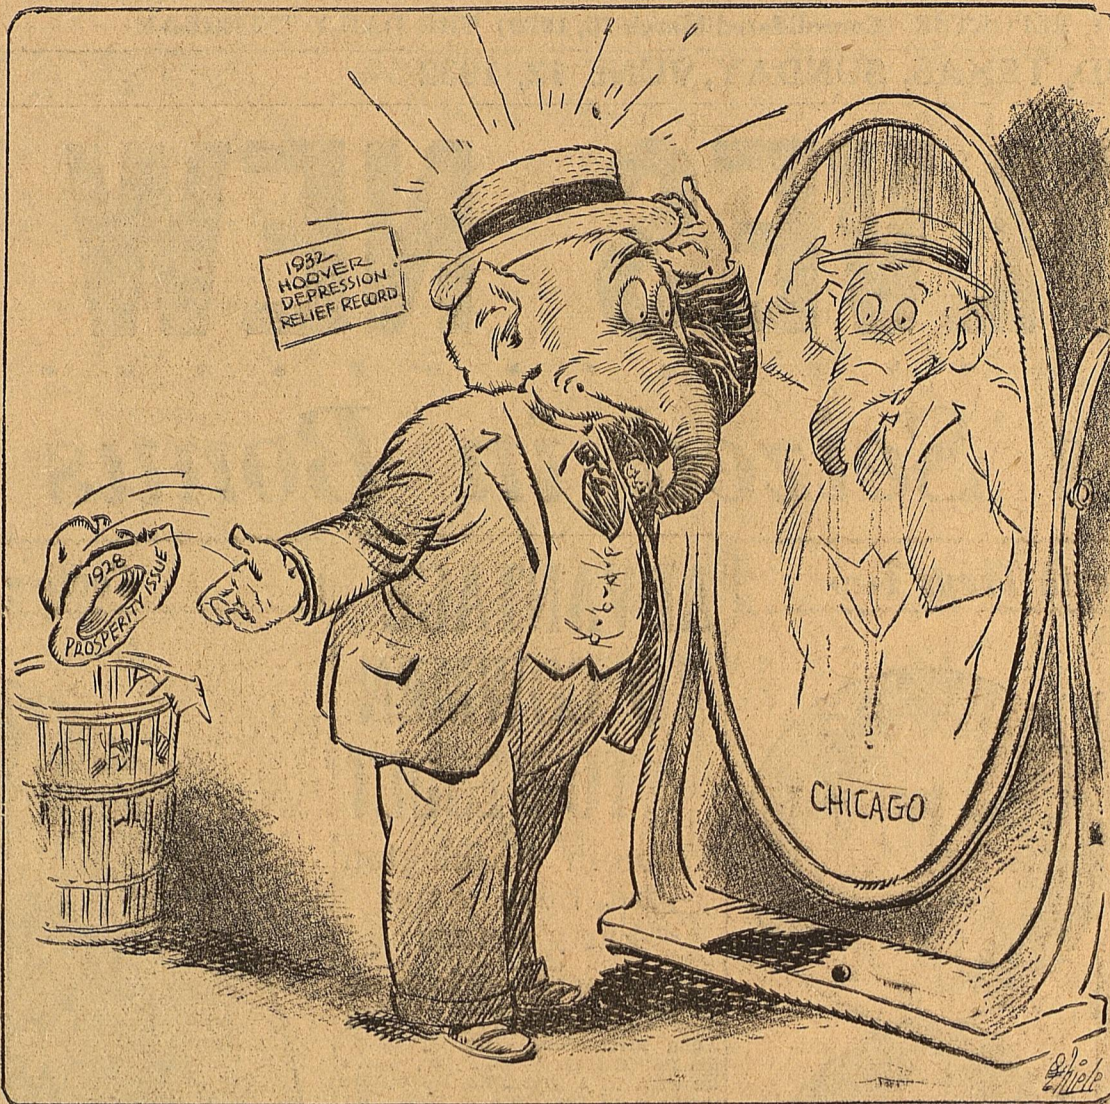

All of which gives one pause. The baby-kissing custom is a bit hard on the candidates, undoubtedly; but did you ever stop to think what a tough break it is for the babies?

How Van Buren Built the First Big Party Machine

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of six daily stories on the important part political bosses have played in the choice of the nation's presidents from the early days of the republic down to the present.

By RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer (Copyright 1932, NEA Service) WASHINGTON—Andrew Jackson, who was called "Old Hickory," and Martin Van Buren, sometimes called "the Little Magician" and sometimes "the Red Fox," were the dominant national political bosses during the period of the first national political conventions.

Jackson, the old soldier, was absolute ruler of his party during his two presidential terms and an influence in it for some time thereafter. He exerted strict discipline and his popularity with the masses of voters was tremendous.

Van Buren was something of a statesman but was first of all a wizard in politics. Never a popular idol and always bitterly opposed by men he had outwitted, he became boss of New York state, the friend and closest adviser of Jackson, and finally the general's appointed successor as president.

A master of strategy and surprise, he nevertheless succumbed to that tricky Democratic party rule which has been a potential weapon in the hands of political bosses ever since—and became the first and only candidate ever to be nominated under the first ballot majority and then be defeated.

In Van Buren's period politics became a game to be played with the bank and file voters, finally enfranchised generally by removal of property restrictions, had to be satisfied. The patronage orchard became a reversed national institution and the professional, non-office holding politician came into being.

Van Buren was an intellectual, humorous man who never lost his temper or quarreled. His political methods often were unscrupulous, but he had great courage and frequently demonstrated it in fighting for principles. He was constantly fooling his opponents by his unexpected moves and in the end it was only his own firmness and the rising power of the southern slavery interests which defeated him.

He was a New York lawyer. As a youth he had campaigned for Jefferson and at 18 was elected to a Republican congressional caucus at Albany. He became a leader of the Tammany organization, though never a member.

When he opposed DeWitt Clinton for the governorship of New York, Clinton won. But Clinton went into office with majorities in both houses of the legislature and within 24 hours after they met Van Buren had, by fast, clever work, changed those majorities to minorities.

the public bounty will in a greater or less degree influence and control them.

The spoils system really was launched by Van Buren under Jackson. Van Buren extended it from New York to the federal government and managed it from Washington. He saw clearly how a national political machine could be built up through the Postoffice Department. Under his system even the humblest government clerk in the capital were tossed into the street and replaced by deserving party men.

The first political convention, in 1832, apparently was called for the purpose of nominating Van Buren for vice president. Jackson wanted him in that job and Van Buren wasn't popular enough to be nominated under the old congressional caucus method. There is some evidence that Jackson wasn't sure he would live through a second term and wanted to make sure Van Buren would succeed him.

The convention, composed mostly of jobholders, adopted the two-thirds rule, apparently to make it appear that the nomination was more popular than it was. Van Buren was at London and had nothing to do with inventing the two-thirds rule.

Van Buren, however, had much to do with engineering his nomination for president in 1836. Jackson called another convention whose 625 delegates were again largely office-holders from nearby states. The "Red Fox" was nominated unanimously and elected.

In 1840 when he was renominated to be defeated by William Henry Harrison, it was Van Buren who thought up the idea of avoiding offense or strife by having the convention nominate no one for vice president. After his defeat he went away from Washington and devoted himself to working for a renomination in the Democratic convention of 1844.

eight president of the United States. At right is Andrew Jackson, "Old Hickory," who ruled the politics of his day with an iron hand.

Van Buren had a gentleman's agreement with Henry Clay, the Wise candidate that year to ignore annexation as an issue. He opposed annexation.

Van Buren's nomination had seemed almost a certainty but the enemy, needing time, managed to get the convention postponed from December to May. Then they spread the word everywhere that "Van Buren can't be elected" and worked for unpledged delegations—even as the anti-Roosevelt bosses in 1932.

A large majority came so that convention pledged to Van Buren, but many of them didn't vote for him and some refused because of his anti-annexation stand. Because a majority actually opposed him, the Calhoun leaders were able to have both the two-third and unit rules adopted.

On the first ballot Van Buren had 147 of the 178 necessary to nominate him, but his strength immediately began to wane while that of Lewis Cass came up. Deadlock followed.

The movement for Polk, an obscure reporter had been plotting for the Polk nomination all along. It seemed so. Anyway, Polk was negotiating principally for northern support. He talked George Bancroft, Massachusetts leader, into the idea and Bancroft set to work actively with him. They arranged to have the New Hampshire delegation lead off by proposing Polk's name.

Polk received 44 votes on the eighth ballot and delegates made an organized howl for harmony and a compromise on Polk, Pillow and Bancroft made a deal with the Virginia delegation between the eighth and ninth ballots. New York suddenly switched to the "dark horse" and the stampede came on the ninth.

Writes Platform

Task of compiling the Republican party's national platform for the 1932 campaign has been entrusted to James K. Garfield, Cleveland attorney, pictured here studying party leaders' proposals. By President Hoover's selection, Garfield has been named chairman of the G. O. P. convention's platform committee. He is the son of President Garfield, who was assassinated in 1881.

It's Dr. Seabury

Samuel Seabury stepped from role as chief counsel in New York's corruption probe to receive from Washington, Pa., an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Here you see him in cap and gown with the coveted degree. Seabury was justice of the first district New York supreme court from 1907 to 1914 and associate justice of the New York court of appeals from 1914 to 1916. Since April 9, 1931, he has directed the Hofstadter investigation in New York City, climaxed by his recent interrogation of Mayor James J. Walker.

Corinth Socks To Yield Gold

CORINTH, Miss. (UP)—This city, with its 10,000 inhabitants, may soon have something more than a sock for a bank.

Without a banking institution since No. 21, 1931, citizens here hope that their efforts to establish a bank soon will bear fruit.

Mayor W. L. Sweet predicted that in 30 days the town would have a bank, so that normal financial business can be transacted.

Where three banks once flourished, there now stand only empty bank buildings. And instead of a bank book the Corinthian now carries a bulging sock.

"But business hasn't been hurt especially," the mayor said. "Everybody's trading. Of course, it has been inconvenient carrying all your money in your pants."

The city government has a little account over in Tuka, 22 miles away, and we can still write a check. But the nearest bank is at Selmer, Tenn., 14 miles away.

"It's just a case of plenty of money and no place to put it."

But it hasn't made any great difference. The greenbacks still are flickering across the counters in Corinth's 10 business blocks.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

The fellow who sent in this letter must have been attending banquets. You know a lot of people don't know that the little grayish-black specks you find on bread at banquets, luncheons and hotel dining rooms are poppy seed. Personally, I favor the idea advanced by Green Eyes, whoever the monster is. I would rather see poppy seed scattered on vacant lots than on my hot rolls. If anybody can tip me off as to the best way to secure the seed, when to plant them etc., I will get in personal contact with certain scout masters and see what they think. The only thing I see that might go hay wire is the next poppy day sale. If the vacant lots were full, some of the boys around town might fake their poppies. Here's Green Eyes' letter:

Midland, Texas, June 10, 1932. Dear friend Quack: I have been thinking lately of an idea which I developed and executed would tend to beautify Midland and the highway into the city. Poppy seed could be strewn about over vacant lots and along the highway for a mile or so this fall and next spring would see Midland as the most beautiful city between the oceans.

Now Quack, you are a man of influence, and I believe you can persuade the scoutmasters of the city to get their boys to do this job after some method of getting the seed is figured out.

Whadda yuh say? Green Eyes.

The wife of an oil man got after their small boy for wanting to go see the monkeys at a traveling show.

"The idea," she said, "of wanting to go see the monkeys when your father is at home."

"Elect a man who has had experience in politics, an honest man," he exhorted closing his address.

"You can't have two men in the same office," said one of the hearers.

Pound Keeper Has New Electric Chair

FREMONT, O. (UP)—Hiley Cook, Sandusky county dog warden, has devised a "delectable" for dogs in which stray pets may be put to death with less pain than shooting or chloroforming.

Mook's device consists of a metal plate which provides one electrode. The other is a metal collar which is placed around the dog's neck. A current of 1,100 volts is then sent through the dog's body. Death is practically instantaneous.

CO-PILOTS LICENSE

WASHINGTON—A recent amendment to the Air Commerce Regulation states that a co-pilot working under a chief pilot in a passenger airplane must possess a transport pilot license. This new ruling is designed to give "greater recognition to the responsible position occupied by the chief pilot, who is held to a strict accountability for the craft and its occupants at all times."

The population of the world is increasing at a rate of over 12,000,000 a year.

Paris Now Calls On London Styles

LONDON. (UP)—Crossing the Channel for her Paris clothes is no longer necessary for the smartly-dressed Englishwoman. Paris, in this respect, has come to London, and some of the best known Rue de la Paix firms have established service here for their British clientele.

The immediate cause of this is the economic crisis, which put up the cost of imported goods, on the one hand, and reduced the Englishwoman's income, on the other. In many instances, the Paris couturiers are using British materials, and giving exhibitions of models not yet shown in the French capital.

PILOTS SAFETY VEST

MALDEN, Mass.—A safety vest for air pilots flying over water has been developed by a concern here. It is worn like an ordinary vest, and fits flat against the body. When emergency protection is needed, a quick pull on two trigger strings inflates the vest by action of carbon dioxide cartridges. The vest when inflated in this manner will easily support the weight of a man.

THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS MUST DECIDE THE FATE OF TEXAS RAILROADS

THE WELFARE of Texas and Texans has gone and will always go hand in hand with the welfare of Texas railroads. Their dependency upon each other is absolute.
In 1929 Texas railroads gave employment to 82,956 employees, to whom they paid annually $126,674,543 in salaries and wages. In 1930 this number decreased to 70,739 while the payroll declined to $109,892,226. In 1931 the number of employees fell to 57,098 and the payroll to $89,505,918.
This represents a decrease of more than $37,000,000 in purchasing power in Texas communities. There has been a corresponding decrease in purchase of materials and supplies by Texas railroads. The ability to have maintained railroad payrolls and purchases would have been a very important factor in overcoming the present trying economic condition.
The decline in railroad payrolls and purchases is due only in part to economic conditions. The revenues of the railroads have been affected not only by business conditions but to a very large extent by loss of traffic to trucks and buses using the public highways in competition with the railroads.
The time has come when the people of Texas must decide whether the traffic of this state can best be carried by the railroads, using facilities which they built and maintain at their own expense, or by trucks and buses using the highways built and maintained at the taxpayers' expense.

Believe It or Not!

-this puts it all over the cigarette

BLINDFOLD

TEST!

The expert smoker, who is able to tell the identity of a cigarette while blindfolded, has at his command the two senses one would deem most essential in checking tobaccos.

The housewife, who deliberately blindfolds herself by listening seriously to a salesman's claims of "just as good," has to be able to tell the flavor of a coffee by the feel of the can in which it is contained; the quality of a face cream by the texture of its label; and the purity of a pharmaceutical by the corrugations in the container top.

In the case of the cigarette test, where both taste and smell are at the tester's assistance, the percentage of error runs rather high. In case of error no one suffers anything other than a slight chagrin.

In the case of the housewife, she not only has to pay for the materials used in the test, but has to use them after she has made her blindfolded selection, to see whether or not she has received her money's worth.

In the case of the cigarette tester, the tobacco companies are willing and eager to bear all costs. There is nothing at stake, and it is freely admitted that the selection could be more easily made if the tester had his eyes wide open and could read the labels.

In the case of the shopper, she pays all expenses herself; suffers the use of eye-sight to recognize standard labels and has to pay for, carry home and use the product foisted upon her before she has a recognition of her selection.

Do not permit any salesman to deliberately blindfold you in your purchasing by his idle claims of "just as good and cheaper." If it's not more than "just as good," why not stay with your original selection? How can you tell whether or not it is cheaper, if you do not know what it is, how it is made or who made it?

ICEERS PUT CHILL ON ELECTRICIANS IN FRIDAY GAME, KNOCKING 'EM OFF PERFECT RATING LIST: AFFAIR FAST

Southern Ice blanked Texas Electric Friday night, 4-0, to remove the perfect standing of the Electricians in the Industrial Playground Ball League.

There was little difference in the number of hits, and each made the same number of errors, two, but the winners bunched their blows. Adamson pitched good ball, passing only two men. Lewellen did not pass a man.

With the exception of one inning, the fifth, the game went scoreless. Branch of Midland Hardware hit for the circuit, when three were on the bags, springing run to the Petroleum Drug club in the second game.

Blind Bogey Match Will Be Played at Country Club at 2

Something different is promised country club golfers this afternoon when at 2 o'clock "blind bogey" tournament will be played.

Such a tournament last year drew many entries, and a larger crowd is expected this afternoon.

It is a guessing game, after a fashion. One guesses at the score he will shoot. The difference in this and the score he shoots determines is listed. Those who fall into the classification of two under the "set par" and four above are listed. Seven numbers are shaken in a hat and three are drawn. Those listed golfers who have missed their "set par" nearest to the figures drawn from the hat are winners.

The prizes will be gold balls, each player paying his entrance fee with a new ball prior to teeing off.

All country club golfers are asked to grab a new ball and show up.

BASEBALL GAME AT THE MEXICAN DIAMOND TODAY

Southern Ice and Penwell will play a baseball game this afternoon at the Mexican diamond, beginning at 3:15. These clubs recently played a 12-inning game that stretched over 17 innings, nine of which were scoreless. Penwell finally chased in a run to upset the home team.

Robinson will pitch and Roberson will catch for the locals; and Rogers and Ward will make up the battery of the visitors.

The Bushers go to Crane for a game, and the Mexicans play at Toyah.

Midland Boy--

finds that which he seeks—direct and authentic information of early Texas history.

What formerly was a hobby now has become his vocation. As a research worker in the historical folklore of Texas, Haley has uncovered and deposited with the archives of the University of Texas numerous valuable documents throwing light on conditions and events in the early days before Texas separated from Mexico and became an independent nation. He also has gathered important data and many chapters during and after the time of the Texas republic.

For the past three years he has been carrying on research through a grant from the Laura Spelman Rockefeller foundation. For three years preceding his work for the Rockefeller foundation he did research for the Panhandle Plains Historical society.

early Texas historical character; Captain B. B. Paddock, founder of the first daily newspaper in Fort Worth; W. F. Cummins, early Texas geologist and C. U. Connelley, among the first of the West Texas surveyors and a member of the house of representatives.

Haley stated it was a "tragedy" that the research work and data gathering was not started 50 years ago because of the large amount of material that would have been available then but which since has been destroyed. Many documents and papers of great historical value have been destroyed because persons having possession did not recognize their worth. Every day valuable material is being destroyed because of lack of room, Haley said.

The historical collector recommended that the Texas legislature enact a law preventing county officials from destroying old papers and files until first examined by a competent historian. When storage rooms become crowded and overflowing, county officials in many instances have ordered the old records burned.

A portion of the records of Bell and San Augustine counties have been destroyed because of a lack of storage space, Haley said.

Most of the old records of Matagorda county were saved by Haley after they had been hauled away and stored in a barn and later given to the junk dealer. Haley learned that a carload of the papers and documents had been shipped to Houston. Much of it was recovered.

Hopper Funds--

Control measures applied as soon as infested areas are located may save later damage.

"Poison bran mash has been highly successful in combating grasshoppers in Texas, and the formula is here presented for ready reference. If needed, farmers who have never applied it should consult their county agent.

"Coarse wheat bran, 25 lbs.; Paris green or white arsenic, 1 lb.; high grade amyl acetate (avoid cheap grades of banana oil or bronzing liquids), 1 oz.; cane or sorghum molasses (avoid corn syrup), 2 qts.; thoroughly mixed with water sufficient to make a moist mash as explained below:

"Mix the bran and poison together, thoroughly dilute the amyl acetate and molasses in about two gallons of water. Pour this liquid over the mixture of poison and bran until every particle is moist. Then make further additions of water and mix thoroughly until a mash is obtained that is quite moist, yet so it will fall apart after being tightly squeezed and so may readily be sown broadcast.

"A small quantity of mash should be broadcast so as to cover about five acres. A good practice is to mix at night and sow early in the morning before 9 o'clock, since the hoppers do not feed until the dew dries up.

"If it is desired to kill hoppers in grass land, sow over the entire acre to be protected. Where they are migrating from fence rows or pastures into cultivated crops, sow the fence row or a fairly broad margin of the pasture, also a broad margin of the cultivated crop with the mixture.

"Amyl acetate is preferable in the formula, but if it cannot be obtained, substitute six lemons for one ounce of the amyl acetate. This should be diluted with water as with the other substance, but one should use both juice and rinds, grinding the latter in a fine food chopper.

"Do not place the mash in piles.

"Do not use lead arsenate—use paris green or white arsenic.

"Do not use cheap banana oil or bronzing liquids.

"It would advise every farmer to cut this clipping out so he may have same at his disposal at all times."

Orphans to Sing On Monday Night

The Girl's choral club of the Methodist Orphan's home at Waco will be guest artists at the First Methodist church here Monday night. The 24 singers are directed by Miss Willie Lee Walker and will be accompanied by W. S. Barnett, superintendent of the home and Mrs. Barnett. The group will arrive at Midland from Sweetwater and Big Spring concerts, and will be entertained in the homes of Methodist members. The trip is being made in a large bus.

The singers are well trained and for the last six consecutive years have won first place in the state moral contest conducted at Baylor college, Belton. They now have two loving cups which have been awarded at the state contests for choral singing.

Emil Jannings the Discoverer of Star

If you ask Ruth Chatterton, star of First National's "The Rich Are Always With Us," which comes to the Yucca theatre today and Monday, who she considers her best friend, she will reply without a moment's hesitation:

"Emil Jannings."

For Jannings, the screen might still be without its "First Lady" and Ruth Chatterton still producing and starring in her own plays on the stage.

Against her will almost, Ruth had been persuaded to take a test for Josef Von Sternberg's picture, "The Docks of New York." She was wholly apathetic about pictures at that time, but in her characteristic fashion, put everything she had into the test. It failed to appeal to Von Sternberg, however, and the test was relegated to the vaults, there to lie gathering dust for weeks.

Then Jannings began seeking his leading woman for "The Sins of the Fathers." The vaults were ransacked for any test that might interest him. Ruth Chatterton's, among others, was run for him and at its conclusion the delighted Jannings rushed forward and kissed the screen.

He did not know who she was, but he knew he had found his leading lady. On the set, the great Jannings took delight in initiating Miss Chatterton into all the secrets of screen technique that he had mastered. He predicted her present ascendancy as a celluloid star.

HOME PRODUCTS OF THE HIGHEST QUALITY

We have met lower prices, but the pureness, richness and flavor of our Dairy Products have been going up.

Our Milk comes from cows right here in Midland County. These cows are tested regularly and our herd is kept free from disease. We don't buy milk from just anybody and then ask you to buy it from us. We produce our own products and we know they are clean.
