A PERMANENT INVESTMENT
Midland can make no better investment of time, effort, thought and expense than to concentrate on the bringing to Midland County of additional substantial farmers and livestock men.

The oil business is big, yet there are times when its curtailed operations cut down the expenditure of money. The cattle business is still one of the biggest industries in the west, yet there are seasons when the cattle business is slow.

Probably the biggest opening at present, in view of the vast undeveloped acreage near Midland, is to work on the bringing in of additional substantial farmers and livestock men.

Hinds Writes History of Williamson County
Editor's Note: The following news item from the Taylor Press tells of the writings of Walter Hinds, history teacher in Midland High School last year.

Probably the most complete history of Williamson County ever published, written by Walter Hinds of Southwestern University, B. A. M. A., will go to press next month, according to the author.

Besides taking the history of this county through all social, economic, military and educational developments, there are accounts of occurrences such as raids by bandits, like the notorious Sam Bass, the flaming of towns in this territory—and other interesting revelations.

MOTHERS' CLUB OPENS FALL SEASON WITH LUNCHEON AND STUDY CLASS

The new fall season was opened for the Mothers' Culture Club yesterday when Mrs. Fred Turner, Jr., president, honored members with a luncheon affair in the Junior Ball Room of Hotel Scharbauer.

Attractive appointments in pink and white made the setting for the affair lovely with centerpieces of pink flowers. Places for the guests were marked by the new year books for the club.

During the program, Miss Dorothy Speed pleased the group with a delightful reading. This was followed by the study class which was based on the subject "Objective to Child Welfare."

Club members attending were Mesdames T. Paul Barron, R. O. Collins, C. M. Goldsmith, E. L. Head, Myrl Jewell, T. D. Kimbrough, R. V. Lawrence, Roy Parks, M. M. Seymour, J. M. Speed, J. V. Stokes, Jr., Allen Tolbert, Frank Wolcott, Jno. Dublin and P. J. Mims as a special guest.

Picnic For School Announced For Friday Afternoon
The second week attendance at the Daily Bible School at the Christian Church is an increase over the last week, say directors of the school.

A picnic has been announced for Friday afternoon at Cloverdale Park, with the students meeting at the church at 4 o'clock then motoring to the park. The final program of the school will be at the Sunday School hour Sunday morning when the students will present some of their work.

WEBB WAGES BIG BATTLE ON GOV. VETO

The political battle now being waged over the governor's veto of the pink boll worm appropriation bill, which veto seems to have met with the disapproval of all of West Texas, is being centered around Odessa, with Representative Henry E. Webb, of that city, as one of the chief participants.

The bill, asking for an appropriation to pay farmers of this section for damages done in following state regulations, was introduced into the legislature by Representative Henry E. Webb of Odessa, the author of the bill, assisted by Penrose Metcalf of San Angelo and Carl Roundtree, each of whom were co-authors.

A determined fight will be made in the courts to test the ability of the present administration "to confiscate our property without giving any remuneration whatsoever," according to Representative Webb, in a statement made this week concerning the fight now in progress over the governor's veto of the pink boll worm bill.

The young Christian governor of our state, instead of recognizing the three fundamental departments of state government—legislative, judicial and executive—during a hard siege of that disease so fatal in former years to horses (big head) has forgotten the legislative and judicial branches of government and has assumed the role of dictator.

Concerning the points brought up in Governor Moody's recent statements on the veto, Webb says: "The fact that gins were running in full blast in the so-called pink boll area on the 28th of February this year, when Moody signed the pink boll worm law, it having passed a record vote, caused it to become a law at the time of signing.

Enigma Club With Mrs. Frank Cowden

Guests of Mrs. Frank Cowden at bridge games yesterday afternoon were members of the Enigma club. Mrs. C. M. Goldsmith held high score and was souvenired with a pretty piece of linen.

At a tea time salad was passed to Mesdames Elliott Cowden, C. M. Goldsmith, Clifford Hill, Ellis Cowden, Harry Neblett, Guy Cowden, Homer Rowe, Clarence Scharbauer, Allen Tolbert, Charlie Bell of El Paso; Misses Lois Patterson and Lula Elkin.

Odessa Woman Entertains With Theater Party Here

Mrs. Mark Henderson of Odessa entertained several of her Odessa and Midland friends with a theater party in Midland Wednesday evening. The hostess honored Miss Inez Wright of Odessa, who leaves soon for Lake Charles, Louisiana, where she will be a teacher in the schools.

The group enjoyed a pleasant evening at the Ritz Theatre seeing the movie "The Gamblers." This event was followed by a tea hour at the Hotel Pharmacy.

Luncheon For Bien Amigos Club At Chambers Home

A luncheon and bridge party honored members of the Bien Amigos Club yesterday with Mrs. Joe D. Chambers as hostess at her home. Tables were marked in pink and green for players at two tables.

Closing the games Mrs. D. E. Anderson won high, Mrs. W. M. Ellis second high and Mrs. M. L. Layton cut high. At one o'clock a two course luncheon reflecting the chosen colors was served to Mesdames C. D. Hodges, Ernest McKinney, W. E. Anderson, M. S. Layton, Fred W. Chapman, C. B. Goodman, D. M. Ellis and H. S. Collings.

GENERAL COTTON CONDITION BAD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(UP)—The weather last week in general continued unfavorable for cotton crops, principally because of unrelieved droughty conditions over the western portion of the belt, where dry temperatures intensified the lack of moisture.

It was announced today by the department of agriculture in the weekly weather report that the general deterioration continued in Texas with plants shedding and opening prematurely except in parts of the panhandle and extreme west, where progress was good.

Personals

C. H. Shepard, manager of the Lydick Roofing Company, left yesterday for Anson and Abilene where he will join his wife and children who have been visiting there. They will return to Midland Sunday.

Miss Allie Mae Stout and J. Emeline Glasper arrived in Midland this morning from their home in Ennis where they have been spending the summer. They are teachers in the public schools here. Miss Annie Frank Stout arrived yesterday.

Harvey Sloan returned to Midland last night from Hico where he attended the funeral of Mrs. Lee Jones, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Jared returned last night from "Carlsbad," where they have been on business. Mrs. Jared is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Neal, returned last night from a vacation spent in Texas and Oklahoma points. Mrs. Neal and her son have been gone for two months, Mr. Neal going recently to return with them.

Mrs. A. L. Ackers and daughter returned early this week from their vacation spent in cities in Illinois. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Spaulding and son, Barron, returned to their home in Lubbock today after visiting here for several days. They went by Abilene on the return trip.

J. O. Nobles, who with his family returned this week from a visit in Clovis, Farwell and Amarillo, says crops around Midland look better than anywhere he visited, although Amarillo has had some rain recently, making grass somewhat greener.

Her Mad Search for ROMANCE

The Story of a Discontented Wife
Merritt Hines of Midland left early this week for Fort Worth where he is investigating propositions to form a connection in the legal profession there.

He completed his work toward a law degree at Cumberland Law School, Lebanon, Tennessee, last spring, went by Austin and stood his examination for the bar, and spent the summer here with his father, M. S. Hines.

On account of the fact that such a large class took the examinations, it was only last week that he received his report showing that he made an average of 90 in his work. He left immediately for Fort Worth to seek a connection with a strong law firm there.

Hollywood gave a film job to a man because he could say the word "hemstitching" exactly in the way the producer wanted.

The first author to use a type-writer in the preparation of manuscript is believed to have been Mark Twain.

Animals Prove Menace to Poultry

Coyotes are doing great damage to poultry farmers of the county, as well as to watermelon growers. G. O. Golliday lost 100 chickens and A. G. Bohanan 60 within the past six weeks. Both farmers live in the Valley View community. Holley Roberts and a farmer named Hamlin report the watermelon patches almost ruined by these prowling animals.

GENE HOWE, PANHANDLE EDITOR WHO PANNED LINDY AND MARY, HELPS HIS READERS FIND ANY OF THEM, AND ALL TEXAS CALLS HIM A FRIEND

By GILBERT SWAN
NEA Service Writer

AMARILLO, Tex., September 3.—The unpretentious office of "Kernel E. Erasmus Tack" is more accustomed to the presence of suspenders than of silk hats.

And by reaching the man who comes driving into town in his galuses, Gene Howe, otherwise "Old Tack," editor of the Amarillo Globe-News, has succeeded in reaching the world.

He has dressed his words and ideas in the homespun of the people and thus, here in an embryonic metropolis of the prairie, has made himself an outstanding and picturesque figure in American journalism. His procedure is a combination of Abe Lincoln, Will Rogers, comic strip and human interest. His growth as a sort of plains idol is based on a shrewd knowledge of the individual and his reactions. He has made himself the sympathetic aide in any situation "where a feller needs a friend."

He Likes to Help

Perhaps even a shorter cut to an explanation of the national position he has achieved in this remote spot can be found in his own definition of a "perfect day."

"Not long ago, on a certain Thursday, I had a perfect day," he announced. "On that day I helped find six lost dogs, participated in the repair of four or five broken dolls, found a couple of fellows a job and patched up a couple of broken hearts so that all concerned left the office in charge of a minister."

Which may help to explain why, just a few months ago, a delegation of 100 school children was taken on a pilgrimage to his editorial shrine—after a journey of many miles from the hinterlands. It may also help to explain why, upon the approach of a birthday, when he published in his daily column an item mentioning his fondness for chocolate cake, some 60 cakes came walking into his office fresh from the ovens.

A Statute of Ben Turpin

And when you learn that he then took the cakes to an orphanage he is particularly interested in, you will understand still better.

This newspaper shrine, by the way, is the usual fragile 10 by 12 cop on the outskirts of an editorial room. On his desk is a particularly cross-eyed statuette of Ben Turpin. A drawing of this comic also heads his column. On a more personal desk is a framed copy of "The Cow-boy's Prayer." One wall is covered with paintings of a duck country which, to all appearances, must be a "happy hunting ground," since birds are thicker than the famous plague of locusts.

If you don't believe the painting, he'll take you to a photo album showing camera shots of a duck country where ducks look like mosquitoes in a Jersey swamp. On an opposite wall are a few cartoons and, over his chair, a photo of his father, Ed Howe, the famous Kansas editor, who has said of "Old Tack," "You're a better man than I am."

"Old Tack," by the way, grew out of an original signature which announced him as "the tactless Texan." His column had a habit of talking out of turn. It was humorously, but avidly, against bunk. He was well aware that two factors, above all others, are close to the individual man—his economic soundness and the things he and his family love. The individual man wants a job to support his family. He loves his children and his pets—his dogs and cats and birds. So do his children. A lost child is a city-wide tragedy, anywhere on this map. A lost dog is a family tragedy in any home. And so the whole countryside reports its lost dogs and children—and has come to report its lost loves and lost jobs.

I am told that the column has cost up to $12,000 a year—helping men get jobs, helping take care of orphaned children, helping the poor and helping on one thing or another. Whenever a dog is lost Tack stands willing to add $2 to any reward that may be put up. When ever a man loses his job, Tack helps him get another. His office is a floating stream of men in overalls and women in gingham aprons.

Defended Scuffling Child

Not so long ago a school took a class of its pupils to visit him—for he is visited by thousands of adoring followers. The story goes that "Old Tack" happened to be sitting with his feet on the desk. Some urchin began to chuckle and to comment on his "big feet." The teacher reprimanded the child and suspended him from school for a few days. When "Old Tack" heard about this, he took the side of the child and not the teacher. He came out flatly on the program that there's too much bunk in this country, that the child was right—he did have big feet.

His argument with Mary Garden became nationally famous. So did his commentaries that Lindbergh had "the swelled head." So did his satiric "Boob Oil Company." The latter made its appearance when boobs the country over were tossing their money into speculative oil operations at a time when the Big Boom hit this section. Tack had intended to make these insecurity ventures humorous. Announcing his own "boob" company, he stipulated that every investor would become a vice president. The stock was actually sold over night. A bit of oil land was purchased, and worked. It began coming in. There was some dispute over the boundary lines—but, anyhow, the oil had run out. However, the "Boob" holdings are still worth some $13,000.

Admits His Defects

His humorous attacks on individuals and civic movements have often threatened animosities. But whatever the reply, he has faithfully printed it—adding that whatever comments may have been made about him they were probably right. He has admitted variously being "all wet" and a "sap" and a great many other things he doubtlessly isn't. He has kidded himself in the same column that he has poked fun at others and thus has softened the blow. He refers to his wife as "O. W." (old woman) and his child as "lol-lapalooza"—to say nothing of his mother-in-law.

His theory is that most readers pick up newspaper columns to be entertained and that fun is all too rare in this realm. That—and the appeal to the individual with a problem on his mind!

Yet he is not an "Old Tack" sort of person in appearance—to the contrary, he is quite urban, strapping and well groomed.

In addition to his Amarillo papers, he published The Globe, his father's former newspaper in Atchison, Kas., The Falls City (Neb.) Journal on which his father once worked as a printer, and is interested in other Texas papers.

Clemenceau Reaches Critical Condition

PARIS, September 5.—(UP)—Illness of George Clemenceau, French War Premier and one of the authors of the Versailles treaty, reached an alarming stage today. Pulmonary congestion has developed, and an eminent specialist, Dr. L. DeGennes who attended Marshal Foch in his illness, has been summoned by attending physicians. Clemenceau is 88 years old.

Fur seal skins taken at the Pribilof Islands during the summer season of 1929 totaled 39,253, the largest seasonal catch recorded since the government took over sealing operations in the district in 1910.

Large Fleet To Airport Opening

BIG SPRING, Texas, Sept. 5.—Assurance that a minimum of fifty planes will go to Big Spring for the air fete and dedication of the airport there Sept. 11-12 has been received from the Chamber of Commerce at Big Spring.

Both Lieutenant Colonels Reg Robbins and Jim Kelly, who started the recent epidemic of endurance flights, have promised to attend the celebration, the Chamber of Commerce at Big Spring said. Kelly Field, the army's advanced air training camp at San Antonio, has promised to send a number of planes, also several planes will come from other aviation parts of the State. All the airlines operating in Texas have indicated they will send ships, the Fort Worth Association of Commerce has promised to send an aerocade and various other cities, companies and individuals have indicated they will send one or more planes. The Southern Air Transport System is expected to send the largest fleet of planes to the opening with the possible exception of the army delegation.

The J. S. Cosden Refining Company, a Big Spring concern, has promised to furnish free gasoline made from oil produced right there in the county, to all fliers who will land at Big Spring during the air fete and the Kendall Refining Company has promised free oil. The Cosden Company expects to furnish at least 8,000 gallons of gasoline to visiting fliers.

There will be a race for planes powered with engines of 90 horsepower or less and a free for all race, contests in stunt flying, balloon bursting, parachute jumping, dummy bomb dropping for accuracy and spot landing. Prizes amounting to $2,000 will be awarded in these various events.

Following the dedication ceremonies September 11, there will be a parade Sept. 12, illustrating the development of transportation from the days of the Indians, through the time of the pack mule, the span of oxen, covered wagon, the pony express, the early trains, the automobile, and now the airplane. Included in the parade will be a miniature train furnished by the Texas and Pacific Railroad, the first railroad to come to Big Spring, which arrived in 1882, a year before the town was incorporated.

The airport which has been built by the city to further aviation was originally part of the ground given to the T. & P. by the State in 1881 to get the railroad to build its line. It is located two miles west of the city on a paved highway containing 230 acres of land and is equipped with two steel hangars, machine shop, five room administration building, boundary, flood and revolving beacon light placed on a 56 foot steel tower together with an illuminated wind cone.

One hundred thousand air fans were given the thrill of a lifetime at the National Air Races in Cleveland when Colonel Lindbergh, flying in three-plane formation with Lieutenant Frank O'Eierne, left, and Lieutenant F. N. Kivette, center, performed a series of hair-raising stunts that included flying upside down in perfect alignment, "barrel rolling" and diving at 200 miles an hour. O'Eierne and Kivette are members of the navy's star flying team, the "Nine High Hats" of the U. S. S. Saratoga, airplane carrier.

GOOD REPORT TO BE READ WHEN W. T. C. C. CONVENES

STAMFORD, Sept. 5.—If that part of West Texas not already visited in the campaign for membership in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce responds in the same cooperative manner as the points visited, when the annual report is submitted to the El Paso convention, it will show the organization completely out of debt and on a firm financial foundation.

This was the statement made Wednesday by members of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Advisory Board in conference with President Manager Bourland and field men indicating success of the campaign. Less than half of West Texas has been visited and more than half of the amount needed has been subscribed. The campaign, although only in operation for three weeks, has met with wholehearted support wherever it has been presented, indicating that West Texans are resolved that the organization which has served the interests of West Texas for the past eleven years must continue with even greater support than ever accorded before.

The Advisory Board met in all day session, considered membership work and outlined plans for the El Paso convention, October 24, 25, and 26. Members of the board present were President Manager Bourland, Vernon; Ray Nichols, Vernon; Judge Joe A. Wheat, Seymour, and Clifford B. Jones, Spur. Judge R. W. Haynie of Abilene was unable to attend.

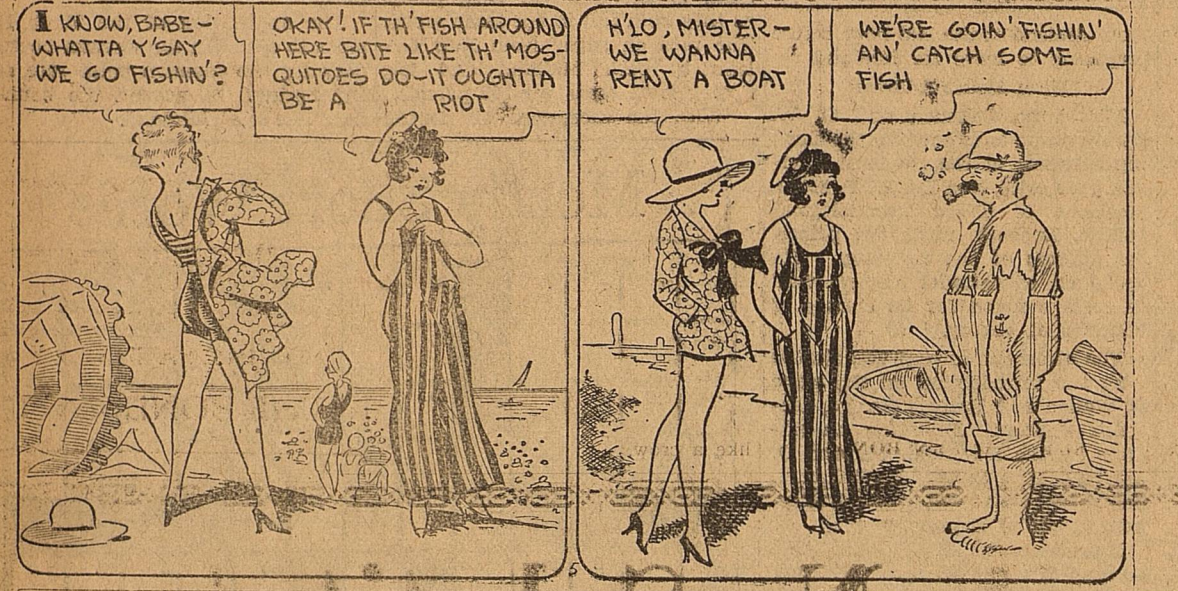

The board also announced a change in plans for this year's convention. More business sessions will be held, but at the same time there will be plenty of entertainment for all who are expected to attend. On Wednesday, October 23, a meeting of the board of directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be held at which time Mr. Bourland will submit his report, not only for his term as president but for his term as President-Manager.

In the afternoon of the same day a meeting of duly appointed delegates will be held to hear the report of the special committee appointed last year at Coleman to suggest changes in the Constitution or program of work. This session will be presided over by Walter Cline, chairman of the committee. Other members of the committee are O. P. Thrane, Snyder and Col. R. E. Penick, Stamford. Delegates expected at this meeting are to be chosen, it was announced, by each affiliated town of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Each place will be allowed one delegate for every ten members in the regional organization.

One of the outstanding entertainment features will be the military parade which will see the greatest mobilization of troops since the world war. Following this parade bands representing various West Texas towns will pass in review. It is expected also that many of the West Texas points will enter floats in this parade. Still another feature will be the presentation of band programs on the plaza where a huge band stand will be erected. Each town desiring to give a program will be allotted a special time for this feature. No definite assurance has been given that president Hoover will attend, but should he do so the program will be arranged for the occasion. Efforts are also being made to have President Gil of Mexico to attend but no assurance has been given that he will be there.
