More Bonus Vets to Be in Midland Early in Afternoon

Meets Favor

B. Frank Haag, above, Midland candidate for state representative from the 88th district, has found support among cattlemen, farmers, oil men and numerous other classes. If elected, he will be the first Midland representative since the time of Judge Byan who was in the house during the administration of James E. Ferguson.

HAAG TIRELESS IN CAMPAIGNING OVER DISTRICT

B. Frank Haag, local attorney of the firm of Haag & Stubbeman, has been working the entire 88th district this week in the interest of his candidacy for state representative.

The Midland man who aspires to succeed Lee Satterwhite as representative of this area, has spent during which time he has practiced law 16 years.

Haag is favorably known over the entire district, which is comprised of 13 counties.

Haag made an address at Balmeria Friday afternoon in behalf of his candidacy. The Midland man recently spoke at a barbecue at Monahan's. He campaigned at Wink Thursday.

Haag is emphasizing the necessity for economy in state government in all of his campaign speeches.

Haag says encouragement he is given throughout the district leads him to believe that a run-off will be unnecessary as his friends tell him he will be elected in the July 23 primary.

CARAVAN NEARING THE CITY

Large Group Went by Early Today on Freight Cars

More than 100 carloads of bonus marchers are expected through Midland late this afternoon, according to information given last night by Sewilla La Marr, negro woman who was reared as a servant girl by "Ma" Ferguson and who now is a successful Arizona publisher.

She drove here with a white mechanic after "giving him big automobile to a veteran's family so all could go. I will take my car in Washington." She was driving a small coupe.

The publisher, representing the Associated Press, spent 11 months overseas as a nurse, and her husband was killed in the front line.

ASKED TO EVACUATE

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Vanishing foodstuffs and diminishing funds to buy new supplies led police last night to appeal again to the veterans army seeking bonus payment to expedite an evacuation of the encampments.

Funds which a week ago totaled $12,000 have dwindled to less than $3,000 and contributions which were once received at the rate of $1,000 a day were less than $150 a day.

Police here today, leaning against buildings and talking with street crowds. No complaints were issued against them and, so far as could be seen, none begged money.

Some of those here said they were "getting pretty well fed up with the whole thing," pointing out that their tents are taking a long time and that "doesn't seem to be any gold at the end of the rainbow, anyway." Large numbers were reported to have quit at El Paso.

GROUP REPORTED AT ODESSA AT 3 O'CLOCK

Information received by the Post-Tribune company said the motor division of the bonus army, that is that group which did not discard cars at El Paso and take to the railroads, should be in Midland about 3:30, that it was reported at Odessa about 2 o'clock.

STRAGGLERS REPORTED EAST OF VAN HORN

DALLAS, June 24. (UP)—The California bonus army today straggled westward from Van Horn, reaching several hundred miles ahead of the last ragged marcher.

Leaders had passed here, others were expected to be no farther than Fort Worth tonight.

A hospital unit, described yesterday by Commander Royal W. Robertson as "chiselers," reached Abilene and turned north toward Wichita Falls instead of following the Texas & Pacific railroad.

Four hundred paraded in Sweetwater this morning, led by a band. A group of 800 had passed Big Spring and Midland and a number of automobiles were reported just east of Van Horn.

Bonus Vet Does Daily Dozin'

Sound asleep on the capitol steps at Washington, J. J. Brenan, a World war veteran from New York, dreamed about a bonus while "Bows," his buddy, dreamed about a bone. The two pals are members of the "bonus army," worn out with "setting up exercises" on the Senate's doorstep.

GOLD FEVER STALKS FORMER RUINS AND OLD NEW MEXICO TOWN RELIVES

Revival of silver and gold mining is revitalizing another of the famous old ghost cities of New Mexico. Kingstom, once a city of 8,000 people, but until recently a city of two inhabitants, is again a mining village of a few intrepid souls.

CANDIDATE HELD AFTER MAN KILLED

Son of Judge Said a Party to Death Of Plunkett

SEYMOUR, June 24. (UP)—Temple Dickson, 23, candidate for county attorney of Baylor county and son of a former district judge, and Jack Norwood were held today after the fatal shooting of C. S. Plunkett, 33, truck line operator.

Plunkett was being called from his office, was struck by three or six shots.

The automobiles of Plunkett and Dickson collided Sunday night, the former forcing Dickson to jail where he was released a few minutes later.

Brevities

A Midland girl, Jess Edith Carlisle made the honor roll at CIA last year with plenty of credit to spare. She took an extra 18 hours of work and made 13 grade points whereas 10 1/2 would have qualified her for honor roll standing. She is a sophomore next term.

W. R. Mann of Midland can tell you what you'd like to know about the hail storm that blasted out much damage at Monahan's early this week. His car not only had the top beat in, but the slats were also broken. Hall fell the size of baseballs, and great slugs were slightly larger than large ones.

Shriner Sari

Sari Maritza, one of the new importations to Hollywood, is shown above in the collegiate sweater she will wear in the movie pageant at the North American Shrine convention at San Francisco July 26-28. She is one of the reasons coast Shriners are expecting a record attendance despite the de-pression.

The well is 1,650 feet from the northeast line and 330 feet from the southeast line of section 16, block 34, H & T Co. survey. It is an east offset to Sturm and Simms' No. 1 Jones, that in turn is offset by three producers.

HIATUS IS DUE TO 2-3 RULING

Richie to Get First Support, Then Newton Baker

CHICAGO, June 24. (UP)—According to apparently reliable information, Tammany had decided today to throw over Roosevelt, the last Rooseveltian hope of securing New York's 35 votes having appeared to glimmer when John F. Curry, Tammany leader, announced that he would fight abolition of the two-thirds rule to the "last political ditch."

Curry associates indicated that Newton D. Baker first giving Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland support for a while. This was the big positive development at the convention today as candidates marshaled their forces.

WALL STREET UNMASKED

It is too bad that the recent rush of political news has kept the Senate committee's stock market investigation from getting much attention.

The ordinary mortal, to whom the whole field of stock market speculation is pretty much a foreign country, may not be able to follow the ins and outs of things very closely.

Perhaps that isn't news. A gambler is a gambler, whether he sits in on Wall Street or on a four-bit poker game in a smoky hotel room.

Is it the peculiar virtue of this Senate investigation that not only those men, but the practices in which they engaged, are being revealed to the country now in the proper light.

We are discovering—what we should have known all along—that the whole Wall Street process is simply an exceedingly complicated and slightly unreliable machine.

It is becoming more obvious every day that a lot of our troubles now stem directly from the orgy of stock speculation of recent years.

A GOAT IS STILL A GOAT

About all that anyone can say concerning the recent test by which German and British scientists tried to turn a goat into a man by the use of medieval magical formulas is: "Well—so what?"

The test, as you doubtless read, took place on the famous Brocken Peak, in Germany's mystic Hartz mountains.

The idea of the experiment was to combat superstition. The negative result obtained ought to be helpful, surely; for the rest, it made a good show, and if it lacked the spectacular climax it should have had that can hardly be helped.

THE CALL OF THE WILD

The call of the wild is supposed to be an everpotent thing as far as forest animals are concerned; but apparently wild creatures can become so fond of captivity that they don't like freedom when they get it.

New York's state conservation department a year ago brought a herd of elk to a corral in the De Bar mountain game refuge, planning to feed and develop the herd, turn it loose and thus restore the wild herds that once roamed over the state.

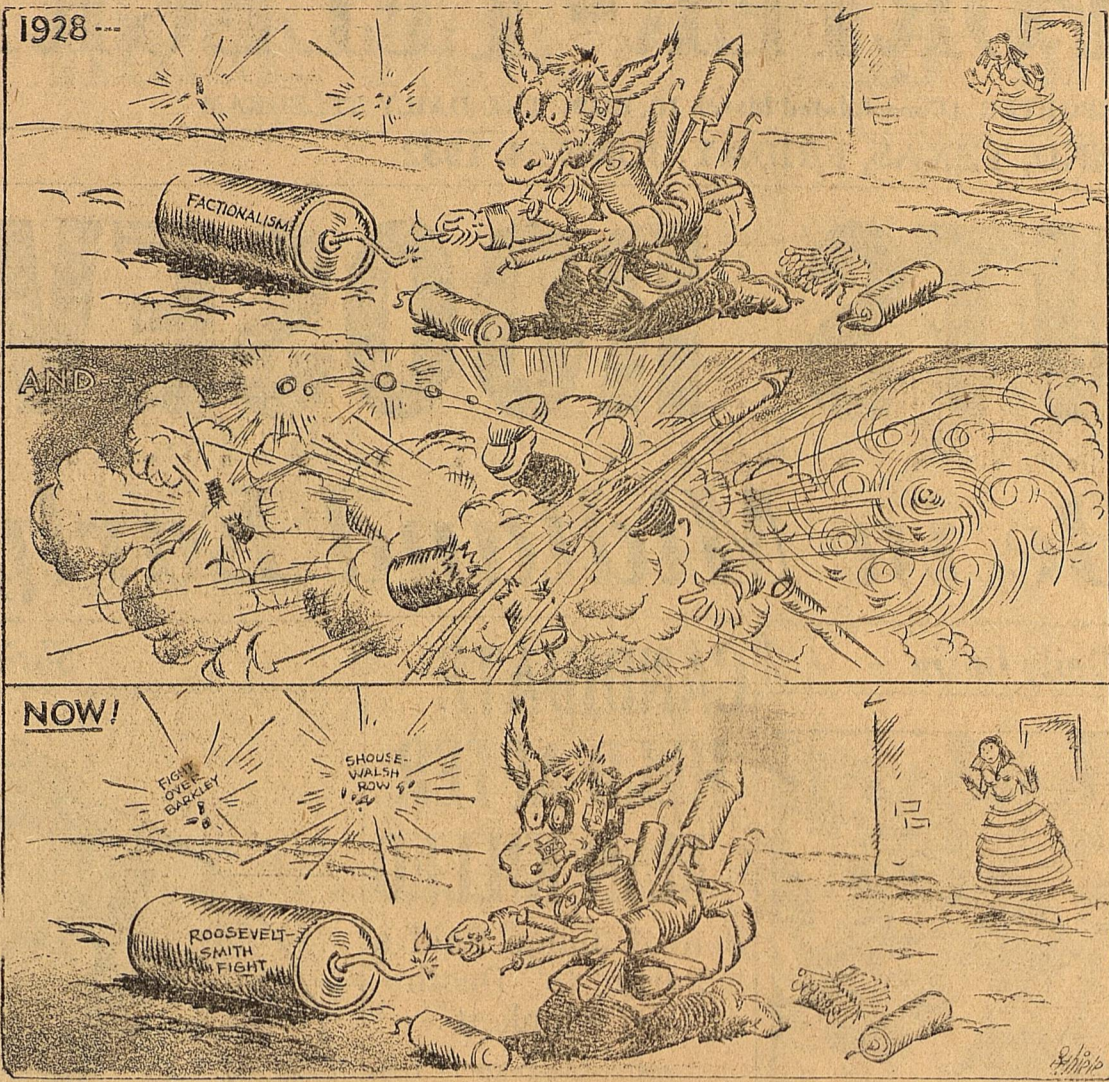

The other day the animals, having waxed robust in the corral, were given their freedom. A few wandered off into the woods—but most of them, after sauntering about aimlessly for an hour or so, came back to the corral!

The Town Quack

(Reserve the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.) Who does he think ought to guarantee a marriage?

Shorty Holster is taking part of his vacation now, doing work up around the house, looking after his poultry etc. I believe I will take my time off between the first and tenth of the month so I can accomplish more.

I heard a cowman say that he wouldn't mind doctoring worms all summer if the showers would keep coming.

My nominee for judge of the beauties at the Yucca tonight would not be Hankins. He officiated at a bathing beauty revue in Odessa a year or two ago and didn't abide by the customary methods of checking and measuring.

I heard the boys talking yesterday about some early day scandal on Judge Klapproth and Roy Hollaway and, since Judge isn't bothering about elections just now, I might repeat the report that they hired a lively stable buggy and horse to go swimming at Lee Heard's tank and, on the return trip, let the horse run away, tear up the buggy and kill himself.

Prices are being cut all over the nation. In Cleveland, Ohio, they have even cut the parking fines to 50 cents.

This new cut in water rates was fine, but it would come just when we had a rain and I didn't need to water the lawn.

But customers are still hard to satisfy. A fellow in another town bought a marriage license, failed to exercise it within the next month or two and then went to the clerk's office and asked for his money back.

PECCOS.—Although it is not generally known, once before a 2-cent revenue stamp was required to be posted on all checks cashed in the United States.

TO SHOW FILM LUBBOCK.—An eight-reel slow-motion picture of the famous Notre Dame-Southern California football game will be shown at the Texas Tech coaching school by Heartly "Hunk" Anderson.

One hundred and fifty-three coaches from 25 states have already signed up for the school and with five to six registrations coming in daily now, the enrollment is expected to break the record of 326 set up last year.

Among the companies that have signed up are the following: Stinson Aircraft Corp., Wayne, Mich.; a new model R with Lycoming motor, a monoplane; Stinson Aircraft Co., Wichita, Kan., three types of biplanes; Aeronautical Corp., of America, Cincinnati, Ohio, Aerona, two types of monoplanes; American Eagle-Lincoln Aircraft Corp., Kansas City, Kan., monoplane and biplane; Micholas Beasley Airplane Co., Marshall, Mo., low and high-wing monoplanes; Davis Aircraft Corp., Richmond, Ind., monoplane, Inland Aviation Co., Kansas City, Kan., Inland Sport, a biplane; Waco Aircraft Co., Troy, Ohio, Waco planes; Bird Aircraft Corp., Bird Biplane, Wiley Post of Oklahoma City will be here in charge of the plane; and Alexander Aircraft Co., Colorado Springs, Colo., Eaglerock.

Prices of the planes already slated to be here for the show range from $1,475 to $4,595, and more expensive planes are expected.

Flights in formation, special stunts and other events will be offered the crowds that come in for the free show and several thousand people are expected here.

ETHEL Portrays Those Backward Beach Beauties

meny, the American Child Health News says: "Since a mother with several children has not time, energy, and money to cook separate foods for the children and the grown members of the family, she plans her meals to meet the needs of both. As soon as the baby has passed the sieved food stage and becomes adjusted to the coarser and more solid diet, his food habits so nearly resemble those of an adult that his food, with a few modifications, may be served from the same menu. Fried, rich and highly seasoned foods, however, as well as rich, pastries and heavy desserts are among the items omitted from the toddler's diet, and an egg is a frequent substitute for meat during his earliest years. The little tot is given smaller portions of cereals, soups, vegetables, fruits, and simple desserts which his older brothers and sisters eat, for in serving him his mother remembers that a plate piled high with food presents a discouraging task to him. She aids him, too, in handling foods like potatoes and baked apples by removing the skins for him. To the six or seven year old child the mother gives a medium-sized portion, while to the fast growing boy or girl over ten or in the 'teens, she offers a well-filled plate with a sympathetic understanding of the fact so often stated by physicians, that the demands which rapid growth make upon the body during these years, require more food than the average adult could eat and as-

GETS DOG ALLY

COLORADO—Marion Chapman, district manager for the Community Natural Gas company has found another staunch friend.

The other day Chapman and J. Ralph Lee became involved in a friendly tussle while visiting in the Roy Dozier barber shop. Lee being the larger was getting the better end of the meleé until the bull dog of H. B. Broadbuss took a hand in the affair.

"Pup," as the dog is known about the streets had followed Broadbuss in the shop just before the two men elected to determine who was the best man. He was resting supinely on the floor when the row started.

Just about the time Lee had torn simulate." (Article II will discuss the contents of the single menu for all).

the last shreds of Chapman's shirt from his back Pup let out a jungle howl, made a long swing through the air and emmeshed his teeth in the seat of Lee's pants. It required both persuasion and force on the part of the dog's owner and others to get him loosened from his hold. Lee afterward admitted that the dog's teeth did not stop with merely penetrating his clothing. He was feeling all right later, however, after a considerable portion of arnica had been applied to the wound made by Pup's teeth.

ESTES' PAIR OF HOME RUNS PULLS GAME OUT FOR TESCO CLUB

DOC ELLIS CREW LEADS ALL WAY TO LAST FRAME; BROTHER ACT CLICKS A BATTING REFRAIN; NEWSIES TAKE GO

There are a lot of things in the playground ball league that offer speculation. Some of these are worthwhile, while others may be so unimportant as to pertain to which player makes the greatest number of boners per week.

But whatever idea anyone may have entertained as to the merits of hitters, it was clearly demonstrated by Eb Estes, third baseman for the Texas Electric, that he is the most dangerous hitter in the night league.

This young man came to the bat two successive times, the score hanging in the balance for Petroleum Drug, a club that was wallowing the far out of the meter readers, and hit long home runs over a line of parked automobiles. His second one came with Drummond on, and the Electricians won 11-10.

As to speculation on Bill Shakespear's query about what's in a name, Eb's brother Archie came up shortly after Eb's cleaning blow, two men on bases, and drove in the winning runs.

Doc Ellis and his hard hitting Druggists provided plenty of trouble for the Electricians and, had it not been for the hitting of the Estes brothers, would have copied nicely. His crew led all the way until the last of the seventh. The hits and errors in the game were evenly divided.

The Reporter-Telegram grabbed a firm hold on second place by winning from Bell Telephone 8-2. Hitting of Gemmill and Harrison drove in the winning runs at a time when it appeared the Phenomenon could not be dislodged from their run lead. For five innings the game stood 2-1 for the Phenomenon, with one lone error being chalked up.

Smith, basketball sensation, was on the mound for the Bell and showed much stuff until a period of wildness which eventually cost him the game.

AND STILL THEY ROW OVER PRIZE FIGHT DECISION

By JOE WILLIAMS
New York World-Telegram Sports Editor

It is all over but the shouting—and there is no telling when that will be over, I mean the good people are still jabbering about that decision which took the heavyweight championship of the world, such as it is, away from Max Schmeling of Germany.

For every person you find who thinks it was Keochobee you will find twenty who are sure it was the goronzola. Most of the neutrals are disposed to view the result as another lucky break for two young men who happen to weigh over 180 pounds and have a fair amount of boxing savvy. Eventually they will come together again for another big gate in what will probably be picturequely called the battle of the adled officials. If not here, then somewhere else.

There is talk of an investigation. Maybe there will be one and maybe there won't. The only sort of investigation that would carry any weight is a state one, originating in Albany. An investigation by the boxing commission of its own activities would be hilarious. It would

LOCATION MADE IN LEA, N. M.

A location has been staked in the Lea or Eunice pool in Lea county, New Mexico by Tidal Oil company, and others for No. 1 State, near the center of the northeast quarter of section 8-213-36Ea, north extension, and T-P No. 3-G State, that broadened the north central part of the field a quarter mile to the west. The pool is said to contain 133 units and daily allowable production of 29,430 barrels, the amount nominated by pipe lines, for the last half of June.

he like Gaston Means cross-examine himself.

And suppose Albany did instigate an investigation, what then? One of two things could happen—the abolition of boxing, or the naming of a new commission.

Certainly the charge of Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, that his fighter was robbed out of the championship by two officials appointed for that purpose should be thoroughly aired. Either Jacobs is emitting the raucous bleat of the loser or he knows something. He is a notorious charge against the integrity of the commission and the statement by William Muldoon that the commission will do nothing about it is not easy to understand.

As long as the charge remains uninvestigated the suspicion will reveal that the works were in a state of confusion. Muldoon says the decision was all right and the public is expected to take it or leave it in the order named. When Muldoon says a thing is all right it is nothing short of a lese majesty to life a questioning eyebrow.

In case you hadn't heard, Muldoon is the sport of boxing itself. For the past two years Schmeling has been the champion of the world to everybody but Muldoon, who did not happen to like the way he went down after Sharkey fouled him. Schmeling's name has yet to be engraved on that ostentatious piece of sculpture known as the Tunesy-Muldoon trophy, which records the sequence of heavyweight champions.

It is interesting to note that Muldoon will add Sharkey's name to the list of champions.

It is of no concern to me whether Schmeling's name ever goes on the trophy and I suspect it is of even less concern to the fighter. But in the interest of square dealing and commensurate reward may I suggest the abolition of boxing, or the naming of the two officials who gave the fight to Sharkey on the trophy? Particularly since the popular impression seems to be that they won the championship for him.

erterson's command, we wish him and his group the best of luck. The hospital unit to which I am attached is traveling to Washington on credentials furnished us by William Waters, commander in chief of the bonus army, and these we are ready to show to anyone interested. We have telegrams from the command-in-chief urging us to hasten to Washington with all speed to assist in heading off disease in the Anacostia encampment.

We are not only not chiselers, but we are not objects of charity. Here"—exhibiting a receipt for gasoline purchased yesterday at Big Spring—"is proof that we are paying our way. The $30 has been donated en route to our contingent since it left California. We have had some food given us, and at Big Spring and Abilene, the proprietors of tourist camps generously tendered free lodging; but we are self-supporting and will continue that way.

"I cannot believe Robertson was correctly quoted at El Paso."

"The California hospital unit traveling by automobile, includes two doctors, ten nurses, medical orders, a cook and helper. Mrs. R. E. Menary, wife of one of the doctors, is secretary of the group, and Mrs. E. Fraut is treasurer. Dr. Menary and his colleague, Dr. C. A. Bolton, are ex-service men. Of the ten nurses, four are registered: Mrs. Ruth Samuelson, Mrs. Myrtle Crawford, Mrs. Nan McGeebe, and Miss Mary McClary. Mrs. Fontaine, stenographer for the contingent, is the wife of one of the men of the party.

"We left California two weeks ago and started traveling by easy stages, mostly at night," Burke said.

"But when the commander-in-chief wired us from the Washington encampment that our services were badly needed, we began to travel faster, and from Abilene are taking a short cut northward, by way of Wichita Falls, Tex. A Bolton, upon the public that this hospital unit is composed of a group of splendid men and women, skilled in their professions.

"Why continue the Washington journey, since bonus legislation is doomed at this session of congress?" Burke gave this answer:

"The ex-service men have received one-half of their certificates. The balance, due in 1945, is costing them four and one-half per cent interest. If they don't try to get it now, the penalty will wipe out the balance of the principal before it is due."

EL PASO RAILROAD THREAT PASSED

EL PASO, June 24.—More than 800 members of the California bonus army took possession of a Texas & Pacific freight train at 2 p. m. Thursday as it was about to leave for Fort Worth and Dallas. They expected to reach Fort Worth today.

No effort was made to stop them from boarding the train.

About 700 men, women and children left before noon in 120 automobiles and trucks.

Commander Royal W. Robertson lined his men up in companies on Bassett and marched them to the T. & P. yards when he received information that railroad officials would try to "sneak" the train out before noon.

G. S. Collins, special railroad agent, warned the army not to leave El Paso on Texas & Pacific trains. "We are going on to Fort Worth and Dallas, and we are going on T. & P. trains," Robertson replied.

With a band playing and colors flying, the veterans marched into the yards in orderly fashion. Collins stood at the entrance of the yards and watched the long column march past him.

When the train crew started to make up the train, Robertson obligingly ordered his men to move to one side of the yard.

Someone telephoned the police and asked that police armed with sawed-off shotguns be sent to the yards.

Police Capt. Joe Stowe said he

BONUS ARMY ROARS AT ARREST THREAT

Royal W. Robertson, commander of the California bonus army, received a report that railroad officials planned to arrest him in an effort to keep veterans from riding a Texas & Pacific freight train out of El Paso.

"They'll have to take us all if they arrest me," he said, looking at his army.

"It isn't that right, boys?" he asked.

The roar of assault sounded as the routing section at a college football game.

wouldn't endanger the lives of his men.

"Let them leave," he said. "We don't want to stop them. We want them out of town."

Robertson said he telegraphed communities between El Paso and Dallas, warning them against a self-styled hospital unit which is not connected with the regular bonus army.

"They have been going ahead of us, collecting donations of money and supplies," he said.

"They are nothing but chiselers."

R. S. Guthrie, head of the bonus army hospital unit, is not the man who took donations from hospital patients, Robertson said.

"Whoever did that is a chiseler and not a part of this army," Robertson said.

Guthrie is leaving El Paso with us today. He has been with us since we left California."

Guthrie presented himself at the hospital. Patients said he was not the man who took donations from Allen's car turned over and was wrecked. No one was injured.

WOMEN SHARE TOUGH MARCH WITH MEN

EL PASO, June 24.—Three women waited in the Texas & Pacific freight yards yesterday for a train to take them to their bivouac in the California bonus army to Fort Worth.

Mabel Rodgers carried a large American flag and a report that they were fighting for this country's rights," she said.

"I haven't any bonus coming but I can help keep the men cheered up."

Mrs. C. H. Anderson took a heavy pack from her slim shoulders and sat on it. She wiped her husband's face as he lay, tired on his pack. He was exhausted from the hot march to the yards. Gas during the World War weakened his lungs.

"I don't mind it much," she said. "We are fighting for what we think is ours. The boys went willingly when their country called them. Why shouldn't they be remembered in time of need?"

"It isn't any worse than it was when we were in France," Anderson said.

"I would use a tax on liquor for a nation-wide advertising campaign for the promotion of temperance, not prohibition," he declared.

Tuesday night Warner spoke at an assembly in El Paso to a large crowd, including several hundred bonus marchers. He flew from Los Angeles. He is well known here.

How good an actor is Edmund Lowe? One of the very best in the picture business, declares Irving Cummings, who has directed Lowe in four pictures, including "Attorney for the Defense," gripping law picture, which will be the screen feature at the Grand theatre on Sunday and Monday. Other pictures in which the director-actor combination of Cummings and Lowe functioned effectively were "Dressed to Kill," "In Old Arizona" and "The Cisco Kid."

"Attorney for the Defense" is the picturization of a life of a criminal lawyer, played by Lowe, who, beginning his career as a district attorney, who sends many men to the electric chair, becomes an even more famous defense attorney. By a combination of circumstances, "Lowe is accused of the murder of a fascinating adventuress. He conducts his own defense in brilliant fashion and as a climax, when seemingly doomed by circumstantial evidence, solves the murder right in the courtroom and convicts the actual killer.

Peggy Said to Outshine Clara

Peggy Shannon was ushered into her first screen role on a wave of comparisons that nearly wrecked her chances. The role was the leading feminine part in "The Secret Call" and the comparisons were with Clara Bow.

The reactionary wave from Clara's devoted fans took no time to come. They protested against anyone presuming to fill the shoes of their favorite. And Peggy heartily agreed. About the only resemblance she has to the famous "It" girl is her red hair and the disposition that is usually associated with titian tresses.

But that was several pictures ago. Peggy succeeded in convincing producers that she had a personality of her own, and was given a chance to prove it. In "Society Girl," her first Fox picture under her new contract, with that studio, the attraction at the Yucca today, she enacts the title role opposite James Dunn and is said to bring to her part all the verve and finish that were kept subdued in the earlier films in which she was "supposed" to replace Clara Bow.

As for James Dunn, playing opposite her, the proudest moment of his life was when John Barrymore introduced himself at a Hollywood golf course, telling Dunn his performance in "Bad Girl" was the finest he had ever seen. It was not until his recent personal appearance tour of the eastern states that he realized the full extent of his popularity, gained from such pictures as "Bad Girl," "Sob Sister," "Over The Hill," "Dance Team" and now "Society Girl."
