SURPRISE TAKE-OFF FOR LONDON

Midland to Have Exhibit at El Paso W. T. C. C. Meeting

PUBLICITY STUNT TO BE GIVEN

Chamber Of Commerce In Charge Of Exhibit

An exhibit exploiting Midland as an oil, cattle and farming town will be erected in El Paso Wednesday by Paul T. Vickers, secretary of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

The Midland exhibit, in line with former parade stunts arranged by Midland, will pay no heed to art nor beauty but will be strictly for advertising purposes.

Vickers has completed a program for the secretarial group meeting, and the Midland man will be chairman of the meeting.

The Midland secretary returned Sunday night from Dallas where he attended a meeting of the Texas Commercial Executives Association, of which he is a director and is secretary.

El Paso has completed cleaning house in preparation for the eleventh annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce opening Thursday.

El Paso will have made particular plans to entertain visiting ladies including a grand entertainment and reception at Liberty Hall Thursday night.

Father and Son Banquet Set Precedent for Event

With 248 fathers and sons in attendance, Midland's first father and son banquet was held Monday night, and by common consent it will be henceforth an annual event.

The banquet, held at the Crystal Ball room of Hotel Scharbauer, was presided over by John Bonner who proved himself to be an excellent toastmaster and an enthusiastic for the father and son movement.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. George F. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

"America" was sung by the entire crowd of men and boys, with Percy Mims as leader.

The banquet was then given attention, the 248 plates of breaded veal cutlets with supreme sauce, combination salad and French dressing, succotash and brown potatoes, cobbler and drinks vanishing with rapidity.

The Rev. Stanley Haver, pastor of the First Methodist Church and scout master of troop No. 51, gave an inspirational address on "The Worth of a Boy."

The boy needs a friend, a real friend, he said. A man can't be a boy-flusher and be a friend to a boy, because the boy will find it out.

Lives of great men who have given their lives for the uplift of boys were described.

"Put the highest value possible on a boy and he will come nearer living up to it than any other investment," the speaker said.

B. C. Driver Jr., three-year declarator winner in the Midland public schools, gave a declamation "On the Rahapannock."

LITTLE THEATER PRODUCTION TO COMPETE WITH SUCCESS OF "THE BRAT"

When the Little Theater season is opened Friday evening at the Grand theater with the riotous farce, "The Whole Town's Talking," the following cast will be seen:

Odessa To Hold A Home Eco Meet

Home economics teachers of 23 towns will be entertained in Odessa Friday and Saturday, the 25th and 26th of this month, at the annual district conference of home economics teachers.

He stated that the records showed that a boy who had been a first class scout had never been convicted of a felony, and that more than 50 per cent of the boys in college either are or have been scouts.

He said that reasons for boys liking scout work were the spirit of adventure and outdoor life, the program of "getting somewhere," from the tenderfoot class to the Eagle scout; the recognition for things done, providing chances for leadership; and the taking care of boy's "gang instinct."

From an adult standpoint, the daily good turn, and the ultimate aim to build character in a boy are appealing.

Men are needed for leaders in scouting in Midland, as everywhere else, Williamson stated.

Miss Stella Mae Lanham, popular Midland reader, gave two readings, "Remember, Boys Make Men," and "Who Is You?" She received much applause.

Delivered Charters Troop charters were delivered to the three boy scout troops already organized here, No. 51 to Scout Master Murphy, being sponsored by the Methodist, Christian and Presbyterian churches respectively.

Recognition was given the new troop under the Baptist church, with Claude Crane as Scout Master.

Songs were sung by the entire crowd, directed by O. C. Williamson. Miss Lena Solomon played the piano accompaniment.

Barney Grafs Jr., then sang "Little Pal," and was encored repeatedly.

Uimer Is Speaker M. C. Uimer was introduced as the principal speaker of the evening, using as his subject, "The Boy's Ambition."

Cat Singer For Little Theater

Here's a chance for the Midland boy to become known as an indispensable contributor to the Little Theater.

A stray cat is needed, and the more haggard the feline the better.

For the benefit of Midland urchins, the Little Theater wants to use the animal in a particular bit of back-fence psalmody.

Bring your cats to the Little Theater "home," on the ground floor of the Masonic hall, or call Mrs. George Abell, director of the organization, at Telephone 625.

PRISON BREAK AT STATE FARM NETS 3 LOST CONVICTS

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 22.—(P)—Overpowering a guard while cutting logs on the Eastham state prison farm northwest of here, Fred Fuller, serving two years for forgery from Montgomery County, Francis North, sentenced to five years for burglary from Llano county, and Tom Nash, assessed five years for burglary from Wichita County, escaped today.

Two other convicts were back in the penitentiary today after a bold but brief break for liberty yesterday.

H. H. Jansen and Jim Young, who were working at a print shop outside the prison walls, snuggled and dangerously wounded a guard and escaped, but were recaptured later. The prisoners were setting type on the Huntsville Item, and the guard was John Burnett.

Man Defender Of Little Theater

"Even the stars of the motion picture colony like the Little Theater," said a prominent business man to another at lunch, holding up the green square he wore on his lapel to show that he "belongs."

The other had just asked him why he wore the tag. "Looks like you had forgotten the date of a football game when you dressed this morning," the man had said.

"No—not that," the first business man remarked. "I go to the ball games, and I mean to support the Little Theater. They both accomplish the same purpose—appeal to the play impulse of the human. The play life of the individual is necessary to his life as work. Why look at Ramon Novarro, eminent motion picture star, and what he thinks of the Little Theater."

"Novarro brings to the Little Theater in his home children and young people who never have been on the stage, who have no particular talent for singing or acting or dancing. He trains, instructs and rehearses them and when the show is ready he invites his and his actors' to witness the results."

"The Novarro Theater Intimate is very small. It seats only 60 persons, but it is complete from footlights to programs. When Ramon decides to stage a revue or a concert or a series of sketches, the latter chiefly satirical, he calls in some of his relatives and friends from the Mexican colony and elsewhere and recharges no admission to his shows, hearses every night and every Sunday for several weeks."

"Raymon foots all the bills and which makes his hobby a rather expensive one."

DISCUSS SHUT DOWN Hobbs Operations

Reports from Roswell indicate that a meeting was to have been held there today by oil operators of the Hobbs, Lea County, area, to discuss possible curtailment of shutting down of drilling in the Hobbs field.

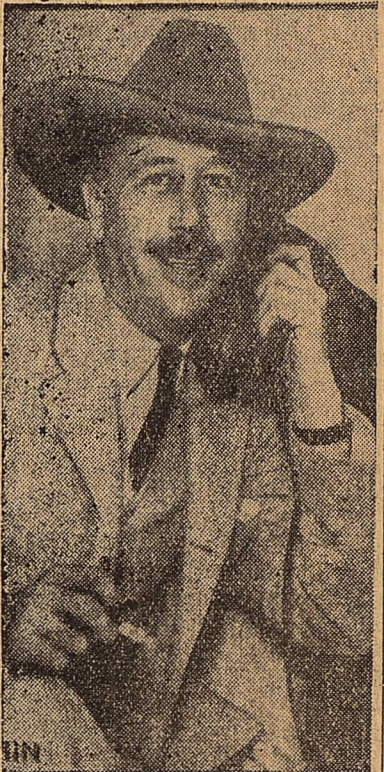

From all reports, no oil men from Midland attended the conference.

Land Commissioner Crile, for the state of New Mexico, was invited to attend the meeting.

The youth told the officers, it is said, that he took the money in September after he was threatened by a gang of men with whom he had gambled.

Midland Men To C. C. Meet In El Paso

Those who have applied for tickets to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention events are: John W. Fowler, 2, H. A. Jesse, W. F. Scarbrough, John Howe and "Dusty" Waller. These men will get their $7 worth of entertainment features for $2.50. They are asked to call for their credentials at the Midland Chamber of Commerce, and they will officially represent Midland in all of the voting.

Some ticket purchasers from Midland canceled their orders yesterday, which leaves other tickets available. Those who want a ticket may get it from the Chamber of Commerce here, or see the Midland secretary in El Paso. The $2.50 pays for $7 worth of entertainment, which includes a bull fight in Juarez, a championship wrestling bout at Fort Bliss, a night football game between College of Mines and Wayland College, all privileges of the El Paso Country Club, privilege of attending and voting in all meetings of delegates.

H. S. PEP RALLY

The first "honest to goodness" pep rally held at the high school this year will result when, Thursday night, students, ex-students, fans, instructors and football men get together on the high school campus for a bonfire and burning in effigy of the Wink high school.

Midland will gather supporters for a mad, wild dance, as if to dispel with cabalistic signs and jungle noises, the jinx which has tormented the football club this year. Midland has not won a single game—and has scored only twice, one of these scores the result of an intercepted pass.

MONTANA AVIATOR EN ROUTE

Some Fear Felt For Little Gasoline Supply

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Without a word of warning as to his intentions, Aviator W. F. Diteman of Millings, Mont., hopped off here today for London, England.

Through mysterious reasons, his mission did not become known until his departure, when letters to airport officials were opened. His route is unknown.

Apprehension Felt

Diteman came here three weeks ago, ostensibly to look up family records of Sir Francis Drake. That he intended the surprise, take-off was not evinced by any noticeable preparation for a sea dash.

The take-off was at 12:15 local time, with good weather prevailing. Some apprehension is prevalent, following information that the airman carried only 165 gallons of gasoline when he took off. It is not clear to aviation officials that the airman's machine can cruise the distance from Newfoundland to London on that amount of fuel.

The beautiful new church being erected by the Methodists of Stanton will soon be a reality. Most of the brick work is complete and work is being rushed so the church will be complete before the bad winter weather interferes.

FAVORING ONLY A FEW

The Reporter-Telegram stands for law enforcement, yet if there is a law which the paper regards as in any way unjust, it favors repeal of the law.

The new clauses in the hunting laws, in the opinion of the editor, favor only a few and deny the masses the privileges and pleasures of open hunting.

If a hunter must pay an exorbitant price for a lease on a pasture, in order to enjoy a few hours a year hunting birds, he must be either rich, a land owner, or in some way related to the owner of land on which there is game.

If the law compels a permit before one can hunt on a closed pasture, few people are going to get permits. Even though a written permit is not required, few hunters will want to run the risk of having to prove in court that they had oral permits.

It would be better for the average citizen to pass a law stopping hunting altogether for a few years than to have a law which favors the rich and denies privileges to the average. Any law which tends to favor any class is against the principles of the democracy of the nation.

GOOD WORK, HOOVER

President Hoover, according to an Associated Press dispatch yesterday, answered a political letter in a business like manner.

In a reply to a protest from Florida over the appointment of a federal attorney, he announced that it is the duty of the chief executive to make selections on the basis of public service and not for political reasons.

The letter was in reply to a communication from the secretary of the Republican party in Florida, and in it the president said "the success of the Republican party rests upon good government and not on patronage."

President Hoover's statement is just as good for Democrats as it is for Republicans. It is just as good for state, county or city governments as it is for federal. Political patronage, when used as the basis for appointment to offices, is a menace to the government.

PARITY ISN'T COMPLETE

Milton Bronner, London correspondent for this newspaper, points out that there are two elements in the Anglo-American naval situation that are not generally understood, although naval men recognize them as of great importance.

These elements are merchant steamships and airplanes.

England has a tremendous preponderance of steamers, many of which, in time of war, could be quickly transformed into very efficient commerce raiders. The United States, on the other hand, is vastly superior in naval airplanes—which might easily give her battle fleet an overwhelming advantage.

Thus, in two important items, the two nations are far from parity. No agreement between the two governments will be worth very much if it does not take these two points into consideration.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—So many lessons are to be drawn from the expose in which Mr. William Baldwin Shearer has been the central figure that one may as well start enumerating them and stop only when the space gives out.

One of the first concerns patriotic propaganda. It has been sadly but effectively demonstrated that those who beat the drum loudest and most incessantly for military and naval preparedness may not be the most patriotic patriots. Sometimes they are just working for shipbuilding or munitions companies.

The super-patriots who are forever warning us of British, French, Bolsheviki, Szechoslovakian or Senegambish plots to encompass our national destruction may in the future find themselves viewed with more suspicion. Mr. Shearer was forever spreading such stories and still is.

They Have Varied Ideas
Sometimes such trouble-makers are only trying to collect money or foreign documents. Sometimes they are looking for or keeping jobs in the payroll of gullible patriotic societies or shipbuilders. Sometimes they are only persons with nationalistic phobias who may or may not hate the idea of world peace.

Another series of lessons concerns either the ethics or the soundness of big business men. For purposes of this learned dispatch, one need not necessarily disbelieve most of the stories told by the wealthy shipbuilders who hired Mr. Shearer, although there is a widespread tendency to do so. To take the more kindly view and to believe their own admissions, they were just suckers. They were "jazzed off their feet" by the loud, aggressive Mr. Shearer.

Now, when a bunch of hard-headed shipbuilders can be persuaded by a man of Shearer's background to pay $25,000 so that he can take a joy ride to Geneva and perpetrate his pernicious whims, the hard-headedness and percipience of such gents certainly comes into question. Gold-brick salesmen, blue sky operators and other confidence men will surely be camping on their doorsteps. The only view which doesn't reflect on their intelligence simply demolishes their reputation for veracity, for they insist that they didn't hire Shearer to force an outcome at the Geneva conference which would give them more cruisers to build and that what he did for them was worthless.

Having learned that much about some of our big business men, we may be about to be given another lesson concerning their memories—especially the memory of the pious and tearful Mr. Charles M. Schwab, whom Shearer calls "the Star of Bethlehem." Either Mr. Schwab is a man of vision, self-sacrificing genius and self-confessed idealist, has no memory whatever of Mr. Shearer, or is a damned liar. These are the only possibilities.

For after Mr. Schwab had denied that he ever saw Shearer Mr. Shearer testified that his employment by the Bethlehem and other companies grew out of his conversation with none other than Mr. Schwab. Thus the next lesson to be learned will concern this issue of veracity or memory and the question is being asked what reason Shearer could possibly have had to concoct such a story.

Other lessons which have been taught if not yet fully learned concern the conduct of high naval officers at naval arms conferences. There's another issue of veracity, for Mr. Drew Pearson, the newspaper correspondent, says members of our naval delegation at Geneva were trying to quash the conference and the naval officers themselves deny it.

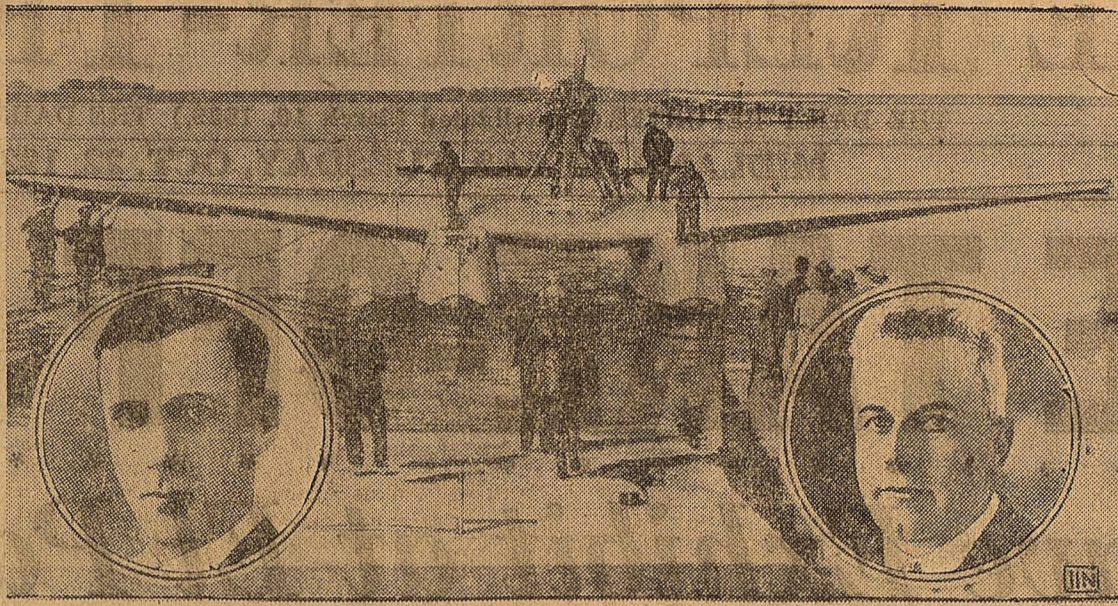

The Power of a Forgery
But the gullibility of our politicians in public office when confronted by forged documents appears to have been re-demonstrated. Shearer was toting around a document purporting to be the outline of a British plot against us and after he showed it to former Senator James A. Reed the fiery Jim unburdened himself of one of the hottest big navy, anti-British speeches heard for many years.

Even an expert from the Navy Intelligence Department, where greater faith is placed in forged documents than anywhere else except the State Department and Army Intelligence Division, has now denied the document's authenticity. Goodness only knows how many members of Congress and the cabinet shivered all night between the sheets at the time Shearer was showing the thing around Washington.

MIDKIFF SHIPS TWO CARS LAMBS TO COLORADO SHEEP FIRM MONDAY

Two cars of spring lambs were shipped from the Midland stock pens Monday afternoon, having been sold and delivered by T. O. Mickiff and sons to Brett Gray, of the Gray Sheep Company, Denver.

Mr. Gray, accompanied by Mrs. Gray, spent several days in Midland last week. He has a ranch near Limon, Colorado, 85 miles east of Colorado Springs. Last spring he bought strings of yearling steers from Bill Bryant, B. N. Aycock and Foy Proctor.

The sheep were loaded 165 to the car, and the 330 head were pronounced as good as have ever been shipped out of Midland. About 75 head of lambs were kept at the ranch. Midkiff and sons have 600 head of fine ewes, in a five-section pasture fenced wolf-proof. They run 100 head of cows in the same pasture. The ewes sheared about $3 worth of wool per head last summer, and their lambs brought $7 per head, so that every ewe that had a lamb lacked only 50c of bringing back her purchase price the first year.

'It's A Lie,' Moody Reported To Have Said When Accused Of Swearing

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Gov. Moody, although a young man and only a few years out of college, has an abhorrence for "jelly-bean" customs, especially as they refer to manner of dress. There isn't anything collegiate about him. He expressed his dislike for rolled socks the other day while visiting informally in the capitol press room.

He offered to buy a pair of hose supporters for one of the veteran members of the newspaper correspondents' gang when he suddenly discovered that the "old war horse" who had witnessed many governors come and go was wearing "em rolled.

Fact is, there isn't anything "sissy-fied" about him. He is what one would call a "he-man." True, he does NOT drink; but he hunts and fishes and smokes. In a pinch he will swear mildly. He does NOT care for the city "slicker's" games such as golf and bridge, but plays dominos at every opportunity.

They tell the story on him about his swearing proclivities.

During a real warm recent political campaign one of his antagonists decided to take a "whack" at him through the columns of his (his antagonist's) periodical. He wrote that the Governor was addicted to profanity. A newspaper correspondent took the paper to show the Governor.

"It is a—lie," the Governor said, after he read it, so they tell on him.

The governor is a terribly human fellow with a warm personality.

He likes to wear dark clothes and gray clothes, but always conservatively tailored. Invariably he wears a black tie, either bow or flowing.

His favorite hat is of medium size white, crown crushed rather carelessly. He is wearing one right now that was specially made for him by the manufacturers. It has his name woven into the underband.

It was because of one of his "humanity" traits that got him the hat.

The Peacock

By Maud Thomas

SURE of herself and the knowledge of her loveliness, she flaunts her beauty in the face of those less fortunate, less gifted. Cold, indifferent and arrogant, her beauty is nothing but a farce. Screaming defiance to those who would help her see the error of her ways, she pursues her regally lonely road and wonders why love doesn't come her way? How can she attract love? True, she has beauty that surpasses hundreds of others, but it is not the beauty of soul, the kindly spirit of faith and trust and tolerance which love demands. There's no selfishness in Love; therefore, he, too, shuns her. But some day, she'll be tamed, and the peacock will become as the wren, not outwardly, but in her heart. And then she'll know that all the beauty in the world will never attract love, unless it has soul and humanity.

Screenalities: June Collyer speaks to hit the trail to New York next week. June has been waiting to hear from two flick lumphies, Deem it undignified to make immediate decisions, so it's Eastward-ho, unless something happens, of course. Anyway, Buddy Rogers is playing woodvil. Yeah, with a band. Farmers started something with "Close Harmony!" Lawrence Tibbett has also gone to New York. Departed toher eve. On the same train traveled Catherine Dale Owen, his leading woman in his initial M. G. M. vocaloid. "The Rogue Song." Tibbett opens the current opera season at the Metropolitan on November 9th in "Girl of the Golden West." He returns later to make another celluloid for M. G. M. Hear tell Frances Marion is whipping the story into shape. Juliette Compton begins work in a few days in the Harry Richman flick. While Juliette has taken onto herself an English accent, she's still at heart the lil' southern gurl from Columbia, Ga. Tether night, an owl hooted nearby and Juliette leaped from bed to turn her shoes over! An old southern superstition. Corrine Griffith has re-learned to ride a bike and one of these days may stagger Malibu by spinning down the road without touching the handle-bars! Elsie Janis is having the time of her life hustling around with the Paramount Revue. Sure, you knew about that. William Beaudine, the director, traipsed a-vacationing to Berlin and while there was offered a UFA contract. He may consent to be lured. Mr. and Mrs. Doug Fairbanks, Jr., lunching let-a-lete. Paul White-man and his band are expected to report to the Universal tribe again in two and a half weeks. There was a yarn floating around that White-man wouldn't appear in John Murray Anderson's forthcoming revue, but Carl Laemmle, Jr., derided the report as untrue. And—that's all.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By DOROTHY HERZOG HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Oct. 22.—An amazing figure of a man pulverized Hollywood Boulevard yesterday. It wore a B. V. D. shirt and a curving pair of blue trunks. It walked with a long, swinging stride, knees bending generously. Over its shoulder was slung a home-made knapsack and in its hand it carried a staff. His face was weather-beaten and slightly drawn and through the shaggy iron beard gleamed red lips. Who he was? Where he was going? Why he dressed in out style? Another Hollywood mystery. He used to make people laugh on the screen. He said his friends have taken unto themselves a new clique. He rarely works now. You see him in restaurants infrequently. He usually dines in solitude. The evening passes slowly. Waves of depression beat him. He'll fling into the night and walk miles; until weariness turns him home and from sheer fatigue he sleeps, too fatigued to anticipate a carbon copy tomorrow. Another Hollywood tragedy. Sue Carol's announcement that she and Nick Stuart have agreed to call their engagement off is something of a surprise. This bureau has heard from any number of sources reports of their being secretly married. At that, it listens as though it might have been a cinch. Had she used her own name of Evelyn and her former husband's name of Keefer—Evelyn Keefer—no one would have recognized the moniker. Had Nick used his own name, Nicholas Prata—well, that's another cinch. Yet Sue calls the whole thing off upon returning from a couple weeks location in Arizona. Inasmuch as George O'Brien was the hero in this location flick, one naturally suspicious George may be the man in the case. But Sue doesn't appear to be confining her dates to George. She still sees Nick on the average of once or twice a week. They're still beaucoup friendly. But Nick has been devoting a lil' time to Dixie Lee, an attractive Broadway new-comer to the Fox lot. However, it wouldn't be surprising to see them make it up. Sue has broken off steady going with Nick twice within the two years they have known each other. Only to go back to the steady racket. U never know. Screenalities: June Collyer speaks to hit the trail to New York next week. June has been waiting

WESTERN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH FOR WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (UP)—A new Western Presbyterian Church is to be built here replacing the historic old one sponsored by President Franklin Pierce and in which President Ulysses S. Grant often worshipped. The new church, which should not be confused with Abraham Lincoln's New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will be erected at 20th and H streets, directly across from the present edifice. Commencement of construction will mark the 57th anniversary of the original church.

Interesting Play Given At Missionary Meeting

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church met in the home of Mrs. W. I. Pratt on Monday afternoon for their monthly social meeting and Missionary program. A short business session was held with Mrs. Sam Preston presiding, the Rummage Sale to be held the first Saturday in November was discussed and the members urged to collect clothing for this sale. Mention was made of the kindness of the Acorn Store manager in lending dishes for the luncheon given by the society last week. The Missionary program was led by Mrs. Stanley Haver, the devotional topic being "Tribute From Thieves," a short study of Stewardship in a most interesting talk. The Missionary topic being The Gospel and Oriental Homes. Mrs. J. P. Collins spoke of the Korean Home particularly, and gave several pictures of the lives of the Korean Women. A very interesting feature was then given, a Korean play-let, in native costume, Mrs. Hugh Barnes taking the part of the Korean woman on the afternoon of her birthday celebration, with Mrs. H. J. Osborn as her son, Mrs. M. F. Peters, a daughter-in-law, Merwin Haag and Billie Pratt, the grandsons, Mary Belle Pratt and Addiee Haag granddaughters, and Ruth Pratt the little servant girl. Changed conditions among the oriental women was the theme of the play, somewhat deplored by the aged grandmother but heartily endorsed by the younger generation. Several of the costumes were very kindly loaned by Mrs. Thomas D.

Murphy, these were gifts to her and her children when they left Korea some years ago. The Hallowe'en season was suggested by the decorations of black and orange, weird witches and black cats about the rooms, also the refreshment plates bearing delicious pumpkin pie and coffee. Both circles attended this meeting, about sixty being present. On next Monday Circle No. 1 will meet with Mrs. George Glass, 923 Texas Ave. Circle No. 2 with Mrs. Tom Combs, 824 N. D. street, in their Study program.

Mrs. Brooks Pemberton Honored

Among the parties given over the week end was that given by Mrs. Fred Middleton Friday afternoon, in honor of the birthday of her mother, Mrs. Brooks Pemberton. Many beautiful gifts were tendered Mrs. Pemberton by her friends. After a pleasant afternoon, a light lunch was served to the guests, consisting of creamed chicken, pear salad, olives, wafers, coffee, ice cream and cake. Those present at this affair were: Mesdames Frank Ingram, R. E. Daniel, G. H. Butler, Annie Klebold, H. Klapproth, Mary S. Ray, the guest of honor, Mrs. Pemberton, and the hostess.

Hallowe'en Party In Home Of Mrs. Longabough

The Hallowe'en motif was carried out in the decorations, and in the favors given. Refreshments of cream pie and clever suckers dressed up in Hallowe'en costumes were served to the little guests after an afternoon of exciting and entertaining games. The guest list included: Lillian and Julian Unger, Betty Sue Chapman, Dorothy Jewel and Lewis Ray Bawley, Arthur Allen Cantrell, Shirley Layton, Francis Lynn Meeks, Edna Jean and Earline Roberts and Lou Nell Hudman. Mrs. J. H. Mobley, of Shreveport, Louisiana, and Mrs. E. H. Stafford of this city, were guests of honor at a lovely party given by Mrs. J. H. Longabough in her home Saturday night. Mrs. Mobley is the sister of Mrs. Longabough, and has been a guest in her home for several days. Mrs. Stafford, who is leaving Midland soon, for San Antonio, where she will make her home, was given a handkerchief shower in connection with the party as a token of her friends' regard. The rooms were decorated in Hallowe'en style, with the refreshments carrying out the same color scheme. The guests enjoyed an evening of bridge, in which the honorees were presented with guest prizes. The prize for high score was won by Mrs. J. L. Crump and Mrs. Jimmy Green captured the cut prize. Those present were: Mesdames J. L. Crump, W. C. Kinkle, Hugh Corrigan, S. B. Cragin, Jimmy Green, W. L. Brown, Russell Lloyd, R. W.

Patterson, W. E. Wallace, Maash, R. L. York, W. A. Yeager, A. C. Neal, and the honorees, Mrs. Mobley and Mrs. Stafford.

Autos And Trains Worse Than Planes

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 23.—(UP)—Life is becoming more precarious in Texas, or accident reports are more nearly complete, a tabulation issued here by the Texas Council of Safety indicates. The automobile proved the chief offender against personal safety, being charged with 19 deaths and 157 injuries during the week ending Oct. 7. Railway accidents took seven lives and airplanes five. There were only two deaths from firearms, one from a fall, two from burns and one from an explosion. The week's accidents bring the total of accidents in the State since Jan. 1, 1929, to 1,977. For the corresponding last year the deaths from accidents numbered only 1,492. There was also an increase of 1,160 in the number of injuries reported. Wes Reynolds was here Sunday and this morning from the Clayton ranch in Borden County. His niece, Betty Lou Gary, returned to the ranch with him for a visit. CRACK ARMY BAND TO ABILENE FOR A CONCERT OCT. 31

ABILENE, Oct. 22.—West Texas will have its first opportunity to hear the renowned United States Army Band when that organization, known as "Pershing's Own," comes to Abilene for two concerts October 31.

Abilene is one of the fifty cities in the United States to hear the band of its forthcoming tour. The War Department granted authority for the tour after thousands of requests had come from radio admirers who wanted to see and hear the famous band in person.

The organization is composed of 80 of the finest musicians in the United States Army, selected by rigid tests from regimental bands throughout America. Since its foundation by General Pershing during the World War it has participated in every important official event in this country.

The band is being brought to Abilene under the auspices of the Simmons University Cowboy Band. It will give a special afternoon program for school children and then a heavier concert that night. Both programs will be varied, including stirring marches, such as only a military band can play effectively, operatic selections, and some old Spanish music.

Young Radioman Talks To Distance

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 22.—(P)—In 1920, 10-year old Elbert Haling was the youngest amateur radio station operator in Texas.

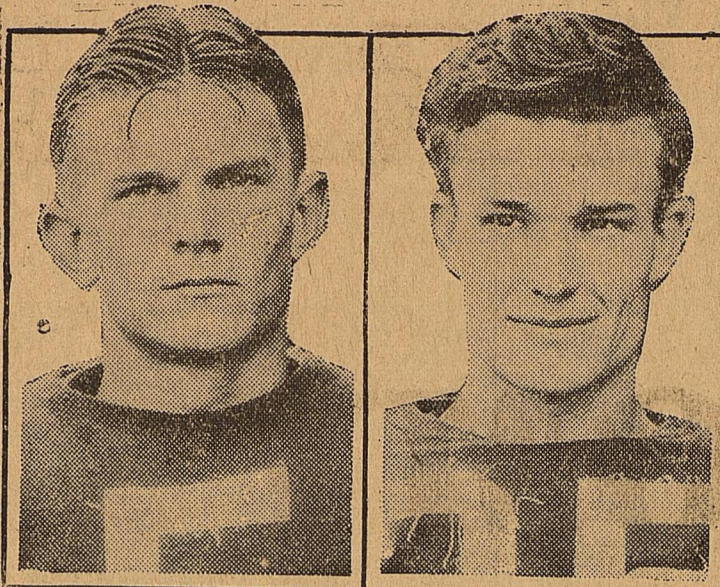

Today Haling is a junior in Texas Christian University and owner and operator of Radio station WHY. He recently celebrated the station's 8th birthday by conversing more than an hour with State 2AC of New Zealand.

"This makes the twelfth time my signals have been heard in New Zealand and Australia," Haling said. "I have communicated with every continent in the world and all the states in the union." He broadcasts on a wave length of 40 meters, with 50 watts power.

Haling's station is an official relay station of the American Radio Relay League and is one of the control stations of the Army Radio League.

"I can get Commander Byrd at the south pole nearly every morning about 4 a. m.," Haling said. "When the Graf Zeppelin sailed over New York, I heard the craft's signals. I also kept in touch with the Shenandoah as it flew over Texas a few years ago." The secretary of the navy sent him a note of thanks for this latter service. When Capt. Bill Erwin, the ill fated flier who was lost in the Pacific, sent out his distress call station WHY was one of those which caught his message. Haling is majoring in journalism, and informed newspapers.

T. C. U. Speed Merchants

LELAND - HALFBACK - MOORE - HALFBACK

FORT WORTH, Oct. 22.—Football fans witnessing the annual Texas Aggie-Texas Christian University clash in Fort Worth next Saturday will see in the two Frog players shown here a pair of speed merchants who are the most dangerous cogs in a fast, hard-running offense that Coach Francis Schmidt has developed. Cy Leland, "football's fastest human," is developing into one of the greatest backs in the conference and is expected to be among the leading conference scorers this season. Kenneth (Football) Moore, 140-pound broken field star, has been one of the shining lights in Frog play to date. He isn't as fast as Leland, but his ability to start at full speed and get out into the open makes him almost as dangerous as the flying Leland.

HOOVER, FORD HONOR EDISON AS OLD EXPERIMENT IS DONE BEFORE NOTABLES

DEARBORN, Mich., Oct. 22.—With all the world honoring Thomas Alva Edison, Light's Golden Jubilee reached its climax here tonight when Mr. Edison, standing in the same laboratory in which 50 years ago he brought to practical function his dream of incandescent light, reconstructed that first lamp. Its glow lighted the faces of three men watching as intently, under the spell of the moment, as though they really were witnessing the birth of the age of light.

These men were Francis Jehl, who as a boy of 20 helped Mr. Edison make his incandescent light just as he did tonight, President Herbert Hoover, and Henry Ford. The scene was the old Menlo Park laboratory in which Mr. Edison labored half a century ago, when no man dreamed the significance of his work. This laboratory, abandoned and decayed, has been moved bit by bit to Dearborn by Mr. Ford, who has caused it to be reconstructed, using the original materials and furnishings. Here it stands on the same top soil on which it stood in New Jersey, so that the very earth that Edison trod tonight is that which he trod in 1879.

This short episode, perhaps the most dramatic event ever woven around the achievements and the past associations of a great scientist, took only a few minutes, in contrast to the 40 hours' intense labor that preceded the first creation. In an instant the drama had dissolved into friendly and informal congratulations by the three on-lookers, all that could be accommodated in the cramped little laboratory.

Tensely, the crowd of distinguished guests in the banquet hall listened to the description of the re-creation which came to them from the laboratories through loudspeakers. The hall and the entire grounds of the restored Menlo Park were lighted only by oil lamps as they were in 1879.

There in the flickering yellow light they waited silently. Then, as Mr. Edison perfected the lamp, lights of today flashed on—visible epitome of the jubilee spirit. A replica of the Liberty Bell rang its brazen greeting, automobile horns honked their modern note, heads craned toward airplanes and a dirigible in the sky. As the brilliancy of electric incandescent light overwhelmed the oil lamps, there came a clamor of shouts that was stilled only by the insistent gestures of Owen D. Young, chairman, as President Hoover, Mr. Edison and Mr. Ford returned from the laboratory.

The remainder of the ceremonies were conducted in the magnificence of beautiful arrangements of light which Edison's invention had made possible. Mr. Young paid industry's tribute to Edison. Then Professor Albert Einstein from Berlin added the tribute of foreign scientists in the first international radio broadcast. Henry Ford spoke further words of congratulation, followed by W. S. Barstow, president of the Edison Pioneers, and the chief speaker, President Hoover, who offered this nation's affection and gratitude.

Broadcast over a nation-wide hook-up, the celebration brought the loudspeakers of the country a revelation of Edison's character and career. It stressed work as the foundation of success, recalling his long labors which preceded the achievement of his benefits to mankind. His painstaking research into the fundamentals of the materials and principles with which he worked emphasized his pioneering leadership in the scientific spirit which as a result now imbues all American industry.

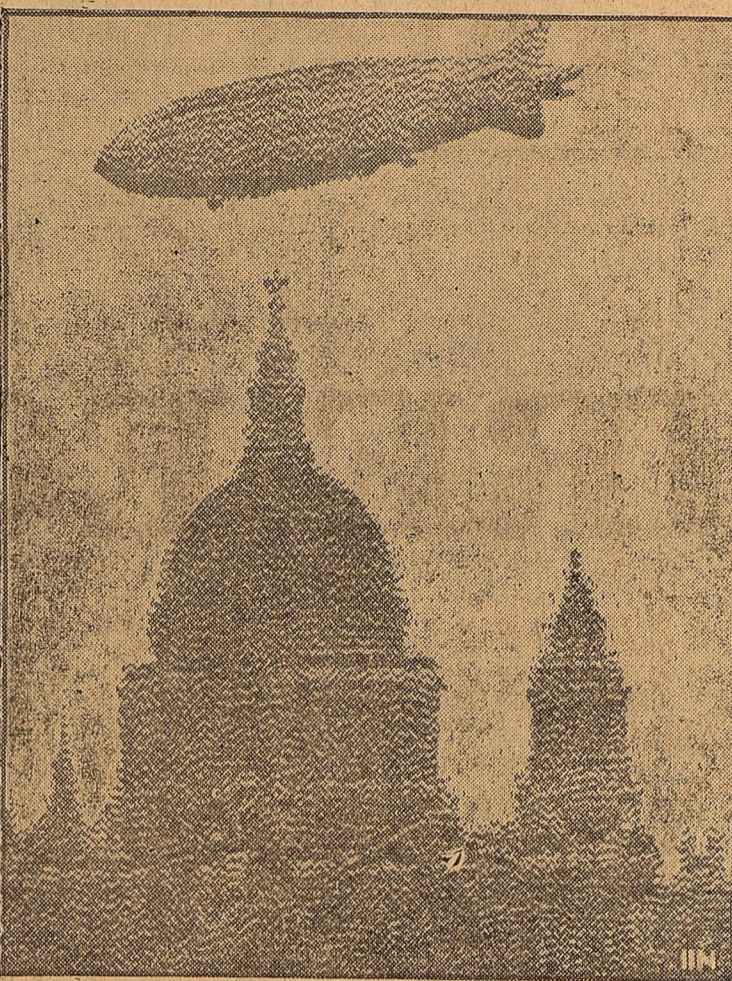

Expects Reduction In Telephone Rates

Another substantial reduction of long distance telephone rates is forecasted by Walter S. Gifford, President, American Telephone and Telegraph Company in a quarterly report to stockholders made public Friday by telephone officials.

The report points out that 635,000 telephones have been added during the first nine months of this year, refers to a previous reduction of long distance rates on February 1, last and concludes as follows: "Another substantial reduction in these rates will be made January 1, 1930."

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(UP)—The murder of Preston B. Austin, wealthy Victoria, Texas, rancher, at Hot Springs, Ark., has been added to the list of Chicago gangland killings about which police are questioning Frank Biege, asserted gunman for Al Capone.

Biege was released on $7,000 bond following questioning on the major killings of recent years, and was sought today in connection with the Arkansas crime.

DOCTOR RIDES AMBULANCE

HARLINGEN, Tex., Oct. 22.—(P)—Dr. G. Wentz of this city, who often has called ambulances for other people, was forced to take his first ride in one the other day.

He was driving along the highway when a car approaching him from a side road forced him into a ditch, where his car came to rest against a telephone pole.

The dust had hardly cleared when an ambulance, enroute to Harlingen, from Raymondville, stopped at the scene, and the driver got down to pick up Dr. Wentz, who was badly cut and bruised.

The driver proved to be William Wentz, son of the doctor.

More Mothers each year - treat COLDS EXTERNALLY

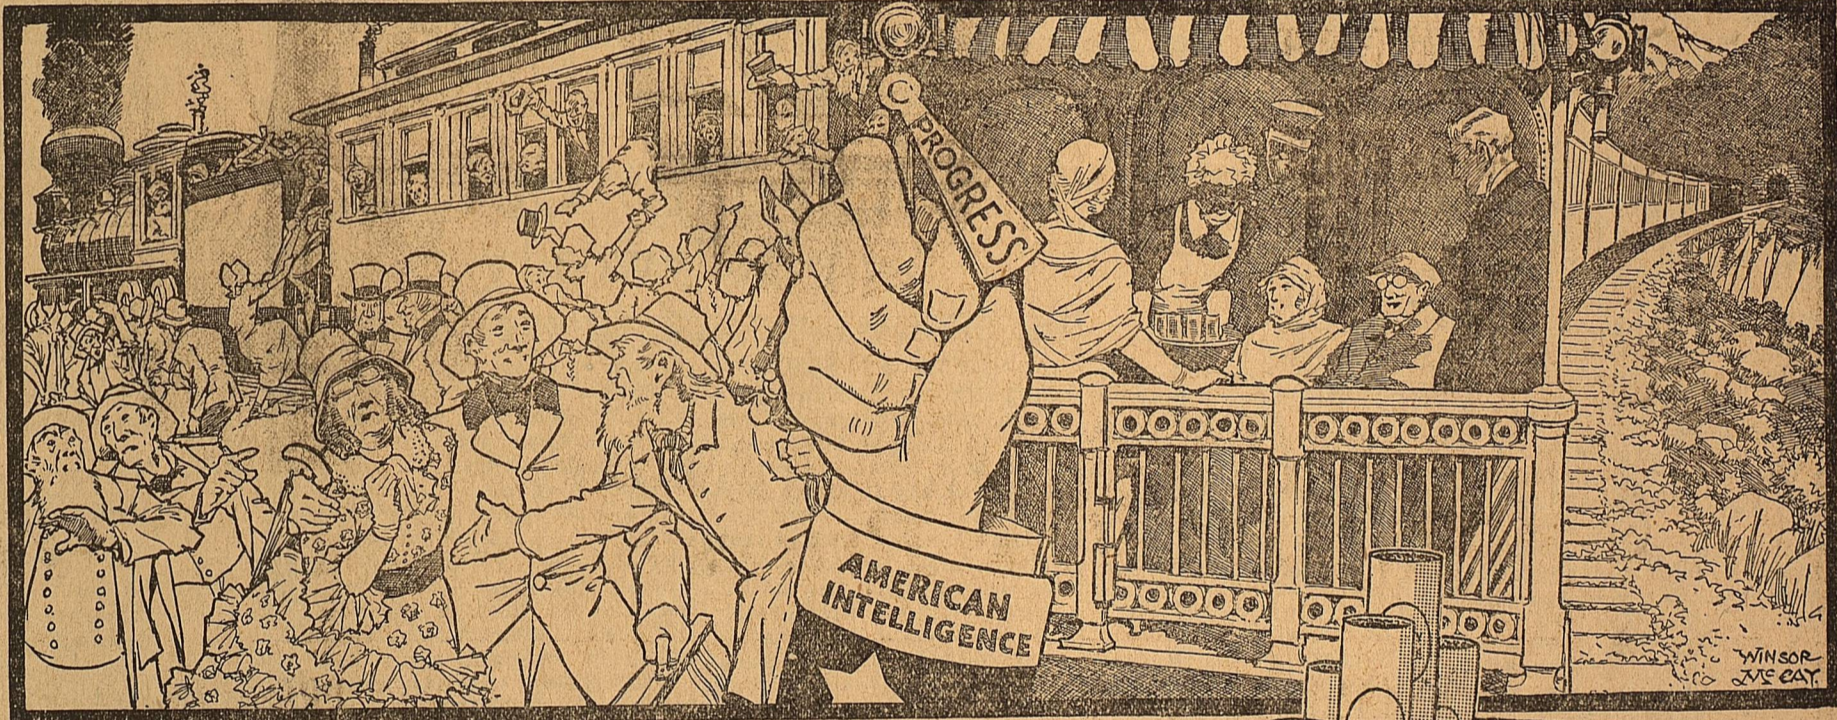

When Vicks VapoRub was introduced, mothers especially were quick to appreciate it, because it is just rubbed on and cannot upset children's delicate stomachs, as "dosing" is so apt to do. Of course it is equally good for adults.

Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing," and the demand for Vicks has grown until it is necessary to again raise the figures in the famous slogan. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

The Cow is off the Track! AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Railroads have safely passed those danger signals of prejudice which caused folks to look upon them with fear. Holding aloft the semaphore of progress AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE cleared the track and, today, millions travel in ease and security.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
© 1929 by N.E.A. Service Inc.

"When I read what you said about making a shy child go out and play with other children, I marched my Betty May right out and made her play with the children next door. But there was trouble right away. She started to cry and they made fun of her, and she ran home. Now I can't make her budge out of the house at all. What had I better do?"

I was afraid when I wrote that paragraph urging children to play in groups, and not entirely alone, that I'd get into hot water. But space was short and my topic was long, and I had no opportunity to explain or expand. My general subject that day was on secrecy and the mistake of allowing children to have too much of their own company. When I said that they should be taught to play in groups, I meant just that. But "taught" is different from "marching." It isn't a good thing for children to get into the habit of playing alone, it's true, but on the other hand, it isn't much better to force a shy little girl into the company of a hard-boiled crowd and expect her to be happy playing with them.

"Handle With Care"
It isn't wise to "march" her into any crowd indeed, when even one stranger suddenly sprung on her may make her utterly confused, frightened and miserable.

No, if you have a Betty or a Bobby either, who is backward about other children, the safest thing to do in breaking the shell of their shyness, is to gradually get them accustomed to one new child at a time, and to see that each of these children is the right sort to make your own child happy.

This doesn't mean that they should give in to your child or spoil him. Not at all! That is a bad thing too. No—we'll leave all such children out of the picture, too, as undesirable companions.

By the right sort I mean children who are kind, who play fairly, and at the same time, who can stand up for their rights when necessary.

Companions for a timid child, if of the forceful, assertive type, should be a little younger in order to balance the difference in temperament. Other children are often the best, at first, if they are sympathetic and kind. You can more easily get their cooperation if you are making a stand against that wall of shyness. But in general, children of approximately the same age are best.

Two Important Points
These two things, then, should be borne in mind. Getting your shy child to like other children one at a time, and as nearly as possible having these playmates suitable in disposition and acceptable to you regarding their own home training.

If your child has grown up with other children, he won't be shy, the chances are. But there are so many "only children" who have never had a playmate and who need the companionship of others. Such children are very often afraid of other children.

Group experience in the parlance of the specialist is necessary to round out complete character, and I know it to be true. We cannot develop as we should, alone. Our social emotions or those feelings generated by our contacts with other people are the most important reactions we have. In fact, there is not much worthwhile character at all without them.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALENE SUMNER

New jobs for women develop daily. The latest one to come to my attention is that of "food stylist." A New York department store with a large restaurant has hired a woman to grade up this particular line of the business, and to make it distinctive.

She is empowered to alter anything, or anybody, that seems to need it. She can fire the chef, redecorate the entire establishment or change the set-up in any way she likes.

She is to study the attitude of the waitress to the patron and the patron to the waitress, to decide whether it would be to the interests of the store to emphasize atmosphere or salads; to cater to the working girls who eat and run, or to the leisured shopping class that eats and sits.

Comparative shopping on dining is a part of her program. She is to order food at all the smart restaurants, and study their systems, take notes on what should be copied and what might be avoided. She is to supervise all menus for the store restaurant, give suggestions regarding service and decorations, taste all the new tid-bits, and see that food is arranged attractively and served as it should be.

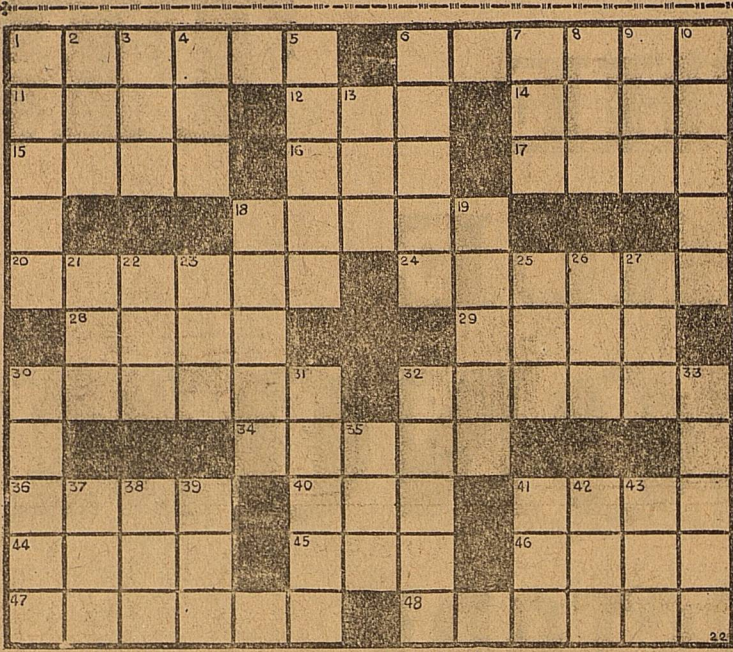

She has carte blanche to spend what is necessary to get results. The woman selected for this job was not one who has made a success in her own tea room, or one who had any business experience at all—she was a woman who had been reared in luxury, lived in many countries, has good taste, knows good food, and knows how it should taste and how it should be served.

IT'S A RACKET
Styling is the leading woman's "racket" these days. No manufacturer puts out a new line of anything, from diamond necklaces to safety pins, without having it "styled," that is, graded and standardized and, theoretically put into the best possible shape for selling.

One New York stylist earns $50,000 a year. The big money, I'm told, comes in styling ready-to-wear clothes.

A manufacturer of cosmetics who was falling behind, called in a stylist to diagnose his falling accounts. She decided that the line was all right, but the bottle and labels are wrong. She hired an artist to design some tie labels and she changed the

Sister Mary's Kitchen

By SISTER MARY
Nowadays we think little of the seasonability of foods. Fruits and vegetables are shipped from northern and southern markets the whole year through, making it possible to eat strawberries in January no matter where we may be.

However, some sea foods are like game and have a very definite "season." Oysters are one of them and are "in" from September to May.

Market and shipping reports promise an unusually fine stock of oysters for this year, and since research workers have added oysters to the list of foods comparatively rich in vitamin content it behooves the housekeeper to make frequent use of this popular shell fish.

Preparation is important. Since oysters are a protein food, their digestibility depends much on the care used in preparing them for the table. Intense heat and a too-long cooking period will make them tough, leather and hard to digest.

Raw oysters may be served to invalids. Steamed, baked or in a plain stew, they offer appetizing variety to invalids and children.

Made dishes of oysters are more difficult to digest because of the added ingredients. The oysters themselves are practically steamed or baked in the extra material.

A hot oyster dish is suitable for luncheon or Sunday night supper. Cyster salad is unusual and makes a good Sunday night supper dish for guests.

Grape fruit sections, celery and green pepper are combined with a well seasoned French dressing for the salad. A few gratings of nutmeg and a drop of onion juice are included in the seasonings.

The simplest way to cook oysters is to bake them. Either those in the shell or out of it can be used. When they are baked in the shell, the shells should be well scrubbed. Place in a dripping pan in a hot oven and bake until shells part. Force open, sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve on the shell.

Baked Oysters
One pint oysters, small ovals of toast a little larger than the oysters, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon salt, paprika, 1-8 teaspoon nutmeg.
Clean and drain oysters. Toast bread on one side only. Arrange in dripping pan toasted side up. Place one oyster on each piece of toast. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and bake in a moderately hot oven until oysters are plump. Cream butter, slowly heat in salt, pepper, nutmeg and lemon juice. Spread over oysters, sprinkle with paprika and serve at once.

PECOS-STANTON GAME IS IN CENTER OF LIMELIGHT THIS WEEK

Simmons Cowboys Are Guarding Against Battle In Clouds Saturday

TEAMS PLAY AT STANTON. MANY MIDLAND PEOPLE EXPECTED TO GO THERE; MIDLAND VS. WINK

BY CLAUDE HOLLEY

STANTON, Texas, Oct. 21.—In a meeting of the officials of the Pecos and Stanton schools in Odessa Monday a decision was reached whereby the game between the two schools will be played in Stanton.

The game Friday will bring together two teams of the district which are undefeated and which have not been scored upon in an official game. The winner of this game will be a heavy favorite to win the district championship as Midland, Odessa, Wink and Pyote have suffered defeats. Stanton has defeated Midland, Wink and Pyote, and Pecos has defeated Pyote and Odessa.

Many Pecos fans are expected and they are assured a good time and a hearty welcome by the Stanton fans. It is expected that all the stores will close for the game and a half holiday will be declared for Pecos schools to allow Pecos students to attend.

The only team that has met both Pecos and Stanton is Pyote, Pecos winning 19 to 0, and Stanton beating Pyote here last Friday 28 to 0.

Stanton is expecting the hardest game of the season and is going through practices daily, all players will be in good condition for the game Friday, with the exception of Henson, shifty back who is suffering with a leg injury. He will likely see some service in the game, however.

MIDLAND OUT?

Whatever Midland goes with Wink this week will matter little as regards the club's placing in the district standing, it is thought here. Pecos and Stanton are virtually assured of grabbing off the first two places, and Odessa will bid against the bulldogs (which word must be spelled with little letters, despite grammatical rules, because of the absolute lack of punitive fight the team has exhibited).

Odessa is not known to have a good team. The remnant of last year's smooth machine is definitely known to be lacking in the Ector county capital, but what has replaced it remains virtually an unknown quantity.

It requires little to see that the club will make Midland's club breath fast and hard, however, in case Midland has any aspirations towards wresting a game from the village to the westward.

Midland vs. Odessa
Midland and Odessa play in Midland November 1, the date upon which Midland will be able to demonstrate ability to hold down third place in the district—or a deeper run on the cellar ladder.

The above is speculation, naturally. There's a bare possibility that Midland can tie either of the two leading clubs. In case Pecos wins over Stanton this week-end, Midland will have a chance to beat Pecos twice later, on Armistice day and on Nov. 23, and take a place up among the leaders. There's a bare possibility of such a thing happening, but some other club may slip up on Stanton.

There you have it. The dope reads that Pecos will hold down first place, Stanton second, Midland or Odessa third. As to the rest—with, showing that practical knowledge is as important as book learning.

Grasping of opportunities when they come was given as a means of success. "Opportunities come your way just as often as you are prepared to receive them," he told the boys. "There are now 100 opportunities there where there was one 50 years ago." "Success is the result of work and not of luck," he said, "and the idler is a parasite to society."

He advised the boys to begin early to think of their life's work and to have a definite aim in life. "Don't be in too big a hurry to reach the top rung of the ladder," he advised, "don't be discouraged if you fail to get there the first year." He mentioned cheerfulness as an attribute to success, also honesty and initiative.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—(UP)—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion of the world, will enter a ring at Wrigley Field on Oct. 29 to defend his title in a 10-round bout with Ace Hudkins, Nebraska "wildcat," who rules the fistic backyards of Hollywood.

The two slugging battlers will face each other in an atmosphere charged with intense rivalry as the result of one of the most bitter pre-fight word barrages ever heard in Southern California.

Mickey and the Ace began saying things about each other before the ink on a contract which gives Walker 47 1-2 per cent and Hudkins 12 1-2 per cent of an anticipated $250,000 gate had dried in the hands of Promoter Jack Doyle.

The "Wildcat" started it as the fighters posed for talking movie cameramen during the ceremony at which signatures were exchanged. Hudkins made the customary bally-hoo to the effect that the assembled multitude was listening to the next middleweight champion of the world and wound up with an apparently innocent remark.

"I hope," said the Ace, with a broad grin, "that Walker will be in condition for this fight. At any rate he had better be."

Walker, awaiting his turn at the "mike," appeared in favor of starting the battle at once, but cooler heads ruled and the champion made his little talk.

"The last thing Hudkins need worry about is my condition," Mickey declared. "However, he'd better be able to take care of himself."

This pleasant exchange, it was apparent centered about the fact that Walker, on a recent nocturnal trip through the movie center, celebrated with such vigor that he and four companions finally were arrested for fighting in the apartment of a young film actress.

Walker carried on the resentment to Hudkins' remarks when Jack Kearns, his manager, bundled him off to Soper's Ranch, near the desert town of Ojai, to train.

"I'll admit I play once in a while after a tough fight," Walker declared. "But don't think I'm not ready when I enter the ring. I may have made some poor fights, but never because I was out of condition."

Walker also declared that as far as Hudkins is concerned the "wildcat" lives in a glass house.

"Hudkins is no angel," the champion averred. "He's got the luck, however. He goes on a party and nothing happens while I land in the police station my first night out in Hollywood."

Several charges involving liquor counts as a result of Mickey's party are pending against the champion and will be settled in court after the fight.

Walker and Hudkins met a year or so ago in Chicago and the champion took the decision in a heavy rainstorm. Each fighter claims the rain acted against him.

Since the Chicago meeting, Hudkins has changed his style to some extent. He hits harder than previously and uses a little judgment in his rushing tactics.

Mickey, however, claims Hudkins still comes in "wide open" and predicts the habit will result in Ace taking the count.

"Hudkins may have knocked out Joe Anderson by rushing him in their recent fight," Walker said, "but if he comes at me like he did Anderson the fight won't last long."

PLAY TEACHERS OF CANYON FRIDAY

ABILENE, Oct. 22.—Returning from their game with the Daniel Baker Hill Billies in good shape, the Simmons University Cowboys began preparations to meet another T. I. A. A. opponent at the week's practice opened Monday. Although they are doped to win handsily from the West Texas Teachers at Amarillo Saturday, the Cowboys are not underestimating the strength of the Buffaloes and are going to be on the alert against this traditional enemy.

Coach Bridges has considerable respect for the Canyon team's aerial attack and is drilling his men to stop the passes of the Buffs. The Cowboys converted one Hill Billy pass into a touchdown in their victory over the Brownwood school last week, and hope to do the same this week if their opponents take to the air.

Meantime, as they get ready for the Teachers, the Cowboys are setting their eyes on the Texas Conference schedule which begins here November 1 when they meet the Southwestern Pirates. Eden's crew is also rated as having a dangerous passing attack, and the Cowboys are laying for that too.

With the exception of the Texas Tech game here Thanksgiving, the Cowboys will be playing Texas Conference games only after this week.

Students at the University of Minnesota have been suspected of sending substitutes to take their examinations. Well, what's a football player supposed to do?

John C. Calhoun, vice president under John Quincy Adams, was the only one ever to resign from that office.

TAXIING AROUND THE AIRPORT

Nine airplanes, six of them army ships, landed at Sloan field over Monday, according to H. M. Becherer, field manager.

Sloan field is showing each month a steady increase in the number of planes to land for refueling. Many of the pilots "stretch" their route in order to land at the field at lunch time, so as to take advantage of the facilities for serving meals at the port.

J. Warren Miller and Sam Stewart, flying Travelairs, were last to land.
