California Group Is In Midland a Brief Time Friday

CARAVAN REACHES MIDLAND FRIDAY

Led by Royal W. Robertson, commander-in-chief, a motorcade of the California bonus army trekked through Midland Friday afternoon, approximately 85 cars and 225 persons being counted. It halted at Midland, blocking three intersections, only long enough to ascertain whether any plans had been made to receive it and, none evidently in doubt, left almost immediately. The group drove to Big Spring, where gasoline was given by residents, business men and officers, then to Sweetwater, where encampment was made over Saturday. The motorcade followed a group of 40 which tumbled off a fast fruit train there early Friday morning. They planned church services before moving on, Robinson said, there are about 100 ex-servicemen in his army and that, when the contingent reaches Washington there should be approximately 10,000 men from California present.

Field Generals Open Headquarters for Convention

WHAT THE BONUS MARCH MEANS

The Senate may have killed the bonus bill, but the war veterans who descended, ragged and penniless, on Washington seem determined to stay there, organizing themselves into what looks very much like a permanent body, they have presented the nation with one of the very oddest problems it has ever faced.

That they have no business in Washington is too obvious to need saying. That the Senate did well to reject the bonus bill is equally obvious. But the strange significance of the bonus expedition as a whole remains, nevertheless, something that deserves attention.

These chaps are misguided, foolish, grasping—well, of course. But some current is stirring in the depths of American life, and it picked them up, like so many pieces of flotsam, from quiet eddies and backwaters thousands of miles away, and deposited them on the doorstep of the capitol; and it would be worth our while to study that current thoroughly.

In ordinary times these men weren't bums. They were, for the most part, respected wage-earners, family men, staying home and plugging away at jobs like the rest of us. Now they are floaters, men who live on the charity of others while they wait for a handout from the government.

What caused the transformation? What, in other words, made these men feel that they had a right to bum their way across the continent and camp out at Washington? What made them sure that it would be nothing less than justice for the federal government to give them several hundred dollars apiece?

Deep down there is working a very real discontent; a feeling that America has somehow failed to deal justly with millions of people who have been good citizens; a subconscious but potent notion that it is high time for a new deal of some kind or other.

The march of the "bonus expeditionary force" is simply a symptom of that unrest. We can deplore the veterans' actions in Washington all we please—and that the affair is deplorable is unarguable—but if we are wise we shall take this discontent into account, see where it is justified and look for ways of removing it.

NATION IS GREATEST SPENDTHRIFT

It is a commonly accepted fact among the people that Uncle Sam is the greatest spendthrift that the nation has. Some people know what they are talking about when they make such an assertion and others guess at it from hearsay.

Authentic figures will stagger even the man who deals in millions, when he figures how much more expensive the United States government is now and what it was five years ago, or in 1927.

How long will the American people sit idly by in the face of the following figures?

Table with 3 columns: Dept., 1927, 1932, Amt. of Increase. Rows include Dept. of Agriculture, Agricultural Marketing, Fund net (Farm Board), Post Office Deficit, Treasury Department, War Department, Navy Department, Shipping Board, Dept. of Justice, Dept. of Commerce, Other independent offices, and Veterans' Bureau.

Total of Major Departments, Commissions, etc. $1,984,000,000 $3,105,100,000 $1,231,100,000

These figures are exclusive of whatever is required for debt retirement and interest.

Anyone having poppy seed to donate could render a great service by making it known through a letter to me or by taking them to the chamber of commerce or some such central point. Even a crop of hepari on vacant lots looks better than weeds, and everyone will admit that the weeds are plenty rank around over town now.

The seed that will be scattered from the present weed crop will be sufficient to make all the Bermuda grass in town fight for existence next spring.

Balloon type wagon wheels are the thing these days. What I want to see is somebody rigging up a buggy off of a pair of Ford wheels and driving a high-stepping horse through town.

There's a lot of talk about horses around here, but in some places they don't hear much about the nags. For instance, a fellow was walking down a city street and saw the crowd at the curb looking down the street as if waiting for a parade or something. Asking a stranger what was about to take place, the pedestrian was told that a woman, wearing tight, was about to ride through the street on a horse. Elbowing his way into the crowd at the curb, the pedestrian said:

"Well, I haven't seen a horse for a good while, myself."

NEW TEST FOR IRON COUNTY

TOBACCO RECOGNIZED

Leaf tobacco regained its place last year as the third chief export of the United States, according to a statement recently made public by the chamber of commerce of the United States. Exports of tobacco in 1931 amounted to 500,531,000 pounds for a total value of $109,626,000. More leaf tobacco is consumed in this country in the manufacture of cigarettes than in any other tobacco product, and American cigarettes are known the world over for their quality and mildness which authorities in the industry claim result largely from the superior tobacco used and the removal of impurities through the employment of modern methods of manufacturing such as the toasting process, including the use of ultra violet rays. American tobacco is sold in some form in nearly every country in the world. Last year leaf tobacco displaced castor and naphtha to regain its former rank as third among United States export products.

SOUTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

The next time a dealer urges you to buy an unknown substitute product for an advertised brand and he tells you . . .

“Yes m’am, it’s just as good and cheaper”

● ask him this Question ● ●

“How much more profit do you make on this item over the advertised brand?”

If he tells you no additional profit, then ask him how many free cans, bottles, or whatever it happens to be, he receives with every order. If he will tell the truth, you will find that he either makes a much greater profit on the substitute, unadvertised product or he receives many free cans with every order, which is just a round-about way of increasing his profit. He has to make more money in one way or another, because he must spend his own time in creating for the product a demand that does not exist. The first question a dependable dealer asks when offered a new product is, “Do you plan to tell my customers about your product by advertising?” He knows that to sell his goods profitably there must be a consumer demand larger than he could create himself.

People who endeavor to substitute unadvertised brands argue that they can sell their goods cheaper because no money is spent in advertising. The principle of mass production refutes this argument. High quality at today’s low cost is possible only by mass production. Mass production is possible only by advertising. The cost of good advertising is extremely low. Take, for instance, a well-known brand of soap. It sells for $0.07 and to advertise it costs $0.002 (one-fifth of 1c). Since advertising adds so little to the cost, could unadvertised brands sell so cheaply unless the quality was cheap, too? Save yourself money by refusing unknown substitutes. Insist upon known brands of known quality.

PYRON'S HURLING AND STICK WORK RUNS NAIL SACKERS' WINS TO 7 IN FIASCO FRIDAY NIGHT WITH HOKUS

The crooners of the Industrial Night league have just about quit humming bars of that popular ditty, "The Lonesome Road," and are now wailing a dirge that begins with "When the Hardware Steps into Office."

If this isn't clear to those two dozen people who are not nightly habitués of the sport it is all too clear to the seven clubs that have to buck the crowd managed by Fire Chief Luke Tidwell.

A representative night for the Hardware begins with a rival club's manager making a prediction that the Nail Sackers are due to lose and that this is the night. But the rival manager's eyes look scared and the general geographic regions around his mouth are pale. Then comes the crucial hour, that is to the opponents, and the Hardware emerges from the dusty field with another win.

That was about what happened Friday night. Joe Pyron held the nice hitting boys of Bill Connor, known as the skipper for Hokus-Pokus, to five hits and three runs, and topped off his performance by batting exactly 1,000 per cent. With B. Hurst and H. Jones tomahawking everything that looked like a pitcher's offering, Joe sailed in on a tide of a 15-3 win.

United Dry Goods, until the past few days one of the principal disputants for the top of the league, came back to tie Tesco for third place by unhorsing Cowden-Epley in a 6-1 decision. Adamson allowed only two hits. H. Drake went out of the game with a split finger.

Clubs that is all except the Hardwaremen, seem to hold the second place by cycles, winning over the less difficult clubs and then sinking when meeting the most formidable. In that category may be placed The Reporter-Telegram News Devils, a club that has climbed to second place one game behind the Hardware. But this week finds the Newsies in the doubtful position of trying to hold its own against Texas Electric's extra base knockers Monday night and the Hardware Thursday evening—a week that no club in the circuit would like to face. The Hardwaremen beat the Newsies earlier in the season by a 2-1 score but no one will gainsay the Nail Sackers have made a lot of improvement since, nor prophesy that the Newsies can touch Pyron's inside-high speedball for much damage.

The Hardware has an excellent chance to go ahead another game Monday night, when it meets Bell Telephone in the first game.

Urges Support for Phebe K. Warner

Friends of P. R. Underwood, prominent Panhandle attorney of Amarillo, have received letters advocating the candidacy of Mrs. Phebe K. Warner of Claude for congresswoman-at-large, Place No. 2. The letters received in Midland state in part:

"It is not often that I write a letter of this nature, but I am asking a favor of you at this time and one which I believe you can easily grant. I am interested in seeing Mrs. Phebe K. Warner of Claude, Texas, elected to congress in the general free for all Place No. 2.

"I have known Mrs. Warner practically ever since I have been in the Panhandle, a little more than 25 years. She is one of the Panhandle's dearest treasures and an exception-ally bright and capable woman. Her husband, a pioneer physician, and herself, have submerged their own selves for the upbuilding of their fellow men. They have given, and are still giving, unstintingly, for the betterment of the country.

"I feel confident that the next legislature will re-district the state and that whoever may be elected as congresswoman-at-large will in all probability serve for only one term, and I am confident that regardless of the person, or rather the three persons, who are sent as congressmen at large this year, they will not be able to wield an unusual amount of power during the two years they serve as congressmen. I believe that Mrs. Warner would be just as capable or more so, than any other we might send."

Robinson Triumphs At Yucca Theatre

Edward G. Robinson took his audience completely by surprise at the midnight preview last night and added new laurels to his actor's crown with his interpretation of John Allen, the steelworker, in "Two Seconds," his latest First National picture, at the Yucca theatre for today and Monday.

In a season that has been unusually full of surprises and novelties, "Two Seconds" stands out as something different. Nothing Robinson has done prepares the spectator for this one. It differs completely from "Little Caesar" and "Five Star Final," just as they differ from "The Hatchet Man." From first scene to last, the audience sat spellbound last night, intently watching the star in his first screen portrayal of a passionate lover whose amour was unfortunate and misguided.

This picture is really two dramas in one—the outward, tangible drama of John Allen and his buddy and the woman who wrecks both their lives, and the inner drama within John Allen's soul, which Robinson makes you see and understand as clearly as the physical action of the story.

Foreign service officials of the U. S. department of state and commerce and the Association of Life Insurance Presidents in the United States have estimated the world total of life insurance at more than $147,000,000,000.

CONGRESSMEN-AT-LARGE FAVORING A RESUBMISSION

By GORDON K. SHEARER, United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, (UP).—"With many precincts still out" resubmission of prohibition seems to be favored by most of the Texas democratic candidates for congress-at-large.

Only three Texas congressmen voted for resubmission in the last election at Washington. Filings show that many of those who voted dry then are faced with wet or resubmission opponents in their local districts.

J. Baskin, co-author of the Baskin-McGregor liquor law that preceded the Dean bone-dry act in Texas, is out as a candidate against fellow man, Frank Lanham who voted against resubmission.

Hatton Summers of Dallas has an opponent so moist that he changed his name to "Wet" and is opposed in the Jones district at present, head of the state organization for reform of the prohibition law. One opponent of Summers is for enforcement. In the Eighth Texas district, Former Congressman Joe H. Eagler, wet is opposing dry Congressman Daniel E. Garrett.

Dan Jackson has announced in the El Paso district against Congressman Ewing Thomason, a referendumist. Thomason has now announced that he will be for a referendum if such a plank is put in the national democratic platform.

Congressman Thomas Blanton who has been especially vocal at Washington against resubmission has an opponent in Joe Jones, district attorney of Eastland county. Jones' opening announcements did not feature the liquor question, however.

Waco district, H. Cross of the Waco district, who is for a referendum, is for repeal—Joe Kemendo. Congressman Sam Rayburn, who is representative of Speaker Garner, opposed injection of the liquor issue at the Houston state convention, has opponents in former Congressman C. B. Randall and Jess Morris of Greenville.

The three Texas congressmen who voted for submission also have opposition. Thurman Barrett and I. A. Britt have announced against Congressman Richard Kleberg who is for a beer tax to pay the soldier bonus and Merton Harris of Bastrop is running against Congressman James P. Buchanan. Congressman Mansfield is opposed by Stanley Kulawik, who is wet.

In each of the three races for congress-at-large there are candidates who have declared outright for repeal. Most have gone on record for resubmission. Many did not declare themselves on the liquor question in their early announcements.

In race one, there are women candidates at the two extremes. Mrs. Ida Darden of Fort Worth is running on a repeal platform. Mrs. Alex Adams of San Antonio has declared for retention of the eighteenth amendment and its enforcement. Curiously enough, San Antonio is generally rated as "wet" territory and Fort Worth as "dry."

Outstanding drvs in the race for this place include Cullen F. Thomas of Dallas, brother-in-law of Senator Morris Sheppard, author of the eighteenth amendment, and W. E. Skinske Williams of Fort Worth. Chesley Jurney of Waco, who was secretary of the late Senator Charles Culberson, is for modification and Lawrence Westbrook from the same place, has declared for resubmission. George J. Schleicher of Cuero says

Negro Terrorist Dies of Wound

FT. WORTH, June 25. (UP).—Frank Miller, 36, negro, died today soon after admitting that he had been the Cold Springs road terrorist.

His death resulted from a bullet wound received when he resisted arrest several weeks ago. Miller had previously admitted robberies on the Cold Springs road but, until near death, stoutly denied assaulting women.

Attorney for the Defense at Grand

Two outstanding qualities of "Attorney for the Defense," Columbia picture showing at the Grand theatre today and Monday, contribute to the abundance of entertainment value that the film has—fine dramatic action and subtlety. The two reach a nice balance that will make the film attractive to all types of audiences.

The numerous subtle touches of direction and acting mark it definitely as a superior film. Suspense is maintained throughout the picture with the audience kept guessing until the last scene. Character analysis is admirably handled with the role of Bill Burton, played by Edmund Lowe. From an over-ambitious district attorney who ruthlessly sent men to their death, he became a great defense lawyer. Women and juries were his racket—he did what he wanted with them—they wouldn't resist him. He was a great lawyer and a great lover. However, when he sent an innocent man to the chair, he discovered he had a conscience and it was this conscience that effected his transformation. Well-chosen scenes bring out this change.

Photographically, the picture is well done. The cameraman and the director had an eye for picking up bits of human interest material and inserting them along with the formula action of the story.

Edmund Lowe, as Burton, is excellent and true to character, giving the role the authentic realism that has characterized all of his roles. Evelyn Brent, Constance Cummings, Donald Dillaway and Dorothy Peterson ring in with nice performance, while the direction of Irving Cummings contains quite a few "different" and interesting touches. Definitely, a top-notch film.

he will be bound by the plank of the national convention but personally favors resubmission. George Terrell of Alto says prohibition views are not test of democracy. He is "against the saloon."

In race two, W. E. Myers of Fort Worth and Joseph W. Bailey of Dallas have advocated repeal. Former Mayor Oscar Holcombe of Houston is out for resubmission; L. J. Sulak of LaGrange is for modification and D. Sartin of Wichita Falls, bone dry.

In race No. three, J. E. Boog-Scott of Coleman, Ben F. Harigel of LaGrange, Joe Burkett of San Antonio and Mrs. Fred Real of Kerrville have declared for resubmission. Monte Warner of San Angelo is for repeal. Douglas McGregor of Houston is for enforcement and Sterling P. Strong of Dallas has long been known as a "pro."

He traded them for one in Bosque county where he, his wife, his daughter, his son, and three grandchildren live.
