RESIDENTIAL POLITICS

Some interesting political maneuvers were brought to light Thursday in the reading of letters between R. B. Creager and J. A. Arnold, manager of the southern tariff association...

Since those letters were written, it seems that Belcher has decided to seek the post being vacated by Claude Hudspeth, without moving to the valley.

This is something new and up-to-date in politics, this proposed change of residence to run against a certain candidate.

It is the opinion of this editor that Belcher did well to stay in his own district to make the race. With R. E. Thomason of El Paso against him he probably won't win, but he will probably do better than he would have among strangers.

DEVELOPING JOURNALISTS

The newer school of newspapers and magazine writers have different ideals to work toward than the generations just back of us. Journalists of the present and of the future must have a training to keep them not only abreast, but also ahead, of the times.

Midland High School students who are seeking knowledge of journalism by contributing to the Midland Hi News are getting fundamental training which will develop a number of journalists. To better encourage their close application in writing, The Reporter-Telegram is offering a weekly prize, announced on the Midland Hi News page.

NOT INSANE—JUST ANGRY

A psychiatrist who testified in the recent trial of young Earle Peacox, who was convicted of murdering his wife, made one of the most eminently sensible remarks we have yet heard from a psychiatrist on the witness stand.

Peacox was setting up the "emotional insanity" racket for a defense, and it was pointed out to this psychiatrist that once, repairing a radio set, Peacox had become so enraged that he mashed the set all to pieces.

That was not a symptom of emotional instability. It was anger. It could have been cured by a spanking.

We do wish that a little common, ordinary horse sense like that could be injected into a few more of our murder trials. It's refreshing.

ERRORGRAMS

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Today, page 3, we'll explain the mistakes and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you bat.

SHRTAFEE Pretty soft!

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

A stalk of cotton, grown in Midland county, was taken to the chamber of commerce. It was so large that the Midland secretary had to call the Stanton secretary to help him put it up for display.

Speaking of Midland county crops, wasn't it a job to learn that more rent farmers had been looking for land here than could be accommodated? Nearly any farmer wants to rent the first year, even if he intends to buy later.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON—Watching and listening to Joe Grundy before the Senate committee investigating lobbyists is something of a disappointment.

Everyone seemed to suppose that his appearance would be the sensational high spot of this investigation and that Chairman Caraway and Senator Tom Walsh would drag out of him startling admissions of iniquity and intrigue which would shock all right-thinking persons.

But all we saw was Mr. Joseph R. Grundy, variously known as "Joe," "Old Joe," "Uncle Joe" and "Blue-Eyed Joe," the president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association and the high-priest of twentieth century lobbyists.

Nothing Really New And all we heard was what everyone already knew—that Joe's chief interest in life was to raise millions of dollars for the political party that favored high protective tariffs and then to see that the contributors received a good return on their investments through the profits made possible by high protective duties.

Joe is proud and happy to be the man who raises the dough and then raises the duties. The Pennsylvania politicians are proud and happy to have him on the dough-raising job and the Pennsylvania manufacturers are proud and happy to have him on the duty-raising job.

Before Joe's turn came it was interesting to observe him chortling at the writhings of another lobbyist in the witness chair—a much lesser lobbyist for a big New England fish company.

"He's nothing but a paid lobbyist!" exclaimed this witness contemptuously in reference to a rival lobbyist for a rival fish company which had opposing designs on the tariff bill.

"Well, what are you?" demanded Caraway and Old Joe laughed louder and louder as Caraway and Walsh hector the poor young man until finally he agreed that he guessed he was a paid lobbyist, too.

He ought to be playing grandpoo parts in the movies. He's right onto 70 now. He's a chubby little man with a chubby little face, white hair parted on the side and a white mustache and gold spectacles. He's shorter than tall. "Baby Face," the girls would call him if he played around night clubs and one can almost imagine him giggling about it.

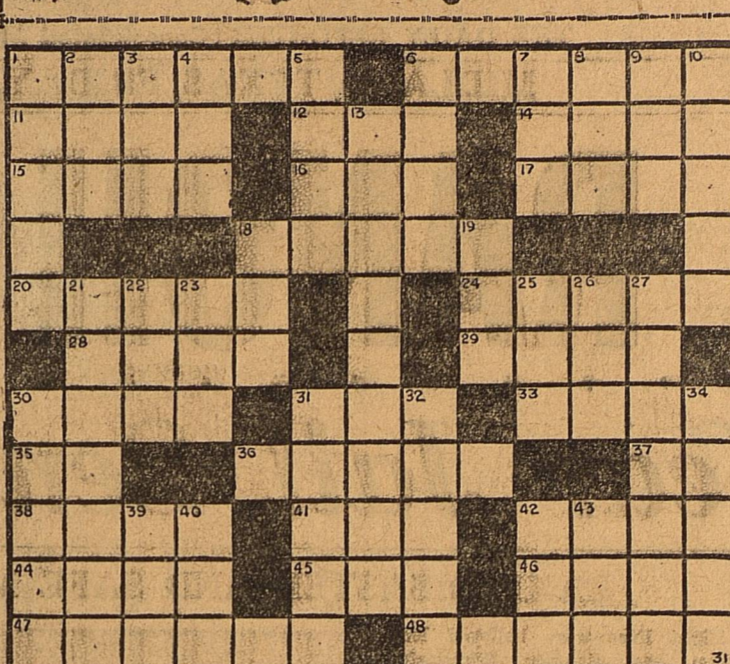

Of the 150 persons and 50 newspapermen in the hearing room, Uncle Joe's face bloomed reddest of all. And it was from no embarrassment, for one of the things about Uncle Joe is that he never, never gets embarrassed. He's not old-fashioned, either. He waddled up to the witness chair in a blue serge suit and dark tan shoes and a gay little blue bowtie.

Wasn't it his purpose in coming to Washington to see that the boys got their money back? Why, of course! What else? And, he added, the boys would get their money back if the Republican party kept its campaign and platform promises. Naturally, someone had to come to Washington to see that the promises were kept and that, he said, was just what he had been doing for two or three decades.

He spoke in a low matter of fact voice and was never melodramatic. His manner was mild and he was never ruffled. There ought to be many more tariff lobbyists in town, he said.

His Patience Was Strained Of course there were times when

ROTARIANS AND THEIR GUESTS PRANCE ON HALLOWE'EN

The Crystal Ballroom was the scene of a colorful Halloween party given Thursday evening for the Rotarians and the Rotary Anns, their families and friends.

Attractive and fitting decorations were all about the room. Mrs. Clarence Scharbauer was the head of the decoration committee, and carried out the Halloween motif to the minutest detail.

John Bonner acted as Master of Ceremonies throughout the evening and started the festivities off with a short talk on the History of Halloween.

The dancing students of Mrs. Paul T. Vickers gave a very interesting little playlet, the leading players in which were Dorothy Lou Speed and Jack Nobles. Other children were dressed to play the parts of witches, cats, bats and pumpkins.

The witches were Colleen Sisk and Mary Elizabeth Scruggs, the cats were Jessie Lynn Tuttle, Audrey Johnson, Myrtle Jean Butler and Rose Kincaid. The bats were Virginia Gay, Neva Ray Drake and Elouise Sundquist and the pumpkins were Duffey Stanley, Buster Cole, Doris Lynn Pemberton and Dolores Barron.

A huge pumpkin opened and released a little tap dancer, dressed in a dainty lavender satin costume trimmed with yellow satin and lace who turned out to be Doris Harrison, after which a stunt band composed of Rotarians gave a novel performance.

Competing with other specialty dancers of the evening were two lovely young ladies, who in reality were W. I. Pratt and Charles McCintic, and who displayed talent unknown heretofore to the unsuspecting Rotarians.

Mr. Dodson acted as a magician and displayed a bagful of tricks, and then gave up the spotlight to C. Hankins, who acted as a hypnotist who could hypnotize various objects and make them perform any ridiculous feats.

At the close of the program, confetti, tape, horns and balloons were distributed and those present made merry for the remainder of the evening.

Candy, apples and orangeade were served by Mrs. B. Frank Haag were served.

Haver and Mrs. Haver Presented Gift By Young People

The Live Wire Class of the Methodist Church was entertained in the home of Alta Mae Johnson with a Halloween party Thursday evening. The house was very attractively decorated for the occasion.

Upon the arrival of the guests, they were taken through spider web alley into the Chamber of Horrors, where screams and laughter were heard. This feature caused the riot of the guests quitted as much amusement.

The president of the Class arrived upon the scene with a handsome clock which was presented to Bro. and Mrs. Stanley Haver, who are soon to leave Midland, as a token of love from the young people for the many things the minister and his wife have done for them.

After the presentation of the gift, an old witch who came limping into the room caused much agitation and fright. The guests all had their fortunes told some of which proved to cause much excitement.

Unit from the Tisdale Films Here to Take Movies of the City's Important Attractions

Midland is "under fire." The announcement however should not cause any unnecessary alarm as the "firing" is being done by a unit of the Tisdale Films of Hollywood which has arrived in the city and opened its "guns" on the scenic, industrial and historical spots in and about Midland. The purpose of the "attack" is to produce a moving picture film of the city and community and which will be shown at the Ritz Theater when completed and developed.

After the local showing the picture is to be placed at the disposal of the civic clubs to be used as opportunity is afforded in giving the city publicity.

Already the cameramen have "shot" the Lyons club, offices, some of the churches and schools, together with a number of local industries.

YOUR CHILDREN by Olive Roberts Barton © 1929 by NEA Service Inc.

Gratitude isn't born in us. We have to learn it. The children have to be taught it.

Strange to say all other virtues seem to be given special attention in books of the Old and New Testament, but gratitude seems to be left largely to take care of itself. The Commandments teach us not to steal, nor to murder, nor to lie, nor to covet; the Beatitudes promise reward to the meek, peaceful, lowly and pious.

Paul in his epic to the people of Corinth gives us inspiration for right living in his chapter on faith, hope and charity, or as the newer versions have it—love.

The Lord's Prayer, a classic in praise and application, contains no reference to gratitude.

The Golden Rule approaches it more nearly. "Do unto others as ye would that others would do unto you."

Meaning of Gratitude It is so easy for children to get into the habit of accepting without any thought of return. Gratitude should consist, does consist, of more than a mere thank you.

From babyhood on, when a child has received a favor, the first reaction should be a thought like this: "I'll have to think of something nice to do for him, too."

Concrete little lessons are a splendid way to begin.

For instance: Suppose Mary gives two-year old Susan a piece of colored crayon out of her box. What happens in Susan's mind? This?—"She ought to have given me two pieces instead of one." Or this?—"Mary gave me something. What can I give her now?"

If the first, tiny Susan comes in the class of ingrates. If the last, she is learning the real meaning of gratitude.

It is almost certain that her small mind will react either one way or the other.

As Susan gets older that little germ of reciprocity will stick. "Things" will give way to acts, and acts to thoughts.

There is no real unselfishness where ingratitude exists. Ingratitude does not always mean failure to appreciate. It means, in a bigger sense, failure to return.

Making Child Appreciative There are so many ways to accustom the children to these little acts of appreciation.

George gives up his room with its double bed to David so David can have a chum to spend the night.

What should David do? Why, he should try to think up some-

The murderer, an Albanian soldier, killed three Serbian officers four years ago. He gave permission for his glands to be used in the operation. It was performed by Dr. Uzelac, a pupil of the famous gland expert, Prof. Voronoff.

No reports of the success of the operation are yet available, but exceptional results are anticipated.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Text: Mark 12:13-17; Rom. 13:1-7; I Peter 2:13-16

And they send unto him certain of the Pharisees and of the Herodians, to catch him in his words.

And when they were come, they say unto him, Master, we know that thou art true, and carest for no man; for thou regardest not the person of men, but teachest the way of God in truth: Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar, or not?

Shall we give, or shall we not give? But he, knowing their hypocrisy, said unto them, Why tempt ye me? bring me a penny, that I may see it.

And they brought it. And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and superscription? And they said unto him, Caesar's.

And Jesus answering said unto them, Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's. And they marvelled at him.

Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God; the powers that be are ordained by God.

Whoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God; and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation.

For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same.

For he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid: for he beareth not the sword in vain; for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil.

For, for this cause pay ye tribute also: for they are God's ministers, attending continually upon this very thing.

Render therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom is due: custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honor to whom honor.

Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake; whether it be to the king, as supreme;

Or unto governors, as unto them that are sent by him for the punishment of evil doers, and for the praise of them that do well.

For so is the will of God, that with well doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men.

As free, and not using your liberty for a cloak of maliciousness, but as the servants of God.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 2 Making Effective the Will of the Community. Mark 12:13-17; Rom. 13:1-7; I Peter 2:13-16.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist

The general title of this lesson is "Respect for Rightful Authority." It is the World's Temperance Lesson, and it has evidently been chosen with reference to the problem of law which is confronted everywhere with the liquor traffic, but which is particularly emphasized at the present day in America.

The fact that in this country the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor is prohibited by law and the Constitution has not as yet eliminated the need for personal attitudes and the exercise of personal will in relation to the actual matter of liquor drinking. Those who lay great stress on education and the voluntary practice of total abstinence, as against the exercise of law in dealing with the liquor problem, overlook the fact that there is still a field for education, and voluntary total abstinence has lost nothing of its practical value.

The Will Still Rules It is still possible for one voluntarily to abstain from intoxicating liquor, and the fact that such abstinence is in harmony with the spirit of the law does not in any way lessen the value of voluntary action.

The passing of such drastic measures as prohibition emphasizes various aspects of the problem of maintaining law in a democracy and the questions concerning the relation of individual liberty and conscience to the state. It ought to be recognized by all, whether they believe in prohibition or not, that it is a drastic measure. Any law that interferes with the habits and customs of a large part of people in the community is drastic, even if those habits and customs should be indefensible and socially harmful.

What many who oppose prohibition because it is so drastic overlook is that all law is drastic and much of the legislation of the statute books is exactly of the same nature as prohibition—the rigorous interference and activity of law to correct social abuses and to further the general welfare. The ultimate question that ought to be asked concerning every law in a democracy is the simple question whether in the last analysis and in its ultimate effect it makes for more liberty or less.

As one who strongly favors the continuance of what President Hoover has rightly called "a noble experiment," I am convinced that the future of prohibition must ultimately be decided upon the soundness or unsoundness of the claim that it has made for more liberty for all. The days of legal drinking may have established more liberty for men only; but when one takes into account all in the community, men, women and children, it is an interesting thing to consider fairly whether even drastic laws that seem superficially to interfere with personal liberties have not been instrumental in establishing larger liberty for all.

It is difficult to discuss such a lesson as we have here without reference to these backgrounds and problems of life today. These are the things that bring before us the same sort of questions that people brought to Jesus and to Paul for decision.

The three passages in our lesson from Mark, Romans and I Peter all strongly uphold the authority of the state; but it would be easy to show from the New Testament that this authority was upheld only where it did not conflict with some higher authority of truth or righteousness. Paul in his later years was by no means so sure that the powers that be were ordained by God. He saw on the contrary a spirit of wickedness working in high places.

On one occasion, also, when Peter was charged with doing things that were unlawful, his reply was, "We ought to obey God rather than men." What we should bear in mind, however, is that law and order are never endangered by the man who acts from a high sense of his obligation to God.

Selfish Lawlessness There is a lawlessness that is beneath the law, destructive, selfish, scornful of authority and discipline. Such lawlessness can find no possible justification in the realm of conscience. The men who have disobeyed laws for conscience' sake are on an entirely different plane. It should always be remembered, also, that the great end of society is not law, but through law and every other constructive agency to build up a society of citizens whose personal acts and relationships with one another are such that if there were no law at all the life of society would be ideal. The end and purpose of law in society is to establish that well disciplined life which requires no law.

ONE VARIETY OF COTTON

BIG SPRING, Tex.—The Howard County Farmers' Cooperative Marketing Association will hold a meeting on Saturday, November 2, to determine the advisability of adopting one variety of cotton for the 1930 crop. The question of standardization has been advocated by County Agent J. V. Bush since his coming to the county last year. This Farmers' organization owns and operates a gin in Big Spring and have concluded that it will be to their financial gain to grow one variety of good staple cotton. This gin under the new plan will gin only cotton grown by the stock holders and those farmers who are willing to plant the adopted variety and who are willing to conform to the regulations with reference to roguing and ginning.

Experiment Station reports on variety tests will be given at this meeting by Fred Keating, Supt. Federal Experiment Station at Big Spring.

It is estimated that the United States consumes 297,483,000 barrels of gasoline yearly, or 76.2 per cent of the world's total consumption. All of North America accounts for 310,565,000 barrels, or 79.54 per cent. Europe consumes slightly more than 14 per cent.

POULTRY FLOCK CLEARS PROFIT FOR MIDLAND COUNTY FARMERS

Due to proper feeding and care 250 White Lephorn hens made a profit of $1.20 per hen for Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Jones of Valley View community, a good record for any farmer to "shoot at." Here it is:

The 250 hens laid 14,249 eggs or 1,188 dozen in five months time. These eggs sold for an average of 32.6 cents per dozen, or a total of $387.28. Three hundred baby chicks were hatched from eggs produced by 35 of the best hens in the flock. The sum of $65.12 was received for cull hens and broilers, and 175 select pullets were kept and are beginning to lay.

The total feed cost for the five months was $155.10 for feed not produced on the farm, and an estimate of $96.00 for home grown feeds.

The results of the record follow:

Receipts
Eggs produced	$387.28
Hens & broilers sold	65.12
New Stock (pullets)	175.00
Total Receipts	$627.40
Expenses
Feed purchased	$155.10
Home grown feed	96.00
Hens died or culled	77.00
Total Expenses	$319.10
Profit	$292.30

It must be remembered that this flock of hens paid the above dividends during the dry hot summer months when egg production is at its lowest and prices are usually at the bottom.

BIG PEP RALLY HELD AT HIGH SCHOOL THIS MORNING: PEP GIRLS GET SWEATERS ON STAGE

The big day of the 1929 football season for the Midland High School Bulldogs was started this morning at a pep rally in the high school auditorium at 8:30 o'clock, preparatory to the football game this afternoon between the improved local squad and their traditional foe, Odessa.

The high school pep squad is noted for its continual rooting for the Bulldogs, and the halls of Midland's beautiful school building re-echoed time and again with the shrill yells and "Beat Odessa" cries that rang forth. Many visitors were called upon to make short talks. One woman even volunteered for a speech, and offered to take up 30 minutes in the doing of it if the students so elected. The presence of so many town people shows that Midland is interested in the local football team. Superintendent W. W. Lackey's speech was short. "Your pep squad sweaters are here—" and then the howling started. The girls had their sweaters on in a short time, and were soon on the stage for "show."

Marriages

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By FRANK GETTY, United Press Sports Editor

SPORTS FOR ALL

The college world is on the lookout for first signs of genuine reaction to the recent bulletin issued by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

The period of indignation, idle curiosity and grudging admission of the truth of the Foundation's charges has passed.

Now is the time for all good (college) men to come to the aid of their sport.

What will be the result of the recommendation that colleges dispense with paid coaches and glorified athletes and get back to the true spirit of sportsmanship and sports for all?

Widening the Horizon

The result probably will be more far-reaching than the more cynical of the present day critics believe. It is unlikely that colleges and universities would agree to do away with their football spectacles which assist so greatly in keeping alumni in touch with the alma mater and the school treasury in touch with the alumni pocketbooks.

But we can retain our gridiron spectacles and high powered college elevens and still have a widening of the sports horizon, a more general participation in sport by all students, instead of a highly trained (highly paid?) few.

Throughout the Carnegie Foundation's report one could not help but feel the contrast between sports in this country and in England, where the background is broader and less emphasis is placed on winning.

He requests that every member be present who can possibly do so.

Youngquist Named Prohibition Enforcer

SMU PULLS FIFTY FORMATIONS IN LAST DRILL

The gathering shadows of Saturday afternoon will be a poetic revelation to one grid team of the Southwest conference; to the other it will mean the umbra of lost ambition, of blighted hope.

Southern Methodist university's red and blue warriors and the orange of Texas university will have decided by that time which is the most powerful team, and may have decided, incidentally, which will win the coveted championship.

There are other teams which are not out of the running. There is the proud purple and white of Texas Christian University, and over in Waco the Golden Bruins strain at the leash, provoked at the incessant cry that the sports market has ceased to be bearish.

A. & M. and Arkansas are out, without a doubt, as is Rice, Texas, S. M. U., T. C. U. and Baylor have IT, and many scribes think the first two will be the main elevens which go forth to cop the bunting. Others prefer T. C. U.

Their preparation for the classic practically completed, the Mustangs settled back to wait for the game with an air of confidence, or possibly a feeling of determination. On form Texas goes into the game favored to win. But the Red and Blue warriors are keyed to a fighting pitch. Texas may win, they feel, but the Longhorns will have to play super football to turn the trick.

Once again scribes were dazzled at the Thursday practice as the Ponies tried play after play. Everything from triple passes to straight rushes of the tackles were unrehearsed before the critical eyes of Ray Morrison. Offhand the Mustangs used at least sixty different plays and the number may have ranged as high as seventy-five. If the weather is dry the spectators Saturday are due to see one of the most sensational offenses ever cut loose on a Southwestern grid. Morrison has taken full advantage of the fumble rule and the Ponies are going to do about everything with the spheroid but put it under their hats.

A consensus of State opinion rates the contest a toss-up. Nearly all scribes rate Texas the stronger team, but they are held back from predicting a Longhorn victory due to the fact that Morrison has had three long weeks in which to do nothing else but prepare for the contest. And when the Pony boss has that much time to get his tricks to working somebody is due for a surprise.

The big if Saturday is the Mustangs' sophomore backfield. None of the starting quarter but Hopper has been tested by actual conference warfare. Morrison thinks his youngsters will come through. If they do the Longhorns are in for a merry time as Mason and Kattman, especially the former, loom as two of the finest running backs in the circuit.

S. M. U.'s powerful line, which was strong enough to hold Nebraska's strong plunging attack in check, is expected to hold Texas' powerful running offense. The battle is expected to be decided in the air. Here Texas this year has shown just as much ability as S. M. U., though it must be remembered that the Longhorns have opened up and the Mustangs have not. It will take Saturday to decide which team is strongest in the air—and the one that is probably will win.

The Mustangs' battle cry is "unbeaten by Texas since 1920." They hope to be able to yell the same things when the shadows fall on Ownby Stadium's greensward Saturday night.

AGGIE CAGERS START

COLLEGE STATION.—A squad of 25 candidates, five of them lettermen of last season, and the remainder hustling varsity squaddens and intramural stars, is expected to report to John Reid, Texas Aggie basketball coach, Friday, November 1, when work building the 1929-30 Texas Aggie cage team will get under way.

FIRST BABY HAS CHILD

A baby boy was born Friday evening of last week to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rountree. The child weighed nine and a half pounds and has been named Robert Dewitt.

The baby has the distinction of being a son of the first male baby born in Midland county, according to the older inhabitants.

The deepest place in the ocean yet found is 145 miles southeast of Tokio, Japan—32,636 feet.

HOWARD FARMERS TERRACE

BIG SPRING, Tex.—The farmers of Howard county realizing the importance of terracing and contouring their lands have placed applications with County Agent Bush for the terracing of more than 4,000 acres of land to be terraced this fall and next spring.

Terracing schools will be held in different parts of the county at which time farmers will be instructed in the work in order to get this amount of acreage terraced. The school will be held under the supervision of the county agent and by representatives of the Federal Land and Loan Bank of Houston.

TECH RIFLE TEAM WINS

LUBBOCK, Tex.—The rifle team of Texas Technological College scored a 641 to 624 victory over the Schools of Mines at El Paso during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention. The Tech team went in automobiles with Instructor Lieutenant H. E. Killin, Cain and Galloway of the Tech team tied for high score.

Postal matches with ten or twelve schools in various parts of the United States are being arranged. A challenge has just been received from Cornell for a postal match during the first week in December which was accepted.

FROG CRIPPLES AT WORK

FORT WORTH, Oct. 30.—The Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, with all of their cripples in uniform and working out daily, will probably reach their early season strength in time for the Texas game Nov. 16.

Austin Griffith, who was injured on the opening kick-off of the 1929 campaign, is working out, and should be ready for action in the Longhorn contest. The big fullback, who was mentioned on several all-conference teams last year, was unfortunately in having his shoulder chipped in the first game this year, as it will probably cost him a berth on the all-conference club. His place has been ably filled on the offense by Harlos Green, and the North Side boy is not the smashing linebacker that Griffith is.

CITY FIGHTS "TERMITES"

HOUSTON, Tex.—(P)—The city's building code will be revised by Engineer H. L. Shaw for protection against of "millions of termites" which he said are chewing away at homes and furniture.

The termite, the city engineer explained, is a curious tropical insect, "well equipped for modern warfare. Each is armed with a buzz saw jaw and can fly or walk but prefers the subterranean channels (or trenches) through the foundations of houses and furniture to open warfare."

"They are organized into armies, well trained and well equipped. They have a king at their head, divisions, brigades, regiments, companies, squadrons, generals, colonels, captains, and top sergeants."

The common ant, Mr. Shaw added, is a deadly enemy to the termites and Houston needs more of these enemies.
