

BIGGEST OIL BANK INVESTS HERE

Gas is Encountered in Andrews County Wildcat Test

STRUCTURE FOUND TO BE HIGHER

Deep Rock Test Gets Interest Of Oil Men This Week

Striking of substantial gas showings and evidence of a higher structure in the Deep Rock Oil Company's No. 1 Ogdin, Andrews County wildcat test, claimed the attention of oil men of the Midland area late in the week, and gave Midland hope of additional claim to leadership as the business center of West Texas and New Mexico operations.

Gas In High Structure First showing of gas, estimated at 100,000 cubic feet, was encountered at 2,725 feet, according to reports here yesterday.

On Friday, between 2,900 and 2,905 feet, gas was picked up, blowing the tools 20 feet up the hole where they stuck. The tools were removed and the baffle was run, going to 20 feet off bottom, where a cave-in was encountered. The cave was cleaned out and the gas increased, being estimated at a half million cubic feet.

Increase With Depth The hole was then deepened to 2,925 feet where an increase in gas was again picked up. The gas blew the tools up the hole again where they stuck. Fishing for the tools was still in progress on last reports Saturday.

Information that the structure is 95 to 100 feet higher than that of the Deep Rock No. 1 Harris, which was drilled and plugged a mile and a half southeast of the Ogdin test, was given out by a local office Saturday.

The test is located on section 6, block A-46, public school land, Andrews County.

LLOYD SPOKE TO GEOLOGISTS AT ANGELO SATURDAY

E. Russell Lloyd, consulting geologist here with Fisher-Lowerre, spoke Saturday night at a meeting of the West Texas Geological Society at San Angelo on "The stratigraphy and correlation of the Permian Basin in West Texas and southeastern New Mexico."

Guy E. Green of the Vacuum Oil Company, secretary of the society, attended in his official capacity. George Vorbe and F. G. Swenson of Midland also attended.

The meeting was held at the St. Angelus Hotel.

Lloyd, who for the past few months has made his home in Midland, is the only Midland man in "Who's Who in America". He is a Rhodes Scholar and is nationally recognized as a geologist through his former work with the federal government.

Electric Lights For Shipping Pens Asked

If a request made by Leon Goodman, representing Midland cattlemen and the Midland Chamber of Commerce, to the T. and P. Railway Company is complied with, loading of cattle at night will be feasible at the Midland stock pens.

Goodman has asked that electric lights be strung over the pens to facilitate loading of cattle during the short days of the fall.

The request includes also concrete lining in the iron water tanks, as it is reported by cattle shippers that cattle will not drink the water furnished from the iron tanks.

"3 WISE FOOLS" WILL GET LAUGHS IN DRAMA HERE

Not only does the Little Theatre want a debutante for the coming production "Three Wise Fools," but there are several other roles to be filled, according to Mrs. George Abell, director of "The Whole Town's Talking," "The Brat," "The Cajun," "The Valiant," and other successful plays.

Mrs. Abell, in directors meeting held Friday afternoon, announced the roles of the new play. The whole thing is a roaring comedy which hinges about three singular gentlemen who were once schoolmates, but who now are old bachelors living together. These three form a triune laugh-provoking group which undoubtedly will please the Midland audience more than any other play selected by the dramatic organization.

Theodore Finley, a perfect grouch of late middle age, has a voice like Stentor and sneaks Scrooge into the background when it comes to fault-finding.

Dr. Richard Gaunt of the good stage laugh and of pronounced joviality, is the second "fool." He is also of middle age and has white hair and a distinguished appearance.

Affable and benevolent is the third of the wisecracks. He is known as Honorable James Trumbull, a judge of the higher court of appeals.

Around these satellites revolve a well balanced caste of less pretentious, but distinct character actors. There is Gordon, the collegiate, the Gideon, the youth whose age of 24 is a complement to his ready wit and whimsical thought.

Sydney is a wistful, yet mercurial girl, who changes moods as rapidly as the type would indicate. She is a real daughter of Eve. She is between the ages of 20 and 24.

Then there are the rest, those others who are always found backstage and who are as necessary to the correct interpretation of a play as the front line is to the racing backs in a football lineup.

Of this formidable bolstering group, there is the inevitable butler, Gray, Mr. Poole, an expressionless man, Mrs. Saunders, a calm woman who has been with the fools for years, Bennie the Dick, a tough criminal, John Cranshaw, bank embezzler, and a policeman.

Work on the drama is to begin as soon as a tryout can be held and proper types selected for the various roles. When the announcement of the night for the tryouts is made, Midland people are expected to aid the organization by coming to the "home of the Little Theatre" and trying for a part.

No such address was found. A number of similar notes have been received at the Pantages home, it was said.

EXCHANGE NATIONAL OF TULSA GETS INTEREST IN LOCAL BANK

BY T. S. HOGAN

The purchase of the Midland National Bank by the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa, is the most important event of recent months for the City of Midland. It was learned today that negotiations had been under way for considerable time.

Everyone at all familiar with the development of cities realizes that strong financial banking interests are the leading factor in such development. It was the banking interests of Tulsa that were primarily responsible for the phenomenal and substantial growth in the early days of that city. When it became generally known in the oil industry that Tulsa had the strongest financial institutions of that portion of the state of Oklahoma, Tulsa immediately attracted the great majority of the oil men and oil companies. Other cities and towns equally well located in reference to the oil fields were eliminated from the race, and Tulsa grew from a population of a few thousand to more than a hundred thousand in less than six years.

While it is true that the conditions are not the same at Midland as they were at Tulsa in those old days, it is also true that Midland has a greater oil area surrounding it and a greater potential oil production than Tulsa ever had. Within a radius of 90 miles of Midland the actual daily production of oil is equivalent in number of barrels to one-half of the entire production of the State of Oklahoma, and the shut-in production under proration is several times as great as the shut-in production of all the rest of the United States combined. The unexplored potential oil areas surrounding Midland cover many millions of acres.

The selection of Midland by the Exchange National Bank as the city in which to establish its Permian Basin headquarters definitely fixes this city as the financial center of the area. It is understood that an experienced oil banker will be sent here from Tulsa to assume charge of the oil business of the bank, while the cattle and agricultural management will remain as at present. While the Exchange National Bank is generally thought of by the public as the leading oil bank of the United States it, nevertheless, does a tremendous business in livestock and agriculture and has a personnel especially trained to look after such interests in the districts which it serves. Its policy in Midland will be to encourage the livestock and agricultural interests to as great an extent as consistent with good banking practice. Its facilities for serving such interests are naturally much greater than those of a smaller financial institution could possibly be.

The Exchange National Bank has a personnel in its directors and officers with financial and business connections known throughout the United States. Few men in the banking industry are as well and favorably known as is Harry Rogers, its president. Some of the most powerful individual figures in the oil industry are directors. J. Frank Hatchett, who was the first representative of the Exchange National to discuss the matter with the Midland National, is chairman of the Tulsa aviation committee of the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce. He is also vice-president of the Southwest Air Express, which operates a fleet of airplanes from Kansas City and St. Louis via Tulsa to Dallas, Fort Worth and Sweetwater. It is understood that his influence and that of the banking interests which he represents will be used to make Midland the western terminal of that air route. This is one of the many ways in which the coming of this powerful financial institution to Midland will promote the city's development.

HAMILTON SAYS HE AND SON-IN-LAW FOUGHT OVER GUN; READS LETTERS

WEATHERFORD, Nov. 2.—(P)—R. H. Hamilton testified in his murder trial here today that his son-in-law, Tom Walton, Jr., 21, was slain last May 4 in Hamilton's Amarillo office in "mortal battle" over a pistol.

Hamilton said he saw Walton standing with his hand in his coat pocket. "He moved his right hand and I immediately grabbed for my pistol. When I grabbed for my gun, he made a dash toward me. I pulled the gun out and he jerked it out of my hand and I caught hold of it and it discharged over by shoulder. From that time until Tom Walton fell to the floor, there was a mortal battle over that pistol. He was doing everything to shoot me and I was doing everything to shoot him. I was stronger, and as a result, he was killed instead of me," Hamilton said.

During the morning, the judge read letters written him from his wife, telling of Walton's threats against his life.

The judge testified that he hadn't forbidden his daughter to go with Walton, but he objected to the frequency. He admitted that he wanted to learn about Walton's character before consenting to their marriage, but had never said that Walton's character was improper for him to marry Theresa.

During cross examination, E. H. Grindstaff, special weatherford prosecutor, attempted to establish that shots were fired after Walton fell to the floor, but Hamilton said his pistol had been emptied before his son-in-law dropped.

CATTELMEN GET DOUBLE PROFIT AS CALVES SPEND WINTER HERE

Midland ranchmen are getting a double profit on the sale of their calves this fall. They are getting the advantage of good prices by having sold the calves in the spring, and are getting to pasture the cattle in the Midland country through the winter instead of having the calves shipped at the usual fall delivery season.

Brass and Meyers, through their representative here, Foy Proctor, have bought approximately 12,000 head of calves, receiving and paying for them now, but they will pasture the calves in the Midland section until spring where the cattle will be shipped to pastures in Nebraska.

Abundance of weeds and grass in this country, coupled with the fact that many ranches are stocked lightly, makes the pasturing of the calves "come in handy" this winter.

Elliott F. Cowden, in commenting on the cattle situation here, says that the present deflation in cattle prices will not affect the local cattlemen to a great extent, and few of them should take any losses unless the price continues lower next spring. Most of the cattle being delivered now were sold a few months ago at better prices than now prevail. The good range conditions make it easy for the average ranchman to hold his cattle for better price conditions.

Recent deliveries and shipments of cattle have been made by Mrs. O. B. Holt, O. B. Holt Jr., Elliott F. Cowden, Clyde Cowden, W. H. Cowden Jr., Frank Cowden, B. N. Aycock, Andrew Fasken, Hutt Cattle Company, Hart Cattle Company, A. C. Francis, Tom Nance, Snyder and Litton, Scharbauer and Cooksey, Ratliff and Bedford, Amburgey and Henderson of Odessa, Leon Goodman, C. P. Benedict and others.

Shipments Friday included 20 cars from Snyder and Litton to Denver, 38 cars from the same firm to Los Angeles, and 10 cars by Tom Nance to Fort Worth.

FIGHT WAGED FOR AIRMAIL ROUTE THROUGH CITY

The proposed airmail line along the southern trans-continental route for aircraft has stirred up quite a contest, letters received by Senator Tom Connally of Texas indicate. The letters were received in response to his notice of a public hearing to be held on the proposal Nov. 25 before the interdepartmental committee on airways in Washington.

For several months postmasters of Dallas, Fort Worth, and El Paso, assisted by chambers of commerce along the route from Dallas to El Paso, have been bombarding the committee in charge and asking that the route be established over this area. The fact has been cited that this route is the safest which could be selected.

At the hearing three proposed routes will be considered, one from St. Louis via Tulsa, Dallas and Fort Worth to Los Angeles, another from Birmingham via Dallas and Fort Worth and a third from Mobile via New Orleans, Beaumont, Houston, San Antonio, El Paso to Los Angeles.

Homer D. Wade, vice president and general manager of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, advised Senator Connally a committee of the chamber would attend the hearing and seek to have the route go through Dallas and Fort Worth.

The Dallas-Fort Worth route would shorten the distance by several hundred miles and would make a safer route than that by way of New Orleans, Mr. Wade said.

Representative Augustus McCloskey of the San Antonio district, on behalf of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, has asked Senator Connally's support of the South Texas route via New Orleans and Houston, Mr. McCloskey said there would be a meeting of the cities interested in this route at Houston Nov. 7.

Mr. McCloskey pointed out air mail service via the southern route would touch all ports on the Texas coast and many others outside the state on the Gulf of Mexico and be a connection service to Corpus Christi, the Rio Grande Valley and Laredo.

The Texas representative said San Antonio interests would not oppose any of the three proposed routes through Texas, and while seeking establishment of the service through South Texas would help if necessary those seeking the route through Dallas and Fort Worth. Another letter supporting the route through South Texas has been received by Senator Connally from the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce.

Senator Connally has also received a copy of the resolution of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce adopted at El Paso last Saturday asking for an air mail service from St. Louis and Kansas City via Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Wichita Falls to Sweetwater. The Southwest Air Express, also known as the Safeway Lines, operates a regular passenger service over this route.

MIDLAND NATIONAL IS INVOLVED IN SALE OF STOCK TO TULSA MEN

Same Officers And Directors Remain In Charge Of Local Institution; Deal Went Into Effect Saturday

Purchase of a controlling interest, through acquiring a block of stock in the Midland National Bank was completed Saturday by the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa interests. Ned Holman, vice-president of the Exchange National Bank, and J. F. Matchett, assistant vice-president, were in Midland to perfect the deal, which took effect immediately.

Mr. Holman, in a personal interview, said that the purchase of a block of stock in the Midland National Bank from J. B. Wilkinson, Henry James, R. M. Barron, and others, was a part of an extension program in which the Exchange National Bank interests will purchase a group of banks in Oklahoma and Texas.

Midland Bank First

The Midland National Bank is the first Texas bank in which the Tulsa institution has become interested.

Of interest locally is the announcement by Mr. Holman that there will be no change in the personnel of officers, directors or employees of the institution. J. B. Wilkinson, as president, and Ralph M. Barron, as cashier, will continue to manage the bank with full authority to act in all business matters. It was a part of the agreement, in perfecting the deal, that the present officers, directors and employees remain, Mr. Holman said. These officers and directors retain stock holding interests in the bank. The Exchange National Bank of Tulsa, of which Harry Rogers, well known throughout the southwest for his civic, fraternal and business activities, is president, is one of the largest financial institutions in the southwest.

Knew T. S. Hogan

Through acquaintance with T. S. Hogan of Midland, heads of the bank became interested in the Midland area, and an investigation they were impressed with the rapid growth of Midland, and its surrounding country in cattle, agriculture and oil development.

"The section presented a very attractive opening," Mr. Holman said, "and we decided to enter this territory." He added that he is not prepared at this time to say in what other sections of Texas the Exchange National interests will make investments.

J. B. Wilkinson, president of the bank, said that only after much thought he and his associates concluded to dispose of any part of their holdings here, but that due to the rapid growth of the country, they felt the bank could be even more useful in aiding the development of the territory through the connection with the Exchange National Bank interests of Tulsa.

Wilkinson Is President

"I made a thorough investigation of the personnel of and the plans of the Tulsa bank, and after being fully satisfied that the connection would be of advantage to Midland, I consented to remain as president," Wilkinson said.

R. M. Barron, cashier of the bank, says he feels that the investment made by the Tulsa bankers is one of the greatest compliments ever paid to Midland and to the Midland country, and he believes it will prove of invaluable advantage to the interests of this section.

Barron said he was glad to announce to his friends and to the public generally that at the invitation of the Exchange National Bank officials, he will remain as cashier and a director of the Midland National Bank.

Rogers Well Known

Harry Rogers, president of the Exchange National Bank, is well known in Texas. He owns extensive banking and real estate interests in San Antonio and spends much of his time there.

He is a past president of the Rotary International, and is an outstanding civic leader in the southwest.

To Have Director

At the next annual meeting of the Midland National Bank, at least one director representing the Exchange National Bank interests will be elected to the board of the Midland National, it was stated by Mr. Holman.

AIRLINE FOUNDER REALIZES DREAM FIRST FELT HERE

When Carl Cromwell squatted on his heels one day last year at Sloan field, Midland Municipal airport, and said in the most approved western fashion to President Lockheed of the Lockheed-Vega aircraft manufacturing corporation, "What will you take for that plane you landed here?" Lockheed did not know that his answer was to be taken so literally that he would have to ride a train back to the Pacific coast. The plane manufacturer named a figure in excess of $12,000. Great was his surprise when the questioner pulled out a checkbook and wrote out a check without saying one other word.

"Real western way for doing things," Lockheed said, taking the purchaser to the plane and placing him inside.

And from that day, Cromwell has been a flying oil man.

Friday marked his first realization of the dream which suddenly passed before his imagination when in Midland on the date of the purchase of his first plane. He established an airline.

Service over the Cromwell Airlines, Inc., passenger route connecting San Angelo with Fort Worth and Dallas was inaugurated Friday morning.

Randolph G. Page, vice president and general manager of Texhona Aeronautical Service, Inc., piloted the plane which inaugurated the west-bound service while Gordon Darnell, chief pilot for Cromwell, flew the ship which left San Antonio Friday morning.

The westbound ship took off at the municipal airport at 8:10 a. m., carrying D. W. Carlton, manager of aviation activities for the Association of Commerce, as a passenger. John D. Carter of Fort Worth was also a passenger. Jimmie Mattern, who will fly the line regularly, acted as co-pilot for Page. The latter is in charge of Stinson plane sales in Texas and Oklahoma. That type of equipment will be used exclusively on the line.

THE BIG BANK DEAL

One may draw his own conclusions about the purchase by Tulsa bank interests of a block of stock in the Midland National Bank, but to the editor it looks like an expression of the confidence of one of the nation's strongest oil financial institutions in Midland as the business and banking center of the ever expanding Permian Basin oil territory.

With such an investment, there may naturally follow investments by refineries and other payroll institutions which will add much to the wealth of Midland and the surrounding territory.

It probably means that the money paid for thousands, hundreds of thousands, and even millions of dollars for leases and royalties in West Texas and New Mexico will be paid from Midland, which means the transfer of vast sums of money into channels in this section.

It means that Midland will not only be a strong banking center for cattle and farming operations, but also for the development of oil.

And, as Tulsa took the lead by becoming the financial center in Oklahoma, what can Midland do with an even greater oil territory when it becomes established as the financial center of West Texas.

THE CASE OF MR. FALL

It still may be impossible to convict a million dollars, but the Washington jury that finally found Albert B. Fall guilty of accepting a bribe has at least demonstrated that good-sized fractions of a million can be convicted, at any rate.

The verdict in this case was both surprising and salutary.

Surprising, because in all the years that had elapsed since Tom Walsh ripped the lid off the oil scandals it had seemed impossible to find a jury that would believe what practically everybody else in the nation believed.

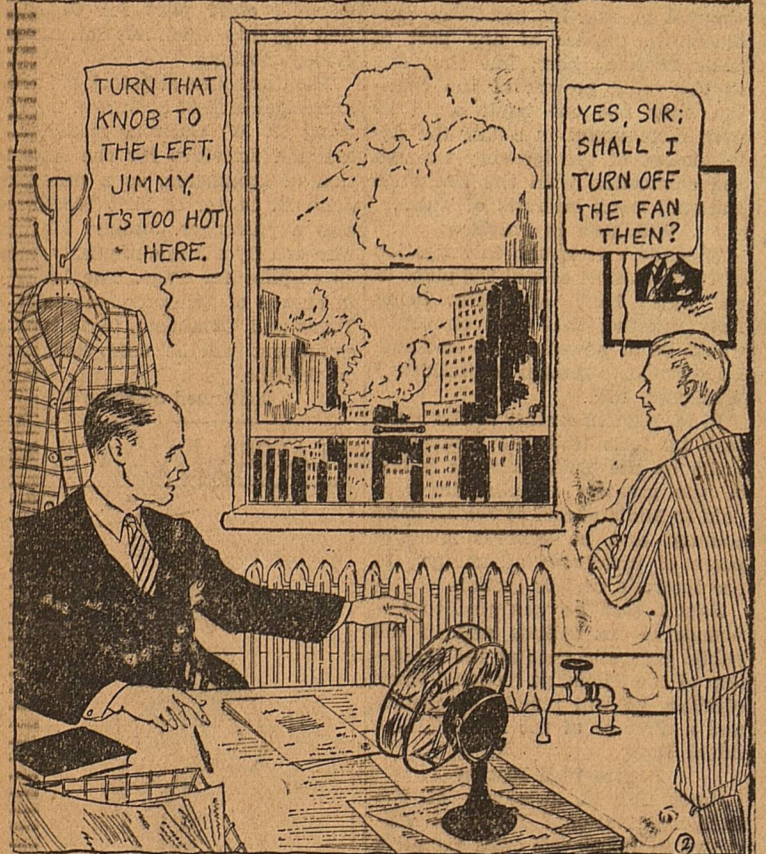

Salutary, because it helps to restore our faith in our processes of law—a faith that the last half dozen years have shaken rather badly.

Fall was undoubtedly a pitiable figure when the verdict was announced. There is no denying that he is in ill-health. There is no denying that his recent years have not been particularly happy. There is no denying that bluff old ex-prospecter Doheny made an effective gesture in shaking his fists to heaven and stomping out of the courtroom.

Yet the former secretary of the interior doesn't deserve an oversupply of public sympathy.

The supreme court of the country has branded him as a faithless public servant, and it has been a long time since anybody outside of Fall's immediate entourage disagreed with this decision. The Elk Hills oil reserve went to private interests for a price, and so did the Teapot Dome field; and all of Mr. Doheny's ranting about patriotism and the menace of the Japanese cannot make either of these transactions smell sweet.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

In connection with the pure food show, there is going to be a baby show here soon. Women in charge were seeking ways and means of getting babies entered, and they were advised by the Town Quack, who stays at home with the baby a great deal, to advertise that all babies left at the baby show would be cared for free of charge while the parents went to the picture show. He was advised that they could care for only a limited number.

They are also planning to have a country store. Negotiations are said to be under way with Addison Wadley for manager.

Under the head of personals Saturday, it might be said that Aubrey Legg did not leave town all day. Dr. Young was under close surveillance, but eluded the reporters before the day was over.

Jim Cooper was driving three miles abreast to a wagon yesterday and from the way the left mule turned out in front, one would judge that he ordinarily worked on the right. He had the appearance of a right shoe on the left foot.

Auctioneers are not without wit. When a bid of about a dollar raise was called for, a Midland woman raised the high bid a dime at Barrow's auction sale. "There goes Mrs. Woolworth again," the auctioneer said, "sometimes I wonder whether this is a furniture store or a 5 and 10 cent store."

Prof Lackey told his football team that if they beat Odessa Friday they could have their choice of a trip to the Big Spring-Ablene game Saturday, or a banquet Saturday night. They did the job so well at Odessa that he gave them both. It was just like dragging raw meat in front of a tied dog and then turning him loose in the kitchen. Their appetites were well whetted.

A man named Rollin Pease writes the Chamber of Commerce he would like to come to Midland to give a song concert. It is presumed that a rollin' peas musical concert would be served with a knife. A knife usually goes with rollin peas.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—People who used to admire Old Bob La Follette in the Senate often ask a Washington correspondent how much space Young Bob La Follette is taking up in his father's shoes as senator from Wisconsin. The time is about here when one can answer with some assurance that this youngest of the senators is showing up as well as anyone has a right to expect and considerably better than was ever predicted by his political enemies.

At any rate, there does not seem to be any parallel in current public life which equals the success of the present Robert M. La Follette in following the parental trail to fame and prestige. La Follette junior has a running start because he is only 34 years old, whereas La Follette senior was 50 when first elected to the Senate. The old man served an apprenticeship as a congressman and as Wisconsin's governor, but Young Bob was promptly elected to the vacancy on his father's death.

Making a Good Record
Last year he had to run for re-nomination and re-election and the Wisconsin conservatives tried to beat him on the plea that this senatorship was a man's job. Wisconsin appeared satisfied with the "boy" then and his record for the last year looks a lot better than it did before.

In the first place, La Follette inherited every bit of his father's insurgency. There are so few insurgents here that each one stands out rather conspicuously if he has any ability at all. La Follette is one of the three or four who do. It would be grossly unfair to compare him in his senatorial infancy with his father at the height of his powers and his fame, but he has managed to stay always on the Progressive track, entering into every Progressive fight, harpooning the administration and its forces at every opportunity and still keeping his feet on the ground without committing any faults or errors which might be attributed to his youth.

When the crash came in Wall Street the other day some here recalled that it was La Follette who nearly two years ago introduced and supported a resolution asking the Federal Reserve Board to curb speculative loans. It may also be remembered that La Follette introduced and forced through a resolution expressing opposition of the Senate to a third term. While passage of this resolution probably wasn't the chief influence behind Coolidge's reluctance to run again it was an effective move, for the Republican senators who voted for it would have had a hard time supporting Coolidge for election had he been renominated.

La Follette evidently refused to take any part in the presidential campaign. He had spoken for the platform of the Wisconsin Progressive Republicans at the Kansas City convention, displaying great oratorical ability and drawing cheers from hundreds of standpat throats. But this year the La Follette voice has been heard more vigorously, more frequently and more effectively than ever. Norris and Borah, seasoned men in their sixties, have been leading the insurgent troops, but La Follette has been one of the most valuable generals. From the outset he has put in a great amount of work on tariff legislation and the results have shown.

Last spring he was one of the leaders in the fight to abolish secret roll calls in the Senate.

When the tariff bill came from the House it was he who urged the Progressives to adopt the same methods the insurgents used against the Payne-Aldrich bill in 1909, when the elder La Follette and others divided up the schedules between them and each made an intensive study of his own subject. The present La Follette was named to lead the fight in the important chemical and sugar rates and when the rate schedules first came before the Senate opened the Progressive attack on them with an exhausting array of facts and a slashing assault upon the merits of the chemical industry's claim for more tariff favors. He had spent most of the summer and weeks since studying his schedules.

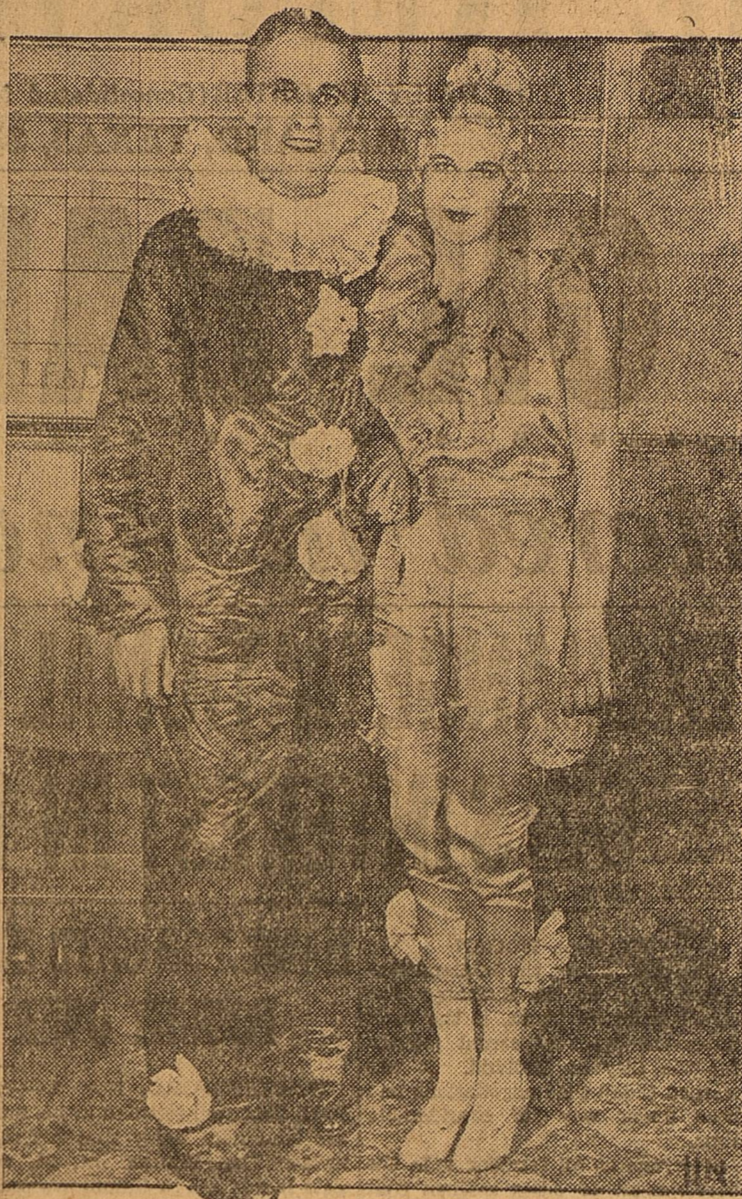

Having served on the select committee which investigated the Tariff Commission two years ago he was also able to make a devastating review of the abuse of presidential power through appointments and the flexible provision—an important part of the movement which led to the Senate's refusal to allow the president any more rate-fixing powers.

Illness hampered the young man from Wisconsin for a long time, but he is in better shape now, spends a great deal of time on the floor and is especially active in lining up the Progressives to function as a group. In a few years the older insurgent leaders will have passed on and one of the younger insurgents will lead them. It may not be La Follette, but he is getting a good early start in that direction.

The proposed string of floating airports, serving as "local stops" for ocean-going planes, will be patterned after the model seadrome which is pictured above during its initial launching test at Cambridge, Mass. In principle, the seadrome has foundation floats extending far beneath the waves into still water, so that surface disturbances cannot affect the platform's stability. This model, invented by Edward Armstrong, will be subjected to rigid tests by engineers.

QUALITY so fine that half the world doesn't realize that Buick is priced so low!

It is an impressive fact that men and women are buying from two to five times as many new Buicks as any other car priced above $1200.

Moreover, during August and September, Buick monopolized its market to such a degree that it won 41% of the total sales of the 15 makes of cars in its price class. And yet this marked preference for Buick would be still greater if all motorists realized that they can buy six of the fourteen luxurious Buick body types for less than $1300, f. o. b. factory.

These are Buicks through and through, embodying the full array of Buick quality features: Buick's new and surpassingly beautiful Bodies by Fisher; the famous Buick Valve-in-Head engine—most powerful engine of its size in the world; Buick's new Controlled Servo Enclosed Mechanical Brakes; the new Buick steering gear; new Road Shock Eliminator; and Buick's new, longer rear springs with Lovejoy Duodraulic Shock Absorbers.

The new Buick, with these features, will introduce you to new and unequalled performance, driving ease, riding comfort and reliability on any day you put it to the test. And yet these six Buick models are offered at the price of cars which motorists never think of comparing with Buick!

Visit our showroom. Bring your present car. Learn how easily you can obtain one of these new Buicks. All are available on the extremely liberal General Motors time payment plan.

In addition to these lower priced models, Buick offers eight other distinguished body types, representing the ultimate in luxury, and priced from $1465 to $1995, f. o. b. factory.

NOVEL HALLOWE'EN FESTIVAL GIVEN BY METHODIST SOCIETY

A unique Halloween party was given by Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Missionary Society Friday night, which was one of the most interesting of the week.

The party was given at the home of Mrs. H. C. Barnes, who displayed especial talent in house decorations. The witches and goblins, cats and bats all lent a spooky atmosphere to the occasion.

As the guests arrived they were taken upstairs, which had been converted into a Chamber of Horrors, and no one was allowed to escape before they had been led into its deepest and weirdest mazes.

After this harrowing experience, the guests were taken to downstairs rooms where an old witch played pranks on the crowd. This witch was a wizard in defining the true characters of several Midland people, who heretofore had been supposed to be honest and upright citizens.

The Rev. Stanley Haver revealed a new side to his character when he allowed the witch to pull out a powder puff from his pocket. It is known that Mrs. Haver does not use the cosmetic.

A cigarette and holder was found on the person of Mrs. Sam Preston. The cigarette looked as though it had been hastily put out of sight, and it is supposed that Mrs. Preston must have hurriedly concealed it when she saw the witch coming.

One of Barney Grafa's pockets yielded a ladies silk stocking, which the witch displayed to the onlookers with malice.

The witch also caught W. I. Pratt in the act of making love to some lady in the assemblage who was not his wife.

Many Halloween games were played, and several contests staged. Chambers Peak won the prize, a large stick of peppermint candy for the donkeys in a corn game, and Barney Grafa won the prize for the dogs. W. I. Pratt won the peanut contest and Mrs. Haver the apple contest. All of these received prizes of candy, and playthings with which they might amuse themselves.

A Halloween plate of doughnuts, coffee and mints were served to the following:

Mesdames and Messrs. Smith, Umberston, M. D. Johnson, J. O. Carlington, A. P. Baker, Chambers Peak, J. M. Speed, N. Y. Oates, E. N. Snodgrass, J. D. Young, A. B. Cooksey, J. B. Inglis, A. Wadley, J. A. Haley, C. H. Shepard, Harry Pace, G. B. Grafa, T. M. Combs, W. I. Pratt, Mrs. Terry Elkin, Mrs. G. E. Green, Miss Lotta Williams, Mrs. S. R. Preston, Mrs. D. M. Pinnell, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Seymour, and the Rev. and Mrs. Stanley Haver.

Mrs. McClintic Entertains S. S. Class

A delightful Halloween party was given by Mrs. C. A. McClintic to the Sunday school class of Mrs. A. Harry Anderson Tuesday evening from six to nine o'clock.

The spacious home was beautifully decorated in Halloween motifs. Witches and goblins were seen in every corner.

Each guest came in costume and the ones already assembled derived much amusement from trying to guess the identity of the new arrivals.

Fortunes were read to each one present, after which ghost stories were told and many Halloween games were played.

At eight o'clock the hostess assisted by Misses Polly Jean Wolcott, Lucille McMullen and Josephine Skim served refreshments to the group.

The guest list included: Laverne McMullen, Lexie Cragin, Dorothy Nell McKee, Jean McKinney, Elizabeth Wolcott, Thajma Sundquist, Isabelle McClintic, the hostess and her assistants.

The hostess introduced Halloween novelty prizes into the bridge games, and these were won by Mrs. George Abell and Mrs. A. L. Ackers.

Mrs. E. G. Bedford won high score, and Mrs. J. A. Finlayson took the cut prize. The two guests, present, Mrs. L. A. Arrington and Mrs. J. H. Longabough, were each presented with clever little gifts.

After awarding of the prizes, a dessert course was served to the following:

Mesdames E. G. Bedford, C. L. Jackson, George Abell, W. A. Yeager, O. C. Harper, J. A. Finlayson, Jack Hazeltine, A. L. Ackers, Bill Kinkle, A. V. Edmondson, L. A. Arrington and J. H. Longabough.

"Dear Diary—"

By Truda Dahl

HOW in the world can she ever hope to keep an exact chronicle of her many activities! With her head swimming with all the adorable men she has met she tries to make the daily entry, but gets no further than "Dear Diary—". And then, lost in thought, she wonders what is just the right thing to say. For she sees Bill and Lester and Gene and that darling aviator man, now what was his name?

And then dreams displace the inclination to write and the poor Diary ends up with nice white pages, just as it started. But some day she'll be glad to make Diary her confidante, and then there won't be sufficient room on each allotted page to carry all she wants to say. But until that time comes, I'm afraid Diary won't know very much. And then it will be filled with every tiny happening so dear to the girl who is in love.

YOUR CHILDREN by Olive Roberts Barton © 1929 by NEA Service Inc.

Don't use too much "don't!" It is a good word, but a little goes a great way.

Even though they know the unwisdom of its use as well as its futility, mothers still keep on saying, "don't do this" and "don't do that" because they know no other way to handle the situation.

Of course, such prohibition is necessary at times, but it is only a flag for one crossing. A mother will have to keep on with her stop signs. And if she does, when is a child going to learn to direct himself?

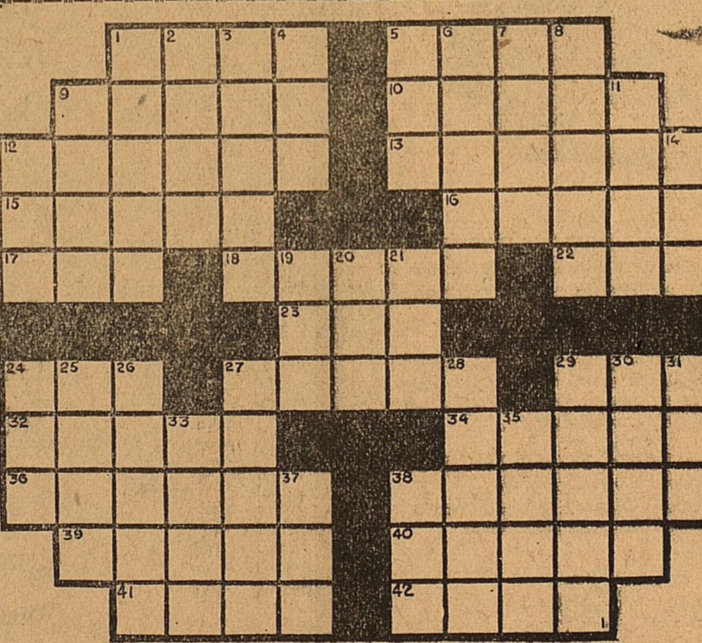

But there is another vital reason for eliminating the word.

Every don't that is used stops some activity in the child. And when a natural impulse is stopped (curiosity is the commonest) something else stops. A little sprout of self-confidence withers and dies.

Inhibitions Multiply

It will not be long, if these little sprouts keep on withering, until he will be so full of inhibitions he will be entirely lacking in those qualities that make for strong character and leadership. He will be a copier, an imitator, overcautious, perhaps even a coward. He'll always be waiting, either for someone to cheer him forward or to warn him if he is on the wrong track. No leader comes of that material. All parents must use their own judgment about the safety point at which childish experiment should be stopped, but psychologists tell us that it is better to allow Johnny to indulge his curiosity than to curb it. Natural impulses that are allowed to be carried to a finish govern his mental and character growth in an enormous degree. Experience is the foundation of the entire character make-up.

Johnny has picked up a paint brush full of nice wet green paint and starts in to beautify the porch. If he's old enough, of course he ought to know better, but if he is four or five why not say, instead of shouting, "Don't!"—"See here, Johnny, let's go and find a nice box to paint. We'll surprise Sister and paint her a doll house." Put some old clothes on him and let him go at it. He'll get paint on his hands, of course, but it will come off with turpentine and a good scrubbing.

It's Worth the While

There is so much to be gained that it is worth while to let him ruin himself for once. He has had the satisfaction of seeing his experiment carried through and his curiosity satisfied. He may never touch a paint brush again, or if he does he will probably try very hard to keep the paint off himself and everything else. A good lesson in care and manipulation. And he won't have that consuming curiosity about paint that will make him sneak the opportunity to try it out and do all sorts of damage. A little box of paints and a book to color make a fine plaything.

It is no wonder that some children grow up into stupid nonentities. They are never allowed to learn. Children learn almost entirely by experiment.

That is why we have the word self-expression that mothers hate so, but it is a good word, a very good word, after all.

DOGGIES PLAY INSPIRED FOOTBALL TO THROW CRIPPLED BRONCS ASIDE IN HECTIC ENCOUNTER

BY JAMES P. HARRISON
(Special Staff Writer)

It was a snarling, growling pack of Midland High School Bulldogs that invaded the peaceful grazing pasture of the Odessa Broncs Friday afternoon to win their first game of the season by the clear-cut score of 19 to 0. It was a rejuvenated Bulldog team that kept hammering at the Odessa line and skirting the ends for three touchdowns, one extra point and 12 first downs while their opponents were registering only one first down.

The scoring started in the latter part of the third quarter when Fryar intercepted a pass on his own 12-yard line and raced 88 yards for a touchdown. An attempted pass for the extra point was incomplete.

Midland's second counter came during the first eight minutes of the last period. The Bulldogs had been advancing the ball by straight football and were marching steadily toward Odessa's goal line until stopped by Fryar's fumble on the opponent's 32-yard line.

Midland Starts Ramming
The Broncs could not make more than a half a yard on their next series of plays and then punted to Hallman, who had been substituted for Irwin at right halfback. Burris, Fryar and Midkiff began ramming the line on Odessa's 45-yard line and did not stop until Burris hit center for one foot and a touchdown. An attempted place kick for the extra point was blocked by the Odessa forward wall, leaving the score 12 to 0 in favor of Midland.

The third and last score of the game came when Burris executed a perfect broken field run from the Odessa 35-yard line and crossed the goal line with out being touched. Midkiff went through the line for the extra point, making the score 19 to 0.

The game ended after the Broncs had received the ball on the kick-off. Hollis catching it on his own 25-yard line and being downed on his 38-yard line, followed by two short line bucks. The referee's closing whistle left the ball on Odessa's 44-yard line in their possession.

Captain Wineberg of the Broncs was the individual star for his team, while Burris, Midkiff and Fryar stood out in the backfield for Midland.

PLAY BY PLAY
First Quarter
Odessa won the toss and chose to defend the north goal. Midland chose to kick. Fryar kicked to Wineberg at the 12-yard line. Wineberg returned the kick to Midkiff who received it on his 10-yard line and returned in 8 yards before being brought down.

Fryar and Midkiff hit the line for 6 yards and then Midland punted to Odessa's 40-yard line to Whittenberg, who was downed in his tracks. Whittenberg fumbled on the first play but recovered. Culp went around left end for about 2 yards. On the third down Wineberg punted from his own 40-yard line to Burris on his 35-yard line. Burris dashed 20 yards before being stopped.

On the next play Midkiff smashed through the line for 16 yards and first down. Irwin, Fryar and Burris could gain only 2 yards in 3 plays and Fryar punted to Wineberg on his 11-yard line, being downed in his tracks. On the next play Wineberg fumbled and recovered and then punted to Burris who received the kick on Midland's 45-yard line and raced to Odessa's 35-yard line.

Burris then went around right end for 5 yards. Irwin added 2 yards with an off-tackle smash. Fryar then plunged through the line for 3 yards and first down. Burris fumbled on the following play and Odessa recovered.

Hollis gained 8 yards for Odessa on the first down. The Broncs were penalized 5 yards on the next play for off-side and on the following down fumbled. Midland recovered. Fryar was thrown for a 5-yard loss on the first down in an attempted end run, and Burris fumbled for a 10-yard loss on the next down. Fryar raced 15 yards on the third down, putting the ball on Odessa's 25-yard line. An incomplete pass on the fourth down gave the ball to Odessa, but the Broncs were penalized 15 yards for holding on their first down, and Wineberg punted from his goal line to end the quarter with Midland in possession of the ball on Odessa's 20-yard line.

Second Quarter
Burris gained 6 yards for the Bulldogs on the first down and Fryar 5 more on the second for first down before being forced out of bounds. Irwin made 3 yards around left end and Fryar fumbled on the next play, Odessa recovering.

Wineberg punted 25 yards to his own 30 yard line to Burris who returned the ball 6 yards. Burris then went around end for first down after Irwin had made 3 yards on the initial down. Midland drew a 5-yard penalty on the first down, placing the ball on Odessa's 20-yard line. Successive plays by Midkiff, Fryar and Burris netted about 7 yards and an incomplete pass in the end zone gave the ball to Odessa on their own 20-yard line.

Whittenberg was thrown for a 3-yard loss on the first down and Wineberg punted out of bounds on Odessa's 15-yard line. Midland failed to make first down on the next series of plays and the ball went to the Broncs on their own 15-yard line. Hollis was thrown for a 5-yard loss on Odessa's first down and Captain Wineberg punted from behind his goal line to Fryar at the 35-yard line. Fryar returned the kick about 2 yards. Two line plays and 1 end play made 5 yards for the Bulldogs and an incomplete pass on the fourth down gave the Broncs the ball on their own 28-yard line. The Broncs started passing, but their first was grounded and Midland drew a 5-yard penalty for being off-side after Wineberg had hit the line two times for small gain. The half ended after Hallman had returned Wineberg's punt from the 50-yard line to the 40-yard line.

Third Quarter
Midland failed to make first and ten and punted to R. Henderson who was downed on Odessa's 32-yard line after a 3-yard return. Wineberg broke loose for a pretty 23-yard run, taking the ball to the Bulldogs' 45-yard line. Midland held Odessa when Wineberg, Hollis and Whittenberg made only 1 yard. Wineberg punted over the goal line. Midkiff and Burris made 5 yards on the first 2 downs, but Fryar fumbled on the third down for a 15-yard loss. Midland punted to their own 28-yard line to Wineberg, who made 4 yards before being stopped. Whittenberg was thrown for a 1-yard loss on the first play. An Odessa substitute drew a 15-yard penalty for the Broncs because of communicating with his teammates illegally, the ball being taken back to Midland's 40-yard line. Wineberg fumbled on the next play and Midland recovered on her own 42-yard line. An incomplete pass and only a yard gained in scrimmage forced the Bulldogs to punt.

Whittenberg received the punt on his own 35-yard line and returned 5 yards. Wineberg punted to Midland's 12-yard line after Odessa was held for downs. Burris made two yards around end and Midkiff lost 3 yards. Midland punted to its own 42-yard line to Wineberg, who was downed on the 39-yard line. Hollis was thrown for a 2-yard loss. Wineberg made up for the loss on an end run. Culp failed to gain through the line and Wineberg punted to Midkiff on his 11-yard. Midkiff sidestepped to his own 25-yard line and then added 9 yards on the first down. Burris made two yards and first down after recovering his own fumble.

Loss on a lateral pass and penalties cost Midland heavily and a fumble by Burris was recovered by Odessa on Midland's 15-yard line. Wineberg was thrown for a 6-yard loss on the first play. A pass from Whittenberg was intercepted by Fryar on Midland's 12-yard line and the Bulldog halfback raced 83 yards for the first Midland touchdown. Burris failed on an end run for the extra point.

Fryar booted the ball for Midland on the kick-off to Wineberg, who executed a return kick from his own 30-yard line into the end zone. The quarter ended after Midkiff and Irwin had made first downs for Midland.

Fourth Quarter
Midkiff and Burris added 10 more yards on end runs. Burris dashed 10 yards on the next play for first and ten. Fryar made 3 yards around end and on the succeeding play Burris broke loose for an end run that took the ball to Odessa's 25-yard line. Midland received a 5-yard penalty, which was followed by Fryar's fumble and a recovery for Odessa. Whittenberg was thrown for a small loss on the first down. Wineberg failed to gain on two attempts and then punted to Hallman in the center of the field where he was stopped.

Midland then started a series of plays from the 50-yard line with Burris, Midkiff and Fryar carrying the ball to within 1 foot of the goal line. Burris rammed the line for the second touchdown of the game. An attempted place-kick for the extra point was blocked by the Odessa forward wall.

A short kick-off by Midland left the ball in possession of the Broncs on their own 44 yard line. The Odessa backs failed to gain and a pass from Wineberg to Whittenberg was incomplete. Wineberg punted to Burris who was downed on his own 40-yard line.

Midkiff hit the line for 3 yards and Fryar went around end for five yards. Midkiff hit the line again for first down, putting the ball on Hollis caught the ball on the final kick-off on his 25-yard line and was downed on his 39-yard line. Wineberg made 3 yards on an end run. Hollis added two more and the game was over with Odessa in possession of the ball on her own 44-yard line. Score: Midland 19; Odessa 0.

Mysterious Mr. "Q" Coming To Grand

Once in a while Midland is visited by a celebrity who is known in his profession as an artist, but it is seldom that we have two artists at the same time, but on Thursday and Friday of this week you will have an opportunity to see Mr. "Q," the world's most eminent hypnotist, assisted by Miss Monde Dortha, America's wonder mentalist.

Mr. Q and his company are coming to the Grand Theatre Thursday and Friday, November 7 and 8, and giving two performances there. Press notices from the west coast and from other sections of the country hail this attraction as one of the best of its kind on the road today.

One of the features of the Thursday night show will be the burial of a hypnotized girl. She will be buried alive and will remain buried twenty-four hours in a grave prepared in the vacant lots just south of the Theatre. She will be brought back to the stage Friday night and awakened. There are several other spectacular acts as well as the best fun show of the season.

Will Thomas Inman and Walter Elkin, Midland boys, be with the famous Cowboy band of Simmons University when that musical group invades Europe?
Guy Goltzman is in New York after having arrived aboard the Leviathan, flagship of the United States Lines, following a tour of ten weeks through Great Britain and the Continent arranging for the European tour next June, July and August of the Simmons University Cowboy Band of Abilene.

Mr. Goltzman says that in view of the educational feature of the tour he was able to enlist the cooperation of American Ambassadors and consulates abroad in making arrangements for the appearance of the band in important cities, including London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Dresden, Frankfurt, Muenchen and Prague.
In Dresden, Germany, the Cowboy Band will be the featured attraction of the International Hygiene Exposition for one week. Twenty nations will participate in this noteworthy event. Record-breaking attendance is expected, including the whole world's foremost men of science.

SCORE MARKER IN LAST MINUTE OF PLAY

It was no surprise to fans of the grid game when Stanton's Buffaloes gored their way through Pyote and Odessa, but the way the team disposed of Peecos and Midland was a sort of upset. But Friday's climax of the team's prowess was more or less a mouthful.

Stanton journeyed over and beat Jim Cantrill's Colorado Wolves. And by the score of 12-7.

The Stantonites showed their real metal in coming from behind and scoring the decisive marker within one minute of the fourth period gun, Parks crashing his way across after Moffett, on a hidden ball play, had stiff armed his way to the two-yard line.

Stanton first scored when Hawkins, burly fullback, dived across from the two-yard line after fake plays and delayed bucks had advanced the pigskin down the field.

The first two periods were full of thrills, with Colorado incessantly hammering at the goal line of the Stanton eleven. Scarcely was the ball out of Stanton territory during this time. Far from being discouraged by this rough treatment, the boys from the near east came back at the Cantrill boys and, after being baptised with a touchdown in the third quarter, which resulted from a pass and 40 yard run, scored one of their own.

Still a point behind their rivals, the team began making first downs in rapid succession. Just when it appeared that Colorado would brace and shut off further scoring, the team wrested its way to another win, to show its real claim to the district championship honor.

Stanton made 12 first downs, Colorado six. Robertson, flashy Stanton end, made the longest run of the day when he cut back an end run and shot down the field for a dazzling 50 yard run. The whistle at the half prevented further play when he was downed on the 17 yard line.

MAMMOTH BONES UNCOVERED

WAXAHACHIE, Tex.—(UP)—The pre-historic bones of a mammoth, believed to have roamed this section over 100,000 years ago, were unearthed at Rockett near here recently and are now in possession of Trinity University.

The remains, consisting of the tusks which measure ten feet, portions of the skull, and two upper molar teeth, were discovered by a crew of men who were digging gravel to be used on roads in the county.

Trinity University officials were notified and immediately began excavation work. After the remains have been mounted they will be placed on exhibition, according to Dr. R. Chester Hughes, professor of biology at Trinity.

SMU AND TEXAS BATTLE TO SCORELESS TIE IN OWNBY STADIUM

BAYLOR AND TCU STAND OUT; TCU MAY BE ON PINNACLE NEXT WEEK THROUGH OWL GAME

DALLAS, Nov. 2.—(P)—Although held to a scoreless tie by SMU Saturday afternoon and dumped from the Southwest conference pinnacle, Texas university strengthened its place in the title race. The Longhorns now have gone half way through their schedule without meeting a defeat.

Arkansas, by defeating Louisiana State in their synthetic conference game, pulled up into a tie with SMU.

Baylor and TCU remained the only conference teams undefeated or untied.

The big fireworks come next Saturday with three conference games carded. Texas and Baylor will command the spotlight at Austin. SMU plays the Aggies at College Station and TCU plays host to the Rice Owls at Fort Worth.

T. C. U. and Baylor If Texas defeats Baylor, TCU will probably take undisputed possession of the lead.

Oil Bank—

Made Rapid Growth In 1923, after going through a long period of depression, the Midland National Bank was closed by the state banking department.

In March of that year, it was reopened, J. B. Wilkinson, Henry James and Ralph M. Barron having acquired a controlling interest.

All depositors got the full amount of their money which was merely "tied up" during the few weeks the bank was closed.

Since that time, the Midland National, under the active management of J. B. Wilkinson and Ralph M. Barron, has made strides which have been the envy of financial institutions over the country, and has become one of the best banks in West Texas.

Built Up Surplus Starting in March, 1923, when it was reorganized, with its capital of $75,000 and no surplus, it has paid 60 per cent to its stock holders and has put approximately $90,000 into its surplus fund.

Wilkinson, now president of the bank, came here from Ovallo. He, with Henry James, is interested in 17 leading banks of West Texas James being active head of one of Abilene's largest banks.

Ralph M. Barron, cashier of the bank, has been connected with the institution for 16 years, and has been cashier for six years.

Air Line—

The ship from San Angelo arrived at the local port at 10 a. m., carrying seven passengers. A round trip between the points on the line was to be made Friday afternoon, also. Round trips will be made twice daily over the line which is designed primarily for the convenience of oil men. Carl Cromwell, San Angelo, oil man, is head of the concern.

Midland Men Spend Night In Fort Worth

If you don't want Texas to know where you are over the week-end in Fort Worth you'd better register under another name when at that city's hotels, according to Midland men.

W. D. VanBlarcom, state editor of The Star-Telegram, has a habit of going to the registers of Fort Worth's principal hostleries and getting names of men known throughout the state.

Among those who transacted business recently in the cattle town and spent Friday night there were John R. Lock and Roy Parks.

Three Burned In Auto Collision

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 2.—(P)—Three members of one family were burned to death and two others were injured today in a triple automobile collision near Hayti, Mo., 20 miles from here. The dead are Mrs. Edith Pepper, 33, Irene Pepper, 8, Sam Pepper, 3, of Cape Girardeau, Mo.

SOUTHWEST GRID NOTES

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 2.—Chuck Richter, veteran guard, whose playing against the Arkansas Razorbacks last Saturday was an outstanding feature of the line-play of Coach Matty Bell's Texas Aggies, on walking off the Kyle Field gridiron after the Parker clash, was handed a telegram announcing the birth of his home in Lareda of an eight and one-half pound daughter, Florence Ann.

James Sullivan, business manager of athletics at Texas A. & M., had his first opportunity to try out the new raincoat recently purchased to protect the Kyle Field gridiron from the onslaughts of Jupiter Pluvius when rain threatened to spoil the field for the Aggie-Parker contest. The effectiveness of the big field cover was clearly demonstrated when the Aggies launched a passing attack against the Parkers which could hardly have been more effective on a cloudless day. The Kyle Field cover, which is the first to be used in the Southwest, is made in thirteen sections 33 feet wide and 170 feet long and its proximate cost was $5800.

Rob El Cox, 190-pound tackle who hails from Anna, never saw a football game until he came to T. C. U. as a freshman in 1928. Last year was his first attempt to play, though he didn't get a chance to show his wares until the final game of the season, against the S. M. U. Mustangs. Cox played such a bang-up game that Kubale, then line coach, stated that he was the best prospect for a tackle that he had seen at T. C. U. An appendicitis operation has kept the big fellow out so far this year, but he is now practicing daily. Coach Francis Schmidt thinks he will be ready for the last three conference games.

What kind of a player makes the best linesman? The Frogs could well say that it is a star high school back. Buster Walker, end; "Red" Moore, tackle; Noble Atkins, center; all of whom are regular Frog starters; and Leo Butler, reserve guard, were all star backfield players during their high school career. Each has since developed into an outstanding linesman, with Moore and Atkins receiving considerable mention for all-conference.

Cy Leland, the Frogs' flashy half, received recognition as "another home town boy who made good" at Lubbock. Just before the game between T. C. U. and Tech started, Lubbock admirers presented Cy with a traveling bag. Cy went to high school in Lubbock and was captain of the track squad his senior year. He also played football there.

Odessa streets looked like a parade ground for cripples Friday night. T. J. Hollis, dour little fullback, was carrying around those three broken ribs and the arm with the torn ligaments. He had played during the afternoon with them in that condition. How he did so is a marvel in high school stoicism.

Fullback E. Tripp had an arm in a sling, and J. B. Glenn was nursing a broken nose. L. S. Aburgey, knocked out in the first play of the first game of the season, was still battered up, but was still in there. Odessa may have to disband after the savagery of the Bulldog attack, according to the coach.

It was pure spirit that kept the men in there when they were fit for the hospital more than for a grid iron, Coach Hayes said. He said this spirit was the only thing which kept Midland from putting across several more touchdowns. As it was, his men kept the doggies from scoring until the third period.

Odessaans looked perplexed when a Midland man ordered "goose egg on a dinner" at a restaurant there Friday night. He explained he had heard of Midland leaving one there and, anticipating no Odessa liking for the goose fruit, thought he would come over and eat it himself. Odessaans were good sports about the matter, however; they even said they would like to eat the goose that laid the eggs.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

HOW ABOUT IOWA?

There was a little irony in one phase of the Carnegie report. The good gentlemen who inquired into the commercial aspects of football, gave a figurative medal of honor to Illinois and Chicago. Indiana was not visited, but seven other Big Ten teams were found more or less spotty. Of these one was Iowa.

The irony is that the Big Ten faculty committee declared last year that Iowa alone needed a house-cleaning and the Hawkeyes were suspended from the conference. The thought arises that, if the Carnegie investigators were correct in their report, there must have been at least a breath of hypocrisy on the part of Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Purdue, Ohio State and Northwestern.

At any rate, it seems more than likely that Iowa will be re-admitted to the Big Ten.

It is in Edward H. Lauer, newly appointed director of athletics, that fans place their faith for Iowa's reinstatement. Lauer has done a man's-sized task since he took charge of the situation after Paul E. Belting was asked to resign as chief of Hawkeye sports destinies.

Either directly or indirectly, Lauer has been responsible for much of the house cleaning. Through his efforts a committee on eligibility of athletics has been appointed—outraged by the displeasure of Coach Burton A. Ingwersen, football mentor, for at some time or other during the season almost every one of his candidates has been declared ineligible only to become eligible a few days later following investigation.

Later has expressed the belief that when the Hawkeye officials ask for reinstatement in December it will be granted, provided the Hawkeye chiefs can convince the faculty board that faculty control of athletics exists at Iowa, that athletes are not being proselytized, and that there are no alumni "slush funds" which are operated to pay the expenses of athletes through school.

The athletic director contends that if the Big Ten really had planned to banish Iowa after Jan. 1, the conference would not have postponed the drawing up of its winter sports schedules.

There is some bitter feeling toward the Big Ten still present on the Iowa campus, however. At the university's homecoming there was a huge window display depicting Allan Holman, Ohio State quarterback, as playing four years of intercollegiate football and the wearing the moleskins for the Buckeyes again this year with the Big Ten board's decision of "eligible" written across Holman's jersey.

Just opposite Holman was a picture of Maves McLain, the giant Cherokee Indian fullback. He was pictured playing two years with Haskell Institute and one year with Iowa. Across the jersey he wore the word "Ineligible," signed by the Big Ten eligibility board.

All of which goes to say that the Holman decision didn't strike Iowa fans as just right in the face of what happened to McLain.

Things are going forward at the university just as if it was taken for granted that Iowa will get back into the loop. A basketball team is being developed, other sports aggregations are making opening gestures for another season, and box office officials are attempting to figure out how Iowa can make enough money to pay for a new $500,000 stadium.

Many of the advantages of owning an electric refrigerator are indirect but some of these advantages far outweigh the direct benefits which are well known to nearly two million users, according to Mr. McCormick, manager Midland Hardware and Furniture Company, local Frigidaire dealer.

"First of all, the woman with an electric refrigerator in her kitchen has an opportunity to run a much more orderly household and discharge her duties with a minimum of fuss and confusion," he said.

RHODES CANDIDATES FORT WORTH, Tex.—(P)—Hugh Quinn Buck of Crosbyton and Weir McDiarmid of Fort Worth have been selected as candidates from Texas Christian University for the Rhodes scholarship which will be awarded in Texas this year.

Buck is president of the student body, active in debating, a letterman in track, and a senior majoring in government.

McDiarmid is a graduate student, majoring in history and a permanent member of the Texas Scholarship Society. He received the A. B. degree from T. C. U. last year "summa cum laude." He has served as president of the student body and is a letterman in tennis, having been varsity captain last year.

SPORT BRIEFS

"Midland is the cleanest bunch of ball toters I have seen," Coach Hayes of Odessa said to a Midland sports writer after the Midland-Odessa game Friday. "That Midland beat us 19-0 does not figure into our conception of the sportsmanship displayed by that eleven. We know it and are glad to play such men."

The coach said, however, that he felt one decision of the referee was against Odessa. "Not that one touchdown would have counterbalanced the 19-0 win pulled over our heads," he said, "but to a high school eleven the matter of team morale is affected greatly in such a case." The touchdown referred to was when Odessa kicked to Midland and the ball touched Fryor over the line. The coach thinks the play should have gone for a touchdown for Odessa, believing the ball touched a Midland player who was on the field of play at the time.

James P. Harrison, special staff writer for The Reporter-Telegram, was covering the game for The Reporter-Telegram and, like the referee, did not see the ball foul anyone on the playing field. "A ball which crosses the line on the kick-off simply is brought back to the 20-yard line," he said. "There is nothing else to be considered. The fact that it struck a Midland man in the in-zone has nothing to do towards establishing an alternative."

Odessa streets looked like a parade ground for cripples Friday night. T. J. Hollis, dour little fullback, was carrying around those three broken ribs and the arm with the torn ligaments. He explained he had heard of Midland leaving one there and, anticipating no Odessa liking for the goose fruit, thought he would come over and eat it himself. # 6 TEXANS TO GET CARNEGIE MEDAL

THREE DEAD FROM EFFORTS TO SAVE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 2.—(P)—Three boys and three men, residents of Texas, today received awards from the Carnegie hero fund commission for performing acts of heroism. Three of them are dead, having lost their lives in saving or attempting to save the lives of others.

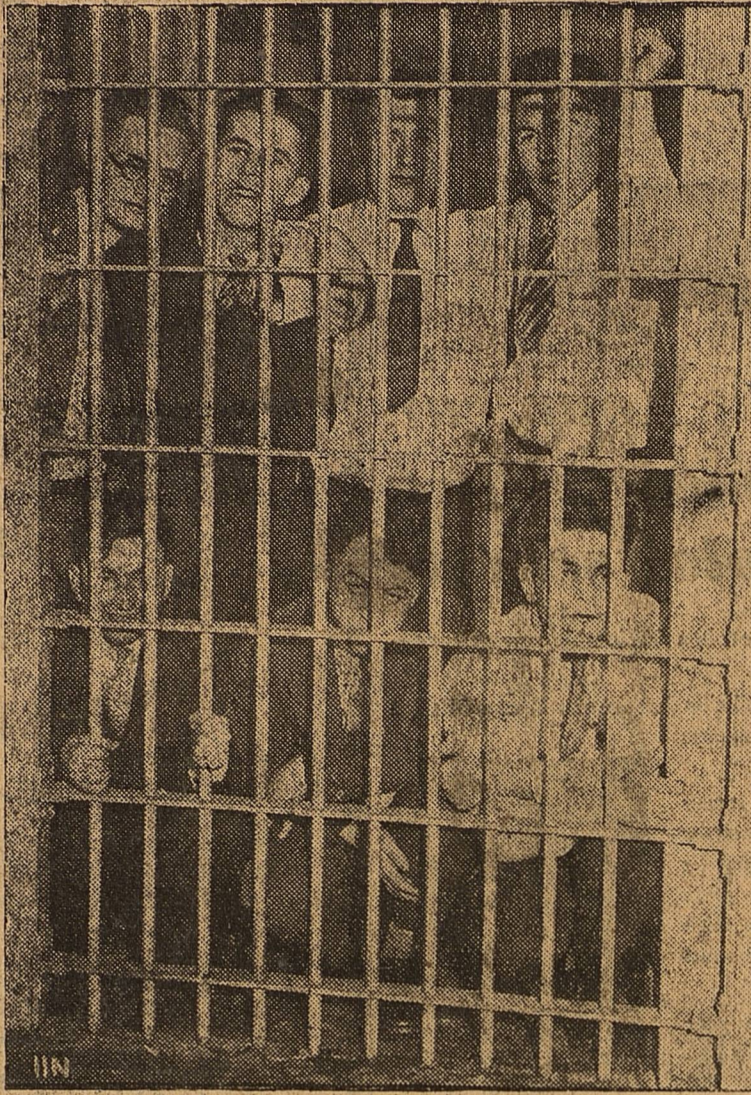

Each hero or his nearest surviving relative, received a bronze medal for his deed. Besides a medal, the widow of Samuel L. Wolfe of Box 242, Dublin, Texas, was awarded death benefits of $80 a month. The Texans were among 51 persons to whom the hero fund commission made awards at its fall meeting. Nineteen of the heroes died in performing their heroic act.

Samuel Wolfe, 39-year old school superintendent, died attempting to save D. La Rue Shillingburg 10, and L. Aleen Shillingburg, 15, from drowning at San Saba, Texas, June 12, 1928. La Rue waded into the San Saba river to the edge of a deep pool and was unable to return to shallow water because of a current. Wolfe, who was clothed fully, waded from the bank to La Rue. As he grasped her, Aleen waded to them and the three immediately were swept into deep water. Wolfe supported both girls for a moment, each with one hand, and then La Rue got on his back. Aleen was rescued by another man, but Wolfe and La Rue were drowned.

William Earl Lowrance, 17-year old school boy, a son of O. C. Lowrance of Jayton, Texas, died while attempting to save Harold C. Wade, 13, from drowning at Jayton May 8, 1926. While Harold was swimming in a reservoir, he became distressed and Lowrance plunged in and submerged him several times. Lowrance then got behind Harold and pushed him toward the bank. Another boy caught Harold and pulled him to the bank. After giving Harold the push that saved his life, Lowrance sank and did NOT reappear.

Clois Harold Roberts, 18, son of John J. Roberts, 128 West Grady Street, Dallas, Texas, died in an attempt to save M. Claritta Raney, 18, from drowning in Lake Worth at Fort Worth, September 9, 1928. Miss Raney fell from a motorboat into deep water. A youth swam to her from the boat and supported her for five minutes while the boat drifted further from them. At the youth's call for help Roberts swam 25 feet from the boat to them and the other boy returned to the boat. After Roberts had supported Miss Raney for a short time, they became separated. The other youth went to Miss Raney with the aid of a surf board and they were pulled to the boat. Roberts was drowned.

Gastonia Strikers Get Long Terms

Behind the bars of the jail at Charlotte, N. C., are the seven textile union men who were given long terms after being convicted in a second-degree verdict for the murder of Police Chief O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia. The sentences were meted out by Judge M. V. Barnhill. Left to right (front): Louis McLaughlin of Charlotte, who was given from twelve to fifteen years; Joe Harrison of Passaic, N. J., who was sentenced to from seventeen to twenty years, and William McGinnis, another Charlotte youth, who was sentenced to from twelve to fifteen years. Left to right (standing): Clarence Miller, New York communist; K. Y. (Red) Hendricks of Gastonia; Fred Edwin Beal of Lawrence Mass., organizer of the Gastonia branch of the National Textile Workers' Union, and George Carter of Mispah, N. J. Hendricks was sentenced to serve from five to seven years and the others were given sentences from seventeen to twenty years.

Morris J. Gullede, 11-year old school boy of Sheperd, Texas, saved L. Ferne Goans, 8, and attempted to save Laura J. Goans, 10, from drowning at Amarillo June 19, 1928. Ferne fell from the bank of a pool in the Arroyo Bonita into water eight feet deep. Laura jumped in after Ferne and reached her. Morris swam ten feet to the girls and grasped one of them. Both seized him and Morris was submerged several times. Laura then loosed him and he swam toward the bank with Ferne. A woman reached out from the bank and pulled Ferne to it. Morris was too exhausted to go back for Laura and she was drowned.

Henry A. Burgevin, 32, Box 662, Mission, Texas, a locomotive fireman, saved Thomas H. Oades, 62, from being killed by a train at Mission January 16, 1929. Oades, who was rather deaf, was walking slowly on a track as a train, running ten miles an hour, was approaching. The engineer did not see him. Burgevin ran 65 feet to Oades, reaching him when the train was six to eight feet away. Without stopping, Burgevin seized Oades about the waist and carried him off the track, clearing the train by about three feet.

Oscar Bell, 34, a salesman, of 613 south Fourth street, Temple, Texas, attempted to save Eteka Scarborough, 40, from a burning house at Temple December 4, 1926. Mrs.

Scarborough was ill in bed in her home and the house caught fire. A man attempted to enter a window five feet above the ground but turned back because of the heat and smoke. Bell then entered the window despite warnings and attempts to restrain him. The room was dense with smoke. Flames on the walls and ceiling showed faintly through the smoke and clothing on the bed was burning. Bell groped his way across the room to the bed, picked up Mrs. Scarborough from the floor and carried her to the window. Bell sustained no burns, but Mrs. Scarborough's clothing had been burned from her body and she was dead from burns.

NONCHALANT CROOKS!

HOUSTON, Tex.—(UP)—Police here are trying to decide whether they have encountered one of the most nonchalant of burglary suspects in their experience, or merely the dumbest.

The person about whom the question arises was arrested while trying to sell some dresses, which were later identified as being part of the loot taken in a recent robbery of a clothing store, in the criminal courts building.

Two men had been arrested earlier in connection with the robbery and dresses worth about $250 were recovered.

Dallas shows 28% increase in Eights!

Facts just obtained from 28 representative American cities indicate conclusively that the motoring public prefers the Eight to all other engine types. Take Dallas as an example; for the first 8 months of 1929, new cars with list prices above $1000 showed a 28 per cent increase in Eights and 10 per cent decrease in Sixes!

At the famous Paris Salon this fall, 44 makes of eight cylinder cars were exhibited, compared with 27 last year.

Studebaker, world's largest producer of Eights, two years ago initiated this era of the inexpensive Eight with the champion Studebaker President which traveled 30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes.

And today, at customary six-cylinder prices, you can choose from three great lines of Studebaker Eights—holders of eleven world records for speed and endurance and more American stock car records than all other makes combined.

Get a smart, new, thrifty Studebaker Eight—backed by 77 years of manufacturing integrity—and your car will be worth more in the trade-in markets of the future.

Aggie Who Walked "Bare" To Bat Again

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. —The man who nessed a peanut to the top of Pike's Peak had nothing on William O'Dowd, Texas Aggie wingman from Cleburne. Before the Aggie-Horned Frog game in Fort Worth, O'Dowd and a member of the T. C. U. eleven agreed that the one whose team lost would walk barefooted down the middle of the street from Clark Field to the center of the Fort Worth business section. No sooner had the final whistle blown following the Aggies' defeat than a blinding rain and hail storm began. The rain was not in the agreement but that did not deter O'Dowd. Shoes in hand and trousers rolled high, he fulfilled his bargain. On his back was a sign, "Aggies 7, T. C. U. 13—I lost," telling the whole story. Next year the same agreement will stand, O'Dowd said, the loser to walk from Kyle Field to the business section of Bryan, five miles away.

Conover Some Punter The punting of Brooks Conover, veteran Aggie halfback from Dallas, has been one of the outstanding factors in the play of Coach Matty Bell's eleven this fall. Conover has punted 13 times this season and his average is just one yard under 50. In each of his last two games, the one with the Kansas Aggies and the other with T. C. U., Brooks got off a punt for 73 yards. The punt in the Frog game, which went out of bounds before completing its course, was one of the longest in the history of the Southwest-conference, the distance from where it was kicked to where it stopped being close to 100 yards. The Aggies have derived no little benefit from the ability of Conover to place his kicks when near his opponents' goal line as well as his ability to get distance when needed.

McMaster who assumed the payment of said note or took the property subject to the said vendor's lien and has thereby become bound to plaintiff for the payment of same, his deed of conveyance being recorded in Vol. 45, page 69 and Kercher's deed being recorded in Vol. 45 page 68 Deed Records of Midland County, Texas, each of said defendants being hereby notified to produce said deeds upon the trial of this cause of secondary evidence thereof will be offered; that Defendants Burton E. J. Osborn and Craigin & Son, Inc. have attempted to fix materialmen's liens upon and against said property and have caused

"WHITEY" WALKER CASE GOES TO TRIAL MONDAY IN STINETT FOR THREE DEATHS

STINETT, Tex., Nov. 2.—(AP)—"I guess I'm the only one who has ever gotten into trouble in our family," "Whitey" admits. "None of the other members have been accused of what I have been."

"Whitey" came to Borger in April or May, 1926, he states, when the oil boom was at its height, and when "Ace" Pendleton, Ray Terrell and Matthew Kimes were among the shifting population. Kimes and Terrell, notorious gunmen, are now serving terms in Oklahoma penitentiaries. Walker denies any connection with the gang leaders, but has repeatedly associated with their names.

Among the state's evidence against "Whitey" is a deathbed statement from Roy Harmon, alleged escaped convict from Iowa, who was shot fatally in an attempted robbery near Amarillo in 1928. Ed Bailey, in his confession asserted he was in company with Walker the night of April 1, 1927, when Kenyon and Terry were shot to death. Both Bailey's and Harmon's confessions were made at Lamar.

After his arrest in Buffalo, Walker was released to Colorado Springs officials on charges of being connected with the Lamar, Col., bank robbery on May 23, 1928.

"It was lucky for me the fingerprint was found on the stolen sedan used by the Feagle gang and which later led to confessions and their convictions. They had a clear case against me in Colorado, they told me," Walker declared. "I was identified by seven business men of Lamar who had seen my picture. Up there, it isn't necessary to bring indictments against a fellow to send him up."

Walker was cleared of charges in Colorado by confessions of the Feagles. "The morning after the Lamar robbery, I ate breakfast in Cushing, Oklahoma," he stated. "I was never in Colorado but twice, on May 5 and May 16, seven days before the bank was robbed. Both times I was just passing through the state."

Walker still declines to tell where he got a small pistol found strapped to his leg after he was brought back to Stinnett jail from Colorado.

The successful bidder shall take possession of the building within ten days of award of contract, removing all materials, debris, including foundation, from the premises within a period of thirty days after starting work.

All materials shall become the property of the Contractor excepting movable furniture which is to be removed by the Owners. The Jail building is not to be removed in this contract.

By order Commissioners Court, M. R. HILL, County Judge. (Published in Reporter-Telegram Oct. 25, Sept. 1, 8, 15, 1929.)

"I never killed any man and haven't done any of these things they charge me with," Walker declared. "I'll be glad to go to trial because unless I'm framed, I'll come clear. Then, with these murder charges against me disproven, I'll be glad to return to Oklahoma or anywhere else and stand trial."

"Whitey" is under indictment for shooting to death Policeman Coke Buchanan on a Borger Street at night March 18, 1927, and of Sheriff's deputies Elmer Terry and Pat Kenyon in an outlying district of Borger at night April 1, 1927.

Prosecutor Calhoun admitted he had NO case thus far against Walker in the slaying of Terry and Kenyon.

"All I have against 'Whitey' is the uncorroborated testimony of Ed Bailey, who is a principal in the case, and indicted as well as 'Whitey,'" Mr. Calhoun said. "According to the law I CANNOT convict Walker on Bailey's testimony alone. If there is any other testimony in the case I want to find it."

The prosecutor announced he had asked the county attorney at Pucell, Oklahoma, where Walker is wanted for bank robbery, for a synopsis of his evidence against the alleged desperado. Should Oklahoma have a better case, Calhoun hinted he might turn Walker over to officers of that State.

Calhoun said evidence against Walker in the Buchanan slaying was NO stronger than in the killing of Kenyon and Terry.

"Whitey" is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Walker, who live on a farm in Milan county, Texas. He has four brothers and four sisters. O brother, Hugh, of Lubbock, is jointly indicted with "Whitey" and Ed Bailey for the murder of Terry and Kenyon. The three are to appear in court here Monday.

Walker did NOT appear. Led by Sheriff Ownbey, a group of deputies and Texas Rangers acting on a tip, traced Walker to a point near Borger several months later, but Walker eluded them by leaping from his automobile and escaping into a wheat field.

Hutchinson county officers traced "Whitey" to Oklahoma, where he is charged with robbing a bank at Allen. "The officers were near enough to me at one time for me to have shot them both," Walker is reported to have stated.

Disappearing again, Walker was NOT apprehended until he was arrested in Buffalo, N. Y., January 12, 1929, where he had been for eight days.

"The man who tipped off officers where I was staying was Virgil 'Slats' Welch, a man whose railway fare I had paid from Florida to New York," Walker stated. "Why he could have had anything against me, I don't know. Slats later was arrested in El Paso after running a 'con' game and a gambling place involving a revolutionary Mexican general. He was wanted by nearly every state in the Union, I guess. His picture was the first I saw when I was taken to police headquarters at Lamar."

Former Policeman Neil is to be the star state witness in the killing of Buchanan, who was shot when he attempted to go to the aid of Neil despite warning of certain "bad men" who had relieved Neil of his gun and were abusing him.

Walker was under three murder bonds of $7,500 each when his trial for the Terry case was called December 14, 1927 here. Eleven jurors had been selected when the court recessed for the night. The next day

the midnight Misadventure of Gregory Jones

A crash brought Mrs. Gregory Jones bolt upright in bed, her heart pounding. "Why!" demanded her husband savagely, nursing a bruised shin and groping for the light switch. "Why did you have to leave that chair there?"

In the front hall the telephone rang again, insistently. Jones shivered in the draft from the open window, and without waiting for a reply, disappeared through the doorway. Petulantly, his voice drifted back to her.

"No, Eleanor is not here. . . . Yes, we're expecting her tomorrow. . . . Tell her what I'll tell you, young man, that it's an imposition to wake folks at this time of night! And I'll deliver no messages!"

The receiver banged on the hook. Jones, muttering to himself, stumbled back down the hall.

"That settles it!" he exclaimed, still shivering. "Tomorrow, I'll have a telephone put in this bedroom."

Mrs. Jones smiled drowsily, snuggled deep into her pillow.

"Where have I heard that before," she murmured. "Tomorrow, I'll order one myself."

Telephones where you need them save time, patience—and midnight misadventures.

Few know that one or two additional instruments cost considerably less than the single telephone they now have!

By a wisely-placed "extension" or two, and perhaps a rearrangement of the equipment you already have, an expert telephone man can often double the convenience of your telephone service.
