Important Balloting as Twelve States Go to Polls Today

Hamilton Case Testimony Introduces Brother's Warning

TELEPHONE GIRL SAYS SHE HEARD

Creditability Of The Walton Notes Is Taken Up

WEATHERFORD, Nov. 5. (AP)—About three days before Tom Walton, Jr., 21, was slain in his father-in-law's Amarillo office, R. H. Hamilton had a telephone conversation with a brother, Dexter, in Dallas about a "divorce," a telephone operator said here today in Hamilton's murder trial.

The witness declared "The Hamilton in Amarillo asked what should be done about divorce. Hamilton in Dallas said 'I wouldn't do anything about divorce. Just keep quiet for a while.'"

Miss Wright testified she listened in again to see if the connection was all right and heard Hamilton in Dallas say, "You had better watch your step or you'll get into something it won't be so easy to get out of."

Arguments are expected to start Wednesday.

LETTERS QUESTIONED

WEATHERFORD, Nov. 5.—(UP)—With the defense doggedly fighting the testimony of Q. A. Weaver, handwriting expert, the state's attorney in Hamilton's trial today launched an attack on credibility of letters to the defendant warning him that his life was endangered.

Weaver, who on the stand examined the letters, testified that the pen used to write the letters was not the same as the one used to address the envelopes. This testimony was put into the record for the apparent purpose of showing that the envelopes might have been addressed at a time other than when the letters were written.

The defense bitterly objected to Weaver's testimony. Weaver explained the means of making handwriting tests.

Mims Tells How To Increase Farmers

"There are only a few ways we can increase the farm population of Midland county, and one of these is to start at home," declared Percy J. Mims, business man and farm owner.

Mims explained that if 25 or 30 Midland business men would each buy a farm of 100 acres and rent it for a year, most of them could sell the farm the second year to the tenant, making themselves a fair profit, and also adding another farm family to the county.

He said there should be at least 30 business men in Midland able to buy a farm who benefit directly from farmer trade. "There would be no sacrifice in this. I bought a farm 5 years ago and it has netted me from 10 to 12 percent every year," Mims said. He pointed out that every farm family brought to the county, meant another customer for the merchants.

"The business man who buys a farm and rents it does a double good service. He makes himself some money directly from his investment and indirectly through increasing his potential customers, and he benefits the renter or buyer by enabling him to move to Midland, where he can make better, easier living by farming," Mims said, as he urged the value of Midland business men buying a farm to assist in the development of the farming industry.

PRISON HEAD RESIGNS

HOUSTON, Nov. 5.—(UP)—W. H. Mead, general manager of the Texas prison system, resigned at the meeting of the Texas prison board today. No successor has been named.

What They Say About the Bank Deal

Midland business men, when approached by a Reporter-Telegram representative, have expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the deal in which the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa bought a block of stock in the Midland National Bank. The consensus of opinion seems to be that the new connection will enable Midland to be the financial center of oil operations in West Texas and New Mexico, and that it is an expression of confidence of major business men in Midland and the surrounding territory. Some of the statements made by Midland men are as follows:

JOHN SCHARBAUER, cattleman and large property owner. "I believe the deal will be a benefit to the town and the country. The local banks have not been in position to handle some kind of loans that are specialized in by the big oil bank, and Midland should get additional business from the connection."

MALCOLM M. MEEK, oil royalty owner. "Basically, I am opposed to chain banking, but I believe that the purchase of the Midland National Bank by the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa, Oklahoma means more to West Texas and Midland in particular than any one thing that has transpired in recent years, for the reason that, not only does it place its stamp of approval on West Texas and thereby agree to use its far reaching influence toward the development of this section through Midland, but it places within the reach of all West Texas unlimited resources for the development of not only the oil industry in all its various phases, but for the development of the cattle and agricultural industries as well."

C. L. SINCLAIR, owner of real estate and oil properties. "The new deal will be a big thing for Midland and the oil territory. The stock holders of the Midland National Bank already had too good a thing to sell, but there's no question about the new connection being a great thing for this country."

CLYDE Y. BARRON, manager of Grissom-Robertson Store. "I don't know enough about the oil business to know just what the big deal will mean, but the possibilities of a new tie-up in aviation traffic will mean a lot for Midland."

XMAS. COMMITTEE OF CHAMBER GETS WORK UNDER WAY

The Christmas decoration committee of the chamber of commerce was appointed Monday night at a meeting of directors and members of the chamber of commerce, and set tradition by getting to work that same night. It was decided that the beautiful display of lights which last year formed multi-colored streamers along the principal business streets would be again put up, to burn until about eleven o'clock from December 1 to January 1.

It was voted that $100 will be raised on the Midland quota of the W. T. C. fund. W. F. Scarborough has already subscribed $50 of the total $250 allotted Midland, and E. C. Beauford said he would guarantee $100.

The directors voted to take steps to protect Midland's interests in the proposed air mail line to connect with cities along the southern transcontinental route for aircraft.

Aubrey S. Legg reported the condition of the important road projected in the future for connecting towns of this area with Hobbs, N. M. He said Seminole had built her part of the road, to the Andrews county line, that Gaines county has built to the state line, and that a road was built from the state line into Hobbs.

An informal discussion was held on the proposed viaduct over the Texas and Pacific railroad tracks in Midland's southside industrial district.

K. E. Ambrose urged the support of the pure food show to be given by the ladies of the First Christian church, and President Leon Goodman asked that all members of the chamber of commerce who could

VIRGINIA ESPECIALLY IS WATCHED

Mayorality Campaign Interesting In New York

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—While election contests drew the voters of a dozen states to the polls today, the eyes of the nation were fixed primarily on Virginia for an indication of what might be expected of the old dominion in future national campaigns.

Mayorality elections in New York, Boston and other cities attracted attention, but today's balloting in Virginia was considered the crucial test for the Democratic organization there and efforts of the Republican party to solidify the gains of last year in the presidential election under Herbert Hoover's leadership.

Minor elections were held in Michigan, Indiana, Kansas, Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

'WHITEY' WALKER IS RETURNED TO ADA, OKLAHOMA

ADA, Okla., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Under heavy guard, William "Whitey" Walker, wanted in five Oklahoma counties for bank robbery, was returned here today from Stinnett, Texas, to stand trial on a charge of robbing the First National Bank of Allen a year ago.

Sheriff Fred Bowles obtained custody of Walker after his trial for killing a Borger, Texas, policeman two years ago was postponed.

Walker made a desperate effort to escape as the Texas officers turned him over to Oklahoma officers last night near Stinnett.

Midland Listed As City To Get Beacon

A radio beacon will be erected at Midland if plans of the government are carried out, according to a news release given out under a Baltimore dateline, in the Abilene News. Midland is listed with 23 other cities at which it is proposed by the United States department of commerce to establish, at its next allotment, radio stations broadcasting weather information.

According to dispatches received from Washington, upon completion of the commerce department's radio weather system there will hardly be a square mile in the United States that will not be covered by the government's service of flashing weather news to pilots of airplanes. During the past summer 20 of these stations have been placed in operation, and 15 are under construction.

It is proposed to establish additional stations in the following cities: Midland, Abilene, Houston, Brownsville, San Antonio, Fort Stockton and El Paso, Texas; Miami, Titusville and Jacksonville, Fla.; Birmingham and Mobile, Ala.; New Orleans and Shreveport, La.; Jackson, Miss.; Memphis, Tenn.; Springfield, Mo.; Little Rock, Ark.; Pueblo, Colo.; Helena, Mont.; Fargo, N. D.; Pittsburgh, Pa. and Tucson and Tuma, Ariz.

Two Texans Killed In Mexico Crash

DALLAS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Two former Texans were killed in an airplane crash in Mexico yesterday which took four lives. John Carmichael, former all-southwest football player from Trinity University, and Robert Lowry of Dallas and Mission were killed with two Mexicans.

In Fatal Triangle

The slaying of Tom Walton (insert at lower left) has its echo in a courtroom at Weatherford, Texas, where former Judge R. H. Hamilton (insert at lower right) is being tried for the slaying of young Walton after the latter had married Theresa Hamilton (above), the judge's daughter.

Today's proceeding was chiefly a battle of the defense to establish credibility of letters presented in open court, letters which were signed "Tom Walton" and written to the defendant. The state had a handwriting expert who showed that the four letters were written on by a pen which was different from that used in addressing the envelopes. All the letters stated threats. Other testimony was given by a telephone operator who said she heard Hamilton's brother warn the defendant before Walton's death, telling him to "watch your step."

Was Man Shot On Midland Street Monday Night? Peel, Light And Money Deceptive

A queer story broke out on Midland streets this morning as a result of an even queerer circumstance which had for its background Monday night a banana peel, a lost nickel and an erratic explosion from an old flivver.

Residents of a downtown apartment house were attracted to their windows by the sound of a "gun shot" when they looked down on the street a man was down on his knees with his hand to his back, and another was standing over him with a "gun" in his hand.

That someone had fallen prey to a gun battle was the positive belief of several, the conviction being strengthened by seeing the hurt man get to his feet and lurch unsteadily off.

As always when a story gets into circulation ahead of the newspaper, various sympathetic tales are unleashed. One man informed a reporter that there had been a killing Saturday night, and that the body had been loaded into a truck and spirited away!

Those on the street who saw the incident Monday night said it happened this way: A man with a flashlight was looking for a coin he had dropped on the sidewalk. The man who was later discovered on the sidewalk walked by and, in the light of the torch, failed to see the banana peel, and fell to the walk when he stepped upon it.

Pure Seed Saves Money For Farmer

Only 1,600 pounds of cotton raised with pure bred seed planted by John Keithmayer, Midland farmer living seven miles south of town, were required to make a 550 pound bale.

Ordinary gin run seed planted on the same farm required 1,800 pounds of cotton to make a 525 to 550 pound bale.

The pure bred seed cost Keithmayer from $2.50 to 2.75 a bushel, but increased his profit over 12 percent. This Midland farmer will waste no more energy and time planting ordinary seed.

ANDREWS GASSER MAY OPEN A NEW OIL POOL AREA

With the Deep Rock's No. 1 Ogdan, 2310 feet from the east and 330 feet from the south line of section 6, block A-46, public school land, Andrews county, making more than 3,000,000 feet of sweet gas at around 2900 feet, oil activity in this area is expected to be considerably abetted.

Early morning reports gave out that fishing for lost tools was still in progress at the well Monday night. They had been blown upward twice by the force of the gas pressure.

The well is 1 1-2 miles northwest of the Deep Rock's No. 1 J. W. Harris, in the center of the southeast quarter of section 12, block A-46, which showed from two to three million feet of gas at 2946 feet and had several strong oil showings.

Oil men say the new well is generally conceded as the probable opener of the field which they all agree is to be found in Andrews county.

The rig is up for the Penn Humble York No. 1, 2640 feet from the east and 330 from the north of section 14, block 443, SM Ector county, just one location south of the Penn et al. Kloh-Rumsey No. 1, Ector county's first real producer, 14 miles west of Odessa. The well will be spudded the last of the week.

The discovery well in that area, Penn et al. Kloh-Rumsey No. 1 has been flowing over 300 barrels for the past week, in spite of efforts to choke it down to 100 daily. Connection has been made with the Gulf pipe line, but the Humble has three cars of line on the tracks at Juddkins and have twelve more reported on the way. The Humble is expected to connect with the well as soon as possible and it will be given a chance to show what it really can do.

The second well, operators say, will be given every chance to make a better producer as every care is to be taken in putting it down and plans are to really investigate the possibility of the area. The discovery well, however, will be left as it is until the new one can be completed.

MacDonald Reports On Trip To U. S.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(UP)—Ramsay MacDonald reported today to the House of Commons on the naval understanding he and Hoover reached on his United States trip. He formally thanked Hoover and his cabinet for the reception accorded him. He then quoted the joint Hoover-MacDonald statement issued following the conferences.

Rotarians Seek 100 Per Cent Attendance

Plans for a 100 per cent attendance at the Rotary Club luncheon Thursday were announced by the president, Malcolm M. Meek. The secretary, Dr. L. B. SENATORS ASKED TO DRINK TOO

Senator Says Prohibition Is A Failure In Every Sense

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Hoover should demand resignation of Andrew W. Mellon for failure to enforce prohibition "and get Smedley Butler or some one like that," Senator Smith-W. Brookhart told the senate today in describing what he called the "Wall Street booze party," given senators in a Washington hotel in 1926.

He asserted a large number of hip flasks were on a table and that he and the other senators were invited to help themselves.

He said Walter J. Fahy gave part.

"HELP YOURSELVES" WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A story of a "Wall street booze party dinner" in Washington was told to an expectant, closely attentive senate today by Senator Brookhart, Iowa.

In the reception room at dinner, Brookhart said, there was a rack. When a curtain lifted there was revealed a row of silver hip flasks. "I was told: 'Help yourself.' A considerable number did help themselves."

Wall street notables are said to have attended the dinner, Senator Smoot, with Brookhart, was among those who refused.

LAMESA STORES ROBBED MONDAY NIGHT, REPORT

Six Lamesa stores were burglarized Monday night, according to Ellis Howell, owner of the Oil Field bus line which operates cars over the Midland-to-Lamesa route.

The sheriff's office in Midland has been asked to keep a sharp look-out for suspicious characters. No other information was obtainable this afternoon.

NOT SO BAD, AFTER ALL

We are altogether too prone to feel that the sins and follies of our own day are much worse than those of any preceding era—just as we also think, at times, that our virtues and triumphs are better than anything that has gone before.

A good corrective for this despondent attitude is contained in the stories which Rodney Dutcher has been writing from Washington about the work of congressional lobbyists in the days of the nation's youth.

The present lobby investigation has already dragged to light some rather disheartening facts. Considering the ring of special pleaders that surrounds our federal government from all sides, one is almost justified in despairing of the future.

But, as Dutcher proves, it used to be a whole lot worse.

There were, for instance, the land grabs of the old northwest territory.

Millions of acres of virgin land went to selfish speculators. The agents who put these conscienceless steals through Congress could hardly be called lobbyists, they simply indulged in free and easy bribery, and they didn't bother very much to conceal it.

Then there was the question of "assumption"—the issue whether the new federal government should assume the debts of the various revolutionary states and redeem the war-time continental paper money, which had depreciated so greatly that the slang expression, "not worth a continental" became a byword.

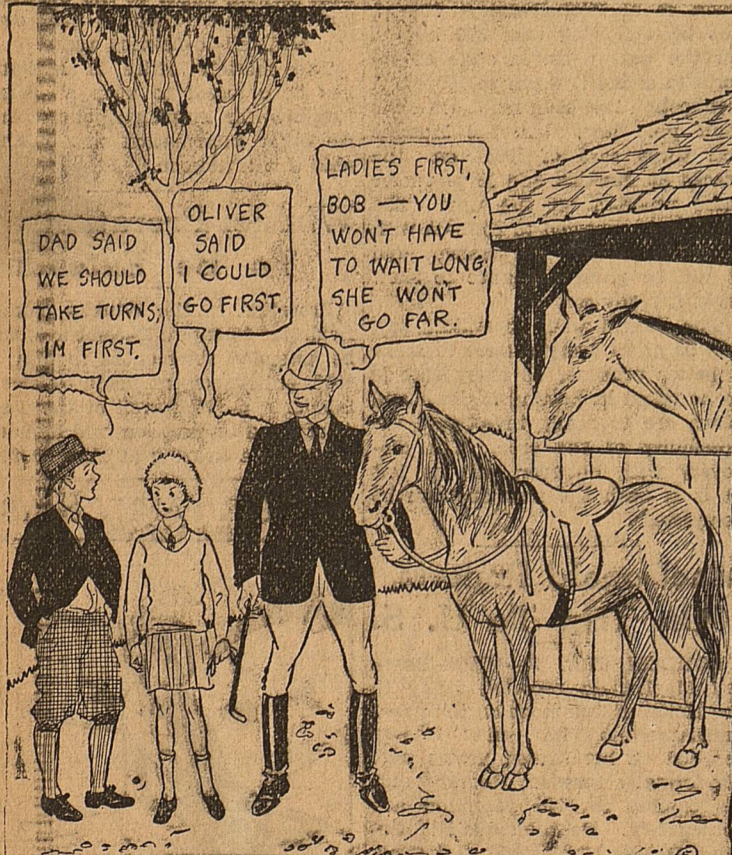

Congressmen, cabinet ministers and their friends went around and bought up vast quantities of this paper money and of the old state notes. Then, with a brazenness that could not be duplicated today, they forced the assumption measure through Congress and enriched themselves vastly.

Then there were the railroad lobbies. They induced the government to give the new roads enormous grants of land—one middle-western line got some two million acres of valuable land, selling it in parcels to settlers for a tremendous profit.

The atmosphere at Washington reeked with corruption. Mark Twain's novel, "The Gilded Age," shows the capital as a city in which bribery and crookedness were taken for granted. The things that shock us today would not even have been noticed 50 to 75 years ago.

Bad as our present conditions are, they are infinitely better than they used to be. We're not going down hill. Year by year, our standards are getting higher. We have a long way to go—but, even so, we have progressed a lot.

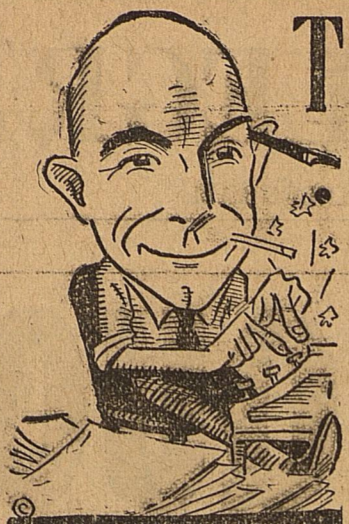

ERRORGRAMS

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around.

Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Today, on page 6, we'll explain the mistakes and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you fit, by switching the letters around.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

In times past, and probably at the present, local merchants have worried about where farmers in the east part of the county buy their groceries.

Paul Vickers started off an anecdote in this manner, "Once when I was in conversation with a Scotchman—" Can you imagine Vickers talking to a Scotchman? We hear now that one of the latest Scotch jokes is that John Howe thought Ten Nights in a Barroom referred to a Scotchman waiting for somebody to buy the drinks.

Now that the deal on the Midland National bank has been made public it should be all right to publish a report circulated here last week. It was said that Tulsa bankers were going to buy the bank, put a filling station on that corner, and keep Ralph Barron to run it.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—It's a sad world and at the moment nothing in it seems much sadder than the case of Uncle Andrew Mellon, the second or third richest man in the world.

To goodness knows how many flat-topped stock market speculators Uncle Mellon has suddenly become a fallen idol. There was, you may recall, a suspicion rife in the land that as long as Uncle Mellon remained in charge of the national finances nothing could happen to business and the stock market but bigger profits and better prices. Thus, untoward business developments and bad days on the exchange were frequently attributed to the most recent reports that he was going to resign.

Suddenly Mr. Hoover stamped down on those annoying reports with the public announcement that Uncle Mellon would serve out his four-year term as secretary of the treasury. The explanation was that this announcement would serve to make Wall Street happy and encourage investors. After that, everything was supposed to be rosy in the world of commerce and finance.

And Then It Happened After that, as a matter of fact, came the deluge. Within a fortnight after the country had been reassured about Uncle Mellon the stock market plunged into the grandest series of crashes in its history. It couldn't have been any worse had the secretary been summarily fired. Of course you can't blame it on "the greatest secretary of the treasury since Hamilton," but it does seem to have punctured what might be called the Mellon myth.

Uncle Mellon remains a remarkable man for all that. He is going to serve 12 years at the head of the treasury, breaking all records. And the strangest part of it is that in the last eight years he has been subjected to a steadier and more vigorous stream of criticism than any other cabinet member who can be recalled. The Mellon critics never let up. There is little of which he hasn't been accused. Various attempts have been made to force him out. And yet here he is, still active in his 76th year and holding onto his dearly beloved job like grim death.

Mr. Hoover, there is every good reason to believe, had expected Uncle Mellon to resign within a year after satisfaction of his playful ambition to serve under three presidents. All the boys "close to Hoover," on and off the White House payroll, seemed to agree about that. They were pretty well agreed as to whom Hoover had picked to succeed him. As time went on, however, some began to express the fear that Uncle Mellon might forget.

Now one story is that he suddenly grew very sour about these constant rumors of his impending resignation and went right over to the White House about it. And that the president hastily assured him that nothing was further from the presidential hope than the hope that he would quit. Because, after all, Uncle Mellon is a very powerful person and it would not do Mr. Hoover the least bit of good to have him walk out in a huff. It might even have seriously disturbed the stock market. So Mr. Hoover announced to the world that Mr. Mellon was in until 1933.

Another current explanation—and perhaps a more likely one—is that, as Mr. Hoover began to override his policies and push him far-

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By DOROTHY HERZOG

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—The long engagement of Mary Philbin and Paul Kohner, Universal exec., has come to an abrupt and perhaps unexpected end. It was only a few weeks ago that Kohner returned from an extended business sojourn in Germany. But the engagement had survived absence. Survived, to all appearances, until—

Paul arrived at Mary's home one day to be told she was out with friends. Love is funny. So Kohner sorta stunk around to see for himself, and, according to the yarn relayed to this bureau, saw Miss Philbin return accompanied by "Big Boy" Williams.

Ernst Lubitsch and his wife were honor guests at a shindig given at the Russian Club, of which Michael Vavitch is the head man. As a courtesy to Lubitsch, practically every prominent Russian actor and singer in town showed. An impromptu entertainment was given, and the champagne poured. Among those to volunteer was Mrs. Fagel Pantz. She sang, accompanied by her daughter, Sylvia. So impressive was her singing that a Universal-lie present, got her telephone number. The next day or so, she received a call from the studio and went out to make a test. Purpose: to appear in John Murray Anderson's Paul Whiteman Revue. What the outcome is, this Bureau hasn't learned, but at all events this is merely another instance of how one gets movie breaks in this break-seeking town.

Training home wasn't so swell. Miss Wray made the scare-y discovery that her compartment was in the same car that carried prisoners from San Quentin Penitentiary to Los Angeles. She didn't get much sleep that night!

Awfully sorry not to steer clear of the stock market, but there's an art dealer in the Colony who has been making an excellent go in this particular field of endeavor. Excellent, until the market crash. Now, his portals are being stormed by erstwhile buyers who want him to sell at any price the art things they purchased, in which there may be paths.

But 'twill be a ill while ere this redler goes into production, so Miss MacDonald bee-lined outta town on the

Convention Report Given At Meeting Of Christian Society

The ladies of the Christian Church held their usual monthly missionary program Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Longabough, with an unusually good attendance.

The first part of the afternoon was taken up in finishing up the business concerning the Pure Food Show to begin this week, naming committees and making other preparations.

Mrs. H. G. Bedford was leader of the program for the afternoon, and the subject, "Witnesses To His Strength," was used. Mrs. Bedford presented a discussion on "One of Our Christian Characters of China."

Mrs. Hubert Drake gave a talk on the Christian Institute on the Congo in Africa. Mrs. Jim Gage and Mrs. J. T. Keyes both gave discussions on "A South American Mexican."

Mrs. C. L. Klapproth gave a very interesting report on the one day convention in Sweetwater, which was held some time ago. She talked on the work the Christian Church was doing among the French speaking people in Louisiana, and told of the wonderful service that Everest Hebert is giving as the head of this work.

The Devotional was given by Mrs. J. E. Evans, after which Mrs. Van Camp favored the group with a vocal selection "Open Mine Eyes," as those present offered silent prayers.

The hostess, Mrs. Longabough, assisted by Mrs. A. B. Anderson, and Mrs. W. L. Brown served a dainty plate of hot chocolate and cakes, at the close of the program.

Rev. Brown Gives Talk At Baptist W. M. S.

The Baptist Women's Missionary Society met Monday afternoon in the church for a business and study hour.

In the course of the business session, the members voted to take a Bible study course. "Great Epochs" was the subject of the course chosen.

It was decided to send one hundred fifty hens to the Buchner Orphan Home for Thanksgiving.

Reverend Brown gave a very interesting discourse on a lesson on the Bible, using as his subject, "How Did We Get Our Bible?"

There was an especially good attendance at this meeting, about thirty five being present.

Presbyterian Women To Have All Day Meeting Thursday

The fifteenth chapter of Luke was taken as the Bible Study, when the Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church met Monday afternoon at the church, with Mrs. J. M. Caldwell as teacher.

The three parables of "The Lost Sheep," "The Lost Coin," and "The Prodigal Son," were studied intensely and revealed the joy of the Triune God in the salvation of a sinner.

An all day meeting is planned for next Thursday, when the home mission study book "The Crowded Ways," will be reviewed.

Circle No. One with Mrs. Arthur Stout as chairman will present the program. Those who will give discussions of the review are Mrs. Andrew Fasken, Mrs. J. B. Chapman, Mrs. A. Harry Anderson, Mrs. Florence Richardson and Mrs. J. M. DeArmond.

The members of Circle No. Two, of which Mrs. W. G. Whitehouse is chairman will act as hostesses to the women at the residence of Mrs. Fred Turner on 224 North B. Street.

Mrs. J. M. Caldwell is chairman of the luncheon committee, with Mrs. G. A. Sundquist, Mrs. John G. Gossett and Mrs. Fred Turner as her assistants.

A special free will offering for home missions will be taken.

Every woman who prefers the Presbyterian Church is urged to be present at this meeting as the ladies guarantee a happy day of fellowship to all who come.

Young People Urged To Attend City League Union Meet

Friday evening at the Methodist Church, the City League Union will have their eighth meeting. A very interesting Missionary program will be had, as this is designated as the Week of Prayer, after which a business session will be held and the remainder of the evening will be spent in a social hour.

This program will be well worth the time of any young person interested in the City League Union work. The organization is made up of the Christian young people of the various churches, the Methodist, Baptist, Christian and Presbyterian. Each member is striving to do his bit to make each meeting a success.

"We are workers together with God." We are doers and not hearers only. This is a place to start to help to make Midland a more Christian-like place in which to live.

Let everybody who is interested be present Friday evening at 7:30 at the Methodist Church.

Business Meeting Of M. E. Society

A joint meeting of Circles one and two of the Methodist Missionary Society was held in the church Monday afternoon.

The meeting was opened with a hymn, after which Mrs. Noel Oates led in prayer.

The discussion of business was begun with reports from the separate circles. Mrs. Young giving a report for Circle one and Mrs. Chambers Peak for Circle two.

Reports from the various committees were heard, after which one committee from each circle was selected to take care of the Harvest Day program, which is to be held early in December.

Mrs. M. F. Peters, Mrs. C. E. Smith, and Mrs. Fletcher Curry were chosen for the committee of Circle one, and Mrs. C. H. Shepard, Mrs. Ingles and Mrs. Chambers Peak for Circle two.

The significance of the Week of Prayer was discussed by Mrs. Sam Preston. Mrs. M. J. Allen gave the Devotional from Romans 10:1-9.

The meeting was ended with sentence prayers from the various members, led by Mrs. H. C. Barnes and closed by Mrs. J. P. Collins.

Independence (?)

By Maud Thomas

How proudly we boast of our independence, we modern girls! But there's a time comes when we're not so sure of it after all. When? you ask. Well, take the pretty little modern who feels so wonderfully efficient and having bought the smartest skating togs in the shop, sits down and waits for the first cold snap of Winter to display both efficiency and the new startling outfit. Then when she starts to prouette and becomes very gay in trying out a new figure on the ice, she "comes a cropper" and a huge star forms on the ice and she sees at least hundreds of stars floating around her head. Oh, how comforting it is then to know the feel of strong masculine arms safely guiding her and how heavenly it is to glide with the swiftness of an eagle and the grace of a premiere danseuse secure in the knowledge of those same supporting arms! Independence? That's the last thing she thinks of them. She's just plain feminine—and glad of it!

Sister Mary's Kitchen

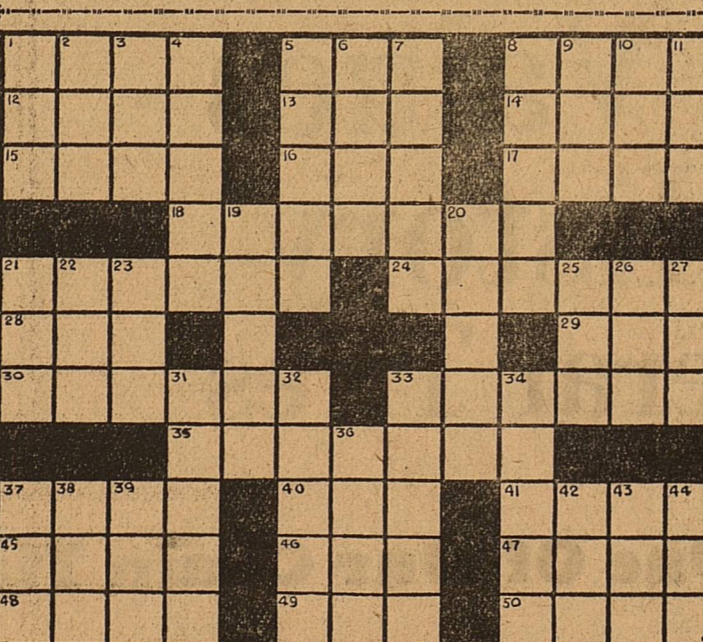

By SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer

When we realize that day after day we serve potatoes in some form or other, we must acknowledge their unusual value. No other vegetable could appear daily on our tables without becoming monotonous and unpalatable. They stand pre-eminent among the vegetables.

Composed chiefly of starch and water, they are lacking in protein and should be used in combination with protein-rich foods such as meat or eggs. The lack of individual flavor in potatoes makes them an excellent fat carrier. This quality, together with the large amount of starch which the potato itself supplies, makes it one of the most valuable of the energy foods.

Heat is necessary to make potatoes digestible, and because of their high water content the dry heat of baking, which is more intense than the heat of boiling, acts on the starch to better advantage. Cut Out Green Portion. When potatoes have grown near the surface of the ground, or have been stored in the sunlight, they turn green. This green portion is bitter and should be cut out before cooking. Some food scientists advocate always cooking potatoes with their skins on. Most of the protein and mineral salts do lie close under the skin and if a thick paring is taken a large amount of the food value of the potato is gone.

Watch the bicycle! A bicycle is excellent exercise when it is right. It is a trouble causer when it is wrong. I see so many children riding bicycles with their shoulders hunched up, knees perpetually bent, panting up hills they should not attempt, and otherwise injuring their young bodies, that a word here may be of a little help, or at least a reminder to busy parents who have almost forgotten that there is such a thing as a bicycle in the house. To begin with, no saddle that is only a ridge of leather should ever be used. It should be level and flat, a real support for the body. Boys like to tilt their saddles sometimes until they more greatly resemble Mother Goose's broom than a seat to sit on. That's very bad to begin with. Adjust Handle Bars Then they get the handle bars stuck in the shaft up to the head and that's bad to end with. All handle bars are adjustable, made with nice long necks so as to keep pace with the lengthening bones and muscles of their riders. Children grow fast and handle bars should be adjusted often enough to keep the chest muscles from being compressed. A child should sit nearly upright on his wheel. This goes for tricycles and the little folk too. Saddles like handle bars are adjustable. They too have long

T C U GRIDDERS ELATED OVER PROSPECTS OF CHAMPIONSHIP

PLAY EASY GAME SATURDAY WITH RICE WHILE OTHER TEAMS BUCK STRONG COMPETITION OVER STATE

FORT WORTH.—"On to a Conference Championship" reads a banner that floats over the campus of Texas Christian University. The banner was raised Monday morning and expresses in a visible way the high hopes of Frog followers.

T. C. U. is entering the home stretch in the current football race. The Frogs have played their last non-conference game and have conquered one conference foe, the Aggies. This week they are the only undefeated and untied team in the Southwest Conference, counting all games played. T. C. U. and Baylor both have a clean record so far as conference games are concerned, both having won one game.

Four conference tilts loom ahead of the Frogs, on four successive November Saturdays. In order, the Christians will meet Rice, Texas, Baylor and S. M. U. While comparative scores to date indicate that Rice is not as strong as the other three contenders, it seems evident that Coach Francis Schmidt and his gridiron warriors have a month's real work laid out for them to say the least.

Coach Francis Schmidt of Texas Christian University now has all his non-conference game out of the way, and can settle down in earnest preparation for a string of four conference games. This series of contests begins next Saturday when the Rice Owls invade Fort Worth.

The Houston team is probably as weak this year as it was last, but the Owls always give the Horned Frogs a tough battle. In 1928 practically every club was knocking Rice over with regularity, and the Horned Frogs went to Houston expecting a fight, but also an easy victory. The Owls started out and played the Frogs off their feet, and the latter were lucky to make a touchdown in the last five minutes of play and win the game 7 to 0.

For some unaccounted reason Rice usually plays its best game of the season against T. C. U., and therefore Coach Schmidt intends to work his men at top speed for this contest. The Christians mentor never takes a game lightly, no matter who the opponents are. The Owls have been well scouted, and scrimmage against their plays is the program for this week. It was begun Monday, when the last hour of practice was taken up by Dutch Meyer's freshmen running Rice plays at three varsity teams.

In the game with Denton Teachers last week, the Frogs again dodged the injury jinx, and every man on the squad is in good condition.

Chipman Brought To City For Treatment

J. E. Chipman, manager of the Plains Electric company of Hobbs, N. M., and formerly sales manager of this district of the Texas Electric Service company, was brought to Midland last night in reply to a call to District Manager A. S. Legg saying Chipman was in need of medical attention.

Chipman is better today, it was learned. A trace of influenza caused his illness and not pneumonia, as first thought.

Started Today On Second Farm Trip

Ira F. Lord left Midland this morning for his second farm advertising trip as a representative of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

He will go to Grayson, Titus, Collin and Smith counties, going on southeast from Smith, and making a loop back from a southerly direction to Midland, expecting to be gone for ten days.

In addition to making stops on market squares, distributing farm literature, displaying signs about Midland County, and talking to farmers in person, he will specialize in a newspaper publicity campaign in each place visited.

Aero Club Secretary Back To El Paso

The inimitable "Dusty" Waller, possibly the best known hotel man in the state among the oil, flying and newspaper fraternity, left Midland Sunday night for El Paso. Accompanying him were Mrs. Waller and little daughter Ann. "Dusty" generally runs "front page," but his Midland friends suggested that there was no more expressive space for a sportsman, booster and all-around good fellow than the sports page—and here you are.

Simmons' Proud Cowboys Meet Trinity In Game Monday; Have Clean Slate Now

By "SPORTS" HAGGARD

ABILENE, Nov. 5.—Having disposed of their first Texas Conference opponent in satisfactory fashion, the Simmons Cowboys are hoping to see whether the Trinity University Tigers at Waxahachie Monday, November 11 in the annual armistice battle of the two teams.

Although the Cowboys are doped to take the Tigers into camp without great difficulty, the men themselves are looking on the game differently. They know that it will be Homecoming Day for Trinity and the Tigers will put up one of the hardest battles of the year. Moreover, the way in which the Howard Payne Yellowjackets scored for the first half last week and then tallied six points has given the Cowboys more respect for Coach Stollenwork's team.

An injury to the famous kicking toe of Bill Sanders, Cowboy backfield ace, may keep him out of the Trinity fray. His kicking has not been up to par for two weeks on account of the injury. If he is out the punting will be done by Kuhn and Marshall.

The remainder of the Cowboy crew is in good shape and Coach

Dallas Cotton Market

The New York cotton market closed Tuesday for "Election," leaving the situation with New Orleans and Liverpool which market developed considerable weakness in New Orleans after opening slightly lower and declined sharply later due to heavy liquidation and hedge pressure.

While the late weakness in Liverpool also encouraged selling, opening prices in New Orleans were unchanged to 3 lower, which was followed by a steady decline, December selling down to 17.25, January 17.37, and March 17.68, or 33 to 36 points under Monday's close.

Coach Makes Champions

Major Bob Neyland... West Pointer... coach of the Tennessee University team that won 30 games in a row... he doesn't believe in getting his men steamed up before a game... thinks they need to be cool about the cars... he tells them to play clean and hard and keep their heads up... "if the opponents come in crying and excited they won't be able to see our passes; if they come tearing in mad they won't be able to execute their plays properly and they'll do something that will get them penalized"... he doesn't kiss his men, he cuds them... under him Buddy Hackman and Gene McEver grew into two of the Southland's greatest backs... McEver is being mentioned for All-America honors and has been leading the south in point scoring.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

Overemphasis and Albie

It is unfortunate that the four authors of the Carnegie report on college athletics are not regular attendants at Yale Bowl. It would be enlightening to hear these gentlemen deplore overemphasis upon the individual player in football, while watching little Albie Booth in action.

In fairness to every player on a football team who does his share to win, it usually is advisable to lean backwards in describing the part in the team's victory played by the star upon whom attention is concentrated. Frequently, weekly, in fact, the individual player is exploited beyond the due proportion of his contribution.

But what are you going to do in the case of Albie Booth? Even his own coach and severest critic, Mal Stevens, had to admit that Albie inspired the entire Yale team in the glorious, unexpected victory over the Army. Booth wasn't merely a player who got a break and won the game. There's more to this little cuss than just his football ability. There's something about him that gets you, even if you do believe in the bogey of overemphasis.

Exploitation frequently spoils promising young boys, the Carnegie quartet pointed out. It hasn't spoiled Albie Booth. For one thing, if he were susceptible, he would have gone down for the third time beneath the waves of applause long ere this.

Here is a youngster whose powers of concentration are so exceptional that he can go right on studying while his praises are being sung by a houseful of admirers, and Booth gets exceptionally good marks in his studies.

Maybe Carnegie's college castigators can explain it.

The Individual and the Gate

The Foundation's report gave Yale a clean bill of health as far as subsidizing athletics was concerned.

It is taken for granted that the authorities at New Haven do not countenance the exploitation of any individual scholar for the sake of increasing gate receipts at Yale Bowl.

Yet see what happened last week and learn how frequently an investigating committee may leap to the wrong conclusion.

Albie Booth entered the Yale-Army game on October 26 and, whatever else he did, turned victory Yale's way, just when it seemed headed in quite the opposite direction. The young man played inspired, sensational football. Probably he never will play quite as well again.

Now if Albie hadn't done this, there would have been about 50,000 persons at the game the following week. As it was, Yale Bowl was sold out for the Dartmouth game, because everyone wanted to look at Albie. There was a case where the exploitation of an individual player meant more than $100,000 in cash to his alma mater.

Yale didn't do it. The poor sports writers couldn't help themselves. Albie didn't mean any harm. The public should be censured for its indecent interest in the individual, but you throw the first stone.

What's it all about, Dr. Savage?

Baron, Who Visited Here, Safe In N. Y.

Once more was the jinx thwarted and the "impossible" accomplished when a tiny monoplane, no larger than a small glider, settled to Roosevelt Field, New York, carrying a smiling 23-year-old German lad, two horned frogs and a Siamese cat.

The youth was Baron Friedrich Karl Frieheer Koenig von Zu Warthausen, who is nearing the end of a fifteen-months tour by plane and ship that carried him into many of the far places of the world, including a visit to Midland.

The cat was a present from the Crown Prince of Siam and the frogs were a good will offering from friends in El Paso, Texas. Originally there were three, but the cat, disposed of one during the flight to New York.

Lingered in Siam
The Baron flew from Berlin to Moscow, thence over the Ukraine, over Persia, and above the mountains in India. In Siam he lingered awhile and then made a 1,200-mile nonstop flight from Bangkok to Singapore.

His plane carried him around the Island of Sumatra and then he shipped it by boat to Hongkong. He flew to Shanghai, crossed the Yellow Sea by ship because the fog was too thick for flying and then toured Japan. From Yokohama he shipped his plane to San Francisco and then flew across the United States by the southern route, lingering at many places en route. He made the jump to New York Sunday from Albany in rainy, thick weather, wearing neither goggles nor helmet.

Plans Another Trip
The Baron reported he spent $600 on gasoline and oil and put his plane into a hangar only twice. Next year, he said, he hopes to have it painted and take a trip from Berlin over Siberia, Alaska, Canada, the United States, Central and South America.

Only two mishaps marred the journey. At Sweetwater, Texas, a wing of his plane was damaged in a storm and in El Paso he was hit by a taxicab and spent three weeks in a hospital. In return for the horned frogs given him in El Paso, he created a scholarship for study in Germany, which was awarded to Oscar Strobel, cowboy-artist of Texas.

He plans to sail for home Wednesday.

HAMER DEATH DUE

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 5.—(UP)—Bets that Ranger Captain Frank Hamer would be "bumped off" in thirty days are due for payment at midnight tomorrow night.

On Oct. 6, Hamer, who made such a drastic clean-up of vice conditions at Borger, was notified by friends that bets were placed at Borger that he would not live thirty days. That time will be up at midnight tomorrow night and Hamer is still alive and well.

"They are not very good sports," said Hamer when asked if he expected to live out the time. "None of them have even tried to win their bets."

GOOD SPORTS AND GOOD JUDGES

Midland women have shown themselves good sports and have shown themselves excellent judges in the bread campaign in Midland. Many who had always eaten out-of-town bread, with reluctance agreed to try Paterson's Big Dandy bread. But they were good sports and did try it, and now they want nothing else.

These Midland women who know good things to eat and who are fine judges of bread want Midland bread because it is actually better. It is fresher. And, then, they like to stand by their own home town. They are FOR Midland and Midland institutions.—Adv.
