JURY CONVICTS JOHN BRADY; GIVES THREE YEAR SENTENCE

ATTORNEYS MAY FILE AN APPEAL

Defendant Says Does Not Deserve This Sentence

DALLAS, May 17.—(AP)—John W. Brady of Austin, former Texas high court judge, was convicted and sentenced to three years imprisonment after a second trial for stabbing Lehlia Highsmith, 28, capitol stenographer.

He pleaded insanity, caused by excessive use of alcohol.

The first trial, at Austin, ended in a hung jury. The case was brought here on a change of venue. Five ballots were taken, two last night and three today.

After seven hours of argument, Judge Phippen sent the jurors to the jury room at 11 o'clock Friday night, after District Attorney James McGraw had closed the argument with a plea for the death penalty. Maury Hughes closed the defense argument attempting to establish that Brady was of unsound mind.

May Appeal Case

After the jury foreman had read the decision, Brady exclaimed, "I didn't do it! I don't deserve that sentence!" It was the first time Brady had denied stabbing Miss Highsmith.

Maury Hughes and Ted Monroe, defense attorneys, said, "We are not through yet. We will free him next week," indicating a plea for a new trial or an appeal to a higher court.

Watch This Night For City Broadcast

Texas Electric Co. will broadcast a program dedicated to Midland Tuesday night at 8 or 8:30 over station WBAP of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. The program will contain three lectures on Midland, material for which was furnished by Aubrey S. Legg, district manager here, in conjunction with the Midland chamber of commerce. The program is being given complimentary to Midland. Legg invites Midland people to tune in to hear their city publicized next Tuesday night. This radio program is one of the means used by the Texas Electric company to promote the best interests of communities it serves, the district manager points out.

Thieves Cut Down Telephone Wires

For the second time recently thieves tore down wire on the telephone line between Midland and Sweetwater, evidently to sell it for junk.

They took 12 wires, over a distance of 14 spans, between Big Spring and Stanton Thursday night, according to telephone officials here. Service was paralyzed for several hours while repairs were being made. On the former offense, the trouble happened just west of Sweetwater.

The AT and T circuit was that cut Thursday. While the wire stolen on the former offense was located, the names of those selling the wire to a junk dealer could not be found.

Graf Starts Today To South America

FRIEDRICHSAFEN, Germany, May 17.—(AP)—Sunday, the Graf Zeppelin, dirigible which flew over the Atlantic five times and around the world once, will start a flight to South America. A short stop to Rio de Janeiro is planned, then the dirigible will head for America and will return here.

India's "Joan"

This is M. Sarojini Naidu, poetess, who is called India's "Joan of Arc," and who has succeeded Mahatma as leader of the natives' passive resistance campaign against British rule. Both Gandhi and his first successor, Abbas Tyabji, were arrested.

NEGRESS FATALLY SHOTS NEGRO MAN ON STREETS HERE

Walking shoulder to shoulder on the 100 block of West Texas avenue, Lizzie Farmer, negress, suddenly pulled an automatic revolver and shot to death Jim Jones, 42, negro man, early Saturday morning.

John Bonner, connected with the management of the Midland Theatres, Inc., was nearby when the shooting happened.

An examining trial was held at 1:30 in the afternoon, and the woman placed in jail. She indicated she would try to make bond. Bonner told of the incident. "I was walking along the street toward North Main," he said "intending to go to the Ritz theatre, where I had some mats and advertising copy I was supposed to carry to O. W. Baxley, advertising man at the Reporter-Telegram office. I started around the two negroes and as I did so, the negress, walking on the right, was next to me. They were both mumbling something unintelligible, and she struck me in the ribs with her elbow as she pulled her gun quickly. She shot and the negro man began to crumple. Two more shots rang out together, with just a space between them."

Bonner said he moved away from the two and turned back to see the woman standing over the body of the negro man, gun still smoking, and looking at Bonner. She looked back at the negro man lying in front of the Rockwell Lumber company and then at Bonner. Then, seeing he made no move to take her gun, she calmly tucked the weapon under her arm and walked over to the county jail. There was no one to receive her there, so she walked to the Petroleum building, where she was employed. Constable Raleigh D. Lee was coming out of the building and the (See NEGRO KILLED page 8)

Why Not Watch Golfers Today?

How do you spend your afternoons? Do you like golf? If so, why not turn to today's Reporter-Telegram sports page and read about that low medal golf tournament at country club this afternoon, and go around behind your favorite foursome?

You possibly want to know these golfers when they meet other towns' golfers in a series of invitation tournaments.

PART OF PRECINCT STILL OUT

Other Counties And Towns Listed By Supervisor

Midland is a town of "5,482 population and five farms."

Thus the 1930 census establishes Midland on the enumeration rolls of the country, according to Phocian C. Beard, supervisor of the census, District 13, San Angelo.

A telephone conversation with Beard's office Saturday resulted in the information that Midland has been speculating upon since the first of the year, as it prepared for the count.

Several interesting figures were given by Mrs. Josephine Bell, assistant enumerator, who made the report. For instance, Midland, in 1920, had 1795 people, in 1910, 397 more, or 2192. This was due to the influx of farmers who later moved away.

Enumeration incomplete. Midland county, as a whole, is not yet completely enumerated, one district of Precinct 1 still remaining out of the report. But the precincts were listed subject to revision as No. 2, 41 and 74 farms; No. 3, 150 and 28 farms; No. 4, 185 and 27 farms.

Several nearby counties were listed thus: Ector, 3058 and 70 farms. In 1920 this county had 760, in 1910 it had 1,178.

Andrews—701 and 66 farms; in 1920, 350.

Crane—2,194 and 13 farms; 1920 37; 1910, 331.

Martin—5,793 and 770 farms; 1920, 1,146; 1910, 1,549.

Mitchell—14,184 and 482 farms; 1920, 7,527; 1910, 8,956.

Mrs. Bell said the enumeration of Tom Green county is not complete but that San Angelo has a population of 25,304. Reports of several more counties will be mailed the Reporter-Telegram during the early part of next week, Mrs. Bell said.

Car Thieves Here May Be Apprehended

Sheriff A. C. Francis does not commit himself on whether he thinks three cars stolen in Midland between Friday, May 9 and Wednesday, May 14 was the work of an organized ring, but he is on a clew that he believes will result in apprehension of the thieves, he said when asked about the matter Saturday.

"People are just getting out of their cars and leaving the keys in them," he said. "They must exercise more precaution than that if their property is to be safeguarded."

"As to the thief or thieves who get away with the cars here, the sheriff's department believes it is on a track that will land someone behind bars."

Midland Boy Wins High School Honor

Bush Elkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elkin of Midland, won the honor of being salutatorian of his class in Baylor college, Chattanooga, Tenn. this year. This is the highest honor that can come to a first year student in Baylor, which is a private preparatory school with military training as part of the curriculum. Bush will make his salutatory address in Latin. He was among the highest ranking five students in the school to win admission to Harvard university without taking entrance examinations; however, for the sake of review, the Midland boy will take college board examinations this summer.

Pat Neff to Deliver Commencement Sermon to School Graduates Today

Special Music To Be Part Of Program At Auditorium

Former Governor Pat M. Neff, member of the state railroad commission, will preach the commencement sermon to high school graduates at the Midland high school auditorium this morning, the service beginning at 11 o'clock.

Several churches of the city are not holding morning services, cooperating in the union service at the high school.

The speaker will use as his text, "The constant quest of life." He is well known as a preacher as well as an orator. He is an outstanding lay worker in the Baptist organizations, having been president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas last year.

Special Music. Musical numbers and readings will be a part of the morning program, with special numbers by the high school chorus and community choirs, and by select ladies' voices. Pastors of city churches will cooperate in scriptural readings and prayers.

Necessity of prompt attendance at the auditorium, in order to be seated, is stressed by school authorities. It is an annual custom to have the house packed on this occasion, and it is believed that with a speaker of the prominence and ability of the Honorable Pat M. Neff, several hundred may be turned away. A special section will be reserved for the 43 members of the graduating class.

WESTERN AIR TO STOP FT. WORTH, SAYS BECHERER

A regular line stop of Western Air Express at Fort Worth, effective Monday, was announced Saturday by H. M. Becherer, field-manager of the Midland airport, following dispatches from George M. Lord, general passenger agent of the airline, Los Angeles.

Fare from Midland to Fort Worth will be identical with the fare to Dallas, as will fares from other towns along the route, Becherer said. The same rule applies from Fort Worth westward, the fare being the same as from Dallas. Rate from Fort Worth to Dallas is $5.

The west bound ship leaves Fort Worth at 5:25, east bound at 6:55.

PERMITS HERE $355,670

Total building permits for the year reached $355,670 this week when issuance mounted. These figures were given out by Charles Nolan, city building inspector.

LATE FLASHES

CHICAGO, May 17. (UP)—Four bandits staged a $25,000 jewelry store robbery at Danville, Ill., today, escaping after forcing the store manager, his wife and small son to accompany them there.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 17. (UP)—Drillers today fought to control the No. 1 Sigmom of the Prairie Oil and Gas company which spewed oil over the countryside. The flow is estimated at 11,000 barrels.

BROWNWOOD, May 17. (UP)—Murder charge was filed today against Joe Shield in connection with the slaying of his estranged wife, Opal Mae, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Shields, at Brooksmith yesterday.

HONEY GROVE, May 17. (AP)—The town was quiet today after a mob killed a negro who shot to death E. F. Fortenberry, 50, yesterday. Other negroes were not molested.

SHERMAN, May 17. (AP)—The military court of inquiry today assembled riot evidence for submission to the federal grand jury Monday. Citizens worked out plans for a protective group to serve after martial law is lifted.

Now What Do You Think of This 'un — Pretty Good Eh?

If Hyatt, Mims & Crane admit anyone else into their partnership, they will probably consider J. Pierpont Morgan, one of the richest men in the world, according to the three men. By odd coincidence, the number of the office here is the same as that of the noted New York capitalist's, 11 West Wall street. And the initials of Mims are P. J.—just the reverse of Morgan's.

WOMAN AND TWO GIRLS INJURED IN CAR WRECK

The second accident of its kind Friday resulted when, shortly after 5 o'clock in the afternoon, Mrs. J. A. Thrower, her daughter Mary Lou and Johnnie Helen Cowley turned over in an automobile three miles east of Midland on the Bankhead highway.

Mrs. Thrower, who was driving, received injuries summed up at the Thomas hospital as both legs and her hip broken. She was still in the hospital Saturday night.

Mary Lou and Johnnie Helen were only shocked.

The accident happened when Mrs. Thrower tried unavailingly to pass a truck for several hundred yards, according to reports. Finally she ran the right front wheel of her machine off the pavement onto the road shoulder and the car careened from one side of the road to the other, finally going into a ditch where it upset.

The driver of the truck, whose name could not be learned from the victims of the accident, aided the three to climb out of the machine.

That morning, at almost the same spot, H. F. Dameron of Santa Monica, Calif., narrowly escaped dire injury when he sustained a shoulder cut as his machine in dodging another ran into the rough road shoulder and plunged into a deep ditch, crushed the steel framework down to within close distance of his head.

Miss Mary Briggs, nee Wadley, seriously hurt in an accident Wednesday morning as she was driving east into Midland, did not seem so well as had been expected of her, hospital attaches said late Saturday. She had been pronounced earlier in the week as seriously, if not fatally, injured.

A third accident happened near (See THREE ACCIDENTS page 8)

Gallant Fox and Sande Win

Doing what only one horse before him ever did, Gallant Fox, the great Earl Sande up, was booted in winner of the Kentucky Derby, only a week after stepping out in the van of the Preakness. Sir Barton turned the trick before. On a muddy track, Gallant Fox, with the dean of jockeys guiding him to victory, recalled his form of two recent stage races, the Wood Memorial and the Preakness. He is of the Belair stables and rated a heavy favorite. An eastern entry, he is by Sir Galahad III-Marguerite. Gallant Knight was second in the race, Ned O third.

TOM LOVE GRANTED MANDAMUS TO FORCE NAME ON BALLOTS AS DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE

AUSTIN, May 17.—(AP)—Senator Tom Love of Dallas today won the right to have his name placed on the democratic primary ballots as candidate for governor of Texas, the supreme court granting his application for mandamus to compel the state democratic committee to give him a place on the ballot.

At the same time, the court reversed a district court and court of civil appeals decision, and dismissed the case styled J. W. Nicholson vs. Edgar Scurry, from Wichita county, contesting the right of the county democratic executive committee to oust Nicholson and twelve others from membership on the committee because they bolted the democratic presidential nominees in 1928.

The court held that Love "possesses all qualifications specified in the constitution statutes for one to hold the office of governor."

Today's court decision ends a contest that began when approximately 200,000 Texas Democrats refused to accept the nomination of Alfred E. Smith as Democratic candidate for president.

Love was barred from the ballot in a number of counties as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor two years ago because he said he would not support Smith. Love then withdrew, saying there was not time to force a court decision before the election.

When the legislature met in January following the election of President Hoover, it passed a "sackcloth and ashes" bill which barred bolters. Gov. Dan Moody vetoed it. At a later special session of the (See TOM LOVE page 8)

GALLANT KNIGHT SECOND

Had Won Preakness On Pimlico Course Week Before

Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., (AP)—Gallant Fox, favorite, with Earl Sande up, today won the Kentucky Derby in the rain, which has made the track heavy for the third consecutive year.

Gallant Knight ran second and Ned O third. Fifteen horses ran.

Winner Was Favorite

LOUISVILLE, May 17.—The color and pagentry of America's greatest horse racing classic, which took definite hue and form Friday for the fifty-sixth running of the Kentucky Derby, centered Saturday about two decidedly contrasting figures of the turf—the English Earl of Derby and the freckle-faced Earl of Sande.

Though they travel in separate spheres, the paths of these two brought them into one and the same spotlight late Saturday afternoon, for Earl Sande, the popular choice to ride the great Eastern colt, Gallant Fox, to victory and enable his owner to receive the prized gold trophy from the hands of the distinguished British patron of the turf.

Won Preakness. Just a week ago Sande rode Gallant Fox to triumph in the rich Preakness at Pimlico. Winning again Saturday Sande equalled the best record of any jockey in the long history of the derby and Gallant Fox duplicated the achievement of Sir Barton, which in 1919 reversed the order, capturing the Preakness after a surprising victory in the derby. No other horse has ever won both of these 3-year-old classics.

The odds were all in favor of Gallant Fox, which raced in the colors of the Belair Stud, owned by William Woodward of Chicago. It has long been a tradition that anything can happen in a horse race, especially the derby, but the Eastern colt was backed down Friday to 7 to 5 by an influx of financial support and looked upon generally as the class of the field, with the possible exception of Tannery, strapping chestnut son of Ballot, and owned by Edward F. Richard of Paris, Ky.

Big Crowd Out

The advance guard had reached substantial proportions Friday, with the "wise ones" from the big cities mingling with turf-minded Kentuckians, booted veterans who know their horses through long experience. On every corner, in every hotel lobby, (See KENTUCKY DERBY page 8)

A STATESMAN AS GUEST

Midland is often the host city to the great and the near great, but today there is a statesman in the community whom it is a privilege for Midland to honor. Pat M. Neff, railroad commission of Texas, former governor of the state, nationally famous for his patriotism and his executive ability, leader in religious work, will speak at the high school auditorium this morning, preaching the commencement sermon to the graduating class.

THE NARROW HIGHWAY AGAIN

Twice Friday, the narrow highway was responsible for automobile accidents three miles east of Midland. The cars, in order to miss other vehicles, were forced to pull out into the soft gravel where the shoulder of the road is built up, and were caused to overturn in the ditch. Numerous contracts are being let for new highways by the state highway commission. Highway No. 1, or the Broadway of America, is rated as one of the state's leading routes. It is traversed by tourists from coast to coast and is one of the nation's outstanding transcontinental roads.

For it to be left unsafe for traffic is not economy, not is it humane. While millions of dollars are being spent for new roads, it would be better to leave a dirt road in some locality and spend some money to make this national road wider and safer.

TOURISTS AND FOREST FIRES

The opening of the automobile touring season brings Americans once more up against the growing menace of the forest fire; not because the tourist is ever menaced by forest fires, but because he so often starts them. "Ninety-nine per cent of the forest fires now raging are caused by human carelessness," declares Charles Lathrop Pack, famous president of the American Tree association.

"The touring season is at hand and millions are going into our forests this year. These forests are fast becoming the nation's playground, and the citizen who enjoys them must get the point of view that these forests are his forests and that he must exercise the same care with fire that he does in his own home.

"In 1929, 250,000 'foreign' cars carrying nearly a million people visited Montana. If a small percentage of this number is careless with fire, the result cannot be estimated. The terrific drain on our forest resources because of fire must be cut down to the point where lightning alone can be blamed."

If every motorist could take this warning to heart, our summer forest fire bill could be cut down very materially.

HITCHING MEN TO JOBS

The Senate has acted wisely in passing Senator Wagner's bill to set up a federal chain of employment offices. Very often it happens that jobs will be scarce in one part of the country and fairly plentiful in another. Here-fore there has been no nation-wide systems under which a jobless man could find out where prospects were the best. The Wagner bill seeks to provide the machinery by which men can be attached to jobs with the least possible trouble and the greatest possible speed.

The bill still has to pass the House, but there seems little reason to doubt that it will do so. The $4,000,000 a year which it would appropriate is a small price to pay for a device that would operate to levitate unemployment and restore prosperity.

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

Hoover's Appointment of Roberts to Supreme Court Is Hailed As Wise Move Politically—Nominee Widely Admired

WASHINGTON—May 17.—President Hoover displayed no further lack of political acumen when he came right back at the Senate with the nomination of Owen Josephus Roberts as an associate justice of the supreme court.

At any rate, there was much more political horse sense in the quick appointment of Roberts than there was in Mr. Hoover's original idea of issuing a statement right after Parker's defeat by the margin of one vote.

Nothing Else to Do There simply wasn't anything Hoover could say, after the Parker vote, that would have done any good. Nevertheless, one understands, the president was all set to give out a warm statement criticising the state of affairs which permitted small minorities to stir up enough agitation and noise to block an important presidential appointment. Such a statement merely would have stirred up organized labor men and negro leaders and started the Senate to shooting at Mr. Hoover all over again.

So the president's advisers called him off and there was no statement about the Parker nomination after all. Roberts' stock has been very high around here for several years because of the mastery way in which he prosecuted the naval oil reserve cases. The general impression has been that he is one of the most up-standing, honest-to-goodness citizens on the premises.

One of the men here who knows him best—a liberal—says that on the supreme court Roberts would be much the same type of judge as Justice Harlan Fiske Stone. As between conservatives and liberals on the court, Stone is considered standing alone in the middle between the consistently liberal Brandels and Holmes, and the consistently conservative five justices now headed by Chief Justice Hughes. Thus, there are likely to be quite a few decisions with Holmes, Brandels, Stone and Roberts dissenting—the old "five to four" lineup. Like Stone, Roberts may be regarded as intellectually honest and comparatively independent of prejudices.

Roberts has a reputation as a corporation lawyer, but men associated with him in the oil cases remember that he threw himself into the government's fight on Doheny and Sinclair with all the fervor than any lawyer ever put into a case. He unquestionably had the chance to play to the galleries and build himself up as a national figure, but ignored the opportunity which many men would have seized.

Pinchot Admires Him Liberals rather than conservatives will find consolation in the fact that Roberts was politically broad enough to support Gifford Pinchot when the latter first ran for governor of Pennsylvania and that after being elected Pinchot had such a high regard for his integrity and ability that he offered him the important post of attorney general in his administration, which Roberts declined.

The certain amount of dry opposition to Roberts has intensely interesting possibilities which probably won't materialize. The appointee appears to be more wet than dry in his personal sympathies, but the drys seem hardly likely to make a mass attack upon him for that reason. For one thing, the supreme court decisions have always been so overwhelmingly dry that the appointment of a dripping wet to the court could hardly make a difference.

The headline in Friday's paper, "Man escapes as small 'coupe' is crushed in fall," should have been "Contortionist escapes in car wreck," judging from part of the wording of the story, as follows: "The car fell on its top, crushing the top partially down over the seat of the driver."

The editor handed me a letter yesterday morning which was addressed direct to him. "What's this?" I asked. "Nonsense," he replied. "Why give it to me?" I asked. "Because you are hired to handle such bunk," he said emphatically. Anyway, it seems to be the outgrowth of my articles pertaining to politics and shows how other great minds operate.

By following the Town Quack's articles in the daily columns I notice that he has taken your time (as well as others) in discussing and discussing from a political standpoint, those of whom he considers has a fighting chance for office during this coming and much discussed election.

I have studied law quite a bit myself, and effective May 1st, 1930, I sat out to learn the some six million laws, by-laws, constitutions, promises etc. now in effect in this great U. S. A. After memorizing and retaining three laws per day I contemplate on throwing my hat in the ring in opposition to the Town Quack. At the expiration of the 312th year after learning three laws per day I figure I could be truly a law-abiding citizen, and at this writing I invite you to join me in this take-off on this non-stop flight and endurance record for "wisdom and law" of which we may lay claim to in 312 years, then, you and I, will be eligible to run for some kind of office ourselves, and too, with a clear conscience.

At this time I take great pleasure in submitting the ticket that we feel you should give your good will and moral support for the benefit of the good citizens of Midland.

All the boys on this ticket have been trusted, tried and proven (unsatisfactorily). We therefore, solicit your most hearty support. Now boys, there will be absolutely no mud slinging in this election, we know the two leading office seekers (the Town Quack and Judge Kimbrough). Now the Town Quack for example, we can vouch that he has never done anything wrong, or otherwise for that matter, we were for him and now we are with him (to get out of town). For the "Judge" I, or we, are more than positive he will make a good "Mayor." However, nevertheless, although, but.

For president, The Town Quack, Assistant, none needed. For Mayor, T. D. "Judge" Kim-

Nevada Is Wettest and Kansas Dryest State In Literary Digest Semi-Final Tabulations

Two more states give an outright majority for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment in the semi-final returns of The Literary Digest nationwide poll on prohibition, according to the returns tabulated in yesterday's issue of the magazine.

Louisiana and Nevada join Connecticut, New Jersey, and Rhode Island with more than a fifty per cent sentiment for repeal, plus a substantial vote for modification.

No states other than the five previously reported, Arkansas, Kansas, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Tennessee register a majority vote for strict enforcement. Texas shows 55,216 for enforcement, 35,381 for modification and 33,738 for repeal.

Nevada with a fifty-seven per cent vote to annul the prohibition laws, gains ascendancy as the wettest in the union in this straw referendum. Kansas, with nearly fifty-eight per cent of its ballots registered for enforcement, continues to lead in the dry column.

Of the total of 4,562,761 votes tabulated in this ninth report on the poll, 1,386,216 or 30.38 per cent are for enforcement; 1,340,441 or 29.34 per cent, vote for modification; and 1,836,104, or 40.24 per cent register for repeal.

Twenty-one states show a plurality for enforcement while two more evidence pluralities for modification and twenty-five states have pluralities for repeal.

The Literary Digest announces that they anticipate next week's returns will be the final tabulation.

In order to clarify the division of the modification vote a special table giving an analysis of defective votes sent in during the progress of the poll is presented. These votes are from those who mismarked their ballots by voting for two issues instead of one. Such ballots have not been counted in the main returns, it is stated.

Of the 85,674 ballots that were marked for two choices, 2,527 showed a vote both for enforcement and modification, while 83,147 were marked for both modification and repeal.

"Close to the winning-post," The Literary Digest states in its columns "with 4,562,761 ballots tallied, Louisiana and Nevada have gone over the top—the 50 per cent top for repeal.

"So now there are five wet majorities against five dry ones. And the wet banner has been snatched from the East to the far West.

"And the poll will end next week. "Moreover, Nevada's majority percentage surpasses all others on the dripping-wet side and runs neck and neck with the bone-dry ratio of Kansas.

"Observe: Kansas, 57.68 per cent for enforcement; Nevada, 57.05 per cent for repeal.

"But the untrifled dry phalanx of Arkansas, Kansas, North Carolina, Oklahoma, and Tennessee still stands firm against the revised wet alignment of Connecticut, Louisiana, Nevada, New Jersey and Rhode Island.

"In fact, the unwavering stability of the enforcement Big Five seems almost to forbid any fears of a falling off in the bone-dry vanguard.

"The ninth report of The Literary Digest prohibition poll accounts for a new total of 4,562,761 returned ballots, of which 1,386,216 are marked for enforcement and 1,836,104 for repeal.

"As far as pluralities are concerned, it shows twenty-one states for enforcement, two for modification and twenty-five for repeal.

"Enormous interest will now center in next week's report, for it bids fair to be the final tabulation of this great, record-breaking poll of twenty million ballots, which has more than justified itself by the unprecedented response it has evoked, alike in balloting and in world-wide discussion.

"Next week's Digest will be well worth preservation as the complete record of this tremendous register of public opinion.

"Will there be any last moment surprises? Will Mississippi or Texas go over the 50 per cent top for enforcement? Will New York or Illinois go over the 50 per cent top for repeal?

None of these sudden shifts would be more remarkable than Nevada's frantic leap into a Kansas-like majority.

"At this eleventh hour, we present a novelty which may be of interest to our statistical friends.

These were ballots marked in two squares instead of one. Some had crosses for both modification and repeal. Others for both enforcement and modification.

"The duplication of crosses made them ineligible for the poll count, under the announced rule for voting, but they were preserved on general principles.

"When the dry-wet dispute over the modification vote first blazed out, some of our readers suggested that the double marked ballots, if classified, might throw some light on column number two's wetness or dryness.

The Literary Digest also gives the figures for the local check-up poll undertaken by the Virginia (Minn.) Enterprise, which newspaper sent ballots imprinted with the same 3 questions used in The Literary Digest poll, to the entire registered voting list of its community.

The final vote in the Virginia Enterprise poll shows 26.34 per cent voting for enforcement, 20.69 per cent for modification and 52.97 per cent for repeal. The Literary Digest returns for the same city, previously announced, show a vote of 21.51 per cent for enforcement; 36.32 per cent for modification; and 41.57 for repeal.

TO THE LADIES OF MIDLAND

Men often think that they are the ones, too often the only ones, that can build their community, but I might as well let it be known now that I learned many years ago that if you want ANYTHING done in a hurry—get the ladies behind it.

When it comes to choice of the men or ladies to "back" a given project, I choose the ladies for when you have the ladies you automatically have the business men.

Without the ladies there would be no community life—without the ladies there would be no communities and in their hands is the power to DO anything, the power to get anything done—if they will use it.

The men have the chamber of commerce, their service clubs, and their this and that. They think they are the ones that run the town, but who do they depend upon when it comes right down to a job they are afraid to tackle; who does the vote seeker cater to at election time and WHO BUYS WHAT IS BOUGHT IN MIDLAND?

If the ladies want anything they can have it—if they want it badly enough. Men know that. There isn't a merchant or seller of anything that will not do their bidding, for they are the ones that buy what is purchased.

I believe I would be safe in saying that there isn't a lady in Midland that would not like to see and be willing to help make Midland a more tidy, cleaner, brighter, and therefore better community in which to live and raise their families.

I don't like the word "duty," but

IT IS the duty of every woman to see that Midland is in spic and span order and if others, who are supposed to run things, do not make it so, I say to the ladies—take the matter in your own hands and do it.

If the men don't clean up the city dumps and rubbish heaps, if streets are left dirty and disease provoking, if building owners won't clean up and paint up, if a merchant absolutely refuses to make his store and the area surrounding it inviting and attractive—if in any way, men do not do what they are SUPPOSED to do, to make things pleasant, healthy, beautiful, sanitary and attractive, YOU can MAKE them do it.

The men may not like this—I may be severely reprimanded for putting this thought into your mind, but if MEN don't know this already, if it is men they do not recognize it now, it is time they are finding out.

I would be glad to hear from any women's organizations, any group of ladies or individual lady interested in building Midland and my services are always available to help you in any way that I can to assist you in any effort to make Midland a bigger, better, and more interesting and attractive community for you and yours to live, work, play and make money.

THREE MEN WELL KNOWN TO MIDLAND Bear Kills 12 Cattle on the Run From Men KILL GRIZZLY AFTER A LONG HUNT

Gather around the figurative camp blaze and ye shall hear the story of the bad old bear that people in Midland have heard of for 10, these last 15 years, and who was finally killed by hunters well known here.

Now this bad, bad bear was killed by the Evans boys, who married into the Cowden family, and by L. Inman, brother of Inman, the jeweler, terminating a race through the almost inaccessible mountains of New Mexico that lasted for 72 years, during which time the bear, whose claws measured 5 inches, killed 12 cows, ate what he liked and left the rest.

In the Black range of the Rocky mountains, in south central New Mexico, about 175 miles northwest of El Paso and 50 miles northeast of Silver City, comes an unusual story, the killing of a bear that weighed far more than half a ton.

Evans Writes Account The story is written by G. W. Evans, of Albuquerque, N. M., who was accompanied on an 8-day bear hunt by his brother, Lee, Bud McGahey of Borger, Texas, and L. Inman of the Healy ranch in the Black mountains country, Joe Evans, brother of the two brothers on the hunt, recently broadcast the story over WDAH, El Paso radio station.

The El Paso Herald says that for more than 40 years the Evans brothers have been hunting bear in the Davis, Black and Mongolian mountain regions, and this grizzly was the second they had ever killed. The big bear killed in this story had been the object of many hunts, Gov. Dan Moody of this state, a real bear hunter, having considered hunting him on numerous occasions. He was even intending going to El Paso soon so as to join the Evans brothers in a hunt for the forager.

Evans's Story But let G. W. Evans tell his story.

Short Brownie Knows Stuff "We moved from the ranch to the head of Black Canyon, taking two days to make the trip. We left the dogs tied up the first day, only taking Short Brownie to look for signs. We found a grizzly track about six miles from camp on the east side of the range. The track headed north. I took the dogs next day and was to go down into the rough country where we saw this track. The other men took stands out on top at places where they thought the bear would come out if we got a start. The track we found the day before seemed to be old but the dogs finally took it. They trailed it into a rough canyon about one-half a mile north and hit a red-hot trail.

"I had about 20 dogs. Most of them were young and not having been hunted with lately they were fresh and anxious to run anything. Just as they went off under the first rim of this rough canyon, they hit the fresh trail of the bear where he had come from a cow that he had killed just east of where I was. All the dogs except Little Brownie and one other dog took back end of the trail that led down to the kill. I ran out to the edge of the bluff to listen and heard Brownie and the other dog barking—bayed right under me. They had already come up on the bear and were not 100 yards from me. The brush was so thick I could not see the bear at all. I waited there a few minutes and could hear the bear breaking the brush as he walked around with the two dogs barking at him.

Lot of Bluffs "There were a lot of bluffs there just over the bear and it sounded to me as though he was coming up the hill and was going to pass west of me. I moved a few hundred yards west and when I got to where I could listen, the bear had run east and right under where I had moved from. All the dogs that had gone on the back trail were out of hearing. I found out later that after they had reached the kill they had scattered and were running deer and coyotes.

"The last time I heard Little Brownie, he was still baying the bear and going southeast and just exactly away from where the men were stationed. They never did know what happened. It was too rough to ride so I followed Brownie on foot and could see this big bear track every once in a while.

"I finally lost the track and the wind came up, so I lost out entirely. "I hunted for Brownie all afternoon. I went back to my horse at twelve o'clock and made a big circle but didn't find anything. Dogs began to come to me, but not Brownie. I went back to camp late that evening having most of the dogs. Little Brownie came in about ten o'clock that night.

"While in the canyon where the cow was killed, I saw the track of another bear—a fair sized 'little bear.' Three of Lee's dogs didn't come in so Lee and Inman went to the Ladder ranch to look for them and the rest of us moved camp.

"We moved about five miles south and camped in the saddle between the head of the Mimbrés and Palomas creeks, right on top of the Continental divide. We had a pretty camp and a very good place for our horses. Revisit Kill Scene

"The next day, we all decided to go down near the kill. I was to take Little Brownie and go down to the cow and get the trail straightened out. Lee and Inman found Lee's dogs at the Ladder and got back to our camp late that evening. When I got down near the kill, Little Brownie struck a trail and I

It began to turn west and into a still rougher country. As soon as I got well over on to the rim of the next canyon, I could hear Brownie baying about a mile west of me. A few of the dogs went to him but most of them came back. I could not get to him without crossing a country where I was satisfied a bear could hear me, so I decided I would go off into the canyon and up it to a point where I could climb out behind and come up on the bear from the opposite side. It took me about an hour to do this, and when I came up over the point where I thought the bear was, he had moved, but I was within about a hundred yards of him.

Brush Awfully Thick "Several of the dogs went over to where he was but didn't stay long. The brush was so thick I simply could not see the bear, though I was close enough and could tell where he was by the dogs. He kept moving and would only stay in one place a few minutes. This was about 12 o'clock and getting awfully hot. I kept climbing around after the dogs, and bear, and I was so close to them, the dogs with me would go to the bear every once in a while, but wouldn't stay long. The wind began to blow and there were several minutes that I could not hear any dogs at all. I kept hunting around the edge of a point to rest, and had been there only a few minutes when I heard the dogs just below me, so I moved over a little farther and could hear them plain, only about two or three hundred yards right under me. I got down there a few minutes later as it was all down hill. There were three dogs with the bear at this time—Black Alice, Dobbie and Little Brownie. As I came near them, some of the dogs went to them and began barking at the bear.

"I slipped down towards them and kept getting closer. I could only see for a few feet on account of the thick brush, but finally located the bear by the dogs. He was lying down with his right side to me. I could see his head moving up and down as he was panting. I was about 15 or 20 feet from him. I shot at about where I thought his shoulder was, or a little bit behind. He made an awful noise and began to beat the brush and bellowed like a bull. I got a little closer and could see he was staggering badly. I shot him again in the neck and he died in a few seconds. He was on a steep hillside but the brush was so thick he only rolled about 30 feet, breaking the brush as he rolled over it. I looked at my watch as soon as I walked up to him and it was about two minutes past one. Not a dog bit even after he was dead. I never saw such a bear as he was. I caught hold of a foot and could not turn him over. I knew that if I didn't get help the hide would be wasted, so I left the bear and went to a high point and shot three times. I was sure tickled when I got an answer. Lee was about two miles east of me and worked his way up toward me until we got to where we could talk to each other.

Bear's Hide Taken "We decided we would get his horse as close to the bear as we could and skin the bear, then bring the skin out to Lee's horse. We got back to the bear at three o'clock and had him skinned by 5. We got the skin back to the horse and then worked out way off into the canyon by dark, where there was water, and we stayed there until morning. The next morning we loaded up the skin and began to climb out toward the top of the mountain where we had left the boys and the horses the day before. "We got out on top about ten o'clock and met the boys with some food and fresh horses. We got the skin to camp about 3 o'clock. When we went back the next day to get some pictures of the bear's carcass, we found that there was another grizzly on the same mountainside where the boys first came upon the bear, and found where the other bear had gone out. We decided that as our horses were getting tired out and our grain supply running low, we would pack up and move toward home instead of sending after more grain to continue the hunt.

"The little bear were getting so thick that we could not go in any direction without striking a trail. When we moved out of camp, we led Little Brownie to keep him off of bear trails. He struck one trail even with a collar and chain on.

The wild turkey were plentiful and we could hear them gobbling from early morning until late in the evening."

I SEEN TODAY

Mary Lou Thrower going into a drug store for a limeade. She does not look like she was in a wreck Friday, does she? If Jonnie Helen Cowley and Mrs. Thrower got out of their inverted car as well, they must be finding the day real pleasant.

I got my camera working today, for the first time since it broke when I took my own handsome picture, shown way up at the top of this column. Below you find John Bonner who happened to break the world's record in the standing broad jump. The picture shows him sans trousers and shirt, as he hit the ground running after Lizzie Farmer, Misses, elected to lean against him when she tested out her marksmanship by taking a pot shot at the head of her dusky consort out there on the street Saturday.

John admitted to me (or to a reporter, which is about the same since all the reporters filed notes with me for this column) that he understood from the woman's actions that she was starting a race war, and he didn't want to hold the thing up. He jumped the gun and turned the war into a race riot. He should run for some political office.

rice, for the way he burned the ozone getting away from what he called that "accrout spot" he could run the tongue out of a woman suffragist.

John is really a peaceable fellow but from the pace he set when he felt the negro woman's elbow in his ribs, and saw her shoot her gun off into the forehead of the negro man not four feet from Bonner, he went as berserk as an insurance agent.

Now let me give you another shot from my camera. This one shows the horse that Johnie Steadman of the Ritz was using to take the aerial shots from with his camera at the Andrews celebration and barbecue last week. Johnie is not in the picture—he has just left. If you will kindly mark an "X" in the center of the saddle you will have the spot where Johnie was until a second ago. If his automatic camera was still grinding he was, just at the second I snapped this, sure 'nuff getting his aerial shots. He got about 10-foot clearance.

At any rate, you will see at the Ritz soon enough a bird's-eye view of what Johnie saw, for it will be projected there. Lots of people, much barbecue, everything.

Referring again to Mr. Bonner: A symposium collected among the fellows who saw Bonner steering his wild course down the street could not determine exactly how fast the theatrical gentleman was traveling, but Lee Haynes, who business it is to stop all traffic at certain zones, blew his whistle at Bonner as he sped across the intersection of West Texas and North Main, and only got street dust whipped up in his face.

Bonner's heels drummed a staccato beat to the music of the officer's whistle, and gave a brassy note to the finale as he brought up with a bang against a display board at the Grand theatre, where he could not bank fast enough to keep his feet from skidding.

Mr. Dixon, the printer, saw the thing from his shop across the way. Thinking as he does in terms of relativity, he could only say that the theatre manager was moving either out of town or like a meteor. He said if John had gone at that furious pace down the street with the Yucca banner on his back he could have got more publicity for his house than he could have paid for in a year.

And the negro woman, we must not leave her out. She has the dead eye sureness, as demonstrated in her aim, and thereby qualifies 1,000 out of a possible 1,000 for stating how much distance Bonner was getting per second. She could have remarked to the sheriff that when she felt the backwash of the flying man's progress as he left her and zoomed around the figurative pylon at the corner, she thought she had shot the wrong man!

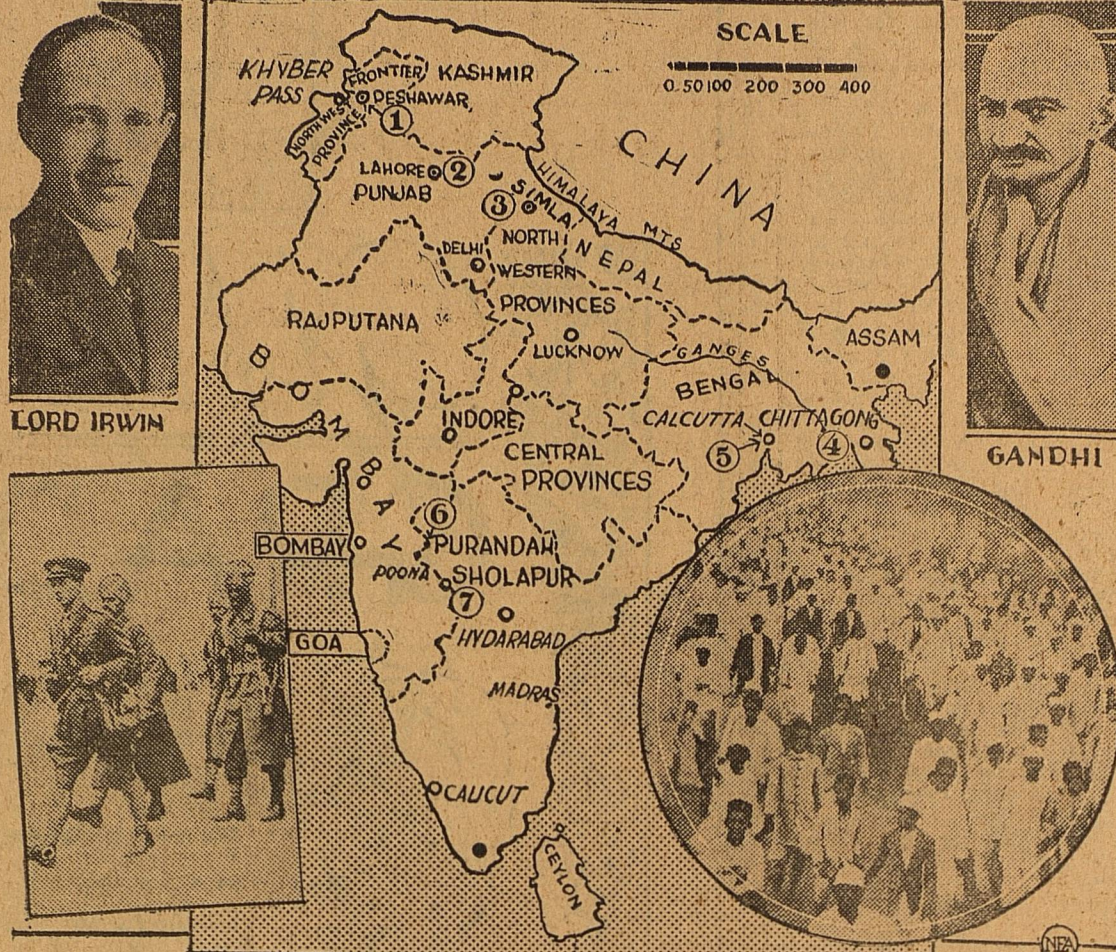

And one of the clerks at Grissom-Robertson's is at a loss to know why, when C. Y. Barron laid in a supply of bullet-proof vests, he did not get one big enough to fit a certain big fellow who breezed in surrounded by a wave of excitement and asked for one, asking at the same time for a pair of combination sprinting and jumping shoes.

The editor just walked by my desk and told me to stop writing all this hooie. He said possibly it was partially wrong, anyway. Imagine that! But he is the only one that tells me what to do and I might as well confess to you, in all seriousness, that I took this chance to get even with Bonner for a joke he pulled.

Seething India—At A Glance

Trouble spots in India, where British armed forces face Mahatma's Gandhi's native mobs in their revolt against British rule, are shown on the above map. At the left is Lord Irwin, British viceroy and typical native troops under the command of British officers. At the right is Gandhi and a few of his hordes of followers. No. 1—Peshawar, where British air bombers have been busy in the hills nearby; also scene of reported mutiny by two platoons of native troops under British officers. No. 2—Lahore, where 18 prisoners staged desperate riot in court room. No. 3—Simla, where "civil disobedience" volunteers were scattered with fire hose; five arrested. No. 4—Chittagong, scene of bloody riots in which five natives were killed. No. 5—Calcutta, British stronghold and scene of historic "Black Hole of Calcutta" episode in mutiny of 1756, when 146 English prisoners were cooped overnight in small, stifling room, only 23 emerging alive. No. 6—Purandah, where Gandhi is imprisoned in a British fortress under heavy guard. No. 7—Sholapur, scene of serious riots in which natives killed British police and burned bodies in public square; city re-taken by British, 15 natives being killed and several hundred reported wounded.

Below we have a likeness of our friend, Harry Tolbert, the golfer who continually talks about milking the famous cow. For be it known, Harry has a model farm. But the picture

I caught of Harry showed what he does at milking time. The picture is self-explanatory, only it doesn't show Mrs. Tolbert coming up the path with a milk pail in her capable hand.

Another golfer, C. L. Jackson, lost in the rough out on Main street. Right now he is sitting on the obtruding part of a column at the First National Bank. Bert Ross is wig-wagging at him through a window. Bert is holding up a nickel and Jackson takes a black handkerchief out of his pocket and begins cutting two holes in it with his pocket knife.

There is Bob and Grady and Virgie at the fountain at the Taylor Drug company. There's a song overflowing through the door. "Song of the Island." It's hard to say whether they are listening to that, or to the story Bob is telling.

If Rudy Vallee has any sympathy for the Englishmen, whose tax on beer has just been raised, he'll sing that stein song a little more tenderly.

MAN WHO MADE 'EM WEEP MAKES 'EM LAUGH IN MINSTREL ROMANCE

For three years Al Jolson kept in the back of his mind the idea that he would one day make a "Mammy" picture based on minstrel show life, along lines once outlined to him by his friend Irving Berlin.

During the time Jolson was making Warner Bros. history and entertainment history at the same time—"The Jazz Singer," "The Singing Fool," "Say It With Songs"—he was building up to what he believed would be his greatest picture. Proof that his judgment was correct may be seen today at the Ritz Theatre, when "Mammy," an all-talking, singing minstrel romance with Technicolor, gives its first performance.

"Mammy" is a dramatic story of life with a travelling minstrel show and especially of Al Fuller, and end-man. It is a comedy of errors in which the laughs have it. There are many gorgeous songs, also written by Irving Berlin.

Jolson personally selected the cast which includes Lois Moran, Louise Dresser, Lowell Sherman, Ray Cooke, Hobart Bosworth, Tully Marshall, Stanley Fields, Mitchell Lewis and numerous others. Michael Curtiz directed.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer

One of the most attractive fish dishes for late spring is planked salmon with spinach timbales. The color contrast is effective and appetizing while the food value of the combination is unusually great. If a plank is not used, the fish slices can be broiled and served on a hot platter surrounded with the timbales. Crisp parsley and lemon wedges add another color note when the dish is served.

Any fish can be used instead of salmon—small boned fresh water fish or deep sea fish cut steaks or fillets.

Planked Salmon: Two slices salmon, 3 hard cooked eggs, 1 cup white sauce, 1 lemon. Brush both sides of each slice of salmon with olive oil and brown on both sides in a hot frying pan. Remove to plank, placing one slice on the plank first. Sprinkle with lemon juice and cover with a layer of eggs cut in slices and moistened with white sauce. Cover with second slice of salmon and sprinkle with lemon juice. Bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes. Surround with timbales, garnish with wedges of lemon and sprigs of parsley, and serve.

Spinach Himbales: Two pounds spinach, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon sugar, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 eggs (yolks). Wash spinach through many waters and remove coarse stalks. Cook in water which clings to leaves. Add salt when about half cooked and cook uncovered. Let water cook away as much as possible without burning. Drain and chop very fine. Season with lemon juice, sugar and pepper and add yolks of eggs well beaten. Cook and stir constantly until thoroughly mixed and heated. Turn into buttered individual molds. Place molds on several folds of paper in a pan of hot water and bake in oven for 15 minutes, taking care that the water does not boil. Unmold and serve.

Midland Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority Organized; Charter Is Signed

With an impressive installation and emblem service, members of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, a business and professional women's club, organized the Zeta Rho chapter Friday night when they met with several guests for a banquet at the Crystal ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer.

The members held a short business meeting and elected their officers: afterward retiring to the ballroom where the table was laid for sixteen. Blue and gold, the sorority colors, predominated in decorations and appointments. The combination place cards and programs carried the colors, and the table was decorated with baskets of gold flowers and tall gold tapers in blue holders. Bouquets of blue and gold mints tied with ribbon in the same colors were favors.

The sponsor, Mrs. J. M. White, gave the call to order and a welcome, after which Miss Mary Garrett favored with a tap dance, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ben Cowden of O'Donnell.

Latin Classes Entertained At Party

Latin classes of the Midland high school were entertained Saturday night with a picture show party. Meeting in front of the Ritz theatre, the students entered in a body. After the program there, the group went to the M. C. Ulmer home on North C street, and after singing, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," carried out the following program: "The Gay Latinary—Jack Garlington.

How Much Latin Do You Know?—Questions by Mary Belle Pratt and answers by the classes. "America," in Latin. "What Latin Has Meant To Me—Dorothy Bess Stanley. Reading—"A Possum Hunt in Latin—Barney Graff. Did You Know That?—Helen Margaret Ulmer. "Yankee Doodle" in Latin. How To Make A in Latin—Vann Mitchell.

Presents Pupils In Closing Recital Of Season

Presenting students in "Overtones," a clever one-act play, and several dance numbers on the stage of the Yucca Theatre Saturday night, Mrs. Paul T. Vickers gave her closing recital of the season. Thursday night the girls and boys in her classes gave the first of the two closing performances.

The characters of the play did their parts credit, each person playing the part of two characters—one their real self, and one the self they presented to the world. The story centered around two women in love with the same man. One married him and the other married for wealth and so. Later life brought them together again, and the play carried out the idea of the sham front people present with both of the women telling how happy they were, when in reality they were both miserable. The person's real self was portrayed by a veiled character following the sham self around.

Personal

John T. Gay, superintendent of production for the Texas State Oil company, was in Midland the latter part of the week visiting his family.

Miss Helen Winborne has returned to her home in Midland for the summer. Miss Winborne teaches school at Kermit.

Lucille McMahon, Mary Alta Ambury and Frankie Fernandes of Odessa shopped in Midland Saturday.

1930 Bridge Club Entertained In Wolcott Home

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wolcott entertained the 1930 Bridge club Friday evening at their home on West Storey avenue.

High couple prize went to Miss Lula and Henry Wolcott. Mrs. O. B. Holt, Jr. received high cut favor, and low score prize was taken by Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Cowden.

Pretty salad plates were passed to Messrs. and Mmes. George Glas, Clyde Cowden, R. B. Cowden, Ed Cole, O. B. Holt Jr., and Miss Lula Elk.

Sunday School Class Has Picnic

The Martha Fidels class of the First Baptist church was entertained with a picnic at Cloverdale Friday afternoon.

A delicious picnic lunch was spread, and several games were played. Later in the evening ice cream was served.

Those attending were Messrs. and Mmes. W. E. Collier, R. O. Walker and children, F. D. Osborn, Jim Schroder, Clarence Ligon, C. C. Hiett; Mrs. J. C. Hudman and daughter, Lou Nell; Mr. Bob Scruggs and children, Kathleen and Mary Beth, and Mrs. B. T. Westerman.

Entertains At Swimming Pool

Celebrating his thirteenth birthday, Robert Howe, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Howe, 1311 West Holloway avenue, entertained a number of friends at Pagoda swimming pool Saturday afternoon. The girls and boys enjoyed several games and a swim.

Guests of the youth were Eddie Blanche Cowden, Sue Morley, Leona Goodman, Virginia Boone, Mary Elizabeth Howe, Jessie Lou Armstrong, Jack Prothro, Jimmy Foster, Billy Funderburg, Robert Reeves, James Franklin Cowden and T. W. Long.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Preston are in Midland from their ranch near Stiles.

South Ward School Program Is Colorful; First of a Series of School Activities

Before a well-filled auditorium, students of the South ward presented an elaborate program at the high school Friday night, beginning a series of commencement exercises, the second of which takes place this morning when Pat Neff addresses the high school graduating class.

The program was divided into three parts, Part I being given by the primary department, Part II by individuals and Part III was an operetta, "The Blue Butterfly."

Insulation Of Ice Box Important

Selection of a practical ice box will solve the problem of providing adequate refrigeration.

How an ice box is insulated is important. In the most primitive type of ice box, insulation is provided by an air space between the outer and inner shells of the box.

An improvement over this "dead air" type is one in which the space is filled with granular cork. Even better are fillings of Balsa wood and sheet cork.

Doors should swing closed from the lightest push and should be equipped with self-closing catches. A good test is to close the door on a sheet of paper. If you can take the paper out then the door does not close tightly enough.

The lining of the ice box controls the ease with which the food chambers can be kept clean. The cheaper grades are lined with corrugated galvanized iron; better grades have baked enamel linings, and the best are lined with porcelain-enamelled sheet steel.

Mrs. Ada Lynch of Fort Worth, former Midland citizen, is visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Ragsdale were here yesterday from the ranch near Monohans. They report good range conditions there from recent showers.

J. F. Lawrence of Dallas was a Midland visitor the latter part of the week.

Dr. K. F. Campbell is leaving today for the state dental convention at Fort Worth, which continues through this week.

Paul Brown of Eastland is in Midland on business. He is interested in the Midland Steam Laundry.

J. C. Taylor of Columbia, Tenn., and J. R. Taylor Jr. of Birmingham, Ala., are business visitors to Midland.

KONJOLA PROVED REAL BOON TO AMARILLO MAN

Stomach Trouble And Nervousness Prove No Problem To Power Of New Medicine.

MR. NEIL KINARD

"For quite some time I was troubled with my stomach," Mr. Neil Kinard, 2101 Polk street, Amarillo, "I bloated after meals and my appetite was growing less. These gas pains caused me to become extremely nervous and I was losing weight and becoming badly run down. My liver was sluggish and my blood was in very bad condition. I tried several kinds of medicine over the period of my illness but I could get no relief from any of them. A friend of mine suggested Konjola.

"From the first few doses I knew this medicine was helping me. My appetite increased and I began to eat heartily without the after effects of gas. My constipation was relieved and my nerves were growing steadier. I slept much better and was becoming rid of that tired and worn out feeling in the morning. As I continued the treatment I began to gain in weight as my entire system became toned up. I can truly say that I think Konjola a wonderful medicine."

Konjola is designed to give quick, thorough and lasting relief. Like any worth-while medicine, Konjola should be taken over a period of from six to eight weeks. When so taken, the results will amaze you as they have thousands of men and women.

Konjola is sold in Midland at Mayes-Young drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

TEN FOURSOMES TO COMPETE IN LOW MEDAL PLAY AT COURSE

THIRTY-EIGHT GOLFERS ALREADY ARE PREPARED TO START; OTHERS EXPECTED: INTEREST IN SUNDAY EVENT IS GOOD

Eliminations to Continue Until Winds of Season Subside Somewhat, Then Invitation Events Come

With 38 golfers having turned in cards and assigned new handicaps and others invited to make their appearance for being assigned handicaps, the third low medal handicap at country club will get under way this afternoon at 1:30 sharp.

Play will be conducted by foursomes, with hope that everyone will be on time so as to go around the course in something like the order listed later in this story.

These tournaments are being played in order that eliminations may decide who will represent Midland in invitation tournaments to be held here and elsewhere, just as soon as the winds that swirl sand have seasonably quieted down somewhat.

They have been interesting golfers of the club more each week, only 20 responding to the call of the sports greens committee for the first play two weeks ago. Last Sunday there were 29 cards turned in for assignments of handicaps that would be used in balancing Sunday's low medal play. At this afternoon's tournament, nine new cards will be officially marked with a handicap, and any other golfer of the club who wants to play is invited to do so. The sports greens committee will simply give him an average handicap. Prize will be given the winner.

Other Events Coming

In matches held during the past weeks, O. C. Harper has taken two prizes, first prize the first afternoon, and a tie for third place in last Sunday's play, at which time Ellis Cowden won first with a 63 for the 18 holes, with handicap of 6 deducted from his 74 card, C. L. Jackson second and John Howe a tie for third.

Odessa has let it become known that golfers of that place would like an invitation tournament with Midland, to be played there within the next two or three weeks. A flag tournament, one of the most interesting matches known to golf, has been played with a visiting town there already this season. Midland will go to Odessa, or invite Odessa and other towns here within a few weeks, it is thought.

Fort Stockton is hot for an invitation tournament with Midland, and is known to have some boys who are bad with the clubs—bad for that town that competes with Stockton.

Pro Golfers and Greenkeepers Co-operate to Help Sink Putts

When the National Association of Greenkeepers and the Professional Golfers' Association of America hold their annual conventions simultaneously in Columbus, O., next winter, it will be the first time these two groups—upon whose shoulders so much of the improvement of the game in this country depends, have made the effort they should to co-operate with one another.

The average club member comes into contact with his pro all too seldom, and even less frequently meets with the overalled figure who is the greenkeeper whose job it is to see that fairways, greens, traps, bunkers and all are in the perfect condition that every player demands. Yet without both—and particularly the latter—duffer and champion alike would find the figures on their scoreboards mounting to unrecognizable figures, nor would there be much they could do about it.

Heretofore there has been a tendency to erect a barrier between the greenkeepers and pros. Jealousy has been behind it, each side feeling that the other is taking too much of the credit for things well done and was refusing to accept the responsibility when matters went awry.

Of late, however there has been a tendency to get together, and if the factions can patch up their differences at their Ohio meeting, you and I and the other fellow in plus fours will benefit greatly.

Already plans have gone ahead to make the convention one of the most constructive in the history of golf. Bobby Jones, whose interest in the mechanics and maintenance of the sport always has been keen and intelligent, has promised to come up from Atlanta. Albert R. Gates, newly-named business head of the P. G. A. will be there. Efforts are being made to bring Glenna Collett, the national women's champion; Walter Hagen, Horton Smith and other leaders. This group, more than any other, realizes the vital roles both the greenkeeper and the pro play in the scheme of golf. They will urge the two bodies to clasp hands and forget their differences, most of which are only fancied.

Run-of-mine golfers, who are to be invited to look in on any or all of the sessions, cannot but help go away with a new insight into the part efficient greenkeeping plays in their daily rounds. Seventy-five percent of the time the ordinary member spends at his club is put in on the course, the success or failure of every shot, except those dubbed, hinges more or less on what shape the fairways, greens or hazards are in, yet there are very few who give a thought as to why their fairway lies are good instead of bad or the reason for a long putt rolling true for the cup instead of failing to hold its line.

The greenkeeper is responsible for these things. If the average lawn was abused as is any putting green there would be no grass on it within a week's time. Nature intended that all vegetation should grow to fruition. When the growth of grass is stunted as it must be on a golf course, nature rebels and artificial means must be used to maintain growth. Hence, the greenkeeper is a doctor who must keep his patients healthy under the most unhealthy conditions.

From sun-up to dark, seven days a week, an army numbering millions tramps over the country's courses, putting a strain on the grasses that would wipe them out in a week without proper care. Yet in the face of this ceaseless attack, golfers howl to high heaven if they have one bad lie on 18 fairways or lose a single putt on as many greens.

There are two men who likely will not be mentioned once in the several million words that will be written about the two major national tournaments this season, yet their efforts for weeks before and during the events may be the means of deciding the new titleholders. They are Joe Valentine, greenkeeper at the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, where the amateur is to be held in September, and Erich Pahl, who holds a similar position at Interlachen, St. Paul, scene of the open in July.

It will be up to them to fight any outcropping of the dreaded brown patch and other kindred diseases, keep the greens as flawless as possible and watch the fairway closely as a mother guards her babe. Even now their work has started and it won't be ended until the last putts have been run down and the boys gather on the front lawn to watch Bobby Jones or someone else be handed the trophies.

WHATTA SNAP!

BERLIN, May 16.—World's easiest job? It's thought to be held by the registrar of vital statistics in the Suevoian village of Mittelstetten, near Augsburg. In that town of 400 inhabitants there was not a birth, a death or a marriage during the past year.

HANDICAPPING CUPID

KOBE, Japan, May 17.—After a young inspector of the local Customs House recently eloped with the wife of a millionaire, an edict was issued by officials ordering that all young men in the service have their heads completely shaved to prevent a recurrence of the elopement. Girls will not fall in love with baldheaded men, it is agreed.

FOR PUBLICATION

BUDAPEST, May 17.—A smartly dressed girl walked over the Margaret Bridge and astonished passers-by by throwing herself into the water. Just in the nick of time a well-dressed man in a motor boat appeared to save her. It was later found that the girl was a movie actress whose press agent had planned the stunt to bring her publicity.

"Brother in Texas" "Sister in California" and a telephone call that broke twenty years of silence

ONE NIGHT, in a little Texas town, a man dropped a letter into a box. The mail snatched it up with mechanical precision... sorted it... stamped it... routed it... hurled it into the lighted doorway of a steel coach. Westward it raced, the coach a part of a heavy train that pounded upward a long steep mountain grades, then slid down long, pleasant slopes to the Pacific.

waiting impatiently for word from her? In a corner of the room, the telephone met her eye. Was he waiting... impatiently? Thoughtfully, she moved toward the telephone. She lifted the receiver, gave a name, an address, a Texas town. "Thank you," said the operator, "hold the line, please."

And one morning, from across 2,000 miles of distance, out of 20 years of silence, a postman dropped it at a California doorstep. A young housewife opened the letter. She read it... and sat for many minutes gazing with unseeing eyes out of a window! From times dim in memory, pictures moved across the sun-filled street; a mother's death... days of confusion... a little boy who had gone far away to live with relatives.

Where have you a loved one... a relative... a friend who once was close? "Long distance" can bring them to you today, quickly and at low cost! On eight out of ten long distance calls, connections to the called point are established while the person calling waits at the telephone, telephone statistics show. Service is fastest when you give the number of the distant telephone.

Picking up a pen, she began to write. But even after she had mailed her reply, she was not satisfied. There were still the pictures... of the days of sadness... of the little boy! How did he look now? How had the years treated him? Was he

OIL MAN AND OIL WOMAN SHOW THAT Woman in Wreck, Just Gets Other Airplane AIRPLANE IS THEIR ALLY IN TRAVEL

The use of the airplane by oil men is increasing—and is not confined to men alone, unless the definition of "men" is considered in the generic sense, which includes women.

Take it from Harvey Sloan, manager of Sloan field, who saw the interesting incidents related below.

Now Harvey was out at the field for only a short time. He found it necessary to fill the tanks of the Western Air Express while Fritz, mechanic, checked the oil of the trimotored Pökker. Field-manager Becherer had taken off with a passenger on a cross-country hop to the oil fields of eastern New Mexico.

So Harvey was busy and couldn't tell the reporter much. But here it is—somewhat like he told it.

"Dude" Camben, "tool pusher" for Loffland Brothers, drilling contractors of Tulsa, company that is running about 30 string of tools, landed in Midland and told an interesting story about how necessary had been the cause behind his carrying about 900 pounds of rotary tools and equipment off one field and landing here for gas.

He was drilling a well for the Gypsy company, near Hobbs, N. M. He needed a bit and some other drilling equipment, so late Friday he hopped in his plane, one of three ships provided by drilling superintendents by his company, which operates in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico, and flew over to Santa Rita, in the Texon district.

Getting the desired equipment he was back in Hobbs before noon Saturday. He landed here that morning at 9 o'clock, took 30 minutes for refueling, and taxied into the wind and headed into the west.

The pilot says that the company did not buy the three planes out of causes found in experimentation, but because it realized the necessity for keeping ahead by fast transportation of men and material. He implied that the company is awake to the possibility of other companies doing the same thing, and may put on more ships as needed.

He was flying a Travelair J-6 monoplane, and was alone. His company has several contracts with Gypsy for drilling deep tests in Lea county.

The pilot was once a "barnstormer," and exhibited scars from cracking up an OX-5 Jennie ship all the boys of the old school a few years ago flew.

But what caps it all is that a woman flew in Friday afternoon in a plane she keeps chartered from the "Texas Flying Service." She met a local man at the port, talked with him for a short time, and then was taken off by her pilot, Homer Truax. The plane was a Ryan J-6 brougham.

this place late Saturday afternoon, giving rise to reports of the death of a woman.

At the hospital it was said that Mrs. Elsie Files had been given emergency treatment there for an accident which happened very like the two mentioned above. Her car had overturned as she tried to keep up with her husband, a motor car dealer of Plainview.

legislature, Senator Love offered a bill permitting direct appeal to the supreme court in election cases, which otherwise would not reach a final ruling before election day. It was passed with little opposition and became a law. The suit was filed under this act, former Gov. James E. Ferguson also took advantage of it to file a mandamus to compel acceptance of his name as a candidate.

Love's application for a mandamus is formally based on a resolution of the state democratic executive committee which declared on Feb. 1 that persons who supported the Republican ticket after participating in Democratic primaries would be welcomed as voters, but that none of them would be permitted to be candidates for state office.

Love contended that the committee exceeded its power in making such a rule. He declared it cannot bind a person to act against his conscience; cannot make one rule for voters and another for candidates, and that it can require no pledge except that at the top of the ballot "to support the nominees of this primary." He also declared that a law specifically says no one shall be barred for "past political affiliations."

The committee answered that the law giving the supreme court direct jurisdiction is invalid; that the matter is entirely political; that the bar is not because of previous political affiliation but for failure to keep a pledge.

Love, a former Democratic national committeeman from Texas and long a party leader, became an active worker for Herbert Hoover when Smith became the Democratic party nominee. He declared his conscience would not permit him to support Smith because of Tammany Hall affiliations and his views on prohibition.

Under the leadership of Love and others, Texas, which normally

SAT Pilot Makes A Fast Trip To City

"Slim" Payne, crack flyer for the SAT, first airline to establish service through Midland, landed at Sloan field enroute to Dallas from El Paso, full 30 minutes ahead of schedule. He was riding a fast tail, wind, he explained to attaches of the Midland airport. Down the line to the westward, pipeline companies reported that Slim must have been making 140 miles an hour, fast for the single motored Pökker Universal on the route.

woman gave herself up. "I just shot a negro," she said. "To death," he asked. "I sho did," was her terse reply.

The couple was not married, but had had much trouble lately, Sheriff Francis said. The shooting culminated several threats of the man against her life, just because he wouldn't marry him, Lizzie said at the examining trial. She said she bought the gun that morning and, becoming tired of his persistent nagging and fearful of her life, she shot when an argument started as they walked along the street.

MAN, RECENTLY TRIED HERE, IS GIVEN 99 YEARS

Joe Dunwoody, who was tried here during the last term of district court, which was over a week ago from Saturday, charged with murder, was given a 99-year sentence in Wellington last week for the slaying of H. H. Richey, Hedley night watchman, who was killed Dec. 31, 1928, when a Hedley store was robbed.

The case was tried in Clarendon a year ago, when sentence of 99 years was rendered, after which the case was reversed and transferred to Wellington on a change of venue.

Dunwoody faced two charges here, the first of which was robbery, the other robbery with firearms.

CHAMBER MEETS MONDAY

Directors and all members of the chamber of commerce who can attend are called for a regular meeting Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The meeting is being held Monday afternoon instead of that night out of deference to the closing exercises of Midland public schools.

Three matters of importance and several smaller matters are to come up at the meeting Monday, and the president asks a full attendance of all directors, as decisions requiring a full quorum are necessary. The meeting should be completed in not to exceed one hour if all members will be on time, it is said.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR LITTLE BILLY MCGREW

Refreshments were served.

At The Airport--

Lt. Langmead in a D-H landed at Sloan field Saturday morning on his way from the West coast to San Antonio.

Sergeant Colby in a Douglas 012 came in late Saturday afternoon from Fort Sill, spent the night here and planned to take off this morning on his return trip.

Three passengers from Midland boarded the S. A. T. plane to the east this morning.

Negro Fugitive Is Shot By Posseman

OAKDALE, May 17.—UP—A posse of 500 men who have tracked a negro named Mobile through the woods near here since early yesterday cornered him today in a thicket.

After a volley of shots into the brush, members of the posse approached and found him still alive, although seven bullets found their mark. Mobile is sought for stabbing Marion Goodman, Southern railway special agent, eight times after Goodman arrested him. Goodman is expected to recover.

Congress May End Session At Once

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(P)—The tariff struggle crisis is expected next week, and congressional leaders looked forward to early adjournment of this session.

The London treaty, tariff, rivers and harbors bills remain. There is talk in administration circles of winding things up immediately except for the treaty. The situation hinges on the tariff.

FOOLED

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 17.—Dry sleuths' noses failed them recently when they set out in pursuit of an automobile in which they thought liquor was concealed. When they got within hailing distance of the car, a door was opened and something fell on the ground. It proved to be a sheep which three boys had stolen.

STANTON HIGH SCHOOL CLOSES; 18 GRADUATED

With the senior play Thursday night, final school work Friday, baccalaureate sermon Sunday and the commencement Monday evening, eighteen students will bid farewell to Stanton high school.

The sermon will be delivered by E. W. McMillan of A. C. C. in Abilene at the high school auditorium Sunday morning at eleven o'clock, and the commencement address will be delivered by C. L. Some superintendent of the Stanton schools. It was left to the class as to whom should deliver the address and they voted to have their superintendent, which is testimony of the high regard the class holds for him.

Carmen Chapman was valedictorian and Bess Myrick salutatorian of the class. Class officers are Hilton Kaderli, president, and Cordelia Wilkinson, secretary-treasurer. Other members are Mary Helen Price, Phenix Metcalf, Lou Dell White, Wallis Hawkins, Gladys Poe, Floyd Smith, Eugene Parks, Wayne Moffet, Pink Robertson, Beryl Tidwell, Grant Sanders and Jefferson Davis. Miss Lorraine Lamar is sponsor.

This has been a popular class in all school activities during the term closed. Seven of the senior boys were the backbone of the Buffalo football team last fall, which trampled all opposition. The football men graduating are Wallis Hawkins, captain, P. Metcalf, F. Smith, E. Parks, W. Moffet, P. Robertson, and J. Davis, all lettermen. H. Kaderli was awarded a letter as business manager. Mary Helen Price and Cordelia Wilkinson were pep leaders.

Metcalf and Robertson are lettermen in basketball and Hawkins, Moffet, Kaderli and Metcalf are track men who went to Lubbock to the district meet.

BALL GAME TODAY

A negro team from Midland will play the Abilene negro team at Cowden park this afternoon, as one of the two games in the championship of West Texas... other game will be played at Monday. Admission will be charged. The Midland team has lost only one game during the season.

LAMESA GOODWILL TRIP

LAMESA, May 17.—Early indications are that Lamesa's trade trip motorcade of business men to Andrews today will be a success. Besides a rodeo, a baseball game has been scheduled for as another feature of the program. It is believed that some thirty cars from Lamesa will roll into Andrews, bearing gifts will from this city. The motorcade will be led by Lamesa officials and is being sponsored by the Lamesa Reporter, edited by Elbert W. Smith.
