KELLY FIELD CADETS LAND TODAY WITH 17 PURSUIT SHIPS

TAKE OFF EARLY FOR FT. BLISS

First Of 3 Flights Coming Here Next Two Weeks

Seventeen army pursuit planes, the first of three flights to stop at Sloan Field within the next two weeks, landed this morning for refueling and for lunch, bearing instructors and student flyers from Kelly field, San Antonio.

Making a circle from San Antonio to Oklahoma City, Fort Sill, Midland, El Paso and return, the planes took off this morning from Fort Sill and were en route to Fort Bliss at El Paso where they will remain until Friday morning.

Sixteen Curtiss P-1 pursuit ships and one O-2 two-seater were in the group.

Carry 13 Students Captain Gravelly, director of instruction at Kelly Field, was in charge of the flight. Major Harrison of the medical corps accompanied him, also three instructors. Lieutenants Gaffney, Irving, and Taylor.

Four student officers, Lieutenants E. H. White, J. E. Briggs, J. F. Egan and O. Wienecke, and nine cadets, R. W. Humphreys, F. X. Kelly, W. M. Katz, G. C. Krause, R. M. McGinn, F. I. Jacobs, E. F. Keisig, C. L. Maxwell and A. S. Merrifield composed the roster of students.

The 13 students are part of 39 who will be brought over the same course probably a week apart, officers in the party said.

Made Fast Time The first plane took off from Fort Sill at 6:15 this morning, the others following at 10 minute intervals. The lead ship arrived here at 9 o'clock, and at 11:45 all had landed. Prior to the landing of the last plane, two had taken off from Fort Bliss, the first leaving the field at 11:30.

Thursday will be spent at Fort Bliss in going over the motors, Lieutenant Taylor said, the last leg of the flight back to Kelly Field being scheduled for Friday morning.

Flying weather this morning was described by the officers as "rough and windy." The distance from Fort Sill is 285 miles, but the pursuit planes have a cruising speed of 125 miles an hour and made it to Midland in about two hours and 45 minutes each.

The landing of 17 army planes here today brought the total number of army ships here for the past week to 25. On May 29, five Keystone bombers and three observation planes tied up here during rainy weather.

Yeggs Shoot Out; Escape With $500

SAN ANTONIO, June 4. (AP)—Five masked gunmen held up Max Conly, drug store night manager, early today and escaped with $500. Conly, using three pistols he kept behind the counter, exchanged shots with the bandits. One is believed to have been wounded. Fifty shots were fired.

Cannon Refuses To Answer Lobby Probe

WASHINGTON, June 4. (UP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr., prohibition leader of the Methodist Episcopal church South, persisted today in his refusal to divulge anti-Smith activities in the 1928 presidential campaign. A quorum not being present, the senate lobby committee was adjourned until the return of Chairman Caraway.

Queen's Guest Wins Divorce

'SMOKE EATERS' TO BE ENTERTAINED IN SAN ANGELO

Delegates representing the Midland volunteer fire department will make reports on fire conditions here, at San Angelo, June 10-12, date of the Texas State Firemen's association.

Jerry Phillips, fire marshal, said the men would be decided this afternoon in a meeting to be held at the city hall.

Feature Provided

SAN ANGELO, June 4.—San Angelo is ready to entertain the annual convention of the Texas State Firemen's association June 10, 11 and 12, and will be able to take care of record attendance, according to Chief John Parker, head of the local department and president of the state association.

Plans that will occupy the full time of the delegates have been mapped for the convention, Chief Parker has pointed out. In addition to the full business program that has been outlined by officials of the state association, local committees have arranged to punctuate the three days program with elaborate entertainment features, Chief Parker said.

Mayor A. A. Glover of San Angelo will officially open the convention with an address of welcome Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. J. D. Motley, secretary of the Balinger chamber of commerce and president of the department there, will welcome the delegates to West Texas, while Miss Edna Parker (See SMOKE EATERS page 8)

Maniacs Captured; Only 4 Still Out

IONIA, Mich., June 4. (AP)—Capture today of three men and arrest of another reduced to four the number of inmates at large after a break from the state hospital for criminal insane yesterday.

Because part of the maniacs are still at large, the county and surrounding district is an armed camp today. No one ventured out without shot guns, and women and children stayed behind locked doors. The lunatics are armed with knives, razors, clubs and other crude weapons. Thirteen inmates escaped Tuesday.

GRAF'S SPEED IS ACCELERATED BY THE WIND TODAY

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, June 4. (AP)—The Graf Zeppelin, riding the winds, sailed today toward Seville, Spain, and thence home.

The winds so accelerated the speed of the dirigible that there was a possibility that Dr. Hugo Eckner's estimate of 50 hours from New York to Seville will be bettered.

The Zeppelin passed Azores during the morning and is expected to reach Spain tonight.

Phillips Stakes Off Site for Refinery

Phillips Petroleum corporation has begun staking off site for the refinery to be constructed a mile south of Penwell, Ector county.

Drilling of a water well has been underway for several days. Water was encountered between 600-700 feet. The corporation will require from 8,000 to 10,000 gallons of water a day for its work.

The well is now capable of producing 100 gallons a minute on the pump. The refinery will be completed in about four months from date of beginning of construction, it is estimated.

Surveyor Government Airlane Visits Here

Captain William Kenyon, in charge of this division of survey work for the government transcontinental airline between the oceans, was in Midland for a brief stay Tuesday afternoon.

He left Midland to the east, via Western Air Express.

Captain Kenyon, well known here through various conferences with the chamber of commerce and airport officials relative to the projected line, said the work of getting emergency fields located has practically been completed, and several of the fields have been constructed. He said beacons have been installed at several places and that time is rapidly approaching when the radio beacons will be put in.

The route is what is described in army circles as the "most flyable all-year airline."

SCOUT EXECUTIVE HERE; HAS CHARGE OF THIS DIVISION

M. J. Williamson, lately appointed field executive of the Buffalo Trail council of the Boy Scouts of America, has arrived in Midland for pursuance of work connected directly with that conducted by his brother, A. C. Williamson, scout executive, Sweetwater.

Williamson will be located permanently in Midland, his office to be established in the city hall. This moving to Midland of a scout official was necessitated through various causes, among them the great size of the district, which extends from Kent in Stonewall county to Reeves county, through the new favor in which the scout movement is being accepted, thus requiring more contact of executives with the people, and through the congestion of work brought about through additional boy members.

A scout rally is to be held here Thursday night, beginning at 8 o'clock. Concentration of matter, in hand relative to the scout camp to be held June 16-30, 16 miles northwest of San Angelo, on the Concho, will come up in the business meeting. Registrations for this camp must be in by June 9, one week preceding the Monday when the camp begins. It is expected that from 40 to 50 Midland boys will be entered. Scouts from over the entire area will be at the camp, which will be the most ambitious ever held in the district.

Award of prizes offered by Midland men for winning of competitive events at the recent Sweetwater area rally will be made Thursday night. Troop 52 won first among Midland troops, and is entitled to the $10 first prize. There are second and third prizes, as well.

Williamson expects to announce additional projects to be carried out through succeeding months.

Death Toll Mounts In Canadian Fires

WINNIPEG, Canada, June 4. (UP)—Forest fires swept through new areas of timber land with renewed fury today as increasing winds removed the temporary check brought by light rains.

In a score of widely separated sections of the Canadian northwest, the flames destroyed thousands of acres of virgin timber.

Five or more persons are believed to have been killed. Several farm sections have been burned and two towns are threatened with destruction. Refugees reported others missing and it is feared that the final death toll may be high.

LATE FLASHES

FORT WORTH, June 4. (UP)—Playing with matches may cost the life of Marjorie Kelly, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Kelly. Her dress was ignited and she was badly burned today.

DENTON, June 4. (AP)—Yancy Storey was in his home town today in jail to start a hundred day jail term for turkey theft. He has been convicted as a Krum bank robber but was denied admittance to the penitentiary after being fugitive. Repeated story he had seen county officers here during time he was reported missing. Officers reiterated indignant denial.

DALLAS, June 4. (AP)—Sheriff Hal Hood, deputies, city officers will leave tomorrow for Huntsville to witness the electrocution of William Pruitt Friday. Pruitt was assessed the death penalty for slaying William Mann, high school student, during an attempted holdup of Mann with a woman companion in Dallas.

CHICKASHA, Okla., June 4. (AP)—Inquest into mob disorders last Friday when Henry Argo, negro accused of attacking a white woman, received fatal injuries, started today. Seventy-three witnesses, fourteen of them women, were summoned.

Dave Traversie, about 45, foreman of the O. B. Holt Jr. ranch, died in the Thomas hospital early this morning from a broken back and internal injuries sustained about 2:30 Tuesday afternoon when an unbroken horse he was riding reared and fell back on him.

Funeral services were pending this morning, some of the relatives of the dead man not having been located.

Traversie leaves his widow and one daughter. His parents are alive, but their place of residence had not been ascertained early this morning.

The foreman was riding a bucking horse in the corral near the ranch headquarters. As Traversie tried to pull the horse up, the animal reared and fell backward in true wild horse style, catching the foreman under him. The horn of the saddle pinned the rider, breaking his back and inflicting internal injuries.

News of the accident did not reach Midland until about 4 o'clock, whereupon ambulances went out, the Barrow ambulance discharging the injured man at the hospital at 6 o'clock. At 9 o'clock those who were awaiting in the corridors for the hospital bulletins on the condition of the foreman departed when information seemed to denote improvement.

About 12:15 Traversie died. The foreman came to Midland about two years ago, from White House, S. D. He was a dependable man, Holt said, and well known to riders of the range and ranch owners of the surrounding cattle country.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the Ellis mortuary.

WHEELER JAIL BREAK FREES 2 TUESDAY NIGHT

SHAMROCK, June 4. (AP)—Peace officers from Wheeler and adjoining counties searched today for James Howard and Bob Russell who escaped during the night from the Wheeler county jail after slugging Lee McBee, jailer, as he entered the cell with their supper.

In an all night search, officers traced the fugitives as far as Pampa. Joe Howard, brother of James Howard, is in solitary confinement as result of his part in the uprising. He was left behind after McBee shoved him back into the cell during the break.

DRILLING RECORD

LAMESA, June 4.—A record in drilling has been made by the Getty Oil company's H. D. McKinley No. 2 in the Hobbs, New Mexico field, which is being drilled by the Noble Drilling company. This well has gone down 2,755 feet in seven and a half days.

OFFICERS TAKE JOBS JUNE 16TH

Boone Is Delegate To National Meeting At Denver

Leslie A. Boone, pastor of the First Methodist church of Midland, was the unanimous choice for president of the Midland Lions club when regular election of officers was held at noon today.

The names of R. J. Moore and Harry L. Haight had been put up along with that of Boone, but both declined to be considered for the office and he was elected unanimously.

Other officers elected were Chas. Yonge, first vice-president; M. M. Seymour, second vice-president; Marion F. Peters, secretary; A. E. Horst, treasurer; W. Edward Lee, Lion-tamer; and David M. Ellis, Tail-twister.

Directors elected were the president, vice-presidents, secretary, treasurer and also R. J. Moore and Harry L. Haight.

The new officers assume their duties after an installation program to be held Monday night, June 16, this being a ladies' night banquet at Hotel Scharbauer.

Leslie A. Boone succeeds M. C. Ulmer, cashier of the First National bank, who has been one of the outstanding Lions club presidents of the state during the past year. Under his leadership, the local club has been a powerful civic organization and has done much to mold the good feeling among businessmen of the city.

In addition to being elected president of the club, the Rev. Boone was named official delegate to the national convention of Lions clubs at Denver in July, carrying out the policy of the Midland club in sending incoming presidents to the national meeting so that he may be more widely versed in Lions club management and operation.

Chas. Yonge, prominent Midland attorney, has been active in the club's activities since its organization, and his election as first vice-president came as no surprise.

M. M. Seymour, second vice-president, served last year as secretary and has a splendid record of work in the organization. Peters, manager here for the West Texas Gas company, and Horst, head of the West Texas Office Supply, likewise have been outstanding workers in the club.

W. Edward Lee won the office of Lion-tamer after a try-out with Allen Tolbert in a singing contest, the latter being disqualified on account of the harshness of his voice and the fact that he couldn't tell the note A from G.

David M. Ellis, in being selected Tail-twister, receives the reward for a continuous political campaign after having been defeated a year ago for the office of Harry L. Haight.

Boone Experienced Leslie A. Boone, new president, has had more experience in luncheon club work in other cities, having been one of the outstanding leaders, and a former president, of such a club at Raymondville, his home prior to coming to Midland.

COYLES ARE HERE

G. H. Coyle and son, Carrell, of Cisco are in Midland today on business. They are looking over ponies adapted to polo playing. Coyle is a breeder of polo animals, some of his trained ponies having brought fanciful prizes in the east. Carrell is recognized as one of the finest of malleters in the state, and has played on eastern teams.

Speaks Thursday

Clint C. Small, West Texas' own candidate for governor, who speaks at the district court room Thursday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. His campaign manager is Lee Satterwhite, Odessa, former speaker of the house.

LIGHT RAIN FELL IN MIDLAND AREA TUESDAY NIGHT

Rain fell on Midland and vicinity about midnight last night, the precipitation here registering .15 of an inch. The territory north and northwest is reported to have had heavier rainfall.

The precipitation in the city brings the total within the past week to .95 of an inch. Most of the farming land of the county and the cattle ranges near Midland have been visited by sufficient moisture to carry well into the summer.

'Corporal Eagan' To Be Produced

'Corporal Eagan,' three-act comedy of that pot pourri of dough boy, top kick, K. P. and the rest, will be given in Midland Thursday and Friday, June 12 and 13, by the Woods W. Lynch post of the American Legion.

The production is one of the outstanding ones written since the war. It shows rookie life in an army camp, and uses more than 150 persons in the cast. With the exception one character, these are local men and women.

The production has been staged throughout the U. S. with unusual success, and in several surrounding towns and cities. It is to be staged here by the legion and directed by Miss Dorothy Deck, now here for the production's start.

Storey Here Today On Behalf Campaign

Cecil Storey, of Vernon, candidate for attorney general of Texas, was in Midland this morning talking to citizens on behalf of his candidacy. He has a number of personal friends here.

Storey has lived in Vernon 21 years, engaging in law practice, and has been representative in the legislature from Wilbarger and Wichita counties. He was born and reared in Freestone county and lived there 24 years.

WELL REPORTS

Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. No. 1 Montgomery, semi-wildcat in eastern Howard county, was drilling ahead at a total depth of 2566 feet, with 600 feet of oil in the hole from pay encountered at 2551-58, latest reports here said.

In Andrews county, the A. R. Discovery No. 1, south offset to the Discovery well, Deep Rock No. 1, located, had been drilled to 4404, without increase of production.

SMALL TO SPEAK AT 8 O'CLOCK

Murphy Letter Is Not Specific As To Place

Two prominent candidates, Clint C. Small, West Texas' own candidate for governor, and E. E. (Pat) Murphy, candidate for congress, have announced Midland as the stage for stump speeches Thursday night, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Representatives associated with the Small campaign announced the Wellington man's speaking date by letter Wednesday. Murphy let it become known several days ago he would be here Thursday. Small speaks at the district court room. Murphy has not announced his speaking place.

Small flew to El Paso from Sweetwater two days ago, and since speaking there has appeared on stages at Van Horn, Pecos, Sierra Blanca and Toyah. Before coming here he will have included in his speaking itinerary Pecos, Odessa, Wink, Kermit and Monahans.

William Langley, publicity manager, and Harvey Belcher, personal representative, were in Midland this morning arranging for the speaking engagement of Small.

Opening in Amarillo

Small opened his speaking tour in Amarillo, May 2. He spoke at Seymour, Goree, Haskell, Rufe, Stamford, Hamlin and Sweetwater, before taking the plane to El Paso for the border city address.

From Midland, he will speak in Stanton, Big Spring (Friday) and Baird (Saturday).

The next week will be spent in northeast Texas, following which his itinerary will include successively east and South Texas, his old home section around Wellington, and a whirlwind closing out campaign in East Texas.

It is estimated that 170,000 votes will be cast in West Texas, west of Fort Worth, representatives of Small said this morning, and 800,000 for the entire state. It is estimated by Small's small army of advisors and staff men that 50 per cent of the West Texas vote, with an additional 70,000 more votes divided between South and East Texas would be sufficient to place Small in the run-off.

Moody is Watched Of the 15 gubernatorial candidates still in the race for the statehouse, only Tom Love, "Ma" Ferguson, Earle B. Mayfield, Clint C. Small, Ross Sterling, Barry Miller and Jim Young will continue in the race to the first primary, Small's (See CANDIDATE HERE page 8)

HEAR THE CANDIDATES

Midland will, in all probability, be visited this summer by a dozen or more candidates for the governor's office and for other important elective positions.

Voters will do well to turn out in great numbers to hear these men, regardless of any preliminary opinions, and to be open minded as to merits of candidates.

With 13 gubernatorial candidates officially in the field, the first primary at least will give opportunity for something new in Texas politics, the voting for men and not for issues that have been worked up for campaign talk.

It will behoove Midland voters to hear every candidate for every state, district or national office that comes to the city to outline his platform and his qualifications.

SAFETY IN FLYING

Just how safe flying is may be gauged from figures recently given out by C. M. Keyes, president of Transcontinental Air Transport.

During 1928, 6,500 people were killed as a result of the operation of the railways, or one fatality for 172,708 train miles.

In the same year 368 persons were killed in civil aviation, or one fatality in 191,800 plane miles, a slightly better record than was made by the railways.

The actuary society of America, insurance risk experts, reported that there is only a 40,000 to one chance of accident when riding with a licensed pilot over a scheduled passenger route.

They found that in 1928 only 13 passengers were killed out of about 50,000 carried in such flights.—El Paso Herald.

EARTHEN BY-WAYS

Years ago we had very little trouble finding the little traversed dirt roads that led through colorful country and enhanced our enjoyment of motoring. Today, there are still thousands of miles of such roads all over the United States, but the interest in finding them and traveling over them seems to have waned.

Perhaps the reason for this lies in our modern desire for speed and our anxiety to get somewhere, whether we have to or not. At any rate, it appears that most of us seek the main highways, those smoothly paved and wide roads that permit us to let her out all the way when traffic permits.

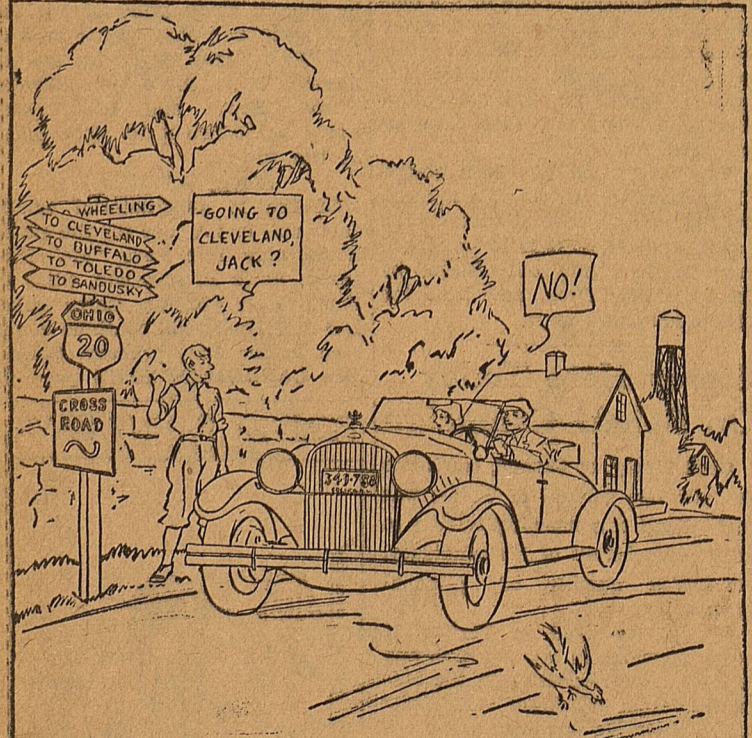

The difficulty here is that so many of us travel this way, there is hardly an opportunity to speed up. Traffic is congested, especially on sunny Sundays, and the joy of motoring is lost to the vexation of driving.

It must be a peculiar human psychosis that leads a person to go out for a ride, with no destination at all and with only the benefits derived from the open country where constant close attention to traffic is necessary. The country, its beauties and its freshness, may just as well not exist for such drivers.

The narrow, earthen byways are still here. They still lead by unfenced farms, along rippling streams and under bowers of aged trees. Chickens still cross these roads, an occasional hog still holds up your passage, and an old couple in their one-horse buggy may still pass by on their way to town.

Such are the pleasurable sights we cannot have but for a turn off the main road. Let us try it this summer.

Row Caused by Public Reading of Secret May Wreck Churchill's Political Career

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer.

LONDON, June 4. — Winston Spencer Churchill—England statesman, half-American by blood, writer, journalist, painter, orator, debater, holder of many cabinet posts, appeared the other day in a new role—that of gravedigger of his long-standing yearning to be Prime Minister of his country.

That is the considered opinion of many of his fellow-countrymen, because of one of the most extraordinary incidents that ever occurred in a House of Commons debate—nothing less than the open reading in Parliament of cabled instructions that had been marked "personal and secret" and which Lloyd George, who was Premier at that time, said were part of a cabinet paper. The contents of such papers can be revealed only by consent of the King, obtained through the Premier. Such consent had not been obtained.

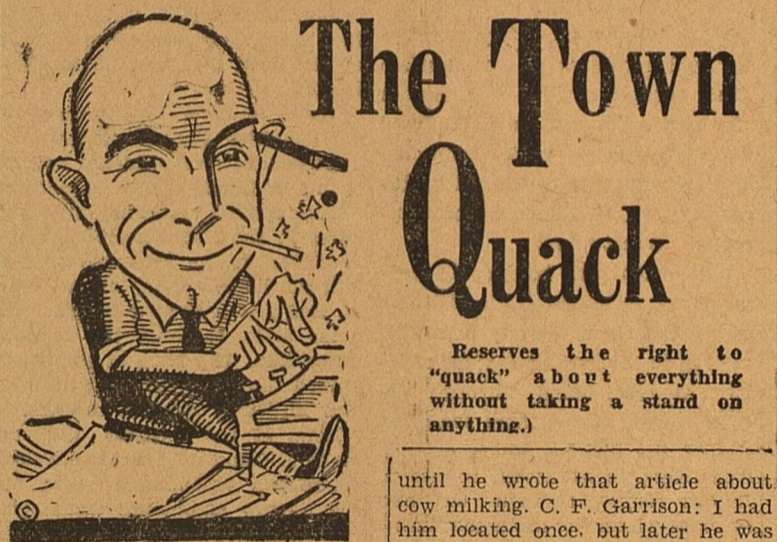

Read Secret Document

The setting was this: Premier MacDonald had made a long speech setting forth what had been accomplished by the London Naval Conference recently ended. Then Winston Churchill, for the Tory opposition, made an attack on the results, his main thesis being that as the result of the conference, Britain accepted an inferior naval position to America. In his eagerness to attack, he read from the instructions cabled to Lord Balfour when he was head of the British delegation to the Washington Naval Conference of 1921. Premier MacDonald and former Premier Lloyd George both took him severely to task. Churchill, usually so confident and self-possessed, sat there red-faced as a schoolboy who was being publicly reproved by his teachers.

Desperate efforts will be made by the Tories to save Churchill's face, but the damage has been done and he can probably kill good-bye all chances of ever being Premier, even if the Tories were to come into power again. The truth is that though Churchill is one of the most brilliant and best-dowered men in British politics, his own colleagues doubt his stability. He is restless, excitable, ambitious. And he has switched parties. He left the Tories and joined the Liberals in 1904, holding various cabinet posts. When the Liberals were smashed several years ago, he left the Liberals and rejoined the Tories, being Chancellor of the Exchequer in the last Tory cabinet.

As a very favored politician orator, his success is a constant source of wonderment to visiting Americans. He enunciates with a sort of mixture between a stammer and a lisp and is very slow in his delivery. But he excels in the rough and tumble of parliamentary debate and delights in interruptions which give him opportunity for witty sallies which he is quick to grasp. He is a son of the late Lord Randolph Churchill and his wife, who was Miss Jennie Jerome of New York and a grandson of the seventh Duke of Marlborough. He is, therefore, a cousin of the present Duke, both of whose wives were Americans.

Young Churchill was educated in the great British military school of Sandhurst and at first only the soldier's life appealed to him. In 1895 he served with the Spanish troops in Cuba and got Spanish military decorations. Then he served with British troops in Indian frontier wars and on the Nile in the Egyptian campaigns. In the Boer War he was captured but made his escape and served in many of

Have you ever fallen for the old gag where you get a postcard in the mail saying that if you will send 25c to a certain address, they will send you a newspaper clipping about yourself? I answered one of those cards one time, thinking that to see myself in a well written story would be worth the money. The clipping was sent me, and it happened to be from The Reporter-Telegram in an issue that published the jury list.

That wasn't as bad as a fellow in a county east of here. He answered one of those cards and when he received the clipping, he found that it had reference to his name in the delinquent tax list.

Now, if a fellow could send in a quarter and find that his name had been in the Quack column, it would be more nearly worth the money.

I should have gone to work early campaigning to have Harry Haight elected president of the Lions club.

Here are a few things you hear about "who is the Town Quack." Charles Young: I believe it is Harry Haight or Paul Vickers. W. S. Hill: It's bound to be Hankins. Billy Sparks: It's Jimmy Harrison. Frank Haag: I knew it was Paul Barron the big actions in that conflict thereafter.

Tiring of the military life, he entered the House of Commons and in various Liberal, wartime Coalition, and Tory cabinets has held every post with the exception of the Premiership. Being a man of immense capacities, as well as of energy, he filled every post successfully. As Secretary of the Admiralty when the World War broke out, he saw to it that the high seas fleet was assembled and ready the minute the time came to fly the battle flags. In a reshuffle of cabinets, having lost his job, he returned to active service as a soldier in Flanders, being made a lieutenant colonel. He soon returned to a cabinet post in the important job of Minister of Munitions and has held office ever since except when the Labor governments were in power.

In between times this amazing man has found opportunity to write a brilliant life of his father and three huge volumes on the World War, which are among the best of their kind.

He is a bitter opponent of the Labor government and, since the Tories have been in opposition, has been doing most of the leading, the nominal leader, former Premier Baldwin, being for the most part silent. To have read out in Parliament part of what his former Premier calls a secret and personal paper, a cabinet paper is the greatest mistake of his career. It is likely also to be the costliest.

Daily Washington Letter

By RODNEY DUTCHER,
NEA Service Writer.

All little boys who hope to grow up and run against Senator Furnifold McLendell Simmons had better watch their steps. Josiah William Bailey is finding that out.

Josiah is 57 years old now, grown gray, conservative and rather set in his political ways. He has waged a silent campaign against Simmons for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the June 7 primary, almost solely on the issue created by Furnifold's desertion of the national party in 1928.

But once upon a time Josiah was a gay, reckless young blood in his early twenties, heedless of the fact that he might some day desire to run against the venerable Furnifold. 'Twas back in the eighteenth century.

Editor of a Church Paper

As editor of the Biblical Recorder, leading Baptist publication in these parts, young Bailey appears to have had certain independent notions on issues which were controversial at the time but which have long since been settled to the satisfaction of all orthodox North Carolina Democrats.

Since the Simmons machine has disintegrated, the greatest strength of Furnifold is found in the fact that he led North Carolina's great White Supremacy Fight back in 1898, driving out the dominating fusion of Republicans, Populists and negroes. That fact is a very live issue today and no one talks politics in this state without bringing it up. On the other hand, the Simmons bolt of 1928 in Furnifold's great weakness and the only thing that gave a chance to win.

Conversely, one of Bailey's weakest points is that he was not as hot up over the White Supremacy issue more than 30 years ago as Simmons was and that he has not always been as radically dry as possible. Furthermore, Bailey is on record way back as asserting that he was an independent Democrat and admitting that he voted against a Democratic judge who was a chronic drunkard. These facts are powerful weapons in the hands of the Simmons faction—powerful to an almost incredible extent to a visitor from the North. The idea is to prove that Bailey is in no position to attack Simmons for lack of party loyalty.

Bailey was less than 20, the son of a Baptist minister, when he became editor of the Biblical Recorder. The Simmons forces are flooding the state with pamphlets to show that he opposed some of the more radical measures designed to keep negroes in their places, including the bill to provide separate cars for the races in 1899. "There is no sense, no providence, in running wild with opposition to the colored race," Bailey wrote. Denying negroes the right to vote, he said, would mean that the state's congressional representation must be reduced in proportion.

He opposed the impeachment of Governor Russell, Republican, and even served on the state Board of Agriculture with him. Worst of all he stood for appointment of Jim Young, negro, as he board's chief fertilizer inspector and is alleged to have voted for Jim.

Perhaps Josiah thought he had lived all that down, but after 32 years it arises as an issue to plague him solely. The Simmons Democrats are reminding the state just how bad things were when negroes held office and voted.

"Lawlessness walked the state like a pestilence," reads a piece of Simmons' campaign literature. "Death stalked abroad at noonday. Sleep lay down armed—the sound of the pistol was more frequent than the sound of the mocking bird. The screams of women fleeing uring rutes closed the gates of our hearts with a shock. Ladies were insulted on the public streets and more guns and pistols were sold in the street than had been sold in the preceding 20 years."

Frequently, in the Biblical Recorder, Josiah said all good Christians should vote in accordance with their consciences rather than invariably on partisan lines. How he must wish he hadn't! Every one of those utterances is now being broadcast by the Simmons folks. "We must support principles and policies before parties," he said as late as 1904. It was in 1928 that Simmons said his principles wouldn't let him support Smith.

Of course Josiah is bone dry now, but the opposition credits him with being the candidate of the liquor interests — "unseen, sinister forces." Both Simmons and Bailey have been prohibitionists for decades, but the argument rages as to which was the most ardent.

In 1907 Bailey was chairman of the state Anti-Saloon League, but he wrote a magazine article in which he opposed state prohibition and said "local option is, therefore, incomparably the best means of treating the liquor traffic." He recognized liquor as the world's worst evil, but felt that the only way to handle it was to isolate it in a few towns; rural citizens would continue to keep their own communities dry only as long as they could come into town for a snootful now and then. Nevertheless, Bailey had conducted dry campaigns in 31 cities and towns and won 30 of them, his supporters say.

But the Simmons faction points out that although Bailey supported state and national prohibition after they were effective he was whooping things up for Smith before Al was nominated at Houston, arguing that Smith was the only candidate who could win in the election.

Negroes Must Be Dry
North Carolinians say — and it seems obvious enough — that the state's fundamental issues are liquor and the negro. Negroes mustn't be allowed to get drunk. Whites are willing to stand for prohibition's inconveniences as long as negroes don't. This applies to most southern states, one is told.

occasion to address this department of your paper upon some questions calculated to improve certain matters that have been neglected in the past, and incorporated therein what the reader may be pleased to understand as my platform. Under my third special plea for suffrage, or third "plank" of said platform, if you please, this language is employed:

In the event of my election I shall favor and profoundly insist upon workmen's rights. We owe public dispensations of favors to our citizenship alone, and public works, where possible, should be executed by local workers, at living wages, and to the further end that local business interests may be conserved, instead of our monies being sent or carried away to distant marts and foreign countries, as has been so largely the custom in the past."

This of the six specific propositions in my platform was given rise to by vast and flagrant discriminations against Midland county citizenship. Those noted above, on the court house job, barely approach the sum total of the general complaint. It seems to be a fixed plan of procedure on the part of contractors to import their help, all down the line, from common laborers to skilled artisans, and throughout our city paying the same condition obtains; nor does it stop here. It appears that office help, clerical positions, police officers, and what-not all through our civic and county post necessities, outsiders must be sent for to supply help that other towns seem able to secure from the ranks of their own citizenship.

Need it be pointed out how greatly our present business depression would have been relieved had local patriotism been the guiding sentiment in the dispensation of these favors? No depth of thought is required to see this, and the further fact that many homes would have been made comfortable and happy, which are today distressed and all but poverty-stricken.

A correction of this glaring, outstanding evil is promised in the event of my election, if the influence of a strong effort upon the part of your county judge shall count for anything.

Sincerely,
C. C. WATSON.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Editor Reporter-Telegram:
I have been told that there is but one voter, but one citizen in Midland county now employed upon construction of the new court house that is in process of erection; I have been told that only a short while ago there were some half dozen or more, but it became necessary, expedient to cut down the force, and that Midland men were the ones to suffer loss of employment. Not that they were in any way less efficient, or less worthy than other men on the job, not but what they were just as good artisans, just as reliable, just as industrious, and not that they needed the jobs any less, and it is not my purpose to assign a reason for this discrimination against home men, nor yet even to ask for a reason, for I do not believe there is an unselfish one. The glaring fact is sufficient for complaint, and it is a bitter one that arises on every hand.

Here is a recent newspaper geographic dispatch dated at New Orleans:

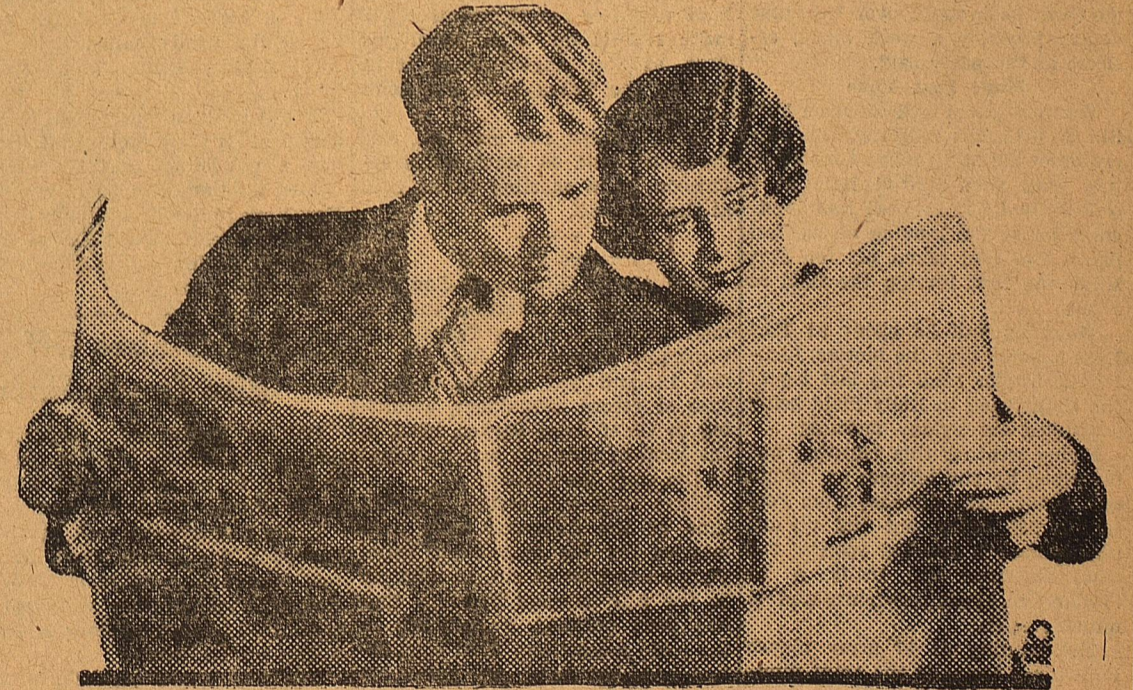

"The State Supreme Court upheld a Louisiana act which prohibits the employment on public buildings of mechanics who are not bona fide citizens and duly qualified voters of the state.

"A contractor in this city who violated the law was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or serve 60 days in jail. The Supreme Court upheld the lower court. The contractor contended that the law deprives him of the liberty to contract. He will appeal to the United States Supreme Court."

I am not sure, but I believe Texas has no such law as this, but we ought to have, and right here is afforded an opportunity for some law-maker to get in a bright bit of work in our next legislature and win for himself some popularity that will not soon be forgot.

As a candidate for county judge of Midland county, I recently took

Roads Open Variety of Honeymoon Spots for June Newlreds This Year

By NEA Service
 WASHINGTON, June 4.—While the June bride has been busy packing her trousseau, the June bridegroom has been racking his brain for a nice honeymoon tour. The United States offers many attractions for the newlreds.

Since the invention of the automobile, Niagara Falls has ceased to be the only place for honeymooners. In the east many other cities have made their bid to be their Mecca. In the west, national parks attract them.

Washington, the Capital City, offers many sights for newlreds. Government buildings, and historical spots always are interesting. And just a short distance up the coast, easily reached by auto, is Atlantic City, with its boardwalk, beaches and vacation facilities.

New York offers great opportunities for sight-seeing. On top a bus or through the city in a car gives a thrill even to honeymooners. Broadway at night, its night clubs, its famous theatres are treats many strangers enjoy. And then up the Hudson river is Albany, seat of the state's government, while on the western border of the state is Niagara Falls.

Of Course the Falls

And, after all, what is a honeymoon without taking in the Falls? A trip up to the Falls in the little boat, Maid of the Mist, is well worth a trip to Niagara. And on the other side of the St. Lawrence river lies Canada, with many good roads and attractive spots.

The Great Lakes lure many honeymooners. Numerous big towns along them, such as Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee, offer great opportunity for sight-seeing. Then farther north, Minnesota's thousands of small lakes offer the beaten path provide seclusion.

A direct route from Chicago, U. S. highway 20, leads to Yellowstone National Park where nature in all her glory runs rampant for the benefit of awed mortals.

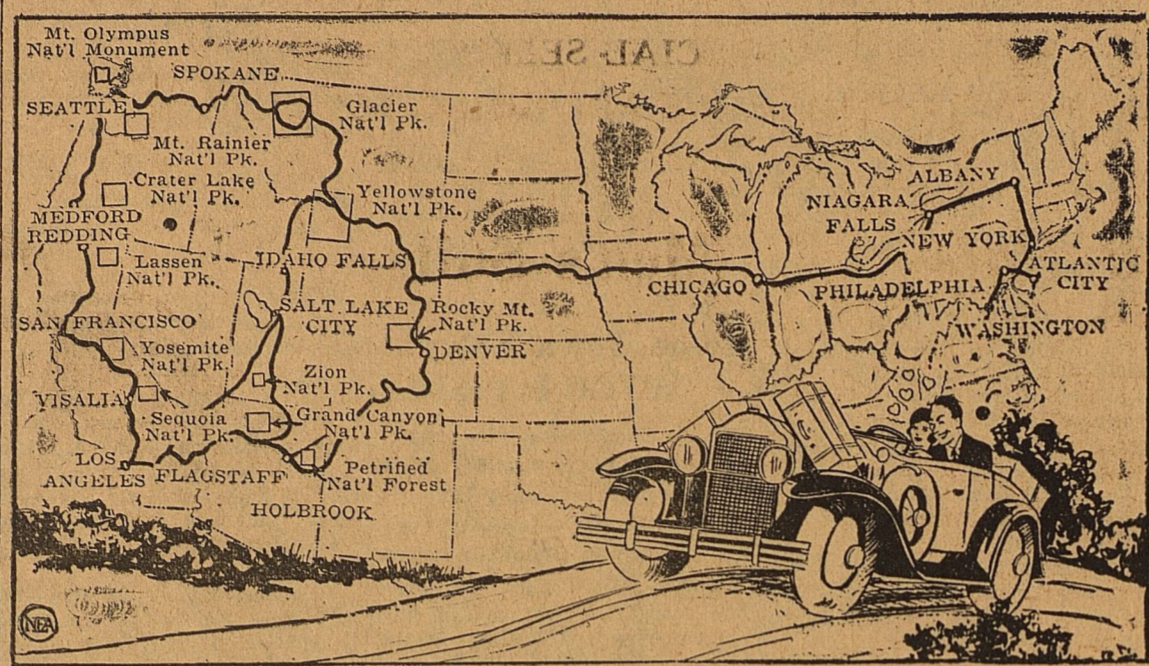

East and west of the Rockies and down the Pacific coast numerous national parks and Indian reservations lure the tourists. Hollywood, too, with its movie stars and beautiful homes, is interesting to those just starting on the matrimonial road.

Along Redwood Trail

Parks along the famous Redwood Highway are to be found all along the coast. Up U. S. highway 99, which is the Redwood Highway, Sequoia National Park can be reached from Visalia, Calif. Also nearby is General Grant National Park. Up the mountains from Fresno lies Yosemite National Park and farther northwest is San Francisco with its Golden Gate, Chinatown and large harbor.

Farther north lies Redding, near which is Lassen Volcanic National Park which has few rivals in grotesque scenery. Crater Lake National Park is just across the California border in Oregon, near Medford, and over in Washington, near Seattle, is Mount Rainier National Park and Mount Olympus National Monument.

Glacier National Park is only a short way from Spokane, Wash., across the north of Idaho and into Montana. And Yellowstone Park lies south.

Niagara Falls isn't the only place June newly weds can go these days, as this map shows. The roads lead to many romantic parks and resorts elsewhere.

Directly to the west of Los Angeles is another series of parks and Indian reservations which are beauty spots. St. George, Utah, by way of Barstow, Calif., and over U. S. highways 66 and 91, is in the vicinity of both the Grand Canyon National Park and Zion National Park. And from there it is but a short journey to Salt Lake City and the Great Salt Lake.

In Redman's Land

Around Needles, Nev., Kingman, Flagstaff and Holbrook, in Arizona, lie the Petrified Forest National Monument and the Hualapai, Navajo, Hopi, Fort Apache and San Carlos Indian reservations.

At Flagstaff it is possible to visit Grand Canyon National Park and Zion National Park over U. S. highway 89. Another short hop on this road leads into Salt Lake City and from there to Yellowstone Park.

From Holbrook a splendid tour through the Rockies to Denver is possible through Gallup, N. M., Del Norte and Pueblo. Close by Denver is Rocky Mountain National Park and to the north lies Yellowstone Park.

Most of the parks in the western part of the country have Indian reservations nearby. In addition to those already mentioned, the Blackfeet reservation is near Glacier National Park, the Yakima reservation near Mount Rainier Park and the Kalamath and Pyramid Lake happy hunting grounds near Crater Lake and Lassen Volcanic parks respectively.

The Crow and Shoshone reservations are in the neighborhood of Yellowstone Park.

AND STILL RUNNING

LONDON.—The oldest passenger railway engine in England is still in active service. It is the "Ryde," built in 1864, and which is now running on the Brading-Bembridge line in the Isle of Wight. The engine has run more than 1,500,000 miles.

GLENNA'S POOR PUTTING COSTS CHAMPIONSHIP

LONDON, June 4. (UP)—Americans who watched the final match of the 1930 British Women's Golf Championship played over the Formby course probably will remember above all other features the disappointing putting of Glenna Collett.

On the morning round, which resulted in a five up lead for the new British champion, Diana Fishwick, Miss Collett took three putts each on give greens. Her putting game cost her five holes and the championship.

Six and eight-yard putts went to the lip of the cup only to hang on the edge. Short putts ran along the rim of the cup or struck the lip and bounced out. The little white ball simply refused to slip into the cup and remain there.

The break down of her putting game worried Glenna and the seemingly effortless play of the English girl also added to the American golfer's strain.

Diana Fishwick plays without any apparent effort. She merely reaches into the bag, pulls out a club and with a full, easy, upright swing sends the ball straight for the pin. She plays with such grace and freedom of effort or strain that 18 holes of spirited golf leave her surprisingly fresh.

The stance of Miss Fishwick is rather unusual since she employs no crouch. She has no orthodox style but has perfect form. Her style might almost be classified as hybrid.

She gets the most out of her shots with the least effort. She believes that any form or style that gets one consistently to the green and off to the next tee in the fewest number of strokes cannot be far wrong.

When she putts she merely takes a hurried glance at the roll of the green, the lie of her ball and then, from an upright position, glances with a nodding motion of her blond head two or three times at the hole and the course she waits her ball to follow and then taps it. The results gained in the recent championship were almost uncanny.

Glenna Collette has always fought against a weakness of short play on the greens. Her tremendously long game of two or three years ago has shortened considerably, but her irons and woods have improved and her pitch and run shots are well-nigh perfect. She told the United Press on the eve of her championship match that her putting was the one part of her game she feared. Her prophetic utterance came true.

Vail Awards Made To Phone Employees

Nine telephone employees, among them an emergency chief operator of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company at Elmdale, Kan., have been cited for noteworthy public service performed last year and will receive national Theodore N. Vail medals of gold or silver accompanied by cash awards, it was learned here today by R. T. Hunter, district manager of the Southwestern company here.

Five of the citations were made for heroic service at the Cleveland clinic disaster, May 15, 1929, when more than 100 persons perished in a fire and explosion. One of these is a posthumous gold medal award made to Miss Gladys I. Gibson, clinic operator, who died in the line of duty. The only other gold medal awarded will go to Gerald T. Mahaffey of Cleveland, traffic superintendent of the Ohio Bell Telephone company, who performed heroic rescue work and took up Miss Gibson's post at the switchboard after she had lost consciousness. Mahaffey also will receive $500 in cash.

The three other telephone people who were cited for duty at the Cleveland catastrophe are: James J. Roonan, Benjamin G. Spaeth and Walton A. Turner, Jr., all employees of the Ohio Bell Telephone company, living in Cleveland. Turner recently died from natural causes, his award having been made posthumously. These citations, with four others made in various sections of the United States, bring silver medals and cash awards of $250 each.

Mrs. Myrtle Dull, Elmdale, Kan., was the lone Southwestern company employee to be cited. She was recommended for noteworthy public service rendered last July, when the Cottonwood river went out of its banks.

With water running two feet deep in her home, which housed the Elmdale telephone office, Mrs. Dull sat atop an improved seat consisting of a chair and nail keg, and gave service to telephone subscribers in that vicinity in spite of surrounding dangers and repeated warning of fellow townspeople who had deserted this section of the city for higher ground.

Mrs. Dull received a bronze medal from the Southwestern company when the regional awards were announced April 15. The Southwestern company received a bronze plaque in commemoration of her act.

As Graf Zep. Landed at Lakehurst

The scene as the Graf Zeppelin landed at Lakehurst, N. J., on the big dirigible's fourth visit to America, is pictured here. The last lap of the trans-Atlantic voyage, via South America, was a non-stop flight from Pernambuco, Brazil, a distance of approximately 4500 miles.

The Vail medal awards are made annually for noteworthy public service and are provided for by the Vail memorial fund, established as a memorial to the late Theodore N. Vail, former president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

TARDIEU IS "GASTRONOME"

PARIS. (UP)—Premier Andre Tardieu has just been elected to that exclusive and snobbish society of good eaters which calls itself the Academie des Gastronomes. The present strong man of France passed the wine tasting test with flying colors, and despite a bad mark in salads was given a grade well up in the nineties.

COSTLY GOWNS

LONDON.—Newest in the line of fashion's raiment for society women are gowns of real gold and silver. Through a "molecular bombardment" system recently perfected, gold and silver are sprayed on gowns of velvet, georgettes and fur. Needless to say, since the gold and silver used on the gowns are 99 per cent pure, the dresses are very costly.

150-POUND TURTLE

OCRACOKE, N. C. (UP)—Ernest Dever, New Brunswick, N. J., landed a loggerhead turtle, weighing about 150 pounds, in a fishing craft here. While it is not unusual to catch these turtles in nets, it is not commonplace for one to be landed by rod and reel.

LONE LEMON IS "CROP"

BELLAIRE, Mich., (UP)—J. W. Thumm recently harvested his lemon "crop." It consisted of one lemon he grew on a two year old tree but it measured 13 1/2 inches in circumference and provided lemonade for eight persons.

GALLANT FOX OUT FOR REVENGE

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor

There was a stir in the barns at Belmont Park in New York the other day when they brought in Gallant Fox, fresh from famous victories on three tracks, and ready for the $80,000 Belmont Stakes June 7.

"Who is that bozo?" asked Whichone, turning to a blond filly in a nearby stall. Whichone, you know, was king of the thoroughbreds before Gallant Fox came to Belmont.

"Why, surely you know who that is," replied the blond, "that's Gallant Fox. He just won the Wood Memorial, the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby, with Earl Sande up. Nice looking, isn't he?"

Whichone thought hard, and surveyed the newcomer from head to foot.

"Gallant Fox?" he said finally. "Oh yes, now I remember that bloke. That's the dog I beat last year in the Futurity. As I remember it, he finished third, behind Hi-Jack. So that's the cookie all the raving is about, eh? Well, well."

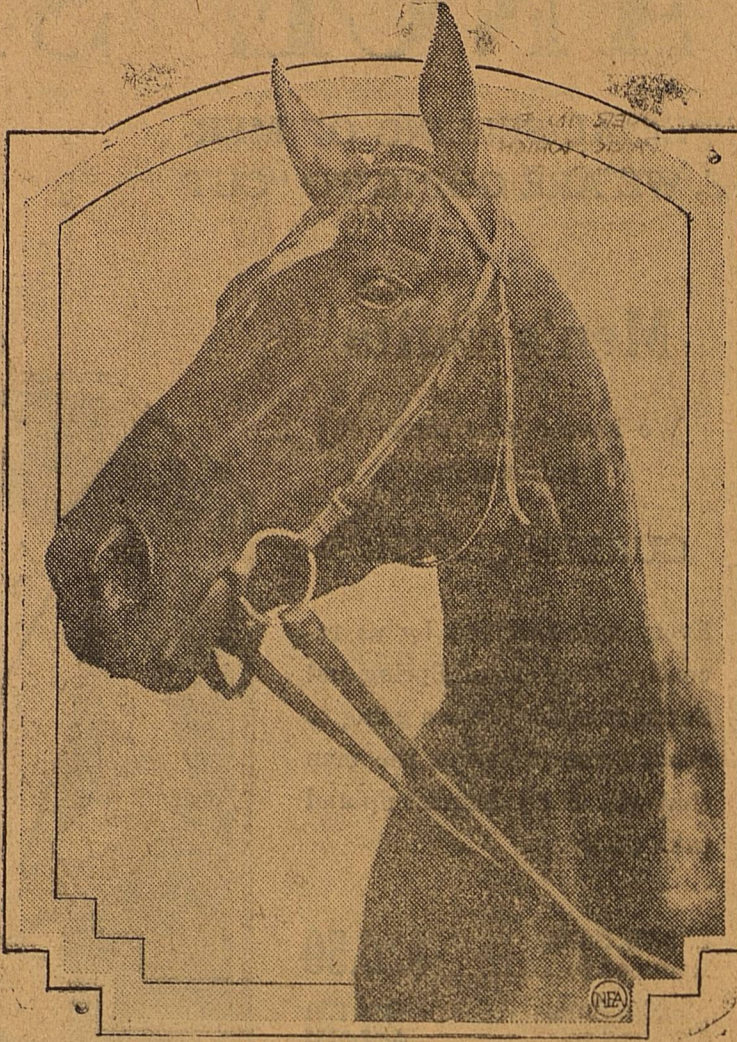

So there will be a score to settle when Gallant Fox, with the Earl Sande up, goes to the barrier June 7 at Belmont Park to battle a field of the country's best three-year-olds. It will be more than a race. For, among the three-year-olds will be Whichone, the great horse that Harry Payne Whitney withdrew from the races last year after he had scored some amazing victories.

When the Earl of Sande looks across the paddock June 7 to Whichone's stall, with Sonny Workman waiting to toss the leg up on the son of Chiclé-Plying Witch, the Earl of Sande will know that is the horse and that is the rider he will have to beat.

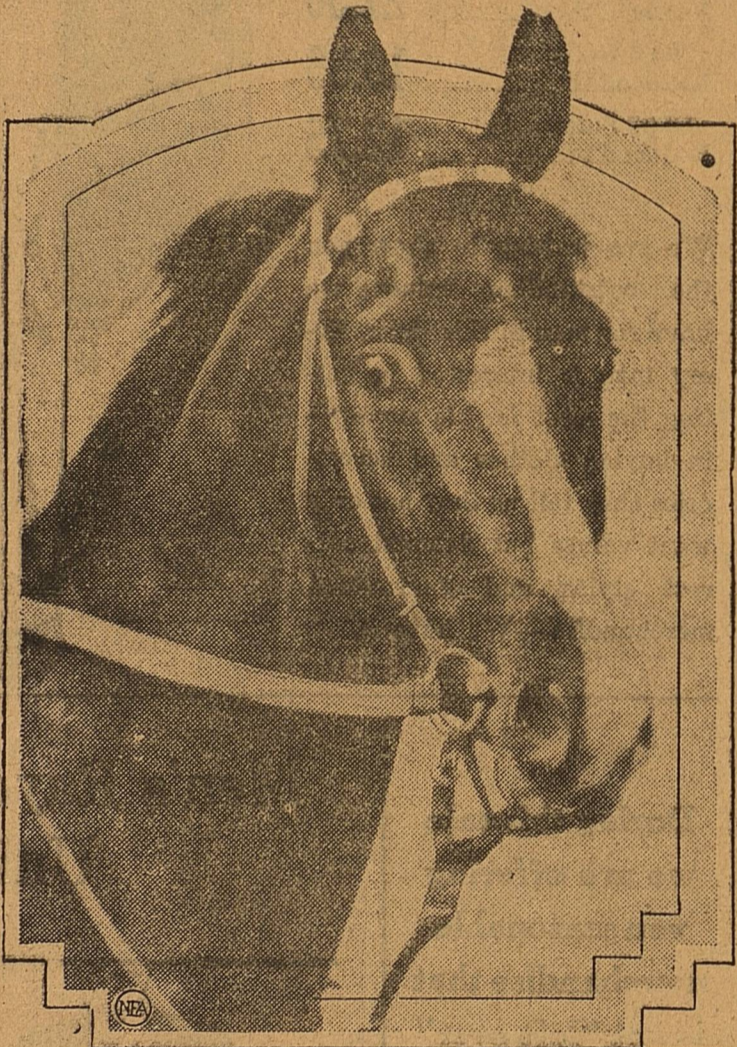

Gallant Fox is finally facing the true test of greatness.

Tom Shaw, the betting commissioner, who correctly forecast the winner of the Kentucky Derby when he saw Gallant Fox win the Wood Memorial several weeks before the Louisville event, looks upon Gallant Fox with questions in his mind. Can the Woodward horse last over the mile-and-a-half route against a horse as great as Whichone? And, if Whichone beat Gallant Fox in the Futurity last year, why shouldn't he beat him again in the Belmont, though the Belmont is over a much longer route than the Futurity? Shaw answers the questions by making Whichone a 6 to 5 favorite for the Belmont with the odds at 2 to 1 on Gallant Fox to win.

Behind the battle between Gallant Fox and Whichone also is a personal argument between trainers. Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, who prepares the Fox for the races, and Tom Healey, trainer of Whichone. Last year Fitz trained 26 thoroughbreds for 26 stakes winning $238,060. He had 48 winners, 33 that placed and 46 shows. He saw Gallant Fox beaten by Whichone last year, but still is not ready to admit that the Whitney horse is best. "Nor am I ready to say, either," he acknowledged the other day, "that Gallant Fox can beat Whichone. But of course we'll try."

WHICHONE

GALLANT FOX

Healey, who preps Whichone for his heats, has almost 100 horses under his care this year. He is the only trainer who ever saddled four Preakness winners—Display, Pillory, Dr. Freeland and Vigil. He is regarded among horsemen as a great man when it comes to teaching a horse to travel a distance. He has taken many poor sprinters and made excellent route horses of them.

Besides the desire of Gallant Fox to avenge the Futurity defeat at the heels of Whichone last year and the pride of the trainers, there is the rivalry of the owners. A defeat for Whichone would be a blot upon the Whitney silks. And during the last 15 years blots upon the Whitney silks have been about as plentiful as pianos in a partry.

Outside of that, it's just a horse race. You pay your two bucks and you win or you don't. After all, it's the same principle as the feather-bed raffle at the Ladies' Aid bazaar.

FISHERS REPORT DUCK

Midland people returning Sunday from a fishing trip on the Concho river report excellent success. In the party were Elliott F. Cowden and family, C. M. Goldsmith and family, Homer Rowe and wife, J. V. Stokes Jr. and family. They camped on the main Concho where it runs into the Colorado, a short distance from Paint Rock.

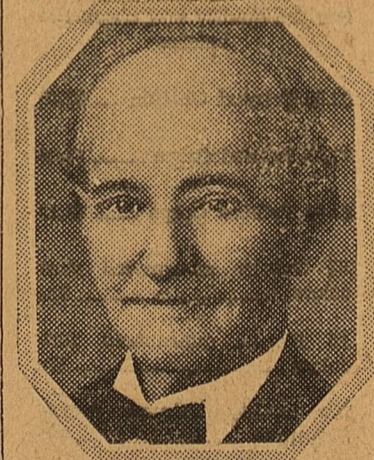

BUILT PLANE IN HOME

NEW YORK.—Oswald Knispel, German mechanic, has one of the neatest one-seater, airplanes ever seen around this city, and he made it himself in the living room of his Harlem flat. The ship is 3 feet wide, 15 feet long and 4 feet high. It is a center-wing monoplane and, powered by a four-cylinder motor, can make more than 60 miles an hour.

Then there was the Chicago grocer who was so naive that he thought a pineapple was something you ate.

WACO CITIZEN 79 ENDORSES NEW KONJOLA

"Too Bad I Did Not Hear Of Konjola Long Ago," Says This Happy Man.

MR. J. A. KIN

"Too bad I did not hear of Konjola long ago; it could have saved me much suffering. My stomach was the cause of my trouble," said Mr. J. A. Kin, 122 Oriental road, Waco. "Everything I ate caused pain, gas and bloating. My whole system was run down, my vitality was low and I was gradually losing my strength. I had no ambition and was worn out all the time."

"So many medicines had failed me that I had about lost hope. Then came Konjola. After taking four bottles my appetite increased, I found I could eat anything without a trace of indigestion in any form, and my whole system has taken on new life. I have plenty of ambition to do my work, and I will always recommend Konjola as a real medicine."

Konjola is not a "Cure-all"—there is no such thing, but when taken for from six to eight weeks will produce amazing results. The countless thousands of indorsements of Konjola have proven that it makes good in even the most stubborn cases.

Konjola is sold in Midland at Mayes-Young drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Despite the fact the New York Giants have been visited by the mumps, the teams they are opposing recently appear to be having the sweller time.

Fans, we suppose, would be delighted to see ump's with mumps.

A newspaper editorial asks what has become of the custom in boxing circles of awarding the championship belt to the heavyweight king. Judging from recent championship affairs it would seem most of the contestants really are below the belt.

Candidate Here--

supporters believe. Of these Mayfield and Small are conceded the run-off chances.

Moody is still the "unknown quantity," the men here this morning said. He is more-or-less at an impasse, due to the entry of his friend, Ross Sterling, into the race.
If he decides to run vote-splitting would be accentuated, whereas if Sterling should drop out of the race a few weeks after Moody decided to run, the present governor's possibilities would be heightened.

West Swing Over
EL PASO, June 4.—Carrying out his promise to discuss his candidacy with voters in every section of the state, Clint C. Small, in the race for governor, completed his far Western swing here Wednesday.
Today he starts on the long trek toward Dallas, from where he will again go into East Texas for a concerted campaign.

Into the oil fields, making his speeches to drillers and roustabouts from spattered rigs, into the cow country, where he discusses politics with sombered cowpunchers on corral fences and into the more urbane communities of the progressive Far West. Small is building up his voting strength. As he moves into the farming country he finds the plow handle and Ford truck running boards excellent places for prolific discussions of state politics.

Long jumps become part of the daily program in the ranch country with the result that the number of speeches to be made in the daylight hours are of necessity cut down.
Usually, however, at least two scheduled addresses are made.

Support Increases
The candidate announced here Wednesday that his expectations of support throughout the state are more than reassuring and he anticipates his support to be cumulative as his campaign is carried on between now and election day.
Wherever he has gone spontaneous reference has been made to the benefits accrued from his now famous
"land bill," which protects owners in their claims to creek bed properties. This bill became particularly valuable with the discovery of oil in the various sections of Texas.
In all of his addresses Small has adhered more or less closely to his platform. One point in particular which seems to meet with favor is his criticism of professional politicians attempting to manipulate our state government. He has stated consistently that Texas has suffered immeasurably as the result of certain men, some of them his opponents in the race for governor,

Attend Big Spring Petroleum Meeting

Several Midland oil men are expected to go to Big Spring Friday night to attend the meeting of the Independent Petroleum Producers association of Texas. The Midland party will be headed by Joe J.
Crump and E. G. Bedford.
These men are anxious for a large attendance from Midland, they urge royalty owners and all others interested in the progress of independent oil producers to attend.
Two prominent oil authorities from Fort Worth will make speeches at the banquet to be held Friday night.

BIG SPRING, Texas, June 4.—

pendent Petroleum Producers association of Texas to be held in Big Spring on Friday June 6, arrangements are being made to entertain 125 independent operators, royalty and property owners in the north Permian basin.

Such topics as tariffs and imports,
pipe line inequities and charges,
why the independent, and the relation of royalty owner to independent will be discussed by Tom Cranfill, president of the association, C. L. Morgan and Claude Wild of Ft. Worth and E. G. Bedford of Midland.

A banquet is being arranged by the Big Spring chamber of commerce which will be held at the day evening.

Every courtesy will be shown visiting ladies during the convention.
Plans for their entertainment are being mapped by Mrs. Floyd Cornelison, Mrs. H. K. Hinde and Mrs.
John Williams. A musicale will be given Tuesday at 4 p. m. at the St.
Angelus roof complimenting the visiting ladies. Wednesday at 10 a. m.
they will be carried on an automobile tour over the city and will visit the million dollar dam just being completed by the West Texas Utilities company southwest of the city. Aa visit to the state sanatori-

EXCITING

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col.—
A 20-foot boa constrictor in a zoo on the summit of Cheyenne mountain was found frozen stiff. It was brought to town here for the taxidermist to stuff and mount. When the gentleman started to cut up the snake, the reptile, thawed out by the heat of the shop, started to move. So did the taxidermist. The snake was killed afterward.

LUXURY IN AIR
LONDON.—The monoplane air yacht recently finished for the Hon. A. E. Guinness is the latest word in air luxury. It has accommodations for six passengers, and these include: Wardrobes, dressing tables, bookcases, and a bathroom.
The ship has a cruising radius of 650 miles and a normal speed of 100 miles an hour. With full tank and crew it can cover 2000 miles.

SURE, IT'S A SIN

LONDON.—One London barber wants it known that he refuses to cut the curly locks of females. He claims it's a sin. On the wall of his shop he has a sign quoting from Corinthians, "If a woman have long hair it is a glory to her." Despite his lack of woman patronage, he is doing a good business because males flock to his establishment to escape the association with women in other shops.

old antiquies which have been brought from the past. Beneath the

These statues were dressed in even-
