Four Die, Nine Are Injured In Fort Worth Car Wrecks

NINE INJURED IN SPACE OF NIGHT AND DAY; BAD CRIME WAVE ELSEWHERE

Woman Found Mutilated, Another Beaten to Death; Five Charged With Death Of Couple in Old Case

FT. WORTH, July 24. (UP)—Four were killed and nine injured in accidents in and near Fort Worth today and last night. The dead are: C. C. SANDLIN, T. C. MABRA, JOHN H. BUCKLAND, Fire Captain and MRS. P. G. LANHAM.

Mabra died of injuries received when he was struck by a "hit-and-skip" driver. Sandlin died in a hospital after an auto-truck crash.

Buckland was riding in an auto with Mr. and Mrs. Lanham and daughter who were en route Springtown to attend a political meeting, when the auto struck a sandy curve seven miles north of Weatherford and crashed. Buckland was killed instantly and Mrs. Lanham died of a fractured skull en route to a Weatherford hospital.

Body Mutilated AKRON, O., July 24. (UP)—With the head and limbs severed and the torso covered with quick lime, the body of Mrs. Clyde Smith was found in a berry patch near here early today. A bullet hole was found in the base of her skull.

Smith identified the body by means of a filling in her teeth. The woman had been missing from home since June 16, but Smith was not worried because, he said, his wife frequently visited relatives. He was unable to ascribe the cause of the murder.

Wife Beaten to Death HARTFORD, Conn., July 24. (UP)—Irene Diamond, young housewife, was found beaten to death today. Her husband, Nathan Diamond, a taxicab driver, was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

HOUSTON, July 24. (UP)—Five persons are in jail today charged with the murders of Olin Wunsche, 20, housemaid, and Edward Stone, 21, more than a year ago. Charges were filed on orders of Sheriff Binford who said he believed the prairie murders resulted from a bootleg war.

The sheriff said he thought Stone was slain in retaliation by persons believing he had brought about a series of liquor raids. The girl is believed to have been shot because talk. Both were slain with a shot gun.

An investigation has extended over 14 months and has resulted in double murder charges against May Vick, Mrs. Mattie Vick, Henry Vick, Frank Vick and Eugene Davis.

World's Largest Tire Coming Here Today

Today the largest tire in the world is on exhibition in Midland, brought to our city by the Lone Star Service company, well-known Goodyear dealers, who have the giant casing at their place of business, 112-14 E. Wall St., all day today and tonight, staying open all night in order that everyone may see this interesting exhibit.

The intensely interesting tire was built by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company of Akron, Ohio, and is on a tour of several states in this section of the country. It has been in many sections of the United States, and has been exhibited in Canada, causing no end of amazement at the Toronto exposition last fall.

The rubber giant, which is 12 feet high and four feet wide, was built under the combined supervision of the chemical, tire design and research divisions of Goodyear's development department. It takes about three-quarters of an hour to inflate the mammoth casing to a pressure of only three pounds. Its value is placed conservatively at $5000.

It might be interesting to note that the valve is the only item of standard size in the entire tire, which is a replica of the Goodyear All-Weather tread Supertwist cord tire, the measurements being in exact ratio to measurements of the (See LARGEST TIRE page 8)

YEN HSI-SHAN'S CUSTOMS AIDES MAY FACE JAIL

PEIPING, July 24. (UP)—Two picturesque foreigners, one a British author of note and the other an American scholar in things Chinese, have assisted General Yen Hsi-shan in settling the long-standing dispute regarding disposition of customs revenues collected in North China.

The Briton is B. Lenox Simpson, better known by his nom de plume of Putnam Weale. The American is L. C. Arlington, who served for 40 years in the Chinese postal service and is author of the standard work on the Chinese drama.

General Yen has named Simpson customs commissioner at Tientsin, and Arlington his assistant. The two foreigners took over the customs in a dramatic scene, during which soldiers surrounded the customs house, and Chinese employees were warned that they might be shot as deserters if they left their posts.

The significance of the action which followed weeks of unsuccessful negotiations between General Yen's representatives and the British customs commissioner appointed by the government at Nanking, lies in the possibility that the Chinese Maritime Customs, which has remained intact as a national unit for 80 years, may be broken up.

The attitude of General Yen, as explained to correspondents by his foreign commissioner, Tchou Ngo-hsiang, is that funds collected in North China were being sent to Shanghai to be used by the government at Nanking in warfare against the north. General Yen declared that he was willing to permit a committee of foreign and Chinese bankers to administer the funds, if they were kept in Tientsin, but was not willing to permit the funds to continue being sent to Shanghai.

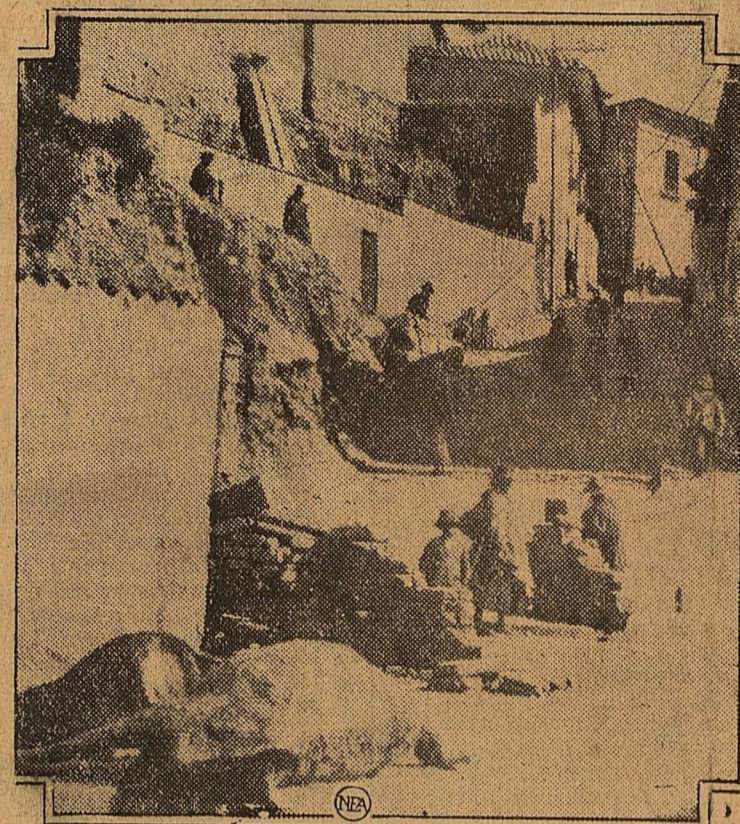

T. W. Maze, British Inspector-General of Customs at Shanghai, an employee of the government at Nanking, refused any compromise, however, insisting that he is in sole charge of the customs and must decide what disposition is made of all funds. The northerners now declare that Maze will be discharged if the civil war results in a definite victory for the north, and the possibility is suggested that Simpson will be given his place.

Legal experts here point out the possibility that both Simpson and Arlington may be liable to criminal prosecution under both British and American law for assisting General Yen in his controversy over the customs. A British order in council and an American statute provide that any British subject or American citizen who "aids or abets any person in carrying on war, insurrection, or rebellion against the government of China" shall be liable to criminal prosecution.

Air Derby In Texas Tonight; Lee Ahead

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Entrants in the All-American derby left the Little Rock airport this morning for Houston, Texas, on the fifth leg of the cross country race. Lee Gehlbach, flying the Little Rocket, local entry, led the racers by 23 minutes elapsed time.

When Revolution Swept Bolivia

This picture, taken at the height of the short but successful revolution in Bolivia, shows a barrier erected by armed students who engaged loyal troops in the streets of La Paz, the capital. Five hundred persons were killed in the fierce fighting which marked the overthrow of the regime of Dr. Hernando Siles. The revolt was started when Dr. Siles resigned as president but, to evade the constitutional law that no Bolivian president may succeed himself, had installed a subservient cabinet to rule in his place.

Editor Finds Grand Canyons Are in Place and What They're "Cracked Up" To Be; Rain Makes Going a Bit Slow

By T. PAUL BARRON (Somewhere en route)

The Grand Canyon was all it has been "cracked up" to be. Will Rogers, when he first looked over the vast crevice, remarked that it solved the problem of where the old razor blades would be put. He might have added that the canyon could easily accommodate the junked flyovers for centuries to come, and you couldn't see them at the bottom, either.

The worst feature about the canyon at present is the road to it from Williams, Arizona, a distance of 65 miles. Not so bad in dry weather, the first 17 miles are like a hog wallow when it rains, and it hadn't missed a day in two weeks of having a rain when tourists went up. Hundreds of cars, the small proportion of them having mud chains, made the journey each way, but often the New York Yankees and the New Mexico cowpunchers joined hands with southern gentlemen and bowery thugs to get a few dozen cars out of the muddy ditch.

Uncle Sam and Fred Harvey seem to have divided the honors equally in equipping the canyon for tourists. Fred having invested the most money and apparently is getting it back faster. Anyway, there is every kind of accommodation from a free camping space to a $20-a-day hotel and you can take your choice. Numerous drives, mule-back rides, foot trails and various angles for observation provide sufficient diversion for those of geological or explorative temperaments to spend as much as two weeks time; but you can see enough in 10 minutes to make the trip worthwhile. However, after we had seen a sunset, a sun rise, a noon-day glare and a rain-storm on the canyon, looking it over from points along the rim road, we took our departure.

Arizona is not without its other forms of attraction. For instance, before reaching Holbrook from the east, on either highway 66 or 70, the Petrified Forest National monument is easily reached. Even before reaching this point, on highway 76, one sees the extinct volcanoes and the vast country which was covered by lava centuries ago. Much of this land is totally unfit for use except as a national monument, as nothing will grow on it. Practically all of the state north of highway 66 is Indian country, and their curios and relics confront the tourist at every stop and at numerous outlying points along the highway. Navajo rugs, polished petrified tree limbs and stumps, Indian handwork of all sorts are sold by enterprising Navajo and Hopi Indians. They also have mountain lion farms, snake farms, caverns, cliff dwellings and all manner of side shows to get their part of the tourist's money.

The Painted Desert is one of the outstanding scenes in northern Arizona, extending for hundreds of miles from the north side of the Grand Canyon almost to the east line of the state, at some points coming within a stone's throw of highway 66. On this highway, there is a store about which I feel that I should warn tourists who are in the habit of looking for bargains. For miles one sees signs "Wide Ruins Store (blank) Miles." However, it is not a fire sale, but is just a store by the side of what was formerly a stone fortress or some such building.

Leaving Arizona, we came back into New Mexico at Gallup, a thriving town of more than 6,000 population, a wide territory, and a decidedly western atmosphere. Indians in full war paint, or anything colorful, walk the streets in large numbers, and tourists driving in on the highways pass many stolid Indians driving their small ponies to light running wagons. A picturesque locality, and just another of New Mexico's claims as one of the nation's coming tourist states.

EVANGELIST WARNS OF ANOTHER TITLE THAT NEEDS GUARD

Evangelist Thornton Crews spoke to a large and enthusiastic audience at the Church of Christ Wednesday evening on the subject "The Old Beginning Corner." The speaker called attention to the fact that in surveying, the first thing is to locate the "beginning" corner.

"The correctness of the whole survey depends upon the right start. It is an easy matter to locate the lines if we start from the right place and follow the few simple rules or laws that govern surveying. No man would want to invest his money in a piece of land until the lines had been established, and the abstract changed. We evidently should be more careful about the title to a mansion in the skies than we are about the title to a piece of land.

"Peter refers to the 'beginning' in the eleventh chapter of Acts. The prophets spoke of a day in which the Lord would set up his kingdom in the city of Jerusalem, and Christ told his disciples that 'Repentance and remissions of sins should be preached in His name. 'Beginning' in Jerusalem. All of these prophecies and statements were fulfilled on the first Pentecost after the resurrection of Christ. So that must be 'The Beginning Day.'

"The Bible tells us that no prophet could speak a word in the name of Jehovah that had not been commanded. Paul says, 'Though we are an angel from heaven preach any other gospel than that which we have preached, let him be accursed.' One of the last statements of the Bible tells us not to add or take away from God's word. Hence we cannot be too careful in making our survey. Let us get the correct starting point and proceed exactly as our Bible directs, and we will be sure to have a clear title to that sweet home over there."

Two responded to the invitation at the close of services. There will be a baptismal service at the close of the service this evening. Subject for this evening is "The Lost Book of the Bible."

Hold 16 Blacks as Greenwood Suspects

SHREVEPORT, La., July 24. (AP)—Sixteen negro suspects were held here today in the death of C. J. Mason, Greenwood merchant, who was shot Tuesday.

One negro was from Atlanta, Texas, and another from Nacogdoches.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC THOUGHT TO HAVE BOUGHT WORKING CONTROL IN COTTON BELT LINE; CONFIRMATION LACKED

NEW YORK, July 24. (AP)—Whether the Southern Pacific railroad has acquired the working control of the St. Louis & Southwestern (Cotton Belt) through a purchase of 135,000 shares of preferred voting stock from the New York Investors, Inc., lacked confirmation today.

At St. Louis, in the absence of President Daniel Upthegrove of the Cotton Belt, comment was withheld.

New York believed the announcement, if the transaction had been accomplished, was withheld pending the Southern Pacific's application to the interstate commerce commission for authority to acquire holdings which the New York Investors, Inc., bought a year ago from the Kansas City Southern after proceedings had been started claiming its position in the Cotton Belt violated the Clayton act.

Hale Holden, chairman of the Southern Pacific, said the Southern Pacific had acquired a substantial block of common and preferred Cotton Belt stock, explaining the aggregate constituted less than a majority interest.

Nolan Elected a Chamber Director

James S. Nolan, manager of the land department of the Barnsall Oil company, was elected a director of the Midland chamber of commerce to fill the unexpired term of Charles W. Alcorn, resigned. The voting was done individually by directors.

Nolan was also elected to membership in the Lions club Wednesday. He was selected as a director of the Midland chamber because of his civic spirit and experience in community work. He was adjutant of the American Legion post at Ardmore, Okla., and a committee member in Tulsa. He had worked on special chamber of commerce committees in Ardmore and Tulsa, and has volunteered to do civic work in Midland. He was among the first of the oil men to take membership in the local organization, and himself hunted up a membership committee several months ago and asked to join.

Production Offices Of Atlantic Coming

Production offices of the Atlantic Producing company will be opened in Midland next week with Ben Mosier, chief clerk, in charge of operations in this department in West Texas and eastern New Mexico. Other officials will be transferred to Midland later, according to present plans of the company, a decision having been made to concentrate the business for the Permian basin at Midland.

Scouts, Parents, Ministers at Show

Ministers, scouts and their parents and others were guests of Manager John Bonner at the Ritz theatre today and Wednesday evening, when the picture, "Wild Company," was shown.

Bonner cited as his reason for invitation of so many guests the need for better understanding between the youth of the country and their parents, as exemplified by the words of the judge in the picture.

The photodrama is being shown at the Ritz today.

TWO TRASH FIRES

Two trash fires within 12 hours almost to a minute of each other, caused that number of runs Wednesday.

One of these was at the home of Homer Epley, the other at the Rhea cottage. The fire at the Epley home was discovered shortly after 1 o'clock that morning, the other shortly after the same hour in the afternoon. No damage was reported at either place.

City Farm Here Really Pans Out Money

Cucumbers raised on a city farm are fetching their grower about berry per dime. The cukes admit being raised by Virgil C. Ray, cattle commission man, a weather prophet of Paris, and a great believer in the possibilities of Midland county soil. Ray has a beautiful patch of corn, melons and cucumbers which he irrigates from his own well. He plans to set the acreage in fruit trees next year. Ray expects the truck patch income to get much larger than $1.00 a day when the cantaloupes and watermelons get into bearing.

SUPPORTERS HERE SAY THOMASON TO CARRY MIDLAND

Some of the leading citizens of San Angelo are predicting that R. E. Thomason, candidate for Congress, will carry San Angelo and Tom Green county, according to Thomason supporters here. It is generally conceded that Thomason has developed surprising strength in San Angelo, Midland supporters of Thomason say.

The statement continues: "Word was received Wednesday that Thomason would carry Big Spring, Odessa, Wink, Colorado, Stanton and other towns of this immediate area by substantial majorities. The Midland Thomason supporters declared the latest canvass here showed Thomason leading among all professional and industrial classes, including farmers, oil men, business men, laborers, union men, and craftsmen.

"More interest has developed at Midland in the congressional race than any other outside of local races, because many Midland people believe more can be done for Midland and this part of West Texas by a capable man in Congress than by any other official. This has caused local leaders to concentrate on Thomason, who has the experience and ability to put through the policies he advocates and which all the Sixteenth district desires to see put into effect."

Klapproth Address Concerns Balloting

Every citizen ought to vote as his conscience dictates, Judge Chas. L. Klapproth told the Rotary club at luncheon Thursday. Judge Klapproth was making a non-political address on invitation of the program committee. His address was on the duty of all citizens to exercise their franchise.

The voter should consider the best general interests of his community, rather than a mere personal preference, and should keep in mind that the government is for and by the people, Judge Klapproth stated.

John P. Howe, vice president, presided at the meeting. A short talk was made by the Rev. George F. Brown, and Aubrey S. Legg humorously announced his candidacy for "Senator-at-Large."

Short talks were made by John Bonner, Malcolm M. Meek, Ily W. Pratt, and visitors.

Wins First Bale Prize Many Times

NACOGDOCHES, July 24. (UP)—The first bale of cotton from this section this season was en route to Beaumont today to claim a cash prize of $200 posted there. The bale, weighing 535 pounds was ginned here last night. It was brought from the farm of Ribber Nettwaters of Chireno who has won first bale honors for several years.

THOUSANDS MAY YET BE RECOVERED

Vesuvius Watched as Dusky Glow Seen Across Bay

AVELLINO, Italy, July 24. (AP)—Unofficial reports late today said 3,025 bodies had been extricated from the southern Italy earthquake ruins. The death toll in Avellino province was officially reported as 1,677 instead of the previous report of 1,392.

Reports said the dead in Mel-fi was increasing hourly with all of the cemeteries filled and 200 bodies had been sent to Foggia for burial. The government is aiding the stricken. King Victor Emmanuel is visiting the area.

ROME, July 24. (AP)—Yesterday's earthquake in southern Italy claimed a death list today of 1,778, and the injured were estimated at 4,264. Saveline province reported the greatest loss, 1,392 dead.

Napes today was swept by a hurricane driving great waves ashore. Another Naples fear was Mount Vesuvius, which was seen glowing across the bay, and eruption is feared. The volcano Passuola, near Vesuvius, is erupting today, probably caused by the earthquake. Not since 1908, when an earthquake wiped out Messina, has Italy seen such wide destruction.

NAPLES, Italy, July 24.—South-Italy has been visited by a disastrous earthquake. The toll of dead and injured is enormous.

While refugees streamed into Naples Wednesday afternoon from the devastated area, stretching across the peninsula from sea to sea, the restless earth continued to tremble and the inhabitants were in constant fear of fresh disaster.

No Accurate Check It was impossible to make an accurate check of dead and injured, although hundreds have been killed and probably thousands injured. With reliable estimates placing the dead at around 1,000, unconfirmed reports were received of deaths running into the thousands. The injured were reliably placed at 4,000 or more, pending further check.

One report, which lacked any official confirmation said the towns of Villanova and Montecalvo, in Avellino province, had been destroyed, with a death list of around 4,000 in Villanova and 300 in Montecalvo. The reports said 80 per cent of Villanova's population of 5,000 had been killed.

Venosa, in the province of Potenza, also was reported destroyed. The city of Melfi, with a population of 12,000, was in ruins. There were 120 dead, the first count showed.

THE CITY MAN'S PLIGHT

There is one season of the year, above all others, when the man who lives in a large city deserves humanity's deep sympathy.

That season is mid-summer. Not because cities are hot, sticky and dirty in summer—though they are; not because the open country is more healthful and enjoyable when hot weather comes around—though it is; but simply because the city man is debarred from knowing the enjoyment of corn on the cob and watermelon in the way that these two summer delicacies should be enjoyed.

Of course, green corn and watermelons can be bought in the city. You can get them at any grocery store, and you can have them served to you at any restaurant. But the stuff that you get isn't the stuff that the country dweller gets.

To begin with, there is the matter of corn.

In the city grocery you find it lying in a bin—two days old, as like as not, and inevitably picked over by the hands of a dozen housewives before you. Corn wasn't meant for rough handling. Something vital goes out of it. You hear it home and boil it; but the result, when you come to eat it, is a disappointment. If you have never eaten green corn in the country you may not notice the difference; but if you have, you will discover that the corn's sweetness, its freshness, its milky juiciness, have somehow left it.

To eat corn on the cob it is necessary to go to the cornfield and pick it yourself. Pick it, take it to the kitchen, strip it of its husks and put it at once in the hot water. Then, when it is done, you have something fit for the gods to eat. Garnished with butter and salt, it is a meal in itself.

And watermelon—

The city man's watermelon has generally been off the vine for many days. He takes it on trust, not knowing how to tell the sound from the unsound by the finger-tapping trick. At best, it may be passable; at worst, it is a flat mess of damp pulp, tasteless and uninspiring.

In the country, however, it is possible to go direct to the vine and pick out your own. If you like, you squat there in the dust and open it forthwith; otherwise, you take it to some spring and let it lie in the water for an hour. In either case, when you eat it you are eating one of the finest delicacies nature provides.

These are two foods that the city man almost never discovers as they ought to be discovered. The lucky country dweller can only sympathize with him.

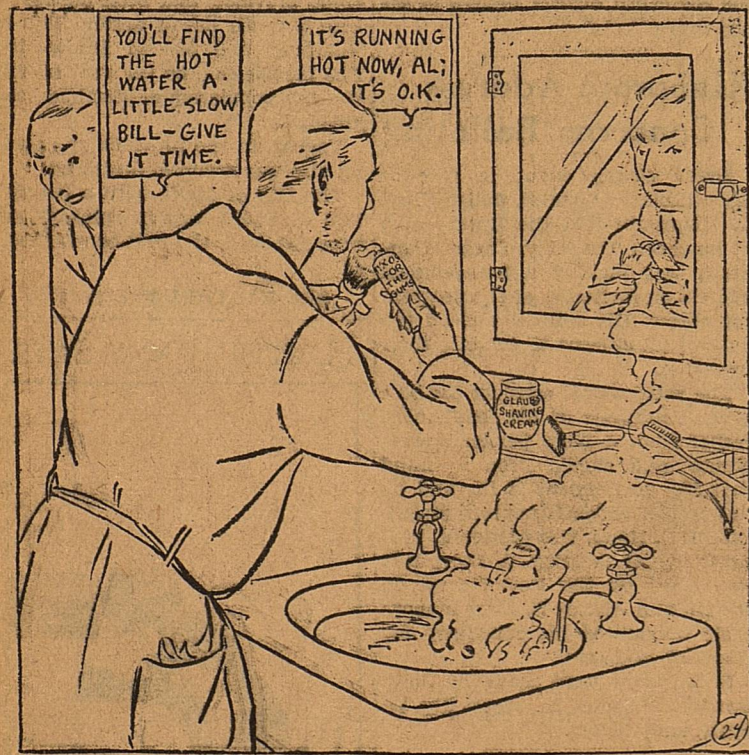

INSULTING THE INTELLIGENCE

Once again the American public has been treated to the spectacle of rival psychiatrists giving diametrically opposed testimony in a murder trial.

It happened this time in Ohio, where a young man was on trial for killing his wife. Everything went quite according to rule. A defense alienist got up and swore that the lad was little better than an outright imbecile; then a state alienist got up and swore that the lad was quite sane and thorough capable of distinguishing between right and wrong.

We're wondering how much longer this sort of thing is going to last. This system is simply an insult to the intelligence. When will our lawmakers, in their infinite wisdom, devise some method of getting at the truth in such cases without this farcical "expert testimony" racket?

Another Hit-and-Run Driver!

Should Community Collect 'Taxes' From Bootleggers? Voters to Decide

By PHILIP J. SINNOTT NEA Service Writer

WALLACE, Idaho, July 24.—Idaho's "rum rebellion" in which numerous public officials and others were convicted in federal court recently is ended, but Idaho's "rum referendum" is on the way.

The wives of two officials who were found guilty of collecting money from bootleggers—not for personal gain, but to be placed in the city treasury—have been induced by civic organizations of Wallace and Kellogg to run as candidates for the offices their husbands held.

And now, as an aftermath of the strangest case of "corruption" in the history of prohibition, Mrs. W. H. Herrick, wife of the former county assessor and Mrs. R. E. Weninger, wife of the former sheriff, are candidates seeking "vindication." They have just filed.

"Graft" Went to City

But it isn't the ordinary "vindication," for while Sheriff Weninger and Assessor Herrick admitted they took considerable sums from liquor sellers, they did not profit personally one cent. Instead, they turned the money into the public treasury, to be spent on fire and police department budgets and on good roads and bridge building activities.

"These men are martyrs to the cause of what we call human liberty, personal rights and self government," declares A. P. Hutton, of Kellogg, who suggested the candidates. He predicted that the voters of Shoshone county will rise up and give the women an overwhelming vote in the coming election.

"If we were conducting our civic affairs improperly, they could have told us and we would have corrected things," said another resident, voicing the general sentiment.

"What we object to is this sentencing of city officials to federal prison because they tried to convert to public good the liquor and gambling activities they couldn't eliminate."

Made Bootleggers Pay

Wallace's story is not much different from that of many other towns that see bootleggers making huge profits—and the city getting nothing in return. The same thing happened over at Mullan, a neighboring Idaho town, where two score men were convicted recently of conspiring to collect from saloons, the money supporting the town and paying the city police force.

In each case, the government showed, police officials saw to it that money was paid into the treasury.

Wallace's corporate limits do not cover much territory. Outside these limits are big mining properties, employing over 5000 men. The hills encircling the town are covered with dense young timber. It is just 20 years ago since a disastrous forest fire swept down these hillsides into the town.

The Wallace fire department, therefore, is maintained at a standard that provides not only protection to the community, but for the mining properties and against possible forest fire recurrence. There are other expenses in connection with the 5000 miners—many of them transients—that must be borne by the taxpayers within the small area of incorporation.

Saloons Yielded $30,000 Yearly Before Idaho went dry, saloons contributed to Wallace approximately $30,000 a year in license fees. There was strict enforcement for awhile, but the war saw the camp shunned by the experienced miners, until some of the monies nearly were forced to close. Then came federal prohibition, and the mining communities passed to the government the job of enforcement.

As usual in any big center of transient workers, the liquor trade grew. The city officials found themselves unable to cope with it. But here, they saw a chance for gain—for their city, not themselves.

"These people pay no revenue whatever into the public treasuries, yet they have the benefit of police fire department, and the bridges and culverts we must build," was the thought.

Over at Mullan, the matter was handled boldly through a city license ordinance. In Wallace, however, there was no ordinance. But money was paid by the saloon, and resort keepers to the city officials, and by these placed in the city treasury. Culverts and bridges were built. Fire department expansion was provided for, and—say Wallace residents—the cost was spread a little more equitably.

This spring, however, federal operatives swooped down upon Wallace. Within a short time, there were more than 40 indictments charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Officials Are Convicted

W. H. Herrick, ex-mayor of Wallace, and for 18 years assessor of Shoshone county, was indicted. So was Mayor Herman J. Rossi, and Police Chief W. J. Bailey, and Sheriff R. E. Weninger of Shoshone county. Most of the others were operators of resorts.

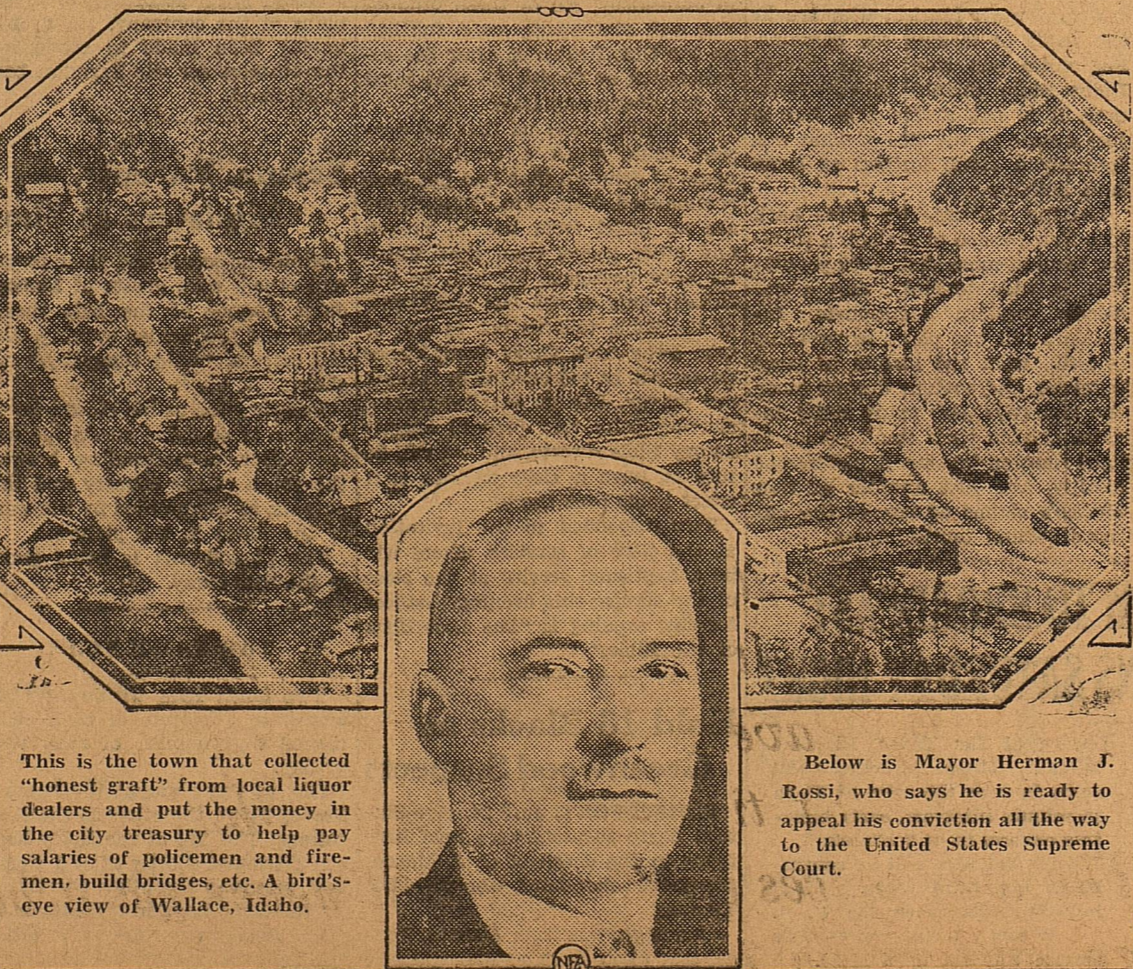

Trial was held in Coeur d'Alene City. No witnesses were presented by the defense. Defense attorneys stressed, in their cross-examining and their pleas, the angle that all the money so collected went to the city, not to individuals. The officials were used the means at hand for the community good, declared the attorneys.

The federal court jury convicted 31 of the conspiracy charge. Herrick and ex-chief Bailey were given 15 months in federal prison. Both left as soon as possible saying they were willing to take whatever punishment might be inflicted.

Mayor Rossi and Sheriff Weninger, also given 15 months each, have started appeals. Rossi declares he is ready to carry the first to the U. S. supreme court if necessary. Others were given jail terms and most of these are serving their sentences in the jails of the three Idaho counties.

When heavy sentences were meted out those convicted at Mullan, citizens of that town at once raised funds for relief of the convicted men's families. When heavy sentences were given Wallace officials, the Wallace Board of Trade and business men from adjoining towns called a mass meeting and adopted resolutions expressing sympathy for the convicted officials.

Out of this came the suggestion that Mrs. Herrick run for assessor and Mrs. Weninger for sheriff as a county-wide means of vindication for their husbands.

This is the town that collected "honest graft" from local liquor dealers and put the money in the city treasury to help pay salaries of policemen and firemen, build bridges, etc. A bird's-eye view of Wallace, Idaho.

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

Times Are Very Hard in the Fancy Costume Business Now—People Don't Seem to Be Going To Fancy Dress Balls or Parties the Way They Used to Do

WASHINGTON—The members of the National Costumers' Association came here for their annual convention saying that times were hard and business very bad in the fancy dress and costume line. Then they went down to get their photographs taken with President Hoover as if they hadn't said anything of the sort.

Some of the costumers recalled times when business was good. Why, they said, the last president was even willing enough to set an example to the country by exhibiting himself in a cowboy suit. But they didn't express themselves like that to Mr. Hoover.

"We are face to face with realities which cannot be lightly brushed aside," explained Major S. H. Harrelson of Kansas City, Mo., the founder and president emeritus of the association and a famous specialist in Indian and cowboy suits.

People Aren't Dressing Up "It's getting so that people are almost willing to paint their own E. V. D.'s and call it a costume. One of the best ways to combat hard times is to get yourself into a gorgeous costume and imagine that you are wealthy, powerful and romantic, but people don't seem to get the point. Psychology is a very important part of the costume business."

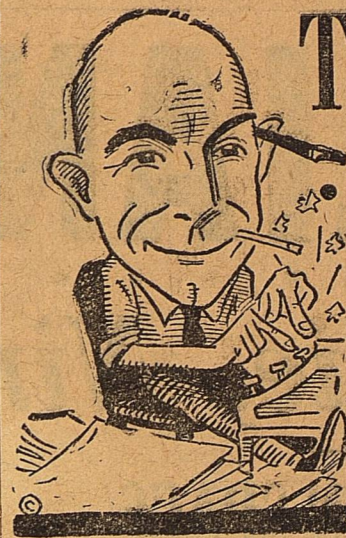

The National Costumers' Association is made up of manufacturers, sellers and renters of costumes, catering to professional and amateur theatricals as well as to people who want to go to balls and parties in other than ordinary pants and dresses. Its object is to make the country more costume-conscious, its standards of admission are high. Anybody who rents dress suits and dinner coats cannot get in unless he also has some fancy outfits hanging up in his shop.

Major Harrelson deplored the passing of the good old-fashioned masquerade ball, but expressed a belief that a country which had lived and thrived on masquerade balls for 75 years would not abandon them more than temporarily. Unfortunately, however, many city ordinances have been set up which forbid the wearing of masks. Bandits became too fond of dressing up and masking as a means of aiding their nefarious work.

The backbone of the industry today is the high schools of the nation with their dramatic efforts, most of which call for imported costumes. It would be just too bad if the industry could not depend on these and other amateurs because the stock companies have been disappearing rapidly since the talking movies came along.

The movies have been a great help, but the same, because the constant changes in costume styles for balls and parties have been in very large part inspired by what the heroes and heroines of the screen were wearing.

After "The Four Horsemen" was made into a movie there was an immense demand for gaucho or caballero costumes of the type worn by Rudolph Valentino and the industry

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

Now comes a letter from Dead Alive, who believes I should arrive at a climax in something that I write.

Let me say in the first place, that climaxes are dangerous things. My grandfather's life came to a climax when he died. Think of that! I read yesterday where two men brought an old feud to a climax and one received a steel jacket in his dome.

You can readily see that there is no necessity for me to give any more illustrations to prove that climaxes are very dangerous.

But old Dead Alive, as he styles himself, maintains that I should do something constructive for the city; or to be more specific, he asks why I can't chirp about something that is of importance.

He wants me to get out and widen the Bankhead highway from the city limits east to the city limits west and wants me to quit sending telegrams to President Hoover asking that the price of meat and grub be lowered.

My admonition to Dead Alive is that he had better quit arriving at climaxes and stick with the insurance business.

was never quite able to catch up with it. Today, years after the departure of the immortal Rudy, there is still a constant call for his costumes. Raymond Navarro and his Spanish things also created a staple item for the costumers.

It's the Scots' Turn Scotch costumes will be the next popular fad, according to Major Harrelson. People admire them and they are going to be pushed. The only things that will hold back the rapid advance of the Scotch costume are handicaps peculiar to the costumes themselves. They are very expensive when you go and buy 17 yards or so for a kilties, and the genuine sporans cost from $10 to $15.

Also, there is a popular delusion that no Scotchman is fully dressed unless he carries a bagpipe, and nobody wants to go dancing around with a girl and a bagpipe in his arms at the same time.

I have received a signed protest from the United Brotherhood of Loafers against my stand on vacations. One charge contained in the protest is that I may contaminate the minds of the powers that be with the idea of eliminating the yearly squandering of energy and money.

Come on, Brother Loafers, and make it a good one; but whatever you do, don't try any climaxes on me.

Three evils of the world are imperialism, radicalism and candidism. You can take your choice from among them.

I'll have to acknowledge receipt of the following from a trade magazine:

Lady: I want some gloves for my 10-year-old daughter, please.

Clerk: White kid?

Lady: Sir, how dare you!

Callouses Too

Out to stay out—solling like hot cakes is Great Britain and now in America—the pleasant, easy way to get rid of corns—a joyous, refreshing, invigorating foot bath for 3 or 4 nights and the lift out the corn—roots and all.

They call this miracle worker Radox and since it has been working wonders with the bad feet of the tight little Isles—plasters and acids, cutting and skin destroying liquid belong to the dark ages.

It's the modern way—the sensible way to take out corns—to abolish callouses—to dissolve the hard skin from heels and toes and to put your feet in good vigorous condition so that you can walk and run and jump and dance with ease and pleasure.

Just ask for a box of Radox at Mays-Young drug store or any modern drug store—you'll be delighted.

POWER PROJECTS ON RIO GRANDE ARE CONSIDERED

AUSTIN, July 24. (AP)—Departing from an established policy, the state water board will hold a public hearing here July 28 on presentations for permits on power projects along the Rio Grande.

Originally scheduled for the last week in June, the meeting was postponed to allow residents of the lower valley to prepare their cases.

As outlined by members of the water board, the hearing will take up the feasibility of the state's issuing permits on power projects, and the hearing was called because of the complexity of the subject.

The subject has not been gone into before because members of the board considered the time was not yet ripe. A year or more ago applications were filed for five power projects, all above the mouth of the Pecos river, and all were considered.

At that time a joint commission of the Mexican and American governments was in session concerning rights of the two nations over waters of the Rio Grande. Since then, however, the commission has not been so active, and development, especially on the Texas side of the river, has progressed to the point where both water and water power is needed imperatively.

Decision to open the subject in so far as the state's jurisdiction extends was reached principally because of this development, noteworthy in at least four sectors along the river.

Growth of the Lower Valley as a citrus and farming region, which has assumed nation-wide significance, was the first of these sectors. In this section of the state, concern is principally with making water available for irrigation purposes.

Since power companies in that region already can produce power with lignite and coal as cheaply or more cheaply than by water power, and since utilities operating there would find it to their advantage to build the section, it was presupposed that any water power project would include irrigation as one purpose.

Close behind the Lower Valley is the Winter Garden district between San Antonio and Laredo, one of the richest trucking areas in the nation and fast developing with a consequent demand for more power.

In Pecos county and vicinity, oil development has created a demand for power development; and still in the first stages of expansion is the mineral resources of the Big Bend sector.

The latter section, despite lack of power and transportation facilities, has made Texas second in the nation in the production of quicksilver, with the output of one mine. Across the river in Mexico is a particularly rich mine producing silver, lead, copper and zinc, which has been handicapped by lack of transportation and power. Ore from this mine has been trolleyed across the river, hauled overland to the nearest railroad, and shipped to Joplin, Mo., for smelting.

All these regions have progressed to the point where the two great factors in commerce are virtually essential for further expansion.

To build a dam across the river, the parties proposing the construction must first obtain the permission of the Mexican, United States, and Texas state governments. However, those proposing the projects first go to the state government, to obtain prior rights over the section of the river which they hope to convert into a power plant.

As well as the five projects filed for the Big Bend country, numerous others have come in since the meeting was first called, taking in the whole flow of the stream. The water board will have the task of sifting these applications, determining the most feasible portions of the stream for reservoirs, and the capability of the projects' backers to put their plans into effect.

One of the most beneficial results of dams along the river would be in controlling the flow of the stream, making an even flow throughout the year rather than low flow at one season and floods at another.

Stream control, the board members pointed out, is one of the pressing needs of agriculturists along the stream since their water supply is highly uncertain at some seasons of the year.

Now you can buy this stunning new Heavy Duty

GOODYEAR for only $12.00
(4.50-21 size)
(formerly 30 x 4.50)

The tire pictured is the handsome new Goodyear Heavy Duty in the 4.50-21 size (formerly 30 x 4.50)

The tire shown in this advertisement is right now one of the most attractive bargains ever offered a car-owner.

It is the new and nationally popular Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloon.

Sales are rolling up on this great tire in a volume never before equaled in the rubber business on a tire of super-standard quality.

One reason is the outstanding good looks and extraordinary merit of the tire; another reason is the amazingly low price at which it can now be sold.

The tire itself, as the name

Heavy Duty implies, is big, stout, massively proportioned, armored with an extra-thick and extra-safe All-Weather Tread—and around its sleek black sidewall runs a single identifying stripe of silver.

A striking feature is the way in which the outer rows of All-Weather blocks are prised down into the sidewalls, as fresh and smart a touch as anything in modern design. Goodyear builds this stunning new Heavy Duty for those who want to drive fast and far without worry, and who want extra immunity against punctures, blowouts, or tire troubles of any kind.

Because crude rubber is cheap this year, you can buy this special Goodyear in the size illustrated for only about a dollar more than you had to pay last year for an ordinary tire in the same size—and other sizes are priced in proportion.

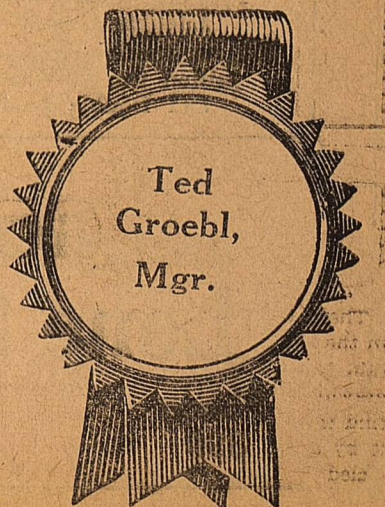

This is a real opportunity to make your tire money stretch its farthest, and keen buyers everywhere are cashing it in by changing over to Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloons.

Just look at the tire and you'll heed the suggestion: Now is the time to get yours!

Now is the

"I know all about this great new Heavy Duty, and I indorse every word Goodyear says about it. It's the best looking tire you ever saw, and my customers who have bought it tell me it's even better than it looks. Drop in the next time you're down this way. I have your size in stock. The way prices are now you'll never get a better chance to let your tire dollars do double duty."

Congress to Be Asked to Buy New Type All-Metal Dirigible

By NEA Service
 WASHINGTON, July 24.—When the next Congress convenes, it will have before it for consideration a bill calling for the construction of a 100-ton metal-clad dirigible that would be practically a flying arsenal for the U. S. Army.
 The dirigible, costing about $4,500,000, would be the next step toward huge metal-skin airships, as contrasted with fabric lined ships of the Zeppelin type, following successful trials of the MC-2, an experimental metal-clad ship built in Detroit for the army.

A sketch of the proposed new metal-clad dirigible which Congress will be asked to buy for the U. S. Army.

Aid Aerial Warfare
 According to provisions of the bill, which was introduced in the last session of Congress by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan and Representative Florence P. Kahn of California, its purpose would be merely to advance the art of metal ship construction and increase air transport facilities of the U. S. Army Air Corps. But army officials here admit that such a ship would also be designed to advance the art of aerial warfare.

These officials say that tentative designs call for the ship to carry a 77-millimeter gun in its equipment, 10 machine guns from 5,000 to 20,000 pounds of bombs and have room for two airplanes. During peace time, however, they look forward to its beneficial uses in various emergencies, such as flood relief work, aerial photography and land surveying, forest patrol and fire fighting, medical relief in isolated districts, bombing ice jams and exploration.

This metal-clad ship would have a gas volume of nearly 4,000,000 cubic feet, or slightly less than that of the great 6,500,000 cubic foot dirigible being built by Goodyear in Akron for the U. S. Navy. It would weigh more than 150,000 pounds and would have cabin capacity for 40, including crew.

Tentative design calls for four motors, of 1200 horsepower each but these may be changed before actual construction would be begun. These would give the ship a speed of 100 miles an hour with a useful load about equal to its weight.

Carl B. Fritsche, president of the Aircraft Development Corporation of Detroit, which built the MC-2, says such a ship of the 100-ton size could carry a military load of 40,000 pounds, besides crew, from Washington to Panama and back in 30 hours without a stop.

Might Be a Freighter
 It would save enormously in flood control work, both in money,

TARIFF RULES CAUSE SPANISH TRADE PROTEST

MADRID, July 24 (UP).—Although there is an insistent demand among various commercial and trade bodies that Spain abrogate its existing modus vivendi with the United States, there is little possibility of the present government taking such a step.

As soon as President Herbert Hoover signed the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Law, the government appointed a committee comprised of employees and experts of the Ministry of State and the Ministry of National Economy to consider the requests of Spanish business men.

The committee deemed that the modus vivendi should be abrogated, not only on account of the tariff which is particularly hard on Spanish products—especially manufactured work—but on account time and lives, he adds, and could also be a factor in the development of foreign trade when airships add their transport facilities to those of freighters.

The metal-clad ship differs from the Zeppelin type of dirigible in that it has no rigid framework and is covered with a thin sheet of non-porous and sturdy metal of the duralumin type, rather than a layer of fabric. Also, it has no gas bags, like the Zeppelins, in which the lifting gas is pumped for inflation and by means of which the ship is raised. Instead, the gas is contained within the metal skin.

To Wed Millionaire?

Rumors of a romance between William B. Leeds, Jr., heir to the millions of the "tinplate king," and Miss Olive Hamilton, 24, above, former hotel telephone operator at Atlantic City, N. J., have been renewed since the two have been seen together there recently. Leeds was divorced from his first wife, the former Princess Xenia of Greece, last February.

of the other restrictive measures which the United States has adopted, in connection with the so-called Mediterranean fruit fly, not to mention the loss of business which the 18th Amendment caused.

Now that the report has been made, however, there is little chance of anything being done about it. The Berenguer government is more and more showing a tendency to postpone the solution of such problems to the time when Spain shall return to Parliamentary government, and it would hardly care to risk the responsibility of denouncing the 1906 treaty, but would much prefer to have a government chosen by the nation to handle such an important question.

The clearest indication that nothing will be done for the time being, however, can be derived from the fact that during the last week of June the Duke of Alba, Minister of State, departed for a relatively long tour of France, England, and Switzerland, and upon his return to Spain he intends to remain in the summer resorts on the North Coast.

CYCLORAMA COMING

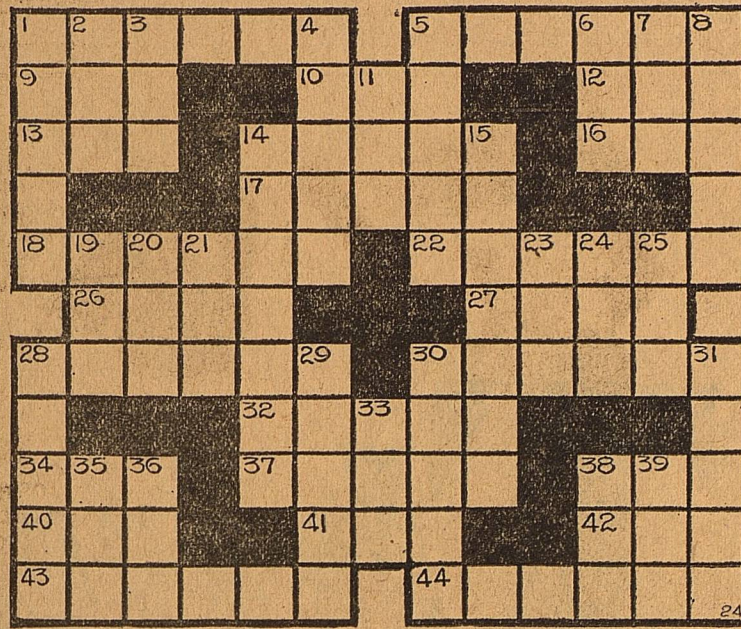

The famous Cyclorama of the Battle of Gettysburg will be offered visitors to the 1930 State Fair of Texas, it has been announced here by T. E. Jackson, president of the State Fair, who has recently contracted for this wonder picture.

The famous picture is 400 feet in circumference, 58 feet high, and occupies a building 130 feet in diameter and 65 feet high. The picture was painted by Paul Philippoteaux, a celebrated French painter, who, with sixteen other artists, worked for over two years on the cyclorama. The original cost of the picture was $120,000 and four tons of paint were used in the making.

The picture has never before been shown except at some National exposition, and the State Fair of Texas is probably the only State exposition which will ever have the privilege of showing the picture to its patrons. This will be the only place the picture will be shown until the Chicago World's fair in 1933.

Local United Confederate Veterans will play an important part in the showing of the picture at the State Fair, it has been announced. Work will be started immediately upon construction of the huge building in which the picture will be housed here. The building will be over 500 feet in circumference, 130 feet across and 65 feet high. This is as high as a five story building

Law Regulates Gold Thickness of Watch Cases

By WILLIAM H. BALDWIN Author of "The Shopping Book" Written for NEA Service

Formerly a manufacturer could stamp any gold-plated case "14 Karat Gold Filled" and the unsuspecting shopper would believe it.

Now, however, the Federal Trade Commission has made a ruling to the effect that all cases stamped "Gold Filled" must contain gold on the outside of a thickness of three one-thousandths of an inch.

Such cases, made by all reputable companies, are stamped "14 Karat Gold Filled" or "10 Karat Gold Filled" and have the manufacturer's name in them.

To get around this ruling, some manufacturers stamp cases with a much smaller gold content, "14 Karat Rolled Gold Plate" or just "Rolled Gold Plate." This generally means that the case has a very small gold content and in many instances is simply an electro-plated case and may wear only a few weeks or months.

Unfortunately some of the stores, in their eagerness to undersell their competitors, knowingly purchase these cases in order to bring the price down.

Local Housewives' Choice Recipes

How long can you keep cream puffs in the cabinet? Not long if you will use Mrs. J. M. Gimmore's recipe which has been tested by several who say it is one of the very best.

Cream Puffs

Paste—1 cup boiling water, 1-2 cup of butter, 1 cup of flour, 4 eggs. To mix, put butter and water in a sauce pan and heat to a boiling point, add flour all at the same time and beat vigorously. Cook until the mass is thick and smooth, and does not stick to the sides of the pan. Remove from the fire and let cool, then add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating each egg thoroughly until mixture is smooth. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased baking sheet, shape, pile the mixture slightly in the center. Bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven. If baked too quickly they will fall in the center when taken from the oven.

Creamed filling for puffs—one cup of sugar, 1-2 cup of flour, 1-8 teaspoon of salt, 2 cups of scalded milk, 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Mix the dry ingredients in a double boiler and add the liquid gradually. Cook for 14 minutes, add eggs slightly beaten and cook 2 minutes longer. Fill puffs with cream filling or whipped cream with a cherry in the center.

FRENCH WOMAN ATHLETE REFUSES TO WEAR SKIRTS; MAY LOSE HER RANK

PARIS, July 24.—(UP)—Violette Morris, France's famous sportswoman who was recently deprived of her athletic license by the feminine federation who disapproved of her trousers, close-cropped head, flat chest and action in general denies that she will never wear skirts to regain the license.

"They reported that I had gone back to skirts," she told the United Press when visited in her garage in Paris, "but you see I haven't." She pulled back her linen ulster and disclosed a blue serge suit and heavy cord shoes like a man wears.

"I am sorry to have lost the license, because now I can't play football, but I shall probably receive it again. The president of the Feminine Federation who started all this trouble has been put out of the society too. So we shall see."

Many people thought that Violette had lost her automobile license, as well and would be deprived of the right to race, but she still has that privilege and recently entered a contest where only other participants were men, coming out fifth.

In 1927 this woman made Paris auto followers sit up and take notice by winning the Bol d'Or event, being the only woman entered.

Today she sells auto accessories when not racing or participating in men's sports. A man came into the shop while she was being interviewed, "Ah, my old one," she addressed him after the manner of French workmen to one another, "you won't be able to buy a better patch than that and I'll throw in two tool boxes if I'm wrong."

Violette's hands, while not as large as most men's are covered with heavy rings—the sort a boy wears. She holds a cigarette between her lips while she talks and works, and she was her assistant, Mademoiselle Margot Patouillet, the champion high-jumper of France, on the back as one man would slap another.

Here's the Very Thing For Lindy, Junior!

When Lindy and Anne go flying with little Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr. this "aerial cradle," presented to them by Mrs. Violet A. Peeler, above, of Los Angeles, will be the very thing, Mrs. Peeler, mother of several children and aviation enthusiast, made the "cradle" of baby blue silk and lightweight metal for America's most famous air-minded baby.

CHAMP BAPTIZER

GREENWOOD, S. C.—Rev. James F. Marshall, Negro Baptist minister of McCormick, can claim some sort of record for baptizing. During his long service as minister, he has baptized more than 7000 persons, married 800 couples and officiated at more than 600 funerals. He is 70.

EATING WHALE MEAT

TOKIO.—Japanese poor, unable to buy beef or pork on the markets, are living on a diet of fish. Most of this is canned whale meat packed this summer at several Alaska canneries. These people eat hearts, livers and tongue of the whales as well as the tails. These portions are heavily salted and stored in casks.

MOTHER TELLS HOW KONJOLA RELIEVED SON

New Medicine Earns Lasting Gratitude Of Ft. Worth Mother; Makes Real Record.

VERDILL COWAN

What fine news this is for those mothers who are worrying over the ill health of a beloved son or daughter. Read what Konjola did for Verdill Cowan, 7, of 614 West Second street, Fort Worth, Texas. His mother, Mrs. B. M. Cowan, says: "Konjola restored my health, and now I want to tell what this splendid medicine did for my son. He was always tired and under weight. His appetite was so poor that sometimes he went all day with no nourishment other than a glass of milk. I was greatly worried over his condition. But Konjola proved to be the very medicine and tonic he needed. In three weeks a remarkable change came over him. He is not tired; eats three meals a day and is gaining in weight and strength. He looks better than he ever did. I surely recommend Konjola to every mother who has an ailing child."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such ingredients its seeming wonders to perform.

Konjola is sold in Midland at Mayes-Young drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Mexican Inspection While Trains Run

LAREDO, Tex.—(AP)—President Pascual Ortiz of Mexico is determined not to be outdone by the United States in showing courtesies and providing conveniences for travelers between the United States and Mexico over the international border and will emulate the example set by the United States immigration, customs and public health officials in inspecting baggage of passengers long after crossing the boundary line into the Mexican republic.

Since January the United States immigration, public health and customs services, in order not to inconvenience passengers from Mexico on the train that arrives in Laredo each morning at 3:20 o'clock, put the inspectors on the train to make the regulation inspection of both passengers and baggage between Laredo and San Antonio. Instead of holding the train at the border here for inspection.

Effective July 20, by orders of President Rudio of Mexico, the Mexican customs officials, who inspect passengers and baggage on the Mexico side of the boundary line, were instructed to make inspections between Nuevo Laredo and Saltillo in order to facilitate the passage of American tourists and others.

CHICAGO.—When the National Metal Congress convenes here the week of September 22 for its 12th annual meeting, R. F. Mehl will explain the photographs he has taken with radium rays through a ten-inch steel block.

X-rays can penetrate only four inches of solid steel, but the radium rays have detected flaws in steel more than twice that depth.

Mehl is superintendent of the division of physical metallurgy at the Naval Research Laboratories in Washington.

Over 15,000 executives and metallurgists are expected to attend the congress.

Carolina Woman Lost 47 Lbs.

In 3 Months and Feels Years Younger

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds. Was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it." Mrs. S. A. Solomon, New Bern, N. C., Jan., 1930. "P. S. You may think I am exaggerating by writing such a long letter but truly I feel so indebted to you for putting our such wonderful salts that I cannot enough."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at Mayes-Young drug store and druggists the world over. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—walk a little each day. Do not overeat.

Lea County, New Mexico, oil taxes are expected to support schools in the oil districts. The state tax commission placed an emergency allowance of $150,000 for the Hobbs school district on the budget of Lea county contingent on taxes for the county. A big sum of $27,000 for a new brick school building at Hobbs has been accepted, and the building is expected to be ready for the children of the hundreds of oil men in the Hobbs area by September.

PECOS GAS IN ALPINE

The city of Alpine will be supplied with natural gas from the Pecos county field next fall. Contract was signed by Mayor George W. Baines for Alpine, with A. T. Woods, representing eastern capitalists, and a $5,000 bond has been posted by Woods. Work on the line is due to be in full swing within a few days. The gas will come from Pecos wells located near the Brewster county line.

Slum Section Destroyed

Meantime, attempts to reach the surrounding territory were futile as all telephone and telegraph lines were down. Virtually every building in the slum section of Naples was cracked and many collapsed. The so-called Casanova bridge here was broken and the seismographical instrument in the Vesuvian observatory was put out of order.

Populace Frenzied

Never in all Neapolitan history had this classic city experienced such stark mad fright. A frenzied populace raced through the streets apparently headed nowhere. Last night the work of rescue proceeded as rapidly as the means available would permit. Wrecked bridges, snapped communication wires and many other obstacles had been tossed in the path of the relief workers by the upheaval of nature. The highways of the area are notoriously undeveloped and rail lines passed through many gorges into which the quake had tumbled avalanches.

All Italy Stunned

The quake stunned all Italy. It was the worst earthshock since Messina was all but obliterated in 1908. The first tremor came an hour after midnight. Its own awful nature was supplemented by a tremendous electrical storm over virtually the whole affected area. The intense area extended from the Tyrrhen Sea to the Adriatic but the coast settlements suffered less in proportion than the mountain population. Naples experienced several hours of panic with many houses ruined and scores of casualties. Among this city's victims was regular size tire. Early this year Goodyear finished the largest airship dock in the world—in fact the largest building without interior supports. It is now constructing for the United States Navy two of the largest airships in the world, being nearly twice the size of the Graf Zeppelin and about three times the size of the Los Angeles. It was necessary to construct around this largest casing a special vulcanizer to cure the rubber. Otherwise the giant pneumatic was built under normal operations. Will there ever be occasion for the use of a tire the size of the giant to be seen in this city today? A prominent manufacturer of airplanes, when he saw the tire on exhibition in his city, stated that the day was coming when huge airplanes would require tires of just such dimensions. Goodyear originally planned to construct the giant tire even larger, but the engineers in charge of the work were restricted in their program by the fact that some of the bridges over which this tire would pass on its tours of America, Canada, Mexico and Cuba, have a clearance of only twelve feet. The tire is mounted as a trailer to a bus of special design and has a load carrying capacity of approximately 50,000 pounds. Three months time was required in building it.

BOILER SAFETY INVOKED

Hazard from boiler explosions and fire in the eastern New Mexico oil fields has increased so much that state interference in forcing drillers to operate their boilers according to law, has been invoked. Mayor Levi Harris of Hobbs, and a county commissioner have called on Governor R. C. Dillion to aid them in forcing compliance with the law. Boiler inspection is asked.
