CHALLENGE COMMISSION'S RIGHT TO CUT OIL PRODUCTION

NEFF SAYS NEED COURT DECISION

Laredo Oil Man Says Price Cutting Is Only Remedy

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (AP)—Oil representatives at the state railroad commission hearing here today challenged the right of the commission to restrict oil production, placing the state on a 737,000 barrel basis for 90 days.

Pat M. Neff, commission chairman, declared that if it is true that the commission lacked the power, "we ought to know it and everybody else ought to know it. We ought to seek a court ruling or decide for ourselves how far we can go under the law."

Protest statements were filed. O. K. Williams, of Laredo, said the only remedy was price cutting, saying, "the sooner we have a price cut, the sooner we will get back to normal."

CHANGES POSSIBLE IN TEXAS SENATE, SHOWN BY FIGURES

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (AP)—Several changes in the state senate are now possible, three assured by retirement of old officers, two indicated by near defeat of incumbents in the first primary and one by the possible retirement of a member to take another office.

Senator Eugene Miller of Weatherford entered the second primary against H. Grady Woodruff of DeCatur by a narrow margin. Woodruff lacked less than 900 votes of winning in the first primary over both Miller and True Strong.

Senator Julien Hyer of Fort Worth, 1928 Hoover Democrat, made the second primary by the margin of 100 votes. He will run against Frank Rawlings who nearly won the nomination over Hyer and another candidate in the first campaign.

Should Senator Edgar E. Witt of Waco win the nomination for lieutenant governor over Sterling P. Strong, Dallas, and be elected, it would necessitate a special election in the Waco district.

Senators W. D. McFarlane of Graham, A. J. Wirtz of Seguin and Thomas B. Love retired from the senate this year. McFarlane and Love both were defeated in other political races, McFarlane having sought the congressional nomination and Love the gubernatorial nomination.

Senator Nat Patton of Crockett, who was a successful candidate for the nomination for railroad commissioner, will return to the senate for another two years as will Senator John W. Hornsby of Austin who was defeated for the congressional nomination from the 10th district by James P. Buchanan.

In the district formerly represented by McFarlane, Ben G. O'Neal of Wichita Falls and former Representative Rube Lottin, Henrietta, are in the runoff. In Senator Wirtz's district, Representative W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales has been given the democratic nomination and Representative Reno Elckenrodt of Seguin, only republican member of the legislature, is the G. O. P. nominee. The district is reported to be about evenly divided between the two parties, having in the past elected both a republican congressman and a republican state representative.

George Purl has received the nomination to succeed Love as the senator from Dallas.

Roumanian Royalty Reunited

MOB LYNCHES 2 NEGROES AFTER MURDER, ATTACK

MARION, Ind., Aug. 8. (UP)—The swaying bodies of two negroes, Thomas Shipp and Abe Smith, lynched by a mob which stormed the Grant county jail last night, were cut down by Sheriff Jacob Campbell as several hundred members of the mob looked quietly on.

A remnant still milled about the lawn after daylight, their vengeance satisfied for the murder of Claude Deeter, white man, and the attack upon his 18 year old girl companion.

"Tree Sitters" Is Sermon Subject

The Rev. Howard Peters will address his morning crowd Sunday on a rather modernistic subject, "Tree Sitters."

While the minister has been rather taciturn about how he intends developing his subject matter, he told a reporter that he might speak of other fads in connection.

Will he favor tree sitting? And where will he draw the line of demarcation between a "fad" and one of the "passive sins?" That is what everyone is trying to find out, but the minister refers them to the pews of his church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock as the place for working out a solution.

CARS COLLIDE An automobile driven by A. W. Thomas was struck by a light roadster driven by a negro, during the rain that fell Thursday afternoon. Damage was slight to either car. The accident happened on West Texas Street, near the Petroleum building.

WILLING TO GET DEATH FOR MURDER

Details Of Bombing Contained In 73-Page Confession

STINNETT, Aug. 8. (AP)—A. D. Payne, Amarillo attorney who confessed placing the dynamite that blasted his wife to death, today acknowledged the sordid statement with his signature.

He expressed but one regret, that the blast which killed his wife and maimed A. D. Junior had not killed the boy who does not believe his father guilty of such a dastardly crime.

Payne said he felt little relief from his confession. "I feel just like I did when I was planning this," he said.

The confession occupied 73 pages, and told of several previous attempts on Mrs. Payne's life. According to officers who had read the statement, the attorney related that he first tried unsuccessfully to poison his wife, then tried asphyxiation, drowning, shooting and at last, the dynamite charge planted beneath the driver's seat in their automobile.

Describes Killing Payne, according to officers, described in detail how he prepared the fatal dynamite charge, declaring that he had tried several days earlier to work the scheme but failed.

He said he used three sticks of dynamite, which he had carried in his car for a week, hidden in a sack of grain.

A fuse about three feet long was attached, according to the officers' report of his statement, and was placed over an improvised alcohol lamp. The fuse was kept away from the flame by a rubber band held taut by a string tied to a pickaxe lying on the garage floor.

He lighted the lamp before leaving home to walk to town, on June 27, according to the officers' account of his statement, and when the car was started by Mrs. Payne, the string broke, allowing the dynamite fuse to come into contact with the alcohol lamp's flame. The fuse led to three sticks of dynamite hidden in the sack of grain in the rear compartment of the coupe.

Looks to Chair

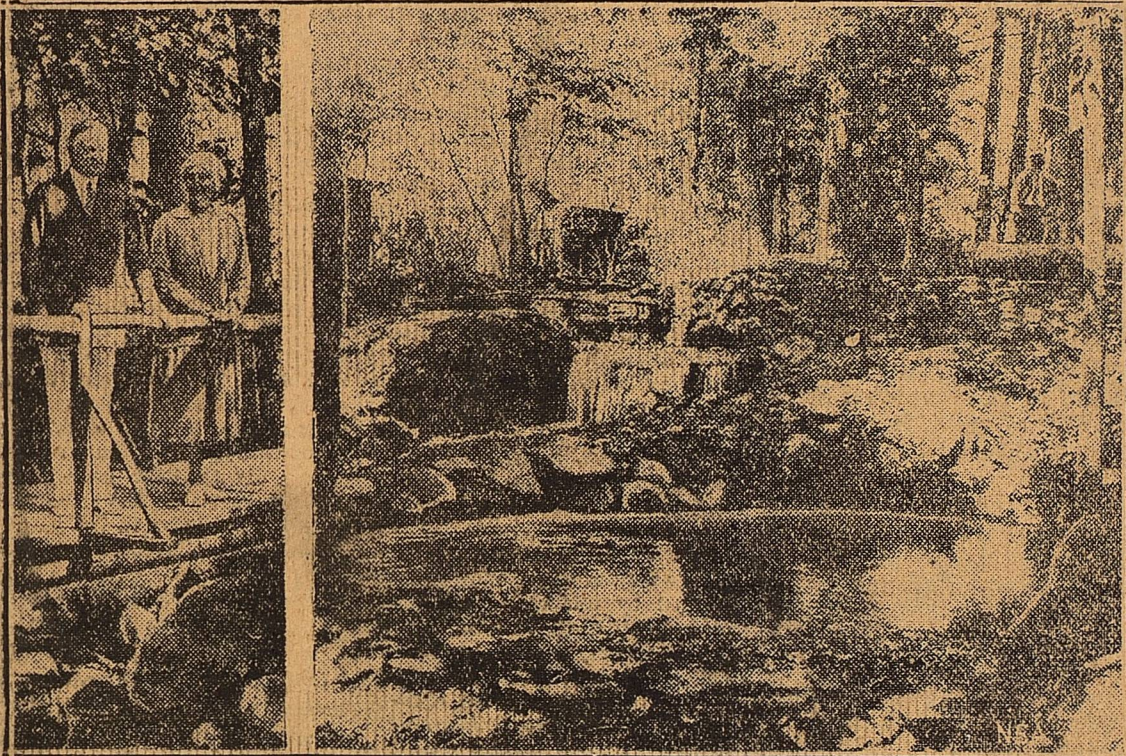

STINNETT Aug. 8. (UP)—A. D. Payne looked resignedly toward death in the electric chair today to his release from the hopeless tangle which ended in bombing his wife to death.

Payne probably will be arraigned Monday, but the time and place have not been definitely set.

Payne said it was his fifth attempt to kill his wife. "I thought it more humane to kill her than for her to find out the way I had been living. If she were alive today, I would try again to kill her. My only regret is that my son was not killed too," Payne's confession said.

He said he is willing and anxious to get the death penalty.

No Political Worries Harass Hoover Here

No wonder President and Mrs. Hoover spend almost every week-end at their mountain camp at Rapidan, Va., away from the wearisome cares of office. For who could resist a babbling brook and shady nooks like these? The president and first lady are shown at the left admiring the beauty of the falls of the Rapidan river, a general view of which is shown at the right. Note the rustic simplicity of the retreat, a far cry from the busy activity of the White House.

ARIZONA WASHOUT CAUSES DEATHS OF TWO TRAINMEN

WINSLOW, Arizona, Aug. 8. (UP)—Engineer R. E. Bixby and Fireman M. E. Burnye were killed last night as a Santa Fe passenger train hit a washout at a bridge over the Little Colorado river near Joseph City. There were no other casualties.

New Warden Has Notable Record

GREENVILLE, Aug. 8. (AP)—Walter W. Waid of Greenville, new warden of the Texas penitentiary at Huntsville, has made good both as a peace officer and business man.

Waid's first touch of adventure and excitement came early in life when as a lad he stood beside a chuck wagon in the Oklahoma Indian territory and watched a runner in the newly opened Cherokee strip. His father participated in this run and claimed land upon which the family settled near Enid and lived for five years.

In the fourteen years that Waid has served as a peace officer he has drawn his gun but a few times and has been forced to use it but once. On that occasion, he shot and wounded a negro. "I didn't shoot to kill and the negro completely recovered," Waid said. As city marshal he had placed a negro youth under arrest. The boy's father interfered by drawing a gun. Waid promptly shot him, first in one arm and again in the other as he attempted to retrieve the gun with his free hand.

Only once has a prisoner escaped from Waid. That was during his tenure as sheriff when he had arrested a negro for disposing of mortgaged property. The black was considered gentle rather than mean; Waid did not even handcuff him, but he lost him when he made an excuse to go to the rear of the train on which they were riding and jumped to the ground. Six months later, the sheriff caught him in a far corner of Oklahoma.

It was not by "six-gun" and flying bullets that Waid made his record. Before he entered public life he had equipped himself with a business knowledge that helped him when he entered upon his duties as sheriff.

Kind, yet firm, Waid commanded the respect of prisoners in the Hunt county jail. He was popular with its inmates, as exemplified by 40 prisoners signing a petition urging his election to a second term.

Can You Supply This Information?

Who remembers when Texas rangers were established in Midland county in 1879 or 1889? Who was the captain or some other officer of the group, and what company, or companies, was here?

Old timers of this district have a chance to aid an old man who is trying to establish his right to pension under the act of 1927.

The man, who is 78 or 79 years old, says he enlisted in the ranger troop here in the spring, March, of 1879. But he has lost his discharge papers and has no proof of his having been in the service except that one of his old friends has made affidavit that he was in the service in 1880 and went to Hays county on furlough.

Search has been made in the records of the adjutant general's office for the man's name, but it has not been found.

Mrs. Minnie E. Clark has written The Reporter-Telegram, asking that the newspaper aid in the effort to identify the old man as having joined the rangers here. "As the old man is almost infirm, the pension would be a God-send," she said.

While the name of the man was not given in the letter, the search for his name on the records in the adjutant general's office might be facilitated if old timers will write this newspaper, giving the information mentioned.

Continental Oil Officials Coming

Several officials of the Continental Oil company were expected to land in a trimotored plane at the airport this afternoon at 3.

While the number of officials was not given in a dispatch to the airport, it was learned that Dan Moran, president of the company, and Vice-President Nicholas were heading the party.

St. Louis Pilots Enter Home Stretch

ST. LOUIS, August 8. (UP)—Forest O'Brine and Dale Jackson piloted the endurance monoplane "Great-er St. Louis" into the home stretch today in an attempt to set a sustained flight record.

With but five and a half days remaining between them and the record, the former holders of the record, the fuel tank passed the 431st hour at 6:11 a. m.

TAKES LIFE OF NEGRO PROTECTED FROM MOB ATTACK

HUNTSVILLE, August 8. (UP)—Texas today took the life of a negro whom it protected with every law agency when he was threatened with mob violence.

Rainey Williams, convicted of assaulting a negro woman and who admitted attacking eight white women, was executed in the electric chair shortly after midnight. He was saved twice from mobs attacking the jails at Port Arthur and Beaumont.

World War Ace Lands at Airport

Major Brereton, World war ace, Lieut. Halloman and two passengers landed at Sloan field this morning in two army O-19-B's. They were from Lawton, Okla., and refueled for continuing flight to Ft. Bliss, El Paso.

The planes landed at 9:35 and took off at 10:30.

Jackson Shoots a 31 at Cloudfroft

C. L. Jackson, missed by the Midland contingent in a golf match Sunday with Big Spring, was not missing putts and approaches that day.

Jackson was at Cloudfroft, N. M., and he shot a 31, three under par, on the "highest course in the world."

The fairways of this picturesque course wind through avenues of gigantic pine trees. It is one of the most beautiful in the world.

Official Census Totals Announced

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (UP)—The census bureau today announced the population of the continental United States as 122,698,190, an increase of 16,987,570, or 16.1 per cent.

The Texas population was announced as 5,821,000, an increase of 1,158,054, or 24.8 per cent.

ESTIMATE MORE THEN EXPECTED

Government Predicts 14,362,000 Bales For 1930 Crop

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (AP)—The department of agriculture today forecast a cotton crop of 14,362,000 bales, of 500 pounds gross weight, on the crop condition of August 1 which was 62.2 per cent normal.

The August 1 condition indicated a per acre yield of 155.3 pounds, compared with 155 pounds last year. The indicated production is calculated on the basis of July 1.

The area cultivated is less than the ten year average, or 44,252,000 acres.

The Texas acreage is 16,835,000, and the condition is 61 per cent. Indicated production is 4,496,000 bales.

Price Takes Fall

NEW YORK, Aug. 8. (AP)—Cotton futures declined from $2 to $3 a bale here today after reading of the government report which was 300,000 bales higher than was expected.

Drops At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 8. (AP)—Cotton dropped from $2 to $2.50 a bale here today after the crop report was published, despite figures showing a decrease of nearly a half million bales from last year.

Ginnings Are Reported

WASHINGTON, August 8. (AP)—Cotton ginner prior to August 1 was announced today by the census bureau as 77,956 running bales, counting round bales as halves, compared with 86,974 the same date last year.

Sunshine Follows Rain Clouds Here

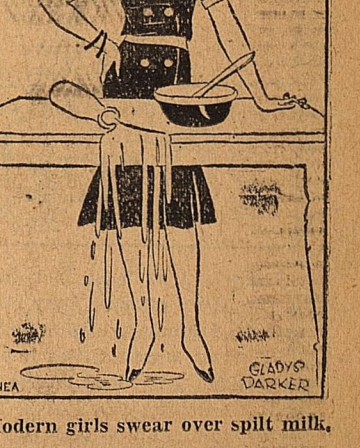

Only a few drifting cumulus clouds remained by the middle of the morning as a reminder of rains that precipitated a total of 3.69 inches here during the past three days.

Weather forecasts seemed to indicate more rainfall in West Texas, with probable showers on Saturday. The forecasts predicted clouded skies tonight.

Sunny skies throughout the whole surrounding area were reported by noon. Farmers will soon be back in fields green with moisture and the ranges are cropping out with new grass.

The rains Thursday afternoon after 6 o'clock and this morning about the same hour measured .03 inches. That for Wednesday was 2 inches and Thursday 1.86 inches.

ADJUSTING THE MEAT PRICES

The American National Livestock association, in session at Denver, passed resolutions requesting all cattle organizations to urge newspapers to conduct campaigns to cut retail prices of meat.

Now any newspaper in the cattle area, with a desire to see the producer get a fair return for his cattle and to see the public get meat at reasonable prices, would want to cooperate in any movement to stabilize the industry.

However, the livestock association, in asking the newspapers to conduct such campaign, forgets the methods used by the prune growers, the orange growers, the pineapple growers, the tomato growers, and producers of other commodities which have become table necessities.

These producers don't ask any odds. They don't ask the newspapers to carry on their battles. They have a fund which has been expended in newspaper, magazine and other recognized forms of advertising, educating the public appetite to want their product.

Meat producers, meat wholesalers and retailers, and all connected with the meat industry should do the same thing. It has been said that no one is more independent than the cattleman. If that is so, why does the cattle association ask someone else to fight his battles?

The Reporter-Telegram will fight to the last ditch for the cattleman. The cattleman made West Texas, just as he did the majority of the western and middle western states, but the resolution adopted by the American National Livestock association, unless it contemplates direct action by the producer and marketer of meat, is weak and is a reflection upon the business ability of the livestock association.

The law of supply and demand is the only real, sound gauge of market prices. Then why shouldn't the demand be increased steadily, year by year, so that people will demand more meat for their tables? Advertising and extension work will do the job.

It's true that the retail price of meat has reduced the demand materially. Efforts to reduce the cost of meat cutting, and to get meat to the table without such a spread between the producer's total receipt for beef and the price paid by the consumer, are commendable. This paper is in favor of any reasonable measure which would benefit the greater number of people. But in the meantime, cattle organizations should be educating the appetites for meat.

MARATHON DANCERS

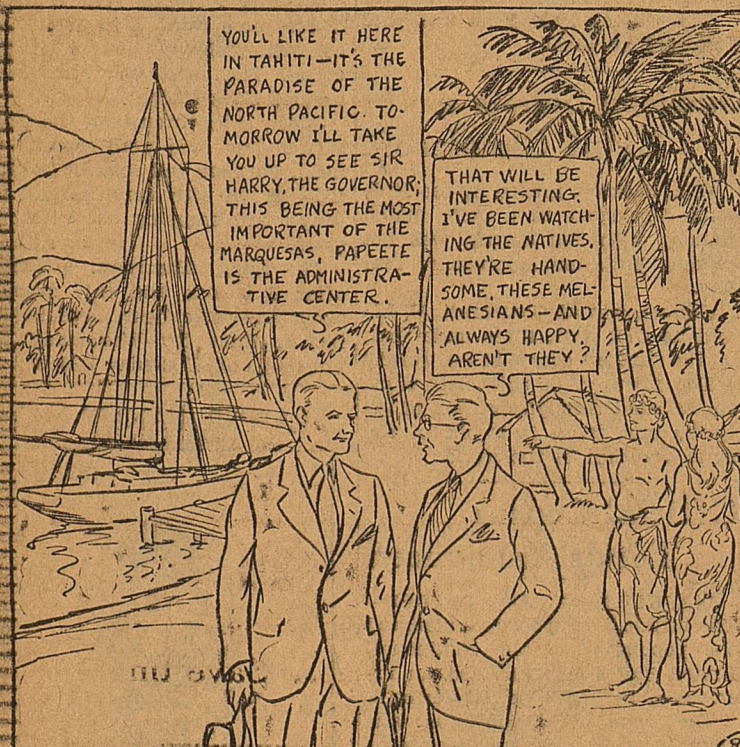

A lot of people have wanted to dance their way through life. In Chicago, as this is written, seven people seem to be doing it. And they are finding that it isn't nearly so idyllic as it sounds. In fact, laying a few bricks, washing a few dishes, typing a letter or two would be a pleasant change.

An April 11, when the dance started, 100 couples entered. The Maine Stein song has lived, but all four men and three girls have left the dance floor. Seven followers of the light fantastic are continuing to see now what movements they can make to the harmonies which the talkies and Tin Pan Alley continue to turn out. Maybe the dancers high for the good old "three o'clock in the morning" when they used to feel so proud of themselves for dancing the whole night through. Then, at least, they could sleep until seven. Now they have just five minutes out of every 60 in which to rest.

There is a money prize to be awarded some day to someone, after the ball is over. When that will be nobody knows.

But there is one nice thing about marathons, anyway. They prove that people can get too much of anything—even dancing.

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

Those Who Enforce Prohibition Are Becoming More Tolerant, but They Won't Dare Recommend Any Change Until the Wets Show a Whole Lot More Strength at Election Time

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Possibly you've noticed the increasingly tolerant attitude reflected recently by those persons officially and unofficially connected with the enforcement of prohibition.

The fact that this is an election year may have something to do with it. The belligerency of the wets in recent months, too. Probably the leaders of the dry side feel that some small concessions ought to be made as a matter of strategy.

That various government officials are rather bored with the idea of trying to enforce a law that millions of persons insist on breaking is fairly obvious. Equally obvious is the fact that they won't dare recommend any change until wet voters show enough strength to enable them to do so with comparative safety, which is likely to be a long time. It is hard to tell whether the wet voters are going to make any particular impression in the fall elections, but meanwhile they have the satisfaction of believing that a few little things are being done to appease them.

Defend Personal Rights. Take, for instance, the recent declaration of leaders of various dry organizations for the sanctity of the home. Representatives of the Anti-Saloon League, the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition, and Public Morals, the W. C. T. U. and the Committee of One Thousand issued a manifesto which drew a distinct line between the business of drinking in one's own kitchen and actually trafficking in booze. The drys have so often scolded the "personal liberty" argument of the wets that, although they are still very far from accepting that argument, it is no less than surprising to hear them say:

"We specifically repudiate all enforcement policies that do not regard and safeguard every personal right. Personal habits and the conduct of the home are in the field of private morals. These should not be touched by the hand of the law unless they cross their boundaries and then only by due process of law. . . . The primary attack is on the traffic of intoxicating liquors."

At the same time develops what appears to be a tendency on the part of the administration to loosen the ties which have bound it these many years to the Anti-Saloon League. Not that the administration is planning to kick the dry leaders in the pants or even to give them a polite shove. But it has become painfully plain that the Republican party isn't as dry as it thought it was, what with New Jersey, New York and Washington among other states, so the administration is virtually forced to play its own game instead of the league's. At present this game seems to be a balancing act with no immediate hope that the performer will be allowed to take a rest.

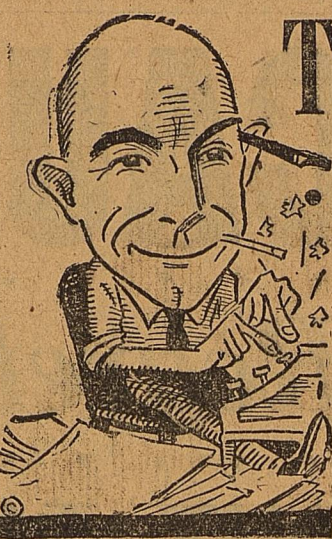

Hoover Bored. President Hoover's boredom with prohibition has been indicated by his desire to keep it off the front pages of the newspapers through avoidance of the spectacular. His desire will be carried out by the Department of Justice. The new policy provides for fewer killings, fewer night club raids, less attention to the small bootlegger with his pints and quarts and elimination of court congestion now caused by many petty prohibition cases. The object will be to "reduce the supply of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes" by going after the wholesale manufacturers and distributors. This program has the ring of familiarity—but it always sounds sensible and serves to appease the wrath of the wets while promising the drys some constructive achievement.

The drys will be restrained from hollering that the administration doesn't mean business because Prohibition Director Amos Woodcock is going to ask Congress for 500 additional agents to put over his program. Meanwhile, the country may well await with interest the next blast from Chairman George Wickersham of the crime commission. Wickersham has been the champion teetotaler in the administration's aforementioned balancing act. First he wrote to Governor Roosevelt the possibility of modification. Then he announced that prohibition was as well enforced as any other law. The last time he spoke he dwelt reflectively on British success in reducing consumption of alcohol without prohibition. Nobody knows what George will say next time, but hardly anyone expects him to say it without previous consultation with President Hoover.

DOG CATCHES "FISH"

LONGMONT, Colo. (UP)—C. R. Reynolds threw his dog into the water to cool the animal off on a hot afternoon. Reynolds was somewhat surprised when the dog emerged from the water with a 21-inch rainbow trout clinging to its tail.

"It is as important for the purpose of thought to keep language efficient as it is in surgery to keep tetanus bacilli out of one's bandages."—Ezra Pound.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

Funny thing about rain. You'd think everybody in the country would profit by it from the time of the first sprinkle. But you ought to see these Peewee golf courses. The cotton seed buckled up, water stood in the fairways, the cups turned wrong side out, pumps were called into action, but before all the water could be taken out, here came another rain. Golf shooting is paralyzed, even for Claude Duffie and Bill McKinley who were the last to give up when the rain started Wednesday morning.

Farmers had no more had occasion to stop worrying about the drouth than the leaf worm menace was mentioned. That's as bad as Top Herd's reported statement that the horn flies would be bad after the cattle now that we've had a rain. If it isn't one thing it's another, but I'll bet the average farmer or ranchman either would rather be doctoring worms than suffering from a drouth. Four inches of rain is better than four feet of hard, dry ground, any season in the year.

Col. Lindbergh to Make Radio Talk

Colonel Lindbergh's address on international aviation from WABC, Columbia key station in New York, today will be broadcast by 165 stations covering the entire United States, Canada and Great Britain. This is the largest number of stations ever operated on one hookup from a single key station. They are distributed as follows:

Columbia Broadcasting system, 74; National Broadcasting company—red network—70; National Broadcasting company—blue network—70; British Broadcasting corporation, 21.

This does not take into account short-wave stations in all parts of the world which will pick up the broadcast from W2XE, KDAKA and W3XAU.

The potential audience is estimated at between 75,000,000 and 100,000,000 persons. Station in Sweden and probably other European nations will take the broadcast from London. Heretofore world broadcasts such as the opening of the London Naval parley by King George last January 21, have been heard by as many persons, but they have been sent out by separate chains. Lindbergh's fifteen-minute talk will be relayed from the Columbia studios to stations on the Columbia network and by special arrangement to the stations on the National Broadcasting company's red and blue network as well by direct telephone connection with WABC.

This unusual arrangement was made at the request of Colonel Lindbergh, who desired that his recommendations for world aviation accord reach the largest possible audience. For the same reason, he is making the speech twice; his first address from WABC will take place at 4:25 p. m., E. D. S. T., August 8 and be carried by the A. T. & T. Telephone system to Europe, being heard in London at 9:25 to 9:40 p. m. The same address will be repeated at 11 o'clock in the evening.

ARLEN, HOLT AND WRAY HEAD CAST AT RITZ

Zane Grey's thrilling, romantic West is brought vividly to the all-talking screen in Paramount's latest gripping drama of the outdoors, "The Border Legion," which will show at the Ritz theatre, starting today for two days. Richard Arlen is the hero of the story; Fay Wray is the heroine and Jack Holt, that beloved portrayer of Zane Grey Western roles, is his own swaggering, handsome self as the leader of the daring robber band.

Arlen has the role of Jim Cleve, a young cowboy who, through the operation of frontier justice, is forced to become a member of Jack Holt's ruthless group of desperadoes. Arlen is making a new name for himself in these popular roles. As the hero of "The Light of Western Stars" and the pathetic Steve of "The Virginian," Arlen gave his best characterizations on the screen. In "The Border Legion," he has a stronger role. Holt, star of "Submarine," "Fight" and a number of other recent all-talking productions, won much of his screen fame in Zane Grey roles. Of the twenty-four Zane Grey stories filmed by Paramount, Holt played roles in eleven. He has a villain part in "The Border Legion," but he is a swaggering, masterful villain who wins audience sympathy. It is reported to be one of his finest characterizations.

Fay Wray has the only important woman role in the story. The plot, set in the riotous gold-rush days in California, is a man-plot, a story of virile and stirring action, into which Miss Wray introduces a glowing touch of love and romance. This romantic theme, cast against the glamorous background of primitive men, is emphasized with colorful tenderness.

Rag Rugs Are "Like Mother Used to Make"

By WILLIAM H. BALDWIN
Author of "The Shopping Book"

Hooked and rag rugs have long been made in the homes of country people in various parts of the United States, mostly in New England. Because of their vogue as scatter-rugs in bedrooms and bathrooms, factories have been established for their production in quantity. It is no longer possible, therefore, to picture some dear old New England mother as the maker of the rag or hooked rugs that you see in the stores.

Rag rugs are made of cords of twisted rags bound together by cotton thread. The rags are of cotton or silk. The most common size now on the market is 27x54 inches, although they can be had 9 feet wide and any length.

Hooked rugs were originally made of rags but now they are also made of heavy woolen yarns. Where they are made of rags, they are either cotton or wool. The process of manufacture is to hook the material into a coarse burlap base. The old hooked rugs vary greatly in size and shape, but the most common size in the present output is 27x54 inches.

TOMORROW: Neck ties.

Danish Queen Greet Americans

This picture of Mrs. Ralph Booth, wife of the United States minister to Denmark, and their daughter, Miss Virginia Booth, was taken in Copenhagen recently when they were received by Queen Alexandrine at the royal castle. The Booth family has taken a summer residence outside Copenhagen on an estate called "Haraldsgrave." Mr. Booth is the publisher of a number of Michigan newspapers.

Regular church services will be held during the morning and evening at the tabernacle on South Colorado street.

Thomas Burwell Aycock is leaving today for his home in San Diego after spending the summer with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Aycock.

Miss Ora Bell Ward of Pecos was in Midland on business Thursday afternoon.

J. S. Hopkins, district passenger agent for the Southland Greyhound buses, was a business visitor in Midland Thursday.

Kenneth Yost, oil man from San Antonio, is here for several days on business.

John L. McCarty, publisher of the Dallhart, Texan, was in Midland this morning on business. He is also connected with the Hawk and Howe newspaper interests.

Mrs. John Haley and little granddaughter, Cora Ann Mason, left this morning for a few days at the Haley ranch.

Personals

H. H. Beck, formerly with the Independent Oil & Gas company here, was a business visitor in Midland this morning from San Angelo.

Mrs. Iva M. Noyes and sons, Jack and William, left this morning for a trip to Hollywood and Los Angeles, California. They plan to be away until September 1. Mr. Ray Gwyn will be in charge of the Stuart Photostat company while Mrs. Noyes is away.

Miss Faye Maddux left last night for Ft. Worth where she will meet her mother and go from there to Marlin for medical treatment. Miss Maddux is with the West Texas Gas company here and has been seriously ill for the past week.

Addison Wadley, official of the Grissom-Robertson company, was in Midland yesterday transacting business.

Mrs. J. H. Dean and daughters, Ruby and Helen Hodges, left yesterday for Wichita Falls where Mrs. Dean's sister is ill.

Fred Wilcox of San Angelo is a business visitor in Midland today. He formerly lived here and was a geologist for the Vacuum Oil company.

Local Housewives' Choice Recipes

Chow chow is just the thing to serve with fresh vegetables during the summer and heavier dishes in the fall. Mrs. Susie Grayes Noble gives us a tested chow chow recipe and you may make your supply now for the next few months.

Mustard Pickles
3 quarts of green tomatoes.
2 quarts of cabbage
1 quart of onions
1 quart of sour pickles
Chop all this fine and measure in quart measure.

Four tomatoes, cabbage and onions together and cook in salt water 5 minutes or until tender.

Sauce
3 cups of sugar
1 cup of flour
1 bottle of French's prepared mustard
1 tablespoon of red pepper.
3 ounces of tumeric powder

Mix with one quart of vinegar and cook until thick. Add all to this except the pickles. With one more quart of vinegar let come to a boil then add the pickles. Stir thoroughly. Put in jars and seal.

I have found that 6 or 7 pounds of tomatoes make the three quarts. 1 big cabbage is enough and 15 large pickles and about 2 pounds of onions.
Mrs. Susie G. Noble.

Singers to Be In Special Programs At Union Services

During the next four weeks at the union services of four of the leading protestant churches special musical features will be presented. It is probable that some of the same singers that appeared in the Sacred Musicales Sunday evening at the Christian church will again be presented at the Christian church this Sunday evening.

Among the city's talented singers in the recent Musicales given under the direction of Mrs. Lee Cornelius were: Meses. G. W. Breneman, Marian F. Peters, Van Camp, Leon Goodman, Myr. Mannschreck, A. E. Hoffman, George Ratliff, B. F. Whitefield, J. R. Vandeventer, A. J. Florey, Misses Lady Faye Scott, Catherine and Lillian Dunaway, Elma Graves, Lou Annis Reeves; Messrs. Delo Douglas, Bush and Walter Elkin, H. G. Bedford, B. F. Whitefield and Horace Woodruff.

Mrs. J. W. B. Hogan left early this afternoon for her home in Pecos after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pyle. She was accompanied from Odessa by Misses Margaret Love and Ruth Newell who have been there visiting Miss Helen Graham.

J. D. Chambers is in Wink today transacting business.

Midland's Social Activities 10 Years Ago

Editor's Note: Articles on the election of officers for clubs and meetings of such organizations during the early part of 1919 appear in this column today. Such stories are taken from the Midland Reporter files and are printed as they appear in the society column.

OFFICERS NAMED
The Wednesday club had a meeting of much interest as well as pleasure, this week when they met in regular session with Mrs. Chas. Gibbs as hostess.

Mr. O. B. Holt conducted the word drill and Mrs. Gibbs the parliamentary drill. The study hour was dispensed with as it was time for the election of officers.

The result of the election is as follows:
President—Mrs. Jax Cowden.
Vice-president—Mrs. O. B. Holt.
Recording secretary and treasurer—Mrs. Clarence Scharbauer.
Corresponding secretary—Mrs. W. R. Chancellor.
Parliamentarian—Mrs. Chas. Gibbs.

T. E. L. PARTY
The T. E. L. class of the Baptist Sunday School was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Spence Jowell in her beautiful home on Thursday afternoon. The class members arrived on time and numbered 23. There were 3 guests present and the class had a most interesting devotional led by Mrs. O. J. Hill and assisted by Mrs. Dick Lee, Miss Edna Harris, and Mrs. Millard Eldson. Then Mrs. W. H. Spaulding, class president, conducted a business hour.

Next was the social hour which was pleasantly spent by all. During the social hour Miss Hallie Rhea Jowell favored the class with "Highland Mary" by Robert Burns. The

Delegates Will Report on Trips To Short Course

Delegates from the county demonstration clubs to the recent Short Course at A. & M. college will meet Thursday afternoon next week at the office of Miss Genavevie Derryberry to report on their trips to the school.

Notes were taken by the women who attended separate lectures and demonstrations and at the meeting these will be exchanged. The women will then report to their clubs of the entire course.

Triangle Club Holds Interesting Program

The Triangle Club met at the home of Miss Lou Annice Reeves Thursday evening for their regular monthly meeting.

The theme of the program was "What do I know about other races?" and interesting talks were given on the subject by members of the club. It is the privilege of the club to study the conditions and achievements of our missions in foreign fields.

The new year books were given to the members and the aims for the ensuing year were discussed.

After the meeting, the hostess served attractive refreshments to the members of the club.

Dr. and Mrs. J. S. McCelvey and family of Temple spent last night visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Goldsmith. They left this morning for Roswell where a son will enter N. M. Military Institute.

hostess served a delicious salad course with coffee, assisted by Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Bigham, Misses Lena Kate Baker and Jowell.

MIDLAND in 1912

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Reporter-Telegram will run during the next few weeks a brief review of personalities, anecdotes, happenings and other features that happened in the year 1912. Afterward, other years will be taken up in the special feature.

The evolution of newspaper style in Midland since the year 1912, the date of the first extant bound issues of the old Midland Reporter and Gazette-Examiner, has been no less outstanding than the evolution of news during the same period.

In this year of 1912 under date of January 5, the Midland Reporter and Gazette-Examiner was in its fifteenth year. The masthead proclaimed this journal as "printers of anything typographical," and states that it, the paper, was the "official organ of both Midland county and the retail merchants' association of the city of Midland." C. C. Watson was editor and proprietor, and the paper was issued once a week for the price of $1.50 a year. This issue of Jan. 5, 1912 was a 12 page paper that referred familiarly to such topics as polo tournaments, irrigation projects, establishment of a farmer's institute, outlook for business during that year, weather observations, and of a new electric theatre.

The erection of a $20,000 residence, which Architect W. H. Kelly said would be the "handsomest in West Texas," was about to be started by Henry M. Half, who at that time was one of the largest investors in property in this area. Prospecting in the county for irrigation wells with new test holes being bored weekly, all of which struck abundant water, six of the wells being rated at from 500 to 1000 gallons per minute capacity, continued unabated. It was said that the establishment of an ice factory and a new laundry were being agitated with every prospect of both being established. The Midland Mercantile company was preparing to double its floor space and was taking over two buildings just vacated by the Midland Hardware and Furniture company. This latter company had just moved across the street, and was occupying three buildings belonging to Haley, Jackson and Brunson.

W. B. Elkin resigned that week as cashier of the Midland National bank, attorney E. M. Whitaker taking his place. Some conception of how new business was appreciated in that year may be understood from this quotation, "a business addition that we all rejoice over is the addition of an express wagon by the Wells-Fargo company. Agent Worthing seems as proud of this as we, the beneficiaries, are."

The dissolution of the partnership of Attorneys Caldwell and Whitaker, which had existed for ten years or more, came about as a result of Whitaker joining the bank. During this same week Judge Charles Gibbs, now of San Angelo, and Attorney Graham B. Smedley, formed a law partnership with offices in the Midland National bank building.

The business story closed with a personal extension of greetings for the new year, "hoping that 1912 will be laden throughout with happiness and prosperity."

Everybody's and Midland Mercantile were "throwing immense stocks of goods on the market at prices unprecedented." Both these companies with all their traditions of the past still open their doors each morning.

A patent medicine advertisement is called attention to by a semi-scare-head reading "A Girl's Wild Midnight Ride."

City Marshal S. E. Carr "started the ball to going" in the county that week. It is found that W. T. Blakeway did not announce here recently for the first time for the office of sheriff; he with W. E. Bradford sought the office of sheriff in that year and the Reporter wished them a "neck and neck horse race." W. J. Sparks announced that same week for county and district clerk.

L. B. Floyd, a brother of Timberline Floyd, received congratulations that week for his marriage to Miss Sarah Mattingly, with the expression "may all their cares be little ones."

J. B. Thomas, now owner of the building which houses the Midland hospital, was at that time county and city health officer and warned the people against associations which might spread the epidemic of scarlet fever then sweeping the county.

S. W. Estes, Clarence Scharbauer and Henry M. Half warned trespassers to keep out of pastures where they ran cattle.

Advertisers in this issue were Everybody's, C. W. Crowley's Feed store, Burton Lingo Lumber company, Peebles & Williams, Auto Repair shop, Basham-Shepherd & Co, piano distributors, John Winborne, contractor, City market, D. H. Roetger, Llano Barber shop, Dr. J. F. Haley, Dr. Jno. B. Thomas, Western Windmill company, T. & P. Railroad, Midland Mercantile company. (a full page ad in red ink and displaying the fashions of the day), Midland Hardware & Furniture Co., Midland National bank, Midland Lumber company, Spaulding Bros. Cadillac agents, Western Auto Supply company, Harry Ramsey, who admonishes the public not to ask for credit as it will be "useless", W. C. Massey, Llano dairy, First National bank, and the City grocery.

Arthur Strapp, 23, who had worked on a polo farm for Henry M. Half for three years, died at the Calloway sanitarium.

When J. J. Judge closed his theatre because of the imminence of a scarlet fever epidemic, a head described his act as "pariseworthy."

DODGE DEPENDABILITY TRUE ECONOMY is more than price deep

Owners of the Dodge Six and Eight are gratified that the features which contribute most notably to the pleasure of owning these cars are also responsible for their economy, dependability and long life. The strength and permanent silence of the Mono-Piece Steel Bodies reflect freedom from upkeep expense as well as greater safety. The internal weatherproof hydraulic brakes, which give such reassuringly positive stops, are self-equalizing—require no costly adjusting—reduce wear on tires. The carefully-perfected balance of the engines means less vibration. The floating comfort on the road means that the engine and chassis, as well as the passengers, are virtually free from shock and strain. Now more than ever before, Dodge cars combine all of the factors you want most in a motor car.

Dodge Six—$ 835 to $ 935, f. o. b. factory
Dodge Eight—$1095 to $1145, f. o. b. factory

THE MARATHON CAR STOPS AT NOTHING

Blistering heat, mountain trails, mud or sand—it's all the same to the standard Dodge Eight sedan which is continuously crossing the country in the Dodge Mileage Marathon. No greater demonstration of dependability has ever been attempted. Over 18,000 miles have been run in the first 34 days.

Dodge Eight closed cars are factory-wired for immediate installation of Transitone, the pioneer automobile radio. Other models will be equipped on order. Ask for a demonstration.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 10. The Value of a Godly Home. I Sam. 1:9-18, 24-28; 2:19.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist
Text: I Sam. 1:9-18, 24-28; 2:19
So Hannah rose up after they had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk. Now Eli the priest sat upon a seat by a post of the temple of the Lord.
And she was in bitterness of soul, and prayed unto the Lord, and wept sore.
And she vowed a vow, and said, O Lord of hosts, if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thine handmaid, and remember me, and not forget thine handmaid, but wilt give unto thine handmaid a man child, then I will give him unto the Lord all the days of his life, and there shall no razor come upon his head.
And it came to pass, as she continued praying before the Lord, that Eli marked her mouth.
Now Hannah, she spake in her heart; only her lips moved, but her voice was not heard; therefore Eli thought she had been drunken.
And Eli said unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from thee.
And Hannah answered and said, No, my lord. I am a woman of a sorrowful spirit; I have drunk neither wine nor strong drink, but have poured out my soul before the Lord.
Count not thine handmaid for a daughter of Belial; for out of the abundance of my complaint and grief have I spoken hitherto.
Then Eli answered and said, Go in peace, and the God of Israel grant thee thy petition that thou hast asked of him.
And she said, Let thine handmaid find grace in thy sight. So the woman went her way, and did eat, and her countenance was no more sad.
And when she had weaned him, she took him up with her, with three bullocks and one ephah of flour, and a battle of wine, and brought him unto the house of the Lord in Shiloh; and the child was young.
And they slew a bullock, and brought the child to Eli.
And she said, O my lord as thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here, praying unto the Lord.
For this child I prayed; and the Lord hath given me my petition which I asked of him.
Therefore also I have sent him to the Lord; as long as he liveth he shall be lent to the Lord. And he worshipped the Lord there.
Moreover his mother made him a little coat, and brought it to him from year to year, when she came up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice.
The president of one of the best-known of American colleges, not long ago emphasized the difficulty of certain problems of discipline in connection with student life because of the influence of the ideas and habits prevalent in the homes from which these students came.

on the part of students in certain directions, re-enforced by laxity on the part of their parents, the fundamental law of the land affecting certain matters should be changed, may be seriously open to question; but the president of this university was on safe enough ground in indicating that where there is no proper discipline or encouragement from the home, the problem of those who are seeking to educate and guide youth is greatly intensified. The quality of a people and of a country ultimately depends upon the quality of its homes and its home life.
Better influences outside of the home has occasionally operated to produce some noble type of man whose energy and ambition have enabled him to create for himself a newer and better environment, but it is doubtful whether there is one case in ten where a man of noble and useful character comes out of a home environment that is low and sordid. Even where the outward environment of the home seems to suggest advantage or luxury, if the moral atmosphere be corrupt the influence will destroy the foundation of true character.
The Parents' Responsibility
All this would seem to be so true as to be self-evident, yet it is marvelous how home influences are neglected. It is appalling to think of the number of parents who do not take the responsibility of parentage with any seriousness, or who start so late, or who show themselves so ineffective in the training of their children, that the children may be said to grow up with no real guidance at all.
From this condition of neglect and inefficiency in the training of the young, it is a pleasure to turn to the positive side and to contemplate the achievements of good homes and good parentage in the production of good lives. Here in our lesson we have the portrait of a godly mother—a mother in instinct and purpose before a child had actually come into her life, seeking earnestly the fulfillment of her hopes, and in the time of fulfillment remembering to the letter her vows and her prayers.
Hannah, devoted to her young son, Samuel, gives him none the less to the service of religion as she had vowed. She brings him, after she had weaned him, to the holy house in Shiloh, and there she pledges him to Eli, the priest, to perform such duties as Eli may give him in personal service and in the service of the tabernacle.
The Hannahs and Samuels have been by no means limited to the records of scripture or to ancient times. Not long ago I read of a mother in a humble home in a little hamlet of Scotland who back in the middle of last century was rearing seven sons. Every one of these became a man of eminence and usefulness in the world, and every one of them traced the determining influence of his life to this godly and devoted mother.
Nor are these influences always the influences of the mother, or of the mother alone. Sometimes the ideals and influences of the father become the determining factor in the lives of the children, especially where the mother shares these ideals and influences. There is a striking illustration of this in the family of Dr. Graham Taylor, founder of the Chicago Commons.

Market Report

Cotton market declined about $2.50 a bale Friday after the department of agriculture issued the first crop report of the season. The report gave condition of crop on August 1 as 62.2 per cent normal, compared with report of 69.6 per cent this time a year ago and ten-year average 67.2 per cent. Indicated crops of 14,362,000 bales, which was 362,000 bales more than cotton trade expected. Census bureau report gave ginnings August 1 as 77,946, compared with 86,974 bales in 1929 and 88,761 for 1928.
Texas crop condition stated as 61 per cent, compared with 64 per cent last year, and indicated production this year 4,496,000 compared with estimate year ago of 4,798,000 bales. Bearish nature of report was recognized immediately and slump of 45 points October new New York 10.15, new December 13.06, before report and 12.65 afterward. At noon cotton selling around 12.50 October and 12.70 December representing a net decline of 45 to 55 points.

and for many years associated with the work of that settlement.
Dr. Taylor has recently written his autobiography under the title "Pioneering on Social Frontiers." This autobiography he dedicates to his comrades and colleagues and to the members of his family, each "one of whom," he says, "has contributed to and shared in life's whole endeavor."

Refused to Move Away
I have never known the family of Graham Taylor, but some years ago I came across an interesting fact to which this dedication gives added significance. It was told that when Mr. Taylor's family was growing up around him some of his friends said to him that it was all right for him to live in this social settlement and do his work there in an undesirable neighborhood, but that he ought not to be bringing up his family under these conditions but ought to be seeking for them more attractive and favorable surroundings.

But Dr. Taylor brought up his family in the environment of his own ideals. He inculcated in his children his own outlook of love and service, and I have been told that every member of that family turned out in every way creditable to the father who loved and trusted his children and guided them in his own footsteps.
Records like that have their place along side the story of Hannah and Samuel in that larger bible that is always being written in the experience of those who seek the way of God.
