COUNTY REJECTS PROPOSAL TO LAY CONCRETE ROAD IN CITY

PROPOSAL TENDERED BY MAYOR

Offer of State Aid Passed Up Through Action Today

Commissioners of Midland county today voted unanimously against a proposal made by Mayor Leon Goodman of the City of Midland to take advantage of assistance offered by the state highway department to build through the city of Midland a 20-foot concrete road.

The proposal offered by the mayor for payment of one-fourth of the cost by the state highway department, one half of the remainder by the city and one half by the county.

Reasons advanced for voting against the proposal by the commissioners were not outlined in detail but referred to the general depression of business over the country.

Consent of the state highway commission to pay one-fourth of the cost of such a project was secured when Alderman Percy J. Mims and A. J. Gates, city business manager, appeared before the body late in July.

A great portion of county tax money, it is said, comes from the city of Midland, hence the request by the city officials that the county share in the cost of the highway construction through the city limits.

The majority of farmers and ranchmen residing in Midland county traverse either the west or east section of the highway while approaching the business section of Midland.

Inspection of the highway markings through Midland with a view of having the Bankhead highway completely marked through the city, has been ordered by Gib Gilchrist, state highway engineer.

The City of Midland and the chamber asked the state highway department to post Texas and U. S. signs so traffic would be held on the Bankhead through Midland, and the chamber put up temporary signs.

Directors of the chamber of commerce are asked to meet at 7:30 tonight to attend to business matters prior to the road meeting at 8 o'clock.

A full attendance of the 21 directors, and as many members as will, are requested to attend.

Drives 525 Miles and Joins Church

Trunk letter church members got a rebuke from Houston last night!

Midland democrats will not be personally represented in the state convention of democrats in Galveston which opens tomorrow, but the proxy vote of Homer W. Rowe, one of the official delegates of Midland, is held by Bob Holliday, prominent attorney of El Paso who is slated to be a candidate for permanent chairman of the executive committee.

They had driven about 525 miles in one day, so that Stockton would be ready to start work Monday at the Hughes Tool plant.

They had been here about 15 minutes. Moral: some church members have been here 15 months, or maybe 15 years, and haven't joined yet.

Everybody in Midland will have a chance tonight at 8 o'clock to suggest a way to build a road to Hobbs.

No speeches are being asked for on the need of a road to Hobbs. Everybody knows a road is needed but an idea on how to pay for such a road is what is wanted.

The meeting is opened to everyone interested in Midland's future. It will be held in the office of the Midland chamber of commerce, but is city-wide in its scope.

Those who are dissatisfied with present progress on road construction are especially urged to attend and present a feasible, practicable plan for getting the road.

Mesdames A. B. Cooksey of Midland and Robert of Crane, who underwent operations Saturday at the Midland hospital, are reported to be doing nicely today.

John Woodruff, who sustained a broken leg when he fell from a tank tower at the J. O. Nobles ranch Saturday, was able to return home today.

An Opportunity Overlooked (AN EDITORIAL)

In the face of a national program, inaugurated a few months ago by President Hoover, to carry on as much public work as possible to offset business depression and unemployment; and of a program in Texas to do as much highway building and public work as possible to aid in offsetting the drought disaster; action of the Midland County Commissioners' Court this morning in voting down the proposal by the City of Midland to take advantage of the offer by the State Highway Commission to assist in laying a concrete road through Midland, from the east to west city limits, comes as a distinct surprise.

Regardless of times, seasons, business conditions or offers of assistance from the State Highway department, the very menace of the badly worn highway to the heavier traffic within the city limits constitutes an emergency and should be acted upon in some substantial manner by all concerned.

Realizing this, city officials called upon highway officials at Austin and secured promise of state aid. Coming back, the city officials were promised that action would be taken by the commissioners at the September meeting.

Everyone expected unanimous favorable action by county officials on an offer by the city and state to pay parts of this construction. The commissioners this morning, however, voted unanimously against the proposal when it was made by Mayor Leon Goodman.

The Reporter-Telegram has taken pleasure in working with various agencies of local government. The county has been commended openly for its efficiency of government and management. Its financial statement, following an official audit, was given heavy publicity in this paper. It is against the desires of The Reporter-Telegram to criticize or take issue with local officials; but this unexpected action on the part of the county commissioners, in the opinion of The Reporter-Telegram, warrants reconsidering of such action.

Public protest, emphatic and continuous, should be voiced by Midland county tax payers until such action is reconsidered by the commissioners, and until it is decided to take advantage of the liberal offer made by the city and the highway department while such offer is available.

FLUID SAMPLE OF SCHOOLS OPEN AND FUHRMAN WELL DISPLAYED

A sample of fluid taken from the Fuhrman Petroleum Corporation No. 1 W. T. Ford gasser in southern Andrews county is on display today in the chamber of commerce window.

The fluid bears the color of crude oil but the odor of refined gasoline. Theory of oil men who brought in the sample is that there is some free oil being sprayed from the hole along with the liquid, or gasoline, formed by the gas under tremendous pressure.

Reports here today were that the gas pressure had increased to 32,000,000 cubic feet after having been gauged previously at 26,000,000 cubic feet daily.

Drilling has been halted by the tremendous gas pressure, it being impossible to get water to stay on the bottom to facilitate drilling in the hard formation.

However, a Midland oil man reported having secured a portion of the cuttings from the tools Sunday afternoon, showing a decidedly oily content.

On last report, the hole stood at 4,146 feet. It is 2,200 feet from the west line and 440 feet from the south line of section 16, block A-43, public school land, Andrews county.

Cowden Well Drilling

Making another flow of oil at 8 o'clock this morning, the Southern Crude Oil Purchasing company's No. A-1 Cowden, northern Ector county wildcat, was reported drilling at 4,220. Four storage tanks of 500 barrel capacity have been erected, the pay now being taken care of when flows are made.

The Southern Crude wildcat is 330 feet from the west line and 2,310 feet from the north line of section 236, block 43, township 1, north, E. & P. Ry. survey. It is 21 miles southeast of Andrews county production and 24 miles north and slightly east of the Penn field in Ector county.

Million and Half Students AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 8. (UP)—With many public schools opening throughout the state today, State School Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs issued a statement to the teachers and the 1,520,000 school pupils of Texas.

Enrollment in the public schools on opening today was 104 more than on last year's opening day, it was announced at press time. The enrollment today was 1,047, against 945 a year ago. The total reached 1,455 last year and is expected to reach from 1,600 to 1,700 this year.

ment and splendid addresses. Local ministers and business men gave short speeches to the students and pledged their continued support to the school and its many activities.

Ned and Miss Lydia Watson, Walter Elkin, Wallace Wimberly and R. E. Shrader, new director of the band, provided instrumental numbers.

Many encouraging remarks were made by visitors and all indications point to a successful year.

MIDLAND AND POINTS TO EAST WILL SAVE A GREAT ANNUAL SHIPPING COST

Chamber of Commerce Fight for Keeping the City out of Differential Rates Area Is Successful

The proposed report of Examiner Disque, in the Texas differential case, was received this morning (Sept. 6) and proposes to the commission that the differential line, now at Midland, remain there, thus placing Midland and points east thereof in common point territory.

Exceptions which parties may wish to file are due Sept. 23. Extract of letter from U. S. Pawkett of San Antonio to the Midland chamber of commerce.

Midland will remain in common point territory!

That was the message received Monday by the Midland chamber of commerce from U. S. Pawkett, traffic manager of the San Antonio chamber of commerce, who, with Frank A. Leffingwell, secretary of the Texas Industrial Traffic league, conducted Midland's fight against removal of the common point line from Midland back to Big Spring.

It is true that the interstate commerce commission has not taken final action, and exceptions may be filed up to Sept. 23, but the proposed report of Examiner Disque recommends that, Midland be left in common point territory, and usually the commission acts on findings of its examiners.

Annual Saving This decision means a saving of many thousands of dollars annually to Midland business men, and, consequently, to the ultimate consumer. The saving in freight rates might run as much as $50,000 or more a year, but this is purely an estimate made by local business men. It is known, however, that this victory won by the Midland chamber of commerce for Midland would finance two or three chambers of commerce every year it is in force.

Midland was concerned in two separate cases, the Southwestern cases consolidated, which affects all West Texas towns, and which has not been settled, but the main case in which Midland was concerned was a specific plea made by the Texas & Pacific Railway Co. to move the differential line back from Midland to Big Spring.

Success by the T. & P. in this plea would have placed Midland in differential territory and would have meant not only thousands of dollars extra in freight every year, but also would have crippled Midland's growth as a distribution center.

Aid to Distribution In other words, removal of the common point rights now enjoyed by Midland would have curtailed, if not ended, Midland's expansion as a wholesale center and would have interfered with Midland's securing such industries as the Hughes Tool company.

The Texas Industrial Traffic league began the fight at the request of the West Texas chamber of commerce, which had in turn been requested to take action by the Midland organization. The first hearing was held at El Paso at which time the president and secretary of the Midland chamber of commerce, and George D. McCormick testified.

Before the case was completed, Clarence E. Gilmore, chairman of the state railroad commission, died, and the case was transferred to San Antonio. The secretary of the Midland chamber again gave testimony, and pictures made at Midland were introduced on behalf of the Midland chamber.

It was believed then that a decision might not be had until 1931 or 1932, and the apparent victory now comes as a big surprise and a grateful one to Midland officials.

Business men who learned early Monday of the recommendation of the chamber of commerce.

Henry Wrage, about 55, owner of extensive rangeland in southeast Midland and southwest Glasscock counties, died in Marlin of heart disease Saturday, it was learned here today.

Wrage, who has lived in Midland county for about a quarter-century, had gone to Marlin for a series of treatments for rheumatism. He had never suffered with his heart before. Death was said to have come suddenly.

Mrs. A. N. Hendrickson, daughter of Wrage, and her husband left Midland Saturday night by automobile for Seguin, where burial is to be made this afternoon. Louis, a son who is well known here, was with his father at the time of death.

Several Midland people wired flowers to Seguin this morning.

Mrs. Wrage died suddenly of heart disease last October.

The dead man was a member of the Lutheran church.

Midland country club golfers won a handicap match from members of the Big Spring country club Sunday, 35 points up.

R. B. Mitchell 96, R. Russell Lloyd 105; Joe Fyron 103, F. H. Day 92.

One foursome went only nine holes and dropped out: A. H. Alcorn 45, J. M. McClure 50; Bill Hoey 52, H. M. Bayer 48.

The score of the last foursome did not figure in the count, and each Midland foursome won except the sixth, which lost six points. The third foursome was the individual high point winner, stroking out an edge of an even 10 points.

THEY'LL CUT BOTH WAYS

National air shows like the one held at Chicago provide material for both the optimist and the pessimist.

They lift up the optimist by demonstrating how mankind has conquered the air and by indicating a new method of escape, a new form of recreation more thrilling and uplifting than anything ever developed before.

At the same time they put another crease in the pessimist's brow by reminding him that these marvelous machines are, after all, largely designed for purposes of destruction. Those army planes that swoop along in such inspiring style—given the proper conditions they could be apparitions more dreadful than the pale horseman that St. John saw from Patmos.

So it is that an air show of this kind gives you mixed emotions. You can see in it the incarnation of a race set free, or you can see in it a glittering new weapon with which humanity one day will blow its brains out. You're right, either way. The airplane, like most of the rest of our inventions, can cut both ways.

Indeed, it often seems as if that knack of inventing two-edged tools is the outstanding characteristic of the present age.

We devise marvelous machines, only to find out that we have, thereby, given ourselves enormous responsibilities. These intricate devices of ours may yet make it possible for us to lift ourselves by our own bootstraps; similarly, they may bring us to the point where we shall proceed to exterminate ourselves, calling back the Dark Ages for all the earth with all the unsuspecting innocence of an infant playing with a fulminate of mercury torpedo.

All of which, perhaps, is just a sign that we are a little bit more clever than is altogether good for us. One side of mankind's brain has developed amazingly. People can fly through the air, send their voices around the world and enlist mechanical slaves to do their drudgery; but one is permitted to wonder just how much good this is all going to do us if we do not have the intelligence to use these new devices properly.

At any rate, the combination of things ought to make the current era exciting. For better or for worse, we are going somewhere at a rapid clip. It may be that we are headed for an order of society, a way of life, more magnificent, free and inspiring than anything that was ever dreamed of before; on the other hand, we may be about to engage in self-destruction on a stupendous scale.

That is the cross-roads to which this age of inventions is bringing us. We are traveling fast. It depends on our collective common sense whether we shall go up or down.

AIDING INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

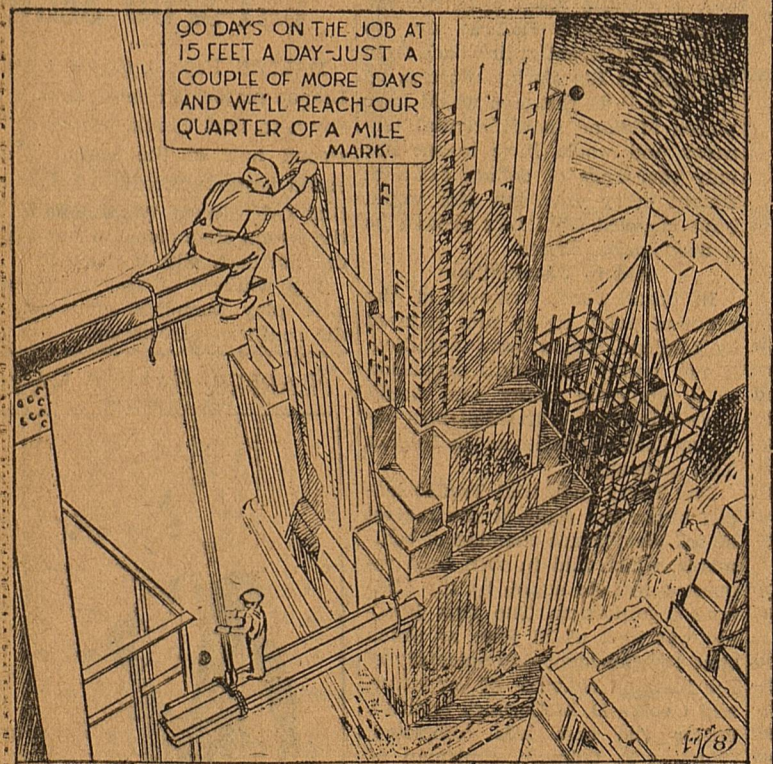

The campaign for industrial development within the state received new impetus last week when the American Legion, convened at Austin, went on record as favoring a statewide industrial survey and a determined attempt to build industry.

The Legion's action is in line with the editorial position of a great majority of Texas' newspapers. More important, even, it is in line with the economic requirements of the time.

Texas will never achieve her highest destiny until industries are brought into the state to make proper use of the vast resources with which she has been endowed. At this time, she stands in especially good position to achieve that end. She has nominated a governor in whom out-of-state industrialists impose confidence. Her legislature evidences a disposition to treat industry fairly. The determination to gouge, or to penalize, prosperity is no more.

Eminent economists say that business has turned, that consumption is now greater than production. This condition, of course, forecasts the day when industry must speed up to maintain the normal balance between supply and demand.

Old Weighs and New—Another Reason Why We Have a Wheat Surplus!

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

Lieut. Izac, Who Was a Prisoner on a Submarine and Who Escaped and Gave the U. S. Navy Valuable Information, Is Due to Get Compensation at Last

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Lieutenant Edouard V. M. Izac, who was taken from a torpedoed American transport by a German submarine, where he obtained valuable information, who dove from a train window to escape, only to be captured and crippled by his guards, who finally did get away and was given the Congressional Medal of Honor for his heroism, probably will soon be compensated in hard cash for his permanent injuries.

Izac is one of the last claims remaining to be adjudicated by the German-American Mixed Claims Commission. This commission, which has disposed of nearly all of 19,000 claims filed before it, has previously held all sessions in Washington but will convene at the Hague on Sept. 17 and later at Hamburg.

At the Hague it will consider the sabotage claims such as that of the Lehigh Valley Railroad arising out of the Black Tom explosion and the Canadian Car and Foundry claim arising from the Kingsland explosion. Germany has always denied responsibility for these, but witnesses bearing weird tales have been turning up against her in the last year and there is a mass of circumstantial evidence at hand. The move to the Hague is supposed to be partly due to a desire to avoid too much publicity in the United States. Other remaining claims are a few involving maltreatment of war prisoners such as Izac's, about a hundred claims made under the economic provisions of the Treaty of Berlin and hundreds of claims by American seamen or their families who suffered during Germany's submarine war on neutral shipping.

The last category includes sailors scattered over the seven seas who had neglected to file claims through ignorance but who were provided for in a Senate resolution asking the president to ask Germany to let them file their claims as late as March 10, 1931. Germany has not yet agreed but is expected to do so.

Izac, whose story stands out conspicuously among those still being considered, was a graduate of the Naval Academy and had been commissioned a lieutenant shortly before being assigned to the transport President Lincoln. In May, 1918, the President Lincoln, was torpedoed by the U-90 and was taken a prisoner of war. On board the submarine he managed to acquire information of submarine operations which he thought was valuable to the allied navies and decided to escape at the first opportunity and communicate it. He was 12 days on the U-90 before being landed at Wilhelmshaven and sent to the prison camp at Karlsruhe.

French officers at Karlsruhe with whom he made friends gave him 100 marks and a compass to aid his escape. His first seemingly good chance came in July when he was being taken by train to the officers' prison camp at Villingen in Baden in the custody of two German soldiers.

One of the guards dozed and when the other turned his head Izac leaped past them and dove head foremost through the small window which he had persuaded them to keep open for air. He landed on the parallel track, bruising himself and cutting his knees and feet. Then he stumbled across the fields toward neighboring woods.

The train was stopped and the German guards came after him, shooting. Izac surrendered to avoid being shot down. The infuriated guards pounded him over the head and shoulders with the butts of their guns, knocked him down, kicked him in the face and finally broke a gun over his head, knocking him unconscious. Later they jabbed him with bayonets and made him finish the journey five miles to Villingen at double time. He lost about 30 pounds during the next two weeks of solitary confinement.

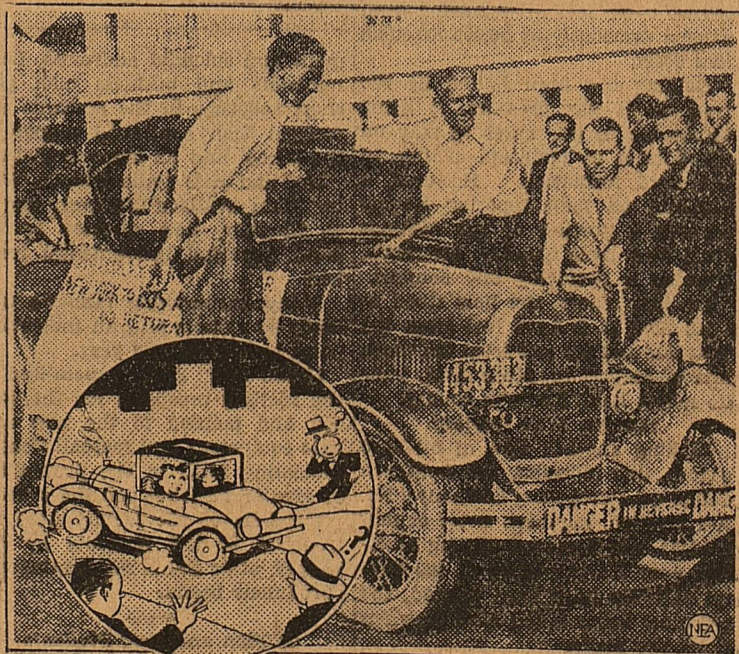

That's Izac's story, supported by various evidence, on which he based a claim for $150,000, as representing his loss of earning power caused by the injuries.

In October, Izac escaped with four others, making his way painfully for seven days until he reached Switzerland. He had trained all summer for the strength and stamina to make the attempt. He reported to Admiral Sims in London and later to Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, who suggested that he write a book, which Izac did.

The navy found Izac incapacitated and retired him. He suffers from half a dozen ailments attributed to his attackers. He has collapsed on undertaking any physical or mental effort, it is claimed, and now lives permanently disabled, with a wife and three children in San Diego, Calif. He is 38 years old.

Judging from action on similar claims, Izac is likely to get about $50,000. The Germans have contended that he received his injuries in diving from the train and in resisting capture.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

I'm hearing a lot about that foot race to be pulled off by Harry McClintic, representing the Lions club and a dark horse to be matched against him by the Rotary club. It seems that Harry Haight phoned Paul Barron, president of the Rotary club, Saturday and asked if the Rotarians had a man that could make a decent showing against Harry. He was told that plenty of Rotarians could outrun Harry and maybe the president himself would just as soon take the honors as to let some other Rotarian.

Ily Pratt and Clyde Barron are both fast runners, but they swing their feet out in a slow-footed manner that is bad on the opponent, having a tendency to knock his props out from under him when he passes them or they pass him.

Jack Hazletine, former track star of Leland Stanford university has been mentioned as the probable entrant by the Rotary club. Harry McClintic, you see, won all of the medals at Virginia university 30 years ago and he still maintains his exquisite form. It will take a youthful appearing Rotarian to oppose him successfully, which lets out Harry Tolbert, John Bonner, Kenneth Ambrose, Tom Murphy, Percy Mims, Jim Finlayson and Arthur Yeager.

Decisions of the rules committee may affect the outcome of the race considerably. Fred Wemple, if allowed to race barefooted, can outrun any two Lions, it is said. Doc Pemberton is undoubtedly the fastest man in Midland on a circular track, having attained perfection while umpiring the bases in the baseball seasons of 1925 and 1926.

It is rumored that of Rotarians will be represented by one of the tallest members of the club, which gives Raymond Upham a chance to tice of this challenge. The Reporter-Telegram will put up one of its men against the winner of the Lion-Rotarian race. Do you take us up, or do you swallow it?

MEANEST MAN

Take Chang, for Instance; Loves Harem and Leaves It, but It Comes for More

By D. C. BESS, United Press Staff Correspondent

PEIPING, Sept. 8. (UP).—An attempt to recover his lost "kingdom" in Shantung province is being made by that picturesque militarist Chang Tsung-chang, possessor of a hundred wives and concubines.

Japanese newspapers report that General Chang has left his retreat in the resort of Beppu, and has come to Tientsin. This report is not verified, however, and is not believed that Chang could get to Tientsin without detection. He stands more than six feet six, and his face is familiar to all the Chinese in the north. He is incapable of moving without some sort of display.

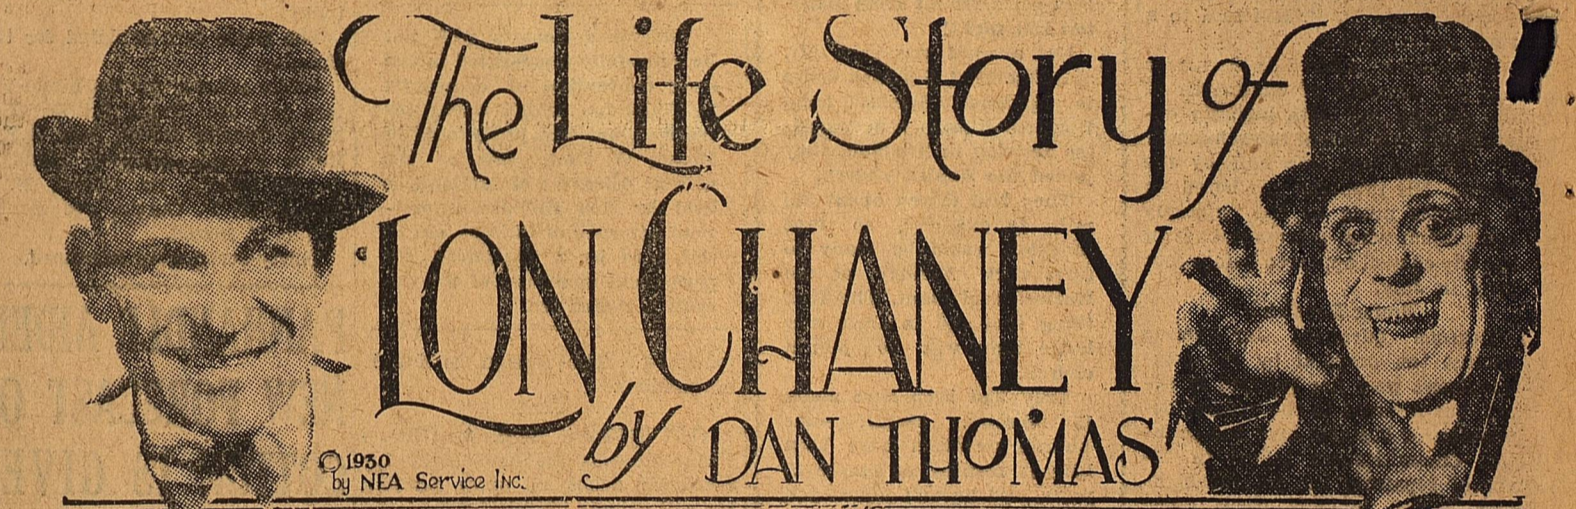

It is confirmed, however, that Chang has sent agents into eastern Shantung, where he established himself for a second time after the Nationalists had occupied Peiping in 1928. With the notorious comrade-in-arms, Chu Yn-pu, he looted and burned towns and cities, leaving thousands of dead and dying in his wake.

Although Nationalist gunboats surrounded him and his guard on an island off the coast at that time, he managed to evade them, and got away to Japan with enough money to keep himself with a few of his harem.

Chinese here declare that Chang recently took another wife, the daughter to a former high official in the old Peking government. He did not buy this girl, as he has so many of his harem, but she went to him of her free will, being drawn by the reputation of Chang as the principal "ladies' man" of China.

If Chang establishes himself again anywhere, it is believed that most of his harem will hurry back to him. While he playfully executed two or three of his concubines who had been unduly attracted by young actors in Peiping, he has the reputation of treating his harem very well.

You Can't Talk With an Extra Set of False Teeth and Wads of Cotton in Your Mouth, But Chaney Used Five Distinct Voices in One Picture

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth installment in the series of six articles revealing the unusual life story of the late Lon Chaney.

By DAN THOMAS, NEA Service Writer (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—It's no easy matter for a man with a thousand faces to give each of these faces a voice—voices each as different as the faces themselves.

In fact, when your character makeups require such things as false teeth worn over your own cotton stuffed in the jaws to make them bulge, cheek bones padded with layers of putty and nostrils distended with rubber plugs, speaking of any kind seems almost an impossible task.

Such is the problem that Lon Chaney faced with the advent of the talkies.

To ordinary actors, make-ups required only a little paint and powder, it meant nothing; to him it meant everything.

But Chaney, though he with Charlie Chaplin held out for a long time while groping for a solution to the problem, finally met it. "The talkies necessarily will limit my characterizations," Lon told me one day last spring as we stood watching Lila Lee go through a short scene. "Characters such as I played in 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame,' 'Phantom of the Opera,' and others will be impossible to do now as I can't put anything in my mouth that will interfere with my speaking.

"Other characters I will have to forego now will be those that require a dialect. Speaking with a dialect is one thing I will not do. There is too much chance of doing it wrong and offending some persons.

"But I'm not going to forsake my make-up entirely. I still intend to keep my characterizations as varied as possible. And I will not let the speaking of lines interfere with my action. In my opinion dialogue is a secondary consideration to action."

How well Chaney adapted himself to the new limitations so suddenly placed on his art you can judge for yourself if you have seen him in the recent talkie version of "The Unholy Three."

In this absorbing drama of the circus ventriloquist, the giant and the dwarf who form an odd criminal alliance, Chaney appears as the former and uses five voices.

He is first Professor Echo, the ventriloquist, simulating the professor's voice and also that of the dummy on his knee. He speaks again when he impersonates the grandmotherly old lady who runs the bird store that is the crooks' headquarters; also as the parrot and the girl.

Replying to skeptics who doubted that all of the five different voices were his own, Chaney went before F. L. Hendrickson, a notary public at Los Angeles, and made an affidavit that they were.

But no one around the studios ever questioned it. They knew that Chaney, proud as an artist, would never consent to a fake.

At the left is Chaney as he appeared as Professor Echo in "The Unholy Three," his only talking picture. In this picture he again displayed his ability as a distinctive actor by playing the part of a ventriloquist and using five different voices.

At the right, is a graphic reason why Chaney opposed making a talkie for so long. Note the set of false teeth which he wore in front of his teeth in "London After Midnight," and imagine trying to talk with them in your mouth.

thought that the veteran character actor was merely holding out against an innovation in the progress of motion pictures, Chaney was wrestling with the problem.

"The point is, old man," he once confided, "that I might appear as a crook and a voice record would be made. Next I might appear as an old man or a character entirely different from the others—but there would be my voice and perhaps the similarity in it could be detected. That's just what I've been afraid of. It isn't that I have anything against sound pictures."

There was another mystery, too, that Chaney carefully guarded. It was the mystery of his remarkable make-ups, for they were his stock in trade by which he made his living.

Of course, some of the details how he achieved such striking facial and bodily effects are obvious—after being seen. Others may arrive at by the simple process of deduction; it is easy to surmise that as an armless man he had his arms strapped to his side.

When a picture was actually filmed a lot of his methods became apparent by observation. But he never told how he planned to simulate a particular deformity while he was plotting it out, or devising some remarkable trick like covering his good eye with a glass one inserted under the lid, or designing a 65-pound metallic strait-jacket to twist his body into the form of a hunchback.

It all dovetailed with Chaney's personal preferences. He didn't like to be stared at on the streets and pointed out by the curious. He just wanted to be let alone.

City Federation Adopts Constitution and Hears Reports from Standing Committees; Meetings To Be Held Monthly During Year

An enthusiastic meeting with all officers and chairmen present except three, marked the first session of the City Federation of Women's Clubs at the home of its president, Mrs. John Haley, Saturday afternoon.

A report from the committee on constitution and by-laws was read by Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy and after several changes was adopted.

The general aim of the Federation as incorporated in the constitution is "to bring women together in a fraternal relationship, to promote interest of their community and to secure all benefits of cooperation."

Members in the Federation will be any club composed of Midland women having for its object educational, industrial or social advancement. The payment of fees will be $2 annually for each club. Any woman interested in the club is eligible to individual membership upon $1 payment of dues. Seventeen names were given and annual dues paid for individual memberships at Saturday's meeting.

Each club is entitled to any two voting delegates besides its president.

Mrs. C. M. Goldsmith, chairman of the committee on natural resources, reported plans being made for a general clean-up campaign in the near future.

Mrs. Paul T. Vickers, chairman of the program committee, stated that short programs were being arranged for each month in keeping with the State Federation plans and observance of Federation days. These meetings will be held on the first Saturday of the month, the place being designated from time to time.

Mrs. Harvey Sloan, in charge of the social service of the Federation, reported that the committee had plans in preparation but not ready for a complete report. She also asked assistance of the club women in providing clothing for children unable to attend school until clothes were received.

Tough Picking

There are beauties in the radio studios of America, even though we can't see them yet. And to prove they're the goods, officials at the Radio World's Fair, to be held in New York September 22 to 27, say they have a job on their hands picking out the most beautiful artist as this year's radio beauty. Here's a typical group of contestants—left, top to bottom, Emily Hardy of KPO, San Francisco; Benay Venuta, also of KPO; Katherine Kent of WOR, Newark, N. J. Center, Jane Froman of WLW, Cincinnati. Higher Learning in Chic Demands a Budget for Campus Clothes

By HELEN WELSHIMER, NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—When you pack up your dresses in your wardrobe trunk this year, Miss Collegiate, you are going to need style, style, style!

Incidentally, you may have to buy your campus chic with a price, $294.50, or a little bit more, but the average girl has enough of the budgeted clothes on hand to give her a long, long stride toward collegiate smartness.

Three wardrobes have been planned to carry the modern college girl from her early morning classes through the most glamorous weekend of the winter.

Experts in the special college departments, which are a feature of many shops, are planning wardrobes based on the actual need of the wearers.

Don't buy a dress merely because it is becoming. Or pretty. Or cheap. They are important factors, of course, but suitability should come first.

For if it is going to stay in a moth-proof bag what good will it do you when the orchestra swings into a gliding waltz?

A Wide Range of Chic
There are some things which every girl must have. Others which she should have. And if she has a pocketful of money there are a dozen other lines of chic for sale.

For the girl who must go very economically or attends a school with a simple social life, a simple budget is offered, which answers every need.

Frocks—Two dresses or knitted ensembles, for campus wear at $16.50 a piece, $33.00; sweater, $5.00; skirt, $7.00; a jil shirt, $2.50; one blouse, $1.95; two silk dresses for dinner and Sunday at $1.50 apiece, $33.00; a Saturday night frock, $19.50; a tailored dress or suit for travel and week ends, $45.00, one evening gown, $29.50.

Campus coats—Camel's hair or untrimmed tweed leather jacket, or sturdy fur such as raccoon or muskrat, $29.50; raincoat with zipper front, $10.00.

Hats—For town clothes, $6.00; a black beret for campus, $1.00.

Shoes—Clod hoppers for campus, $8.50; town pumps, $8.50; evening pumps on thinable satin to match dress, $6.00; golfshoes, $3.00.

Gloves—Striped woolen mitts for active and spectator sports, $1.20; fabric gloves for dress, $1.25.

Underthings—Four cotton ensembles at $1.60, $6.60; three silk panties at $1.75, $5.25; two slips at $2.95, $5.90; five pairs of campus hose at $1.00; $5.00; one pair for evening, $1.95; two pairs of cotton pajamas, $5.90; striped bathrobe, $7.95; mules, $2.00.

Total of budget—$294.50. A dress coat is important, too, and the usual cost is $59.50, but most wardrobes have one that will do.

The next budget allows $81.90 more. The differences are found in: One more campus dress, $16.50; a Saturday night frock at $29.50; tailored suit for travel and week ends, $59.50; one transparent velvet evening wrap, $39.50; two more berets, $2.00; town pumps, $12.50; dinner pumps, $12.50; chamois or pigskin gloves for campus, $3.75; evening gloves, 1 button length, $6.75; stockings at $1.50 a pair, $7.50; two pairs of evening hose at $1.95, $3.90; suede or kid gloves for dress, $3.50.

The total is $81.90 more than the simpler budget.

The highest budget allows $100 for a dress coat, includes the $16.50 tinted slippers for evening, more campus dresses at $29.50 or $39.50, and also includes another evening dress. This wardrobe may have a fur coat instead of a simple camel's hair for the campus.

It isn't the number of clothes that you take with you which will proclaim you well dressed on the campus. It's the line and style and color. Black is suggested as the basis of the wardrobe if you want to be smart and harmonious. Your accessories will match much easier.

The Saturday night frock, a distinct college feature designed for Saturday night festivities, will remain alluring a little longer if it's black.

Everything Needs to Be New
The budgets aren't nearly so large as they seem. Most girls have dresses and coats which are still in style. The stylists are insistent that girls who have watched their wardrobes need just buy the things which they ordinarily would and start away, for campus life isn't so different from any other.

Here are pictorial hints for the wardrobe of the going-away-to-college girl. A long black chiffon velvet coat (center) is suggested as an evening cloak. A sheer wool frock (right) with its matching jacket and white blouse, answers the question of what to wear on the campus. If Miss Collegiate's budget is large enough, she will want to include lounging pajamas (left), with their wide trousers and futuristic design, for wear when she has a lazy hour or two.

Genuine Castile Soap Has Olive Oil as a Base

By WILLIAM H. BALDWIN Author of "The Shopping Book" Written for NEA Service

Castile soap is technically a soap in which the fatty acid is derived exclusively from olive oil. This is an excellent base for soap. Certain manufacturers therefore describe as "Castile" soaps which are really made from inferior products.

The Federal Trade Commission is trying to stop this misbranding. Certain other manufacturers combine Castile with some other word in describing their products—for example, "cocoa-castile" is sometimes used. The only type of Castile soap in which the shopper should be interested is one wherein olive oil provides all the fatty acid content.

The wise shopper will study the labels when she is buying Castile soap.

TOMORROW: General hints for shoppers.

OILERS HUMBLE ODESSA IN A DOUBLE-HEADED ATTRACTION

Midland Poloists Fall Swinging Before Onslaught of Texon Four

BUSHER TOTAL RUNS INTO BIG FIGURES IN WIN OVER STANTON SUNDAY AFTERNOON

TIMMONS AND HILL GET ECTORITES SWINGING

And the Oilers just naturally walked the Odessa barque-men over the plank Sunday at Odessa, to submerge them in a double header.

That is the best way to say it. The Midland club, supposed to be one of only four clubs remaining in the Tri-County league, took the first game 12-3 and the second 11-4.

Timmons, pitching for Midland, allowed eight hits in the first game, and Hill was tight in the nightcap, giving up only five.

Johnson and Busby could not hold the dyke against the inundation of Midland hits in the first game, and Pit Gressett fared little better in the second.

Only Two Errors

One of the most interesting features of the play was the fact that Midland made only two errors during the day, equally divided during the two outbreaks.

This game marked the third official one for the Oilers in the second half of the Tri-County, all of which they have won by landslide scores. In reality, the club has taken five games and lost one to Penwell during this period, but several teams appear to have dropped out of standing with the league and two games had to be struck from the percentage column.

As things now stand, or appear to stand (no one seems to know what the Tri-County league is now), the Oilers, Odessa, Stanton and Penwell compose the league.

Pope's homer and Cook and Dawson's three-base blows stand out as other features of the Sunday game at Odessa.

FARRINGTON STAR OF DAY FOR TEXON

Texon, through spirited play, came from behind at the sixth chucker and out-stroked Midland in Sunday's polo game, 11-9.

The green striped hosts drove the willow sphere between the posts five times during this hectic period of exciting horse races and rat-tat-tat hammering of hoes and mallets.

Farrington, Texon sharp-shooter, was easily the star of the play during the afternoon, riding hard on both offense and defense, and maintaining his position at all times. In Chaffin, he had an able assistant to guarantee him offensive honors.

For Midland, Myrl Jowell, Bum Cowden and Clay Floyd each scored three goals.

All-Time Standing, 3-2

This loss to the Texon aggregation of horsemen makes the all-time wins and losses between the two teams stand at, Midland 3-Texon 2.

The clubs played a two-game series year-before-last and a two-game affair here Labor day. Midland swept the first series and split the second. Two other games will be played during the week at Texon, on Wednesday and Sunday. Several Midland players will ship their best horses there for the games, finding that some of the 20 animals used Sunday were not in the best condition. It is believed the best animals had been kept here to rest for the expected tournament in San Angelo during the Sept. 22-27 West Texas exposition.

The Texon field proved dusty and the players could not always follow the ball correctly in the heavy clouds churned up by their horses' hooves, spectators said.

The Midland line-up carried every man of the six that made the journey. Myrl Jowell, Bum Cowden, Clay Floyd, Jay Floyd, Clyde Cowden and Cowboy Evans.

SCORER SWEATS AS HE ATTEMPTS CHECK-UP

However much the Stanton club may have chuckled as a result of reading about how much the Bushers expected to beat them, the Bushers are doing the laughing today, following a 21-5 win Sunday afternoon at Cowden Park.

A home run and a smashing series of doubles killed the hope of Stanton towards beating the Bush tribe. There was particular reason why either team wanted to win: Stanton won the first half of the Tri-County league in a playoff with the Bushers, and there have been many fans who have always felt the Bushers were the stronger team, that it didn't get going in the deciding game.

C. F. Justi, Busher scorer, gave the following account of the first game:

Fatal Second

"The Bushers simply ran away with the game from the first inning, and I assure you that Girdley was the master of the game, for whenever errors and hits filled the bases, he would strike out the next batsmen.

"In both the second and third innings the Stanton team had three men left on bases—and pitching with great control brought Midland out of the hole.

"Girdley was at bat four times and made four runs. One flew over the right field fence. He had had two assists. After the sixth inning he slowed up as it was not necessary to exert himself. The Bushers then had 19 runs to Stanton's nothing.

"The following is a recapitulation of the Busher's second inning, which was the only worth while feature of the game:

"Whaley reached first on an error of Bill Teal; Girdley lifted one over the right field fence for a home run scoring Whaley; Whitmire struck out; Johnson singled, took second on a passed ball; Heath filed out to Fisher; Meeks was passed; Robison was hit by the pitcher, Meeks going to second; Wilmesmeier was passed; Mills doubled, scoring Whaley; Whitmire doubled scoring Girdley; Johnson was out. Bill Teal to Elmo Pollock.

"The most amusing incident of the game was when Fisher started to pitch for Stanton in the sixth, his principal delivery is a slow underhand curve, and for two innings he had the Bushers swinging at the air, but in the eighth inning they finally solved the delivery and were successful in collecting two more runs."

Too Good to Waste

YOUR hens are wasting feed—trying to eat only that part of the balanced ration they like. So we've made a new product—called Blue Tag Egg Pells. The hen can't waste a bit.

We've imported a machine from England that presses the egg mash into Egg Pells about half the size of a grain of corn. The hen eats the whole—not the bit that suits her taste. That means a big saving in feed cost and steadier production.

Egg Pells control the feeding situation—for maintenance (during molting period) feed sparingly—for egg production use hoppers, as formerly with egg mash, and feed in litter for exercise.

You've been pleased with Blue Tag Poultry and Stock feeds. And we know you'll like Blue Tag Egg Pells.

A HOOPLE CALAMITY

GANGRENE FEAR HURRIES RELIEF IN STORM AREA

SANTO DOMINGO, Sept. 8. (UP).—Gangrene threatened 100 victims injured by the hurricane which wrecked Santo Domingo as the city strove today to re-establish its water supply and remove pestilence dangers.

The death toll, increased hourly by gangrene and lockjaw, now totals 4,000.

Doctors and nurses worked without sleep in overcrowded hospitals and were handicapped by lack of supplies.

The exact number dead was impossible to learn since several brigades working separately cremated unidentified bodies.

Strong harbor currents prevented relief vessels from unloading, lighters and barges having been destroyed.

The city of ruin was alarmed today by reports that a new storm was approaching from Trinidad. The hospital congestion was being relieved by tents.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8. (P)—The government today cabled $25,000 to the hurricane relief in Santo Domingo. President Ortiz Rubio cabled his condolences.

Schools Open—

Today thousands of boys and girls will begin the school work of the year," he said. "Very few will have the traditional attitude of the snail's pace; by far the large majority will rejoice that the vacation is over and that old friendships can be renewed and new friends explored.

"Punctuality, regularity of attendance, promptness in discharge of obligations are school virtues to be cultivated. The waste caused by irregularity of attendance should be reduced to the minimum. Youth can render its greatest service to the state and society by contributing to the efficiency of the schools through the observance of regulations and by exercising the kind of co-operation with teachers and students which in later years will evidence the qualities of good citizenship."

To officials he said: "The ideals of the teachers in the public schools, since they deal with immature children, should be on a parity with those of ministers. Education is not teaching the youth the shapes of letters and the tricks of numbers and then leaving them to turn arithmetic to roguesy and literature to lust."

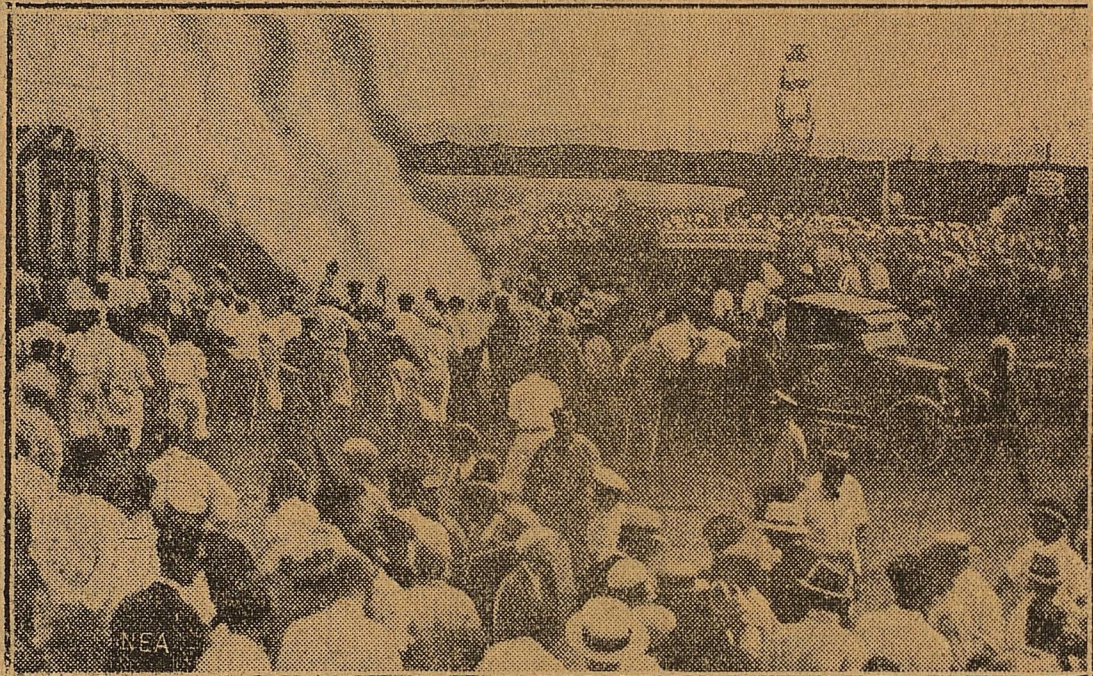

To teachers: "The teacher who dislikes children and finds her work to be drudgery should change her vocation. Success will depend largely upon whether you are more interested in the children than in the subject matter to be taught."

Where 6 Were Killed as Vandals Wrecked Train

This tangled mass of steel is all that was left of the locomotive and baggage car of the Fast Frisco Limited, "The Texan," after it was derailed near St. Louis, Mo., killing six and injuring 58 others. Railroad officials, in preliminary reports, stated that the 12-coach train was purposely wrecked by placing of stones on a long curve, by some person holding a grudge against the railroad, or possibly by train robbers.

When Navy Plane Killed Two at Chicago Races

Military police and excited spectators are shown here gathered around the blazing wreckage of the pursuit plane in which Lieutenant J. P. DeShazo, navy air ace, crashed in front of the bleachers at the Chicago air races, killing himself and Louis Weiner, concession operator. The ill-fated pilot was streaking around the home pylon in a race with other navy pilots when his speedy little ship was caught in a backwash of air and hurled to the ground. Seven spectators were slightly injured by hot oil and bits of wreckage.

How Telegraph Saved a Song Hit

Manager Smith of the Postal Telegraph here tells a good one in which his company figured not long since.

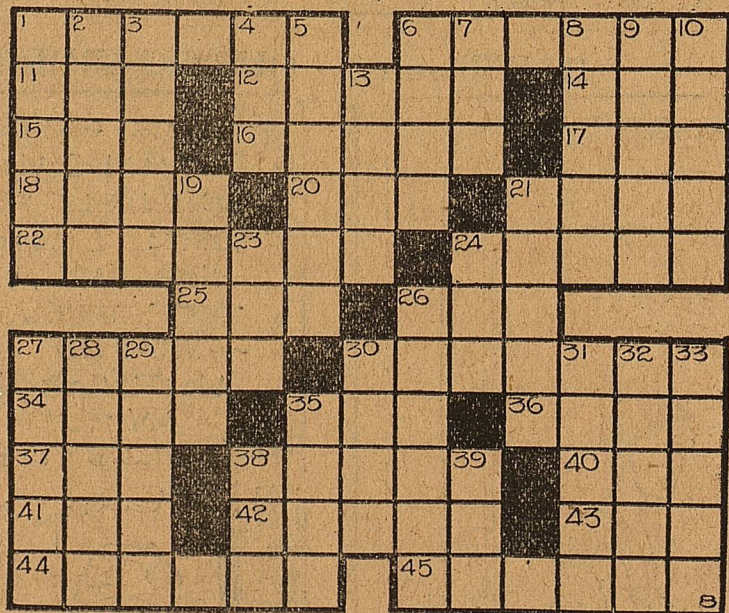

There is no novelty in sending a song over the radio any more, but when a song, music and all, goes over the telegraph, it's news. Recently, Irving Berlin, promised Nathaniel Shilkret, conductor of the RCA hour, a new composition to be broadcast on a program sponsored by the Radiola division of the RCA Victor company. Delayed in Hollywood by the filming of the latest picture for which he has written the score, Berlin was unable to complete the song in time. He did, however, write the choruses of two ballads which Shilkret submitted to the public during a recent Radiola hour. At this time the radio audience was asked to select one of these numbers for another performance, when the work would be completely orchestrated. The ballad called "Just a Little was chosen.

The date on which the number was to be broadcast approached. Shilkret has a chorus but no verse. Berlin finished the verse and its lyrics but was puzzled as to how to get it to New York in time for orchestration. The Postal Telegraph company came to his rescue. Over their wires they transmitted from Los Angeles to New York a photograph of the lead sheet of the manuscript.

SATURDAY'S ANSWER

AMERICANS TRIM BRITONS IN FAST POLO CUP OPENER

INTERNATIONAL FIELD, WEST-BURY, N. Y., Sept. 8. (AP)—America began the defense of the international polo cup Saturday by decisively whipping the British challengers, 10 to 5, before a crowd of 40,000 spectators.

Captain Hitchcock's hard-riding and hard-hitting "Big Four," scoring in each of the eight periods, turned the game into a semi-rout in the last half after barely holding a 5-3 lead at half-time.

Eric Pendley of California, playing his first international game, led the American scoring with five goals. Earle Hopping, who thoroughly justified his selection at No. 2 by playing a spectacular game, tallied three times and Captain Hitchcock twice.

Lewis Lacey, the veteran Angol-Argentine, was easily the star for the challengers. He scored three goals and single handed broke through repeatedly in the last half to keep the British from being overwhelmed.

Nine special trains brought crowds from New York. All roads into Westbury were clogged with automobiles. Airplanes landed scores of other spectators at nearby flying fields.

All the Americans need is one more victory to retain the cup. The second match is scheduled next Wednesday.

BETTER SEED HERE

Seed from Midland county's first and only seed farm will go on the market here this fall. Sam Wimberly, local farmer working under direction of County Agent Frank Wendt has completed the tedious task of placing paper bags over the maize heads on his acreage of pure bred milo to prevent cross pollination.

Wimberly plans to produce sufficient pure bred grain sorghum seeds to supply Midland county, and he later may go into the production of pure bred cotton seed.

Feared Destroyed by Hurricane

The tomb of Christopher Columbus in the Cathedral of Santo Domingo, shown above, may have been destroyed by the destructive hurricane that devastated the Dominican capital, according to early dispatches. This photo shows the elaborate marble shrine erected over the crypt containing the ashes of the discoverer of the New World. Failure of detailed communication to list the damage of the storm has kept the whole world on edge.

EVERYTHING SET FOR PICNIC OF THE LIONS CLUB

The Rotarians, smarting under the decisive beating their best runner received at last year's Lion's picnic, have petitioned the Lions committee to be permitted to enter an even faster runner for this year's event. Rotarians Ryan, Vickers, Meeks, Ambrose, Nobles, Murphy and Howe met the rules committee of the Lions Saturday in the private dining room of the Scharbauer hotel and after a session the Rotarian challenge was accepted. The Lions committee insisted upon knowing the name of the Rotarian champion but upon the representation of Ryan and Howe that their man was one of their own kind and in good club standing all objections were withdrawn. It would seem that the refusal of the Rotarians to make known their runners was a point well taken as the Lions were equally reticent as to their own champion. John Bonner suggested that a three round boxing bout be substituted for the foot race but upon objections from Mr. Murphy the motion was not favorably considered. Ily Pratt wanted an oratorical contest put on but after argument it was decided that foot races and oratory had no special affinity. Pratt's remark that the Lions picnic might not be much of a party after all was nullified when the Lions committee extended an invitation to as many Rotarians as could make it convenient to attend. He then commented on the matter to the extent of stating that it was possible that the Lions might, after all things being considered, be a fairly decent bunch of fellows and he would be glad to accept their invitation.

The time of the picnic being set for not later than 6 p. m. Tuesday, Sept. 9, it is urged that all those who will attend make certain to leave for Cloverdale at 5:30 in order to be in at the beginning of the festivities. Those who do not get there on time will miss a real treat.
