CRYING FOR HELP

The editorial appearing a few days ago in a Waco newspaper, reprinted yesterday in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, about cries for help by West Texas, is enough to boil the blood of any West Texan. One would think from reading the Waco editorial that central and west portions of Texas are entirely different states, and one living in this section almost wishes such condition could be true.

If there were ever an instance of where one part of a state goes a long way toward paying for what another portion gets, West Texas has been doing such paying. Figures released time after time have shown that West Texas gets back less in proportion to the tax money turned in than the more thickly settled parts of the state.

Midland, where the west really begins, and the great country surrounding and to the west of it, may well resent the inferences by the Waco editor that this section wants relief from central Texas.

The real West Texas wants no charity. Give to West Texas anything like an even break, and it will produce more, do more, look like more and amount to more than central Texas in a given length of time. With cattle, cotton, oil and all other commodities at low prices, West Texas has surpassed within a few years what most of the central Texas areas have done in many decades.

NOT MISSING A CHANCE

Another instance of where an editor could not refrain from "taking a crack" at West Texas is an editorial appearing in the current issue of the Texas Commercial News, published at Sugarland, Texas, a self styled "monthly magazine for business executives." The West Texas chamber of commerce, which has held the entire universe of the resources of its territory, is criticized in probably the most one-sided editorials we have read. Evidently, the News expects the West Texas chamber to enter the text book business.

"Under the caption 'Why not supply the truth,' the following editorial appeared in that magazine:

We can readily sympathize with the West Texas chamber of commerce in its fight to gain recognition in text books on geography, but the proposal to file damage suits against authors and publishers who describe that area as "semi-arid, unfitted for agriculture, swept by piercing winds, and having no oil, wheat or cotton production", appears somewhat ridiculous.

Of course such statements are utter nonsense, grossly untrue, misleading, damaging, and most of the other things that West Texas may say of them, but we can hardly imagine that court action can be the best solution of the situation.

Wouldn't it be much better for a West Texan, or a group of West Texans, to rise to the occasion by furnishing an accurate geographical picture of that vast empire? We have no doubt that if the truth, nothing more, nothing less, had been furnished in suitable form several years ago, and supplied to the educational authorities, such misinterpretation would never have occurred.

As a matter of fact, we fall to wondering why the West Texas chamber of commerce, the oldest regional body of its kind in the country, did not long ago supply this deficiency as one of its major contributions to the development of that territory. Certainly it could have no objective more worthy of its attention than to supply the school children of America a true picture of the economic development and possibilities of that huge section that in 1929 produced 40 per cent of the state's cotton, one-seventh of the nation's oil and four-fifths of its mohair.

Uncle Sam Doesn't Pay Much Money but He Must Be a Pretty Good Boss—There Are Many Department Workers Who Spend Their Lives on the Job—and Enjoy It

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Either Uncle Sam is a fine boss or else a lot of people are easily satisfied. Periodically one opens one's eyes in more or less astonishment here as the Civil Service transfers a few old federal employes to the retired list and one discovers men who have been on the same job or almost the same job for half a century or more.

breeds an interesting type of worker who takes a deep personal pride in the fact that he is part of the government. He takes immense pride in the performance of his own job and acquires, with long service and assured security, a sense of vested property right in it which is seldom felt by employes of private business.

The Life Story of LON CHANEY by DAN THOMAS. Advertisement featuring a portrait of Lon Chaney and promotional text.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final story in the series of six on the life of Lon Chaney.

By DAN THOMAS NEA Service Writer HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Sept. 19.—Who will step into Lon Chaney's unique place on the screen? With the famous actor's funeral rites over, film fans already are asking this question. And it's a question very easily answered—Lon will have no successor.

It was Lon Chaney's habit to work on his various make-ups between shots of his film. This picture shows him sewing a unique clown suit for use in "He Who Gets Slapped" while Victor Seastrom, director, and Tull Marshall (right) look on.

Never yet has a person been found who could step into the shoes of a famous star or screen personage. Sarah Bernhardt never was replaced after her death. Neither was Wally Reid, Valentino, Barbara LaMarr, Theodore Roberts or Mabel Normand. Each of them seemed to have a special niche in public favor or that could not be substituted, no matter how good. And Chaney now takes his place with these immortals of the footlights and klieg.

public's reaction was such that Cortez never has enjoyed any real success since. Even Valentino's brother failed as a successor to the popular idol. As a result of that experience, producers came to the realization they would have to build up entirely new personalities to take the places of those who had passed on. The public stands willing to accept the new personalities but they never will take a substitute.

OPTIMISM LACKING IN POSSIBILITIES FOR DROUGHT HELP

By B. P. BOLTON Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 10. (AP).—Observers here are apt to regard pessimistically the proposal of the West Texas chamber of commerce that a special session of congress be called to appropriate money for drought sufferers.

It was pointed out that congress meets again in December, just a few months off. One special session has just been completed. Finally, a special session calls for an expenditure of something like half a million dollars, and with these considerations it appears quite unlikely, from this distance, that the president would give any such a negative answer to any such request.

The suggestion that the legislature be called into special session has not been brought forth yet, but has been expected from some sources. Here a slightly different situation is presented. The state constitution specifically provides that the legislature may not appropriate funds for the benefit of individuals or corporations, but makes the possibly pertinent exception that the provision shall not apply in the event of a catastrophe.

Whether three successive years of drought would be legally classed a catastrophe would be the problem to be solved by the legal minds.

had his health not been failing. Along with him goes John Stephen Martin, the State Department's chief translator. Fifty years ago Martin went to work for the government as United States consul at Marseilles.

Examined 76,000 Aspirants Edwin C. Bartlett, employe of the Postoffice Department, has mostly retired after 45 years of service, mostly as foreman, assistant superintendent and special clerk in the Washington city postoffice. In the last five years he has supervised civil service examinations in Washington—holding 3788 local examinations in which there were 76,000 competitors.

Thomas Francis Roche has just died at the age of 67 after 47 years of continuous service in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. He was chief of the wetting division, and although he had reached retirement age he had been requested to stay on.

Besides such old-timers as these who are passing along, there are hundreds of others left in the government service with records almost as extensive.

est man at the Huge Tool company, and he wouldn't have to get up a sweat. They have traveling cranes to carry the big stuff east and west, north and south, to pick it up, to set it down, to turn it sideways, or to pitch it out. From the looks of that place, nobody gets tired around there, it's all so handy. If I was going to hire out and actually go to work somewhere, the first place I would apply would be the Huge Tool company.

I'm not going to crow too much about that race at the Lions picnic. I'll have to admit that I had a tip and placed my bet adversely. That Shep was too fast on the bases when he used to play ball with Lubbock for me to bet against him, but you'll have to hand it to Harry McClintic for staying fast longer than a lot of fellows. The secret of it is that he's still a bachelior, maybe takes life easy and has no worries.

Did you see what those cotton picking editors down at Waco said about West Texas hollering for help? I wouldn't trade Midland and this part of West Texas for Waco and the entire black mud belt if it was the only deal left. If you don't keep that black mud so wet that it hangs on your shoes, it won't even go to farm with. None of that loil weevil country for me.

HARD TEST IN TOURNEY

NEW YORK. (UP).—Professional golfers will have a severe test when they gather at the Fresh Meadow country club out on Long Island for the P.G.A. national championship which will be decided Sept. 8 to 13.

Fresh Meadows has a par of 70 with a yardage of 6,815. The par is one of the most difficult in the country. The layout has been changed out at one hole for the national event. This is at No. 5 where the tee has been shoved back some 50 yards thereby making the hole 578 yards long. The hole was difficult enough before the change, with out-of-bounds laying along its entire length.

His mother plans to go aloft with him when he has had a little more experience.

At Work on the

Payne Case

Editor's Note: This story will give a different slant to the Payne mystery. The staff writer who "covered" it was on the ground, close enough to feel the explosion that dismembered the criminal's body.

There were many things one might have asked of himself when viewing the body of A. D. Payne as it lay on the slab at an Amarillo morgue.

But there were no questions in the marble vacuity of the murderer's face; he might have died a martyr to love rather than an agent to love's sacrifice.

He was smiling when he raised himself on his bunk for his last sardonic statement and lines that marked on his face decision in life remained indelibly fixed on his features that were frozen in death.

Payne's manner of smuggling into his cell the charge that bore him out of the life he had found himself incompatible with still remains a secret, so far as the public knows.

The funeral of the Amarillo attorney was one in which the past apparently was forgotten.

But the sins of the father must be borne by the children. It would be expected that they will always remember, and remembering, suffer.

And, an ironic gesture of fate, the children may lose the money the lawyer was seemingly so desirous of having them collect.

AMARILLO, Sept. 10.—The first step of what gave promise of a heated court fight was taken when attorneys for the Lincoln National Life Insurance company filed suit in the United States district court here to cancel two insurance policies, one on the life of A. D. Payne and the other on his wife, whom he killed June 27 with a dynamite explosion which demolished the Payne family automobile.

The policy on Payne's life was for $10,000, dated August 28, 1929. He waived until the policy had been in effect a year and a day before ending his life with an explosion in his cell in the Potter county jail here after midnight of August 29.

Payne wrote in his diary, in the last entry, that he had waited long enough for his children to collect the $10,000 insurance. The insurance company was expected to argue that Payne contemplated suicide before the year had elapsed.

steps immediately to attempt to collect both policies. It appeared that only one of the several policies involving Payne would be paid without protest. That one was issued by the Southwestern Life Insurance company 14 years ago, for $2,500.

Homer Callaway, attorney for Sid Payne, said the beneficiaries expected to collect the $10,000 policy of Payne's that was one year old, as well as the one issued in 1916, and one the three policies carried by Mrs. Payne, totaling $11,000.

MIDLAND-TEXON POLO GAME TODAY TO AFFECT 3-YEAR RECORD

Midland Horses Race at the Georgetown Fall Meeting This Afternoon

MIDLAND HAS EDGE OF 3-2 OVER GREEN

Bum Cowden
Myrl Jowell
Cowboy Evans
Clay Floyd
Jay Floyd

This is the midland quintet that left this morning for the second game of a three-game series with Texon. The game will be played this afternoon, the third Sunday.

The dope seems to be in favor of the first four starting the game, with Jay Floyd alternating with Clay Floyd and Cowboy Evans at No. 2 and 3 positions.

Bum will likely be at No. 1 Myrl at No. 2, Cowboy at No. 3 and Clay at No. 4, to start the game.

Texon won the first game of the series Sunday. The records show that, out of a total of five games played between the Midland and Texon teams, Midland has won three, Texon two. In case Texon sweeps the present series the all-time record of wins would go to Texon, four to three. If Midland wins one game of the series the score would be evened. Should Midland take this afternoon's and Sunday's game, Midland would be out front, five to two.

Midland will likely send a team to the San Angelo West Texas exposition polo tournament, news dispatches from Angelo say.

Are the Old Masters Too Old?

MIDLAND GRID OPPONENT IS STRONG ELEVEN, HERALD SAYS

Midland's first grid team will feature a foe that has plenty of reserve power, the El Paso Herald says.

This morning's edition had the following to say about the Austin high eleven:

Everything points to a successful season for Coach Luther Coblenz and his Austin Panthers in their first year of high school football competition.

Heretofore the Panthers have played in the junior high school division, but with the completion of their new building and the addition of courses, they are ready to step out with El Paso's other three high schools.

Coach Coblenz is swinging into his second week of grid practice and has 60 candidates trying for positions on the eleven. The seven lettermen from last year's junior high eleven will have to work hard for their position this year. Dale, Johnson, Miranda, Witz, Hines, Gonzalez and Dyer are the lettermen.

The new men in school are showing promise. John Rogers, a husky youngster from Cisco, is showing promise at center. Frank Tobin looks promising on the line as does Delgado. The Panthers will open their season on September 27 with Midland high school at the stadium in a night game. The Midland game is one of the hardest on the Austin schedule. The two other hard games are with the El Paso and Bowie high schools.

The Panthers have done only light work to date, but Coach Coblenz plans to give them stiffer sessions this week in order to get them in good condition.

SWIMMERS LOSE GARB

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., (UP).—Drowsiness on the part of a guard cost a group of Nebraska youths their clothes, but they had a good swim, anyway. The men decided to take a plunge and left one member of their party on the bank to guard the clothes. The guard fell asleep and during his slumber, an automobile drove by, stopped, and a man grabbed the clothes and departed quickly in the car. The bathers managed to return home late at night, without being seen by the neighbors.

FAILURE IN FIRST GAME SATURDAY IS REASON

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 10. (AP)—Great Britain's decisive defeat in the first match of the series for the international polo cup may lead to a shift in the challengers' forces for the second and perhaps deciding game this afternoon.

Rumors had it that Capt. Richard George would ride at No. 1 for the Britons tomorrow with Gerald Balding returning to No. 2; Lewis L. Lacey to back, and Capt. C. I. T. Roark retaining the No. 3 post.

The British four as it lined up on Saturday, had Balding at No. 1, Lacey at No. 2, Roark at No. 3, and Lt. Humphrey Guinness at back. Under the terms of the reported shift, Guinness, an emergency appointee anyhow, would lose his place.

As for the United States, it was considered a virtual certainty that the same lineup would be called upon for the second game as trounced the British in the opening match, 10-5. If so, the Americans will ride out with Eric Pedley, of California, high scorer of the first game, at No. 1; Earle A. S. Hopping, No. 2; Tommy Hitchcock, No. 3, and Winston Guest, back.

JOWELL SAYS EL PASO RODEO TO BE ONE OF BIGGEST EVER HELD

EL PASO, Sept. 10. (Special).—An invitation to all cowboys and cowgirls to participate in El Paso's second annual rodeo and roundup was extended here today through W. D. Connell, president of the Southwest Range stock show and roundup. The rodeo, which will be a world's championship affair, is to be staged here Oct. 3, 4 and 5. A steer roping contest, for cowpunchers who believe themselves capable of handling the tough ones from ranches of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, is scheduled to be held Oct. 6 and 7 in Juarez, Old Mexico.

Prize money and trophies that amount to nearly $15,000 will be waiting for the winners of the various events listed in the official program, according to Spence Jowell, judge, Midland man.

Col. W. T. (Tom) Johnson, millionaire cattleman and rodeo enthusiast of San Antonio, is producing the rodeo. He will be in charge of the steer roping contests in Juarez, also.

The program which is to be offered during the three day series of contests follows:

Grand entry, cowboys' calf roping, cowboys' bronc riding, cowgirls' trick and fancy riding, cowboys' steer wrestling, boys' calf roping, cowgirls' and cowboys' quadruple roping, cowboys' trick and fancy riding, cowgirls' bronc riding, cowboys' bareback bronc riding, cowboys' steer riding.

TEXARKANA, Sept. 10. (AP).—President Hoover and the interstate commerce commission have been asked by Senator Morris Sheppard that immediate action be taken on the application of the Texas and Pacific Railroad company to construct 333 miles of railroad in West Texas.

He also announced his willingness to go to Washington at any time it might be deemed necessary in connection with the drought situation in Texas.
