CRANE WILDCAT GUSHER TESTED FOR 35 BARRELS HOURLY

FUHRMAN STARTS FLOWING

Tubbs Well Flows 16 Minutes When It Is Unleashed

Testing of the Cranfill and Gulf No. 1 Tubbs, in western Crane county, for a 35 barrel an hour producer, and increasing in production by the Fuhrman No. 1 Ford wildcat in Andrews county, which began yesterday to flow by heads, occupied the principal oil interest today in the Permian Basin. Both wells have interesting features to distinguish them from other wells in the Basin.

Cranfill and Gulf No. 1 J. B. Tubbs, Crane county wildcat which came in early Tuesday and made a flow of 100 barrels of sweet oil in five minutes, after being shut in for three days, was given a test Thursday afternoon, making a 16 minute flow and putting 117 barrels of 39.3 gravity oil into the storage tank.

Flows Made Hourly

Following this flow, a head of 40 barrels was made an hour and a half later, and after that heads of from 32 to 35 barrels an hour were made at intervals of about an hour. The well was estimated as a 35 barrel an hour producer. Gravity is placed at 38.6, that being the test of the first oil flowed by the well.

Located in rank wildcat territory, 19 miles west of the Church and Fields Crane county pool, about 17 miles south of the Penn pool in Ector and 14 miles northeast of the Shipley pool in Ward county, the Tubbs well has created a sensation by producing after it had struck sulphur water. Gas, estimated at from 5,000,000 to 20,000,000 cubic feet, accompanied the oil strike. The pay was encountered at 4,295.

After the first test late yesterday, the hole was deepened a foot but without change.

The well is located 2,310 from the north line and 330 from the east of section 8, block B-27, public school land, Crane county.

Fuhrman Making Heads
Flowing 127 barrels from noon Thursday until 11 o'clock this morning, the Fuhrman Petroleum Corporation No. 1 W. T. Ford, southern Andrews wildcat producer, was making heads at intervals of practically every three hours today. The well apparently was gaining oil. Until yesterday it had been making from 20 to 30 barrels on swabbing tests.

The operation was shut down late yesterday at 4,495 feet, but drilling was to have been resumed this afternoon. Oil men here were not definite as to whether another pay strata had been penetrated or whether the flow was coming from the levels encountered before. Pay has been found, it is believed, at 4,289-96, at 4,373 and the last at 4,452.

Since striking 26,000,000 cubic feet of gas several weeks ago, the operation has been one of the most interesting in the Permian Basin. The gas was cased off to allow deepening of the hole.

The Fuhrman well is located 2,200 feet from the west line and 440 from the south of section 16, block A-43, public school land, Andrews county.

Frosh Team Ties With Junior High in Game

A frosh team coached by R. C. Cotner battled the junior high school team to a 6-6 draw decision Thursday afternoon, making the second tie of the two midget clubs have deadlocked this season.

A feature of the game was a frosh pep squad under the direction of Miss Stella Maye Lanham.

Refuse to Answer Dead Men's Charges

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 10. (AP)—Sometime ago, Motorcycle Officers Edward Fitzgerald and W. B. Phares gave tickets to three men.

A little while later the officers were shot to death in attempting the arrest of a robber.

Then, the other day, the three men were brought to trial in corporation court. One fought his case, calmly observing that the prosecution witnesses were dead, a fact which, of course, resulted in his being freed.

The other two, however, refused to speak when there was no accuser to answer, and rather than refute the words of dead men they paid fines. One, as he left the courtroom, left a $20 check for the police burial fund.

Peasants at Mass Burned And Shot by Religionists

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 10. (AP)—The newspaper La Prensa today says that 80 peasants died in a church at San Carlos, Tabasco state, when religious enemies poured gasoline around the building while worshippers were at mass, barred the door and set the gasoline on fire.

Worshippers battered down the door, and many were shot down coming out.

The paper said the act was due to religious persecution by state authorities.

The Columbia left Harbor Grace at 11:20 yesterday morning, eastern standard time.

The Irish coast reported weather there poor for flying, with showers and low hanging clouds.

Prohi Agent Faces Conspiracy Sentence

HOUSTON, Oct. 10. (AP)—Federal court jury here today convicted Federal Prohibition Agent D. E. Cheatam of liquor charges in connection with his alleged frame-up of W. L. Edwards, deceased.

Judge J. C. Hutcheson did not announce immediately what the sentence would be.

Judge Hutcheson later gave Cheatam an indeterminate prison term of from one to two years.

Galveston Retains Second Shipping Point Standing

GALVESTON, Texas, Oct. 10. (AP)—The Galveston customs district retained its rank as second in the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, according to figures received from the bureau of customs at New York. New York was first, and New Orleans was third.

Exports from the Galveston district during the year were valued at $511,115,240, while import values totaled $28,427,602.

Customs collections in the Galveston district for the past 12 months ending Sept. 30 were approximately $6,767,000. Of this total receipts at the port of Galveston alone were about $5,352,500.

Hay Fever Addicts Can Rejoice—Brown

Only the intelligent take hay fever, the Rev. George F. Brown said in the tones of one who might be quoting, "Only the brave deserve the fair."

"I have the assurance of Dr. Balyeat, who lectured to the medical society when West Texas doctors were here," he said. "And that seems to be the only consolation in having the malady."

Mr. Brown said the speaker told him that a strict check had been made on the mental properties of young students susceptible to hay fever.

"Each of these students is capable of making A's, whether he is making them or not," the speaker said, "Each is apt to be of a nervous, temperamental disposition, and he is a good student potentially."

The minister, who is pastor of the First Baptist church, said that so many members of his congregation suffered with him from hay fever that all flowers had to be removed from the church.

"So it's a bit of consolation to gain some personal flattery out of one's condition when he is in the doldrums because of failure to have beauty in the form of flowers around him," the minister laughed.

MIDLAND NOW HAS NO PASSENGER AIRLINES

Oil men and business executives who have been flying to Midland over SAT and WAE air liners no longer will be enabled to do so. WAE suspended operations Thursday through Midland and SAT planes have not been seen since Sunday.

Both lines suspended service in conformity to recent contracts let by the government over this airmail route that is a segment of the Atlanta to Los Angeles distance. Passenger and mail planes will fly over Midland, but will stop in Big Spring as the only grounding place between Fort Worth and El Paso.

Both lines had been in operation several months, SAT for almost two years and WAE since May 4.

Some idea of the revenue resulting from local passenger traffic over the lines may be gleaned from the following figures of revenue over representative months:

In July, SAT carried 26 passengers from Midland, the revenue being $496.02. In the same month, WAE carried 36 passengers, the revenue being $958.33. The next month found SAT carrying 23 passengers, revenue being $958.33. The next month found $907.83. Thus, in two months, the revenue from the two lines was almost $3,000.

HERRICK, FORMER CONGRESSMAN, IS TO SERVE IN PEN

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10. (AP)—Manuel Herrick, former Oklahoma congressman, who was arrested in August and charged with operating a liquor still in South Maryland, was sentenced today in federal court for six months for the manufacture and possession of liquor.

A negro and white man, convicted with Herrick, were sentenced to three and six months, respectively. All three will serve time in the city jail here.

LAMESA, Oct. 10. —You don't have to believe this one. A Dawson county rooster lays eggs.

J. L. Kidd, owner of the feathered prodigy, who lives nine miles south of Lamesa, didn't believe it either at first, but on having his suspicions aroused, he kept the chattering in a coop until he laid three eggs.

The bird is of the White Leghorn variety, with all the characteristics of the male. He has the long sickle feathers in his tail, large comb and hackles, and spurs, and to all intents and purposes is a full-fledged masculine bird.

But he or she lays eggs. The bird cackles upon laying, instead of crowing, according to Kidd.

TWO TRY TO BREAK West-East Records

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10. (AP)—Two flyers took off here on transcontinental flights seeking to set new records in their particular classes.

Miss Laura Ingalls took off at 6:13 this morning, seeking to break the woman's west to east record.

Robert Buck, 16, took off at 7:11 this morning, seeking to lower the junior transcontinental west to east record.

Outstanding Ministers Preach Here Sunday

Midland will have a visit Sunday from two outstanding ministers of the Synod of Texas, Dr. Lawrence E. Selfridge of San Antonio, and Dr. Robert L. Cowan of McKinney. Dr. Selfridge will arrive in the city Saturday and will speak at the morning service at the Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Cowan will come Sunday evening and will speak at the night service.

The occasion of the visit of the churchmen to Midland is the annual meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of Texas in the First Presbyterian church, Big Spring, on Tuesday night, October 14. The pastor of that church, the Rev. R. L. Owen has arranged to have all the churches in Big Spring served by Presbyterian ministers Sunday, as quite a number of the most prominent ones will arrive Saturday for pre-synod committee meetings. So the Midland church is said fortunate in bringing to Midland these two men.

According to the pastor of the Presbyterian church, there are 280 ministers and 384 churches in the Synod, and this would make a possible 664 churchmen to attend the meeting, as all the ministers and one elder from each church are entitled to attend as voting members.

The meetings of the Synod will be open to the public. Many people from Midland are planning to attend some of the sessions in Big Spring.

Several cattle deals, at prices well above those received in recent months, have been reported here within the past few days, the largest single deal being the purchase by S. R. Preston of 1,400 head of steer and heifer calves from the Scharbauer and Lee ranch near Lovington. Consideration of this deal was not given. The Scharbauer and Lee calves are from some of the best blooded cows in eastern New Mexico. Preston will pasture them at his ranch south of Midland, receiving them at the local stock pens when they are shipped here November 1.

Several deals for cows and calves, ranging in prices from $65 to $82.50, are reported. Specific prices on sales have not been obtained except that an Arizona buyer is said to have paid Foy Proctor $82.50 for combed four-year-old cows with steer calves and $80 for cows with heifer calves. The same buyer is said to be receiving today a string of cows and calves from W. B. Elkin off his south ranch recently sold to V. I. Tippett of San Angelo. Other cow and calf deals are said to have been made at $65 and $75, and heifer yearlings at $40.

Artur Middleton, of the Texas Livestock Marketing association, bought this week the steer calves of J. V. Stokes and J. V. Stokes Jr. (See CATTLE DEALS page 6)

OUTLOOK CHEERFUL
AUSTIN, Oct. 10. (UP)—A cheerful outlook was held by the Texas Cattle Raisers' association in a report on cattle and range conditions here today by Federal Statisticians Carl Robinson and F. E. Finley.

The statisticians said the condition prior to October 1 was becoming critical and preparations for moving livestock from droughty areas was becoming general.

Cattle are holding up well considering the dry summer. Some of the cattle are fat.

Shipments to market were light except in dry localities. Improvement was reported in the cattle condition in the eastern part of the state but a slight decline was reported for the state as a whole.

MARFA CATTLEMAN ON THE JOB

The organization perfected some 10 years ago by cattlemen of Marfa and surrounding country, known as the Highland Hereford Breeders' association, for the purpose of marketing calves in uniform lots according to quality and weight, has been a success in that the members have been steadfast in keeping the organization going.

Even now, when the average cattleman finds it easy to be somewhat "down in the mouth" because of lower prices, the Marfa breeders are holding their annual sale and are staging their annual fair which is practically altogether a feeder show.

The Marfa men have a high standard of quality, perhaps no higher than Midland Hereford breeders, have, but they have advertised to the buyers of feeder cattle the quality of Highland Herefords until it is a simple matter to get the buyers there for the annual sale. Some years, the Marfa men hold the sales in the north, taking car lots to the big cattle shows and putting them in the auctions, also shipping train loads there to be sold to feeders.

The principal difference in the Marfa and Midland tactics is that theirs is handled through organization and the local cattle are sold largely on the basis of "every fellow for himself." The Reporter-Telegram doesn't attempt to say which is the better method, but it commends the plan of cooperative advertising of cattle bred in the Highland area. It makes selling easier for the association and for individual cattlemen.

A POINT TO REMEMBER

Dirigible flights during the last three or four years probably had most of us pretty thorough persuaded that the lighter-than-air craft was by far the safest form of aerial transportation available today. But now the R-101 bursts into flame and kills all but four or five of her passengers and crew, and the old doubts are coming back stronger than ever.

A couple of points, however, are worth remembering. In the first place many aeronautical experts had their doubts about the R-101 from the beginning, from the viewpoint of design and construction. She was the world's largest airship, but not the best. And in the second place, it is well to bear in mind that hydrogen gas filled her gas cells. In this country non-explosive helium is used, and the safety factor is immeasurably increased.

The R-101's tragedy is shocking, but it does not necessarily prove that dirigibles are too dangerous for commercial use.

WHOLESOME ENTERTAINMENT

The world series is one of those American institutions that we could not very well get along without.

To be sure, graybeards have a way of wagging their heads at our absorption in sport, and they are now reminding us that watching a ball game is a poor way of getting exercise. The world series is being compared with the old Roman gladiatorial shows—less bloody, but no more useful.

Just the same, it serves a good purpose. If it does nothing else, it gets our mind off our troubles. In addition, it gives us a number of thrills and injects a bit of color and excitement into a routine that often gets rather drab.

In other words, it's fine stuff, and we should be none the better off if it were abolished.

ERRORGRAMS

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scramble below—and unscramble!

Measles Killed Ten Soldiers of the A. E. F. During the World War for Every One Who Died of Gas Poisoning—10 Per Cent of the Overseas Army in Hospitals When Conflict Ended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Poison gas killed not more than 200 soldiers of the A. E. F. during the World War, but measles killed 2,370, according to the surgeon general's office of the army.

The Vital Statistics Division of that office has been busy compiling medical statistics on the 4,123,930 officers and men who served in the war, half of whom reached France. Its figures can be used to estimate accurately the number of lives that may be saved by adequate hospital supplies and equipment for military forces in case of any future war. Complete statistics are gathered on such data as sick and mortality rates for all important diseases, accidents, climatic effects, battle casualties by numbers and percentages, and by kind of weapon or agency, parts of the body affected, losses per organization and total battle losses.

The estimate of 200 poison gas fatalities is compared with 38,147 soldiers and marines who were killed instantly in action or who died before they could be removed.

Few Deaths by Gas
Nevertheless, 70,552 gassed men were taken to hospitals as against 147,651 hospitalized for shell, shrapnel and gunshot wounds. But according to the surgeon general's figures, only 1.7 per cent of the former died as against 3.26 per cent of the latter. Only four of the 36 men listed as totally blinded in the war lost their sight by gas.

A total of 234,136 men in the American uniform were wounded. About 14,700 of them died, bringing the total of men killed or mortally wounded in battle to 52,349.

Total World War battle casualties are given as 272,283, or 6.6 per cent of the 4,123,000 men raised for the struggle. Those killed or mortally wounded in action were about 1.4 per cent of the entire force.

Each case of sickness and non-battle injury required an average of 27 days of hospital treatment, each war gas patient 42 days and each victim of gunshot, shell or shrapnel 95 days.

Casualties exceeded three per cent per division or less than five per cent of the actual battle days. The average losses of an infantry regiment were about double that of its division on the same days.

Will Be Prepared
Such information is used to compute aggregate medical personnel, hospitalization and supplies that will be required for the saving of lives in a theater of operations, and careful study is made of the highest average number of casualties per division per day for several consecutive days so that the medical service in the combat zone can be prepared for the maximum strain.

The army now boasts "a volume of charts, graphs and tables which enable the surgeon general to stay with surprising accuracy how many doctors, nurses, hospital beds and kinds of hospitals, medical supplies and equipment will be needed for any military force in time of war under any given conditions."

At times, it is pointed out, as many as one fourth of the military force in a given battle zone may be under the direct administrative and disciplinary control of the medical service. From 13 to 15 per cent of the force may be in hospitals and from 10 to 12 per cent in the medical personnel attached to the combatants.

On Armistice Day, in 1918, 10,239 per cent of the A. E. F. was in the hospital. The Vital Statistics Division has calculated, however, that if the high hospital admission rate during the Meuse-Argonne operations from Sept. 26 to Nov. 11 had

It won't be long until my birthday rolls around. It's October 23 and I hope to have a real celebration. I've been hearing a lot of remarks by other members of the staff to the effect that I had gone over pretty good with Reporter-Telegram readers. Whether there's anything to it or not it makes me feel good. But this is going to be the acid test. If I have any friends I want to hear from them on my birthday, not with a box of cigars or a lot of gifts. I just want to get some personal letters, birthday cards and greetings and remembrances of that sort to give me some pep. Remember the date, it's October 23.

A prominent man here who used to drink a lot told me what caused him to quit. He said one night, when his wife was sitting in the living room and he was down town as usual, a couple of friends from another town walked up on the porch and they called, "Is this where John Doe lives?" (John Doe substituted for real name). The wife called back, "Yes, just carry him in, the front door is not locked." When John got home, the friends were still there and told him about the incident. He was down at Bill Elkin's ranch south of here the other day, the place Bill had sold and was moving his cattle from. Ward saw that they were short a cow hand, and although he hadn't been on a horse in 16 years he volunteered to help out. He rode all the morning, came in at noon and ate dinner. All through the meal he kept telling Mrs. Elkin, who harkened back to old times and cooked the meal, what a fine dinner it was. From reports received here he must have been sincere in his compliments, because when he started to ride back to the front door he couldn't get on his horse.

Presidio Not to Wait for Manana

PRESIDIO, Oct. 2 (AP).—This 300-year old town on the Mexican border in the Big Bend, last of the cattle frontiers, is looking to a new area of development that will make its 2,000 inhabitants into a second El Paso. The culmination of ten years of Santa Fe extension from Alpine with that of the Mexican Orient was driven.

Civilization has come slowly to the country between here and Alpine, and the new line runs 30 miles through a rich ranching area. Before, it was 70 miles to the nearest railway with only two houses between and men have wandered for days lost in its vast waste. Now, however, new towns are being planned and mining and agricultural resources will be tapped. The new line is expected to bring development in Jeff Davis and Brewster counties as well as Presidio.

The Shafter silver mine, which was worked for half a century and abandoned recently, is to reopen within a few months and new machinery is being installed. Instead of a 50-mile haul to Marfa the mine will send its ore to the railroad station here. This had given rise to the hope that smelters will be located here.

The town is on the boom and it's a paradise for realtors. They have subdivided the banks of the Rio Grande and back into the interior desert land is selling by the front foot. Irrigated farm lands along the river are among the best in the state. A hope of oil has come to the country along with its other expansion and several major companies have scouts in the territory.

The new and old are joining hands in Presidio. The town has one long crooked street flanked by adobe buildings, along which Mexican boys ride burros. All the merchants in the city except three are of Mexican origin. There is a toll bridge cross the river and on the Mexican side rise the Santa Cruz mountains. It was in these mountains that the Indians of the Southwest made their last stand. There the Indians would cross from their lairs in the mountain to raid upon the whites of Texas, long after most of the southwest was civilized.

Romance Rides in an Ice Truck--- And Lad Wins a $10,000,000 Bride

By NEA Service

PASADENA, Calif., Oct. 2.—Because a girl named Harriet Huntington had no false pride to keep her from taking a slightly unconventional ride with him, young Albert Edward Doerr finds himself at the center of one of the strangest romances ever seen on the west coast. No fiction writer would dare invent a twist in plot as surprising as the real life experience of Doerr. The story has to be told right from the beginning, and here is how it all started.

Doerr comes from El Paso, Texas. His family had only very modest means. So when he wanted a college education he had to go out and work to get it. By his own efforts he put himself through Leland Stanford University where he received a diploma last June.

Working one's way through school often means doing some rather unusual jobs, and Doerr, during the summer months, used to drive an ice wagon in Los Angeles to earn money to pay his tuition.

At Stanford he had joined Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and at one or another of the college social functions he met a charming sorority girl named Harriet Huntington. During a summer vacation, while driving his ice wagon in Los Angeles, he learned that Miss Huntington was living in Pasadena. The two renewed their acquaintance.

In the course of the vacation it happened that Miss Huntington's sorority was giving a dance at the Hotel Biltmore—a somewhat ritzy affair. Miss Huntington invited Doerr as her escort.

Receiving the invitation, and pondering on the expenses of taxi fare at such a tony function, Doerr concluded that the thing was beyond his means. So he called Miss Huntington by telephone and frankly told her that he could not afford to take her to the dance—adding, as a jest, that the only transportation he could provide would be the old reliable ice truck.

"All right," remarked Miss Huntington, "get the ice truck."

So Doerr and Miss Huntington went to the fashionable dance in Doerr's ice wagon.

Back at the university they saw more and more of one another. To be brief, they fell in love and became engaged to be married.

This last spring Doerr was graduated. He got a job with the Hercules Powder company, at the traditionally low beginner's wage.

One day he and Miss Huntington were discussing their plans for marriage. Miss Huntington asked him if he believed they could live on his $4 a day until the middle of

Large Attendance of Mothers Opens First Meeting of North Ward Parent-Teacher Association; Program Given

With more than ninety mothers, teachers and visitors present, the first regular meeting of the North Ward Parent-Teacher Association was in session at the ward building Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. P. J. Mims, president, opened the program with greetings to the new members and emphasized the need of the cooperation of the parents of the pupils in conducting the programs of the association.

In observance of fire prevention week, students of the school decorated the assembly room with illustrative posters. Lackey commended the pupils for their splendid programs on fire prevention.

The motion to change the meetings to semi-monthly rather than monthly was presented by Mrs. George Ratliff. The first meeting of the month will be devoted to business at the churches and the second at homes of the members with a program and social. The next meeting will be Thursday, Oct. 16.

Famous Churches CATHEDRAL OF RHEIMS IS "BIBLE IN STONE" Medieval Sculpturing Adds to Beauty of Famous Church

The magnificent Rheims cathedral, the beauty of its medieval architecture marred by bombardments of the World War, still towers majestically over the quaint French village bearing its name.

Built in the 13th century, the massive cathedral became famous as the church in which French kings were crowned. It was the most magnificent church in all Europe.

The facade was a masterpiece of the middle ages. More than 2,300 statues and statuettes in the exquisite embroidery of sculpture made Notre Dame of Rheims known as a "Bible in stone." The longest cathedral in France, its dimensions are 480 feet by 160 feet.

The present cathedral is the third to occupy its site. The first church, in which St. Remy baptized King Clovis on Christmas Day, 496 A. D., was destroyed by fire in the ninth century. The church which succeeded it burned in 1211. And, continuing the tragedies, the present cathedral caught fire in 1841, but, although its lead roof and five lead spires melted to the streets, its sculpture escaped. Repairs were being made when the German army swept into Rheims on Sept. 4, 1914. The Germans filled part of the church with straw to bed down their wounded, but later retreated to the heights outside the city and began bombarding it. Incendiary shells, crashing through its roof, turned the cathedral into a roaring furnace. For days at a time, shells rained against it at the rate of 20 an hour for 10 hours a day. It was estimated that a total of 30,000 shells fell directly into it. When the smoke of the war cleared away, the cathedral was only a tragic husk of its former self. Then work of restoration began. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., gave large sums and many governments contributed. Workmen pieced together parts of the broken windows. Statues were repaired, a new altar built and gaping holes smoothed over until today the great structure somewhat approaches its former beauty.

Charley Chaplin In Silent Film

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9. (UP)—Charles Spencer Chaplin, the greatest of the screen comedians, soon will be ready to put his case in the hands of the jury, the movie fans of the world.

He has completed his shooting on his new picture "City Lights"—the only non-talkie production of any consequence made during the past two years—and before long it will be exhibited.

Needless to say the entire motion picture industry will watch with Chaplin for the verdict.

Chaplin always has insisted that the introduction of dialogue in films was a betrayal of the art of the screen.

While all others of importance in Hollywood gave way to the talkies the comedian maintained there always would be a market for silent pictures.

He backed this belief with $1,500,000 of his own money in the production of "City Lights."

"City Lights" is synchronized with sound and music but there is not a spoken word. Chaplin intends it as a test of whether the art of pantomime, developed through 25 years of silent films, can be forced aside by the talking pictures, dubbed by him as "a new form of screen entertainment."

As customary with Chaplin he pursued a leisurely course in making his new picture. He started work on it more than two years ago and proceeded only when he felt like going before the camera.

Blanket Needn't Be All Wool to Be Warm

By WILLIAM H. BALDWIN Author of "The Shopping Book" Written for NEA Service

Blankets may be all-wool, cotton and wool, or all cotton. It does not necessarily follow that an all-wool blanket will be warmer than one which contains some cotton. In fact, it is generally held that a wool blanket with some cotton in it will be warmer than an all-wool blanket of the same price. In Europe virtually all blankets, regardless of price, have some cotton in them to strengthen the weave.

Closeness of weave is the chief point to note. Some blankets are given a very long rough nap, which gives them a splendid appearance. This is desirable to a certain extent, but when overdone it makes for structural weakness. The nap in such a product will mat after the first washing.

NEW STADIUM MAY BE CHRISTENED BY GAME IN RAIN TODAY

Football Gets Away to Flying Start Over Week End

BIG LAKE OWLS IN FINE CONDITION FOR JOUST

All the romance attached to opening of the high school stadium, the pride of Midland, may be surrounded this afternoon in rain before the Midland-Big Lake game is over. The game starts at 3:30.

The Owls expected to confine their play to line-smashing tactics, leaving the air to the more machine-like Barrymen. Admittedly larger than the Dogs, the Owls may find a rain more to their liking than the Midland team. The greasy expanse of the gridiron, however, should not slow up play appreciably unless the rain falls in torrents.

The outlook this morning for row upon row of shining slickers in a rainstorm was good.

Fryar at quarter, Hallman at right half, Parker at left half and Midkiff at full back will be the new backfield combination, following the losing of Burris to the team this week. Johnson, left end, also was asked to step aside, and L. E. Straughan or Murphy will be in his shoes.

There was a possibility of a band parade on the streets. R. E. Shrader, director said. This musical aggregation has been making big strides this season. While in El Paso, radio announcers there were so impressed with the playing of the Midland musicians that a concert was arranged over the wild ether waves, the Bulldog tooting and drumming combination playing 30 minutes.

Green Wave Plays Aggies at Dallas

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 10.—With both teams boasting fast backfield combinations adaptable to open passing and running attacks, fans may look forward with certainty to seeing plenty of colorful action when Coach Matty Bell's Texas Aggies tangle with the Tulane Greenies of Coach Bernie Dierman at Fair Park stadium, Dallas, Saturday, the opening day of the state fair of Texas.

It is particularly likely that both the Aggies and Greenies will resort to the air if weather the day of the game is favorable. Weather conditions prior to the day of the game will not affect the gridiron, since it can be protected from the rain by a field cover. Fans may, therefore, be certain of a dry playing field unless rain falls during the game.

Bob Harling, Houston, and Jimmie Aston, Farmersville, both playing their first year with the Aggie varsity, will likely bear the major part of the Aggie passing attack.

Like the Aggies, the Greenies will also depend upon new-comers to bear the brunt of the offensive work in the backfield. Four sophomore backs, Felts, Watley, Massey and Zimmerman will likely compose the backfield. All four men boast triple-threat records and pass, punt and carry the ball with about equal ability.

RID OF POISON, FEELS BETTER

Constipation Relieved by Help of Black-Draught, Without Bad After-Effects.

Lake View, S. C.—"I always keep Theoford's Black-Draught in my home to take when I feel a sick headache coming on, for, after taking a dose of Black-Draught I quickly recover," writes Mrs. Fannie Rogers, of this place.

"Every so often when I get dull and feel lifeless, my eyes hurt and I have a sick, nauseated feeling, my color gets yellow and I don't sleep well, then I believe I am full of poison and my system needs a thorough cleansing. I start taking a course of Black-Draught, and in a few days I feel like a different person. My energy comes back and I am able to do my work without much effort."

"Black-Draught is a fine medicine for constipation. It gives quick relief and I prefer it to others because it is a vegetable compound and there are no bad after-effects. It sets me up right off."

Constipation dams up poisons in the bowels, where they are absorbed into the general system, causing many serious symptoms. At the first sign of constipation, take Black-Draught.

$350,000 Stadium Frogs Will Dedicate in Porker Game

Texas Christian University will dedicate its new $350,000 stadium next Saturday with a game with the Arkansas Razorbacks. The two teams have not met since the 1927 season, when the Razorbacks defeated the Frogs in Fort Worth by a score of 10 to 3. The year before that the Frogs were victors in Fayetteville by a score of 10 to 7. The west stands of T. C. U.'s stadium is shown here, rising 61 rows above the playing field. Twenty-five rows of seats have also been constructed on the east side of the field, giving a seating capacity for the whole of 20,000. An inclosed press box (center top of section pictured), with room for newspaper men and with two radio broadcasting rooms, is a feature of the new equipment.

MICKS-NAVY GAME RULES BIGGEST LAY-OUT

By L. S. CAMERON, United Press Staff Correspondent

Football will be off to a real start this week-end. The nation's game list contains several traditional events which are thrilling enough in themselves, and some newer rivalries which will attract fans at least to coast and back.

From a strictly national point of view the large happening of the day will take place at South Bend, Indiana, where Knute Rockne's Notre Dame eleven meets the Navy from Annapolis. The South Benders will rule the favorites and ought to win.

All in all, the mid-West has the best of it Saturday. Besides the Notre Dame-Navy game there are some Western Conference contests of no little interest. Michigan plays Purdue at Ann Arbor in what may be one of the year's most even battles. Northwestern and Ohio State play at Evanston, and either can win.

Hoosiers Favorites
Indiana has an intersectional with Oklahoma's Aggie combination at Blomington. The Hoosiers are expected to enter the game the favorites.

The Big Three will have a busy day. Yale faces Georgia at the Bowl. Here's another potentially close game. Princeton plays Brown at Princeton. The Tigers should win, but, of course, may not. Harvard has a workout with Springfield.

Swarthmore goes up to West Point, and the Irish eleven may be able to take the so-called Violets.

Another Real Game
There's another intersectional at Pittsburgh. Carnegie Tech will entertain Georgia Tech. This should be one of the real games of the day. The Plaidis ought to have a nice margin. A third intersectional occurs at Philadelphia with Pennsylvania meeting Virginia and the Quakers favored. One of the day's traditional is

Columbia Sees Sunny Days Ahead Under Old Penn Star

By CHESTER L. SMITH, NEA Service Special Writer

Not since our Percy Haughton came down from New England to transplant a bit of his Harvard magic on Morningside Heights, has Columbia University viewed its football prospects with such complacency as is evident this year.

Haughton's untimely death at a time when it appeared he had reached the end of the rockiest part of the road, was followed by a span of years in which it seemed the Lions might crash through at any moment under Charley Crowley, who held command until the close of the 1929 season. But they never quite succeeded, so this year finds a new hand at the helm—Lou Little, whose recent Georgetown elevens have been no one's grave.

Little learned his football at Leominster, Mass., high school, at Worcester Academy and at Pennsylvania, where he was an All-American tackle in 1916 and 1919, service overseas with the army keeping him away in the interim. Around Franklin Field they still talk about the grim enthusiasm with which he went about the routine business of blocking and tackling, a characteristic which he appears to be able to give to his teams in generous quantities.

After leaving Penn. Little entered the hard, uncompromising school of professional football. He coached and played with the Buffalo All-Americans and the Frankford Yellow Jackets until the fall of 1925 when Georgetown lured him back into collegiate society.

Although he has always had a desire to return some day to his alma mater as coach, Little refused an offer from the Quakers last fall in favor of Columbia. Some say it was because he feared political intrigue in the athletic machinery at Philadelphia, but whatever it was, the Lions are jubilant over winning him.

If the Georgetown elevens under Little are indicative of what he will do at Columbia, a rousing revival can be expected on the Heights before long. In five campaigns, his teams won 37, lost eight and tied three games. His offense scored 1427 points, only Southern California bettering that mark. Their opponents, meanwhile, tallied 72 points, and in the matter of defense the Catholics were topped by Illinois alone.

Although he does not copy it to any degree of exactness, Little employs a style suggestive of the Glenn Warner school. From the double wing back formation, he sends his spinners, reverses, cross bucks and sweeps at his opponents, generously interspersed with passes.

They call him a driver, and often it has been said he leaves too much of his power on the scrimmage field, but no one denies that he gets results and is immensely popular with the boys under him. On both of

They Couldn't Know

BACK IN 1818 the greatest newspaper of the day declared that the world had reached the limit of human expansion. It even went further, saying that there weren't enough supplies in the world to support further growth of population.

The mind of 1818 couldn't conceive of the miracles that human ingenuity would perform during the twentieth century. It couldn't imagine the wonders that would be wrought by new agricultural methods and modern manufacturing genius. It was ignorant of transportation as we know it, or the progressive sales methods of today. It could not see the vital part that would be played by advertising.

Even today there are some who fail to realize what an important factor advertising has become. Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or automobiles. It keeps us up to date on the many things we need in order to live profitable, happy and useful lives. It presents for our approval articles of all kinds and for all purposes. The requirements of each member of the family are met by advertised offers of good merchandise of proved value.

The advertisements save time, money and effort for those who read them and follow their guidance. They are practical guarantees of satisfaction.

ELEPHANTS OF ISLAND SMALL, TEETH INDICATE

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Oct. 10. (UP).—Midget elephants, descendants of a huge herd of imperial elephants which once roamed the western hemisphere, once populated the Santa Barbara Channel islands, in the opinion of Prof. David B. Rogers, curator of the Santa Barbara Museum of Natural History.

Prof. Rogers recently returned from Santa Rosa Island, one of the wildest of the channel group, with fossils of the small pachyderm, including a tooth and a tooth embedded in a portion of the jaw bone.

Study of the fossils has disclosed that the herd included the last survivors of huge droves of elephants which disappeared long ago when a portion of what is now southern California sank into the ocean, forming the present Santa Barbara channel, Prof. Rogers says.

The catastrophe caught a herd of the imperial elephants, destroying all but a few which found refuge on Santa Rosa island.

Descendants of these animals, through lack of new blood, and because of restricted range and scarcity of food, gradually diminished in size, it is believed. Fossils indicate that the dwarf held measured eight feet at the shoulder, in contrast to the original size of the imperial elephant of 13 1/2 feet.

Santa Rosa island is so thickly forested with dense underbrush that

Wichita Dryest: 5-Minute Booze

EL PASO, Oct. 10. (UP).—Claude Cockburn, editorial writer from London, believes Wichita, Kansas, is the driest place in the United States, he said here today, because it took five minutes to get a drink here. He said in other towns it has never taken more than three minutes.

Cockburn declared that it is harder to get a drink in London after midnight than in America because saloons close there then.

portions of it never have been penetrated. A few cow camps are scattered around the rim, but the inner plateau is still a mystery to explorers.

A herd of elk, liberated more than 70 years ago on the island, has increased from six head to nearly 60, forest service officials say, although no accurate count of the animals ever has been made.

Lamesa Co-op Is Having Success

LAMESA, Oct. 7.—One thousand bales of cotton have been handled here through the Texas Co-operative Cotton association sub-office, according to the management. Of this amount only 3 bales have been shipped to the optional pool, the other 997 bales going into the seasonal pool.

The association is advancing 90 per cent of the set price at the present time, and in some instances this results in the farmer getting as much advance on his cotton, as he could sell out for on the street. This is occasioned by every bale being graded by a federal licensed cotton grader, and cotton of good staple is priced accordingly, then the 90 per cent advanced.

Every bale price is set on its grade and staple, thus doing away with the "hog around" prices, giving the man with good staple cotton the advantage over the short staple farmer. The local co-op representatives are stressing good staple to the farmers, urging them to abandon the raising of short staple cotton. They state that a majority of the cotton received at Lamesa shows around seven-eighths to one inch staple.

According to the local compress, approximately 4,600 bales have been handled by them to date. This gives the co-op around 25 per cent of the total receipts. L. W. Weber is in charge of the sub-station here.

Frosh Will not Throw Cores at Texas U. Now

AUSTIN, Tex. (P).—No more will be the cash customers at University of Texas football games be incensed by the pranks of freshmen students and "cooltch rah-rah boys." In by-gone days it was nothing to be smacked in the ear or the back of the head with an apple core of the nice and juicy variety and at some games more attention was paid to core throwers than to prospering football players.

The athletic council, perhaps in the hope of raising the price of their seats in the lower tier, has banned the sale of apples at football tilts. Their logic is: No apples, no cores; no cores, no inconvenience or complaints.

This Method May Do Away With Necessity For Giving School Children Examinations

FOLKESTONE (Kent) Eng., Oct. 10. (UP).—Educators here are studying a new scientific method of testing the mental ability of school children, which, if successful, may eliminate examinations.

Children who volunteered for the test at a summer school here were asked, among other questions, if they recognized the absurdity of these statements:
"I have three brothers, Jack, Tom and myself."
"I am writing a letter with a sword in one hand and a pistol in the other."
"I'm not as young as I was as I used to be able to walk right around the square but now I can only walk half-way around and then come back."

The answers the child of 10 gives to these statements provided an accurate check on his mentality, the educators claimed.

Psychologists who supervised the first tests, when asked for a test for adult, supplied this one:
"A mother sent her boy to the river to fetch seven pints of water, giving him a three-pint and a five-pint measure to carry it in. How could the boy measure exactly seven pints of water without guessing at the amount? Begin by filling the five-pint measure."

The learned men agree if you can solve this, you may claim to be a "superior adult."

Austin Had Highest Death Rate in 1929

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 10. (P).—This city had the highest death rate and the fourth highest birth rate among Texas cities of its size during 1929, according to figures just released by the state department of health. The death rate was 20 and the birth rate 21.6, the figures being based on each 1,000 population.

The table shows that Port Arthur had the lowest death rate per 1,000 with 7.8 while Beaumont led in birth percentage with 23.6. The birth rate in Port Arthur was 31.5 and the death rate in Beaumont, 12.6.

Records of other cities in this classification: Waco, birth rate, 17.3, death rate, 16.7; Galveston, birth rate, 19.9, death rate, 16.5; Wichita Falls, birth rate, 22.1, death rate, 10.3; Amarillo, birth rate, 22.7, death rate, 10.7.

Scout Training School To Start in Big Spring

At a meeting of the leadership training committee of Big Spring Thursday evening plans were made for a scoutmasters training school to be held in Big Spring, starting on Thursday Oct. 16 and running for six weeks, Marcos Williamson, assistant scout executive said.

This is the second course held in Big Spring and the work will be along the same lines but of a more advanced nature than that given last year.

The following men were chosen as officers of the school: Dr. W. B. Hardy, scoutmaster; Marcos J. Williamson, assistant scoutmaster; A. C. Williamson, senior patrol leader, and Carl Bloomfield, George Gentry, Monroe Johnson, Bob Pyatt, Charley Quearuan and E. B. Ribble, patrol leaders.

Each of the patrol leaders will recruit and be responsible for the attendance of eight men in his patrol. George Gentry, Bob Pyatt and Monroe Johnson had their patrol roster completed Thursday night. All indications are that about 60 men will be in attendance at the school.

The Big Spring District will hold a big Court of Honor and scout stunt night at the high school auditorium on Oct. 31. The greatest demonstration of Scouting ever witnessed in the section will be given by the five Big Spring troops and the troop from Stanton.

Training schools for the extreme western portion of the Buffalo Trail council will begin Monday night at Pecos, followed by one Tuesday at Wink, and Friday at Odessa. All schools promise to have an unusually large attendance.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 10. (UP).—Bela Lugosi, noted stage actor, will be seen on the screen in the title role in "Dracula," which he created behind the footlights three years ago.

"Dracula" is the story of a human vampire who attacks victims for their blood. Yet humor is not lacking in drawing of a line with garlic that must not be crossed. Universal, which will make the picture, will have an excellent chance for sound effects, the touch of bat wings against window panes, for example.

Hale Hamilton, who was famed on the stage for his portrayal of Wallingford, of Get Rich Quick fame, will take the part of Colonel Lebaudy in "Beau Ideal."

Herbert Brenon is directing "Beau Ideal" for R. K. O. as a sequel to his famous "Beau Geste."

Evelyn Brent, who was long under the Paramount banner, is to be seen in "Madonna of the Streets" for Columbia. She will have capable direction by John Robertson. Robert Adams will play opposite Miss Brent.

Weather reports from south more favorable while reports from the western belt showed picking is making good progress in northern counties of Texas.

Chicago Gangs Face Definite New Threat

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 10. (UP).—Chicago gangland is intensely interested in a case under consideration by the State Supreme Court, which involves an attack on the state concealed weapon law.

The case is that of Jack "Machine Gun" McGurn, alleged killer for the Al Capone mob, and under sentence to serve one year in jail and pay a $300 fine following his conviction in Chicago on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

The case was brought to the high court after a long fight. Now gangsters are said to be watching anxiously the outcome of McGurn's case as it is feared that if the lower court's sentence is upheld it will be followed by many other arrests.

At his trial his attorneys claimed his arrest was illegal, that he was in his automobile and that the police should have had a search warrant. They contended that police had no right to search him.

The constitutionality of the concealed weapon law also is attacked in the appeal on the ground that it discriminates. The appeal declares the law is a contravention of the guarantee of equal protection because some classes of persons are permitted to carry firearms.

McGurn was sentenced June 23 but has been out on $10,000 bail pending a ruling on his appeal.
