COUNTIES COMMISSIONER VOTE

Paraguay, Bolivia Continue Mobilization of Troops

NATIONS URGING PEACE

Arbitration Efforts Are Considered Improbable

ASUNCION, Aug. 3. (UP)—Women begged for places in the ranks today as President Jose P. Guggiari signed a mobilization decree, calling army reserves of men between the ages of 22 and 29 and officers between 20 and 50.

The manifesto declared "the entire nation must rise to arms."

The president blamed Bolivia for provoking a war.

Bolivia 'Can't Accept' Arbitration

LAPAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 3. (UP)—"Bolivia can't accept arbitration conspiring against her existence," Julio Gutierrez, acting foreign minister and minister of war, told the United Press in connection with the dispute with Paraguay over the Gran Chaco boundary.

The firm attitude of the Bolivian government brought in a number of volunteers of services, including many women from the interior.

Bolivia Urged to Agree to Arbitration

WASHINGTON, August 3. (UP)—The nations of the Americas were expected to join in sending an important note to Bolivia and Paraguay, apparently near a state of war. Prime movers are the United States, Cuba, Colombia, Mexico and Uruguay. Each sent a note urging Bolivia to arbitrate in a pending dispute and to suspend hostilities. Should Bolivia agree, similar pleas would be sent to Paraguay.

Paraguay Would Consider Arbitration

GENEVA, Aug. 3. (UP)—Paraguay is willing to submit the Gran Chaco dispute with Bolivia to arbitration, the Paraguayan government notified the league of nations secretary today.

Ask 14 Nations to Join in Peace Plea

Paraguay's decision to permit arbitration followed a request yesterday by representatives of the United States and four other neutral countries to 14 governments on the western hemisphere to join in peace representations to the prospective belligerents.

Mexico, Cuba, Colombia and Uruguay, the neutrals seeking with the United States a basis for a non-aggressive pact between Paraguay and Bolivia, sent the telegram today asking for a unified plea to the disputants to cease hostilities.

Renewal of armed clashes between troops in the Chaco brought Paraguay and Bolivia today on the verge of open warfare. The neutrals hope to bring the weight of the Pan-American governments to bear in avoiding further trouble and to bring about an immediate peace agreement.

Francis White, assistant secretary of state, said neutrals hope the other governments quickly will approve the text of the telegram which, in the event of unanimous approval, will be called to Paraguay and Bolivia.

The history of peace efforts since December, 1928, was outlined in the note which brought events up to date with accounts of recent clashes and the withdrawals of both governments of their representatives from the Washington treaty negotiations.

A similar unanimous message was successful last October in bringing the disputing countries together for non-aggression treaty negotiations here.

New Officers in Command of Vets

New officers of the Brooks W. Lee post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, are now in charge of the local organization. Chas. E. Nolan is commander, succeeding Lee Haynes who filled that position during the past year. Other officers include Frank Roberts, senior vice commander; Earl Staton, junior vice commander; Bob Preston, quartermaster; Dulaney Ward, adjutant; Ralph Bucy, master at arms; Joe Seymour, chaplain.

Russia Happy Tourist Says

PHILADELPHIA. (UP)—Russia is the happiest country in modern Europe in the opinion of Mrs. Mildred Scott Olmstead, who just returned from a ten weeks sight-seeing tour of the Soviets.

"In spite of food shortage and privations that seem harsh to Americans," she said, "the people on the streets give you a holiday feeling. They are keved up and enthusiastic, rather like the American nation during the Liberty Loan drives."

Mrs. Olmstead is executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Mobilize for War

Dr. Daniel Salamanca, above, president of Bolivia, has mobilized 50,000 men and the most modern equipment, including tanks and airplanes, in preparation for war with Paraguay in the disputed Chaco territory.

The republic of Paraguay admits mobilizing troops as war threatens Bolivia, but claims this has been done only as a measure of defense, according to Dr. Jose P. Guggiari, above, the president.

MUSSOLINI SAYS PERPETUAL PEACE IS NOT POSSIBLE

ROME, Aug. 3. (UP)—War apparently cannot be abolished and fascism doesn't stand for pacifism, Mussolini declared in a frank and astounding article to be published tomorrow in the Popolo D'Italia at Milan and later in all Italian newspapers.

When considering the future development of mankind, the premier said, "fascism does not believe in the possibility or utility of perpetual peace."

Roper's Injury to Keep Partner Out

ODESSA, Aug. 3.—Walter Lundy, well known Odessa rodeo star, who was injured at the Memorial day rodeo here when he jumped from his horse breaking the bones in his ankle, will not be able to enter the rodeo Thursday and Friday of this week. Physicians attending Lundy reported that the injury sustained during the last rodeo will probably be permanent and that Lundy will not be able to enter any of the contests.

J. D. Amburgey, rodeo partner of Lundy, stated Tuesday that he would not ride of rope in any of the events, and will probably give up rodeo performing until his partner is able to take the saddle. The two stars have performed together for a number of years and West Texas rodeo fans will greatly miss their appearance.

Dodger Didn't Dodge Bullet

REVERE, Mass. (UP)—John Bell is an African Dodger by profession but he draws the line at dodging bullets.

Taking a nap in back of his concession at an amusement resort here, Bell was awakened by a stinging sensation in the call of his left leg. A stray bullet fired by an inaccurate marksman at an adjacent shooting gallery had struck him.

BONUSERS URGED TO LEAVE NEW JOHNSTOWN CAMP; McCLOSKEY IS ANGERED AT WATERS' SILENCE

JOHNSTOWN, Aug. 3. (UP)—Mayor Eddie McCloskey today firmly but politely asked bonusers to leave Johnstown. He said he feared disease and that if the commander desired that the army stay, it could, as "what Waters says goes." However, he expressed the hope that the army would disband and the bonusers go to their homes.

McCloskey, angered because Waters had not communicated with him since concentration in Maryland failed, called Doak Carter, in command here to a conference.

The bonusers were undertaking to comply with McCloskey's wishes as quickly as possible and Carter said they probably would move to another camp, possibly in Pennsylvania.

Veterans' Deaths Held Justifiable

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The shooting to death of two veterans by police in last week's rioting was held by a coroner's jury to have been in self defense.

Across the Potomac river from the dingy morgue where the inquest was held, one of the dead—William Huska, Chicago—had been given military honors in burial a few hours before in the Arlington National cemetery.

Eric Carlson, Oakland, Calif., the second victim of police guns as a group of veterans advanced menacingly toward police near the capitol last Thursday, succumbed to his wounds early Tuesday.

Ponies Re-Appear For Odessa Races

Two fast horses which were run on the Odessa track during the Memorial day celebration will be seen again Thursday and Friday of this week when the anniversary celebration of that city is staged.

Joker Joe, handsome bay gelding of the Norfolk string from Plainview, passed through Midland Tuesday. Due to his long distance breeding, it is expected that he will be in competition with George Keith, Midland horse, in the three-quarter mile event.

Ma Ferguson, chestnut mare owned by Dennis Redden of Colorado, winner of the three-eighths mile event May 30 and winner of second place in Wonder Girl May 31, will be entered against L. E. Cook's Billy B, it is expected. Billy B ran third in the three-eighths event which way won by Ma Ferguson but may make a better showing in the half mile.

Rodeo and race events will be held both Thursday and Friday afternoon in the new arena at the three miles north of Odessa on the Andrews highway.

Horse Lived up To Reputation

EVANSTON, Ill. (UP)—Evanston's old fire horse, Sandy, devoted to pulling the garbage wagon when the department was organized, lived up to his Scotch reputation to the last. During his 30 years of service, Sandy seldom ate more than a pint of oats and one forkful of hay. When his old age and feebleness made him too much of a burden he was taken out to be shot—but saved the city by dropping dead at the incinerator.

The condition of T. S. Patterson was reported unchanged today, although he had shown slight improvement yesterday over the few days prior. He is at his home on North Big Spring street.

Keith-Miller Case In Testimony Stage

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 3.—Threats against Haden Clarke by Capt. W. N. Lancaster, former British army flyer, when the latter learned of a growing attachment between the young writer and Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, his flying partner, were charged in the prosecutor's opening statement at Lancaster went on trial for murder.

Earlier Judge H. F. Atkinson had overruled a defense motion for continuance to Sept. 15 to permit attendance by physicians on witness Lancaster's attorneys said they relied heavily.

When the motion was disposed of, the jury decided to be married, and the 12 men who will decide between the state charge that Lancaster was driven to murder Clarke by jealousy and the defense contention of suicide were chosen in two and a half hours.

State's Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne said he would prove Lancaster upon a hearing gossip of the attachment between Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller, to whom the flyer formerly was engaged, "paced the floor in a rage and threatened to get rid of him." He said he would show Lancaster made other threats on other occasions as information of the relations between the writer and Mrs. Keith-Miller reached him while he was in the West on a business trip.

It was in St. Louis that Lancaster was notified Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller had decided to be married. He hurried back here and within 12 hours after his arrival Clarke was dead, shot through the head with a pistol Lancaster had bought in St. Louis.

It was at the Keith-Miller home that Clarke was shot in a room he occupied jointly with Lancaster. He had been in the room for some time when West in search of a job to bolster the crumbling finances of the flying combination. He was "ghost writing" the story of the woman flyer's life for publication under her name.

Mrs. Keith-Miller accompanied Lancaster to court and reiterated her conviction he was innocent. She is a principal defense witness.

They had been constantly associated since they first gained fame together in 1927 by a flight from London to Australia. Both appeared agitated but expressed confidence in outcome of the trial.

At the state counsel table sat Beverly Clarke, New York chemical engineer, brother of Haden Clarke. A large part of the capacity crowd in the courtroom was made up of women.

James M. Carson, chief of defense counsel, offered his motion for continuance on the ground he is under bond on charges of having entered the United States illegally. Authorities said they would bring similar charges against Lancaster after disposal of the murder case.

Navy Ace Now "Devil Dog"

WASHINGTON. (UP)—To escape the boredom of peaceful pursuits found in civilian aviation, Alford J. Williams Jr., formerly famed in Naval flying, has accepted a commission as Captain in the Marine Corps Aviation Reserve.

Williams is to have an active part in developing aerial maneuvers relating to fighting tactics.

Since his resignation from the navy in 1930, Captain Williams has divided his efforts between developing high-speed aircraft engines and crusading in the endeavor to "remove the mystery from flying" in the public mind. However, the mark left by 13 years of navy test work proved irradicable. Williams finds that he must have an active part in working out engineering ideas and design that can't be put to practical test by non-flying draughtsmen.

The Marine corps, Captain Williams believes, offers a fertile field for his latest thoughts on what he calls "universal flying" for the corps must necessarily meet any and every complex problem.

GRAHAM FILES A PROTEST Charges Four Illegal Votes Cast in Precinct 2

Nomination of John T. Bell, in the democratic primary election of July 23, for commissioner of precinct No. 2, Midland county, was contested in a formal protest filed today by B. T. Graham, defeated candidate, with Homer W. Rowe, county democratic chairman.

Graham, who received 56 votes, alleged in his protest that four illegal votes were cast against him. Bell received 58 votes.

Graham's allegations charge that one vote was cast by a citizen who had not reached the age of 21 on the day of the election, and that three were cast by persons who had not resided in the county six months.

He alleges that the four votes, had they not been allowed by the election judge, would have changed the result of the election for commissioner.

County Chairman Rowe said that the county democratic executive committee would meet at an early date to sit as a court and consider Graham's charges. If necessary, according to the election laws, ballots cast in that precinct would be cancelled.

Two years ago, in the same precinct, a run-off between Bell and L. M. Estes was necessary and the two received the same number of votes in the August run-off primary. It was necessary to decide the nomination by the flip of a coin in a meeting of the county executive committee. Estes winning the toss.

Daily Production Of Crude Is off

TULSA, Aug. 3. (UP)—Crude petroleum production in the United States slumped sharply last week the Oil & Gas Journal reported.

Daily average production of the nation's pools declined 65,039 barrels to 2,319,866 barrels with Oklahoma fields taking the lead in the drop.

The state's production was off 60,108 barrels to a daily average of 393,815.

Daily production total approximates the 2,000,000 barrel maximum advocated by Thurman Hill, Kansas public service commissioner who yesterday renewed his plea to oil chiefs that daily production be held to 2,000,000 barrels so that oil prices might be advanced.

A telegram to Judge Amos L. Beatty of the American Petroleum Institute, Hill asked if large companies would curtail withdrawals from storage or submit storage figures to the institute. Judge Beatty advised only three major companies would submit such figures.

A sharp decline in East Texas production was offset to considerable degree by minor increases in other Texas fields. East Texas daily average production was off 14,872 barrels to 330,626. Total Texas production was 876,043 barrels daily.

California fields were steady at 470,000 barrels. Rocky mountain areas reported slight gains.

A STUPID INCIDENT
The narcotic squad of New York's police force put on a fake drug raid in the city's Chinatown district for the benefit of newsreel photographers not long ago—and stirred up a very threatening riot before they got through.

With cameramen perched in handy spots, the police "raided" a building covered with Chinese signs, dragged out half a dozen "prisoners," some of them negroes in Chinese apparel and strutted in fine style while the movie men ground away. The only trouble was that the Chinese in the neighborhood didn't like it at all. They gathered by hundreds, threw ancient vegetables at the police and gave both cameramen and cops some anxious moments before they were finally dispersed.

A more shining example of police stupidity could hardly be had. New York's cops have not exactly distinguished themselves by their success in solving real crimes; if they want to shine in the movies they might at least find a more tactful way of doing it.

Recently the last river mail boat on the Mississippi closed fifty years of continuous service between Memphis and Mayde, Tenn. The same day a post-office bulletin called attention to the fact that 12,000 pounds—553,000 pieces—of mail had been sent via air during the first year of air mail at Memphis. The waters receive a well-deserved rest, but the winds are just beginning to work.

EXTENSION WORKER CITES CANNING AS MEANS OF PROSPERITY RETURN

By LOLA BLAIR
Food Specialist, Extension Service, in "Farm and Ranch"
If food could be had for the asking instead of won by the sweat of the brow, and if mankind could eat as fancy dictates without thought of consequences, the world would be a lot happier and there would be little need for a worker like myself whose job is to help country housewives get food cheaply and so combine the different kinds as to give the whole family healthy lives. The method we have adopted to free women from the worst of the nightmare of feeding the family is the 4-H pantry demonstration. Last year more than 25,000 Texas farm wives worked out their own and often their families' salvation by using this plan of figuring out the family food requirements on a health basis, raising almost all the food at home, canning by budget instead of by guess, and preparing meals from well-organized pantries by the shortest cuts known.

Whether it was because he thought Hankins wasn't showing proper appreciation of his week off, or whether it was through fear that the public would have to read the short stories, (we never found out) the editor recalled the vacation and Hankins was back at work on Thursday morning instead of the following Monday.

Anyhow, the city editor took out yesterday evening and may not be back either this week or next. He has been advised to "clear out" so that the office force can say "whereabouts unknown" to all who inquire. Already, one female voice has suffered a disappointment by telephone, but maybe she will find him anyway.

Meanwhile, if any news appears in the paper during the next nine or ten issues, you may attribute it to accident or to public cooperation. The rest of this news staff is famous for not knowing a story if they meet one in the road. The reason I know I heard them admit it this morning.

We have had a number of phone calls about Jim Harrison's plans, but will have to advise that there is no public statement available just now.

A number of complaints have come in to us about the hot nights, but there's nothing definite we can do about the weather. The weather is just like taxes, talk won't help it any.

Anyhow, it isn't the heat, it's the humidity, by the way, the airport reported that the humidity Tuesday was only 16, as compared to the normal of 60 around here.

Maybe it's the weather, but we saw Big L. making it down the street bareheaded.

Helpful Health Suggestions

TYPHOID STALKS THE UNEMPLOYED AND HUNGRY To be out of work and hungry is bad enough, but add to that two cases of typhoid fever in the same family at the same time and you have a picture that should arouse the serious consideration of thoughtful people. The case in point occurred in a community in the lower Rio Grande valley and was dis-

it and already the child was marked for the grim reaper. This family lived in a hut proffered them by a Mexican whose kindness of heart prompted him to offer rude shelter to his less fortunate white brother. The family had no money, no job, no food. The sick room was full of flies; rotting watermelon rinds and tomatoes and other garbage lay outside the door uncovered and exposed to flies; an old surface toilet in the proximity of the hut served the family and raised an additional crop of flies to carry the deadly germs of typhoid to others.

Through the efforts of Dr. Handley, some food was obtained and a little money from the neighbors. A pit toilet was installed; the room in which the patients lay was partly screened against flies. Trash and garbage around the place were collected and burned and directions given for keeping the premises clean. The remainder of the family were given anti-typhoid serum and a general immunization campaign put on in the community. More than 500 persons were given the vaccine which was furnished by the state department of health.

During a two-months' period, Dr. Handley discovered 60 cases of typhoid fever in his county contracted doubtless under conditions similar to the above. More than 6,000 persons have been immunized against this disease through his efforts. Who says the practice of public health measures has no economic value? —State Health News.

WASHINGTON DISHES If you want to set your table brightly, yet insist on being different, blue willow ware which contains designs that picture scenes and events in George Washington's life will interest you. Blue glasses, a red-checked table cloth, and an old-fashioned white china fruit basket will throw a rainbow around the luncheon or dinner.

COLORED TABLE WARE If you set your table colorfully, the food will take on a new flavor. Knives and forks and spoons that feature green enamel handles, green and white china and glass, and a cool green table cloth will make guests linger at your table. Slim green candies in white holders add another gay touch.

FOR SUMMER TABLE Short-stemmed white iris and lavender-sweet-peas with a touch of green fern here and there make an attractive center-piece for your dining table, particularly if you place them in a low green bowl.

It read: "To the county I will the following property, to wit: One old white horse; one old goat; one black cat (with kittens); one old dog, almost blind, and three old bantam roosters."

Phonemen and Slides

By William Braucher
This hasn't been a bad season for the Phonemen at all. There have been several dismal pictures for the team, but they have been able to pull themselves out of them.

In the second game, the Phonemen outbit the Tesco team but lost a hard fought and closely played game 5 to 4. Bell got 9 hits to 5 for the Electricians. Moore, for the Phonemen, walked one man and Straughan, pitching for Tesco, walked three.

REPUBLICAN FORMS CLUB

MT. VERNON, Ill. (UP)—Republicans who are dissatisfied with economic conditions are invited to join a "Roosevelt-Garner" Republican club" in an advertisement carried recently in a local newspaper. The advertisement was signed by a republican prominent in this vicinity, who said that he had received more than 200 enquiries from persons interested in the club.

Headquarters of emotions in the human body are located in the base of the left brain, Dr. Leonard B. Alford, of St. Louis, recently reported to the American Psychiatric association.

Gen athletes go through their paces. Gene Venzke is one of these. Herman Brix, star weight man, is another. These two might while away a few dull moments in conversation with another glutton athlete of other years, who will watch the snow from the stands this time—Jim Thorpe.

Thorpe was called the greatest athlete the world ever had seen after the 1912 Olympics when he was handed his trophies by the king of Sweden. Some time later it was discovered the Sic and Fox had been guilty of professionalism, and he had to turn back all his prizes. But he had a lot of fun out of it, anyway, old Jim did.

"Week Ends Only" Has Varied Scenes

From a luxurious home to a tenement, and then in rapid succession to an elaborate speakeasy, a Greenwich Village apartment, an artist's studio, an Adirondack lodge and an ocean liner—these are the contrasting backgrounds against which Joan Bennett and Ben Lyon move in "Week Ends Only." The picture is Miss Bennett's newest vehicle, and is showing at the Yucca again today.

With a swift-moving romance that involves plenty of complications and a climax that remains in doubt until the final scene, this picture gives exceptional entertainment to local film patrons. John Halliday heads the supporting cast, which includes Walter Byron, Halliwell Hobbes, Allan Dinehart, John Arledge and Berton Churchill. Alan Crosland directed.

"Skyscraper Souls," a spectacular drama in which the lives of thousands of persons who work in New York's largest building serve as a kaleidoscopic background, will open Thursday at the Yucca theatre. Warren William and Maureen O'Sullivan heading an outstanding cast.

Terror by floor to the summit of its 102 stories, that skillful architect of the drama, Director Edgar Selwyn, laid the structure of a series of climaxes, of unexpected triumphs and despair which summarize the lives of those mad pursuers of the American dollar—the office workers of a modern skyscraper.

"Skyscraper Souls" follows the modern trend in motivating screen drama through the background. "Grand Hotel," "Union Depot," and "Transatlantic" were forerunners of this type. But the skyscraper, according to Selwyn, is the most ideal of all backgrounds for this purpose, because it is a perfect microcosm of the life of a metropolis.

Teams with every phase of human endeavor there are to be found: the rich and poor, the great and humble, the old and young—all eked out their lives in a common pursuit of money.

pair, Steve Swetonic and Bill Swift. Both have the advantage of being on a league-leading team. The fact that the Pirates look strongest in the stretch drive out to help their chances greatly.

Ed Brandt and Huck Betts of the Braves, Phil Rheim and Phil Collins of the Phillies, Guy Bush of the Cubs and Red Lucas of the Reds have a chance, however slight. The same may be said for George Peck and Charley Ruffing of the Yanks, Earl Whitehill and Vic Sorrell of the Tigers, Mel Harder of the Indians and Rube Walberg of the As.

National League Sees Lon Warneke a 20-Game Winner

These pitchers, Weaver, Brown, and Crowder of the American League and Warneke, Hallahan, Swetonic and Hubbell of the National League, may provide the big leagues with new names in the series of 20-game-winning pitchers. Since 1928, the National League has had only one pitcher that effective. There have been several in the American over the same period.

By CLAIRE BURCKY
NEA Service Sports Writer
CHICAGO—The National league, which has produced only one man since 1928 who could pitch his team to 20 victories in a season, appears at this stage of the campaign to have four possibly more, who may accomplish the trick by world series time.

Pat Malone pitched 22 Cub victories in 1929 and came back a year later with 20. He was short last year and undoubtedly will be again this season, yet his teammate, Lonnie Warneke, Bill Hallahan of the Cards, Steve Swetonic of the Pirates and Carl Hubbell of the Giants are given good chances of reaching that goal.

On the other side, the American league for several years has boosted its outstanding pitchers into the select circle. Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw of the A's and Wes Ferrell of the Indians made it three straight times without apparent difficulty. Grove even broke 30 last year. Others who hit 20 or better in the junior circuit were Lefty Stewart of the Browns and Ted Lyons of the White Sox in 1930, and Lefty Gomez of the Yanks and Rube Walberg of the A's in 1931.

But this is another campaign. On the basis of three-fifths of a season already completed, the old favorites and several newcomers appear ready to enter the class of 20-game-winning pitchers.

Ferrell and Gomez should get there first. Both had 17 victories in the latest pitching percentages. After them, I should say that Grove, Warneke, Weaver and Earnshaw will make the grade, in that order. But who after those fellows?

Perhaps Lloyd Brown of the Senators. Certainly not Crowder of the same club. The General hasn't the luck. He'll probably pitch some more four-hit games and be beaten by rivals who allow only two hits. Hallahan might. He won 15 in 1930 and 19 last year. However, the Cardinals of this year haven't reassembled even remotely the National League champions of 1930 and 1931.

Hubbell won 18 games for the Giants in 1929 and should do as well, perhaps better, this year. He had 11 victories in recent percentages. I like the chances of that Pirate

Uncle Sam's New Taxes

By ROBERT TALLEY
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright 1932, NEA Service)

It is indeed a hair-splitting job when Uncle Sam sets out to raise an additional $120,000,000 by means of a 10 per cent tax on furs.

The experts who made the new tax law, designed to balance the budget, have figured this out in great detail.

Of course, furs—as such—are taxed at 10 per cent, but what about fur-trimmed dresses, coats, etc., in which the fur used therein represents only a portion of the total manufacturer's sales price?

Ah, says Uncle Sam: "In order to determine if the tax applies in the case of any article it must be determined whether the value of the fur . . . is exceeded in value by any other single component material, exclusive of labor charges, for manufacturing the article. . . . If a fur-trimmed coat is composed of materials the cost to the manufacturer of which is, cloth, $10, lining $5, findings (including buttons, braid, thread, etc.) $3, and fur trimming $15, then the cost of the fur trimming exceeds in value any other single material and is therefore the component material of chief value used in the coat, thus bringing the sale price of the entire garment within the scope of the act."

Conversely, it would appear, if the cloth or any other single component in the garment cost more than the fur trimming there would be no tax.

Not only is a 10 per cent tax now added to the cost of a fur coat—which means $10 on the $100 sale price—but furs used for other purposes such as rugs, robes, etc., are also taxable. A bear-skin rug for the living room, for example, costs just that much more.

Repairs to furs are not taxable unless new fur is used, and then the tax applies only to the price of the new fur.

Reporter Stands A Lot

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Representatives of the press have been having a difficult time in the municipal court of Judge William H. Sheaffer.

During a series of traffic offense cases recently the bailiff brought a prisoner to the press chair, occupied by a reporter, and bade the newspaperman "Get out, let this man sit down." The bailiff's badge won. The chair was given to the prisoner, while the press stood up. In a short time the case was over and the prisoner left. The reporter sat down.

In a few minutes the same thing happened. When this prisoner left, the reporter decided to remain standing. Then he was mistaken for a prisoner. "Come along," said the bailiff, only to apologize a minute later for his error.

Visiting cell bars, the press looked about for somewhere else to sit. His eyes lit up at the sight of a bit of green carpet near the judge's bench. He sat down on it. "Get out," roared the judge.

The press stood. The spectators, attorneys, prisoners and court sat.

Baked Potatoes Aid Gold Hunt

BOISE, Idaho. (UP)--Not all gold comes from streams and the washing pans of prospectors--some of it comes from potatoes.

G. A. Barge, an old prospector, giving advice to novice gold hunters, recommended the following procedure: after amalgamating the gold bearing sand with quick silver to remove the precious metal, place the amalgam in a mortar. Grind it until all iron in the amalgam is removed. If the quantity to be treated is small, place it in the heart of a large potato, bake the potato until the quick-silver evaporates, then pan the ashes for the gold. If a large quantity is to be handled, the evaporation may be gained through use of a retort kettle, Barge said.

White Elephants Offered in Sale

Featuring famous mistakes, over-enthusiasm, fashion derelicts, excess optimism and the like, Addison Wadley Co. today announces a white elephant sale, the first to be held in Midland. The store's advertisement frankly advises that purchasers of certain articles give them at showers or birthday parties and asks that the place of purchase not be mentioned.

"We all make them, the live store gets rid of them," Wadley said in commenting on drastic price reductions to keep the shelves cleared. The sale takes the place of dollar days for this month at the Wadley store.

New Barrooms Unlike Saloons

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 3. (UP)—The new American barroom will resemble neither the old time saloon nor its successor, the speakeasy, but will include all that is modern in architecture, lighting, decoration and refrigeration.

That is the consensus of opinion of Milwaukee architects and fixture manufacturers, who are preparing for the repeal of the 18th amendment, or modification of the Volstead act.

The heavy oak and mahogany of the old days will be taboo along with the barroom. The modern barroom will have lots of light, period rooms, aluminum trimmings and flowers.

The family club, catering to men and women, will take the place of the saloon, says Thomas L. Rose, member of the first of architects which designed the famous old Schiltz Palm Garden in Milwaukee.

"Brass rails and brass spittoons, the barkeeper and mahogany, all must go," he declared. "With beer and wine bring in modern architecture and lots of light."

E. W. Kuehn, of the Northwestern Store Equipment corporation, would "get away from the sordid night club idea."

"When you can buy a drink legally again it will be in rooms that, for the most part, will have left the heavy mahogany idea. You will have early American colonial, 18th century English, and ultra modern period designs."

The new cafes will have to be inviting to women, according to Henry Bogner, Milwaukee architect. "How pleasant are the many European cafes where the front is entirely open to the street, where one can sit comfortably watching the traffic, have a drink and a bite to eat."

Youth Grows Heavy Beard

HANFORD, Cal. (UP)—Bill Brown of Hanford can remember "way back when" roller-skating, kite-flying and such things interested him. This despite the fact that a long beard adorns his face.

For Bill is 12. His beard was so thick his father had to take him to a barber shop.

Bermuda Gets U. S. Tourists

NEW YORK. (UP)—American recreation seekers have built up a solid prosperity in Bermuda and are coming in ever-increasing numbers both in winter and summer," according to Joseph J. Outerbridge, secretary of the Bermuda Trade Development board, who is en route to Toronto, where he will direct his colony's exhibit at the Canadian National exhibition, Aug. 26 to Sept. 10.

"American visitors to Bermuda for the six months ending June 30, 1932, reached a total of 32,898, an increase even in these times of more than 500 over the similar period last year," Outerbridge said. "These figures take no account of the many American semi-permanent residents in Bermuda."

There were 238 arrivals of passenger ships in Bermuda during this period, an increase of about 20 per cent over the arrivals in the first six months of last year. Thirty-nine of these were cruise ships, which accounted for large increases in bookings to Bermuda, particularly in February and March.

Bermuda's exhibit in the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto will be principally of agricultural products. Since the enactment of the Hawley-Smoot tariff, Canada has been the chief market for Bermuda produce, and trade between the two colonies has more than doubled in the last several years. Preferential tariffs have been passed by both the Dominion and Bermuda, and as a re-

New Sensation in Mysterious Wendel Will Case Aired

NEW YORK.—Until he mounted the witness stand to unfold an amazing story of an eccentric millionaire's secret marriage and long-hidden will, Thomas Patrick Morris was just another of the 1800 obscure claimants to the Wendel real estate fortune in New York.

Nobody paid much attention to the gaunt, 52-year-old Scotsman who has patiently awaited his turn in the surrogate's court where a sensational will fight has been carried on now for more than a year.

Of the hundreds who have sought to prove relationship to the late Miss Ella Wendel, last of the fabulous family that lived and died in a cheerless old house on Fifth avenue, all but nine had been dismissed by the court. And even those nine were in the fifth degree of kinship, and their chance of winning any share in the Wendel thirty millions seemed remote.

Some of the claimants, with their high-priced lawyers and their huge bundles of documentary evidence, felt sorry for old Patrick Morris. He is an unemployed nouse painter, and is suffering from angina pectoris.

They Laughed When—

In his strong Scottish burr, Morris confided to some of the court attendants that he was a son of the late John Gottlieb Wendel, one of the founders of the fortune and a brother of Ella. Listeners would laugh and exchange amused glances. They had heard a lot of other people tell crazy stories like that.

But finally Morris had his day in court. He also had a lawyer, a book entitled "The Blockade of Phalsburg," a pair of very large shoes, and a short length of gold watch chain. The courtroom stared and chuckled.

Morris told a concise and accurate story. John Wendel, he said, had married a Scotswoman, Mary Elyen Devine, in New York City on June 11, 1876. He claimed he was a child of the marriage, born in Scotland, where he lived with foster parents named Morris until he was 14.

"Papa"

During his boyhood, John Wendel often visited him and insisted on being addressed as "Papa." Soon after his twenty-first birthday, Morris continued, "Papa" Wendel came to him in Dundee, gave him a watch and chain and a package containing the above mentioned book. "Read it carefully when you get home," he quoted the older man. "Because everything in it is true."

Inside the front cover, and on the flyleaf, Morris found a letter from Wendel describing the circumstances of his marriage and recognizing his parentage of the boy. On the back flyleaf was a will, signed and witnessed, making Morris his sole heir.

In 1906, Morris said he came to New York, frequently met Mr. Wendel, and once went to the Wendel home "to see my aunts." A quarrel ensued and he quoted Miss Ella as saying: "Get out and take your brat with you."

Hoax? Or Truth?

Discouraged and ashamed, Morris said he drifted about the country, saw Mr. Wendel only once more before the latter's death, and finally became a house painter by trade. But he still kept the book containing the letter and will, a pair of thick-gum-soled shoes like those worn by Wendel, and the watch chain. All these were presented in court, together with an amazingly detailed account of the old millionaire's personality, habits and travels.

The judge described the whole thing as "either a monstrous hoax or amazingly true." As for the other claimants, those who used to laugh at Thomas Morris—they're completely speechless.

Most of the sunflower seed and oil used in the United States come from Russia, the Ukraine and Rumania.

Movies to Show French Legion

PHILADELPHIA. (UP)—A socially prominent Philadelphian is going to debunk the French Foreign Legion. And he plans to do it through the same medium which has filled the popular mind with a lot of false impressions—the motion picture.

With the permission of the French War Ministry, William J. Taylor, Jr. who saw service in France, will take a moving picture crew to North Africa and make accurate pictures of the greatest fighting unit in the world.

"The Foreign Legion has been pictured as an outfit of men who would shoot a fellow because they didn't like his looks," Taylor said. "While they're not a bunch of milk sops, most of them are gentlemen and political exiles."

"We plan to make a picture which will show the legion as it is."

LADIES' ET CETERAS
We'll wager Mr. Munsing or Mr. Kayser would disown these even if they do still carry their labels, about two dozen in all. Teds, bloomers, slips and et ceteras. Imagine these being marked to 89c

FOLDING LAWN CHAIRS
There were an even three dozen of these "Elephant Blancos" to begin with, but we've managed to unload all but eleven of them.
They are not so bad, they beat a box or having to hunker down on the grass without anything 69c

BOYS' SPORT BLOUSES
We figured the boys were all going "Jelly" but it was a bad guess, for so far they have "spurned" these.
They have short sleeves and regular Lord Fauntleroy collars. They won't fade 29c

Boys' (and some Men's) Straws
Not so bad. Not so good. They were priced for a dollar but we arrived at the conclusion that something was wrong, perhaps it was the dollar, anyhow we'll try them at 39c

A BIG TABLE OF ET CETERAS
We are reminded of the man who, when asked what the article he was selling was good for, replied that "they were good to sell."
That's what most of this big table of whatnots is good for.
Some folks give them as bridge prizes (and they're supposed to invite their friends). You could use some of them to throw at a cat or friend husband, if the occasion presented itself. 69c

THESE UTILITY SETS
Whoever conceived the idea should be locked up for the rest of his life.
3 wash rags, 3 dish cloths, and 2 dusting cloths, all drolled up in a fancy box with a cellophane top like they amounted to something. We had two dozen of them and sold them all but twenty-two.
If there is anyway we could talk you into paying us 25c a box for these we'd be happy. 69c

CRISS CROSS CURTAINS
Of printed Marquessette and some not printed, but still Marquessette.
We were optimistic enough to believe that these would bring a dollar and up to $1.25 the pair. They are 2 1/4 yards long and full width, but looks as if this was just another case of bad judgment on our part. If you'll promise not to bring them back, we'll wrap them up, the pair 69c

ALL KINDS OF NOTIONS
Patent leather Belts, funny looking Tie-backs, Bracelets, Buckles, Necklaces, Gem Studded Hair Pins, Jiffy Pants, Hair Wavers. Why go on with the list? Goodness knows what you would do with them. They were as much as a dollar, but we'll part with anything in the lot without a sigh, for 10c

MEN'S UNIONS
And the "boss" himself is responsible for this and darn sure can't lay it to anyone else's ignorance.
And it is purely a case of ignorance. The unions are all right, except he forgot that everybody that don't need a cane is wearing shirts and shorts.
Come to think about it, we're going to hedge a bit about the unions being all right. They are just unions, made out of nain-sook, with a size marked on them, but get about two sizes larger than you think you ought to have. They are 25c the suit and if you'll buy a dollar's worth we'll slip in an extra suit, making them $1.00 FIVE SUITS FOR

50-INCH CURTAIN DAMASK
Just three pieces, for which we are thankful. One a bilious looking Green, one ugly Brown and a discontented Blue. In the days of long, long ago they were marked at $1.50 the yard. Oh, boy, wouldn't we be glad to walk this at just a third that price. Yard 50c

BROCADED DAMASK
Another famous star in this galaxy of glorious mistakes is a piece of 48-inch Brocaded Damask that we wonder what it was ever made for. Even at that, some folks like it, except it's been too much money. It was $3.50 the yard, but about six months ago we decided that it might sell at $2.50. Just another mistake. So now we'll $1.50

THOSE DRESSES
About thirty-five of them and we don't believe, and never have believed, that we bought them. Somebody just slipped these in, and if you don't watch us very carefully, we may try the same thing on you.
They sold up to as much as $16.75, one or two even higher. Sizes are awful, mostly 14 and 16, but maybe they will stretch to fit a grown person. $2.95
You might try it at

COLORED MESH SUITINGS
Someone told us that Mesh Suitings would be very, very good and we, poor trusting souls that we are, believed them. Even at that, they were not so far wrong, but these few pieces, three, so-called sport stripes, a miserably Blue, a sad Green and an ugly Rose that in a hopeful mood, were marked at 25c and up to 65c the yard, are yours for the asking, 10c

DOROTHY GRAY WAISTS
We never knew Aunt Dorothy (for we are sure she would be Auntie by this time), and they tell us that girls wore these, sometime in the long, long ago.
They sold at 50c, that is, they were marked 50c. We doubt that they ever sold. Sizes 4 to 12, and would make a dandy museum piece, at 15c

WASH PAJAMAS
Thirteen of them! No wonder we were stuck, and this jinx may stay with every single one of them. We ask you, if you are willing to take a chance, please don't tell them you got them here. The price tags must have gotten mixed up for they were tagged $1.00 and $1.95. How about 25c a pair, or suit, or ensemble?

HISTORIC HAND BAGS
Or perhaps they are the result of a market trip hangover. We don't know who to blame with these, so why bring up an argument?
The main trouble is that they are priced up to as much as $3.50, and it hurts 59c to beg you to help us out on these at

THOSE RAYON and SILK PAJAMAS
If it wasn't for our talking about someone, we'd be tempted to say something about whoever bought these. Talk about being an optimist, whoever marked these was an A No. 1 Optimist if they thought they would bring $4.50, $5.85, $6.75 and up to $11.00. No wonder they are still here!
But if you will look at the price tag first, maybe that won't look so bad, now since we have worked on them.
Take a look anyhow. You may think more of them than we do.

AND THESE WASH BLOUSES
Honestly, you'd think that old man Van Winkle himself designed them, long sleeves and everything.
About the only nice thing you could say of them is that they'll wash.
Someone had the nerve to mark them $1.95, but if you don't watch us, we'll try to slip one of these into your purchases at 39c

White Elephants
We've been honest about it and told you the worst about these White Elephants, so if you buy them it's your fault, we're not to blame.
But if you do buy them, be good sports and don't bring them back, they're yours. Just remember the birthdays and showers and parties at which you may have a chance to wish them off on somebody else.

Keeping stock cleaned out of these White Elephants makes this a much more satisfactory store in which to shop. We all make them, the "live" store gets rid of them.
