STANTON PRISONERS SAW OUT OF MARTIN JAIL THURSDAY

TWO HAD BEEN IN JAIL HERE

Two Charged With Theft of Saddles From a Ranch

Three prisoners saved their way to freedom from the Martin county jail Thursday night and are being sought in West Texas today.

Two of the men had been in jail in Midland. These two, M. H. Hogan and Bob Seitz, were to have been returned to Midland for trial in the November term of district court. They were charged with theft of two saddles from Frank Cowden and Tobe Crawford, on Cowden's Martin county ranch.

The other prisoner was named Bridges, according to Deputy Sheriff R. L. Parks of Stanton.

Hogan and Seitz were picked up by the Roswell, N. M., sheriff, Harry Thorne, upon information sent out of Midland and Stanton following the taking of the saddles on Sept. 10. They were jailed in Midland and later delivered to Sheriff J. H. Zimmerman of Stanton.

Their trial came up at Stanton Thursday but Thorne was not able to appear in court against them, so the case was postponed until the November term of court in Midland.

Asked whether he believed the men who robbed two business establishments in Midland Thursday night or early this morning were those missing from the Martin county jail, Parks said he believed the men headed east from Stanton. He did not say what clues he had. Sheriff Zimmerman was in Midland this morning a short while.

LLOYD CONASTER MAY BE RELEASED FROM THE PEN

STAMFORD, Texas, Nov. 7. (P)—C. J. Conaster, father of Lloyd Conaster who is serving a life term in the state penitentiary after conviction as an accomplice of Joyce Shepard in the slaying of Sheriff Bob Smith and Deputy Jake Owens of Fisher county three years ago reports he is gaining ground in his campaign to free his son. He said eleven members of the jury which convicted his son had signed a pardon petition for presentation to Governor Moody.

The elder Conaster is basing his appeal on a statement made by Shepard a few hours before he died in the electric chair. The statement, signed by Shepard with a scrawl through unseeing eyes that he had gouged out with a nail several days before his execution, recited that he (Shepard) had been feigning insanity in an effort to escape death, and that Lloyd Conaster had nothing to do with the double killing. Shepard contended in the statement that he had led young Conaster, then 19 years of age, into the affair after concealing from the youth the fact that he had been stealing cotton. He said Conaster was visiting in the Shepard home at the time.

The elder Conaster said he would present to Governor Moody "the longest list of names on a petition ever placed before him," adding that he had many friends in Fisher county, where he was operating a small grocery store at the time of the killing, and at Levelland, where he now lives and has a filling station. Lloyd has served three years and two months of his term.

Wild Oklahoma Oil Well Sets River Afire

This striking panoramic picture shows the wild gusher in the midst of an oil field near the heart of Oklahoma City that drenched the neighborhood with oil and that threatened for a time to cause a city-wide conflagration. At the right the gusher can be seen, just before it was finally capped after desperate efforts, throwing up a 300-foot plume of oil; at the left are clouds of smoke from the (North Canadian) river, where a great film of oil had caught fire, burning bridges and threatening water front property. Hundreds of men worked frantically to prevent this fire from spreading to the gusher and showering the city with flaming oil and finally extinguished it with chemicals.

Missing President of College Fears a Health Break

CROCKETT, Nov. 7. (P)—E. W. Provence, missing president of Burleson college who spent last night at a hotel here, put in a long distance call for Fort Worth before leaving the hotel and told some of the guests that he was going to Palestine.

A group drove out on the Palestine road seeking him but he was not found. Mrs. Provence was reported to be en route here from Greenville.

CROCKETT, Nov. 7. (P)—Expressing the relief that if he could "not get away from teaching" he would have a nervous breakdown, President E. W. Provence of Burleson college, Greenville, missing since Monday when he came to Dallas to visit a sister and attend a business conference, spent last night in a hotel here.

Provence appeared late yesterday at the farm of P. E. Walden announcing his identity, asking lodging, then helped to milk the cows. Having no room, Walden brought him to a hotel here where Provence spent the night.

He had breakfast at 9 o'clock this morning, played several games of dominoes with other guests and departed saying, "I am going uptown."

Wife is Notified

GREENVILLE, Nov. 7. (UP)—Mrs. E. W. Provence, wife of the president of Burleson college, today received a telegram saying that a man answering Dr. Provence's description had been located at Crockett, Texas, apparently suffering a lapse of memory.

Dr. Provence has been missing since Monday when he parted with friends in Dallas.

The telegram, signed by a Crockett banker, said that an amnesia victim was at a hotel there. Mrs. Provence left immediately for Crockett to attempt to identify the man.

OBSERVING THAT MEMORABLE DAY

No formal celebration of Armistice day for Midland has been announced, but former service men are asking the question, "Will Tuesday be a holiday?"

Many of these ex-service men are salaried fellows, depending upon their employers to decide whether or not Tuesday will be taken off as a holiday.

The football game between Pecos and Midland, at Pecos, will be the chief entertainment feature in this section and Midland people by the hundreds may attend.

Even though no formal celebration is planned for this city, the annual holiday honoring former service men, those who returned and those who did not, is always in order. It is hoped that Midland will take the day off.

THE ORGANIZATION THAT "CAME BACK"

A year ago, the West Texas chamber of commerce began a new plan of operation. Heavily in debt, its new administration took the reins handicapped in the extreme. It is interesting to peruse the organization's report at the end of the year.

Taking the financial condition first, although it is not the most important, the deficit of $28,000 has been eliminated and the organization's books are well "in the black."

The work of the organization is carried on under three divisions, the first protecting and expanding things already in West Texas, the second getting new advantages for West Texas and the third giving publicity to and information about West Texas. Twelve committees serve with the three bureaus and the manager and his assistant carry on the work in each division.

To outline the accomplishments of the body during the past year would require considerable space.

BAGGING BIG GAME

It won't be long now until the sound of the rifle will be heard in this section as the deer season opens in Texas. The hunting period for deer opens Nov. 16. Blacktail deer may be killed from Nov. 16 to Nov. 30, while whitetail deer may be used for target practice from Nov. 30 until the end of the year.

The limit for blacktail deer is one buck for the season, and for whitetail deer, two bucks to the season. Deer hunting season always opens up also the great probability of many accidents.

It is one of the peculiarities of most hunts that they consider themselves immune to the usual dangers when men beat the brush with high powered guns.

There are simple accidents, known to all hunters, which may not prevent but which certainly tend toward lessening the number of accidents.

Better a little forethought and inexpensive preparation to keep down the annual toll.

TWO ENCOURAGING QUOTATIONS

If statements by President Hoover and John J. Raskob, of General Motors, are worth anything, there is plenty of argument on the "other side of the depression question." President Hoover said, "The income of a large part of our people is not reduced by the depression, but is affected by unnecessary fears and pessimism. We have known a thousand contemporary setbacks, but the spirit of this people never will brook defeat." And Raskob said, "Sharp revivals may be expected to begin with the automobile shows in early January."

STICKLERS

A MILLER was accustomed to take, as toll, one-tenth of the flour that he ground for his customers. How much did he grind for Farmer Brown, who had just one bushel after the toll had been taken?

America's Greatest War Ace

The Thrilling Story Behind President Hoover's Decoration of Eddie Rickenbacker

© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of three stories on the thrilling career of Eddie Rickenbacker, America's greatest World War ace, who brought down 26 enemy aircraft. Yesterday's story told of Rickenbacker's single-handed attack on a squadron of seven German planes, shooting down two of them, for which feat he has just been decorated by President Hoover with a belated award of the Congressional Medal of Honor.

By ROBERT TALLEY, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, who won fame as America's "Ace of Aces" by shooting down 26 enemy aircraft in the World War, began life as a tombstone maker and was once under surveillance by Scotland Yard as a suspected German spy.

In a cemetery at Columbus, Ohio, the city where he was born, there stands a tombstone over his father's grave that was carved by his own hand. One of the most cherished possessions that his mother kept beside her during the days when her son was fighting in France was a small piece of marble chiseled in the shape of a book and bearing the inscription "Holy Bible," another piece of his youthful handiwork.

Young Rickenbacker quit his 86-a-week job at the tombstone works when he was 15. Auto racing held a strange fascination for him and Barney Oldfield, the speed demon of a generation ago, was his idol. He turned from marble to motors, went to work in a garage and eventually became a race driver—and a great one, too.

Trained by Scotland Yard As German Spy Suspect

So it came about that when the United States declared war he was in England, trying to promote a series of auto races. When the declarations came he returned to the United States immediately. Scotland Yard agents, ready to suspect any man as a German spy in those nervous days—especially a man named "Rickenbacker" (he later changed the spelling to Rickenbacker to remove the Teutonic suggestion)—shadowed him back to this country. Of course, their suspicions proved groundless.

Rickenbacker arrived in New York when the war fever was at its height, burning with a great ambition. He wanted to be an air fighter. He wanted to enlist the star automobile racers in this country into an all-star unit of fighting pilots, believing them eminently qualified by their racing experience. But official enthusiasm for his plan could not be aroused in Washington and the movement died.

Then, a little later, General Pershing needed a chauffeur to drive his car in France. The army wanted the best auto driver in America, and naturally the job was offered to Rickenbacker. He jumped at the chance, enlisted in the infantry and sailed the following day with the first American contingent on the ship with General Pershing and his party. They landed in France on June 9, 1917.

Quits as Pershing's Chauffeur To Join Air Service

Rickenbacker drove Pershing's auto at the front, but still nursed his desire to become an aviator. Finally, his chance came. On a shell-torn French road near Toul one day the auto of General William Mitchell, chief of the army air service, stopped suddenly, blocking a line of staff cars. Mitchell's chauffeur got out, lifted the hood and tried to start the motor but failed. Then Rickenbacker, who chanced to be driving Major Townsend F. Dodd, aeronautical officer, came up. He dived into the old twin-six Packard engine found the trouble and got the car started in a jiffy.

"From that time on," says General Mitchell, "this man interested me greatly. He was never late and always well turned out, neat in his personal appearance, punctilious and gentlemanly. We gave him many missions to execute which required judgment and discretion, and always he kept doing better and better."

Some days later Rickenbacker, having first obtained permission, applied to General Mitchell for a place in the air service. He said he felt sure his familiarity with automobiles and motors and his experience as a racing driver would help him as a pilot.

Rickenbacker was transferred to the air service, but to a ground outfit in charge of motors. Frequently pleas for permission to learn to fly were met with the reply that he was too valuable a man on engines.

Feigns Illness to Get His Chance as Flyer

Determined, Rickenbacker hit on a bold plan. With the connivance of a young medical officer he got himself reported sick and sent to a hospital for two weeks, though there was nothing wrong with him. When he returned, he insisted that his absences had proved that he was not

The Tariff Seems Bound to Cause a Lot More Trouble, With Critics Claiming the Commission Is Stacked in Favor of High Rates, Despite Hoover's Promise of Revisions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The election campaign is over, but you're going to keep fighting on hearing about the tariff, which seems bound to cause a lot more trouble.

The public hearings now in progress before the tariff commission, operating under the flexibility provisions of the Hawley-Smoot act, are the first in a series of 60 or more schedules already ordered investigated by the commission.

Just what will actually be done toward carrying out President Hoover's promise of revisions under the flexible provision is a matter of considerable speculation here. Despite promises of speed and seeming evidences of earnest determination, the commission will cause considerable surprise in some quarters if it ever does much of anything.

Tariff critics have held that the commission is stacked in favor of the high rates in the Hawley-Smoot law and hence is unlikely to make any revisions of importance. They also insist on the basis of eight years' experience with the flexible provision of the previous act—which provided essentially the same machinery as the Hawley-Smoot flexible provision—the commission is not geared to make thorough investigations and quick changes.

In the hands of the Democrats, the tariff unquestionably became a real campaign issue. The opposition tried to make it appear that the "Grundy act" had made an important contribution to depression and unemployment. President Hoover, in signing the bill did the best he could to escape onus by asserting an obvious need for revisions.

Today, the tariff commission is distinctly a Hoover commission. Chairman Henry P. Fletcher is Hoover's personal choice and, of course, responsive to Hoover's wishes on bullets would pass between the whirling propeller blades and thus not cut them off. Finally came guns that could spout a stream of flaming tracer bullets at the rate of 260 a minute, which the pilot could direct like a man directs the stream from a garden hose.

These tracer bullets left a streaky, visible line of fire in their wake so a gunner could see where his stream of fire was going and direct it accordingly.

Veritable armadas of the sky had come. So it was when Lieutenant Rickenbacker, after days of hard schooling and nights of eager anticipation, arrived at the front for action in the air.

He had not long to wait. Two days after he had joined America's famous "Hat-in-the-Ring" squadron on March 6, 1918, he was in the air over the German lines.

matters of policy. And the commission itself is more than ever being in a position to mitigate the unpopularity of and the opposition to the present act.

Under the circumstances, considerable comment was inspired when the president waited the full 90 days allowed by the law before appointing the commission. Even then there was still a member missing in the lineup. This didn't seem to show any great desire for speed on the part of the administration.

And as for the scores of requests for investigations which were received during that period, no work was begun on them. They were merely filed. Of course it took the commission a month to get organized.

Hoover, Fletcher and Senator Smoot say the machinery will function adequately. But the tariff critics, considering the delay of more than four months before hearings began, the personnel of the commission and what they call the machinery's inadequacy, profess to hold little hope. Previously public hearings have been delayed from six months to two years while the commission's investigators made detailed studies of production costs at home and abroad.

Early starts with the hearings, Fletcher says, will hasten the commission's reports to the president, who may either put the recommendations into effect or ignore them. Thus interest centers on the speed with which the commission completes investigations and make the reports.

Another fight in Congress in connection with the tariff is expected over Mr. Hoover's reappointment of Edgar B. Brossard of Utah to the commission. Something probably will

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

There are some famous columnists in Texas, I might say in Amarillo, El Paso and other places, who get a lot of their popularity by helping to find lost dogs, etc. I noticed this morning that one of them had found a "love bird" and was anxiously seeking the owner. I wonder just what these columnists would do if they were to discover a love nest somewhere.

One of these boys, and I'll admit it was Henry Ainsley in the El Paso Herald, quotes some cowboy poetry like this: "He mixed his beans with honey, He'd done it all his life, Not because he liked it, But to keep them on his knife."

Well, the editor is going to be out of town a few days. I always like for that to come up because he gets so much kick out of being called the Quack. He claims that when he gets back from a trip, someone always tells him the Quack column sounded different while he was gone. Just for that, I want you to read carefully every paragraph and every word in this column until you know he has returned. If there's any difference in it, it's because I caught cold last week and have tried every remedy except one John Hix always uses. If I decide to try that, my column may be a little more spicy for a few days. Watch closely.

Were you one of the boys who slept on the ground at Cloverdale last night? I'll bet some of the Boy Scouts would have had a big laugh if they could have hidden behind trees and watched the cooking and bed making that was under way be said about the fact that Mr. Hoover appointed three Republicans and two Democrats, without naming a sixth until the commission had organized itself, although it was explained that the president had tried hard to find the right man.

Brossard, originally appointed as an examiner for the commission through the influence of Smoot, is charged with having been the special advocate of the beet sugar interests both as an employe and a member. Democrats have been promising strong opposition to his confirmation and the Senate may be in a mood to turn him down.

CLAUDE'S HOT WATER WOULD GIVE YOU COLD

By J. W. YOUNG, United Press Science Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (UP).—If you fell into the kind of boiling water that Prof. George Claude uses in his experimental power plant at Matanzas, Cuba, you very probably would catch a severe cold.

Cold water, even ice cold water, will boil if its pressure is reduced sufficiently. However, in the boiler Claude uses to extract power from the difference in temperature between the surface and deep water, the water is never quite as cold as ice water. Yet it is always below 85 degrees Fahrenheit. Even though this is far from the usual boiling point of 212 degrees, the water boils readily, changing into steam which turns the turbine. It is later converted back into water in the condenser.

In such a manner does the French scientist begin to explain the operation of his novel power plant. Highly successful tests were conducted in October at the Matanzas plant, which has been completed after three years work.

Tropical Sea Water
The warm water in the Claude process comes from the surface of the tropic seas. After it has been evaporated and its steam used to turn the turbine, it is condensed by cold water which is drawn to the plant through a mile long tube running out on the bottom of the ocean. This continuous process of condensation maintains the vacuum that keeps the water in the boiler evaporating.

Although the recent tests were highly successful, the turbine did not produce enough power to pump the water needed. This was chiefly because 10 times as much water as was needed by the turbine had to be pumped so that it would not cool too rapidly in rising to the surface. The turbine, too, was a small high pressure steam model, as none has been designed for the extremely low pressure of the Claude process. When a turbine of the proper size and design is put in use it will easily produce an abundant surplus of power, Prof. Claude believes.

Experiments Show Errors
I know that the experimental plant at Matanzas represents, as a result of my errors of beginning," he said, a maximum of difficulties that will not be found in industrial plants. I have collected the greater part of information wanted for the quick realization of a plant of 25,000 kilowatts net, which will probably be located in the region of Santiago de Cuba. It is expected that this plant will cost approximately $3,000,000.

Eventually, when the size of a power plant using the new process is increased to hundreds of thousands of kilowatts, the cost of the installation per kilowatt will be reduced to $60, Prof. Claude says the Matanzas tests have shown him.

utes, add hot coffee and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Cool until mixture begins to thicken. Add salt and sugar to the cream and whip until stiff. Add coffee mixture and vanilla and mix well. Turn into a mold and cover tightly. Pack in 1 part salt to 2 parts cracked ice and let stand 4 hours. Or put in trays of electric refrigerator.

'Tis true that Grocery and Meat products are cheaper now than in the past few years.

And it is also true that the grocer and butcher of today have to be right on their toes to protect the health of their customers. The country is being flooded with a cheap brand of groceries but at the same time the standard and advertised products are being guaranteed by the manufacturers and the merchants just the same as they were last year and previous years.

Our advice to every person who buys groceries is the same

"BUY THE BEST THE MARKET AFFORDS"

ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice Day! What did it mean to all those who participated in the greatest war that the world has ever known? To the ones it concerned most, the soldiers in the war and survived the horrors of death and bloodshed, it meant home. To the ones who died in the conflict, it meant everlasting honor and veneration. To the world at large, it meant a renewal of peaceful relations and a return to normal conditions of living.

It is not then very fitting that every year on November the eleven-th the whole world pause in its daily occupation to pay its debt of honor to those who fought and died to uphold its highest ideals? We can never repay them for what they did for us, but we can show our appreciation. Let us attempt to do so by striving to retain the blessings of peace.

RITZ ENTERTAINS (By Lucille McMullan)

John A. Bonner, manager of the Ritz theatre, was host to the Midland pep squad, band, and football team; the Odessa team and yell leaders; and the Stanton team and yell leaders, on Wednesday evening, November 5.

The picture for the occasion was "Maybe It's Love." It was a foot-ball picture, featuring the All-American team last year. The special feature was the moving pictures taken at Lackey field at the Midland-Odessa game.

The school certainly appreciates the courtesy of Mr. Bonner, and it can always count upon him for support. The school also votes its appreciation to Kenneth Yost and Harold Becherer who made the pictures of the game. Some of the pictures were aerial shots.

David: I've got a bad head this morning.

Irene: I'm so sorry, I hope you'll be able to shake it off.

Mr. Shifflett: What three words are used most among the students of this school?

Carlton: I don't know.

Mr. Shifflett: Correct.

Marguerite: How are you getting along with your typing, Mary Katherine?

M. K.: Oh, fine. I can make twenty mistakes in a minute now.

Mr. Shifflett: Ham, why is it that you are late most every morning?

Ham: I believe in signs, and there is one down the street that reads: "School 300 feet ahead. Go slow."

ANNUAL NEWS By Billie Manning

The photographer is finishing individual class pictures for the annual this week. The staff has practically completed the dummy for the 1931 "Catoico." Placing of class pictures on panels is the plan of work for next week. Class rolls are being completed. Nancy Rankin, snapshot editor, is collecting pictures for the snapshot section. If anyone wishes snapshots placed in the annual, turn them in to her. She is asking that the one who turns them in write his name on the back of each picture so that pictures that are not used can be returned.

The cover is to be of cobra grain, carrying out the school colors. The design on the cover of last year's book will be used again.

STUDENTS HEAR BOONE By Myrtle McGraw

Students of the high school and junior high, visitors and pastors of the four leading churches of the city heard the Rev. Leslie A. Boone, former pastor of the First Methodist church of Midland, Monday as he made his last address to the student body.

Mr. Boone pointed to the future and said that America tomorrow would be no stronger than the weakest high school boy or girl today. He prophesied some new inventions which are now enjoyed were laughed at and declared impossible once.

The speaker spoke of the "greatest man." "The Christ," he said, "was a lowly man who always had time to lend a helping hand to any one no matter how insignificant or sinful." He went on to say that real men and real women who succeed in life are those who take Christ with them. He called attention to two of the greatest heroes of the World war. "One," he said, "was a Sunday school superintendent, the other a Hard Shell Baptist preacher."

"Nothing," said he, "can ever defeat you if you keep Christ on your side."

INDIGESTION DISAPPEARED

Took a Pinch of Black-Draught After Meals—Rid of Stomach Pains.

Westminster, S. C.—"I have used Theford's Black-Draught for headache and dizziness for fifteen or twenty years," says Mr. E. D. King, of this place.

"I had a son who could not eat without suffering from indigestion and pains in his stomach. He would take a pinch of Black-Draught after meals for some time, and he quit having indigestion. It helped him."

"My wife took Black-Draught for dizziness and headaches. When she would feel sluggish and tired out, she took Black-Draught and found it relieved her."

"We have taken it and recommended it for years as a splendid family medicine."

Theford's Black-Draught has been in use since 1835, with constantly increasing popularity because of the good it has done the men, women, and children who have taken it.

Composed of selected medicinal herbs and roots, finely powdered, accurately combined and packaged in a thoroughly modern, scientific way. Price 25¢.

FIGURES SHOW THAT MIDLAND TEAM IS OUTWEIGHED BY PECOS

PECOS MAY FIGHT MORAL BATTLE ON RIVER

Pecos high school will have Midland outclassed in weight and age when the two match football strength on Armistice day.

The clubs will join battle on the farthest bank of the Pecos. Pecos has a team that edged out Wink and otherwise has played a good season. The average of the backfield is 161 pounds, the probable starting line-up averages 160 and the total squad of 28 averages 151. This average is one pound lower than the figure Barry claims for the main string of the Bulldog contingent.

Due to announcements that Midland has discluded Pecos on the two principal holiday schedules of the season after this year, Pecos is likely to fight back at the purple and gold in order to flaunt a bit of irony in the face of those who have said Pecos is being left behind as regards athletic vision by other clubs in the district, specifically Odessa and Wink who will construct grass gridirons for next season play.

Following are the squads of the rival schools, with weight, number, position and experience:

DISTRICT 8 TANGLE

By R. C. HANKINS

A 161-pound backfield that runs under the colors of the Pecos grid stable may prove to be the four horsemen of the district when Midland plays on the slippery banks of the old western stream on the anniversary of the day made famous by termination of hostilities in '18. A pack of dogs that licks chops and rapidly grows hungrier will oppose the designation of the Pecos banks by such a nom de guerre.

There are a lotta things brewing over this district, if one may believe what he hears. McCamey is not satisfied with the ruling of the state committee, which tossed the club out for a year for violation of the eligibility rule; there is a bit of pressure that may be brought to bear towards finding out why Midland does not play Class A football, rather than Class B; the McCamey coach told the district committee he had enough on other clubs to throw them out—will he do it?; grass fields over the district may be more general than that in Midland and those to be constructed in Wink and Odessa.

Stanton's sports writer took a crack at Midland sports writers a few weeks ago after the Midland scribes failed to dope the Stanton-Midland game right. It had been said in this newspaper that Midland should win by three touchdowns. But the game ended in a scoreless tie. It should have ended that way for Stanton's thundering herd outfighting Midland to a frazzle. But Midland IS three touchdowns better on paper, just as this newspaper said. And Stanton will say the same. Stanton is just due a lot of credit for the way the Buffs have played. But, just to show you how sports scribes ride each other and are due for a spill themselves, here's

Liner Goes Aground Near New York

Misfortune lay at the journey's end for the large Panama Mail liner Colombia, shown here with her nose buried in the mud off Staten Island after she had gone aground in a thick haze which hung over New York harbor. Forty-eight passengers and their luggage were transferred to two tugs and landed in Brooklyn. The ship floated safely at high water with the aid of five tugs and proceeded to her pier.

A little incident that shows how apt the whole bunch is to become cock-eyed at times. Stanton's sports scribe turned in a bit of well written copy about "Midland paying Wink to come over to Midland's own funeral." That Midland completely swamped Wink in the most surprising show of power seen this season, taking the Wildcats down to a 39-0 unbuttoning, must have taken the wind out of the eastern village writer's sails. He should not be discouraged, however, for he may do the same mistake over, numerous times. Mistakes make the veteran sports scribe. Every man who does sports on this newspaper has been smeared with the dope bucket more than lots o' times - - - and still likes to gamble.

The Stanton scribe need feel no lack of supporters in his theorizing, however. There are some who believe Wink is stronger than Midland—even after the whitewashing. Coach Johnson says he can play Midland every day for a week and win nearly every tussle. With all respect for Johnson's ability as a coach, it is believed by the sports staffs on most of the surrounding towns' newspapers that he was up late the night before the morning he made the assertion. He has a good club, a bunch that fights to the last stumble, but his club looks like a mere bit of nebulae alongside the meteor streaming out of Midland towards the cross-bars of the district championship—and so does everyone else we know of, unless it is the unknown quantity looming out of Marfa.

Have you noticed the good sportsmanship radiated from the columns of the Stanton Reporter and the Odessa Times-News? Messrs. Kelly and Shuffler are two gentlemen who would give their Sunday pants to see Midland beaten, but they are such good sports that they stay right in there and give the devil not only his due, but a credit account. Those are the kinds of fellows we are for in Midland. And when they raise so much spirit in

Hollywood Film Shop

By GEORGE H. BEALE, United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7. (UP).—Janet Gaynor, the sprightly Miss who has been kept away from the screen by differences with studio officials, will be seen soon in a new picture by George Gershwin of "Rhapsody in Blue" fame.

Both Miss Gaynor and the powers that be at the Fox plant have found that to be at the Fox plant have found that nothing was to be gained by a lack of cordiality and so a truce was declared. Now everybody is happy.

David Butler, who has just completed the DeSilva-Brown-Henderson celluloid fantasy, "Just Imagine," will direct Janet in her new picture. The details haven't been worked out as yet, but the Gershwin touch will be evident in all the little runs and trills that distinguish his compositions.

During her absence from the screen, Janet spent her time being a model housewife. She married Lydell Peck, a young Oakland attorney, some time ago and they have spent their married life in California and Honolulu. Peck helps his father, J. H. Peck, a prominent barrister, fight big water rights cases all over the state.

New Yorkers, who adore Hope Williams for her charming performances in the stage productions of "Holiday" and "Rebound," will be glad to know that the Gotham society miss probably will be seen on the screen. The young woman who pushed aside a tea table to take up a career back of the footlights recently scored in screen tests, according to well founded reports.

Another of those Charlie Chann stories from the pen of Earl Derr their towns that Midland falls before their teams, we will be glad to give them the same kind of back-ing.

State Department of Health Warns That Now Is Bad Time for Colds; Methods Of Guarding Against Disease Released

The state department of health has more inquiries about "common colds" than almost all other diseases added together.

What causes colds? How are they caught from one person to another? Colds are transferred from one person to another by sneezing, coughing, kissing and hand shaking. In no other way can the fact that they run in epidemics be explained. They are the most common of all the germ diseases of temperate climates and the most difficult to avoid. The germs pass easily from one person to another and it is astonishing how quickly an epidemic can spread through a community.

Colds may be divided into two general groups and the mode of prevention varies with the kind of cold. In the first instance there is the cold which you may catch from somebody else. The cause is probably any one of a group of germs which lurk in the nose and mouth and which may be projected into the air in the course of loud talk, sneezing or coughing. How frequently have we found it necessary to change seats in a crowded theatre or movie house because the unthinking stranger at our rear insist upon spraying us with cough and sneeze. Truly he is as dangerous as the villainous bomber since his onslaught of germs may prove of deadly character. The common sense use of a handkerchief would immediately prevent such spread of contagion.

The catching-cold is also a disease of hand to mouth. Just try counting the number of times you shake hands with someone who has a cold. It may be your best friend who would never think of giving you anything less than a handsome birthday or Christmas present but when he shakes hands with you at cold time, he may be handing you the germs of influenza or pneumonia. Those who have colds should repeatedly wash their hands with soap and warm water during the course of the day so as to mechanically remove any germs which might adhere to the fingers.

Catching-colds may also be conveyed from the sick to the well through the medium of dirty, unwashed or unsterilized eating utensils. In your own home take particular care to thoroughly wash and cleanse cups, glasses and silverware which have been used by members of the family who have colds. As for public eating places, the best rule is to assume that everyone has a cold and eat only in those establishments where modern and sanitary means are employed for cleaning and sterilizing eating utensils.

There is a second type of cold which we carry with us at all times. We carry the germ or the inciting cause of the cold in our bodies but no harm is done so long as we keep our bodily resistance at a high point. Should we, however, develop a rundown physical condition or unduly expose ourselves to inclement weather, sudden changes in temperature and humidity and persist in wearing wet clothes and practice other unhygienic habits, we will sooner or later succumb to the cold which is already with us. Prevention is largely a matter of proper diet, of moderate exercise, or well regulated sleep with no excesses in work, play or eating.

How should you take care of a cold and how are you to recognize it? Well, most of us know what we mean by a cold. It is that unexplainable headache and feeling of indisposition usually accompanied by aching bones and joints, watery eyes, possibly a sore throat and usually sneezing and coughing. When you feel this way assume that you are coming down with a cold. If it is not a cold it is probably some other communicable disease which is most catching during its early stages. If you have a fever, you should be at home and in bed. Early to bed is the best means of preventing pneumonia and other complications. You owe it to your neighbors to isolate yourself and thus protect your friends. Above all things, remember that it is hygienic practice to use your handkerchief, guard your coughing and sneezing and above all, wash your hands frequently with soap and water as colds and many other catching diseases are hand to hand infections.

Break in Tradition Certain Saturday

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 7.—No matter which team emerges victorious, the Texas Aggie-S. M. U. Pony gridiron clash Saturday at Ovnby stadium is certain to be at least one football tradition broken unless the contest this year, like that of 1928 when the Aggies last journeyed to Dallas, results in a tie, a review of past games between the two teams shows.

Since 1922, when the Ponies by a 17-6 count scored their first victory over the Aggies, no A. & M. team has defeated the Mustangs in a game at Dallas. And since 1923, neither the Aggies nor the Mustangs have taken two games in succession from one another. Last year the Ponies turned in a victory over tradition when they nosed out the Maroon and White on Kelly Field at Aggie land.

Of the last four games played in Dallas the Aggies have lost two, one in 1922 and another in 1926, and tied two, one in 1924 and the other in 1928. Whether the Aggies will be able to break the jinx which seems to hover over them when playing a Mustang game in Dallas or whether the Ponies will be able to put down the consecutive victory jinx is the point to be decided Saturday.

Oranges are one of the oldest cultivated fruits.

Biggers of Pasadena is coming to shadowland. This time it is "Charlie Chann Carries On". The actor who will portray the corpulent oriental detective has not been revealed, but piquet. Fil Dorsay will play the leading feminine role. She has the right amount of verve to carry off the appreciable burden of accompanying a round-the-world tour that harbors a murderer—and what a murderer! One in every port, until they reach Honolulu and Charlie takes a hand.

NEW MINISTER AND HAMPTON GET BELTINGS

The Rev. Edwin Calhoun, pastor of the First Methodist church, got his first introduction to "roughing it" in Midland, and Wade Hampton, superintendent of the Los Angeles Hughes Tool company, got his last initiation, at a Cloverdale party that started Thursday evening with men belonging to the leadership training school of the scout organization and developed into a regular two-way party as Hughes men and women arrived for a session honoring Hampton and Mrs. Hampton.

Dinner was cooked a la frontier style, thick steaks being broiled over an open fire and potatoes roasted in the coals. Other food was cooked, as well. Range coffee was served.

The party got going in a hurry after the Hughes officials and office force arrived. The scout leaders invited the whole group to join in a series of plays that were generally beset with use of belts and straps.

Mr. Calhoun, who weighs about 185, has a mustache, wide shoulders, three university degrees and a whole lot of sportsmanship, was chased around a wide circle any number of times, during which he was given a belt lacing such as been given no other minister here. He showed, for a heavy man, the fastest heels in the township.

Present at the party were: J. S. Schow, T. D. Murphy, Geo. D. McCormick, A. A. Clark, G. W. Breneman, Harry McCarty, Alvon Patterson, Buster Howard, Lee Smith, Alvon Hicks, E. C. Calhoun, Fred Middleton, J. P. Butler, R. C. Hankins, Marcos J. Williamson, M. C. Moore, E. W. Golliday, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Luse, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Boone, Steven Boone, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hampton, Inez Laroure, Roy Blake, Mike Palmo, H. L. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Colbert, Leslie Stallings and Mrs. Ivy Mitchell.

To Marry

A polo ball, bouncing into the automobile occupied by Miss Ruth Malcomson, above, who was "Miss America" in 1926, served to introduce to her Lieut. Carl W. Schaubel, below, cavalry polo coach and instructor at Pennsylvania Military Academy. That was last May. They're engaged now and will be married next fall.

Some of the interesting things that happened from sundown to sunup: Those ministers, Mr. Calhoun and Mr. Murphy, took things in hand at the feed. And it's a safe bet that Mr. Calhoun noticed in his bath this morning that he was as striped as a zebra. Schow ate so much that Newmie Ellis must have been dreaming in anticipation of the morrow.

Middleton and Clark engaged in coffee making competition, Fred pouring in three pounds of "Java" to the gallon of coffee. He drank most of what was used out of his pot. John Butler was the first one to decide he didn't want to sleep on the ground, and he "beat" it. Buster Howard is the strongest "horse" at the tug o'war game in the city. Someone ask John Butler how an enforced head-first dive on grass feels.

W. O. Luse decided during the night to wear a pillow under his clothes today. Wade Hampton has the strongest legs in the Hughes organization, or any other. Marcos Williamson made such a fine bed that two others crawled in with him, almost crowding him out. The Jack-ass patrol is rather noisy.

There is only one negro member of the U. S. congress. He is Oscar De Priest, republican from Chicago.

Two Firms Donate To H. E. Classes

Two Midland firms are voluntarily donating ice and dairy products to the home economics department of the high school. Manager Kenneth Ambrose of the Southern Ice & Utilities company has for more than a year furnished and delivered free all the ice used by the H. E. department. The ice is delivered daily and the refrigerator in the foods department is kept filled throughout the year without any cost to the schools.

Manager T. W. Long of the Snow White Creameries has offered to furnish all the dairy products used by the H. E. department in demonstration work in the foods department. This includes all the butter, milk and cream used not only in daily cooking but in demonstration lunches required of this department. This he is doing daily.

This unusual courtesy by both of these firms is appreciated by the department and by the school authorities.

Ticket Sellers Receive Awards

Room prizes were offered to those rooms in the high school, the junior high school, and both primary buildings for first place in the selling of tickets for the Midland-Wink game. First place in the high school was won by Miss Thelma Lee Rippey's room, the 11-A section. The prize was a beautiful picture donated by the Midland Hardware company. This prize was given to the room by Manager McCormick, and was presented to the room today. First place in the junior high building was won by Mrs. Frank Wendt's room, the A section of the low sixth grade. The prize, a box of delicious apples, was given by the M. System. This was presented to the room today through Mr. Simpson of the M System stores. First place at north ward was won by Mrs. Shrader's room. The award was a handsome picture presented by Mr. Seymour of Barrow Furniture company. No tickets were sold by south ward. All of these awards were made today in the various buildings.

Upham Gives School Gift of a Mirror

W. R. Upham, manager of the Home Furniture company, presented to the northward school this morning a mirror for their office.

Several firms have cooperated with the public schools this season in making appropriate gifts to the various buildings.

FISH IN SEASON

The Scharbauer cafe announced this morning that, beginning today, and lasting through the winter season, bass, lobster, shrimp, halibut, speckled trout, red salmon, mackerel, pompano, red snapper, cat fish and oysters will be served. This is a service that few restaurants give the public, it was pointed out.

Provence--

He said the audit was conducted by himself, together with J. F. Daniel, another finance committee member and J. C. Alexander, treasurer of the board.

The college will continue to operate despite rumors that it might close, Dulaney said, adding that at a meeting of the board Friday night, another president would be named to succeed Dr. Provence.

GREENVILLE, Nov. 7. (AP)—The Rev. A. A. Dulaney, board member, said that should President Provence be able to continue his duties, Burison college trustees would retain him.

Squeezing together two handles with which a new cooking kettle is equipped tilts it for pouring out its liquid contents, a tight lid protecting the hands from steam.

Czecho-Slovakia will build a retaining reservoir covering more than 2400 acres of land to produce electrical power and improve navigation of the Elbe river.

Lifeguards at Seaside, Ore., use an airplane in rescue work. The craft carries a torpedo to which is fastened a long rope attached to a life preserver. The crew drops the preserver to persons in distress and the torpedo carries the line to shore, the method being quicker than boat rescue.
