.76 INCH FALLS IN THIS CITY

"Dry Belt" Drought Thought Broken By Downpour

Almost a half inch of rain fell in Midland this morning, raising the total of the last three days to .76 inch. All West Texas was getting rain, reports received at noon said. A region extending from Abilene to El Paso was getting good downpours, while reports from eastern New Mexico showed that country was benefitting from moisture.

It is believed here that the "dry strip" that runs through parts of Ector and Andrews counties in Texas and into eastern New Mexico got rain. Telephone calls could not be put through to ranch houses in the belt, but the fact that it was raining here and in eastern New Mexico caused cattlemen to believe the year-old drought had been broken. No buses had run to Midland from the south. The official check for rainfall here today was 44 inch. It rained .04 inch Sunday and .28 inch Saturday. Maximum temperature here today was 51 degrees, minimum 48 degrees.

Reagan County May Vote Road Bonds

With sentiment in Reagan county for the proposed bond election solidified by the apparent victory of the university land tax amendment, that county likely will vote bonds soon for the paving of Highway 99. Iraan county is waiting for Reagan to vote bonds before taking similar action, according to D. I. Taylor of Barnhart, Iraan county commissioner. Bond elections will be looked upon more favorably in the future by Iraan, Reagan, Upton and Pecos counties because each possesses university lands, it is explained by proponents of the paving of the Tulsa-to-the-border highway, which is now paved from Tulsa through San Angelo to the Iraan county line.

THEY DIDN'T GO TO WAR

In a recent article in the Review of Reviews about Adolf Hitler, the German disturber, there is the following significant statement:

"But it is youth that idolizes Hitler. The young people, who did not fight in the war, voted five million strong for their hero."

Considering the fact that Hitler stands for a program that probably would land Germany, and the rest of Europe, in a brand-new war, there is a good deal to think about in that remark. It points to a fact that we generally overlook, to wit: a new generation, which knows the World War only by hearsay, is beginning to come on the scene, in Germany and everywhere else.

When Armistice Day came in 1918 the human race, collectively and individually, had had all the war it wanted. That mood, naturally enough, lingered for a good many years. In spite of international fear, jealousy and suspicion, the movement toward an enduring peace has at least had more lip service during the last dozen years than ever before.

But meanwhile all of us have been growing older, and a new generation is putting in its appearance, and it does not share the current disillusionment about war.

Of course, the war-time generation has done what it could to put this new generation wise. Such books as "All Quiet on the Western Front," such plays as "What Price Glory?" and solemn magazine articles, editorials and essays without number have pointed out that war is dirty, bloody, cruel and inhuman; and we have pretty largely taken it for granted that youth will imbibe our own feeling about it and will abhor war as it abhors the plague.

But Herr Hitler, in Germany, is proving to us that it doesn't work out that way; and we might well profit by this object-lesson.

Youth, apparently, is not to be scared. There is a current story about a high school lad who went to see a movie, "All Quiet"—a harrowing picture of war's horrors if ever there was one—and emerged to remark, wistfully, "Gee, I'd like to get into a war like that some day." Youth hears these stories of carnage and pain and heartbreak and gets that overtone which will creep into such things in spite of the best we can do—that tragic, lying note as of a distant bugle, promising a test for a young fellow's manhood and a fling at high and gaudy romance.

The peace of the world is still unbroken, chiefly because the direction of affairs is still in the hands of people who remember the World War. But a new generation will crowd those people out, one of these days—and then what? Obviously, if peace is to endure, we of today must take some definite steps to ensure it. We cannot rely, as we have relied, on a vague feeling of disillusionment. The feeling will not last much longer.

TEACHERS IN THE JURY BOX

An Ohio judge has set some sort of precedent by refusing to excuse public school teachers from jury duty. He not only insists that having teachers on juries will be good for the courts; he also suggests that it will be good for the teachers.

With his first premise it is impossible to disagree. Our system of justice stands or falls, in the last analysis, on the jurors. Any move that tends to place educated and conscientious citizens in line for jury service is bound to be a good one.

The second point, likewise, seems well taken. A teacher who is familiar with the workings of American courts from the viewpoint of the juror ought to be a much more valuable instructor for youth than one who is not.

A MEMORY OF TRAGEDY

There is a reminiscence of tragedy in the notifications the Navy Department has sent out, warning all shipping in the vicinity of Provincetown, Mass., to exercise a sharp lookout for periscopes in that region during the next four weeks, as the new fleet submarine V-5 will be running speed trials there.

It was in that area that the submarine S-4 was going through maneuvers when a coast guard destroyer ran it down. The whole nation remembers the horror of that tragedy; and for the navy, it is one of those things that can never be forgotten. Hence the present warnings. It is necessary to give the V-5 her trials, and the Provincetown area is a good place to do it; but the navy is taking no chances on a repetition of the S-4 catastrophe.

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

REPORTS SHOW OTHER NATIONS ALSO HIT BY DEPRESSION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Repeated assertions that our own depression is only part of a worldwide depression continue to be amply supported by reports from foreign representatives of the Department of Commerce and other government agencies.

Virtually without exception, our best customers among the nations are suffering. England, Canada, Germany, Cuba and Latin America all find business very dull or worse. Naturally, American exports are unlikely to increase to any great extent until those countries begin to get back on their economic feet.

Exports for the first nine months of this year amounted in value to $2,958,509,000 as compared with $3,843,676,000 in the first nine months of 1929. Imports declined from $3,360,017,000 to $2,401,838,000. Exports in September were $318,000,000 as compared with $437,163,000 in September, 1929.

Serious as was the decline, Director William L. Cooper of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce has just pointed out that in the first six months of the year our exports decreased only 13 per cent in value, while Great Britain's fell off 16 per cent, Japan's 19 per cent, Canada's 21 per cent and Australia's 32 per cent.

Recent reports indicate that even France, for a long time the conspicuous exception in the general picture of economic woe, is now beginning to suffer along with everyone else.

Two Countries Improve Anyone who can find any consolation in the individual troubles of other nations might well look over the latest sheaf of cablegrams from our commercial attaches in Latin-American capitals. The only countries from which even slight improvement is reported are Ecuador and Haiti.

Business in the Argentine continues quiet. The record depreciation of the peso exchange discouraged imports and Argentine exports dropped 37 per cent in value during the first nine months of the year. Farmers are still suffering from the adverse effects of last year's unfavorable crop.

In the last part of October industries in Brazil were reported at a standstill on account of the revolution and general business was "practically paralyzed" all through the month.

Unemployment has been increasing in Chile. Unfavorable weather

YOUR CHILDREN by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I wonder if it is of much use to teach the children about jaywalking when we are, as a class, such a lot of ninnyes ourselves.

Schools, since safety-week, are putting on painstaking programs to teach the young idea, how to walk. And the idea is fine. No doubt many a youngster will stop, look and listen now who just bolted across the street before, and live to remember how hard it was to restrain himself, where otherwise he would be only a dead or crippled example.

But teaching the children how to cross or not to cross a street has retarded an expected seasonal pickup in wholesale and retail sales.

Shoe factories are turning out only 40 per cent of normal production, knitting mills 35 per cent and weaving mills 65 per cent. Further curtailment is expected. The number of forced repossessions of automobiles is increasing rapidly, and such repossessions are averaging 50 per cent of the cars sold in the northern sections.

Cuban Trade Dull Trade in Cuba continues to be dull, with a customary business lull in the pre-election period offsetting increased optimism in the sugar industry which followed acceptance of the Chadbourne rehabilitation plan by the industry itself and the government.

The depression which has blanketed Mexico grew worse in October. Unemployment continues to increase as mining and industrial enterprises steadily reduce their activities. The government is tightening up immigration to keep out laborers and professional workers who compete with Mexican labor.

Depression continues in Uruguay, where an expected seasonal upturn failed to materialize.

Venezuela reports "no improvement," and hardly any exports except petroleum.

Nicaragua's outlook for improvement in 1931 is unfavorable because her coffee crop is expected to be 25 per cent below normal.

General business conditions in Honduras, Costa Rica and Colombia continued "unfavorable."

Odessa is always trying to josh somebody. Now the chamber of commerce has sent two tickets to The Reporter-Telegram for the annual banquet over there, and Josh Lee is the speaker. Thanks for the tickets, Odessa, and we'll be represented.

A young lady from Hobbs, visiting a friend here, was introduced to us around the office this morning. She has a cute way of keeping her hands in her slicker pockets while she bows and smiles to you, and you almost suspect that, being from Hobbs, she may have you "covered" while her hands are in her pockets.

One of the boys in the office told me this morning about a "love bandit" who dislikes long skirts because of the law against concealed weapons.

Out in this broad open country you still find a girl now and then who likes a real he-man. I heard

When the red light is on, stop and stay there until the green is on; also look around the corners. Never cross at mid-block for any reason whatever. And where there are no signs, stop, look and wait. That's all. When we start to observe the law, the children will come to it, too. We have to learn the gentle art of waiting, that is certain. Cars are a nuisance and a pest. They are making the world a Chinese puzzle to live in. But they are here and like taxes we have to put up with them. But one thing they have over taxes—we can dodge them if we try.

TOMORROW We Celebrate PEACE

We have discovered the Waste and Futility and Horror of War. Our eyes have pierced the veil of hypocrisy and seen the too-long-hidden-Greed of nations.

But what of the sacrifice made by our war heroes? What of their idealism? All reverence! They were beautifully brave men. They loved their country. They gave themselves to a Cause.

And we pray that their Cause was not an illusion, that the "War to End War" will prove more than a catchword. It will... if the world has learned to honor its Warriors as the givers of Peace.

Local Housewives' Choice Recipes

The oven cooked dinner is a real economy of the housewife's time and energy. The meal should be so planned that all the different dishes are such that they may be cooked at the same temperature. It helps, too, if the length of time required to cook the different foods is about the same. Of course there is no valid reason why the article which requires the longer time cannot be put in ahead of the others.

Baked Round Steak: Have the round steak cut thick. Sear until nicely browned in a heavy flying-pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and put 3 tablespoons of butter on top of the steak, together with 3 tomatoes, peeled and sliced, 1 green pepper, chopped, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup, and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Put in a moderate oven and bake until tender, about one hour.

Franconia potatoes may be cooked in with the meat. Corn pudding for dessert complete a very satisfactory oven dinner.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 10. (UP).—Sergei Eisenstein, who left a portfolio as motion picture director for the Soviet government to fill a similar position in Hollywood, will return to Russia with his proposed American picture untouched.

For Eisenstein, it has been learned, could not agree with Paramount executives as to how the picture should be made and their contract was terminated by mutual consent. The film was Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy," which Eisenstein wanted to produce with sound only, leaving out dialogue.

Too, there was the Soviet situation, in which Paramount had no desire to take part. Heralded as the Russian genius who would make a lasting impression upon American film lore, Eisenstein attracted attention because of his admitted Soviet views. But he was a highly capable man of the theater, studio officials said, and Paramount was sorry to see him go.

Lawrence Tibbett, first of the Metropolitan opera luminaries to enter Hollywood, is busy on his third singing picture, "The Southerner." In between the baritone's selections will be crooning ditties by Cliff Edwards, more widely known as "Ukelele Ike."

BLACK AND WHITE

You can be sure of your chic if you choose black, with white touches for formal daytime wear.

Anna May Wong, the Chinese actress who has been abroad for the last two years, is back again. She was homesick for old sights and old friends, she said. Somebody quoted that Hollywood and New York wisacre, Wilson Mizner, as remarking, "Well 50,000,000 Chinese can't be Wong."

While in this vein it might be mentioned in passing that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is on the verge of making a new dog picture entitled, "The Barks Brothers."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Adam and ralien Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientists, Sunday, November 9.

Romans 5:18 furnished the golden text: "As by the offense of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so by the righteousness of one the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life."

The following passage from the Bible was included in the service: "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive"—I Corinthians 15:22.

The following citations from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scripture," by Mary Baker Eddy, were also read: "As in Adam (error) all die, even so in Christ (Truth) shall all be made alive."

NOBODY knows his name; yet simple heroism needs no other calling. Nobody knows his creed . . . or whether he had a creed . . . yet no more sublime lesson than self-sacrifice is learned within church walls.

He may have been a toiling clerk whose scope encompassed only the task before him. Or his life may have been as far-flung as the mist-blue western hills toward which he pushed his plow.

Who he was, or what he was, matters little.

He was American. The sun-warmed Virginia hillside where he sleeps is his soil for it is American. The ideals for which he died were the fruit of a tradition characteristically American; a tradition of freedom that has heard ax strokes in a clearing, pen scratches at Independence Hall and "Cuba Libre" at San Juan Hill.

Nobody knows what he did or where he fell. Yet in honoring him, we cherish the remembrance of those who marched an unknown road far longer than the one to St. Mihiel or Vaux.

For the Unknown Soldier is not unknown. His name is known to those who called him buddy; he still marches with the Immortal Fifty Thousand. Though they have never returned, they are all the more glorious for the misty years that separate us from them.

RAIN MAY THROW A CRIMP INTO THE MIDLAND RUNNING GAME

PECOS IS SET FOR A WIN; MIDLAND FAVORED

The rain this morning and over the week-end was watched with different thoughts by the high school from that apparent in the faces of farmers and cattlemen.

For it may mean Midland backs will have to don mud cleats for the Armistice fray with Pecos.

That might not be a favorable sign, Midland, notably weak as a mudder team and depending for scoring power on the swiftness of its open field and air attack, may run into a snag in the Pecos river country and emerge with beaten down ears.

At least, that's what Coach Barry advances as a strong possibility.

Midland will come out of a win over the Eagles tied for first place in the eastern half of the district, if a loss is registered, one down on Stanton (if Wink has forfeited the Wink-Stanton game of the twenty-first, as Stanton has given out.)

If Midland loses the game football for the remainder of the season will practically be nil. Several players will hang up the purple and gold forever. They are seniors.

But a great group of fans is expected to go see a much stronger Midland eleven engage the Pecos lads. They want to see the game go according to the dope, which distinctly favors Midland, no matter where the game is played or under what circumstances.

The Midland team will leave at 7:30 Tuesday morning. More cars are needed to transport it. The pep squad may not attend unless Midland people offer more automobiles. A call has been sounded. Midland people, it is believed, could scarcely afford to place a potential district championship team on the field without having the pep squad, band and a great bunch of rooters on the sidelines.

On an ordinary field, Midland is favored to win by about four touchdowns.

Killed in Ohio Mine Blast

Heroic efforts of rescue workers failed to save the lives of scores of men trapped in the shaft of Sunday Creek Coal Mine No. 6 at Millfield, O., by a terrific explosion. Among the dead was W. E. Tytus (inset), president of the company, who was inspecting the mine when the blast occurred. The upper picture shows the scene at the mouth of the mine, with ambulances waiting; below, a general view of the mine.

DISTRICT 8 TANGLE

By R. C. Hankins

Now, listen, folks. This column must be real personal all at once. Something has come up and you should help get the ox outa th' ditch. The high school needs a bunch of automobiles to carry the high school pep squad, band and football team to Pecos for the Armistice day game. Most of you have automobiles. Why not get on the telephone with the high school immediately and offer to take one or two. You need that game, too. It will likely be a whale of a battle, and Midland should come out atop—which is taken by most of us to mean that Midland will eventually meet Marfa for the district championship.

One hundred automobiles from Midland would not be such a caravan. And that number will certainly be required. There are several hundred vehicles here. It would be a simple matter to offer 100 of these as a bit of honest patriotism, not simply a bit of beau geste.

If no one answers at the high school call me at Number 7 and I will get in touch with the proper authorities at once. Rain or shine, there is a football game, and you know what the means—a holiday and an attendant good time. Think it over and get busy.

If you don't think Wink took its defeat in Midland with good grace, look at the following excerpts of the long write-up that came out under a big scare head on the latest issue of the Wink Times-Herald. Then continue as the Wink writer tells of the difference in receptions here and in Pecos. Evidently he didn't like Pecos.

"It has been our privilege to see every game of football played by the Wildcats this year. We have seen them win three games, skinned out of one and lose the last one.

"But in all these games, we have never seen them play more brilliant football than they did in the first quarter of the Wink-Midland game of last Saturday. During the first quarter, every boy on the team started time after time. There was not a one who did not give an account of himself in such a way that those who were looking on were proud of his achievements.

"Midland has one of the classiest football teams in this district. They are big husky lads, full of pep and enthusiasm, and they play as clean a game of football as can be played. They were fast on their feet and their team work was exceptional.

"Midland treated the whole Wink delegation with the heartiest of respect and throughout the day showed by act and word that she was glad to have us as her guest. Such treatment certainly has cemented the friendship between the two leading towns of this part of the state and Wink will be proud to have Midland people to visit us at any convenient time, assuring them that they will receive the warmest of welcome.

to win on Armistice day.

The Bulldogs realize that a defeat by Pecos will not only eliminate us from the district race, but will probably end the season; and many of the Bulldogs may never wear another football suit after Tuesday, if Midland goes down in defeat. I am, therefore, expecting our team to fight and win.

We are glad that Pecos is going to fight and feel that the time has come for us to show that we can invade the enemy's territory, give them all the odds, and still out-fight them and win.

Lindy "Passes" Test for New License

Aeronautics inspectors for the Department of Commerce are extremely strict in their examinations of all who apply for issuance of renewal of pilot's licenses. But Stanford L. Willis, left, supervising inspector at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, didn't ask any questions when the applicant shown seated in the cockpit swooped down and announced that he might do a little flying next year and would like to renew his license. All Willis said was: "Here you are, Colonel Lindbergh."

"The pep squads and bands of the two towns vied with each other in their effort to entertain. The Midland people certainly should be proud of their band and pep squad, for they well represented the hospitality with which Midland is so well known.

"It was no disgrace for Wink to go down before the squad they faced at Midland. The Midland team clicked at every turn. The interference was out of the ordinary. The ball carrying was exceptional and the defense was something that much larger teams would have been proud to duplicate."

"The difference in the reception that Wink received at Midland and Pecos, the two receptions coming only a week apart, shows the difference between the attitude of a hick town and a city.

"It shows plainly to the people of Wink the interest each town, one on the west and one on the east, is taking in our affairs, both in a social and a business way. Midland has always showed a broad minded policy toward all her neighbors. She has been more than fair in her dealings with people who live outside of her regular territory. On the other hand, Pecos has not been able to get out of the hick town style of any of her relations with neighbors.

"Are you going to be loyal to your football team, pep squad, band, school, town, county? There isn't any doubt that Wink is built around her fine school. Without it, many people would be willing to move. But knowing there is not another school in this part of the state that will compare with what we have here, we are all ready to stand up for it.

"Now is the time to show our loyalty. The hick town should be boycotted. Give Midland or Odessa or some other neighbor who appreciates you and is willing to treat you and your community square, your business. If you have money in Pecos, or if you have been in the habit of trading there, make a change.

"The road to Midland is much better than the road from here to Pecos. The rough miles between here and Pecos will slow down your car, and you can make the distance to Midland in the time you can go to Pecos.

"Last Saturday we made the trip

Derby Day at Ol' Purdue

Kentucky Derbies may be the big thing in the turf world, but senior derbies "rain" at Purdue University during football season. It is customary for Purdue seniors to wear corduroy trousers and derby hats to football games and whenever Purdue scores a touchdown, hats must come off and go sailing into the air. The top photo shows the shower of derbies at a recent Purdue game, and, below, the parade of seniors in the regulation corduroy and derby.

DAUGHTER IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Andrew Fasken returned this morning from Dallas where she took her daughter, Helen, for treatment in a hospital for a short time. Mrs. Fasken spent the week end in Dalals.

Coach Barry Says

I am not among the number who have been predicting that the Bulldogs will win from Pecos by four touchdowns or more. I am expecting a battle that will make anything that this district has seen so far this year look like a pink tea in comparison.

Pecos has a heavy team composed of experienced players; in slaughtering Odessa 39 to 6 a few weeks ago, the Pecos boys showed promise of developing into a team that was both skillful and powerful, but since that game the team has let down.

If the Eagles live up to early season promise and play up to their capacity, they will have as good a team on Tuesday as has ever been in this district.

The truth is that in the first quarter of the Wink game, Pecos showed more superiority over Wink than did the Bulldogs at any time in the Midland-Wink fracas—and it should be borne in mind that three of Pecos' best men, including Captain Moorehead, were on the bench in the Pecos-Wink game.

The fact that Stanton slipped up on Pecos will make it doubly hard on Midland—Pecos will not likely be caught napping again soon, while the Bulldogs and their supporters are pretty certain not to take the Eagles seriously enough.

Realizing that the dope favors Midland, over in Pecos they are recalling how Texas upset the dope to wallop S.M.U., and Pecos—team, school, and town, is pointing for this game Tuesday as no team in this district has ever been pointed for a game before. I could fill this whole paper with dope on the various phases of the psychological situation—all of which favor Pecos.

Despite the fact that I think our team is decidedly superior to Pecos in every department and at every position, I am convinced that we will have to OUTFIGHT the Eagles

Last of Quantrell's Band Dies at Marfa

MARFA, Nov. 10. (AP)—A man who was believed to be the last surviving member of Quantrell's famous band died here recently. He was John Pool, 92. He had lived in this section for nearly 50 years. His last appearance on horseback was when he led the recent parade of the annual Highland fair at Marfa.

Pool came from Missouri to West Texas while a young man and since that time had been in the ranching business. He was one of the first to aid in the extinction of the famed Texas longhorn.
