ATHLETICS AND CIVIC GOODWILL

To commercialize football or athletics is inadvisable from the start, and The Reporter-Telegram is positively against such practice, but a lesson is seen from recent developments in this area showing that football and school spirit play a big part in the goodwill of communities.

A recent football game here, in which Midland was a heavy victor, won for Midland the friendship and goodwill of an entire community, just because clean athletics and a spirit of courtesy and good sportsmanship was evidenced to a marked degree.

This is worth a lot to the schools involved, to the students of these schools and to the communities they represent. And if you are one of those cold blooded business men, it is worth something in dollars and cents.

PROVIDING FOR THE NEEDY

Another call was issued yesterday by officers of the Midland Community Welfare association for clothing, bedding, stoves, old furniture or anything of value to be given to needy people of Midland. Clothing for school children is badly needed by families who are not able to provide necessities.

Many a comfortable home has stored away in the shelves some useful clothing, outgrown and laid aside, but too good to throw away. People having such articles may not have thought of them or if they have, may have decided needy people would not want the articles they have thrown aside.

If you are one of those comfortable individuals, just get the unused articles together and get in touch with officers of the welfare association. You will get value from the deed and there will be people who will get surprising value from the articles.

THE PRICE OF BOOKS

There has been a good deal of comment during the past few months about the price of books. Books, we have been told, are priced too high; hence a good many publishers have cut their prices radically, in the fond hope that the American public will thereby be stimulated to a greater absorption of the best of the current literature.

However, a recent bulletin from the Houghton, Mifflin Company points out that books, after all, are not priced as high as other forms of amusement. New fiction in the fall list is offered at prices ranging from $1 to $3; and theater tickets are selling at prices that begin at $3 and soar to $6.60.

The theatergoer pays these prices and complains very little; yet if $2 is too much to pay for a book, is not $5 a rather high price to pay for an evening's entertainment, or otherwise, in a theater?

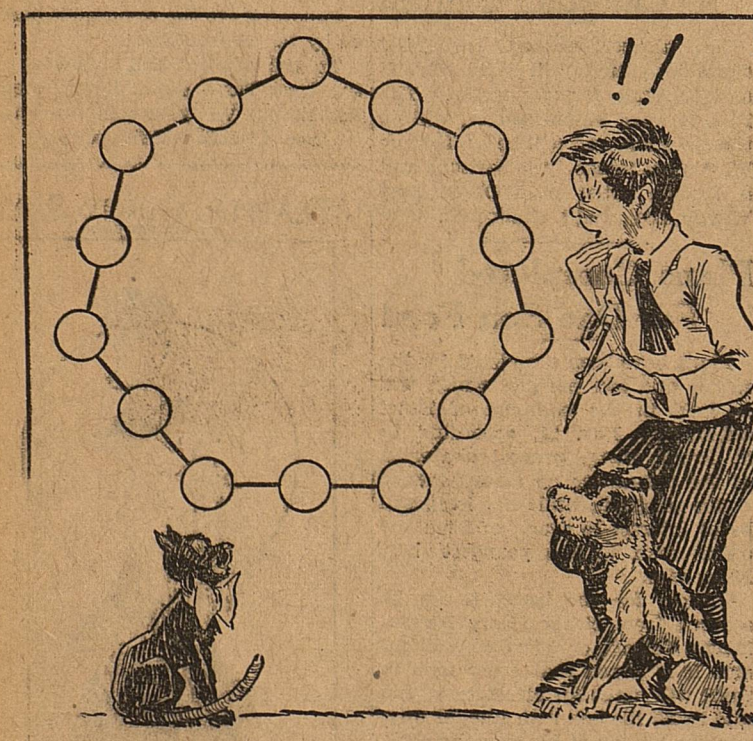

FOOTBALL AND CHARITY

It is quite understandable if certain large universities do not care to participate in post-season football games in which the gate receipts would go to relieve unemployment. Quite a number of valid excuses can be advanced. But it is hardly in order for any of the officials involved to use a top-heavy tone in expressing their refusal.

Certain educators have pointed out, somewhat scornfully, that college football is not played for the benefit of the general public. Quite so; but for whom, then, is it played? And for whom were all of these great stadiums erected?

By making a big business out of an undergraduate sport, the colleges and universities have laid themselves open to public misunderstandings. They can hardly complain if their refusal to play for charity is sharply criticized.

Hatred, Once Friendship, Keeps Long Out of Senate

By NEA Service

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 15.—A seat in the United States Senate is a very fine thing, but a good fight is a good fight and an old grudge is an old grudge. That explains why Governor Huey P. Long is going to wait until his present term expires in 1932 before he goes to Washington to begin the term as senator to which the voters elected him at the recent election.

Senator Joseph E. Ransdell's place in the Senate becomes vacant next March, and Governor Long is technically due to succeed him then. But Governor Long is not going to do. He is going to stay here and finish out his term as governor, and if that grieves Lieutenant Governor Paul N. Cyr there is no help for it.

Lieutenant Governor Cyr draws cards in the situation for two reasons: first, because he would become governor if Long resigned before his term expired; second, because he and Long are the most devoted pair of enemies this state has had in a long, long time.

Murder Trial Parted Them Long and Cyr used to be good friends—very good friends, so intimate that Cyr, who is huge and muscular, used to threaten to whip people who had offended his friend Long. But that was some time ago.

By a freak of chance, a murder trial served as the rock on which their friendship was wrecked. Ever since then they have been after each other's windpipes, politically speaking.

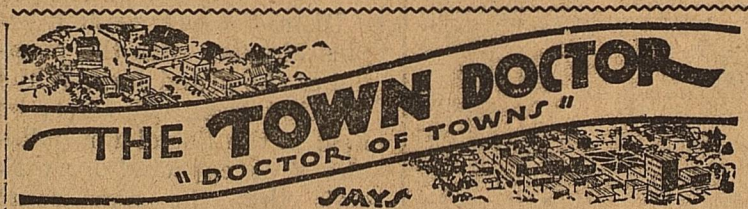

Governor Long doesn't mention this enmity in formally announcing his decision to stay here. He says:

"My work in upbuilding Louisiana and indicating military, reviving our domestic and foreign commerce, paving our highways, re-sorting the finances of our cities, together with the work I am helping to do for the Mississippi valley states, is worth more to the nation than anything I might do in the Senate before May, 1932. By reason of this fact some of my friends in the U. S. Senate on the Republican side will, I am sure, accord me the right of a pair, at least on the vote to organize the Senate, until May, 1932. Our good old state of Louisiana is just now getting its place in the sun. It will be the garden spot of the western hemisphere in 18 months. I cannot leave this work."

However, local politicians recall that Long has often announced that he would never leave the state for as much as five minutes to give Cyr the chance of being governor. "Paul Cyr will never be governor of Louisiana one split second during my term of office," he has said, over and over again. And he has proved that he meant it.

Dared Storm in Plane Once Governor Long was flying across the state in an airplane. A storm came up and the pilot circled to avoid it. Long noticed that the circle was going to carry them across the state line for a few minutes. He ordered the pilot to fly right through the storm. The pilot obeyed—and Long escaped the possibility of being forced down outside the state and having Lieutenant Governor Cyr take charge during his absence.

Long recently refused to attend the dedication of the great Mississippi river bridge, connecting Louisiana and Mississippi at Vicksburg, because the program provided that he would have to cross the bridge and stand in Mississippi for five or ten minutes. No telling what Cyr might do in ten minutes as acting

DON'T BE MISLEAD

It might appear to some that reference is often made in this column to lines of business in a way that could appear as a boost for that business. If you have ever said, while reading these writings, "that sure is a boost for so and so," you would be right—absolutely right. I boost for anything that will help BUILD a community. Building communities is my business, making them bigger, better, more interesting and more attractive.

I am against anything, whether a business, or idea or anything else, that will retard the growth, progress and prosperity of a community. Take newspapers as an example. Ninety-nine out of one hundred newspapers, first, last and all the time, are willing and ready to do anything that will BUILD their community. They do just that every day in the year, and that is the chief reason why I am FOR them and boost them every chance I get. There is another reason, however, and that is that too few people—merchants, professional people and people in general—really appreciate or know what their newspaper does for them.

Why I know not, but it appears that the average merchant thinks that when he "gives and ad" to a paper that he is doing the newspaper a favor. Well, he is, same as a customer buying from him what he has to sell, does him a favor.

But the truth of the matter is that when a merchant has published an advertisement in a newspaper, said merchant is doing himself a favor. Why? Because in publishing that advertisement he is extending an invitation to you and all the rest of the people in the community to come to his store to buy what he has to sell, and that certainly is doing himself a favor.

In a way a merchant that advertises in a newspaper makes a pass "at my friend Huey." Political leaders managed to calm him down before he encountered Sanders. The incident was typical of the intense friendship between two men.

Then came their break over a famous murder case. In 1927 Dr. Thomas E. Dreher and Mrs. Ada LeBoeuf were convicted of killing James J. LeBoeuf, the woman's husband, and were sentenced to hang. Cyr, like many others, believed that James Beadle, Dr. Dreher's henchman, was really the sole guilty party. Beadle had turned state's evidence against the doctor and the woman and got off with life imprisonment.

As a member of the state pardon board Cyr fought hard to save the condemned pair, and the board finally recommended a commutation to life sentence.

Long over-ruled this recommendation, and Dr. Dreher and Mrs. LeBoeuf were hanged. Cyr issued a statement branding the execution as "a legal murder." Efforts to settle the quarrel failed, and when Long ran for the Senate Cyr fought him vigorously.

Dared Long to Say It Opening his campaign in his own part of the state, Long made a bitter attack on Cyr. When he came in to Cyr's territory, the muscular Cyr announced publicly that he would make Long jump through a window if he repeated his remarks in his—Cyr's—presence; and then Cyr took a front seat in the first audience that Long addressed. Long's language that night was greatly modified.

Nevertheless, Cyr's fight was an utter failure. In his race for the Democratic Senate nomination—which is equivalent to election in Louisiana—Long carried Cyr's congressional district, and even Cyr's home town of Jeanerette, by a big majority. During the campaign Cyr announced that if Long was elected to the Senate and took his seat, and he, Cyr, became governor, he would make a clean sweep of all Long officeholders. Long retaliated by saying, "You'll never get a chance to sweep anything."

Right now the governor is busy keeping that promise. He won't leave the state until his term expires. The Senate will have to get along without him until 1932.

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

Hoover Faces Supreme Test of His Political Statesmanship During Coming Session of Congress and It'll Be Just One Veto After Another if He Can Stand the Strain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Few presidents have ever been given such a remarkable opportunity for high-grade political statesmanship in the face of great odds as will be offered Herbert Hoover.

Heretofore control in both Houses of the 72d Congress, Hoover faces a supreme test of his right to wear the title of "super-man" with which he was invested in his campaign for election.

In many decades no president has faced such difficult legislative prospects and saved his party from defeat in the ensuing presidential election.

Hoover and the regular Republican leaders presumably will try to jam through such measures as they want enacted during the short session of Congress beginning in December, while they still have Republican majorities in both houses. With the Senate coalition of Democrats and insurgents and the likelihood of filibuster, even that program will be difficult.

There is some possibility of a special session some time soon after March 4, when the new Congress with all its Democrats and progressives, comes into office. Otherwise the next Congress won't convene until December, 1931.

But in any event the fun begins when the Democrats and insurgents of the 72d begin putting over measures repugnant to Hoover and the regulars.

Series of Votes? If Hoover can stand the strain, life for him may become a case of one veto after another. The Democrats will have measures of their own which Hoover dislikes, and so will the Republican progressives. Together they will pass most of them.

Both Democrats and progressives have plenty of time to get together among themselves and discuss their respective or joint programs, but some of the likelihoods are obvious. The opposition forces may not make the mistake of running hogwild in attempts to embarrass the administration, but they are sure to make no attempt to avoid causing such embarrassment once the G. O. P. majority in the House, Hoover's legislative bulwark thus far, is eliminated.

Hoover's appointments will register as doing YOU a favor too. It's ten to one that you have never looked at it that way, but it is a fact just the same. An advertising merchant is your best bet when it comes to spending your money, for advertising is insurance to you that what that merchant sells is good goods at right prices.

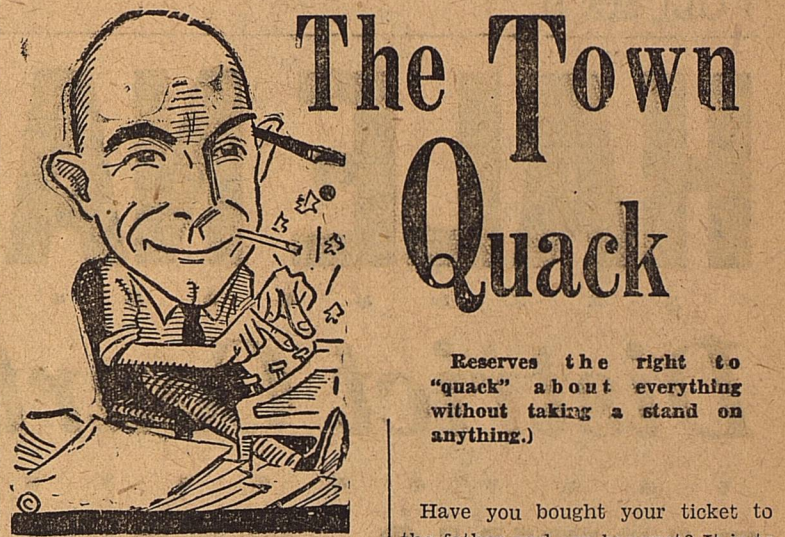

You seldom find a merchant with poor goods, at prices that are out of line, who advertises. Newspapers see to it that what is advertised is more binding than a merchant's word. So you see advertising favors you as insurance to say nothing of the fact that but for advertising, you would pay much more for everything you buy, and receive much less for that which you do.

Now, more than ever before, will it pay you to read the advertising in your paper. Look at this advertising as informative—giving you information on which YOU can make money. Learn to depend on the advertising in your paper to keep you posted on "who's who" among business people in your city. And remember this—if any merchant or business concern has anything to sell you does not, through this advertising, give you an invitation to buy from him what he has to sell, and at the same time give you a REASON WHY YOU SHOULD buy it from him, it is very evident that such merchant or business concern does not want your business enough to ask for it, or has no good reason why you should trade with them.

Don't be misled. Newspaper advertising favors YOU. Newspaper advertising pays—it pays the newspaper, it pays the merchant, and above all it pays you.

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

Have you bought your ticket to the father and son banquet? It is to be Friday night, April 21, if you haven't noticed the date. If you don't have a boy of your own there are plenty of boys who don't have dads and who would like to go to the banquet. You can buy one ticket for $1.50 that entitles you and your boy to the feed. If he eats more than you do it won't cost you any extra. I'm hoping that Scharbauer banquet hall will be packed Friday night and that you won't fail to be there and bring your boy.

If you notice an absence of football comment in this column, please refer to the remarks made about the Quack in the "District 8 Tangle" a few days ago. The low down is this. The fellow who writes the district 8 tangle also writes local news. Not being long on local news he has to go pretty heavy on football. When I go to writing football in this column, it just makes that much more football stuff in the paper and looks that much worse for him.

One of our subscribers received a surprise this week. He had called down to the office for two or three days on account of the boy throwing his paper so far from the house that he couldn't find it. On each occasion the boy would go back and dig it out of the flower bed or the neighbor's yard. Finally when the man called about his paper the route boy said, "I know I got it there 'this time." He went back and found it thought of looking there," the subscriber said. All of which may be construed as a sermon to route boys.

They tell me Ruby Moore proved too much for John Bonner in speaking at the lumbermen's banquet. I'd like to have the poem about the old maid so I could give it to the Quack readers verbatim. That's a tip for you, Ruby, so if you'll just mail it to me I'll print it in the next issue.

It's funny how people take things to themselves. The little poem I printed about the man who was now just "her bread and butter" struck a response in Herbert and he wanted to know who I was talking about.

This is just Saturday morning, and I don't know a thing as I write this column, but I'm predicting that there will be very few single people working in our office from here on out.

Unemployment legislation, such as the Senate passed this year only to see it blocked or emasculated by administration forces in the House, will also have a beautiful chance when the anti-administration forces gain control.

The Norris "Lame Duck" amendment and anti-injunction legislation are likely to win through in both Houses. The tariff may be up all over again. It is quite possible that the Senate measure taking the flexible power from the president and returning the full prerogative of rate changing to Congress, which was killed off by the House in the tariff session, will finally be passed by both Houses.

Democratic taxation policies will again have a chance. Both Houses are likely to be making investigations embarrassing to the administration, instead of merely inquiry into tax refunds and other Treasury Department matters and of the Radio Commission's alleged favoritism to the "radio trust" have also been suggested.

100 LUMBERMEN AND GUESTS AT BANQUET AND DANCE IN HOTEL

John Bonner as Toastmaster Gets off a Bunch of Jokes as Assemblage; Good Program Given

More than 100 lumbermen, their wives, daughters and invited guests, attended a banquet and dance in the crystal room of Hotel Scharbauer, beginning at 7 o'clock Friday night.

The entertainment was arranged in connection with the meeting here Friday and Saturday of the West Texas Retail Lumbermen's association.

John Bonner was toastmaster, and kept the guests howling with laughter, at his cracks. The Rev. Thomas D. Murphy, pastor of the Presbyterian church, pronounced the invocation. Kenneth E. Ambrose led the banquet guests in a sing-song, with Wallace Wimberly at the piano.

Dewey Winstead, A. H. McClesky, G. R. Bode and Deio Douglas sang two plantation melodies, the latter as an encore. Nine little girls of the Vickers studio, Sue Morley, Mary Elizabeth Scruggs, Coleen Sisk, Ruth Ruse, La Verne McMullan, Virginia Gray, Marcell Wyatt, Jessa Lynn Tuttle, Evelyn Phillips, danced novelty and tap numbers, and Sue Morley gave a tap dance as an encore. These dancers were applauded noisily. Mrs. Ben Cowden as accompanist at the piano kept the feet of the entire assemblage tapping against the floor.

Gangster's Girl Tells of Crime

Gangster's sweethearts don't often talk to the police—but this one did, and as a result her lover and another man are being held in the murder of Courtney R. Merrill, Chicago banker, stabbed to death in a holdup. The girl, Rose Morris, accused John Papesone of the crime in an effort to save her lover, Charles Rocco, Papesone then confessed and implicated Rocco.

number of months spent in the new Ector county oil village. Ben Wall of Midland has the distinction of being the oldest, they tell you in Penwell.

Visiting lumbermen were given during the night to praise of everything from the catering to the entertainment features. Midland has evidently made a hit with these fellows and, judging from remarks, if Midland suggests it would like to be host to the association again the matter could be decided easily from the floor of any convention.

When several late arrivals showed a hesitancy to introduce themselves Bonner left his place at the end of the table and shook hands with them. They were advertised a la double truck, conclusively.

Mack McCracken was up there—who would have thought otherwise? When K. E. asked the tenors to hold on the end of a song Mack failed to realize the time element sufficient. He was still "put" when the second stanza was several bars old. He allowed for the unnecessary expenditure of energy by keeping quiet the remainder of the evening.

Someone announced that a "good looking girl liked Deio's looks better than his voice." Deio blushed appropriately and ducked. But he watched under his eyebrows all evening, trying to find the "pretty girl." There were so many there that he disturbed the smug composure on his face by wrinkling his brow.

John said a girl didn't want a man to kiss her while he was driving along in his little car. "You may drive safely enough," she said, "but you don't do justice to the kiss."

Dr. Fowler really "poured it on" the Rev. Thomas D. Murphy. He (a negro) said he and the doctor were of the same denomination and that they had occupied the same rooms in the college dormitory. "The ladies found that the minister had great possibilities," he said. "The conference led him take up the collection the first day, but changed to a one-arm man the following day."

The "minister" rambled on for several minutes and was the life of the party, without a doubt.

States Appreciation
Expressions of appreciation to all who aided in entertaining visiting lumbermen were made Saturday by R. J. Moore, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Couple Robbed, Yet Marries Just Same

In spite of the fact that he lost a large number of half dollar and twenty-five cents silver pieces he had been saving to be married on, a Penwell man whose name was not given by authorities, went ahead Thursday and got married, says the Odessa News-Times. The burglar had left him some packages of nickles and dimes.

According to information given by officers, the man had been accustomed to having his checks cashed on pay day, having a preference for halves and quarters. He had stored his unusual collection of money in boxes, which he kept in a valise in a closet at his bunk house.

Tuesday night robbers broke into the bunkhouse and took several packages of money, getting 261 half dollars, 172 quarters and $13.55 worth of nickles and dimes. They left him two packages of the five and ten cent pieces untouched.

Officers were called, and after hearing the facts of the unusual case, made every effort to locate the thief. The robbers have not yet been arrested, but Thursday afternoon one of the officers saw the victim of the raid on the street with a very attractive young woman. As they passed the man who lost the money stopped long enough to say: "I went ahead and got married, anyhow."

BIGGER AND BETTER

PRESENTING THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Today the Chevrolet Motor Company presents the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six, a new model of the six-cylinder car which has enjoyed such wide popularity.

In both the chassis and body of this new six-cylinder Chevrolet you will find expressed, as never before, Chevrolet's well-known policy of progress through constant improvement.

For—without departing from the basic features which have won the enthusiastic approval of over 2,000,000 buyers—Chevrolet has produced a six-cylinder car which represents an entirely new standard of quality, value and refinement in the low-price field.

Your first impression of the new Chevrolet will be one of striking fleetness, grace and beauty. The car is longer, lower and modernly smart. The radiator has been deepened and its appearance enhanced by a curving tie-bar and chrome-plated parabolic headlamps. The long hood lines sweep back unbroken to blend gracefully into the new Fisher bodies. And never was Fisher's fine craftsmanship more evident than in the bodies of the new Chevrolet Six!

Not only are the smart, graceful, new bodies roomier and more comfortable, but as you study them you will discover many gratifying new features and pleasing refinements—many examples of that painstaking attention to detail which is the basis of true quality.

Mechanically, too, the new Chevrolet Six is a better automobile. The wheelbase is longer. The frame is stronger. The steering is easier. The clutch is more durable. There is a smoother, quieter, easier shifting transmission. In fact, wherever finer materials and more advanced design could add to Chevrolet quality or increase Chevrolet's traditional economy of ownership—improvement has been made. See the new Chevrolet Six—and you will agree that here is the Great American Value!

flour and spices, add flour and fruit juices alternately. Add fruits, and nuts, mix thoroughly. Last of all, add beaten egg whites. Mix dough thoroughly and place in baking pans which have been lined with butter paper which has been oiled. Cover the top of the pan with heavy brown wrapping paper which has been oiled. Tie the paper securely around the edge of pans to prevent water getting into the cake. Place the pans in the cooker and pour boiling water into the cooker half way up the pans. Place the top on the cooker, but do not fasten the clamps. Keep at the boiling point 55 minutes. After that, clamp the lid down securely on the cooker. Close the pressure-cock and raise the pressure to 15 pounds for 15 minutes. This insures cooking the cake to the center of the pan. Remove from cooker, take off paper covers, and place pans in a slow oven for 15 minutes. This dries out the crust. This recipe makes 11 pounds.

Note 1: Cakes can be made more attractive by decorating the tops with whole nuts, cherries, pineapple cubes and citron strips. Save sufficient amount when mixing cake for decoration. Just before placing cake in oven to dry out press slightly fruits and nuts on top of cake as desired.

Note 2: One-half pound whole butternuts can be added to cake mixture. This adds greatly to attractiveness of cakes as well as flavor.

Note 3: Rectangular shaped pans are recommended for baking fruit cakes for the market. The square cornered cake permits cutting it advantageously into one pound, two pound or three pound size cakes. Special orders might desire the round stem pan.

STANTON BUFFS GLEEFULLY SMACK DOWN WINK IN 19-7 WIN

DEFINITELY DIAGNOSE PLAY OF JOE MEAGHER AND CREW AND GALLOP IN HIGH TO CATCH UP WITH MIDLAND

Driving as relentlessly as the whipping sand that blew out of the west, Stanton almost smothered Wink in taking a 19-7 verdict there Saturday afternoon.

Bowling over every attempt of the strong Wink team to score after "Winkler" Wilson put across one marker early in the second period, Stanton played a hard brand of straight football and won the game without tipping off anything to Midland scouts riding up and down the sideline.

The afternoon was a howling, sandy and frigid sort of combination—but Stanton evidently found it to the team's liking, for Messrs. Epley, Henson, Sales and Wilson stepped off nice gains during the session, and beat Wink without having to thaw out any cold feet.

DISTRICT 8 TANGLE

By R. C. HANKINS

Stanton got busy and did it! Wink went down before the Thundering Herd, 19-7, and Midland is faced with having to meet the Bisons again—just to resolve the little matter of who will play the Marfa gridsters Thanksgiving.

Stanton showed little in the way of versatility; it wasn't necessary. But, more significant, there was a smooth running look about every motion of the Buff machine. Men reversed like clockwork and blocked like Mr. Blocker diagrammed when he had the pipe dream and remembered where his pencil was.

When Midland hits the club from the Martin county capital it may not be cold weather alone that cools Midland's ardor.

What a razzini' we got, the Midland contingent, when we got to Stanton to watch the game. But everyone was courteous and no scalps were lifted. Pink Robertson, a member of the fourth estate, and Mr. Kelly, veteran editor who still persists in saying he is a better dopestier in the gentle art of football than I, pulled a few buttons off our composure by offering to bet more than dinners on the outcome of the Midland-Stanton game.

Then there was Claude Holley and a group of business men who told us we were safe in Stanton as the jail had been torn up again due to the whim of a prisoner who decided he didn't like the interior temperature.

I should like to publicly commend Umpire Pierce for his gentlemanly from the integrity with which he keeps his promises, the Bulldogs may be in for a lashing.

Stanton still appears to be weaker than Midland, however. The issue will be decided in Lackey field next Friday.

conduct in saying nothing and doing nothing when a Wink player took a crack at him in the game. It was poor sportsmanship for the player to attempt an assault on the official, but it worth while watching the official looks over the matter as though it was nothing. When better officials are found than those in the Saturday game I should like to see them. Officials can do lots for sports, and Pierce, a husky young man who could easily defend himself from almost any two members of the Wink squad, kept his temper and did not even penalize the team that made the mistake.

every action. A couple of Stanton men invited him to cease indulging his whim—and he seemed to be perfectly aware of the judiciousness of listening to them. He has a crack hand in the Wink musicians; he should confine his activities to that, and let pep squad work alone. He is more graceful in that capacity.

CHARITY TO GET PROCEEDS OF BIG ARMY-NAVY GAME

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (UP).—Proceeds of the Army-Navy football game in New York December 13 will be turned over to the Salvation Army for use of alleviating unemployment conditions throughout the country, it was announced today after a conference here between representatives of West Point and Annapolis athletic associations. Only middies and cadets will be admitted free, with even working press men required to buy tickets. The lowest priced seat for the game will be $5.00.

the Wink team, played a whale of a game at his position of quarterback—despite the fact he was ordered not to carry the ball. His right arm is about gone. He kicked, passed, played safety, carried the ball and, in general, had a fairly profitable afternoon. Incidentally, he completed four passes in a row in a wind storm that would stump a sea dog.

Look over this group: Pollock, Smith, Eubanks, Metcalf, Kelly, L. Henson, Whitson, Epley, Henson, Sales and Wilson. They form a well balanced football club. Looking them over again, Kelly, one of the Hensons and Epley will have to be watched for the district mythical eleven.

It is evident from the words flowing across sports pages of this district that Mr. Lackey and Coach Barry and about 200 other Midland fans were not the only ones who were afraid of meeting the cold necessity of coming home from the Pecos game in barrels. Says Ralph Shuffler, editor of the Odessa News-Times:

"Of course I wanted Midland to win, for on the way over I had liberally given Charley Evitt ten points and wagered a week's wages on Midland. It was a perfect day for the Boss, but there were times when those Pecos boys heaved those forty yard passes one after another, that I was a little nervous." The copy reader of The Wink Herald should know the story of the Wink-Pecos game by heart by this time. Fresh articles come out each week in the principal newspaper of the Winkler county metropolis. Each is garnished with a few choice metaphors and a twist that makes for pleasant reading, even though I suspect the writer of keeping the matter alive simply because it makes into copy that the public likes to read. Personally, I believe the scrap should be dropped as soon as possible. Anyway, here goes with some of the news copy:

"This writer was very sorry, indeed, to hear that Pecos ruffians precepted, a fight, in which Wink Ministers of the Gospel, were forced to defend themselves in a fistic encounter.

"That disgraceful thing occurred after the football game between Pecos and Wink, high school teams, October 26th, 1930.

It is said the Ministers did their utmost to avoid such a scene, but when forced to a point where serious bodily injury threatened women, children and high school boys, they demonstrated to the satisfaction of all present that Ministers, if forced could right, as well as preach. More power to you Brothers."

And here is an editorial in the same paper:

"The tooted Pecos football team went down in a miserable defeat before the better Stanton delegation who, by the way, refused at the beginning of the season to play the Wink Wildcats, because, the letter stated, Wink was to heavy for them. "Now the Pecos Enterprise comes out with a paragraph, in which he whiningly suggests that the Wildcats go over and defeat Stanton in order that Pecos be revenged, and incidentally be put back into the running.

"It is certainly a peculiar way of reasoning, but it is not surprising coming from a hick town newspaper. The whole temperament of the Pecos wholosome cowboys.

"But the thing it does go to show is that by a slip of the pen, the Enterprise acknowledges to the world that it believes Wink can defeat a team which beat the tooted Eagles

18 to 6. It shows that the boasted victory of Pecos against Wink was a very empty victory and they are beginning to realize that a few more such victories will send Pecos business in a depression greater than any thing that the Hoover administration has given it.

"There isn't any doubt that if Stanton and Wink should play that Wink would win. She lost her game with Midland in a fair and square contest, but that is the only game she has lost that way. Her fracas with the hick town is acknowledged by all fair minded people as being a fluk. Pecos had her plans out and dried and followed them to the last.

"Stanton refused to play Wink when she had a chance, and Wink has gone on and made other arrangements. But it wouldn't do Pecos any good if Wink would condescend to pull her chestnuts out of the fire.

"Wink has a steady payroll which should be spent at homes. But if you can't spend it at home, at least boycott Pecos."

Too much sympathy should not be wasted on rows. Here is something where real sympathy should be given. Coach Irwin of Merkel, last year at Stanton, lost a football player two days ago. The young man, Joel Darsey, 17, was captain of the Merkel team. He was running down the field to take a pass and a defensive player struck him, injuring abdominal organs. Death was not long in coming. That was a severe blow to football in Merkel and in the years to come many mothers will keep their boys off the football field as a result. It is hard to lose a young man to a sport accident. Sport is calculated to do more for his young body than almost anything else. The whole state will feel sorry for what has happened.

But no one should let an accident of this sort keep his son from the gridiron. No one quite riding in automobiles just because he reads of an accident that resulted in a fatality. New pilots for planes are born every day—while experienced pilots are crashing to their deaths. We must have progress—and sports must be maintained. The one who throws a block against the wheel is doing something far more disastrous than he knows.

HIGH SCHOOL HAS BAND THAT REALLY IS ORGANIZED

Those who have watched the Midland high school band, well-drilled and smartly uniformed, go through its paces have often felt appreciation for such a musical body in the town. They might be surprised to know that almost as much work is done in keeping the unit together by students themselves as by Director Shrader.

A student manager, Herman Walker, sees that everything is ready at just the right moment, care that instruments are taken care of on trips and numerous other activities. At the El Paso game, for instance, Walker got the instruments of the band to the hotel before the football team, pep squad and band got there. And he beat the Midland groups to the train for the return trip.

There is a librarian, Marie Hill, together with her assistant, Merwin Haag, files and classifies all the music played by the band. Haag has evolved a system of classifying the music that "is distinctly his own," Shrader said, laughing.

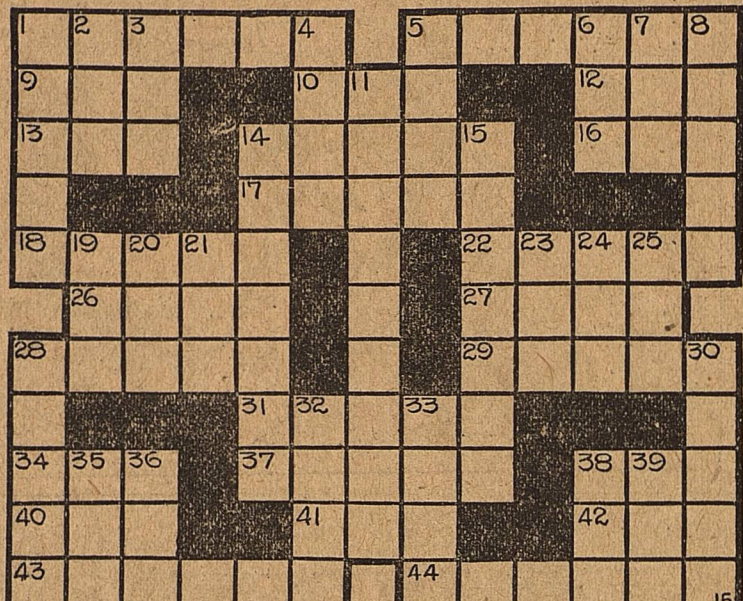

Each section of the band has its own leader. The director goes over a new piece with the entire band, slowly. Then he goes over it with the leaders of sections, after which the leaders themselves teach the music to those in their sections. That allows for faster work.

Section leaders are: cornet, Jack Garlington; clarinets, Ed Watts; trombone and baritone, Charles Reeves; bass and alto, Herman Walker; drums, Catherine Cosper.

pointed to draft resolutions, express our thanks and appreciation for the most excellent way in which the local lumbermen and the City of Midland have entertained us as delegates to this the 7th Convention and suggest the following resolution.

Be it resolved that this the 7th Convention of the West Texas Retail Lumbermen's Association hereby express our appreciation to the local lumber dealers of the city of Midland and their wives, also to the chamber of commerce, Mrs. Paul T. Vickers, and pupils, John S. Bonner, Kenneth Ambrose, Wallace Wimberly, and all others who have in anyway contributed to our pleasant visit in Midland.

Resolutions Passed Without the painstaking efforts that have been put forth by the local people our convention would not have been the success and as enjoyable as it has been.

We will go home feeling that the bond of friendship toward Midland and its citizenship has been materially strengthened by the true western hospitality they have displayed.

Be it resolved that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the
