MULROONEY SAYS NOW IS TIME TO SWAT GANGSTER

NEW YORK.—The "Swat-the-Racketeer" season in New York, and should be in every other city, according to the boss of the nation's biggest law-enforcement agency. For Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney says that Old Man Depression already has many of the racketeers hanging on the ropes. Kid Racketeer is weak and undermined, scared half to death, and trying desperately to stave off destruction. Since it's a free-for-all fight, is a fine opportunity for a few public-spirited citizens to step in and administer the final blow.

Two years ago the State Crime Commission estimated that legitimate business here was paying nearly $400,000,000 annual toll to the racketeers. Police officials doubt the accuracy of that figure, but they do know that a very small fraction of it would account for all the commercial extortion that is being carried on today.

Organized gangs have been broken up. Men have been sent to prison. Complaints received by the New York board of trade and the police department have greatly diminished. "But all the credit cannot be claimed by the police department," said Commissioner Mulrooney. "The depression has done most of the good work. Racketeers are parasites of prosperity, when competition is keen and the need for speed makes businessmen careless."

Today there is less revenue for racketeers to out in. Hard times also have strengthened the moral fiber of business. When a man is on the verge of bankruptcy he is much more likely to defy criminal activities. If paying a racketeer means going into receivership, he is going to prosecute that racketeer and take a chance on becoming a victim of gang vengeance.

Cooperation Sought The commissioner pointed out that police departments usually are powerless to take the initiative unless racket victims are willing to go into court to aid the prosecution. But police are doing important educational work—first, in calling for public aid in attacking crime and second, in guaranteeing protection to those who are courageous enough to appear against criminals.

There are 20,000 men in this department," continued Mulrooney, "and we stand ready to guard a man, his family, his business day and night, no matter what the cost in money or man-power.

"Proving that we can and will do this successfully has given courage to more and more people who a few years ago would never have dared identify or testify against a criminal in court.

"It was a vicious legend that had been built up about the power and vindictiveness of so-called organized crime. But the depression is teaching the public that it can call crime's bluff."

Mulrooney, who rose from a patrolman's beat to become one of the most internationally famous of police officials, is the originator of a city-wide campaign appealing to citizens to aid the police. Posters to call attention to the protection offered by the cruising radio-equipped patrol cars; also the importance of immediately reporting suspicious incidents or persons. Instructions are offered on how to call the police quickly, and what details should be observed and reported.

HAAG LEADS BUT RUNOFF NECESSARY

Only Two Boxes of 13 Counties Are Out, Says Report

Returns from the 13 counties comprising the 88th legislative district were practically all reported today, although one box in Martin and one in Presidio counties had not been received.

B. Frank Haag, Midland candidate for the legislature, had a total of 4,247 votes as compared to 2,865 for J. B. Cotten of Crane, his nearest opponent. However, W. E. Reid of Fort Stockton had received 2,119 and Bill Granger of Fort Davis 2,006, necessitating a run-off between Haag and Cotten August 27.

In order to win at that time, Haag must secure 1,363 net votes, figures show, whereas Cotten would need 2,763 net votes.

Counties carried by Haag included Ector, Midland, Reeves, Winkler and Martin. Cotten led in Upton, Loving, Ward, Andrews and Crane. Reid led in Pecos county and Granger in Presidio and Jeff Davis. Haag said today that he hoped to receive the support of Reid and Granger in the run-off campaign.

Voting in the legislative race Saturday was as follows:

Few Run-offs in Martin Co.

Results of the Martin county election obtained in part in Midland today.

Sheriff Mill Yeater was elected without opposition.

John Edmund Morrow, county clerk to Edmund Morrow, a run-off resulted in the race for county treasurer, Allen Kaderlie and Garland Brewer surviving.

County Attorney Bob Hamilton won reelection over J. L. Tucker for that office.

G. L. Lamar was reelected county judge over J. H. Aichison.

Organized gangs have been broken up. Men have been sent to prison. Complaints received by the New York board of trade and the police department have greatly diminished.

There are 20,000 men in this department," continued Mulrooney, "and we stand ready to guard a man, his family, his business day and night, no matter what the cost in money or man-power.

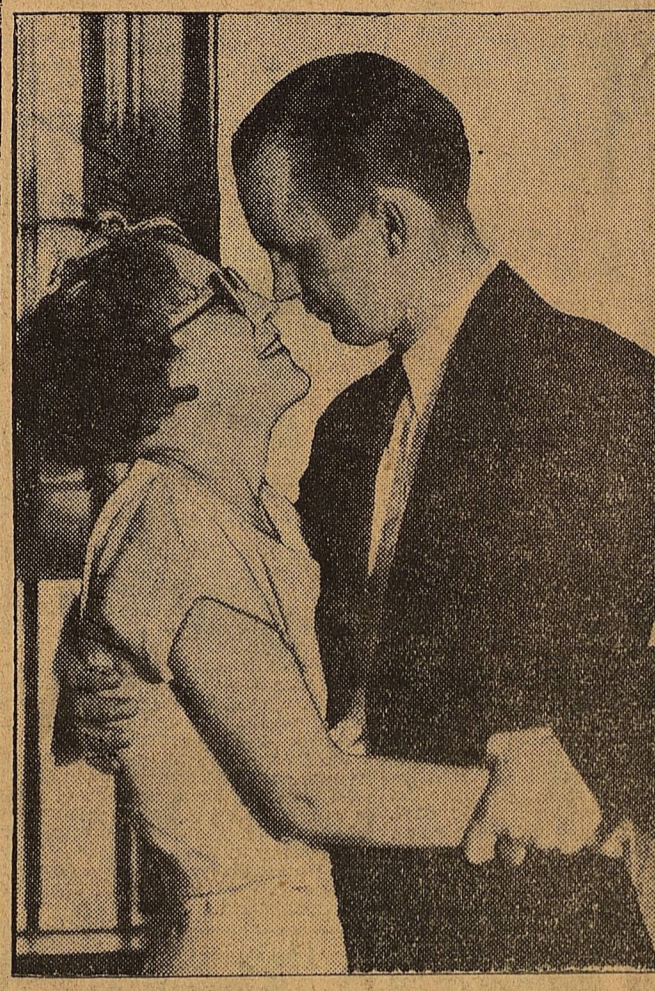

"Proving that we can and will do this successfully has given courage to more and more people who a few years ago would never have dared identify or testify against a criminal in court.

Posters to call attention to the protection offered by the cruising radio-equipped patrol cars; also the importance of immediately reporting suspicious incidents or persons. Instructions are offered on how to call the police quickly, and what details should be observed and reported.

The response has been astonishingly great. Of course, there have been scores of false alarms and hundreds of trivial annoyances reported. But the police don't mind because they also have had dozens of more reliable tips.

Murder Shadows Jail Wedding

The bride got the license, the wedding clothes for "her man" and the justice of the peace. The groom sat in an Indianapolis jail cell awaiting grand jury action on a murder charge. Then Genevieve Bernice Stanley, 25, of Fort Harrison, Ind., and Charles Pike, 26, were married in the jail's office.

The uncle, making our expedition successful. Now that a year has passed since we have returned home I want you to know that my gratitude to you is as firm as ever—that throughout our lives whatever may be our various fortunes you will find that my appreciation will not grow less.

The time that has elapsed has only increased the respect of our countrymen for our Expedition. May the years ahead have the same effect.

The expression of this respect is this medal which is knighthood that your grateful countrymen have conferred on you—the highest honor within their gift. This is recognition that will carry your name on the pages of history.

On the face of the medal there is mention of the Expedition's material accomplishments, but what it represents in an even deeper sense is that which has been invisible, which cannot be described—the spirit of the Expedition.

It is internal bitterness, caused by fame, ambition, money and jealousy which, after the return home, has destroyed the spirit of most past expeditions. You have not let these things touch you, and so I congratulate you and am grateful to you in a double sense. It is often more difficult to keep our sense of balance and proportion in civilization than in the Polar Regions.

It is my confident hope that this spirit will live as a bright page in history.

In conclusion I want to say that whenever you come my way, you will receive a warm welcome and the hand of friendship.

Your friend, (Signed) R. E. BYRD.

RUNOFF OF REGAN AND BERKELEY

Regan Is 5,000 Votes Ahead, Figures Reveal

Ken Regan of Pecos will have to stage a run-off campaign with Senator B. F. Berkeley to determine the successful democratic nominee for state senator from the 29th district, reports coming in here slowly indicate.

No definite figures from the district had been reported here, although Regan is reported to have found that he was leading Berkeley, his nearest opponent, by approximately 5,000 votes.

J. C. Fuller of Marfa and W. M. Stewart of Barksdale were eliminated from the race in the election Saturday.

Bee Owners Battle Frogs

TIPTON, Okl. (UP)—After all the jumping frogs of Calaveras county, immortalized by Mark Twain are far behind the frogs of Tipton, Okla. county, when it comes to really heroic deeds.

The famous Calaveras frog entered history when he swallowed so many lead pellets that he wasn't able to take off in a jumping contest.

But at Tipton the frogs eat not bits of lead, but live, ferocious bees. With such appetites do they consume the bees that Tipton residents have to go out and protect their apiaries from the ravages of the ravenous bullfrogs.

As witness to one of these battles against the bullfrogs, William Loftin of Tipton has a swollen left eye which he received when trying to protect a hive of bees from bullfrogs.

Bullfrogs had been eating the bees of the Loftin hives, and Loftin was aiding in catching the frogs to prevent further destruction of the bees, when he was badly stung by one of the bees he was trying to defend.

The frogs have been doing considerable damage recently to bees in this vicinity.

Crown Prince Takes Exams

BUCHAREST, (UP)—Crown Prince Michael has finished the first stage of his schooling, the "Folk School," corresponding roughly to the first seven grades of a United States school, and he will enter the Lyceum, approximately the U. S. junior high school classification, in the fall.

The young prince, who will be 11 in October, made an average of 9.91 points out of a possible 10 in his examinations, and these included several subjects not usually required of a 10-year-old in the average school. His next courses will be followed in the military Lyceum.

Michael's examinations were held in two sections, written and oral. They were heard by a commission of five consisting of the Minister of Education Dimitrie Gusti, Michael's instructor, Colonel Traian Grigorescu, Director of the Folk School in Sibiu, (royal summer residence) and the prince's teacher in French, G. Saxu; and the Bucharest Correspondent of Le Matin of Paris, Leon Teyssie.

The prince's written examination lasted for two hours and 45 minutes. He had to write a theme in the Rumanian language, solve problems in arithmetic and geometry and do exercises in drawing and handwriting.

STATE WITNESSES SUPPLY MISSING ANGLE IN NEGRO MURDER TRIANGLE

A story of dusky vengeance was related by state witnesses in an examining trial Monday afternoon in justice court, following the shooting to death that morning shortly after midnight of a Midland negro.

Dorris Dixon, negress, waived her right to take the stand. State witnesses said she shot Dewey Edwards, member of a negro orchestra here, because he chose to consider her "the other woman."

The tale cleared away a complexity of dark town doubt. Edwards was living in common law relationship with an Odessa negress. Finley W. E. Anglin and Mrs. E. M. Thompson of Paris spent Monday visiting friends in Odessa.

room of the place came Dorris, a gun in her hand. The crowd parted to let her pass. When within about eight feet of Edwards, and without a word being said by either, she fired the revolver into his left breast. He started to run, but collapsed.

The crowd was given a drill in the old aphorism, "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned." Men tried to take the gun away from Dorris and she fought like a wildcat. When the gun was wrested from her by power of numbers, she rushed the man who was holding the gun, a knife in her hand. He was forced to throw the gun at her to stop her, and she picked it up and fired at him once. At once, the hotel became hers, and she was the only one left.

She was bound over to the grand jury without bond being set. The case will come up in September.

Europe and U. S. Swap Auto Ideas

By NEA Service NEW YORK.—Europe and the United States are improving their automobile creations through an interchanging of ideas—the former is adopting several details of the United States' creations, and the latter is adopting body styles of European cars.

So reports O. Mueller, English auto engineer, who has been in this country since the first of the year making a survey of auto shows and production.

"It is interesting to see how countries on both sides of the ocean have borrowed from one another," he says. "I notice here, for example, how American cars are today employing the pointed radiator, originally a French design. The back panel of today is more like English back panels and the trend toward narrower cowls was probably taken from France."

What We Give Them "On the other hand, European manufacturers have taken from the English such things as speed regulators, locks, handles and interior lights. And the all-steel body is mounting in popularity abroad. The Englishman reveres his car. It must look clean and polished at all times. It must be quiet and smooth running. This demand for quietness has helped advance the all-steel body."

Sun Roof Popular Mueller points out that European cars have quite a few little developments that American creations don't. On in particular is the "sun-roof" over the roof is a sliding type that can be pushed from under the heads of passengers on a sunny day. It is standard equipment on many English cars today.

Practically every car in England has a rear curtain which can be controlled from the driver's seat.

"You couldn't sell a car in England without this," Mueller says. "The English automobilist is particular in many ways. As a result British manufacturers have provided many features which are lacking here."

A SHOCKING REMINDER

Police records offer few things more shocking than the case of the New York suspect who died following an eight-hour grilling by police—died, according to physicians, of a broken larynx, which was incurred while he was in the police station.

It is quite beside the point to remark that this suspect was, all in all, an undesirable citizen, that he was accused of an atrocious crime and that the evidence connecting him with it was exceedingly strong. The only fact that counts is the fact that a man who, by law, was entitled to the presumption of innocence was beaten to death because he refused to confess.

As long as such things can happen, no man is entirely safe. And as long as brutality remains the chief card in the policeman's deck, our efforts at law enforcement will remain feeble, stupid and grossly incompetent.

The Rockefeller Center international music hall is to be "an example of good taste, outstanding in simplicity," and as such may be the forerunner of an era when theatres are built for shows but not for show.

Toilet preparations and soaps will provide $13,500,000 of the additional $1,118,900,000 in new revenue that Uncle Sam is raising to balance his income with his expenditures this year. The revenue act of 1932, as it is known, places a manufacturer's tax of 10 per cent on toilet preparations, except tooth pastes, mouth washes, toilet soaps and shaving creams on which the tax is 5 per cent.

The tax is based on the manufacturer's selling price. You may or may not see it, but it is there nevertheless. Some retailers add the tax to their sales price and call it "next."

Sari Maritza and Gene Raymond in the daring Paramount film epic, "Forgotten Commandments."

"Forgotten Commandments"—the Paramount real-life story of a modern Babel, comes to the Yucca theatre today for two days.

The cast is headed by Sari Maritza, new blonde sensation from European films; Gene Raymond, handsome leading man who appeared with Sylvia Sydney in "Ladies of the Big House" and with Nancy Carroll in "Personal Maid"; Marguerite Churchill, hit of "7 Faces" and others; and Irving Pichel, the character genius of "The Miracle Man," and "Murder by the Clock."

The story opens at a big city university where Gene Raymond and his young bride, Marguerite Churchill, register for courses in medicine and social service.

They meet Irving Pichel, famous surgeon, who has very ultra ideas. Raymond is captivated by this bizarre philosophy of the marriage idolizes, and soon finds himself practicing it. He begins to fall in love with Sari Maritza. One day while Sari, Raymond and Marguerite are doing social service work, a preacher starts to describe the story of the Bible to a group of ragamuffin boys. In the midst of his narrative, he is placed under arrest, by order of Pichel.

After this incident, Raymond goes to Sari's home, to the great sorrow of Marguerite, who realizes she has lost the love of her husband. Pichel, jealous of Sari's room and shoots her and Gene, leaving unseen. Sari dies at once. Gene is unconscious, but has a chance to recover. No one knows who did the shooting. Pichel, the surgeon, is the only one who can save Gene. Marguerite pleads with him. At last he consents, grudgingly. It all leads to a happy finale.

Another excellent way to serve cottage cheese is to make it in small balls and roll them in minced nuts or minced parsley. Serve them with salads made of sliced pineapple or tomatoes or in nests of lettuce. They are also attractive used as a garnish on the side of a plate of fruit or vegetable salad.

who has a suspicion of cancer should not ever wait for pain but should secure medical advice before it is too late to be healed. Many cancers can be cured by early treatment.

There are many kinds of cancers—some being external, some internal, some growing rapidly, some slowly, some spreading quickly through the body, some not, some very dangerous, others less harmful.

Every cancer begins as a single body cell or group of cells which for some unknown reason starts to grow wild.

As a cancer increases in size, it may cause trouble by interfering with the functions of important organs, by spreading to distant parts of the body, by breaking down itself and producing hemorrhages, abscesses, and open sores or by discharging poisonous substances into the system.

If cancer is not removed or checked in its growth, it finally becomes fatal unless death occurs in some other way.

Women who patronize Conoco Service Stations are delighted with the courtesy and helpfulness of Conoco salesmen. There is nothing forward or obtrusive about their service, but it has the little touches of respect and thoroughness that make it pleasing.

Conoco men always see that your windshield is polished clean, that your tires are checked accurately and that the radiator is filled . . . without splashing. They are glad to furnish battery water, if you desire.

Women are especially pleased with the spotless, plainly marked Conoco rest-rooms which are available for them.

Women who are traveling by car find Conoco service invaluable. At any Conoco station they can learn the condition of near-by roads, receive accurate mileage and route information, obtain dependable road maps and authentic details about local hotels, camps, sports and sources of supplies. The Conoco man will check packages and arrange to handle mail and telegrams.

All of these services are free, of course; not only free, but rendered with a spirit that leaves no doubt that the Conoco man is eager to be helpful.

EVERY CONOCO STATION IS A BRANCH OF THE CONOCO TRAVEL BUREAU . . . A NATION-WIDE FREE SERVICE FOR MOTOR TRAVELERS

Doctor Writes Music of Flu

TORONTO, Ont. (UP)—Dr. Ford E. MacLoughlin, who supplements his medical practice by composing music, has seen a cadenza in a sneeze, a thrill in a chill, and a fortissimo in a cough. In the collection of eight original manuscripts, including orchestrations and songs, is what he calls "A Symphonic Tone Poem, Influenza."

There are four movements in the symphonic work. They are:

First Movement — Preliminary symptoms.

Second Movement — Onset of the disease.

Third Movement — The disease.

Fourth Movement — Convalescence.

A slight chill running up and down the spine is brought out in the first part by clarinets. A Jew's harp emphasizes the headache strain on the second part, the manuscript reveals, and the perspiration motif, always a part of the disease, is played by oboes, clarinets and strings. A brilliant delirium crescendo closing the third act prepares for the noble theme of the convalescent theme. The finale is stately and noble, depicting the patient a bit wobbly and weak, but glad to be alive.

Water cooled from 39.5 degrees to 32 degrees Fahrenheit expands one-eleventh of its volume.
