GOING SOME More than $40,000 was involved in only two weeks time in the gigantic Trades Day Program, correct and checked records at the office of the chamber of commerce showed at 10 o'clock Friday morning. This, of course, does not represent all the business, but shows how enormous participating business is. It is expected to go bigger by next Trades Day as interest is increasing in the city and in this area of West Texas.

Hundreds of people will throng the streets. Big crowds are expected from Stanton, Odessa, Rankin, Andrews, Iraan, McCamey, Pyote, Crane City, Hobbs, Lovington, Monahans, Wink, Pecos, and various farming communities and oil camps. These hundreds will be augmented by still other hundreds of city people.

Merchants will be ready for the big event by 2:30 as all trades day sales made after 2:30 will apply on next trades day, May 2. When John Bonner starts the fireworks at 3 o'clock nobody will be waiting on. All business men participating will be ready.

Many people will treat Saturday as a half holiday to join the throngs, greet their friends, participate in the main event at 3 p. m. and have a general good time.

Business men participating in the trades day program are enthusiastic over its success. The program has brought much out of town trade to Midland. Any merchant in Midland holding membership in the chamber of commerce may participate. If any wish to join yet, they will be welcomed. The big, successful trade expansion program is open to all chamber members without any cost whatever, save the cost of operating the program, which is determined by the merchants themselves.

Captain Sentell Reviews Guard

Official inspection of the Midland infantry company organized by Major Samuel E. Wasaff was made Thursday night by Captain John E. Sentell of Snyder. The company was put through a drill by Lieutenant Chauncey Garrison while being reviewed by Captain Sentell and various reserve officers living at Midland.

The inspection followed a dinner given at Hotel Scharbauer in honor of Captain Sentell, who was brought here by Major Wasaff to assist in getting permission to muster the Midland company into the national guard. He was accompanied to Midland by Sergeant Charles E. Dever. Captain Sentell made a talk declaring Midland ought to have a national guard unit, and he pledged his best efforts toward getting the company mustered in. Major Wasaff presided at the banquet. Midlanders at the meeting who made talks were: Major Harry Johnson, Lieutenants Chauncey Garrison, Frank Wendt and Charles McClintic, Harvey Sloan, Hillory Bedford, and Charles Berry. They pledged their moral support of the Midland company and urged its acceptance into the national guard.

Special Easter Services At Churches; Methodists Have First Vested Choir

A vested choir, the first in Midland church history, will present an Easter cantata at the First Methodist church Sunday evening.

The regular choir, augmented by special singers, make a group of 24 excellent singers for the cantata, "Dawn of the Kingdom," which will extend over a time period of 40 minutes. The Watson orchestra will play special numbers. Soloists of the choir are Mrs. Foy Proctor and Miss Lena Solomon. It is feared that another soloist, Mrs. Roy Parks, ill in Mineral Wells, will not be recovered sufficiently to sing. In such emergency, the other two soloists will take the part. The church will be decorated with lilies and green vines.

Program Postponed

The cantata, "Christ Victorious," will not be given Easter Sunday night by the choir at the Presbyterian church. It will be given one week or two weeks later, illness of several who have leading parts preventing it. In order to permit the congregation to hear Easter music Sunday night, the evening service will not be held at the Presbyterian church and the congregation will be free to attend other churches. The Presbyterian choir will sing beautiful songs Sunday morning, and the congregation and all who wish to attend Easter morning service are assured of appropriate and inspiring music, according to the Rev. Thomas D. Murphy, pastor.

OFFICER MAY DIE IS BELIEF

Crane City Barber Is Held in Ector County Jail

"Two charges of assault with intent to murder will be filed against J. M. Holliday, Crane City barber, this afternoon," County Attorney J. B. Cotten said over long distance telephone to The Reporter-Telegram at 2 o'clock this afternoon. "The charges are being prepared now," he said. Holliday surrendered following an alleged shooting about 9:30 Thursday night of two Crane City men.

Mac Hennessey, about 70, night watchman, is in a serious condition, and Hank Burtz, driller, suffers painful wounds in the shoulder and arm following an alleged shooting in Crane City last night.

J. M. Holliday, Crane City barber, surrendered to Deputy Sheriff Fannin. He was lodged in the Ector county jail at Odessa, where it was announced a preliminary hearing will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. No charges had been filed at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

A long distance telephone message from Crane City at noon said Burtz was shot as he entered the home of Holliday, shot tearing into his left arm and shoulder; that a half hour later Hennessey approached the Holliday residence and received abdominal wounds from a 12-gauge shotgun.

Hennessey may die, reports indicated early this afternoon. It was though necessary by surgeons in the forenoon to amputate Burtz' arm, but later reports said this operation might not be made.

Reports said Holliday and Burtz have had trouble over a woman each wanted to marry; that Burtz filed an intention to marry her; that he went to the Holliday residence, which is directly behind Holliday's barber shop, and was shot. Hennessey was described as going to the Holliday residence thirty minutes later, "just to see his friend Holliday." He seemed to believe he had been shot in a "case of mistaken identity."

"Holliday is my friend," he is quoted as saying on the operating table. "He is a good man."

Holliday was said to have lived in Crane City for three years, and to have been valuable there as a civic worker.

Dr. A. J. Cooper of Crane City said shortly after noon that the condition of Hennessey was steadily growing more serious.

Bulletin

Death rather than Phoenix might have been the unsuspected terminus of a party of four that came to grief in a car wreck near the airport shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hughes, a one-year-old infant of the Hughes, and H. F. Dieter, all of Williamsport, Pa., lie in the hospital-clinic, cut, bruised and probably internally injured.

The car, a heavy sedan, traveling about 50 miles an hour, according to the driver, Dieter, was "crowded into the ditch" by another motorist, also driving a heavy sedan. Traffic Officer Bryan Middleton, who cleared the way for the speeding Barrow ambulance, said Dieter told him he believed a blow-out responsible for the wreck.

The car was practically demolished, Middleton said. The occupants of the car were thrown clear of the wreckage and had been laid out on the roadside by passing motorists by the time the traffic policeman and ambulance arrived.

The baby had a great swelling on the head, and appeared to be unconscious. Dieter and Hughes were the only members of the party who could talk to a reporter.

MIDLAND'S BIG WAY

Another big job has been done in Midland's famous BIG WAY.

The drive for funds to carry on the year's work of the Midland Community Welfare association was practically completed within three hours yesterday morning.

The goal had been reached and additional funds were in sight, expected to be secured today, which would guarantee to the association sufficient money to operate for twelve months.

The organization was put into effect only a year ago. Proof of its efficient and satisfactory work was seen in the fact that the women soliciting funds did not find it necessary to explain to the public what the money was to be used for.

In most cases no questions were asked. In many cases the checks were written out and waiting on desks of business men.

And why not? The welfare association has created for Midland citizens a medium through which charity work has been handled effectively and without help from the average citizen.

And, perhaps the greatest feeling of satisfaction to each citizen, welfare workers and all others, has been that Midland has taken care of her own work. No funds have been sent to Midland by government agencies or relief organizations.

The few citizens who were overlooked by committees yesterday may well afford to seek the association treasurer and pay in contributions to the fund.

A CITY SLICKER SLIPS

One moral to be drawn from the news of the day seems to be that the city slicker has to stick to the city if he wants to keep on slicking people.

In the downfall of Fred Burke, the notorious Chicago gunman, we get just one more illustration of the fate that befalls the city chap when he forsakes his natural habitat and heads for the tall grass.

Burke was wanted, very badly, by the police of a good many cities.

Chicago wanted him for the St. Valentine's Day massacre. St. Joseph, Mich., wanted him for the murder of a policeman. Toledo wanted him for a big mail robbery.

But Burke, flitting from one city to another, managed to avoid detection quite easily. His downfall came when he made his hideout in a small Missouri village.

In this village there was a young truck driver, who was given to reading detective story magazines. He read a story about Burke in one of these magazines, studied his picture, and recognized the man when he saw him.

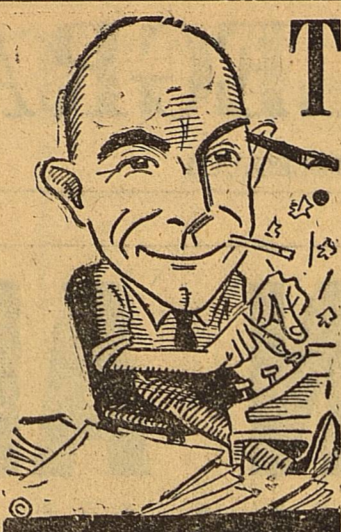

That little story gets duplicated rather often. Burke is far from being the first hard guy from the city to come to grief in the sticks; and the whole thing points a reminder of the differing attitude of city and country folk.

In the city no man knows who his neighbors are. The man in the next apartment is a complete mystery. No one knows about him, and no one cares.

Furthermore, if the city chap happens to get suspicious, the chances are that he will say nothing about it—except, perhaps, to his wife. He knows that there are many things in city life that "look funny"; to tell the police may be only to get himself into trouble.

But in the country it is different. Small towns may have a deplorable tendency to gossip; but this trait does not put the stranger under the necessity of giving some sort of account of himself. Where everyone knows every-

I'm looking forward to our cooking school with a considerable degree of interest. Of course I don't need to go myself because I don't ask anybody to show me how to broil bacon.

Hankins' correspondent in repair-

The cooking school instructor ate something that made her sick and she couldn't finish the job. However, on checking up, I find that he had reference to the charm school and that she ate the bad cooking in some chite joint.

These fellows like Campbell and Hankins don't take such important events as cooking schools seriously. The first question Hankins asked was as to the age and appearance of the instructor.

Clyde Barron sends out a letter about his Magnolia station. After telling all about the joint he winds up by saying "R. E. Mead will give you service." That wasn't a bar-foot-note, Clyde.

WHEN DAY DREAMS BURST

Who can blame one for dreaming away in school on an early spring day? No one knows what's in the air to give that feeling of drowsiness that just can't be shaken off. Lazy, mellow noises float around on an air laden with the scent of budding flowers. A beautiful clear sky reveals here and there a disp of fleecy white cloud moving along like the down of a thistle on a warm southern zephyr. A bright, smiling sun beams down on a world seemingly too good natured to entertain harsh thoughts.

Suddenly to the north and west the sky turns a sandy colored dark blue. Puffs of strong wind sweep streets and houses, and one of our March sand storms strikes with the force of desert wind. Try as we may to keep an undisturbed calm, the peacefulness leaves, and a restlessness comes which cannot be driven away. The sudden changes of weather and moods are symbolic of life, peaceful one minute and stormy the next. Still, perhaps the change does us more good than harm.

Bad Stomach Cause of Bad Skin

You can't expect to have a good clear fresh-looking complexion if your stomach is weak and disordered.

Undigested food sends poisons through your whole body, pimples appear in your face, skin grows sallow and muddy and loses its color. Your tongue becomes coated, breath most unpleasant. But these troubles will end quickly and skin clear up if you will start today taking that simple herbal compound known to druggists as Tanlac.

Tanlac contains nothing but herbs, barks and roots which have a cleansing, healing effect on a poor upset stomach. Just a tablespoonful before each meal stimulates the digestion naturally so that you can eat what you want without fear of distress. And when your stomach is in good shape again see how much keener your appetite is—watch how quickly skin begins to grow free of disfiguring eruptions. The cost of Tanlac is less than 2c a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

MY EXPERIENCE IN AFRICA (BY BARNEY GRAFA)

Chapter II

Early the next morning I was awakened by some excitement going on in the street below. I jumped out of bed, and getting my bathrobe, hastened to the window. My eyes met a large group of men, including some natives, standing around a small cart on which a large black native stood addressing the people.

I found out by his words that a large group of apes were besieging a city up the river. These apes were like human beings and had for their ammunition rocks and cocoanuts, which they hurled with all their might. Ten men had been killed as large rocks hit them on the heads.

This interested me because it seemed funny for apes to siege towns.

Getting dressed, I ate a hurried breakfast, and after that, started on my task to secure blacks to carry my baggage which included ten large cages, two thousand cases of food, and guns and nets.

However, I found it very difficult to get help, since all the blacks seemed to fear the apes which were besieging a city through which we were to pass.

I tried every way imaginable to secure help and at last found a good way to get them to come along. I found that the natives were very fond of salt. Having a large supply of salt, I decided to offer them a small sack of salt for every stream that we crossed. This seemed a fair proposition to the natives, and they readily agreed to go along with me.

Thus it was very easy for me to secure five hundred natives.

Having dinner with the young lady whom I met on the boat, I again went to the task of selecting the route which I wanted to take. I decided to go up the Congo river as far as Stanley Falls. From there, I was to cross over to Lake Victoria, about fifty miles from the lake the rare Goo-gooos dwell.

That afternoon, I again came upon the young lady and started a conversation with her. I found that her name was Helen. Helen told me that she was going up the river to Moenge where her father lived. Then my heart went into my mouth. That was the very town that the apes were besieging! I said nothing to her about this. I told her that I was going up the Congo river and would like her company to Moenge. She gladly accepted this.

That night I did not sleep well. Early the next morning I arose and getting dressed, hurried down to breakfast. After eating, I took a stroll in the woods.

Curious sights greeted my eyes. Various colored birds darted in the trees and vines. Monkeys jumped from tree to tree. While I was walking along, I saw a bald face monkey try to leap to a tree out of his reach. In doing so, the poor beast fell. He tried to run but it seemed that he had hurt his foot. Fixing him in my arms, I returned to town and going to my room, bandaged his leg. When his leg was well, I returned to the woods and turned him free. Much to my surprise, as I was returning the little fellow ran along in front of me making monkey-shines. When I got to town he fol-

Garden Fancies

DAISIES AND INSECTS

Old diseases and insects stay with us and new ones appear every year. The fight goes on. New methods of combat are found and applied.

Burning the old trash about the garden and in the fence rows about the garden will get rid of a good many insects that winter in, or under, any kind of material that will afford them shelter.

Certain insects spend the winter in the ground so that fall plowing is effective in destroying them.

Many serious diseases, such as bean anthracnose, pea pod spot, and potato leaf roll and mosaic, are carried on or on the seed and cannot be controlled by seed treatment. It is therefore essential to secure seed as nearly free of disease as is obtainable.

Some of the worst garden troubles, such as root knot and club root, are brought in on the roots of plants and not only damage the present crop, but remain in the soil to attack future crops. In buying plants be sure that they are healthy and free from insects. The roots should be clean, hairy, and free from knots or swellings.

Insects may be divided into two classes with reference to their method of taking in food—those that bite or chew and swallow the substance of the plant and those that suck and swallow the juices of the plant.

The first group, the chewing insects, can usually be controlled by poisons, but plant lice and other sucking insects must be controlled by contact poisons or by suffocation.

Use of Poisoned Bait Cutworms, one of the worst insects that the gardener has to contend with, can be controlled by the use of poisoned bait made by taking two level tablespoons of white arsenic or Paris green, mixing it thoroughly with five pounds of dry wheat bran, then adding four to six quarts of water in which a half pint of sorghum or cheap molasses has been mixed.

SPORTS REPORTS

We see where our estimable friend Bobby Campbell will go back to trailing Big Spring foursomes on the municipal golf course. He found bridge the other night to be a crime and, barely escaping arrest when caught with a party playing in a public place, had to write a story of the socio-legal affair, using his name in the guest list. We have it on Bobby insofar as we've known all along that it is a crime to play bridge. We don't and won't. Any game that gets so rough people have to defend their honors in public is a bit too much for us.

Bobby didn't go to jail. Rumor hath it he was looking over his shoulders as he folded his hands and was picking out a berth in the central police station, but chanced to see the chief leading a gag of hearts in a private set, with the sheriff. "Hey, you can't do that!" Bobby yelled, break the clutches of an astounded night officer and snatching the card from the chief. Another trump was out and the chief not only let Bobby out of the jail sentence, but pinned a deputy's badge on him. Henceforth he will be given a one-piece uniform and detached to the chief as bridge tutor, with full authority to arrest those officers who arrested him.

Burriss, gridster, is doing well. His knee has ceased bothering him while he tries to sleep and will grow stronger day by day. He should be his usual, flashing self when the season gets under way. The high school is jubilant.

A last minute rally that found Sam Warren welding the big stick for the Reporter-Telegram failed to break the margin of Texas Electric Service company on the playground ball lot yesterday, and the

Backache, Headache

Henderson, Texas—"I suffered continually with severe backache and blinding nervous headaches. I was forced to take to my bed each month and, in short, was a nervous wreck. Recalling to mind the marvelous results my mother had obtained from Dr. Pierce's medicines, I decided to quit the doctor and give this treatment a trial. After taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I gained eleven pounds, lost my headaches and backaches and have not been obliged to take to my bed since."—Mrs. J. Y. Welch. All dealers.

Electricians won, 9-8. The game took on the exciting aspects of a honest-to-goodness rivalry. The ninth innings came up with the Legmen leading, 9-6. The Newsies were at bat. Two were down. Gemmill, manager of the club, managed to get on Warren, husky who pulled the Reporter-Telegram out of more jams in the past basketball season than we have time to count, hit one that rode to the farcountry-side and he circled the bases with Gemmill ahead, to pull up within one point of the leaders. The next man, Miller, went out, however, and the game was over.

Errors play a big part in playground ball—just like they would be expected to do. The Electricians had an Easter basket full of them, making eight during the pleasant afternoon while the losers made only two. Hits were almost evenly divided, the Electricians collecting 10 off Gemmill while the Newsies were only one behind. But Brown kept the Barron lads hits scattered and the Electricians hit Gemmill at moments when hits counted runs. Brown struck out one, issued one pass; Gemmill whiffed three, but gave up five free trips.

We are indebted to the Electricians for the only box score of the playground season that has been turned in. Here it is:

Several little matters of importance are to be taken up in a playground ball meeting to be held Monday night. Sunday's paper will announce the place of meeting. It is important that team representatives be present.

Several matches have been arranged in the ladder tournament at country club, and will be out this afternoon. Players have found their

Son of Vikings, Rockne, Guided By His Own Adventurous Spirit

BY WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor

Knute Rockne was a son of the Vikings. His blood was like theirs and it called him to daring and adventure just as it called the Vikings of old Norway who pointed their ships into the trackless ocean. The son of immigrants, who became the greatest football coach the world has ever known, died finally just as many of his Viking forefathers had died, upon a ship, outward bound on a western trail.

Rockne found in aviation the same thrill that the old Norsemen found in their crude and restless craft with which they dared the devils of the deep to do their worst. It was an excitement that satisfied a desire that was dear to him, a craving for adventure that grew out of his Norse heritage.

The ships of his brave forbears sank in uncharted seas. The ship of Rockne plunged to the earth in flames. The craft in which he sailed differed from theirs, but the old urge that prompted him to fly was the same daring that sent them into the tempestuous darkness.

An idea of this spirit of Rockne's was conveyed during a recent visit to Notre Dame. Rockne had an automobile that had been presented to him in recognition of his championship football team of the year before. He had been in one of the chemistry laboratories where he liked to dabble around with strange compounds and mixtures. It was almost time for the squad to practice when he emerged, met me and invited me to ride over to the football field, old Carter field it was then.

He leaped in and grasped the wheel. We started with a rush and a roar, much after the manner in which his great grid teams started. Hardly had I closed the door than the machine shot out, up over the curbing with a terrific jolt.

Rockne never was one to stick to roads. In his driving he used up a car in a few months, and it had to be a good one to last a year under his impulsive guidance.

We grazed a tree. Rockne, with names on the ladder and have taken sudden animosity into the beating zone beneath their sweaters for those above them. More names are going on the ladder gradually and all looks hot and bothered in the prophecies.

Incidentally, as representative of the last place on the ladder, this department serves notice on some of the lazy contingent it may expect to necessarily sully reputations by playing with a sports scrivener. If there is anyone playing under 200 he's hereby warned he will have to watch us break a club or two before the week is up.

There's something interesting about being the last name on the ladder. You occupy a place no one wants. No one is envious of you. You can get a deed to the place if you want it.

We challenged Jimmie Harrison, just above us on the ladder, for a game and he left town. Went to Amarillo. M. D. Johnson Jr., next above Jimmy, will come to our attention at the end of the three-day period in case Jimmie decides he likes Amarillo scenery that long. A lively scrap is likely to ensue above Johnson, running into such prominent figures as D. B. McCall, Aubrey Legg and R. D. Scruggs. It appears we are the sixth lowest, even if this department is shot for divulging the information.

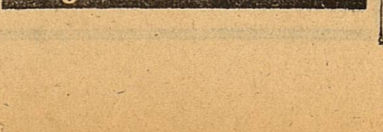

WHEN SYSTEM NEEDS CLEANING

Take Black-Draught To Help Throw Out the Poisons Attending Constipation.

"I have used Theford's Black-Draught off and on for twenty-five years, and have found it to be a good medicine," writes Mr. Dave Stewart, of 1912 East Second Street, Austin, Texas. This medicine, he adds, had been used in his father's home for many years and was "our general family medicine."

"My health was always good. About all I ever took I used for constipation and bilious, sick headaches. It is a fine medicine to take when a man gets up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish. After a course of it, I feel fine. It seems to rid the system of poisons which come from constipation."

A somewhat similar experience is described by Mr. M. T. Sandies, of 119 Williams Street, Columbia, S. C., who says: "About all the medicine I need is a laxative for constipation. When I get bilious or constipated, I suffer from sick headache, and feel dull, tired and stupid. Then I take a dose of Black-Draught and get relief. It is splendid to cleanse the system."

no display of emotion, kept talking in that hard, metallic voice that his players learned to admire and obey.

"I like to drive," he said. "But I like to fly, too. Maybe if I hadn't been a football coach I would have been an aviator. There's something about it that gets you."

We bumped and jolted across a shallow ditch at about 40 miles an hour. We went splashing straight through the center of a small pond, sending mud and water flying up over the hood. Finally we crossed another curbing, wheeled along a gravel road and pulled up at the football field.

Rockne shot on the brakes with a bang and we slid for a few feet before stopping.

He leaped out and started at once giving directions to the squad, dividing them into units for passing, blocking, tackling and signals.

The picture that he left with me is that of him at the wheel, steering an unheated course just as the Vikings of old drove their stout ships.

If the Viking urge in him hadn't been so strong, Rockne might have become a famous chemist. His old teachers at Notre Dame often praised his brilliant efforts with the test tubes. But innate restlessness finally brought him to the football field, and to deeds of daring.

It was the Viking in him that led to his development of the forward pass. The story of that began when Knute, the son of poor Norwegian parents who brought him to the New World when he was still a baby, had to work hard during the summers to keep himself at school.

One summer while Rockne was still a student at Notre Dame, he and Gus Dorais worked as waiters in a resort hotel at Cedar Point, O. It was there that Rockne with his flair for daring and dramatics, toiled with Dorais, a buddy, in the perfection of the pass.

Gus threw passes to Rockne during every minute the two could get away from their work. Dorais, who now is a coach at the University of Detroit, threw him short passes, flat passes, long arching passes that made "Rock" hustle to catch. They worked indefatigably. In the year that followed, their success with the pass was amazing.

"The pass is going to change this game," Rockne predicted 18 years ago when he captained the Notre Dame team through an undefeated year. "Besides being a beautiful thing to watch, it opens up the game. It adds the element of surprise to attack. If you've got a lot of passes in your repertoire, the enemy never knows what's coming and can't get set."

The pass then was new. It had not been exploited. Rockne, with his desire for discovery, explored its possibilities. Again, the old Viking urge for change, for what was new and different!

His men caught that spirit. Rockne's teams were daring teams with the color of adventure about them. As the Vikings roamed, his teams went on jaunts from one end of the country to the other, seeking conquest, matching their mettle against the mightiest in every section. Rockne loved to go, bravely, as the Vikings went.

NEXT: Rockne's dream of success and how the great Walter Eckersall inspired him.

An elaborate system of cold storage warehouses, refrigerated freight cars and refrigerated vaults in stores protect perishable food en route to your home. Fish, meats, milk, fruits and vegetables are kept wholesome while in transit.

But after food reaches your home, the matter of keeping it fresh is entirely up to you. Unless food is kept at a low temperature, it loses much of its delicate flavor and appetizing qualities.

Electric refrigeration, with a temperature always below 50 degrees, assures you that food will be kept just as fresh in your home as it was when it left the store.

D. 1931, the same being the twentieth day of April A. D. 1931, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 19th day of March A. D. 1931, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 2449, wherein R. D. HEATLEY is Plaintiff, and ABE FISHMAN is Defendant, and a brief statement of plaintiff's cause of action, being as follows:

Now comes the plaintiff, R. D. Heatley and for his cause of action herein states that he is a resident of the City of Midland, County of Midland, and state of Texas; that the residence of the defendant, Abe Fishman is unknown and can not with reasonable diligence be ascertained.

Plaintiff further states that on or about 30th day of May A. D. 1929 one certain G. T. Ball, together with his wife, Sarah E. Ball, and S. M. Ball acting through his agent, G. T. Ball, executed and delivered to this said defendant, Abe Fishman, their certain Warranty Deed conveying to this defendant the following described real estate, to-wit: Being the North one half of Block 13 and all of Block No. 14, Langford and Weathered addition to the City of Midland, Midland County, Texas, said deed being recorded in Deed Record 45, page 97 Midland County Records of Deeds.

That in said deed the grantor G. T. Ball retained a vendors lien in and to said lands, which lien is evidenced by two vendors lien notes then duly executed and delivered by said defendant Abe Fishman, copies of which notes, together with all endorsements thereon are herein-after set forth; that after the execution and delivery of said notes and before maturity, for value received, the said G. T. Ball sold and transferred and assigned said notes to this plaintiff.

(A copy of said two notes is contained in Plaintiff's Original Petition)
Plaintiff further avers that he is now owner and holder of said described notes and that said notes have not been paid except as indicated by the endorsement thereon; that there remains due and unpaid on the note first above described the principal sum of Twenty-Five Dollars ($25.00) together with interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum from the 2nd day of October A. D. 1929.

Plaintiff further states that each of said notes contains the agreement of the maker thereof that if said notes are not paid at maturity and the same are placed in the hands of an attorney for collection or if collected by legal proceedings the maker will pay ten per cent additional on the principal and interest due thereon as collection and attorney's fees; that this plaintiff has agreed to pay his attorney herein said amount of ten per cent and that the same is a just and reasonable compensation.

Wherefore plaintiff prays that the defendant be cited to appear and answer herein according to law; that he may be granted a judgment against the defendant in the sum of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) with interest thereon at ten per cent per annum from the 2nd day of October A. D. 1929 and ten per cent additional on the principal and interest as attorney fees; and a further judgment against said defendant in the sum of Three Hundred Ten Dollars ($310.00) with interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum from May 30th 1929 and ten per cent additional on the principal and interest as attorney fees; that the plaintiff may be given a decree of foreclosure against the defendant on the lands in this petition described and that the same may be ordered sold and the proceeds applied to the payment of such judgment, and costs, and for all such other and further relief, special and general, in law and in equity, that the plaintiff may be entitled to.

HEREIN FAIL NOT but have before said Court, at its next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Midland, Texas, on this 20th day of March A. D. 1931. NETTYE C. ROMER, Clerk, District Court (Seal) Midland County, Texas. By Virginia Warren, Deputy. Mar. 20, 27, April 3, 10

THE DAILY MILK

When the milkman brings your milk, do you step to the sink immediately and pour out a portion of it? Certainly not!

Then why do such a thing with Natural Gas?

Burners clogged with lint and dust; appliances unsuited for Natural Gas; and small leaks in connections, often waste as much gas as is actually needed in the home.

Remember, water can't get hotter after it begins boiling. And don't permit gas to burn wastefully between the cooking of dishes.

Do not burn gas in heating appliances with doors and windows wide open.

Satisfied customers constitute our best asset. They are worth more to us than any revenue derived from gas which is wasted.

Annual School Fair Is Held Saturday

The annual fair of Midland county rural schools will be held Saturday in the county court house where exhibits of school work will be on display.

The booths will be open for inspection early Saturday morning in the assembly room of the court house. They will be constructed under the direction of teachers with the cooperation of Judge M. R. Hill and other county officials. Special features of the exhibit will be displays of health work which was added this year as a required subject.

Prizes are being offered by Midland business men for schools winning first places, including a grand prize for the best all-around booth. Music will be furnished at night by the Watson School of Music orchestra under the direction of Ned Watson.

A public is cordially invited to visit the booths at any hour today.

Glee Club Sings For Men's Class

Fifty boys of the high school chorus or boys glee club will sing Sunday at the big class of men which meets in Hotel Scharbauer at 9:45 Sunday morning. The boys will start singing promptly at 9:45 so they may conclude in time to get to their own Sunday School classes.

It is expected this singing will draw an extra large crowd of men as the school youths are well known for their concert singing under direction of W. W. Lackey, schools superintendent. Due to the fact that Sunday is Easter day the class is expecting its biggest attendance on record. Preparations are being made to seat 250 men. The class officers are cooperating with all churches by urging an extra big attendance at church following the class meeting to aid in the "Come to Church" movement.

The class may enter a contest with Abilene's famous Victory Class and a heavy attendance Sunday may mean much in Midland's defeat of Abilene. The Men's class at Midland is now running ahead of the Victory class of Abilene.

Oddities in the NEWS

FIVE GENERATIONS IN FAMILY. PITCHER IS STILL UNBROKEN

Mrs. Earl Philips holding the old pitcher.

By NEA Service
BIG SPRING, Tex.—If little pitchers had big ears, what a romantic story of the Old South would have been heard by a tiny hand-cut glass receptacle that has survived five generations in the illustrious Byrd family of Virginia and which is now in the possession of Mrs. Earl Philips, a Byrd descendant, of this city. The pitcher that has come through so many years without even a crack is from "Westover," original Virginia home of the Byrd family, which gave to the world a governor and a famous explorer and adventurer.

PORCUPINE PICKS APPLES ON QUILLS

By NEA Service
BELCHERTOWN, Mass.—Deputy Sheriff Thomas Hanifan was working in a wood lot, and therein lies a strange tale. Hanifan says he saw a porcupine appear beneath an apple tree and, with quills extended, roll over and over until its back was covered with apples. The animal

Midland Ford Wins In Mileage Contest

Smith Umberson, local Gulf station proprietor, won first place in a Ford mileage contest at Big Spring Wednesday afternoon, entries from eight counties participating. Umberson represented Cowden-Epley Motor company, local Ford dealers, in the contest.

Driving a Model-A Tudor Sedan, Umberson drove 45.9 miles on one gallon of gas, using a Gulf product. His nearest competitor drove 42.5 miles. Umberson was near the town of Lorraine when his car stopped. All entrants used the same route, going east from the Ford show tent at Big Spring.

El Paso Papers Involved in Deals

Effecting a double sale, the Lindsey Nunn Publishing company, owning the El Paso Herald and Times, retired from that field this morning.

The Scripps-Howard interests, publishing the El Paso Post, acquired the afternoon Herald, reaching Midland as a morning paper, creating for the Post-Herald an exclusive afternoon field.

D. D. Roderick, resident publisher of the Herald and Times under the Nunn organization, purchased the Times with an exclusive morning field. He will also publish a Sunday edition.

Wilbur C. Hawk and Gene A. Howe of Amarillo, stockholders in the Midland Publishing company, had owned a controlling interest in the Lindsey Nunn Publishing company. They retain their holdings in Amarillo and Lubbock, a part of the Nunn organization.

NEGROES TO BAPTIZE

Baptismal services by a local negro church will be held Sunday afternoon at the Holzgraf farm tank. It was announced today. The farm lies immediately north of the country club golf course.

In the old days of the sea everything in the line of food had to be pickled; meat, fish, vegetables and even the cheese.

POLICE COURTESY HALTS TRAFFIC LAW VIOLATIONS

By NEA Service
MERIDAN, Conn.—Courtesy pays, in the opinion of local traffic officers. Drivers violating parking regulations here for the first time are given "courtesy cards" as a warning, instead of being fined. Second offenders, however, are liable to arrest. Although hundreds of drivers have been given cards since adoption of the plan 10 months ago, not one has violated the law a second time, police say.

Natural Gas Use Is Much Increased

NEW YORK, April 3, (UP).—Consumption of natural gas in the United States has increased more than 130 per cent during the last 10 years, due to the discovery of large new reserves together with advance methods of pipeline construction, according to the Bank of America.

The bank said that gas was replacing other fuels in producing centers and near producing areas.

JUAREZ MERCHANTS FIGHT TO CHANGE AUTOIST LAWS

JUAREZ, Mex. (UP).—A fight on present restrictions against the automobile tourist in Mexico for the co-ordinating of laws concerning tourists and their cars is being made by Juarez merchants and commission agents.

"Present laws allow the tourist six months in Mexico, but allow him to have his car only two months," Angel Martinez, heading the move, declared. "Red tape concerning the posting of bond on entering the country and the delays occurring at the return to the border are detrimental to tourist traffic."

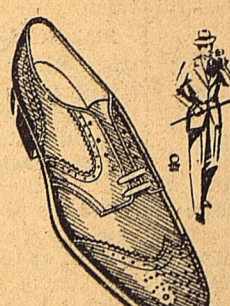

Their pleas that restrictions may be removed are being made before the treasury department and the customs director.
