ONE IS DEAD OF THE FIRE

Delong Ventures into Flames Dressed in Asbestos Suit

KILGORE, July 28. (UP).—Wearing an asbestos suit, Blackie Delong today rushed into flames and checked the fire which last night killed Clyde Erskine, 41, and badly burned Ray Griffin, 21, Corsicana, and M. D. Tomlinson, 34.

Erskine struggled vainly to escape from a fallen timber while his wife watched and heard his cries for help.

The L. C. Thorpes No. 1 Butts well caught fire last night after it was brought in. It is located two blocks from the business section and threatened the whole town.

Delong closed the gate valve while streams of water played on him.

MURPHY THREAT TO CLOSE FLUSH FIELDS IS MADE

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 28. (UP).—Unless the price of crude reaches a dollar a barrel by Saturday all Oklahoma flush fields will be closed, Governor W. H. Murray announced today.

The order will be effective Saturday night and will be enforced by military police if companies ignore the edict.

The governor said the shutdown order will not be an attempt to fix the price but a move to conserve the state's resources, protect the school funds and tax incomes derived from the petroleum production. He said he feels the waste should be stopped as natural resources are being exhausted and the state is getting no returns.

FORT WORTH, July 28. (UP).—Companions of Prohibition Agent Raymond L. Ezzell, who was shot to death last night in a battle with Robert Whitehead, 29, negro who was also slain, were summoned today for an inquest investigation.

Agent J. W. Boyd said he and Ezzell had an appointment with Whitehead to buy liquor. He said Whitehead opened fire when Ezzell walked in front of the car, shooting twice.

Ezzell fired as the negro fired the second shot. Whitehead was killed instantly, Ezzell dying later in a hospital.

A gallon of whisky and several cases of empty fruit jars were found in the negro's car.

More than 80 boy scouts, composing the five troops of Sweetwater, will be through Midland the morning of Aug. 12, bound for Carlsbad, N. M., where they will go through the caverns as guests of the International Harvester company.

This is the most extensive trip ever taken by a large body of scouts in the Buffalo Trail council, except for the annual encampment which brings boys from the far-reaching borders of the largest scout district in the state.

The boys will stop for a brief time in Big Spring, Midland and Pecos, and will return on the 14th.

Criminologist Says We Kill for Gain

PITTSBURGH, July 28. (UP).—Native-born American whites murder for money; Negroes for jealousy; Latin-country immigrants for revenge or because of alcoholism, according to Dr. Giovanni Giardini, lecturer at the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Giardini, a noted criminologist, has just completed a psychological study of killers in Western Penitentiary here. He has been impressed by the trivial motives for many murders.

Mental states, superinduced by diseases, especially by epilepsy, can frequently be blamed for murders where the apparent motive is surprisingly petty, according to Dr. Giardini.

500 BOY SCOUTS TO BE HERE

Great Water Carnival Planned for City August 15

Five hundred boy scouts or more are expected to be in Midland Aug. 15 to take part in another of those well known Buffalo Trail council rallies.

A meeting was held for arranging tentative details of the rally. The last of these meetings in Midland drew more than 300 boys from all over the district. At a rally held this year in Big Spring more than 500 were present.

Plans were discussed for feeding the boys, allowing them free swims and for arranging a swimming and diving and water polo carnival which has not been equalled in the history of the council.

Committees will be appointed within a few days to arrange all details.

The sports desk of The Reporter-Telegram, in an effort to encourage attendance of the best divers in the council and to promote further skill in diving, has offered an individual trophy cup to the boy who wins the judges' decision in that event.

Complete details will be announced within a few days.

Well-Known Hotel Man Visits Here

Charles Mangold, new national president of the Hotel Greeters of America, is in Midland today visiting his long time friend, Arthur G. Jury, manager of Hotel Scharbauer. Mangold owns the Jefferson hotel in Dallas and has been a civic leader and prominent citizen of that city for 47 years.

"The Scharbauer is one of the finest hotels in this whole country. Here's Arthur Jury, one of the best hotel managers in the country running a hotel good enough for a city many times the size of Midland. You Midland people ought to be proud of what Clarence Scharbauer has done for your city," Mangold, himself rated one of the best hotel men in the South, declared. He stopped over in Midland a day specially to visit Jury. He is en route to his home from the National Greeters convention in Vancouver.

Dirigible Draws Tourist Crowd

AKRON, O. (UP).—The Washington Monument and Niagara Falls, long an objective for tourists, for months have had a rival in the U. S. "Akron," which is rapidly nearing completion.

Moored in the Goodyear-Zeppelin airdock, the Akron has drawn hundreds of thousands of tourists from every state in the union and many foreign countries since construction work was started more than two years ago.

The image of its vast duraluminum frame work and mammoth dimensions has been imprinted upon minds that speak a score of languages and more dialects.

Airdock officials report that an average of from 1,200 to 1,400 tourists from states other than Ohio view the dirigible daily. From 25 to 40 states are represented in this influx of visitors.

YOUTHFUL KILLER AGED 15 GIVES NO EMOTIONAL RESPONSE TO TERM; KILLED OFFICER WHEN SURPRISED

CHICAGO, July 28. (UP).—Verner Corry, 15, who killed a policeman when caught stealing a swim in a high school pool, was sentenced today to 18 years in the Joliet prison.

Judge Joseph Sabath passed the sentence, explaining that he had consulted Warden Hill who assured him the youth would not be brought in contact with older hardened criminals.

The youth displayed no emotion as he received the sentence. His father, a machinery mover, and his mother, a school teacher, were criticized by the judge for their manner of rearing Verner.

Tiny Camera Snaps Stomach

PARIS. (UP).—Twenty seconds is all the time needed to take eight stereoscopic views of the interior of the human stomach with the new apparatus employed at the Leopold Bellan hospital here.

The tiny camera, known as a gastrophotor, is the result of five years of research in the stomach and intestinal service of Dr. A. Becart.

The photographs obtained can reveal cancer at its beginning and make easier the diagnosis of different forms of gastritis. Also, valuable indications before and after surgical operations may be obtained.

An interesting feature of the apparatus is the small lamp placed between the upper and lower camera. This lamp, which can be branched to any sort of current, gives a cold blue light of 20,000 candlepower, which lasts 1-20th of a second. The light automatically causes a short circuit, which melts the fuse of the transformer and volatilizes the lamp.

Dr. Becart has already organized sessions for demonstrations with the gastrophotor and for instruction in its use.

The other ship carried Russell Boardman and John Polanco on an attempted non-stop flight to Istanbul, Turkey.

It was the second attempted take-off for both the ships. They had previously returned to the airport because of too heavy loads.

Lindy Is Ready

WASHINGTON, July 28. (UP).—Charles A. Lindbergh today made last preparations for a flight on which he and his wife will pioneer a northwest passage from the Atlantic seaboard to the Orient.

Safety Pin no Bother to Baby

EL PASO. (UP).—Gary Verner Turner, nine-weeks-old baby, has an open safety pin lodged in his throat but thinks little of it.

When the baby was six weeks old he swallowed the pin. For several days he was in a critical condition as doctors attempted to remove the pin. Failing in that, they allowed the baby to rest, to regain his strength and Gary grew, despite the pin in his throat.

So improved is his condition that he was discharged from the hospital and no further attempts will be made for the present to remove the obstruction.

AN ENCOURAGING SIGN

The old Arab saying—"This, too, will pass"—ought to go well, framed, on the walls of business men's offices these days. In the early part of 1930 men were predicting that prosperity would be back in another month, at the longest; now they tend to believe that the depression will never end at all.

One is reminded of all of this, somehow, by the news, buried in the financial columns recently, that the Hudson Bay Company has passed a dividend.

The Hudson Bay Company, unfortunately, is not unique in that respect. It has been a year of passed dividends, all around. The shareholder who gets dividend checks regularly can congratulate himself as being luckier than many of his brethren.

What makes this particular incident interesting is the fact that the Hudson Bay Company is one of the oldest companies on earth. It has been in continuous operation since 1670. This depression is not the first it has seen, nor is it the worst; and one is safe in guessing that it will not be the last.

One imagines that the directors of the company are not unduly alarmed by the present depression. Their company was an old, established house before the French lost Canada. It lived through the world-wide panic that followed the bursting of the notorious "Mississippi bubble" over two centuries ago. It survived the turmoil of the Napoleonic wars and their troublesome aftermath. It is older than most of the earth's existing governments.

To some of us the depression looks like a calamity that will never end—a prelude to universal downfall. But to the gentlemen of the Hudson Bay Company, probably, it is visible in its proper perspective. In the days since 1670 it has weathered a good many storms. "This, too, will pass."

SHORT BUT DANGEROUS

The dangers of an airplane flight usually are in direct proportion to the length of the flight. Ordinarily, a short flight is much safer than a long one. But with balloons, it isn't that way at all.

The recent balloon race which started from Akron, with a trophy cup and the right to compete in the international balloon race next fall as first prize, illustrates the point.

The winning balloon, a U. S. Navy craft piloted by Lieutenant T. G. W. Settle, came down at Marilla, N. Y., just 250 miles from the starting point. The race was one of the shortest, from the point of miles traveled, in history.

But it was also one of the most dangerous. Weather conditions were atrocious. Intermittent lightning storms endangered the racers for hours. Few balloonists have lived through more hazardous experiences.

Distance, evidently, has nothing to do with danger where balloons are concerned.

RENTERS AND LANDLORDS

There seems to be something about a business depression that brings out foggy thinking. The president of an eastern real estate board, for example, remarked the other day that "it may be true that rents are still greater than many can afford to pay, but this does not alter the fact that the landlord is entitled to a return on his investment."

In the magazine, The Nation, the quotation is neatly reversed so that it reads: "It may be true that the landlord is entitled to a return on his investment, but this does not alter the fact that rents are still greater than many can afford to pay."

It fits as well one way as another; and the country at large will probably agree that the renter deserves a bit more sympathy than the landlord.

Author Visiting Here to Turn Out New Book Soon

Dr. Lawrence F. Hill, professor of history in the University of Ohio and author of several books and articles on American-Latin relations applies modern methods to his search in dusty archives for old and valuable documents.

The writer is in Midland, resting a day or so before proceeding to the Grand canyon to hammer out on his typewriter the manuscript for a new book to be published next spring. He will take a small cabin high above the view and work during the morning hours in a spot where one needs only to look up to see into the clear, blue distances.

A great place for the writer in the summer.

Dr. Hill has uncovered an interesting subject matter, the exodus of Confederates from the South to Brazil, British Honduras and to Mexico following the Civil War, and the tracing of their varied lives and experiences after going to those foreign countries. Formerly he has written extensively on diplomatic relations between the United States and Brazil.

The writer remains at his desk from four to six hours at a sitting, smoking innumerable cigars as he works. Much of the time he spends in taking notes and in condensing subject matter. He reads many volumes while writing a book. Like many other writers, Dr. Hill does not depend upon the so-called divine afflatus. "One has to force a mood at times," he smiled. "Otherwise there would be little creative work done."

The professor and author is rather quiet. He is inquisitive about everything with which he is only slightly acquainted. On a visit to the editorial office of The Reporter-Telegram he wanted to see the press run. He asked about other newspapers of the state, wanting to know whether they had kept intact the editorial policies they once advertised. He shows a surprising knowledge of them.

"The newspaper is the modern aid to writing," he said, his voice barely distinguishable in the roar from the big press. "I spent many days searching the files at Washington, reading ministerial letters and other documents, before I hit on the idea of going to old files of newspapers over the country for information I wanted in my first book. I found more in the press than I could have expected to find in all other sources together."

A reporter asked the professor if he had dreamed of writing ever since he was reared on the Texas rangeland. He shrugged.

"Writing of those connected with universities is not exactly a defense," he said, "but one is expected to turn out a certain number of books in a decade—else he is not deemed a scholar."

Dr. Hill enjoys writing, however, and is prolific. He has considered other phases of writing, "but the romantic novel is not for me. I have dealt in qualified fact too long, I fear," he said "to ever reconcile myself to imaginative writing, however true the basis for my novel."

The professor reminds one, oddly enough, of John Irskine, who told his students to bring their pipes to class if they were fortunate enough to appreciate a good smoke. A sense of humor, in other words.

JAIL SPEECH COST $1.60

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O. (UP). It cost Carl Guillo, Canton Communist worker, just $1.60 for an attempt to orate to fellow prisoners in Tuscarawas county jail. Jailed on a charge of resisting an officer, Guillo started a harangue against capitalism. His fellow prisoners, aroused from their slumbers, held a kangaroo court and fined the orator $1.60. It was paid.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

Americans are born drunk and really require a little wine or beer to sober them.

Yes, but what sort of a speedometer are you going to put on a guy to tell him when he's sober and to keep him from running over into the barrel-house stage?

A Midland man tries to be a good sport, but hardly succeeds. He was for Strubling as against Schmeling, and after the battle he congratulated Schmeling's followers in this manner: "I hereby congratulate the low-down, narrow-browed, mean, ugly, contemptible idiots who supported Schmeling in the betting."

Then there is the hick who thinks the baseball team of his town could defeat the world champions if it were not for stage fright.

I personally saw a man breaking a precedent today. He is saying nice things about his "boss," and says his boss deserves to do better in business. In this country it is not customary for an employee to say anything nice about his employer.

Patriotism! It should not be preached to a hungry man until after you have fed him.

This is the summer of cheap wheat and pert pajamas.

This is the year when to have no job is not to be disgraced.

During these times an aristocrat is a farmer whose farm is not mortgaged, or a man who has a steady job.

What has become of the old fashioned laborer or mechanic who paid $10 for a shirt?

John D. Rockefeller is quoted as saying, "I never knew a golfer who had a bad character."

There's something wrong about that quotation. Either John D. has played with a different kind of golfers from those I have been hooked up with, or they, out of respect for his years, have watched their language, or else John D. doesn't think a man's language is a gauge of his character.

A story is getting spread about our editor-jockey. It seems that he had a private workout Sunday morning as to his bronc riding proclivities. Clarence Scharbauer's sorrel cutter, laboring under too much good oats and not enough hard riding, chose to buck rather than to run when the editor took him on the track early Sunday morning. No eye witnesses were there but Timberline Floyd, down at his stables, heard the familiar sound of the hoofs as well as other noises which usually emanate from a bronc busting arena. The editor showed no signs of being picked up out of the dirt but he complained today of sore muscles in his arms and legs and it was noticed that a dun horse stood in the corral where the sorrel had been for the past few days. Cutter had gone back to the ranch.

Timberline Floyd has suggested that the horse should have been turned over to Hankins instead of being sent back to the country. I wonder why Timberline wants to get rid of Hankins.

G. K. Chesterton writes, "Most of the things that are done in the world are done by men who are not doing them for the first time."

BECOMES ACTOR WHEN HE DOES NOT LIKE WORK

Robert Burns, who has a prominent role in the Fox romance, Quick Millions, which comes today to the Ritz theatre, became an actor because he disliked hard manual labor.

Burns decided he didn't want to be a civil engineer and left the University of Arkansas in mid-term. He joined his brother in a vaudeville act that lasted just long enough to give Robert a taste of stage life.

Face to face with necessity, he took a job as a ranch hand, but quickly gave that up when he was offered an engagement with a Salt Lake City, Utah, stock company. During the war he organized a Marine jazz band, and after the armistice toured Europe with it. He invented a musical instrument called the "bazooka."

Later he was teamed with John Swor in a blackface act, and both were signed on a long term Fox contract.

Burns is a natural comedian, and injects many of the lighter moments into this picture in which he plays the part of a "yes man."

Others in the cast include Spencer Tracy, the star; Marguerite Churchill, Sally Eilers, John Wray, Warner Richmond and George Raft. Rowland Brown directed.

Do You Make the Most of Your Child's Intelligence?

Is he unusually bright? Is he quick, but careless and impulsive? Is he backward? Is he the "slow, but sure" variety? Is he "hand-minded"? Perhaps if you understand the sort of mental equipment he has, you may stimulate him by demanding his best and avoid discouraging him by expecting what is beyond him.

Suppose he is a bright, restless youngster: Do you fret because he is so active and in the process of investigating things makes the house look anything but neat? Or in your anxiety not to destroy his initiative, do you go to the other extreme of letting him unintelligently and indiscriminately put everything down so that the house "is a mess" and you find yourself getting tired and cross.

Is he a child who exasperates you because he doesn't finish the tasks you give him? Perhaps the tasks are too long. It is to give a variety of short tasks, so that he will be interested until each is completed. If he is not bright as the other children, do you forget that it is not his fault and that you must accommodate your demands to his speed and capabilities?

Loganberry Milk Punch 2-1/2 cups chilled loganberry juice, 2-1/2 cups ice water, 2 teaspoons sugar (more if desired), 11-3 cups chilled evaporated milk. Mix fruit juice, water and sugar and add to milk. Serve with whipped ice. Yield: 6 servings.

OBEDIENCE Perhaps you have not thought enough about what one must do to deserve the honor of a little child's trust and obedience.

Do you always keep your promise? If you were a child would you trust a person who deceived you? When trust is gone, obedience goes, too, or is given only because the other person is bigger and stronger. Do you show no favoritism among the children, expecting from each according to his ability and giving each according to his need?

Do you keep yourself from giving commands or punishing in anger? If you are angry the chances are that the child will be angry too, and do things he would not do if he were his best self.

Do you resist the temptation to make the child obey needless commands for the sake of showing your authority? A child knows when you are using authority unjustly and rebels against it if he has the self-respect that is normal even in a

Choice Cooks' Corner

Dixie Relish One quart chopped cabbage, 1 pint chopped onions, 1 pint chopped sweet red peppers, 1 pint chopped sweet green peppers, 4 tablespoons salt, 4 tablespoons mustard seed, 2 tablespoons celery seed, 3-4 cups sugar, 1 quart vinegar.

Soak the pepper in brine (1 cup to 1 gallon water) for 24 hours. Freshen in clear water for 1 to 2 hours. Drain. Remove seeds and course white sections. Chop separately and measure the chopped cabbage, peppers, and onions before mixing. Add spices, sugar and vinegar. Let stand over night covered in a crock or enamel vessel. Pack in sterilized jars. When ready to pack drain off the vinegar in order that the jar may be well packed. Press the relish carefully in jars. Pour over it the vinegar which was drained off. Use a wooden paddle to remove every bubble. Garnish each jar with 2 quarter inch pointed strips of red pepper in a vertical position on opposite sides of the jar. Be sure the seam of jar is at the back. Cap, clamp, and process for 15 minutes at the boiling temperature.

Loganberry Milk Punch 2-1/2 cups chilled loganberry juice, 2-1/2 cups ice water, 2 teaspoons sugar (more if desired), 11-3 cups chilled evaporated milk. Mix fruit juice, water and sugar and add to milk. Serve with whipped ice. Yield: 6 servings.

Do you consider the child's motive in what he does or solely whether the result is inconvenient for you? A child who makes a mistake trying to help is not naughty just because he happens to break something.

FIRE RESERVOIR FOUND QUINCY, Mass. (UP)—An artificial reservoir that used to supply water for fire-fighting in the days of the old hand tubs was found recently by workmen in Quincy Square. Fifteen feet square and 15 feet deep, the reservoir lay five feet below the street surface. The masonry was in a good state of preservation despite the heavy traffic that daily passed over it.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE STARTED WITH NICE CROWD

Three rather tight play-ground ball games were played in the city last evening, two of them resulting in a one-point decision, the other by a margin of two scores.

Two of the games were played in the Nocturne league, the other as the first attraction of the recently organized women's bi-city league. Good crowds were out at all encounters.

SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS Hope the little Co-Eds won't object when we say that Stanton second baseman from the All-Stardettes is one of the sweetest play-ground ball players we've seen this season.

Oyez! Mrs. Ruse needs a left handed glove for her guaranty of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness in the women's league.

The women are always pulling a new one. This time they have protected their perceptive shins from ultra-animated bats by establishing a rule that a batter is out when she goes on a rampage and slings the stick hither and yon.
