UNITED STATES CAN OFFER GERMANY NO MORE ASSISTANCE

TEUTONS BACKED TO WALL

Imminent Crash Seen In the Financial Structure

WASHINGTON, July 13. (UP)—Assistant Secretary of Treasury Ogden Mills said this morning that the United States government had gone as far as it could in relieving Germany's financial distress.

Crisis Faced BERLIN, July 13.—The German cabinet, in an all-day session Sunday, was considering the possibility of a sweeping decree to stave off financial disaster, in which it was expected the government would take over complete control of foreign exchange and also assume command of some of the country's most important banks.

Working against time and doubt about what may happen, the cabinet of Chancellor Heinrich Brüning was holding one conference throughout the day while a group of Germany's leading bankers also met to formulate proposals which might aid the government in reaching a solution.

Although the government's attention was almost entirely centered today upon the pressing problem of today, its thoughts and prayer at the same time went across the sea to President Hoover. The questions uppermost in the government's mind were whether President Hoover would once again rally to Germany's aid and whether he would be able to arrange the sorely needed long term credits after today's emergency is met without the necessity of Germany's giving up the political influence to which she clings.

The cabinet, it was understood, was informed late last night by legal experts, that the validity of the proposal to appoint a commissar of foreign exchange might decide the issue of its decree without providing for foreign exchange control and to adopt another decree regulating this phase of the country's difficulties.

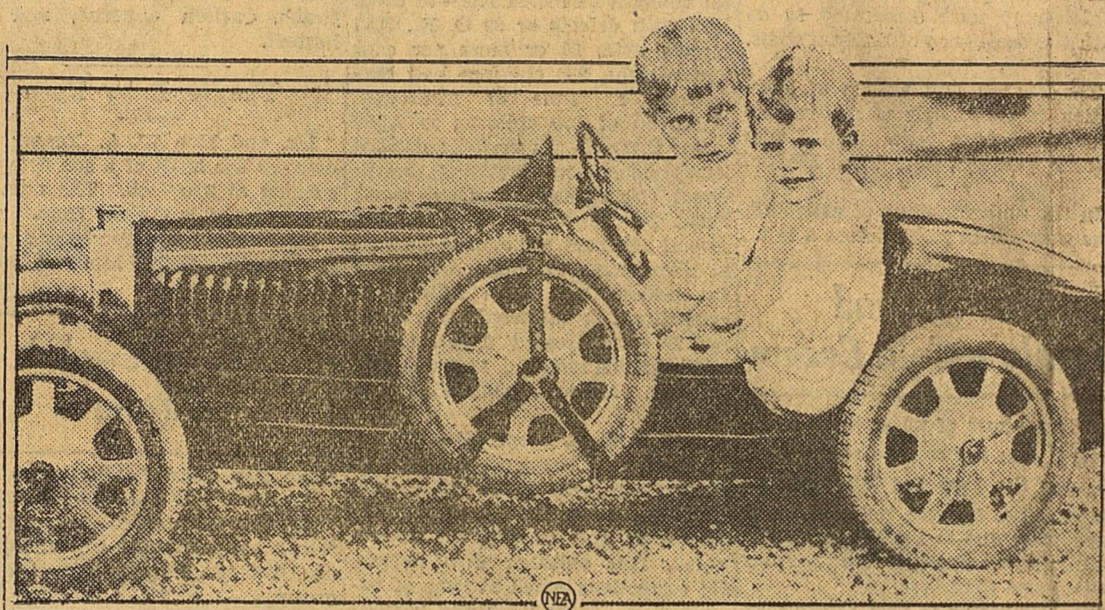

Midland Bull to Northern Shows

A Midland bull will go North this summer to show off. He is a son of a Prince Domino and Beau Blanchard bull, and was sold by John M. Gist to Joe Davidson for $1,000. Davidson will start a round of northern shows with this bull and others of his Ozona show herd in August.

Cowden Is High Official of Fair

Elliott F. Cowden is an honorary vice president of the Dallas State fair. The list includes prominent Texans and a few prominent men in other states. The official list reads: "Honorary Vice Presidents—Hon. E. F. Cowden, Midland, Texas." Cowden was a vice president last year.

They Want to Drive Like the Duce

Despite the diminutive proportions of their automobile, these youngsters have no worries about truck drivers or road hogs. They have the right-of-way, for they're children of Mussolini. Romano, 4, and Anna Maria, 2, youngest members of the family of the Italian Dictator, here are shown in the miniature car which they drive about the Mussolini estate at Forli, their father's birthplace. Romano, at the wheel (and just look at those Mussolini eyes!), wants to be a fast driver like his dad.

FORMER MIDLAND FLYER IS DEAD

UTILITIES HEAD IS PROMOTED TO FT. WORTH POST

Promotion of Kenneth E. Ambrose, district manager of the Southern Ice & Utilities company, from his post here to managerial duties with the same company's Fort Worth properties has been announced by officials of the company.

J. S. Mitchell, who has had considerable experience in managing ice companies in Florida, will arrive here soon as successor to Ambrose. The latter will remain in Midland for a short time to be associated with Mitchell in his new position, leaving for Fort Worth the second week in August.

Construction of a large and modern ice manufacturing plant here and expansion of the company's holdings in Stanton, Odessa, Wink, Poyte, Monahans, Grand Falls and Andrews were brought about during Ambrose's management in this area.

Immediately upon his removal to Midland he was named to fill a vacancy on the board of directors of the chamber of commerce and has been a director during the entire period of his residence here. He is at present vice president of the organization and has been engaged on the aeronautics committee, one of the most important and most active branches of the chamber's work.

Ambrose was charter vice president of the Midland Rotary club, has been song leader of the club throughout most of its history, and has served on its board of directors. He has been one of the chief workers in Boy Scout activities here, having served as vice president and regional chairman of the Buffalo Trails scout council.

Mrs. Ambrose and their two sons, Kenneth Jr. and Jack, likewise have been active in social, religious and civic work here. They will leave with Mr. Ambrose at the time of his departure for his new position at Fort Worth.

OFFICER AT AIRPORT

Lieut. Thad B. Foster, airways officer of the Eighth corps area, landed at Sloan field this morning in a Douglas plane, on one of the stops on his periodical inspection tour of the area. He expected to land at Dallas this afternoon.

Body Cremated; Pilot Killed at Same Time

Chester Bailes, 32, airman who flew the Midland to Sweetwater extension of the Safeway airline a few months past, was killed Sunday in Chicago and his body burned, when his plane fell off on a wing at an elevation of 700 feet and crashed on Municipal airport.

William Warren, 22, San Antonio flyer, was killed, also. The two had just taken the air in a plane belonging to the Detroit Aircraft corporation, but loaned to the Braniff Airlines, Inc., for use on the Kansas City-Chicago route of the Braniff Airlines.

Bailes' ship was hit by a taxying airline of the Century airlines, a few minutes before, and had orders from Paul Braniff to fly the ship to Detroit for repairs. It is believed that impact of the cowling and on one wing of the plane contributed to the motor of the craft falling when he had got off the field. He tried to bank the ship and put back on the field, but was down wind and insufficient flying speed to execute the turn.

Bailes was recognized as one of the finest flyers to ever fly a ship out of Midland. He made a round trip over the Midland-Sweetwater leg of the Safeway route each day while here, and was domiciled in Midland.

The flyer made a remarkable landing in Sweetwater to end his flying over this route. In attempting to land in that city, he struck his undercarriage on a pole near the field, dropping a wheel from his Lockheed-Vega monoplane. Realizing danger to his passengers was great, he gunned the craft and flew several miles to an alfalfa field and set the ship down on one wheel. It nosed over to no injury to passengers, except for shock.

He had more than 3,000 solo hours to his credit, collected since 1925. He was chief pilot for Braniff. He had been making his home in Kansas City recently. His widow and two small children survive.

Field Manager Harold Becherer of the Midland airport paid tribute to the personal and flying qualities of the dead aviator today.

"Bailes was a gentleman and a good flyer," he said. "He was a strong personal friend of mine and his loss to the aviation industry is keenly felt by numerous flyers who knew him."

Corporation Name Here Is Funniest

Revival of conversation about corporations, heard among humorists here a few months ago, occurred at the country club Sunday afternoon when a foursome, about to drive off, was announced as "Thomas, Seymour, Legg and Howe."

Visitors from other cities, here to witness or participate in the Sand Belt golf tournament, took up the title and before long it was heard over the entire course.

Plans for organizing a corporation known as Seymour-Legg fell through here a few months ago when arguments arose as to taking in a third member.

Congressman to Be Midland Visitor

Congressman R. E. Thomason will visit friends in Midland the latter part of this week, according to a letter received from him by Midland constituents. The congressman will be accompanied by his wife. He said he would be glad to confer with Midland people regarding federal problems while here.

Helpful Signs Seen for Silver

LONDON. (UP)—A marked improvement of conditions in the silver industry in the autumn of 1931 is forecast by financial experts.

Two helpful signs have been noted. They are: A falling off of production in the first quarter of 1931 by 11,000,000 ounces as against 1930; continental sales of demonetized silver are virtually completed.

In addition, the hope is advanced that the end of the economic depression will be in sight within a few months, thus providing the industry a fresh tonic.

The production slump was especially cheering to those who have watched prices drop steadily for two years until, on February 9, 1931, they touched 11 15-16 pence an ounce, the lowest in history. It was estimated that if the present voluntary restriction in production is maintained a total of 40,000,000 more ounces of silver will remain underground in 1931 than in 1930.

Brokers said, despite the fall in silver prices, there had been few speculators in the market. The range in prices was so small, one explained, that it made speculation impracticable.

BOILER SPARKS IGNITE

Vitek Well Fire Is Biggest, Newest In Etex

OVERTON, July 13. (UP)—Paul Vitek, 40, owner of the burning Overton well, died in the hospital here this morning from burns received when the well became ignited.

OVERTON, July 13. (UP)—Efforts were made to extinguish the burning Vitek Oil company's well, East Texas' latest and biggest oil fire, while funeral plans were prepared for Joe Wedemeyer, 20.

Two more victims were in hospitals suffering with burns. Paul Vitek, owner of the well, and J. H. Anderson were burned. Wedemeyer and Vitek were walking near the well as it was being washed in. Suddenly it caught fire from a boiler spark. Vitek ran and Wedemeyer stumbled into a slush pit.

The body was lassoed from the flames by Ranger J. H. Sadler. It is expected that Floyd Kinley, Tulsa, conqueror of two previous East Texas fires, will be summoned.

FRENCH PLANE CRUISING ON WAY TO TOKYO

MOSCOW, July 13. (UP)—The French aviators, Joseph Lebrax and Marcel Doret, were cruising rapidly over Siberia in their airplane Hyphen, eastward from Paris to Tokyo in an attempt to break the non-stop distance record.

The route lay over the hazardous course followed by Post and Gatty in the world flight.

The distance is about 6,200 miles. The flyers expect to complete the flight in 60 hours.

Melon Growers Say Aphis Ruins Crop

Complaints of watermelon growers of Midland county that vines are being attacked by aphis led the Midland chamber of commerce to seek data on combating the insects. The Weatherford chamber of commerce writing from a land of watermelons cites the following official United States department of agriculture methods of killing aphis:

"The watermelon is subject to attack by numerous insects, but of these only the melon aphis, striped cucumber beetle, and squashvine borer are considered enemies of primary importance.

"The melon aphis does much harm to the growing plant in reducing its vitality and deforming the leaves. The presence of plant lice is shown by 'honeydew,' and excretion of the insects and by the presence of large numbers of ants or ladybird beetles. When the melon aphis becomes more abundant, the leaves are curled and the growth of the plant is greatly retarded. Since leaves of the affected plant should be examined for plant lice. For the control of the melon aphis, nicotine sulphate applied as a spray has given very successful results. This material which contains 40 per cent nicotine sulphate by weight, should be combined in the proportion of 1 part of the commercial nicotine sulphate of 1,000 parts water, according to the following formula:

"Nicotine sulphate (40 per cent) 3-3 pint; soap, 2 pounds; water, 50 gallons."

"If possible, fish-oil soap should be used."

"If possible, fish-oil soap should be used."

MIDLAND MAKES COMPLETE SWEEP OF SAND BELT GOLF ASSOCIATION PLAY HELD AT COUNTRY CLUB ON SUNDAY

True to the prophetic hunch of several hereabouts, Big Spring golfers found the excruciating traps and bunkers of country club a bit tough Sunday, and Midland swept clean the Sand Belt association matches.

The score was 36-8, the second time this year local iron tamers have swept all match points except those allowed for "being present."

While reports of the Lamesa-Snyder match had not come in, it was learned that Texon defeated Colorado, by two points, which placed the Texon club about eight points in the association lead. It was generally believed that reports of the Lamesa-Snyder tournament, might lift Midland to fourth place in the standings.

In the first flight, J. Ellis Cowden, with a 75, won 1 up from Robbins, who shot a 76. Their match was closely contested all the way. Frank Day won from Whitesides, 3 and 1. He shot an 82, his opponent shooting an 85.

In flight two, C. L. Jackson won from Porter, 6 and 5. "Jack" shot a 77, Porter a 90. Billy Moran, with a 90, won from Wasson, who had a 96, 4 and 3.

H. S. Forgeron, with an 83, won from Bonham, 93, 6 and 4, and Delo Douglas, 89, beat West, 94, 4 and 2. Flight four resulted in Chambers, 88, beating Griffith, 94, 4 and 3; and Hoey, 65, won from Cunningham, 108, 8 and 7.

Race Fans To Be Jury In Father and Son Argument

Stable chatter invariably leads to one topic, viz, which can run the faster, "This'n" or "That'n." Too much chatter around the Floyd stables got B. W. (Timberline) Floyd to making rash statements this morning concerning the speed of one bay five year old mare who goes by the name of Spring.

"Anything in the barn can out-run her in the quarter," Jay Floyd, who rides 'em and knows 'em, declared. "Old Red Wing can't out-run her," Timberline held out. (See RACE FANS page 4)

Ambulance Plane Lands in Midland; Teeth Swallowed

EL PASO, July 13. (UP)—Strapped into a hurriedly borrowed parachute and half choked by two false teeth he had swallowed, Private Olaf Nelson, 30, Fort Bliss soldier, was en route Washington today in an army ambulance plane.

The dash across the country to save the soldier's life started after attempts to remove the teeth at the hospital here failed.

The surgeons at the Walter Reed hospital in Washington were ordered to be ready to perform a delicate operation when the plane arrives.

Nelson swallowed the teeth Saturday at breakfast. They lodged halfway down the throat. Local surgeons failed in an attempt to sever a wire holding

OIL ROW AIMED AT BY THEM

Howsley Bill May Be Introduced Again, It Is Thought

AUSTIN, July 13. (UP)—Legislators and oil operators gathered here today for the special session called by Governor Sterling to consider the oil situation which operators regard desperate.

Groups of oil men of Austin, Dallas and Wichita Falls were putting the finishing touches on a half dozen bills, all of which have as the object curbing the state's immense production which the new East Texas field has sent to nearly a million barrels daily, the greatest attained by a single state in the history of petroleum.

The Howsley bill to put teeth in proration, which failed to get attention at the last session, is expected to appear again in revised form.

Indications were seen from some sources that the governor's desire for a separate conservation commission might meet opposition.

The present six-cent prices for crude are the lowest since the advent of the automobile.

Lanky and Fat Ones Stage Race

Barney Grafa and Frank Stubbenman won a two-man relay race over the 100 yards Saturday night from "Slim" Newton and C. W. Post, in connection with a Lions benefit given on Pagoda diamond of the Night Playground Ball league.

In the fat man's race, the Rev. Edwin C. Calhoun "walked away" from M. F. Peters, when the game company manager fumbled the handkerchief in their race.

A playground ball game between two all-star women's teams resulted in a 24-14 win for the Blues over the Reds.

More than $20 was turned into the Lions club wading pool fund.

RUSSIA'S NEW STEP

Probably the most notable thing about Stalin's recent demand for a modification of the rule of strict Communism in Russian industry is the fact that it signifies the re-appearance of individualism in Russia.

Heretofore the individual has had no place in Russia. The American tenet that all men are created equal has been accepted with an awful literalness. Communism's deal man has looked very much like the robot.

Now, however, comes compromise—one more in the long series of compromises wherein pure and undefiled Marxism has made shift to get along in an evil capitalistic world.

Russian workers, henceforth, are to be paid according to the work they do and not according to their needs. The skilled worker, hereafter, is to be paid more than the unskilled worker. The man who is a devout Communist will not be promoted over the head of the non-Communist unless he can show that he is actually a better man for the job. The factory manager must show an ability to run his plant at a profit.

All of this is deeply significant. The dead level of uniformity aimed at by Communism is still non-existent. Even in Russia there are men who are more capable than their fellows. The individual, after all, is to get his chance.

In England there has been a tendency to hail Stalin's pronouncements as a tacit admission of the failure of Communism. Probably this is going farther than the facts warrant. What does seem to be evident, however, is that Communism, to succeed, must borrow more and more from capitalist practice. It is not at all unlikely that in the long run it will borrow so heavily and compromise so completely that Marx or Lenin would not be able to recognize it as Communism at all.

FOR SIMPLER GOVERNMENT

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's complaint about the multiplicity of governmental organizations in America raises a question that is bound to engage more and more of our consideration in the next decade or so.

In New York state alone, as he points out, there are no fewer than 13,544 separate, independent governmental units, all of which can and do levy and spend tax money. One citizen can live under the dominance of ten tax levying and spending units.

Obviously, some sort of sweeping reorganization is in order. An enormous amount of simplification of the government structure could be effected, and with it there should be great economies in expenditure.

So far the ordinary citizen has not worried about it greatly. But taxes continue to rise, in most places, year by year. Let them rise only a little higher and the ordinary citizen will discover that he has a direct and powerful interest in simplified governmental machinery.

TWO LIKABLE FLYERS

Somehow, the more one sees of Post and Gatty, the round-the-world flyers, the better one likes them.

There was something especially appealing about Post's remark that he has had more than enough transoceanic flights to last him the rest of his life. His explanation that one simple flight back to Oklahoma home will satisfy his urge for long-distance flying for a long time to come strikes a responsive chord.

After all, there were thrills for the two men on that first flight that they will never be able to duplicate. Flying over the Atlantic once, for all its dangers, can be fun; doing it again can be downright foolhardiness. Post and Gatty are perfectly ready to admit it. Their countrymen will like them all the better for the admission.

Side Glances by Clark

"I'm always afraid I'll be in such perfect health that I'll become uninteresting looking."

Daily Washington Letter By Rodney Dutcher

One of Washington's Vigorous Old Men Is Joseph E. Ransdell Who, After 30 Years in Congress, Shuns Life of Retirement to Direct Conference Board of National Health Institute.

WASHINGTON.—Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana, who lost his Senate seat last year to young Huey Long after more than 30 years in congress, slid out of politics into what seems like a happy ending for a life now in its seventy-third year.

This old southern gentleman with the little white whisker of a beard did not retire to his plantation to spend his days in bitterness, obscurity and possibly poverty. He stayed on in Washington, but he is neither a lame duck appointee nor a corporation lobbyist as so many of his old colleagues have become after being voted out of office.

He really is a lobbyist, but a lobbyist for a cause which was his favorite hobby for many years and the kind of a cause for which everyone is willing to cheer. In fact, when this work which old Joe Ransdell began and is still furthering stands completed, he is likely to have a monument which will outshine anything associated with whom he served in the House or Senate.

His Job Ransdell is now executive director of the Conference Board of the National Institute of Health. The board's purpose—and Ransdell's job—is to promote the institute, to get people so interested in it that philanthropists and Congress will give it enough money to make it an enormous, effective and complete laboratory which will "study the cause, prevention and cure of every disease of man." The board is privately endowed. The laboratory of the U. S. Public Health Service, with a present research staff of 150 persons, financed both federally and privately.

Ransdell talks about the institute with the enthusiasm of an excited boy. Politics requires a diversification of interest and effort, but the institute is his life work now. It was Ransdell who introduced five years ago the bill passed last year by which Congress changed the Hygienic Laboratory into the National Institute of Health, gave $750,000 for new buildings and authorized the secretary of the treasury to accept—as he may for the Smithsonian Institution and Library of Congress—gifts for extension of the institute and its work.

In his last Senate speech Ransdell urged Congress to be generous to the institute, describing it "as the greatest altruistic institution the world has ever known." Now he says he hopes to live to see the day when it will be endowed to the extent of $500,000,000. No solicitations are being made, but Ransdell undertakes to get the word out in every possible way that here is the worthiest imaginable cause. More than $2,500,000 has been contributed.

The Hygienic Laboratory scientists were charged with investigating infectious and contagious diseases and public health matters. They made many valuable discoveries—often at great personal risk, suffering or even loss of life—about such diseases as malaria, pellagra, hookworm, typhoid, undulant fever, parrot fever and Rocky Mountain spotted fever as well as about fundamental chemical problems.

Tackle Every Disease Now, as the staff of the institute, they explore the whole field of human disease. They will tackle everything from cancer and heart disease to common colds—every problem of human health. As money becomes available, Ransdell explains, Washington will become the world's greatest health and medical research center and under command of the surgeon general a great army of experts in medicine, surgery, dentistry, psychiatry, chemistry, physics and all allied sciences will labor for human happiness, longevity and comfort.

Ransdell says his first public health measure in Congress was the one 25 years ago which ticks the eradication of cattle ticks which were costing cow owners $750,000,000 a year. Another Ransdell bill in 1917 led to establishment of the National Leprosarium at Carville, La., where Ransdell proudly observes, lepers are now being completely cured.

STICKERS

The five big circles represent planets. All of the small circles are stars and there are 81, five of them being hidden by the planets. As the stars and planets now stand, every star but the black ones, is on a straight line, horizontally, vertically or diagonally, with one or more of the planets. Can you rearrange the planets so that every star will be on a straight line with one or another of the planets? Each planet may be moved as far as you like, but only in one direction. The planets will, of course, obscure five other stars than those now covered.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

A loving county oil operator is optimistic about the price of oil. He says they can't cut it more than a dime a barrel any more. There's some consolation in his plight.

Decrying the cut in oil prices as a crude joke, one writer figures it out that one barrel of lubricating oil will pay for 700 barrels of crude.

An oil man, taking the check for two cups of coffee, offered a barrel of oil in settlement but the coffee shop owner was afraid the price would be cut again before he could market the crude. Coffee prices are more stable, he said.

Some of you old timers may remember a fellow who used to be here, Jack Hazeltine. Well, he's Even a draftsman, in times like these, would have difficulty in drawing up plans for a vacation.

The United States may have the reputation of being tight-fisted in Europe, but there's no denying that our aviators "come across."

When John D. Rockefeller, on his 92nd birthday, said, "I'll beat 100," he was referring, of course, to his age, not his golf score.

Blonde Nordic Girl Never Goes Around Beauty Shops; Uses Only a Cold Cream

Leading photographers and illustrators are unanimous in acclaiming Greta Nissen, who portrays the leading feminine role in Raoul Walsh's Fox production, "Women of All Nations," the most beautiful and natural blonde of the screen. Yet, Miss Nissen has never stepped her foot into a beauty parlor and with the exception of ordinary cold cream has never aided nature with the use of cosmetics.

It is also interesting to note that though Miss Nissen has blonde tresses that are the envy of every woman in the film colony she has never permitted any one to dress her hair. Miss Nissen's charms may be seen at the showing of "Women of All Nations," at the Ritz theatre. This photoplay depicts the further adventures of leatherstockings, "Flag and Quirt" with Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe carrying on from where they left off in "The Cock Eyed World."

El Brendel, who was first seen on the screen in "The Cock-Eyed World," is present in the new film, and in his same character, a Swedish Marine.

During the unfolding of the story, "Flag and Quirt" are seen in Nicaragua, Panama, Brooklyn, Sweden and Turkey, fighting over the dames of those countries.

Miss Nissen, of course, causes them the most heart aches and head aches yet Piffi Dorsay, Marjorie White and Joyce Compton cause their hearts to miss several beats, too.

Weakness in Legs, Dizziness, Bring Warning of Heat Stroke BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIN Editor, Journal of American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Heat stroke occurs not only in tropical countries but in the temperate countries with considerable moisture.

Since the very earliest times it has been known that high temperatures can affect human beings. The Bible describes the case of a child of a Shulamite woman in Kings 2, chapter 4, from verse 18 onwards. According to this story a child complained to his father of his head when out with the reapers. The child was carried to his mother and is reported to have died at 12 noon, but to have recovered under treatment by Elisha, which seems to have been in the nature of massage. According to modern scientific knowledge the child probably became unconscious or passed into coma as a form of heat exhaustion and recovered when its circulation was stimulated by active rubbing. It is reported that miners treat those who faint when coming out of the mine by the same type of friction.

In Chicago in 1917 hundreds of people suffered heat stroke, apparently due to the wearing of tight and heavy clothing and the taking of too little water at a time of very high temperature and summer heat. In heat stroke, it is the heat rays of the sun and not the ultraviolet rays that are responsible. The constant exposure of high temperature

FIREMEN GET HOT IN LAST INNING AND BEAT PLEASANT VIEW TEAM; E. BIZZELL EASES UP AT LAST MINUTE

Elmer Bizzell made the old mistake of easing up in the last inning yesterday after he apparently had a ball game in the well known "sack." His first error was in placing himself and Osborne in as pinch hitters. Osborne got a walk but with a man on third and one on first and third the manager swung on the first ball pitched to hit into an easy double play. He then placed himself on short and Osborne on second and both men let balls go by them that Woody and Jones might have fielded.

At the beginning of the last half of the ninth Pleasant Valley was leading by the score of 7-2, but before a Fireman was retired six runs had been scored and the Fire boys had won the game, 8-7.

After Simpson reached first on Heath's error, the next four men up hit or walked and Bud Osborne went from second base to the mound. The first man to face him was Joe Robinson and Joe greeted him with a screaming double to center field to bring in the tying run. Bizzell then called on Roderick of the Ice-men to pitch for him and Walker hit for a long single to bring in the winning run.

Carroll Hill gave up but three hits until the ninth and should have retired the side then with good support.

Osborne was the losing hurler even though he only pitched to one man. He gave up the tying run and left the winning run on base.

There was no less than ten extra blows in the game. Teal, J. Jones, Stevens, Robinson, Walker and Warren got one double each while Estes got two. L. Jones and Kinnikin each got a three-ple blow.

GOLF as the STARS play it by ART KRENZ

Why must the club be taken back slowly?

When the term "slow back" is heard, it refers to the club being taken back moderately slow. A slow backswing insures good balance which is one of the most important elements in the execution of a perfect golf shot. If the player hurries his club back, he has a tendency to start the downswing before the backswing is completed. He may lunge at the ball and at the moment of impact he may be way ahead of it. The result probably is a sliced or dubbed shot.

amount, coupled with what will result from the race card being arranged at Cowboy park for next week, should take much of the financial load off those who underwrote the Lions project.

"She can too," Jay said in the proper tone a son must use in arguing with his father.

Whereupon a quarter mile race will be run Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, the public cordially invited, between Red Wing and Spring, two of Jay Floyd's recent relay mares. Astride Red Wing will be Jay himself and Spring will be piloted by Jockey Paul Barron who was the only witness to the Floyd family argument.

"Tell 'em all to come out and see the race," Floyd senior said. "There won't be any admission charge and we want everybody who likes some fun to witness this." This late hour of 7 o'clock Wednesday was set so that store employees and those who work late can get out to see the match.

be used, but in the absence of this, laundry soap gives good results. The amount of soap required to give proper "spreading" of the spray mixture varies with the quality of water, more soap being required in "hard" water. When the spray draws up in drops and runs from the leaves more soap should be added. The value of the spraying depends largely on the thoroughness of the application. Since the melon aphids feeds on the under sides of the leaves, it is important that the under portion of the leaves be thoroughly coated with the spray material. The necessary underspray is best obtained by using an angle nozzle.

"Another very promising method of control consists in dusting the plant with 2 per cent nicotine dust, at the rate of 30 to 45 pounds to the acre. Recent experiments in New Jersey show that this dust is more effective when dolomitic limestone (finely ground calciummagnesium limestone) is used for the carrier for the nicotine sulphate. The dust is best applied when the temperature is high and the air is relatively quiet. As a general rule, these conditions are found in the morning, after the dew is off. Nicotine dust should not be applied to wet foliage since this retards the volatilization of the nicotine or its conversion into gas, which kills the insects.

"The use of nicotine dust for the control of the melon aphid is preferable to a spray when both materials are available, but it is difficult to properly mix the nicotine dust in large quantities without special equipment. For this reason most growers will still find it preferable to control the melon aphid with a spray. Since spraying is expensive, it will at times be found profitable to add Bordeaux mixture to nicotine-sulphate spray in order to prevent disease injury and to apply both insecticide and fungicide in one operation. Such a spray should always be applied to the under-surface of the foliage."

San Angelo Still Sheepman Capital
