TRANSATLANTIC PLANES ARE REPORTED OVER IRELAND TODAY

VALENCIA PREVIOUSLY REPORTED

Lindy off; Graf Is Successful in Landing

LONDON, July 29. (UP).—Two planes, one flown by Clyde Pangburn and Hugh Herndon Jr. on an attempted world flight to beat the Post-Gatty mark, and the other by Russell Boardman and John Polando on an attempted nonstop flight to Turkey, are believed to have passed over Dublin at 10 a. m. central time.

The two planes were previously heard passing over Valencia, Ireland.

Weather conditions over the ocean and eastern Europe were good.

Lindy's Off NEW YORK, July 29. (UP).—Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh took off for North Haven at 1:55 this afternoon.

Graf Over Arctic FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, July 29. (UP).—The Graf Zeppelin today is believed to be cruising swiftly over the Arctic ice toward the north pole.

Occasional radio contacts indicated the vessel is steadily proceeding. According to advance plans the ship made contact yesterday with the Soviet icebreaker, Malign, which is the outstanding fulfillment of the ship's schedule.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commanding the zeppelin on her arctic cruise, notified the zeppelin works by radio Tuesday that the dirigible landed briefly in the bay off Hooker Island, Franz Josef land.

For 13 minutes she rested near the Russian icebreaker Malign.

NEW YORK, July 29. (UP).—Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, radio operator for her husband on the pleasure trip to the Orient, made additional tests of the plane's transmitter today before the couple resumed their trip.

Lindbergh did not indicate whether they would fly today to North Haven, Maine, home of Mrs. Lindbergh's father, where they were bound yesterday when forced down by a thunderstorm, or continue to Ottawa, the first Canadian stop.

Man's Tomb Opened To Find Receipt

GENOA, Italy. (UP).—Giambattista Pittaluga was so successful in bill collecting that he forced a window to open the tomb of her husband to find a receipt for a loan he was trying to collect.

The police questioned the widow and placed her under provisional liberty, under the charge of grave-robbing. She said she was attempting to obtain a receipt for 10,500 lire loan from Pittaluga, which she says she paid and which Pittaluga says she didn't.

GANGDOM ASSASSINS KILL CHILD, WOUND FOUR OTHERS IN A FUTILE ATTEMPT TO PUT RIVAL ON SPOT

NEW YORK, July 29. (UP).—Machine gunners for warring beer gangsters last night killed Michael Vengelli, 5, and wounded four other youngsters who were playing in the street of an Italian tenement district here.

The intended victim was hiding behind the children and escaped unhurt when gangsters opened fire from an automobile.

Michael died this morning. His brother, Salvatore, 7, had given him a blood transfusion. Michael Bevilacqua, 4, riding in a baby carriage, may die from wounds in the thigh.

The beer war, which resulted in the shootings, is believed to have been caused by federal raids which closed two Manhattan breweries, stopping the supply to thousands of speakeasies.

3-8 EVENT IS FEATURE OF PROGRAM

Three Favorites to Thrill Fans in One Event

Twelve will compete in four races when the Jelly-Bean jockeys run against the Floyd stables at 6:30 this evening at Cowboy park. The race is a benefit event, proceeds from the 25 cent admission fee going to cost of constructing the Lions club wading pool at Cloverdale.

Three horses, pitted against each other in the three-eighths race, are expected to furnish for the stands one of the fastest events seen on the local track this season. All three are money winners, well bred and known to all racing fans. Maude

While saddles are being changed, between the three-eighths race and the one-eighth race, four boys will run a burro race for the hundred yards. Entries are as follows: Billy Hiett riding Adam's Apple, Rudolph McQuatters riding Gotta Be Good, Odell Ponder riding Walk-A-Mile and Claude Chandler riding Narry a Cough. Each jockey is 13 years old.

F. of the Floyd stables; George Keith, of the Clarence Scharbauer string and Piccolo Pete, dun three year old belonging to Booger Bryant, will contend for first place in this race.

There will be four races on the program, starting promptly at 6:30 and being completed within from 6:40 to 45 minutes.

The first event is a Midland riding club matched race for the quarter mile, Miss Lady Faye Scott, riding Bobcat against Ralph Geisler riding Paint. Both horses are mounts of the Floyd stables.

Five to Run Quarter The second race is for the quarter mile, with five entries, as follows: No. 1, T. Paul Barron, riding Clarence Scharbauer's Fort Worth Dun; No. 2, Harry Roberts, riding Alvin Roberts' Flapper Fanny; No. 3, Dutch Mayfield, riding Floyd's Maude F; No. 4, Dr. Ratliff, riding Booger Bryant's Miss Medlin; No. 5, Chas. Yonge, riding Jewell's Golden Dreamer.

The third event, for three-eighths, has three entries; No. 1, Norman Woody, riding Booger Bryant's Piccolo Pete; No. 2, Gerald Bloss, riding Clarence Scharbauer's George Keith; No. 3, Dutch Mayfield, riding Floyd's Maude F.

Run Short Heat The fourth race is for one-eighth of a mile, with three entries: No. 1, Dutch Mayfield, riding Floyd's Spring; No. 2, Jay H. Floyd, riding Floyd's Red Wing; No. 3, T. Paul Barron, riding Clarence Scharbauer's Fort Worth Dun.

Programs of the races were being circulated over the business section of Midland today by committees of the Lions club. M. M. Seymour and Marion Peters will be in charge of the gate; Harry L. Haight, James P. Harrison and Allen Tolbert are judges and Elliott F. Cowden and Foy Proctor are starters.

SMUGGLERS ARM With Ice Picks

EL PASO, (UP).—A variety of weapons is used by the liquor smugglers, but the ice pick is about as effective as any when it comes to a fight in close quarters, border patrolmen claim.

A collection of curious types of weapons has been seized by border patrolmen. These weapons range from nail pullers to ice picks, with a small number of obsolete pistols. Occasionally, however, remarkably good firearms are taken from smugglers and persons seeking to enter the United States illegally. The ice pick is sometimes sharpened to a needle's point.

Persons seeking to enter the country illegally usually arm themselves with some sort of weapon, border patrolmen report. But it is believed that most illegal entries carry weapons more for moral support than anything else. Few of them would use them except when they have an absolute advantage over the officers.

They will be located along a route north of Lansing to the Straits of Mackinac, and then across the upper peninsula to Ironwood.

Testimony Against Oil Proration Given Today

AUSTIN, July 29. (UP).—Expert testimony against proration was given in the senate today by Ben C. Bell, chief geologist of the Gulf Production company.

The testimony offered to refute that of E. V. Foran, technical adviser of the central advisory proration committee, who said that all East Texas wells were interrelated and letting some run wide open would result in the recovery of less oil than all wells would from orderly production.

Bell said this could be true only in event that one body of sand underlies all the wells. He said in that case all wells would not be interrelated.

SCARFACE AL TO HEAR SENTENCE IN A FEW HOURS

CHICAGO, July 29. (UP).—Today was Scarface Al Capone's last full day of liberty.

Within 24 hours he will hear Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson announce the sentence, punishing him for engaging in a gigantic liquor conspiracy which put millions in his pockets and for failing to pay income taxes.

Capone pleaded guilty on both charges and was allowed a stay of sentence to permit him to adjust business affairs.

LLOYD GEORGE SERIOUSLY ILL AT LONDON HOME

LONDON, July 29. (UP).—David Lloyd George, 68, Liberal leader and wartime premier, was critically ill today after a severe operation at his London home.

Lord Dawson of Penn, King George's physician, performed the operation for kidney trouble.

Pastors Play Role In Liquor Case

BRECKENRIDGE, (UP).—With a retired Baptist minister as foreman of the jury and a retired Methodist minister as the defendant's star witness, a liquor case tried in district court here ended in acquittal for B. D. Frost.

A. J. Morgan, former pastor of the First Baptist church here, headed the jury which found Frost not guilty of a charge of possession of whisky.

The Rev. J. J. Rape, retired Methodist minister of Weatherford, took the stand and testified as to the defendant's character and to the fact that Frost had worn a mustache and spectacles for a number of years.

An important prosecution witness had testified that the man he saw driving the car found to contain intoxicants wore neither glasses nor a mustache.

Frost claimed that his car was stolen while on a trip to Fort Worth and driven to Breckenridge loaded with whisky.

VETS WARNED ABOUT EUROPE

PARIS. (UP).—Benjamin Franklin Post, 605, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has sent out a request to the veterans' monthly publication in America to warn all ex-service men about coming to Europe with insufficient funds. It wants them especially warned about the folly of coming over with the intention of finding employment, for work is very hard to find here. Most of the men who do come over, and find themselves without resources, become dependent upon American organizations already overburdened with relief cases.

POLO, SWIMMING, DIVING AND BAND MUSIC AS SCOUTS GATHER AT PAGODA

By SCOUT SCRIBE

Boy scout Troops 52 and 54 set a good example for the other troops of the city to follow when they had their meeting at Pagoda pool Tuesday evening for a matched polo game, diving and swimming contests. The main purpose of this meeting at Pagoda was to begin training in events in which they plan to enter in August when 500 scouts from over the Buffalo Trail council will meet here for the annual water carnival.

In a snappy four-quarter polo match, Troop 52 won, 2-0. Brenne-mann of Troop 52 and Campbell of Troop 3, Big Spring, playing with 52, were outstanding in speed, being the first to reach the ball every time. Baugher, of 54, usually met them there and the battle began. Howe, Jones, Chandler, and Howell of 52 also played good polo as did White, Cole, Mitchell, Ponder, Cope, Dorsey, Thomas, Walters and Hiett of 54. Troop 54 had more substitutes to run in, while 52 played older and more advanced scouts. Each of these troops is ready to accept a challenge from any other group in the city.

In free-style swimming, Campbell of Big Spring placed first, but points went to Brenne-mann of 52, Campbell not being a resident scout. Second place went to Baugher of 54. Side stroke points went to Baugher, 54; Brenne-mann, 52, and White, 54. Back stroke also went to Baugher, Brenne-mann and White. Underwater swimming across the pool, a distance of 20 yards went to Brenne-mann, 52; and Cole, 54. Mitchell, 54, Howell, 54, and Jones, 52, placed for the American crawl. Brenne-mann of 52 was the only one to qualify in the swan dive. The jack knife dive went to Brenne-mann, 52, White, 54, and Jones, 52. The back dive went to White, 54, Brenne-mann, 52, and Jones, 52. The straight dive to Brenne-mann, 52, and Cole, 54. Dives from the swing went to Brenne-mann and Jones of 52. Troop 52 scored 29 points, and Troop 54, 24 points.

The contests were good demonstrations of training, but there is room for improvement, according to scoutmasters. In last year's carnival, Troop 51 of Midland kept first honors at home, and Troop 1 of Big Spring took second honors home with them. These same troops will show much improvement over last year and are after more points than ever. The other troops over the council are going to deal much competition for these places.

AIR LINES' INCOME

WASHINGTON.—Commercial air transportation has grown into a business taking in an annual income of $25,000,000 a year, the Aeronautics Branch of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce reports. Mail contractors are receiving from the government $20,000,000 annually. Passenger and express traffic accounts for the remainder.

There never was a time when it was more important to keep a Republican at the head of this government.—Mrs. Edward Everett Gann.

SHERIFF SHOT BY THE MAN

Wounded Negro Says Criminal White Did Firing

TEXARKANA, July 29. (UP).—Heavily armed posses today searched thickets southwest of here for a moonshiner who, late yesterday, shot to death Sheriff Walter Harris as he led a raid on a still. It is believed he is surrounded.

Joe Watson, 19, negro, who was found in the underbrush wounded, told officers that a white man with a criminal record fired the fatal shots.

Gunfire blazed from bushes as Harris approached the still accompanied by three deputies. The sheriff shot into the bushes until he fell with a bullet in his head.

A 100-gallon still was found hidden by vines in the underbrush. Fire was still burning and two cases of liquor had been run off when the officers arrived.

Feeling Runs High

Felling ran high among the citizens. Groups not engaged in the search for Harris' slayer congregated about the Miller county jail to wait reports of developments in the search. Others visited the hospital to learn the condition of the wounded negro youth.

A tense situation developed when possesmen brought the wounded youth from the woods. More than 200 men were engaged last night in a hunt which spread as far away as Rodessa, La., where incoming freight trains were being watched for suspects.

Harris led in the investigation of the dynamiting of the Red river bridge at Garland City and arrested scores of liquor law violators.

He served as a peace officer in Miller county nearly 30 years.

Five bullets struck Harris. He died at a hospital where his wife is reported to be in a critical condition from effects of an operation.

Sheriff Harris is the second Miller county sheriff in six years to die in a gun battle. Sheriff Lish Barber was slain in Texarkana October 30, 1925.

Harris was serving his first term as sheriff.

MOTORING, THEN AND NOW

A one-cylinder automobile built more than 26 years ago is engaged right now in crossing the continent under its own power. It is retracing a route it covered in 1905 when it went from New York to Portland, Ore., in the record-breaking time of 44 days, and the man who is driving it, Dwight B. Huss, is the same man who drove it on its earlier trip.

Mr. Huss ought to have a good deal of fun out of his trip, especially if he has a contemplative streak in him. The contrast between this trip and the one of 1905 is striking. Auto and driver are the same, but everything else connected with the affair is as different as if two centuries had elapsed instead of a mere 26 years.

When that first trip was made by Mr. Huss had to take his roads as he found them, and most of them were pretty bad. For hundreds of miles, in fact, they were little better than wheel tracks. Filling stations and garages were almost non-existent. Except when he was in the cities he saw no pavement.

To be a cross-country motorist in those days one had to be adventuresome, resourceful and a first-rate mechanic.

And today? Macadam and concrete from coast to coast; garages, service stations, camping grounds and lunchrooms every few miles, all the way from New York to Portland; plenty of company all the way and nothing to make the trip an unusual event except the extreme age of Mr. Huss' auto.

Yet that contrast hardly so much as hints at the change that has come over the country as a whole since that first trip.

Nothing since the revolution has altered America more profoundly than the automobile. Social customs, economic conditions, intellectual outlooks, circumstances under which people live and travel and perform their work—all have changed almost beyond recognition in less than three decades. The trip of this ancient one-cylinder car symbolizes the change.

DEFECTS IN THE NEW CRUISERS

Modern warships are delicate mechanisms, prone to develop peculiarities that cannot be foreseen in advance and that are expensive to remedy once they appear.

Naval authorities have discovered that eight of the new 10,000-ton cruisers which are the pride of the U. S. navy have a tendency to roll in a heavy sea to such an extent that their gun crews cannot perform properly.

Two cruisers—the Pensacola and Northampton—have already gone to dry-dock for alterations that are expected to stabilize them. The other six will probably follow, if these alterations prove effective. Meanwhile, the navy would like to know why five of these cruisers have already cracked their stern posts, and why they show excessive vibration aft at high rates of speed.

There is no more complicated mechanism afloat than a modern cruiser. When one develops "bugs," as the auto-makers put it, the admirals are in for a good deal of worry.

LESS HOWLING, MORE WORK

When Dr. C. W. Gwinn, of the faculty of Davis and Elkins College, told a W. C. T. U. gathering in West Virginia recently that "we need less howling on both sides of the prohibition question and more constructive work in building up the morale of the rising generation so that they will not want booze in any of its forms," he expressed a thought with which many American will undoubtedly agree.

Of howling, from all sides of the point at issue, we have surely had plenty in the last few years. As Dr. Gwinn says, we might be doing better to concentrate on constructive educational work among young people. Dr. Gwinn asserts that most of the current stories about increased drinking among college students are pure bunkum; and if they do have any foundation in fact it may be at least partially because the older generation has been howling so lustily and so ineffectively.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

I had a letter yesterday from 'An-Out-of-Town-Quack,' mailed from Stanton on Hotel Stanton stationery, in which I was advised of a rumor afloat over West Texas as to the Jelly-Bean vs. Peace Officer horse race which wasn't run.

There's one thing in that letter, however, that I don't like. It is the reference to Big Lee's inability to get a horse big enough for him. Big Lee is quoted as telling the editor of this paper, who is a Jelly-Bean jockey, that he would take a horse the same size as the one chosen by any of the Jelly-Beans, that they would start toward El Paso and that he, Big Lee, would still be riding after the horse carrying the Jelly-Bean had given out.

But listen folks, don't let all this palaver about the laws and Jelly-Beans get your mind off the important event this evening at 6:30 when the Jelly-Beans run three races against the Floyd stables. I predict that the Floyd mares will win two first places out of the three races, but you can't always tell and it's a cinch that they are going to have to go in a lopsided race to win any at all.

A New York magistrate suggests that gangsters be hanged from lamp posts. That would be letting them off lightly.

If there were anything in a name, authors of anonymous books attacking reputations would probably use it.

Choice Cooks' Corner

Green Tomato Pickles One gallon green tomatoes, 1-2 dozen large onions, 3 cups brown sugar, 1-2 lemon, 3 pods red pepper, 3 cups vinegar, 1 tablespoon whole black pepper, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 tablespoon allspice, 1 tablespoon celery seed (crushed), 1 tablespoon mustard seed, 1 tablespoon ground mustard.

Slice the tomatoes and onions thin, sprinkle over them 1-2 cup salt and let stand over night in a crock or enameled vessel. Tie the pepper, cloves, allspice and celery seed in a cheese cloth bag. Slice the lemon and add the tomato and onion. Cook for one-half hour, stirring gently at well. Add the seasonings, except one pepper pod, to the vinegar then add the tomato and onion. Cook for one-half hour, stirring gently at intervals to prevent burning. Remove spice bag to prevent darkening product. Pack by garnishing the opposite sides of the jar with strips of red pepper in a vertical fashion. Process for 15 minutes. (Pint jar standard container.)

Louise Fazenda, who has made a specialty of quaint characters, and who has first-hand information on the subject from her own early years in a small Indiana town, declares that folks are essentially the same the world over. "Ice skating may be the popular thing in Vermont while people are swimming in the water off Florida, but the differences are mainly geographical. Small-town life," Miss Fazenda says, "leaves one with a lasting interest in people. I suppose I'll always be a small-town at heart. Even now, after years in Hollywood, I'm given to neighborly visits and swapping recipes over the back fence. And I wonder if this knowing everyone else's little affairs is such a bad thing after all. The fact that you know everyone in town is interested in your every move, may inspire you to put your best foot forward. I think small-town life begets confidence in oneself. How to Cook Meat Over a Camp Fire

What gives forth a more tantalizing aroma than beef steak or ham or bacon being broiled in the kitchen? Well, those same things being broiled over the camp fire when appetites edged keenly by lake or swim make waiting most awfully hard. From the National Live Stock and Meat Board come these timely suggestions for preparing meats over the camp fire:

Some parks have grills built here and there which are wonderful aids in preparing any broiled meat dish. The fire is laid under the grating and it no trick at all to get a glowing bed of coals. But a good broiled steak may be prepared without this sophisticated piece of outdoor equipment.

Cooking meat over the camp fires seems to be the special province of the men of the family and how they dote on getting the fire wood laid just right. They always like to do the broiling, too. The spirit of co-operation shown by the family is one of the nicest things about the picnic meal; so the effort of even the tiniest member of the family should receive its mead of praise.

For broiling the old-fashioned wire toaster is handy and easily carried; or a heavy frying pan may be used. Individual beef steaks are easier to serve than larger steaks. The fillet of beef tenderloin wrapped around with a strip of bacon is always good. Small cub steaks may be used, or any small tender cut. Ground steak made into patties are nicely cooked over the open fire—these are not always thought about in this connection. The cakes may be seasoned and shaped and wrapped in waxed paper at home, ready for cooking.

Lamb chops are good, too. Especially nice for this purpose are the boneless chops, made from the shoulder and skewered into a compact roll. Ground patties are another favorite for the picnic meal.

Ham, cut in individual servings may be broiled or panbroiled over the camp fire. It is great fun to toast bacon from the end of a pointed stick, nor must frankfurters, the old picnic standby, be forgotten.

A dish of potato salad, lots of sandwiches or buttered buns, cake or cookies and a thermos bottle of lemonade or tea or coffee and who could ask for more to complete the meal with the meat cooked while it is eyed hungrily? Helpful Health Suggestions

BEING A PARENT Here are some guideposts marking where others have made mistakes. Do you worry too much? Some parents by always looking for illness, make small tics far worse and give children a habit of being sickly when they would be in better health if they forgot themselves. It is not hard, also, to start a habit in children by using illness as an excuse to avoid going to school or to gain attention that is pleasant.

Some parents, by unreasonable fear that their children will get hurt, deprive them of the healthful outdoor sports that would give them strength, courage and resourcefulness for manhood and womanhood. Do you "baby" and cuddle your child too much? Perhaps you enjoy your child's love so much that you want him to cling to you, and refuse to eat unless you feed him, or to go to bed unless you lie down with him.

Do you realize that all this is forming habits, which will make it very hard for your boy to be a real man when he grows up, or may make your girl always a helpless woman? Is your present enjoyment worth the cost to the child in years to come?

Do you try to satisfy every wish of your child just because "he wants it so." How will it be for him when, unused to meeting any hardship, he has to make his own way in the world?

SCRUGGS, COWDEN-EPLEY AND BUSINESS GIRLS WIN BALL GAMES

ALL GAMES SAVE WOMEN'S TIGHT ALL WAY

Scruggs Buick won a fast game Tuesday evening in the Nocturne league from the Reporter-Telegram, 9-8, and Cowden-Epley tossed the Electricians for their second fall of the new half, 9-7.

In the bi-city league of women, the Business girls won from the Petroleum girls, 19-13. The Business aggregation scored 11 runs in one inning to get out in front after having been led for a brief period by the Petroleum.

Both the men's games were interesting from start to finish. The Reporter-Telegram was never ahead of the Scruggs team, but pulled in to a tie twice. Cheyning hit a home run to pull his club out in the lead, and this, while threatened, was never relinquished. Gemmill, manager for the newspaper cleaned the bases off Cheyning. Altogether, he hit three times in four trips.

Cowden-Epley stamped its club as dangerous in pinches, showing ability to hit when hits means runs. Bunched extra-base blows won for the Ford dealers. Eight doubles were cracked out during the session.

SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS

Doc Ratliff qualified as a trapeze performer this morning when Miss Midland, three-year-old sorrel of Booger Bryant's, bolted from the track and out through the entrance west of the grandstand at Cowboy park, leaving Doc the alternative of hanging his chin on a low stretched cable or of taking to the air. Take to the air he did, grabbing the cable with both hands while the mare went through the exit.

There's more than one way to skin off a kittenish mare, the dock philosophized as he dropped to earth from the cable. The trouble all began when Miss Midland acted up because she had to leave the paddock wherein cavorted her musical friend, Piccolo Pete. Despite his having to pull more than leather this morning, the doc says he will ride Miss Midland in the quarter race this afternoon. He has taken several squints at the wire that runs from the judges' stand to the grandstand. He spoke perfervidly when he said he hoped Miss Midland didn't try to rake his chin on that!

When the Northerner visits in Midland he is let in for our own methods of exercising. In the case of Dr. Hill, visiting author and professor of history in the University of Ohio, the day's schedule began with a 12-mile ride that originated at Cowboy park and took him with an escort over the prairie-land hereabouts. He rested a brief time, had lunch, then played a round of golf. His riding didn't bother his golf game, apparently, and this morning he was getting around as though neither the riding or tramp around the links had made him the least bit stiff.

Women of the city who are connected with the women's league are doing lots of work in getting players out, new players signed up, and old players pacated. Miss Daisy Lindsey, Mrs. George Abell and Mrs. Evelyn Herrington, Mrs. Ivy Lee Mitchell and Mrs. George Phillips seem to be bearing the brunt of this week. So interested is Mrs. Phillips for instance, she drove a total of 34 miles the other afternoon in seeking a couple of new recruits for the Betty Co-Eds and to round up players who have no way of meeting practice otherwise. That's the spirit that is necessary to carrying on, and anyone who backs a club in that manner is more invaluable than an additional player on the roster—far more indispensable.

Joyce, six-year-old collie dog of Mrs. Abell is missing for the second time in her exciting life. She's been gone since Monday night and a wide search has been instituted. She has an almost perfect white collar, has four white feet, teeth slightly worn and is gentle. Has a weakness for placing one of her front paws on one when she isn't being noticed enough to please her. There's a reward out for the dog. The former mascot of the little theatre here was missed one afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Abell just as they were about to drive to Dallas. Just as they drove into Westbrook they saw her in a car driven by a tourist. When the dog saw Mr. Abell she jumped out of the tourist's car and landed in a rolling bundle on the road, where she was recovered.

Timberline Floyd drags into the conversation a fresh tempo on a story that broke Sunday. He said T. Paul Barron, publisher-jockey, was so far out of the saddle when he rode Coter when that mount cold-jawed the other day that one could have shot an arrow between him and the horse without injuring either. When the horse quit bucking he took to his heels and ran as hard as he could drum the track three times around the circuit, or a mile and a half. When he quit running, Floyd said, Barron dismounted as quickly as possible and led him to the barn, where, without saying a word, he unsaddled, flipped a boy a coin and motioned the wide open spaces. In a few minutes the horse was being returned to the rangeland. But, those who saw the rather thrilling affair, say Floyd is having his fun out of the publisher; that Floyd didn't see the fun, and that Barron stuck to his mount like a cockle burr. He jammed his boots deep into his stirrups and let the animal go to it, and power to the one who lasts longest, etc.

Ferguson is Midland's No. 1 tennis player, by virtue of a playoff for that honor yesterday. He won from Lanham, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4. Godbey, Midland's No. 4 man at present, has challenged Stubbeman for the No. 3 rating playoff this afternoon.

Indian Tribes In Peace Pact

SEMINOLE, Okla. (UP)—A feud of several centuries' standing between the Seminole and Sac and Fox Indians has ended.

No one knows how far back it extended, and although there have been no violent outcroppings recently, the bitterness was perpetuated by ambushings of one tribe or the other years ago.

During the recent powwow here, where more than 5,000 Indians gathered, Sac and Fox chiefs bid for peace. Chili Fish, Seminole chief, accepted the offer and the two tribes crowded around the barbecue pits and broke the bread of peace.

Forty-four merchant ships are to be constructed for the Russian merchant fleet.

Razor Case Finds Court Locked up

BOSTON. (UP)—The judge, lawyers and spectators were barred from the courtroom here during the hearing of the $21,000,000 Gillette Safety Razor company suit.

Because several valuable exhibits were being used the courtroom was locked when court adjourned for lunch. When those attending the hearing returned they were unable to get in. There was a half hour delay while court attaches tried several sets of keys.

WOMEN HEED WARNING

BOSTON. (UP)—A word of warning to women motorists seems to have more effect than on men. Of more than 150 automobilists "tagged" for second offenses in the Massachusetts highway safety campaign, only three were women.

"It so happens I don't smoke... BUT I've noticed recently that more of my girl friends are smoking CHESTERFIELD, and I asked why.

"One of them said that CHESTERFIELDS really are milder and taste better—that there is nothing strong or sharp or bitter about them.

"Another one spoke up and said that she too liked the taste of CHESTERFIELDS; but that she was especially pleased with the package—so neat and attractive. Chesterfields—she added—are made right—properly filled—and burn evenly; and she thought possibly they were using a better cigarette paper.

"Still another one agreed with all we'd said. She'd been smoking CHESTERFIELDS for a long, long time, and had always liked them; but she also liked the way they were advertised. The advertising seemed to her to be the truth and the whole truth—it wasn't always knocking somebody or something!"
