BIG SPRING TO RUN SPECIAL TO MIDLAND GAME

Two thousand people from Big Spring at the Midland-Big Spring football game here Friday. That is the goal set by school and civic authorities of Big Spring as they complete plans for running a special train here on that date. Superintendent Blankenship of the Big Spring schools told Supt. W. W. Lackey of the Midland schools Saturday that the crowd here Friday should be the greatest ever to witness a football game in this section. "The showing of the Big Spring club Saturday against Pecos, when it staged a scoring parade of nine touchdowns, coupled with the fact the Steers have not been scored on this season, will bring many people from out of town to see the game," the Midland man said. Great ticket campaigns will be made in both towns.

Tomcat Easy Winner In Race at Rankin

Five open lengths was the margin by which Tomcat, three year old Scharbauer horse, beat the Rankin paint belonging to George Dyson at Rankin Saturday afternoon. Jay Floyd arranged the race and Pete Fufferson rode Tomcat to an easy victory. The race was for a quarter mile, on a hard, smooth straight-away. Dyson won his other race, with the Bill Nix bay, Billy Sunday, winning over Dick Davis' Ashire by sixty open feet. Billy Sunday carried a sixty pound jockey while Davis himself, weighing approximately 140, rode Ashire, the Fort Stockton horse seen here in the September races.

Threatens "Bruja" With Arrest Here

One Mexican, Cresencio Reyes, was fined, another Mexican, Santos Larez, was warned to leave the affair to the law, and a Big Spring Mexican woman is threatened with arrest if she comes to Midland to work her "bruja" art on ignorant Mexicans, as results of a trial Saturday in justice court. The Mexican men are alleged to have threatened Abel y Rodriguez as a result of a story told by a Mexican girl, Antonia Larez, who said Rodriguez, drugged her while having dates with her. At the trial, which resulted from charges filed against Larez and Reyes by Rodriguez, several Mexicans appeared as witnesses against the Big Spring woman, whom they call a sorcerer. They testified she put the girl under a spell and drew from her the story, Rodriguez maintains he did not know the girl and never went with her. Justice of the Peace B. C. Girdley informed Mexicans to let officers here know if the Big Spring bruja returns. He said he would have her arrested for fraud.

Lions Club Plans Box Supper Friday

Tit-bits that are savory to Lions and Lionesses will be auctioned when the Lions club meets Friday evening in the ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer. An interesting night will result, according to James Noland, in charge of the preparations. The food will be prepared by the wives of Lions, he said.

TAX MATTER MOOT

Payment of 1930 taxes for the city of Midland, given an extension until Oct. 15 without penalty, will be under the same ruling as those of state, county and school district following action of the city council late in the week. A ruling of the attorney general, issued a few days ago, held that the recently enacted senate bill No. 8, extending the time for paying taxes without being assessed a penalty

MIDLAND BIRDMAN OFFERED CHANCE TO FLY PLANE UP ORINOCO JUNGLES

Harold Becherer, whom Midland claims is one of the best pilots ever turned out by Brooks and Kelly fields, has been invited by William Hall, New York sportsman and globe trotter to pilot his special Lockheed-Vega monoplane next summer on a cruise of exploration up the 1,550 mile course of the Orinoco river in South America. Scientists have disagreed among themselves upon the course of the river through the dense jungles, and Hall wishes to chart its course. The flight, according to the letter from Hall to Becherer, would begin some time in July, at the Atlantic coast and continue to a point in South Venezuela. Hall and Becherer are well known to each other, Hall having made a flying visit to Becherer here two years ago following publication in a national aeronautical magazine of a story on air foils written for

ALIBI GIVEN FOR DEFENDANT CHOIR SINGER KILLING

SINTON, Oct. 10. (AP)—The prosecution hypothesis of the murder of Dorothy Symons, pretty choir singer, was attacked point by point by the defense attorneys today at the trial of Newton Yarberry, alleged slayer. Alex Yarberry, father of the defendant, swore that his son was at home on the night of July 30 when the 18-year-old girl disappeared. Effort to impeach the testimony of Tom Connor, state witness, was unavailing.

Grass Fire Menace Is Warned Against

Cigarette smokers beware! This is the warning appeal sounded today to all those who traverse grass pastures of this area of West Texas. The fire prevention committee of the Midland chamber of commerce, with the hearty approval of ranchers, Saturday sounded a warning to all smokers to be certain never to throw down a lighted cigarette or cigar on a road through the range country. Grass is now highly inflammable due to the prolonged dry weather and it is so scarce every blade is needed. One careless smoker could badly damage a rancher by burning off his grass, it is explained. The chamber of commerce has a supply of warnings against grass fire danger which are free to all ranchers. The cards are suitable for nailing on gates and fence posts. Full cooperation is expected of all persons who drive across ranches in watching out for fires.

FORMER MIDLAND RESIDENT ONE OF FIRST CATTLEMEN TO HANG RUSTLERS

Joe H. Graham, Lovington cattleman who died Friday, had an interesting career in the ranching industry of Texas and New Mexico. Graham enjoyed the distinction of being the first white child born in Denton county, Texas. He was born May 18, 1848. In young manhood he moved to Young county, Texas. He was married at Fort Belknap, Texas, on Feb. 27, 1879, to Miss Marian Elizabeth Johnson. Their children gathered in 1929 when they celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. In the early nineties Graham moved to Crockett county, Texas, where he engaged in the ranch business with J. M. Shannon. In order that his children might attend school, he moved to Midland in 1895, still retaining his ranch holdings in Crockett county. While a resident of Midland Graham was a member of the school board. He moved to Lovington in 1905. The following children survive

As Hoover and Statesmen Planned Banking Relief

THE "FOURTH ESTATE" WAITS FOR THE NEWS—When news-gatherers throng the White House in numbers such as this, it's a certain indication that events of nation-wide importance are in the air. This flashlight photo shows the scene as Washington reporters and correspondents turned out in full force outside the Executive Mansion to await the outcome of President Hoover's dramatic night conference with Congressional and Treasury leaders on the domestic banking situations. In the center of the group, wearing white trousers, is Rodney Dutcher, Washington staff correspondent for The Reporter-Telegram and NEA Service.

AMERICA READY TO INTERVENE IN JAP-CHINA WAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. (AP)—Soft spoken but forceful, American intervention into the still rumblings of a Japanese-Chinese war in Manchuria appeared tonight to be but a question of hours. The state department was fully prepared to invoke before world opinion promises of peace and fair dealing made so often by China and Japan in a long succession of treaties.

Church Financial Pledges Are Due

Call was issued in Midland Saturday asking every member of the First Baptist church to pay church pledges this week. The amount left unpaid can be learned by calling John O. Nobles or Claude O. Crane. The unpaid balance of all pledges made for the fiscal year 1930-31, are now due, as the fiscal year ended the first Sunday in October. Some committees were given names of people to be seen this week, but some may have been omitted, and members who wish to pay their church debts have been urged to see any of the three men named above, find out what they owe and pay it off. It is pointed out that none of the committee members enjoy solicitation work. Every man or woman who took names is doing work that members ought voluntarily to do, it is stated and since these solicitors are busy people, Baptists are asked to pay as quickly as possible. The Baptist church of Midland is in debt, officers say, and every member of the church is legally and morally responsible for the debt. "Real people want to pay their debts and Baptists must pay their church debts or suffer from guilty consciences and from failure to keep their promises," the statement said.

Texas Cotton Crop Set at 5,100,000

AUSTIN, Oct. 10. (UP)—The Texas bureau of the department of agriculture today estimated the Texas cotton crop at 5,100,000, less than one third of the predicted national yield of 16,284,000 bales. The Texas crop condition was reported at 69 per cent, one of the highest on record. It was estimated that 15,852,000 acres remain to be harvested. The yield was placed at 154 pounds per acre.

Girdley to Assist In Mexican Case

B. C. Girdley, who sometimes interprets in court trials here, will serve in the same capacity in a Mexican case in district court at Odessa Monday when Nicano Hernandez' forgery case comes up. The Mexican was recently tried in Midland district court, but the case went down a mistrial when the jury could not decide whether to recommend a suspended sentence for good behavior. His relative, E. Nunez, was given a two-year suspended sentence on the same charge. The Mexicans are charged with signing the name of H. A. Jesse to a check and with passing it at a grocery store here.

HORSE PICTURES

Photographs of Apronette and Memorial Day, Jewell horses racing at Kansas City, were to be placed in the window of the chamber of commerce Saturday afternoon. Midland race fans have seen both animals, but neither has run on a Midland track. Both are out of Gingham Apron, Jewell mare.

Negress Fined for Defending Herself In Justice Court

A negro woman, Arizona Echols, paid $31 for trying to convince that words, which might best be described as "blankety-blank" meant nothing that should cause her to be arrested for disturbing the peace. Witnesses told a jury about the "blankety-blank" statements. The defendant said she would take the stand and tell what really happened. "I jest tol' dat no count nigrah Ah'd bust her _____," the negress said. "But the sounded very like the "blankety-blank" as told of by witnesses, and Justice of the Peace Girdley felt the peace of the negro quarter had been outraged, so fined the woman.

Shrader Tells What School Band Needs

What the Midland high school band has in comparison with what it should have as regards instrumentation is shown in the following tabulation, made up from an assembly talk of Russel E. Shrader, director. The first column shows the number of instruments now used in the band. The second row gives the number set down as a requirement of noted band directors for completely filling sections. This would allow for a membership of 60:

BIG SPRING RUNS WILD OVER PECOS IN SAT. FOOTBALL

With Dennis, Flowers and Schartzzenheim carrying the brunt of the attack Big Spring ran rough shod over Pecos high Saturday afternoon to the tune of 61-0. The game was featured by the 78-yard run by Colburn, substitute quarterback, in the third quarter, and the consistent long gains by the passing attack of Big Spring, with Dennis passing and Forrester and Schartzzenheim on the receiving end. Pecos was no match for the heavier Big Spring team and was out-charged on practically every play of the game, but effectively blocked the transplanted Braves from the Indian territory when Pecos attempted a pass. The scoring honors went to Dennis, who scored 18 points and was on the starting end of three passes that resulted in touchdowns for the Steers. Heblson, the battering ram of the Steer backfield, seldom failed yardage when a first down or short yardage was needed. Coach Bristow used his entire squad in both periods of the game, uncovering a mass of strong reserves among the shock troops. The Pecos team managed to get past the middle of the field only one time during the afternoon, and that was due to a long pass from deep in their own territory. Total points: Dennis 18, Schartzzenheim 14, Flowers 1, Harris 6, Colburn 6, Forrester 6, Points after touchdown: Flowers 5, Schartzzenheim 2.

Methodist Church Starts Good Move

Methodists in other West Texas towns have been so impressed by what the Methodist church of Midland did in sending a car load of cattle to their orphanage at Waco that it is thought likely carloads of goats and sheep will be assembled to send the orphans. The Midland gift is said to be the biggest single food shipment ever sent to the home.

165-Barrel Limit For Etex Is Set

AUSTIN, Oct. 10. (UP)—East Texas oil production will be set at 165 barrels per well daily, effective Oct. 13, the railroad commission announced today. The present allowance is 185 barrels. Chairman C. V. Terrell announced that orders are being prepared to cut all other Texas fields except the Panhandle ten per cent. The Panhandle field is to receive special orders because of gas conditions.

Has Odds, So He Builds a Plane

He had some odds and ends around his shop and an old Model T Ford motor, so "Fuzzy" Hedges, Midland man, decided he would build something. He went to Big Spring and traded for the wing of the Monocoupe that cracked up and killed Pilot Byrn and a young school teacher two years ago, and started making a plane. The ship is being constructed according to plans and specifications of an Alco monoplane, popular model that many amateur ship designers have built within the past few months. Hedges, who has a welding shop here, is working into the plane several original ideas, the use of the Ford motor being only one of several. He says planes built along the same lines as that he is at work on have made as high speed as 92 miles an hour. He started his motor. For a minute it coughed and sputtered like the Model T is expected to behave, then broke into a steady, tuneful roar—quite unlike the motor sounds when installed in an automobile. The plane will not be finished for several weeks. Hedges, well known to Midland people, lives on East Tennessee street.

El Paso Police Break up Ring

EL PASO, Oct. 10. (UP)—Jesus Jimenez, politician, Ricardo Delgado, engraver, and Cleto Blanco, jeweler, were arrested today by federal officers seeking to break up the largest counterfeiting ring operating on the border. Mexican officials cooperated with American officers, seizing plates for printing ten dollar bills, molds for making half dollars, and other counterfeiting equipment. A print shop was believed to be the source of bogus bills which had been flooding Texas cities lately.

SPIRITED ENDING IS THRILLING

Grimes Derricked in Last Frame When Two Score

The St. Louis Cardinals won the championship of the baseball world Saturday afternoon when they defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-2, in the seventh game of the World series. The game for thrills was incomparable with any other of the series. Burleigh Grimes, Cardinal pitcher, hurled five-hit ball until the ninth, but, after striking out Simmons, Fox and Dykes in the seventh, visibly weakened in the eighth, when he walked two men. After walking two and allowing Cramer, a pinch hitter, to single and score two runs, he was derricked.

FIRST INNING Philadelphia—Bishop popped out to High. Haas went out, Gelbert to Bottomley. Cochrane went out, Frisch to Bottomley. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis—High singled over short. Watkins rapped his ball safely over short. Frisch sacrificed, Dykes to Fox, and both runners advancing. Martin walked, High scored on a wild pitch. Orsatti struck out, but when Cochrane dropped the last strike, Watkins scored. Bottomley struck out. Two runs, two hits, one error.

SECOND INNING Philadelphia—Simmons singled to right. Fox flew out to Orsatti. Miller singled to left. Dykes forced Miller at second, Gelbert to Frisch. Williams went out, Gelbert to Bottomley. Two runs, two hits, no errors. St. Louis—Wilson walked, Gelbert hit into a double play. Dykes to Bishop to Fox. Graham struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

THIRD INNING Philadelphia—Earnshaw was out, High to Bottomley, Bishop walked, and a minute later was caught off first by Wilson's throw. Haas was out on a high fly to right. No runs, no hits, no errors. St. Louis—High singled through the pitcher's box, Watkins hit a home run over the right field wall. Frisch fled to double play. Orsatti struck out. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

ESCAPE FROM REALITY

Given a mild and sunny Sunday in the fall of the year, anywhere from a fourth to one-half of the city dwellers of the United States will get into their automobiles and spend a few hours driving through the open country.

These little excursions are utterly aimless. They lead nowhere, and they usually represent no more planning than is implied in the remark, "Let's all go for a drive."

For these provide, in one way and another, the illusion of escape. For just a few hours they enable tired men and women to imagine that the city, with its monotonous jobs, its close confinement and its endless vistas of tightly-packed houses and smoky chimneys, has somehow dissolved in the autumn haze.

The world is getting pretty thoroughly urbanized, and a great many of us wouldn't know how to act if we were asked to live on a farm. But we have, nevertheless, an inborn yearning for the open country, a distrust of the cities in which we make our homes, a feeling that man cannot be entirely healthy unless he can dip his soul into the open air now and then and look wistfully on groves of trees and empty, sun-flecked meadows.

So it is that America puts itself on wheels every weekend; and the jammed "Sunday traffic" that makes main-road drivers swear wearily represents a groping for a better way of life than most of us can get.

To be sure, this weekly intrusion of city folk into the country isn't altogether lovely to look at. It fills pleasant country roads with dust, noise and the fumes of burned gasoline. It creates unholy traffic jams in crossroads hamlets. It spreads picnic debris over peaceful groves. It results in a great many accidents, ruffles an enormous number of tempers and brings thousands of people back to their homes at night utterly weary and more or less quarrelsome and disgruntled.

But the spirit back of it is clear. Having shut itself into cities, mankind is beginning to realize that it has made a sad mistake and is grasping at the automobile as a means of escape. The escape may be confused, clumsy and unproductive; but it is the best most of us can do, and it goes a long way toward making our unsatisfactory lives endurable.

SPEEDING AND DANGER

Studies carried on by psychologists of Ohio State University under the auspices of the National Research Council show that the slow automobile driver manages to get involved in more accidents than the fast one; and whether this is simply because there are more of him, or because there is something inherently dangerous about slow driving, it is bound to be of interest to motorists everywhere.

One reason, as the psychologists point out, is that a truly competent driver tends to travel faster than a poor one; and the poor one, plodding along at what he conceives to be a safe pace, manages nevertheless to get into accidents which a better driver would avoid.

Chiefly, however, the study is interesting as a demonstration of the fact that more speed, by itself, is not necessarily dangerous. A good driver, hitting a 45-mile clip, can be far less of a menace to public safety than a poor one whose car does not go over 25 miles an hour all the way.

SHORT SALES SURVEY

Recent arguments in favor of restriction of short sales in the stock market make it imperative that someone conduct an impartial survey to show precisely what the effect of short sales is on market trends.

It has been claimed that the short sale prevents excesses by tending to stabilize prices; that is, it prevents prices from rising to unreasonable heights in a bull market, and the "hurrying to cover" by short sellers in a falling market keeps prices from falling too low.

But, as the Alexander Hamilton Institute points out, there is no complete data available to prove or disprove these contentions. Such data would be fairly easy to assemble; once assembled, the task of working out a sound policy to cover the matter would be much easier than it is now.

Washington Letter

Hoover Is "Still Unalterably Opposed to Lowering Standard of Living, but Wage Cuts Are Admittedly Unavoidable Even if It Means Lowering Purchasing Power."

WASHINGTON—After two years of fighting what many considered inevitable downward movement of wages, the Hoover administration apparently feels forced to retreat to a second line of defense and insist that American workers suffer no loss in "real wages."

Wage cuts will still be deplored, but it is admitted that some are unavoidable, even though lower wages mean lower purchasing power.

That is the interpretation placed on such administration reaction as has been expressed since the recent pay reductions announced by United States Steel and other large corporations.

President Hoover is represented as "still unalterably opposed" to any lowering of the American standard of living and as believing that rents should go down if wages are to be lowered. Secretary Doolittle says the slashes are deplorable, but apparently unavoidable. Chairman Gifford of the unemployment relief organization stands on his previous assertion that the "present wage scale would be equivalent to a large increase in commodity prices and the cost of living should stay down."

This, in effect, is a reluctant acquiescence to the belief always held by a substantial group that wages would have to come down in this depression, just as they have come down in every other depression. They may not, thanks in a large part to Hoover's vigorous campaign against reductions, come down to an extent proportionate with the loss of labor in previous slumps. In the past the wage movement downward has often stopped short of the general decline in living costs, leaving wage earners and salaried men relatively better off. And the level of "real wages" may be something for the administration to point to with more or less pride if it is still in power at the end of the present depression.

Rents are always last to drop. But the wage cut trend, in past depressions, always came pronto. Wage reductions have been going on for the last year and a half, but there has been no sign of an actual rush in that direction up to the present time. The delay has been due partly to Hoover's efforts and partly to the conviction of industrialists that, in this age of mass production, wage rates should be kept up in order to maintain the highest possible purchasing power.

Whether the downward wage movement will be accelerated thru labor in a speculative question. If it is, the extent of any net gain achieved by postponement of the process will have to be computed by economists of the future.

The situation at this point can only be partly expressed by the available figures because there is not even a satisfactory method of guessing at the extent of wage cutting to date for the number of workers affected.

U. S. Steel saves $25,000,000 by cutting wages 10 per cent and thus subtracts $25,000,000 from the purchasing power of its employees. If all wages and salaries in this country had been promptly cut at the outset of this depression the purchasing power of employees would have been reduced by more than $50,000,000,000 a year. The national income for 1928 is estimated at $90,000,000,000 of which about 57 per cent was in salaries and wages.

Real wages in industry and agriculture had increased about 15 per cent between 1919 and 1928, as a result of higher wage scales and lower living costs. Living standards were raised correspondingly. The government now says living costs have gone down 12.3 per cent during the depression (food 20 per cent, clothing 9 per cent and rents 6.5 per cent). Wage cutters argue that 10 per cent wage reductions consequently do not decrease living standards.

But both labor as a whole and the national purchasing power have been hard hit since the beginning of the depression, quite aside from wage reductions which represent only one of the very bad blows. Industrial pay rolls have declined 30 per cent. The way the depression has hit more than 200,000 wage earners of the Steel corporation, for instance, is made clear in a protest to Gifford by the National Women's Trade Union league. Before its recent wage cut of 10 per cent the corporation had, between June, 1930, and June, 1931, reduced its number of employes by 19.4 per cent and its payroll, thanks to both unemployment and part-time work, by 37.8 per cent.

Several sports receive subsidies from the French government. The highest sum is about $11,400 given to encourage rifle-shooting, and the lowest, $80, is for baseball.

The working population of Chicago, based on 1930 figures, consists of 1,149,714 males and 389,395 females.

PLAY BY PLAY

First Quarter

Kelly failed to make more than two yards on the initial try through the Midland line and the second play resulting in a fumble, Kelly kicked to the Midland 30-yard line. Two stabs at the line netted five yards and Midland kicked to the Stanton 45-yard line, the ball being downed on the 48-yard line. Stanton line plays failed to gain and Wilson booted to the 10-yard line. Midkiff snatching the ball and returning 15 yards, Midland backs divided assignments but could gain only five yards. The ball was punted to the Stanton 40-yard line, where Wilson was downed in his tracks. Wilson reeled off 10 yards around his right end and was run out of bounds on the 50-yard line. Wilson picked up five through center and Kelly and Bloomer made a first down.

Second Quarter

Burriss, Midkiff and Hallman failed to gain and Midland punted over the goal line. Kelly lost five yards on an attempted play at left end. Wilson punted to the Stanton 47-yard line. Midland line plays gained four yards and once more the ball was punted over the goal line. Midland failed to gain. Midland, facing a stiff breeze, punted only 10 yards but recovered the ball on the 27-yard line when Wilson fumbled. Two line thrusts resulted in the stubborn Stanton line smearing Midland plays. The ball was punted to the Stanton 45-yard line, where it was downed. Kelly lost one yard at center. Wilson lost 10 yards when he fumbled a bad back pass and immediately he kicked to the Midland 37-yard line and Midkiff returned five yards. Burriss unrelenting a scintillating 30-yard run and the gun fired for the end of the quarter immediately after he was tackled on the 30-yard line by Wilson.

Third Quarter

Stanton kicked off to the Midland 20-yard line and Burriss fumbled. Stanton recovered on the 35-yard line and punted to the Midland five yard line, where Midkiff fumbled and Stanton recovered. Wilson drove four yards over left tackle. He lost four yards on the next play. A pass failed. Midland received the ball on downs and kicked to the Stanton 47-yard line. Wilson, Bloomer and Kelly advanced the ball on straight driving to the Midland 24-yard line and Wilson hit center for five more yards. A pass, Kelly to Bloomer, placed the ball on the Midland two-yard line. Wilson lost the ball on the Midland five-yard line when Pinnell smashed him behind the line. He was hurt on the play. Burriss attempted to punt, but was swarmed by Stanton linemen and ran around his left end for 13 yards. Midland backs could not gain and the ball was punted to the Midland 45-yard line. A series of Stanton line plays gained only two yards and Stanton punted to the Midland 25-yard line. Midland kicked to her own 40-yard line. Wilson and Kelly advanced to the Midland 30-yard line, but McCall caught Wilson for a three-yard loss. Wilson punted high to the Midland five-yard line. The punt was almost blocked by a swarm of Midland linemen. Burriss out-sprinted Stanton players scattered in a broken field and was downed on the Midland 33-yard line. Hallman carried the ball eight yards over left tackle, added four more and Midkiff was thrown on the Midland 45-yard line. Burriss started a play around his right end. The Stanton left end was blocked out of the play and Burriss was off for a beautiful 51-yard run for touchdown. He stiff-armed two Stanton secondary, outstripped his own interference, reversed, swerved sharply to draw the Stanton safety off balance and flashed across the line. Hallman kicked goal and the gun for the third quarter blew.

Fourth Quarter

Midland kicked to the Stanton 25-yard line and Kelly romped 17 yards in return. Stanton was forced to punt, the ball being downed on the Midland 10-yard line. Midland worked the ball to its own 27-yard line and punted out of bounds on the Stanton 42-yard line. Kelly launched a long pass to Wilson, who got loose and ran to the Midland 30-yard line before he was pulled down by Burriss. Wilson picked up five through the line but fumbled and Pinnell recovered on the Midland 35-yard line. Midland started a touchdown drive that began with a pass, Burriss to Sherrod, on the Stanton 45-yard line and Burriss romped to the 31-yard line. Stanton was set back 15 yards for unnecessary roughness and Burriss sprinted around his left end for 13 yards. Hallman carried the ball across for a touchdown and Midkiff punted the added point. Midland kicked off to the 30-yard line and Stanton returned to her own 38-yard line where Wilson fumbled. Line plays gained only seven yards and Midland punted to the Stanton 15-yard line, where Wilson took the ball and returned to his own 25-yard line. Pinnell recovered a Stanton fumble, dragging a Stanton back down for a five-yard loss and recovering the ball. Midland backs drove to the eight-yard line but Burriss lost seven on a right hand run. A pass over the goal line was not completed. Stanton was given the ball on the 20-yard line and Kelly passed to Wilson on the Stanton 33-yard line. Midland recovered the ball on the 40-yard line and lost three yards on an attempted line play. Midland punted out of bounds on the Stanton 35-yard line. Stanton drew a five-yard penalty for two incomplete passes and Sherrod intercepted a Stanton pass on the Midland 30-yard line. Hallman crashed center for five yards as the closing gun cracked.

Whether Sharkey has been a fighter of championship ability during recent years is a matter of debate. Many boxing men and the New York Athletic commission have insisted that Jack belonged at the top of the heap. Others, this writer included, believe that Sharkey passed the peak of his career in the fourth round of his fight with Jack Dempsey in 1927. Since that night Sharkey has been an "in and out" He won numerous bouts and convinced the majority of New York writers that he was a great fighter. However, he failed in his every important test—against Risko, against Stribling, against Phil Scott, against Schmeiling and against Walker. He always had an alibi and his supporters remained loyal to him, but when Sharkey finally retires from the ring his record does not promise to give him ranging as a truly great fighter.

WHAT WILL JACK SHARKEY DO WITH CHANCE AT 'ALP'?

By DIXON STEWART (United Press Writer)

Even though he goes through with his scheduled 15-round match against Primo Carnera at Ebbetts Field Oct. 12—and there are plenty of reasons to believe that he will not—is extremely doubtful if Jack Sharkey can maintain his place among the leaders of his division.

Sharkey, who has caused more furore in heavyweight circles than any other fighter of recent years, is "washed up." Even his most ardent supporters, who have insisted upon ranking Jack as uncrowned king of the heavies ever since Gene Tunney's retirement, admit that the Bostonian is on the downgrade and it is becoming increasingly evident that Sharkey himself realizes that he retains only a semblance of his one-time ability. Sharkey's unexplainable attempts to run out of the Carnera match indicate that Jack is none too confident that he can whip the big Italian. And after seeing him against diminutive Mickey Walker and in early training for the Carnera bout, New York boxing writers are ready to admit that Carnera—regardless of whether or not he has any real ability—must be conceded an even chance.

The Bostonian is no longer the blustering fighter. Inactivity, increasing weight, and age have robbed him of his speed and ability to take advantage of openings.

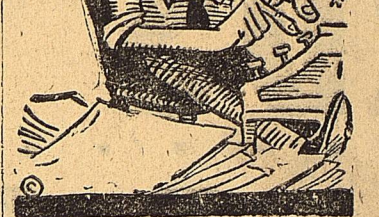

Jack still can see the openings, but the Walker bout and his mediocre performances against sparring mates prove that he can no longer shoot his punches quick enough to take them.

Whether Sharkey has been a fighter of championship ability during recent years is a matter of debate. Many boxing men and the New York Athletic commission have insisted that Jack belonged at the top of the heap. Others, this writer included, believe that Sharkey passed the peak of his career in the fourth round of his fight with Jack Dempsey in 1927.

Since that night Sharkey has been an "in and out" He won numerous bouts and convinced the majority of New York writers that he was a great fighter. However, he failed in his every important test—against Risko, against Stribling, against Phil Scott, against Schmeiling and against Walker. The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

How good could Ham Pinnell see if he didn't wear a blind bridle? That's the question that has me wondering. He saw every play, just before it was made, yesterday in the Stanton game, all that time suffering from an injured eye and wearing a big, heavy mask.

This is the time of the year when you stop to think how much smaller your water bill is going to be when it gets colder, and—how much more the gas bill will be. I still say a gas bill beats the old job of cutting wood and carrying it in the house to throw against the kitchen wall paper.

BUILDS UP FARM

WELLINGTON—Buying 80 acres of sandy land in Bean Hill community, Collingsworth county, six years ago for $50 per acre, Allen Peters has so built up the farm in productivity that he has refused $200 per acre for it and the rent it pays him justifies the refusal, according to C. C. Stinson, county agent. A tenant paid him $1200 rent for $20 acres in 1929, 01350 in 1930, and this year the same acreage promises to pay nearly as well as last. All but 10 acres have been manured during the past five years, part of it has been enriched by sweet clover crops, and diversification has done the rest. Land that yielded but 15 bushels of corn per acre in the last good corn year of 1926 is this year making 50 to 60 bushels on old clover land. Peters is building a sweet potato curing house by Extension Service plans to take care of 16 acres of potatoes, one of several truck crops he raises.

CHEAPER RATION GRAHAM—Shifting from a dairy cow ration that cost $1.35 per hundred to one calculated by the county agent that cost only 80 cents per hundred, Carr Rutherford, dairy herd demonstrator of Indian Mound, Young county, obtained an increased milk flow on the cheaper ration at the same time that pastures were getting dryer. The first half of July on the $1.35 ration the eight cows in the herd produced 1814 pounds of milk while the last half of the month on the much cheaper ration they produced 1880 pounds. The mixture consists of 200 pounds each of finely ground wheat, oats, and barley, 100 pounds of cottonseed meal, and 2 1/2 pounds of salt.

Are Your Flues In Shape?

Before your heating appliances go into service for fall and winter, see that they are in shape for the best and most effective service.

FLUES are of a very first importance. No stove is safe without a FLUE, whatever kind of fuel it burns. Gas is no exception.

FLUES oftentimes become clogged during the warm summer months, for example, birds sometimes build their nests in chimneys during this period, and it is a wise move to check them before the cold winter months come in.

Mrs. Wright Reads "Elizabeth, the Queen," at Club

"Elizabeth, the Queen" by Sherwood Anderson, which was read by Mrs. David Wright at last week's meeting of the Play Reader's club, is reviewed by Mrs. Wright for publication. The review follows: "The play is a charming comedy of the Elizabethan age. The principal characters are Queen Elizabeth and the members of her court, the most prominent being Lord Essex and Sir Walter Raleigh. "The character delineation, while satirical, gives a true insight into the life and thoughts of these people of historical prominence. "The theme of the play is the struggle between the love of Essex and Elizabeth and the passionate desire of both to rule. Neither is willing to "stand back of the royal throne" and let the other rule. Despite their love, Elizabeth orders Essex to be killed and at the last moment, when she would revoke the order, Essex, a rebel to the end, declines to be saved, seeing no possibility for their happiness. "The play is a delightful change from the ordinary type of play seen today. At its presentation in New York, the role of Queen Elizabeth was played by Lynn Fontaine. The gorgeous costuming makes a spectacular stage presentation."

Screen's New Find Is Modest Youth

James Dunn, who will be seen as Sally Eilers' perplexed young husband in "Bad Girl," a Fox drama coming to the Ritz theatre today, is the newest recruit to Hollywood's eligible list of young bachelors. He is charming, gallant, and extremely affable, as his characterization in the picture so clearly proves—all of which made him instantly popular at the film capital. "I've always thought I'd play around a bit before I settled down for good," Dunn recently remarked. "But if invitations keep pouring in as fast as they have this first six weeks I've been in Hollywood, I'm going to change my mind." "These girls out here are so darned attractive," he concluded. Frank Borzage, veteran Fox director of more than fifty screen successes, including the immortal "7th Heaven," directed the picture. Edwin Burke prepared the script in continuity and dialog from the original Vina Delmar novel.

SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS

A Jew was telling some of the Midland baseball fans of "a funny game I saw." He said, evidently trying to tell a more imposing event than other spokesmen, that "eight men were on. That was where the pitcher used his head. He walked in another man and nobody was left to bat, so he won the game. Heh, heh!" He was razzed so much after his recital that he won't stay around anyone talking baseball. Those who told us the story said he recounted it for the truth.

To make a drawn-out story assume a briefer conclusion, we were surprised at Midland's strength Friday, when the Doggies beat Stanton 14-0. We were even more surprised at Stanton's weakness. And we were disappointed at the Midland showing, though we did have a few hysterics at Burris' pretty run, Ham Pinnell's constant watching of the ball and tackling behind the line, Collins' and Hawkins' and Hogsett's steady work, the tackling of Midkiff and a few other factors.

To get right into the matter, Midland tackled like a bunch of grammar school boys during the entire first half. There were few exceptions. The line did not charge like it showed it could. Ends played only fair, and showed poor knowledge of fundamentals, even though McCall did some nice tackling at odd moments. And Burris, a man we'd like to say nothing but good of, pulled off a bit of poor skill work now and then; notably in punting across the Stanton goal line twice when he might have punted the ball out of bounds inside the 20-yard line. And apparently not satisfied that Stanton's bullet passes from running formation did not materialize and in their place came some sloppy lob passes, Midland backs appeared weak in aerial defense. Sherrod checked well in most instances, intercepting two passes in a row, but it was he who did not guard his own zone when Wilson received the long pass from Kelly and broke loose. Had it not been for Burris' speed, the Stanton back would surely have run the additional 30 yards for touchdown. On pass offense, too, Midland did not look impressing at times. Midkiff, dangerous for his speed, cut out for a pass that almost hit him, so neatly was it pegged. But he didn't time himself correctly and looked back too late. Those are things that needn't be so serious a fault against Stanton the way Stanton played Friday—PUT CLASS A FOOTBALL IS NOT PLAYED THE WAY STANTON PLAYED, AND ALL MIDLAND WILL SEE HOW TRUE THE STATEMENT IS WHEN BIG SPRING COMES HERE FRIDAY FOR THE FIRST DISTRICT GAME.

The first half looked like a re-enactment of the two scoreless games we've seen Midland and Stanton battle. No fight in the Midland eleven. Overconfidence was to blame, coaches said Saturday. Some may excuse overconfidence, but this department cannot—especially as Midland players have let that and staleness prevent them from winning from Stanton twice before. And Midland will do well to get along in Class A company even while taking the game so seriously that it hurts.

Now for a few matters less pessimistic. The Midland line gave plenty of punch into its forcing back of Stanton thrusters twice during the game. Stanton was on the five-yard line with four downs to go. They got to the two-yard line twice. Then the Doggies forced the Buffs back to the five-yard line and got the ball—each time. And that converting of extra point looked mighty good to those in the stands. It was the first time we've ever seen the Bulldogs face chances for the added point with confidence.

Hallman's toe looks good to us, and Midkiff hit the line like a ram to convert the point after the second touchdown. Bulldogs pounced on free balls during the afternoon, too. They didn't bow before taking the flop. Midland recovered seven Stanton fumbles, Stanton recovering three made by Midland. Midland punters looked weak, but it was good to see three of them available. Burris, Sherrod and Pinnell all felt the slap of the boot against the hide.

Burris didn't seem to be timing his runs right. His interference was forming right, and after he had bounded away in several instances, Purris, to go a little further into the matter, appeared to be getting away too fast. He's a streak, but must hold himself in restraint and let his mates knock down some of the eager arms waiting for him. While we're on the subject, somebody ought to give the Midland quarter a peanut whistle so he can blow at the crossings. Somebody in this Class 4 district is going to get run over sooner or later.

Midkiff-Burris seem to be handling the ball bad. They dropped two punts in succession. We'd like to see them break away on one of those long runs of yesteryear. They singe the grass when they gallop a la hither and thither.

Plenty of scouts and coaches and superintendents and so on at the game. The entire Big Spring football team appeared to be over, as were Coaches Obie Bristow of the Steers and Hennig of the Sweetwater Mustangs. Pecos and Wink were watching Stanton.

Rufus Hyde, Stanton coach, was well satisfied with the game. "Stanton got breaks and didn't take them; Midland got breaks and did take them," he summed it up briefly. He's a cool fish, and never moves from his place while his club plays. The same coolness that allowed him to run the Simmons U. football club to many wins.

BULLDOGS DRUB STANTON, 14-0

BURRIS BREAKS LOOSE FOR LONG RUN; DOG LINE SHOWS POWER AS IT TURNS BACK BUFFALO THRUSTS

Good football in scattered spots was sufficient for Midland's Class A football team to down Stanton's Class B pride Friday, 14-0. Captain Loyd Burris' 51-yard jaunt in the third period and Hallman's crash over tackle in the fourth proved more than enough to dispose of a Buffalo eleven that, strangely enough, failed to mass power expected.

The game, generally, was a defensive one, with the first half given over in the main to a punting duel that found the club with the wind at its back getting most of the advantage. Playing a torpid brand of ball, both clubs see-sawed back and forth, with neither club in charge of the ball in opponents' territory but once in the first quarter. Stanton started a drive on its own 40-yard line and was held on the Midland 36-yard line. Just before the gun fired to end the period, Burris sprinted around end for 28 yards, to the Stanton 30-yard line.

Start Is Slow
In the second quarter Midland drove once to the Stanton 25-yard line, and Stanton came back with line plays that were ended on the Midland 28-yard line.

In the third quarter, when the most thrilling run of the season occurred, Midland was in Stanton territory only once, when Burris made his long journey. The drive for touchdown started on the Midland five-yard line, where Burris romped 27 yards, Hallman 11, Midkiff six. Burris took the snap back and, Stanton's left end being blocked neatly out of the play, speeded around his right wing, stiff-armed a couple of secondary men and cut loose for a dazzling run that brought the stands upright. The Stanton safety didn't touch him, so deceptive was his change of pace and so fast his shift. Hallman kicked the extra point.

In this period, Stanton lost all chances of evening matters and, for that, taking the lead in scoring. Twice did the Buffs hammer at the Midland two-yard line, each time being battered back by a fighting Midland forward wall. Once Woodrow Wilson, touted Stanton back, was forced back to the five-yard line in his line-ripping attempts.

The other time he lost the ball when Pinnell savagely tackled him from behind the line.

Stanton Tries Drive
In the fourth period, Stanton seemed to have lost some of the fight traditionally ascribed to a football team from that town. After an exchange of punts, Stanton took the ball and made a last grand attempt to overtake the Class A hosts. Kelly passed to Wilson 16 yards and the fleet "president" ran 10 yards before the fleet Burris ran him down from behind, downing him on the Midland 30-yard line. Wilson ripped five yards off over tackle, but on the next play Pinnell, playing under a handicap of an eye injury that forced him to wear a special headguard, continued his perfect defensive game—getting back to pounce on a Stanton fumble on the 35-yard line. Burris passed to Sherrod, who galloped to the Stanton 32-yard line. Bloomer jumped on the Midland ball lugger after he was down and the whistle had blown for pronounce the ball.

Polo Season Opens In Texas Valley

HARLINGEN, Oct. 10. (AP)—Just when polo is being dropped for the winter in other parts of the United States it is being started in the Valley.

For the polo season in this section opens in October, and continues through March and April, when it is started in other sections.

The Harlingen civilian team, minus the services of several of its star players of last season, is now working out 16 new ponies, purchased from the Lassiter ranch at Falfurrias.

There will be probably a dozen polo teams in this section during the winter, other teams being from Fort Brown, at Brownsville, Fort Ringgold at Rio Grande City, Hidalgo, Reynosa (Mexico), Donna, Pharr, San Juan and some other Valley towns.

A schedule of games will be announced soon.

The big feature of the year in Valley polo is the mid-winter tournament at Fort Brown, with teams from Houston, San Antonio, and points in the interior of Mexico participating.

Great Novel Is Good on Screen

From the very pages of Donald Henderson Clarke's notable best-seller, "Millie," has come a heart-deep screen drama that takes its place among the really outstanding films of the year. "Millie," which opens today at the Grand theatre, is sure-fire entertainment for any audience.

Particularly worthy is its cast of featured players, including a half dozen of the best-liked screen artists of the day. Helen Twelvetrees, flaming little beauty and among the best of the screen's dramatic actresses, plays the title role. As "Millie," Miss Twelvetrees gives the finest characterization of her career and definitely establishes herself as one of the most talented players in motion pictures today.

BASEBALL PLAYER HERE

Spencer Abbott, manager of the Portland club of the Pacific coast league, and Mrs. Abbott were in Midland Friday night, en route to New York City. Abbott's club is a farming out camp for the Philadelphia Athletics. He was a roommate of George Earnshaw while in the majors.

GRAND BEST SOUND IN TOWN ANNOUNCEMENT

When we opened the GRAND THEATRE we promised you better sound and lower admission prices than you had been paying in Midland. We have accomplished this, which no one can deny.

Admission prices have been lowered 25% to 40% since our opening and the sound in Midland has been greatly improved.

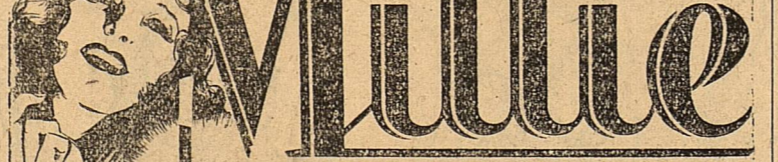

The people of Midland and surrounding territory have been the beneficiaries and will save thousands of dollars, besides getting better sound than they have had.

We have been responsible for all this and we trust the public will show their appreciation for them by giving us their support and patronage. We will appreciate it and you will find our pictures and sound as good as you will find anywhere.

Sincerely,
J. HOWARD HODGE,
Manager.
