Danger of Collapse Imminent Says a Medical Report

ROONA, India, Sept 26. (UP)— Mahatma Gandhi tod v abandoned his death fast upon sable advice of acceptance by the British government of an agreement between the ment of an agreement between the caste Hindus and the untouchables.

Physicians said there was danger of a collapse or paralysis from loss of fat reserve. Gandhi's condition was at the lowest ebb since he began the fast Tuesday.

Certain reservations were made by the British government from which it was expected no deviation would be made.

SOCIALIST VOTE NEXT ELECTION

WASHINGTON.—Norman Thomas, the socialist candidate, may have the privilege of causing the re-election of Herbert Hoover to the pres

If Hoover is re-elected, the vote as between the two major parties is almost certain to be very close. The Socialist vote in any event is expected to be larger than ever before. It is not unlikely to exceed the popular plurality of the winning candidate.

But it is in the individual states, where a margin of a dozen votes is enough to swing the state's entire electoral vote one way or another, that one discerns the possibilities a third party candidate has to change the result which would occur it we were one a strictly twocur if we were on a strictly two-party basis.

Startling as it may sound, a close contest might easily allow Willie Upshaw, prohibitionist candidate, to

The chances are that most of Up-shaw's votes normally would go to Hoover, who is dryer than Roose-velt. And there is no question that most of the Thomas votes would go to Roosevelt if there were no Social-ist ticket in the field.

If Hughes in 1916 could only have had 400 of the 7800 votes polled by the prohibitionist ticket in Minnesota he would have been president of the United States, for Minnesota's of the United States, for Minnesota's 12 electoral votes would have elected him by a margin of one. Wilson won the state by a plurality of only 392 popular votes in a total of about 390,000 cast. A change of 197 votes, in other words, might have changed the course of American history.

In California, which flopped to Wilson by only 4200 votes and whose Wilson by only 4200 votes and whose 13 electoral votes gave him the elec-tion after many hours of doubt, the rohibitionist candidate polled 28,-00. Hughes' reputation as an eminent Baptist might have won him enough of those votes to have turn-ed the tide had there been no pro-hibitionist ticket. The prohibitionist vote also exceeded the Hughes plurality in Indiana and the Wilson plurality in New Hampshire, the latter being a mere 54 votes.

That was the closest election in recent history. Wilson won by 591, 000 popular votes and 12 electoral votes. His popular plurality exceeded the vote for Benson, socialist, by only 6000

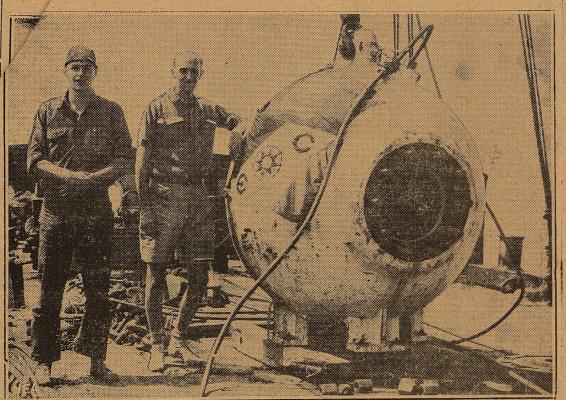

Four states went for Hughes and three for Wilson by pluralities smaller than the socialist vote, involving 64 electoral votes. In 1912, with three major parties, the socialist vote was larger in 15 states than the winning candidate's plurality at though it cannot be suggested that though it cannot be suggested that the national outcome would have been different had there been no socialist ticket. But if you think that Benson diverted votes from Hughes, rather than Wilson, as he certainly did not then he was respectively. did not, then he was responsible for Hughes' defeat in 1916.

The socialist vote will be largely a protest vote because the socialists have no hope of winning. Thomas himself says his ambition is to create "a vote that on our way to power will compel either old party to heed our demands."

Liberals, progressives and radicals who will not vote for Thomas are for the most part in the Roosevelt camp, or if they happen to be republican office-holders, are cold and silent as to the Hoover candidacy.

The essentially anti-Hoover vote must choose between Roosevelt and Thomas and a visible segment of it, sour on Roosevelt, will turn to Thomas. As far as one can observe, there are hardly any voters wavering between Thomas and Hoover. So if Hoover, for example, should get around 2,100,000 votes in New York this year against Roosevelt's 2,500,-000, and Thomas meanwhile should howed at mercas of $75,000 over Borns, who well be sentior, was unberted to great mercas of $75,000 over Borns, which of the sentior, was unberted by the sentior of the mercan and the who will not vote for Thomas are for the most part in the Roover conference here conference here in the Roover conference here. Increase in Crude Is Reported Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (UP)—
The department of commerce reported today a substantial increase in crude and refined petroleum for August. Crude exports were estimated at 2,839,000 barrels, an increase of 590,000 over July. Refined exports were 5,295,000 barrels or an increase of 61,000 over the previous month. The increase brought crude shipments to within 17,000 of last year's August report while the valuation showed an increase of $975,000 over the corresponding period a year ago. However, when the work's all done this fall, Dobie will turn himself toward Mexico, there to collect tales for a year under the guardianship of the Guggenheim foundation. Exactly when he will go, or precisely where, he does not know. He expects to ride through northern Mexico on a mule's back, stopping here to talk with a wood-gatherer packing his burros and there to listen to a goat herder ease his loneliness. Under the stars there will be blinking camp fires. When the smoke circles upward quietly, creating a sort of understanding between men of the range, first one and the other will tell tales of long experiences in the brush country. RED TAPE OR HUMANITY?

Some of the ways in which the American immigration law is applied are—to say the least—a trifle odd.

Last winter Mrs. John Lambert, Canadian-born wife of an American citizen, went to Nova Scotia to visit her sick mother. While there she gave birth, prematurely, to a son. The child was frail, and she had to delay her return so that she overstayed her re-entry permit.

Now, with the child strong enough to travel, she is trying to take it back to her husband's home in Maine— o'clock in the evening." and the U.S. immigration authorities won't let her in, saying she is a Canadian citizen.

Maybe the rules justify this stand, but it is hard to see any other justification for it. The worship of red tape tell you. in the bureau that is keeping this family separated must have reached a height uncommon even in the American immigration service.

That decrease of 50 per cent in orders for red ink in one of the southern cities would also seem to point to an improvement in business.

Control Drive

SAN BENITO. (UP)—W. E. Anderson, consulting engineer for the International Waters commission, believes the recent Rio Grande flood will undoubtedly impress on the United States government the importance of carrying out without delay the flood control plan recommended by the commission.

Engineers working in consultation with Anderson and under direction of Col. S. F. Crecelius. U. S. A., made a survey of the Rio Grande and its floodways last year and its was on this that the commission based the plan submitted to the government.

The commission recommended that the government take over the flood control works in the lower valley, carry them to completion at a cost of about $4,000.000 and maintain them at a cost of about $150.-COUNTY OF MIDLAND.

171-10z Spaeth Says Amos 'N' Andy Created a New Form of Art

Novels fifty years from now may be first presented in instalments over the radio because, without knowing it, Amos 'n' Andy created a brand-new form of art, declares Sigmund Spaeth, musician and radio interpreter. These two have succeeded, as have Bud and Colonel Stoopnagle where some great stage dio interpreter. These two have succeeded, as have Bud and Colonel Stoopnagle, where some great stage comedians have failed because some who have been hits on the screen lose, at the "mike," their sense of waiting for the laugh, Spaeth writes in McCall's for October:

"Radio was an industry for years and years before anybody connected with the business arrived at the notion that it might also be an art. But as yet radio criticism, like radio art, is still in its infancy. The aesthetic evaluations still wait the touch of someone who will arise and tell the invisible audience just what it ought to like and why. On the whole it seems to me better than at least one field of human endeavor should remain democratic and subject to mass judgment and nothing else. In my opinion, Charlie Chaplin was more fun back in the days when he was just a good clown and not the great tragic genius acclaimed by magazines devoted to the formation of mubic tasts and LARGE bedroom in brick house; has new office desk; shower bath; private enticles. It seems to me that he was the provided to the formation of public taste and opinion. The trouble lay in the fact that Chaplin read some of the articles. It seems to me that he was the provided to the big read tragic gentless acclaimed by magazines devoted to the formation of public taste and opinion. The trouble lay in the fact that Chaplin read some of the articles. It seems to me that he was "Accordingly, it is with great hesitation that I make the suggestion that Amos and Andy are actual pi-oneers in the development of a brand-new art form. The narrative oneers in the develonment of a brand-new art form. The narrative which has come to America nightly for these several years can hardly be termed a play or a novel. It owes a certain kinship to the comic strip of the newspapers, but it is done more amply and with strokes of more finesse and subtlety. I am far from pinning that fatal word 'genius' upon either of the talented woung performers. But for good or ill, Amos and Andy write and deliver a narrative of Negro life which has commanded a larger audience than that ever attained by any American minstrels. Uncle Tom's Cabin did not bloom under a bushel basket, but even in its heyday Simon Legree himself was not as widely known as the Kingfish.

"What the future holds for this particular form of story telling no man can know. In fifty years' time it may be that the Dreiser or Sinclair Lewis off the day will not choose to brint at all, but will do his Babbitt or his An American Tragedy in fifteen minute radio snatches.

"Only by trial and error will we heached to be a play to learn which of our great."

"Only by trial and error will we be able to learn which of our great and near great are geared to ride the ether waves and creep into every household. The highly popular Maurice Chevalier was admittedly a radio failure. Without his smile and tilted straw hat the man seemed less than nothing. Yet Ed Wynn, who has always placed great reliance upon elaborate make-up, has become the reigning sensation, of the become the reigning sensation of the air.

"It is not the absence of beards, wigs and putty noses that strips the actor of his most cherished possession. The thing which disturbs the stage comedian when he steps before the microphone is that he is bereft of his sense of timing. 'Wait for your laughs' is an old stage adage. The skilled performer picks the precise moment to plunge in with another gag and it will generally be a split second before the merriment has abated. When the performer sits in front of a little disc which neither class nor laughs, he is playing an entirely different disc which neither clavs nor laughs, is each playing an entirely different game. One element in the success of Ed Wynn is that he has always supplied his own laughter. even in the theatre. His trick of becoming convulsed with giggles in the middle of his own gags stands him in good stead in the studio. It affords him a chance to follow his natural rhythms.

"Of course. Wynn is not the only stage star who has made the transition successfully. Burns and Allen are excellent on the air and so is Walter O'Keefe. Eddie Cantor, after a slow start, became highly popular. Increasingly I think radio will develop its own stars. The two comedians who seem to me most happy in surmounting radio difficulties and taking advantage of its peculiar merits are Bud and Colonel Stoopnagle. I mean that this is not in any sense a translated stage turn but something belonging entirely to air presentation."

who will preside over this critical session.

People in Dublin and London are wondering whether "Dev" will unbend and go about to any Geneva social affairs. The chances are that he will not. At home he leads an almost monastic life, divided between his work for the state, his family and his church. He still lives in the little, low. two-story stucco house in the suburbs of Dublin. He still gets up at 6:30 in the morning, no matter how late he may have worked the night before. He still daily goes to early mass at St. Mary's church, Booterstown. His office is furnished with Spartan simplicity—only a desk, a large cabinet and a few chairs. The only luxury is a large and handsome carpet made by one of the Irish guilds. Every bit of its furniture and decorations is Irish made. its furniture and decorations is Ir-
