Midland-Stanton Game Postponed Because of Weather

MONDAY SETTLED AS TIME

Officials Agree the Gate Would Be Very Small

Postponement of the Midland-Stanton grid game from this afternoon until Monday afternoon at 3:30 was announced at 1:40 this afternoon from the office of Supt. W. W. Lackey of the Midland public schools, following a telephone communication with Supt. C. L. Sone of the Stanton system.

Both superintendents had advocated deferring the game until a more advantageous time, rain having whipped through the heavy air intermittently during the morning and for several hours last night and the football field here being slower than it possibly has been since the grass first took root. It was agreed by both schoolmen that the gate would be the smallest in history in case the game were played this afternoon and that none of the earmarks of a Midland-Stanton game would be reflected in the result, unless the undoubted rivalry between the two grid squads were exceeded.

From a financial standpoint, the game would have been impracticable, Supt. Sone said. "There, too, is the imminent danger of students of the two schools contracting colic in such weather. I agree with the school authorities of Midland that the game would offer more attractive features if played Monday, and to that sort of arrangement I am satisfied."

It was estimated here that had the game been played this afternoon less than 200 would have been in the stands, exclusive of students.

STEAMER SINKS BUT LIST OF 39 RESCUED TODAY

VICTORIA, Sept. 30. (UP)—The steamer Nevada sank in a North Pacific graveyard, carrying 39 seamen and passengers, it radioed to the Dollar liner President Madison today.

Three survivors, James Thorsen and Fritz Dewell of Portland, Ore., and Lucena N. DeCaney of Manila Bay, rescued after 48 sleepless hours.

William E. Robertson of Redondo Beach, Calif., radioman on the Nevada, locked himself in the cabin and refused SOS messages until the ship sank.

The Nevada rammed the shore and mountainous waves prevented abandoning in boats, the waves pounding the ship to pieces.

HARD ON BABY CHICKS

Continual rainfall may have the farmer "fed up," but the poultry raiser has another way of saying it—"he has his crow full," according to D. E. Holister, who received 225 baby chicks from a large poultry farm just at the beginning of the bad weather.

Holister, who had received 175 chicks only a short time before, is having to stay up nights with his large family. The best draft will kill dozens of chicks, the least change in temperature is apt to be disastrous to his investment.

Detroit to Tokyo Plane Returned

DETROIT, Mich. (UP)—The yellow biplane "Erie" of Detroit, in which Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock flew from Detroit to Tokyo in 1927, has been returned to Arthur D. Cronin, who purchased it at an auction a year ago.

'Yucca Anniversary' Week In Honor Big Playhouse

Polo Star's Mother Takes the Reins

A famous sportswoman, and a sportsman's mother, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Sr., here is shown on one of her mounts as she attended the annual running of the classic Meadowbrook Cup race at Westbury, Long Island.

Yucca Anniversary week will be celebrated beginning Sunday. Three years ago, on Oct. 1, John Bonner assumed management of the Yucca under its original set up. Now, beginning Oct. 2 and lasting through Oct. 8, the anniversary of the magnificent playhouse is to be celebrated.

Yucca Anniversary week will be opened with "Grand Hotel" which is said by critics to be the greatest talking picture made in years. This great picture had the longest run ever recorded in New York City and the people there in many other cities paid $1.50 admission, so to see it. The Yucca prices will be only 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children under 12.

Other features of Yucca Anniversary week will be announced later. Manager Bonner has a surprise up his sleeve which will delight Midland people, he believes. Excellent pictures are scheduled for the entire week.

Yucca Anniversary week is theatre-going week. It is expected that more people will see pictures next week than during any one week since the week the Yucca opened three years ago.

HIGHWAY WASHOUT REPORTED

Water Five Feet on Road Between Kent And Pecos

A sun that gives every evidence of being mildewed remained out of sight another day, bringing added rainfall and disruption of plans of farmers, tourists on highways, high school football games, and otherwise continuing the handicap bad weather has imposed on this area for the past several days.

Rainfall of 7.1 inch between 4 o'clock yesterday and 8 this morning, bringing the total of the past 24 hours to 1.2 and that of the month to 7.85, was felt over this entire region, reports from surrounding towns showed.

The worst inconvenience from rainfall was at a point between Pecos and Kent, where water stood five feet deep on the Bandhead highway. Several washouts on the highway at that point will keep traffic delayed from one to four days, even if the water recedes, it was estimated.

Rain was still falling, with no indication of ceasing, most towns reported, among them Big Spring, Wink, Odessa, Crane, Post, Stockton, McCamey, Seminole, where roads were described as impassable, Searavies and Lamesa.

Midland merchants said at noon today they have sold more slickers, rubber boots and other rubber goods than any year in the last 15 years. Calls were exhausting stocks of goods and frenzied telegrams ordering more were being dispatched.

Rains tonight and Saturday were forecast in government stations throughout most of Texas, especially in West Texas.

Postal Telegraph rainfall here was limited, Postal Telegraph reporting its city call boxes out of order through line trouble. The Texas & Pacific Railway Co. reported it was managing to run trains through on schedule but that water was encroaching the right of way at several spots between here and Fort Worth.

Oldest Lifer's Life Is Ended

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., Sept. 30. (UP)—Jess Pomeroy, America's oldest life termer, died this morning at the Bridgewater state farm. He celebrated his seventy-third birthday November 29 after 56 years of imprisonment. He spent 36 years in solitary confinement. He was convicted of murder when 15 years old.

HINGES ON SUPREME DECISION

Mandamus Plea Is Second Time Case Goes to Court

AUSTIN, Sept. 30. (UP)—Judge Robertson, after a conference with Sterling and Ferguson attorneys this morning, announced that no decision would be made before Monday on the application of Sterlings for appointment of the Ferguson taking commission for functioning in various parts of the state.

Neither Governor Sterling nor Mrs. Ferguson were present when the Sterling supporters introduced a written document asking for an indefinite number of commissioners to be named by Judge Robertson to go into various localities and take oral testimony, open ballot boxes and afterward seal them, sending to the district court her after determining the validity of the votes.

Ferguson's claim that he was "guest" in Robertson's court, denying that he was authorized to rule in the election case, Jim Ferguson, his daughter, Ouida Halle, Halle, and attorneys were present.

Miss Helen Fortescue, above, the younger daughter of Major and Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and a sister of Mrs. Thomas Massie who figured in the sensational "honorable murder" case in Honolulu, will make her debut in Washington, D. C., during the coming season.

Miss Fortescue has been one of the most popular members of the capital's younger set.

RFCS AUGUST LOAN REPORT SAID DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. (UP)—South Tremble, clerk of the house, said today that the August loan report of the Reconstruction Finance corporation would not be known under any circumstance until next week.

His statement caused some to believe that he may reverse his previous action in making public the records during the last ten days of July. The delay is due to examination of the corporation's brief opposing publication.

Ferguson's Last Term Featured By Hot Battle

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN. (UP)—"Governor Jim" as Ferguson had become affectionately known in place of "Farmer Jim" easily won a nomination for a second term over Charles H. Morris, East Texas banker.

He won even more easily over Republican Rene B. Creager of Brownsville, then beginning his climb to lordship of the republican party in Texas. Ferguson was re-elected Jan. 16, 1917, and was soon head-over-heels in a fight with the University of Texas.

The legislature appropriated $1,640,000 to run the university for two years. This was exclusive of buildings which are erected on land proceeds.

Governor Ferguson called the regents to his office. He had already prepared for them a communication, later to become famous for its expression "no money people are getting hog wild about higher education."

First the governor advised them the university had not a proper president in Robert Vinson, now head of Western Reserve.

"He is a sectarian preacher," Ferguson said. "I have no objection to your president, being a minister," he continued. "But I do deny the right of the university to pay out state money to any ministers as long as he continues to preach."

BOYS INVENT A DIVING HELMET

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UP)—Two boys with an inventive turn of mind have perfected a diving helmet from a discarded five-gallon oil can, a piece of rubber tubing and a bicycle pump, which will permit its wearer to remain submerged for more than an hour without suffering harmful effects.

The helmet has a glass window and fits snugly over the shoulders. Harold Coffin, 16, weighted down with a 10-pound flat rock placed on top of the can, takes care of the submerged end of the business and his partner, Harold DeCarbaum, 15, mans the pump. An expert swimmer stands by in case of trouble.

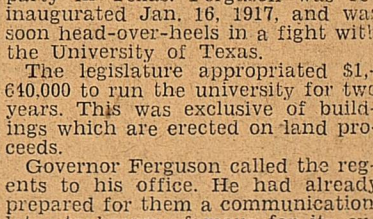

JUST BORN CRIMINALS

FORT WORTH. (UP)—Some of the animals at Forest Park zoo here are just "as human as we are," believes zoo keeper J. B. McHugh.

He looked at a baby Rhinoceros that haltingly swung around its cage. One arm of the baby monkey was gone. One morning, still quite young, the monkey stuck an exploring arm through the bars of its cage. With a single crunch "Source Alex," the baboon, lopped off the arm.

WAITING FOR A MAN TO DIE

Adolph Hitler and his National Socialists in Germany have an unenviable reputation for breathing forth hatred, uncharitableness and other kinds of verbal poison. But it remained for Hitler himself to go beyond the limit in a recent speech to his followers in Berlin. In this speech he said:

"My will is unshakable and my breath will last longer than that of my adversary, President Hindenburg, the man on whom the present government is based, is 84 and I am 43. My hour is coming and I can patiently wait for it."

Hindenburg will be 85 October 2. His birthday will bring him sincere tributes from all over the world, including many from his former enemies. Meanwhile, his chief domestic opponent admits that he is simply waiting for a great old man to die.

Mexico's new president, announcing a policy of "work and no politics," probably does not anticipate that this will make Mexico a dull country.

Side Glances . . . . . By Clark

"Yer wastin' yer time around here sonny. You oughtta go to college and study foolball."

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

And then I heard a story about Doc Ratliff. He was absent-mindedly extracting a nail from a tire and said, "Easy now. This won't be so bad."

Some more simple lore like that of Frank Dobie's. Two cowboys, in the early days, were so thirsty for righteousness that they sat on the back seat of the church and shot the preacher because he didn't talk loud enough for them to hear.

If every defeated politician in the United States were to act like Gandhi and start a fast just because things didn't go to suit them, what a reduction there would be in the population.

Maybe beer and the bonus are what we need to restore good conditions, but there is a widow here in town who said bacon and beans would be better for her and her children.

Al Smith's silence is one of the loudest reports to have been heard since Cal Coolidge was president.

I see where Jim Nolan writes Col. True a letter and takes a crack at the hour his paper was delivered. However, he had promised his wife they would have a big party as soon as the job was out of the way.

"That's all right, we'll drag it along as long as we can," the builder said.

There's a girl here in town who wears a hat about the size of a dime but she looks like a million dollars.

Swapping Yarns with Col. True

Col. True maintains a standing invitation to others to write to him and tell of their own extraordinary experiences. No holds barred. Address Col. True, in care of The Reporter-Telegram.

Dear Colonel: I once lived in a town where the paper was delivered before 7 p. m. on week days and before 9 a. m. on Sunday. What do you think of that for a true story? J. S. NOLAND.

Sir: I lived in that town once, myself, but have forgotten the name of it. That was the place where the 4-40 train came at three o'clock, the Wednesday bridge club met on Tuesday, and Thursday was fish day. Right near this town, you will remember, was that mountain with the fast echo. You could hear the echo five minutes before you yelled. This was the place where the ace of all carrier boys lived. He could climb the court house flag pole and throw a spear behind the screen door of every house in town. He was fast, too, and usually had the papers distributed thirty to forty minutes before they came off the press. The newspaper publisher in this town was, without doubt, an enterprising man. With each copy of the paper he furnished a beautiful young girl to read to you, but people finally objected to that because it was so much trouble to listen. This was just naturally a fast town. It was where the fellow lived that you've often heard about—the one who could switch off the electric light, then wind the cat, put out the clock, undress and get in bed before the room got dark.

High School News

HERE IS STAFF

Here they are, the official staff of The Midland High News, student publication of the local school system:

Editor, Helen Foster; Asst. Editor, Alma Lee Hankins; Society Editor, Kathleen Scruggs; Sports Editor, Jack Prothro; Jokes Editor, A. B. Cole.

The elections were held Monday. The staff has the cooperation of every member of the junior class, the body that annually is charged with editing the school news, a body that will supply about 30 reporters.

AN EDITORIAL

By Helen Foster, Editor

Thrills! thrills! and more thrills! Football season has at last arrived! And is Midland high school ready? I'll say she is! Ready and waiting. And, by the way, maybe you think the town fans aren't.

There are four keen games at home this season, and three out-of-town games that simply will be grand. Nothing stirs the good old spirit of the high school more than football. It really wakes up some that have been sleeping since last November. And you can bet your life that everyone is taking part and helping to support the Bulldogs. The band swells the breeze with its music, and the pep squad and student body chime in with "Play ball, boys, old Midland has the ball!"

And are those three famous coaches working? They even work on Saturdays. And I'll bet the Bulldogs wouldn't break training for all the fair damsels in the country.

Coach Williams and his Bullpups are not sitting around twiddling their thumbs either. Bill Pratt is their captain, and you should just watch them go.

"A HOT TIME" By Malcolm Brenneman. Thirty Freshmen, representing the eighth grade, lined up to be "bearded" a few weeks ago. They were released with a heavy blow from Allen "Stink" Dorsey.

A strong west wind helped carry them down the long line. Some of them did not know which way to go, but they found out after the first two steps that it was time to get somewhere quickly.

The thirteen "fish" to go through started with terrific speed and ended a little faster, as he reported when he was walking back. "If I didn't fly through there with the stars and stripes, I'm sure walking back with them."

Some of the little "minnows" would sail a few feet when some of the seniors hit them. But it was all in fun and the "fish" will get revenge in their sophomore year.

DR. DOBIE SPEAKS

Dr. J. Frank Dobie, of Texas university, who gave an address on "Tales of the Texas Soil" in the high school auditorium Monday evening, Sept. 26, entertained the student body of Midland high school during the chapel period Tuesday morning with stories of animal life and terse and witty remarks. The main thought of his talk was advice to the students to be observant. He said: "A change in scenery does not cure a blind man."

"If one sees nothing of beauty in Midland, he will see nothing in New York."

"Don't be like the man about whom the poet wrote, 'A primrose by the river's brim. A yellow primrose was to him, And it was nothing more.'"

"It is an accomplishment to see the small holes on the hoof of the deer as well as to be able to look down the rifle and shoot the deer in the eye."

"Education is the intelligent observation of the natural phenomena. Progress is a condition where everybody runs, not because he wants to but because he must run to keep from being run over."

was of white tulle trimmed with orange blossoms. The groom wore the latest in golf knickers and a lettered sweater. The letter was an "A."

As they walked down the aisle, the groom had a scowl on his face. The smiling faces on each side of the aisle angered him. He made sarcastic remarks to them. The bride became the least bit fearful and implored him to be nice to the wedding guests.

The groom did not seem to appreciate this, for he tripped the bride and she fell sprawling to the floor. He absently picked the orange blossoms from her veil, saying, "We will win, we'll lose, we'll win, we'll lose." Then disgustedly he kicked the bride and walked on down the aisle.

The bride rose to her feet, adjusted her veil, and ran after him. When she reached his side, the groom was saying to the minister, "I hate to always be telling sob stories, but—"

The minister repeated the wedding (See HIGH SCHOOL NEWS page 4)

French Warship Claims Record

PARIS. (UP)—The French Navy has taken possession of what is said to be the world's fastest warship, the destroyer leader "Cassard," just assigned to the fleet after speed trials.

During the tests the French craft attained a speed of slightly over 43 knots, thereby eclipsing the previous best record by a French ship, the Gerfault, last year.

Italy is not likely to allow the French claim for the world's warship speed record to go unchallenged. The Italians have, in the destroyer Cadamosto, what they believe to be the speediest fighting ship afloat. Launched at Naples, the Cadamosto was clocked at 43 1/2 knots during trials. The French naval experts say, however, that the Cassard is faster. This may mean that when the official figures are published the Cassard's speed will be shown as nearer 44 than 43 knots.

Launched Nov. 8, 1931, the first of a series of six ships of the 1931 naval program, the Cassard displaces 2,400 tons. The other vessels of this category will enter service within the next year. The Cassard is powered by engines developing 76,000 horsepower.

Both the United States and Great Britain, the dominant naval powers, have been eclipsed by the French and Italians in the construction of these fast destroyers. The contention of Anglo-Saxon naval technicians, however, is that such vessels, capable of excessive speed, have not the compensation of fighting qualities.

Fan Knowledge Betrays Youth

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UP)—A 10-year-old boy's interest in his home town baseball team solved a "mystery" for Juvenile Referee Adolph Stallman.

The boy was found in a railroad station and told the police that he had been abandoned by his mother while en route from St. Louis to New Orleans, La.

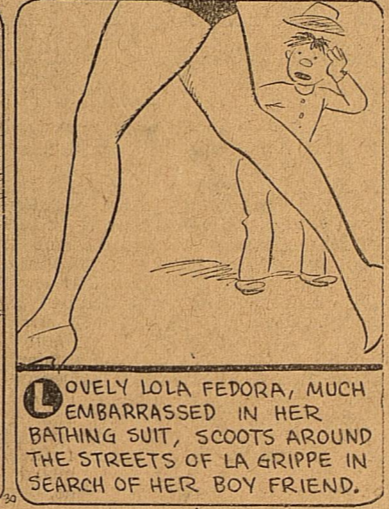

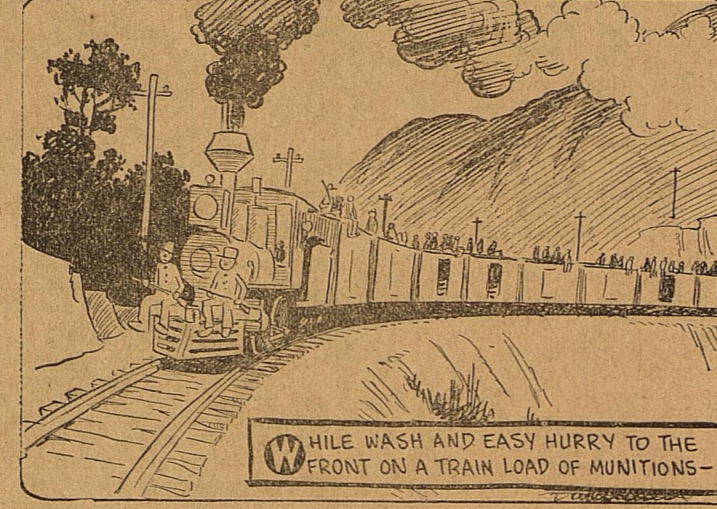

For three weeks Stallman traced down stories of the boy that he resided in New Orleans and had lived for a while at an orphanage. While Stallman hunted, the youth consumed hotdogs and pop at the judge's expense.

Realizing that the boy had been telling him "yarns," Stallman started to talk about baseball. When "Pepper" Martin's name was mentioned the boy said, "I know Pepper," he plays with the St. Louis Cardinals." When he told Stallman that Jim Bottomley was the Cardinal third baseman, he promptly got in touch with St. Louis authorities who identified the boy as a "run-away." Stallman personally put the boy

"This parade marched down the walk in front of the capitol and in about 15 or 20 minutes returned by the same route, to the state capitol and came directly in front of my office, where I was then conferring with the board of regents, and in turn exhibited said banners directly in my face and within twenty feet of where I and the board of regents were conferring. And while said banners were being flaunted in my face, various students of the university called to me in derisive tones to read the banners. And said body of students remained in front of my office window for twenty-five or thirty-five minutes, and the howling and yelping were of such degree that further deliberation of myself and board of regents was absolutely prevented. It is agreed by everybody in Austin that the president of the state university dismissed from their classes the entire student body of the university on the morning that said parade was formed on the university campus. It is further agreed that said banners, some of them ten and twelve feet long and three and four feet wide, were exhibited on university campus in the presence of the faculty of the university before said parade started on its march to the state capitol."

vows while the groom cursed. When the minister asked them to join right hands, the groom turned toward the audience, pulled a newspaper from his pocket, and said, "You all get quiet and start studying your Latane." The bride jerked him around just as the minister asked for the ring. "I forgot to get a wedding ring, but this will do just as well, replied the groom." He pulled from his pocket a referee's whistle, took the ring off and placed it on the bride's thumb. The couple was pronounced man and wife. The husband jerked the bride's hand from his wife's arms and kicked it above the pulpit, yelling, "We made the extra point!" To the guests' congratulations the husband replied, "It was a good little game, wasn't it?" The newly married couple drove from the church amid a shower of old footballs. And they lived happily ever afterward, which proves that time can even overcome a football.

Mrs. Barry: "Joe, what's that bump on your head?" Joe Beane: "That's where a thought struck me."

Mrs. McClintic: "So you have broken off another tooth, have you? How did you do it?" "Oh, shifting gears on a lollypop."

Mr. Barry: "We borrowed our numerals from the Arabs, our calendar from the Romans and our banking from the Italians. Can you think of other examples?" Leonard Scaggs: "Our lawn mower from the Smiths and our phonograph from the Browns."

Roy Skipper: "There's a lot of girls who don't want to get married." Charlene: "How do you know?" Roy: "I've asked them."

"Eddie Blanche," said Mr. Cowden "there are worse places than home to spend an evening." "I know it," retorted his modern daughter, "and Rick and I are going to visit a number of them tonight."

Found: "Dad, that problem you wanted for me in geometry was wrong." Mr. Armstrong: "I'm sorry, son." Found: "Oh, that's all right; the other dads missed it too."

Miss Mullino: "While I was in Europe I saw a bed twenty feet long and ten feet wide." Miss Lomax: "Sounds like a lot of bunk to me."

Mr. Barry (arriving home late at night): "Can't you guess where I've been?" Mrs. Barry (with rolling pin): "I can guess, but go on with your story."

FOOTBALL SKETCHES

By R. C. HANKINS

At this moment, one minute past ten, no absolute decision had been made on proposed Midland school authorities to postpone the Midland-Stanton game of this afternoon. The unwritten law of football makes the carrying out of the schedule snow, sleet, slish and brimstone axiomatic, but the Midland school authorities are not afraid to set up a precedent in order to safeguard health of the team and student body.

Superintendent W. W. Lackey and his three-blocks-long roadster took off shortly after this was being laboriously pointed out, and landed in a sea of mud before the office of Supt. C. L. Sone of Stanton, armed with proposals to defer playing of the game until one day next week, at which time the gate and health factor stand a chance of being less jeopardized.

Students at the institution were a bit less thoughtful, however, of consequences. Many had bought new raincoats and wanted to attend the game as a typical juvenile gesture. About 200 of these students rose to ed on its march to the state capitol. On May 31, 1917, the board of regents had been enjoined from removing a faculty member, and the veto message continued.

"Regardless of consequences, I am not going to sit idly by and approve $1,600,000 appropriation, and have my friends whom I have appointed to assist me in carrying on the affairs of the government permanently resigned from having a voice as to how the vast sum of money shall be spent, and being required to keep any official against their will."

"Aside from court procedure, I refuse to be intimidated or bluffed by any mob, and, as long as I am in the governor's office, I shall not be afraid to exercise any powers which the constitution of the state gives me in any manner that to me seems right and proper. I am only answerable to my own conscience and the people who elected me."

"After all, it is no more the duty of a government to educate a man to be a lawyer than it is to educate him to be a blacksmith; it is no more the duty of the government to be a farmer; and I again reiterate that there are too many people going hog wild about higher education."

"Already I have been threatened with anonymous letter of physical violence, if I veto this appropriation; but I shall not falter." The veto was filed with the secretary of state June 5, 1917.

The late Will Hogg, multi-millionaire son of Texas' other famous "Jim," and other ex-students rushed to the university's succor.

vote eye on playing the game. The football team to a man were in favor of digging their mud cleats into the floating bermuda.

Mr. Lackey, however, tried to discourage play. The health of the student body and the team is worth more than winning or losing a football game, he said in substance. Now is the time of the year when colds are prevalent, when football men are just in the state of physical condition when injuries are easier to sustain. This is the sort of day when the fans cannot reconcile pleasure and sitting in rainswept and chilly stands. The superintendent explained his stand was taken without conference with Stanton officials but that he hoped to secure the assent of the foe men to postpone the affair.

There seemed to be some sort of hesitancy of team members here to ask Stanton to delay the whistle summons, however, because it has become rather generally understood that Stanton has a heavier club—which means in most cases that the nasty weather would give Stanton more power than it could find on a hard field. This especially in view of the fact that Midland has shown almost no defense in the now Big Spring's purported cessation of illegibility charge pressure. Cope says Wood has been showing badly lately, not able to score more than 10 touchdowns in an afternoon's scrimmage and that Sheridan can't punt more than 60 yards with regularity.

The Sweetwater scribe says that Speeple Wood and Red Sheridan are feeling much better as a result of Big Spring's purported cessation of illegibility charge pressure. Cope says Wood has been showing badly lately, not able to score more than 10 touchdowns in an afternoon's scrimmage and that Sheridan can't punt more than 60 yards with regularity.

And while we're on the subject, Cope picks Midland to defeat Stanton 13-0. He was allowing for a sunshiny day, however, and a hard field. He said his club likely would lose to Abilene 20-0.

Personal: Publisher Barron will wear C. A. Goldsmith's pants tonight. Fly Pratt expects to gaily rant around the hardwood in those brief shorts that already have made history—we refer to those of Tiffin, Shades of Gandhi! The occasion? A kid's party. We asked Duard Scott, our photographer and Colonel True rolled into one, to sneak around and get a picture of Pratt's knees for the society page (you probably have seen our front page exhibits, one, two or three on legs and have learned our position on doiling up that page) but Scott doubted the wisdom of his going out into the night air.

One's personal evaluation of himself, quoting Head Coach L. K. Barry: "I don't like the professional back slapper. When a fellow keeps patting mine and letting me understand he thinks I'm a devil of a good fella, I lose out with him because I don't think that about myself, even."

If the game was carried out as per schedule, you and this department have already seen each other, probably through half obscuring clouds of swirling mist—which, after all, would be to our advantage. And you will have read this after seeing the game. At the moment, we believe Midland will win. Did I figure correctly or not? Hope so.

"Congress Dances" Coming to Grand

London, traditionally proud of its sons and daughters, awoke one day recently to learn that the newest motion picture queen is an English girl. But, to their utter surprise, they also learned that Germany claims her, for she has lived most of her life in Berlin and is accepted as a German.

Lillian Harvey, who will be seen at the Grand Sunday through Tuesday in "Congress Dances," is the girl. She's only a little more than five feet tall and she weighs only 85 pounds, but she has Europe at her feet just as securely as any American star has ever had it.

The Great Barrier Reef, fronting the coast of North Australia, is the largest coral reef in the world. It is 1000 miles long and 30 miles wide.

Music Is Great in "Grand Hotel" Film

Music plays an important part in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's road show picture of the famous Cicki Baum novel and play, "Grand Hotel," which will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Ritz theatre.

Through a novel method of synchronization, Director Edmund Goulding underlines the action and dialogue in the drama with atmospheric music, composed by himself in collaboration with orchestration experts.

Goulding, who wrote the music for "Love, Thy Magic Spell Is Everywhere" and other numbers, planned the musical score to emphasize the emotional intensity of the scenes and to interpret the varying moods of the action. Particularly effective use of music was made in the love scenes between Greta Garbo and John Barrymore.

The brilliant cast of "Grand Hotel" also includes Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery and Lionel Barrymore in starring roles with Lewis Stone and Jean Hersholt heading the large supporting cast.

Legal Precedent In Yucca Film

Legal precedents, even to architecture, inside details of police operations, disclosures of the methods of detectives, and other abstruse technical problems, went into the latest mystery drama of the screen, "Unashamed," which comes today to the Yucca theatre.

The new story, by Bayard Veiller, famous author of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," "Within the Law" and other stage and screen hits, deals with a police case, as do most of the noted playwright's stories. The dramatic climax comes in a sensational trial sequence.

In an effort to get something new in a courtroom setting "legal precedent" was sought by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer art department, and it was found that a new courthouse in Alabama had a modernistic court room. So the play has the first ultra-modernistic court set in the talkies. Harry Friedman, an attorney, was on the set throughout the "trial" of Robert Young to see that every line of dialogue and the action of every player conformed to court etiquette and legal precedent.

$20 FOR 15 CENTS! EL PASO—Walter Gregory was haled into police court and pleaded guilty to stealing 15 cents' worth of merchandise from a department store. He was fined $20. Walter took out a roll of $80 in cash, pulled out a twenty, and calmly paid the fine.

"Cock of the Air" Ends in Two Days

Only two days remain in which to witness Howard Hughes' comedy extravaganza, "Cock of the Air," at the Grand theatre. "Cock of the Air," with Chester Morris in the title role, is playing to capacity crowds.

The picture, which also has Billie Dove, Matt Moore and Yois D'Avril in the cast, is one of the most popular that has come to the Grand in many months.

"Cock of the Air" is a romantic farce, full of laughs from start to finish.

"Pa" Against Name For "Ma" Ferguson

HOUSTON, (UP)—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Texas' only woman governor, who will be returned to office next January, became famous as "Ma" over the vigorous protests of her husband, James E. Ferguson, a former governor himself.

The popular nickname was given Mrs. Ferguson in 1924, just before she was elected governor, by Frank Gibler, former Houston newspaperman, now operating a dude ranch near Monterey, Mex.

"Jim" Ferguson objected to Gibler's printed references to the governor as "Ma" and threatened Gibler, with bodily injury if he persisted in calling her that.

This, however, did not prevent the world at large from adopting the nickname. In Mrs. Ferguson's recent campaign against Gov. R. S. Sterling, "Jim" continued to speak of her as "Momma" from the stump.

Phonograph Record May Win Law Suit

PARIS, (UP)—If a phonograph needle scratching on a disk can be taken as legal evidence in a law court, M. Costa, a shopkeeper here, will receive $280 owed him by M. Cravero, who purchased merchandise to that extent, but failed to pay for it. Costa never kept books and relied upon honesty to run his business. The purchaser's word was sufficient guarantee until time passed and no money came in. His lawyer informed Costa that nothing could be done because of a lack of evidence that the goods had been purchased. There was no bill to prove it.

The shopkeeper, however, hit upon an idea and the next time Cravero came into his shop, he led him toward a curtain, behind which was hidden a recording phonograph.

"How much do you owe me?" he asked. "Seven thousand francs, and I'll pay you when I can."

The lawyers are satisfied with the evidence, but the court has not decided whether a phonograph record is legal.

EXPENSIVE ICE CREAM

LOS ANGELES.—It might be lucky to find a nickel in an ice cream bar, but it was extremely lucky to Helen Heath, although she suffered some from the experience. Helen, age 9, swallowed the nickel while eating the bar and became seriously ill. The girl's father brought suit against the ice cream company and collected $450.

Despite the fact it has more than 3,000,000 acres of woodland, only about 6 per cent of the lumber used by Great Britain is home grown.

Passengers Demand Night Air Travel

NEW YORK, (UP)—The public, skeptical about flying in the daytime a few years ago, now wants night travel, according to the United Air lines. The line has added to its extensive night flying operations of 6,000,000 miles a year, midnight departures out of New York and Chicago.

These midnight departures were tried out experimentally. The patronage was such that they have been made permanent. The passengers sleep in the reclining, adjustable chairs.

The right of trial by jury was one of the fundamental rights wrested by the English people from King John in 1215.

In the past 75 years about 100 monarchs, presidents, princes and other high officials of state have been murdered.

BACK IN THE DAYS WHEN "TINKER-TO-EVERS-TO-CHANCE" Was a Popular Combination

TINKER-TO-EVERS-TO-CHANCE was a famous double play combination known to every baseball fan in the country from 1908 to 1912. Frank Chance was manager of the Cubs. Brown, Reulbach, Overall, Cole and White were winning pitchers, and Johnny Kling caught them all.
