THE IGNOMINY OF FLIGHT

The spectacle of rich Americans finding asylum abroad when the atmosphere at home gets overheated has never been a really pleasant one. We got several examples of it during the turmoil following the Teapot Dome exposure; and now Samuel Insull has treated us to one more.

Insull's flight across Europe from Paris to Athens will hardly be the sort of thing to arouse sympathy for him on this side of the water. When his great financial empire crashed there is no doubt that the nation's frame of mind was, on the whole, sympathetic toward him. Later, when the grand jury acted, people were still willing to suspend judgment and give him that benefit of the doubt to which every accused man is entitled. But his scramble to get out of the reach of extradition treaties has not helped his cause.

Disguised as a cow, a Russian university student evaded Soviet frontier guards and slipped across the border into Poland. Used the Milky Way, so to speak.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.) To be an argument, after the game, as to whether Hallman, Lewellen, Jones, Little Johnny Nobles, Sherrod, Roberts or "who" is the best ground game.

We had demonstrated in two games that Midland has a well-coached team, worthy of class A competition. We still have it, and better. The pups were up against state championship material when they played Sweetwater and will be all the more able to use their wits and their team work against a team like Colorado, a plenty strong aggregation at that.

A news item says that the "Roosevelt-Garner-Perguson" buttons will be scattered all over the state within a few days. Be careful, when nipping the button on your coat, that you don't get stuck.

I have just read where an animal trainer whipped four leopards with a stare. Putting the leopards on the spot, you might say.

When that north wind hit me this morning, I felt like I had been pummeled.

Swapping Yarns with Col. True

Col. True maintains a standing invitation to others to write to him and tell of their own extraordinary experiences. No holds barred. Address Col. True, in care of The Reporter-Telegram.

Dear Colonel: About 12 years ago I was working for an oil company in South America. We picked a likely location and spudded in a well. We drilled down 20,000 feet without finding a thing, but I still believed my judgment had been good when I picked the location, so we kept on drilling. After 16,000 feet more, I was just about to give up and admit defeat when we struck. That was the richest find I ever made. The well produced 8,000 barrels of pure castor oil a day. ARCH THOMAS.

Sir: That reminds me of the time I was the sole survivor of a shipwreck and was cast upon an island in the South seas, without food or clothing. But before lying down to die I made a short trip of exploration. I found this to be probably the most remarkable island ever known. About two hundred yards from the beach I found a jelly-roll mine, which pleased me very much, of course. I knew I would not starve. There were raspberry, apple, strawberry and cinnamon rolls in this mine. As the weeks passed, I lived on jelly-rolls and made other excursions into the interior. There I found many other wonderful things.

X-Ray Stunt to Aid Cataracts

DETROIT, (UP).—If you want to see with your eyes closed or read through the back of your head, you can visit an X-ray specialist and do it. The stunt is not so crazy as it sounds, for it was demonstrated at the American Roentgen Ray Society's convention here recently by Dr. A. H. Pirie, of Montreal. Dr. Pirie uses lead letters and pictures in his experiments. These block the light from the X-ray machine, and the shadows of these blocks fall upon the retina of the eye, even with your eyes closed, making the impression. "The value of this," Dr. Pirie explained, "is that it enables a physician to tell whether or not a cataract operation will be successful. If the retina of the eye is unharmed the cataract sufferer will be able to see the letters by means of the penetration of the X-ray machine."

Dr. Pirie explained that the same apparatus, placed at the back of the head, will register upon the retina. The letters or images must be placed upside down in the machine because our eyes reverse the images we see.

Advertisement for Firestone tires. Starting Sunday "BRING 'EM BACK ALIVE" Greatest Jungle Thriller Ever Made! Preview Sat. Nite 11:15 YUCCA. Includes price list for tires: 4.40-21 $3.98, 4.40-21 $4.49, 4.50-21 $4.57, 4.75-21 $5.27, 4.75-20 $5.30.

Time for Checking Tires, Says Hejl

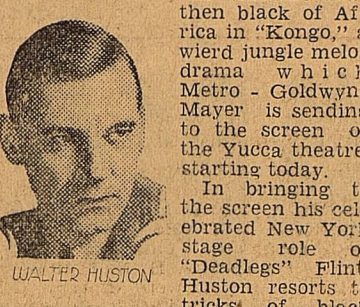

"The wise motorist will see that he is not caught unprepared by a sudden cold snap," said W. F. Hejl, of the Firestone Service Station. "Fall weather is so changeable that even though you start out on a trip in fine weather, you may come back through sleet or snow; and then is when you need non-skid on your tires."

"Tires are so low in price now that it is impractical to risk life and property trying to run out the last mile. Based on the present selling price, the last thousand miles in a 4.75-19 tire is worth only 43 cents. When you drive with smooth tires you are gambling 43 cents against your life and your family's. You may need safe tires for only one second of your life, but if that second comes when you are traveling 60 miles an hour—88 feet per second—safe tires mean life itself. The extra traction and safety of Firestone tires was recently demonstrated on the salt beds near Salt Lake City, when Ab Jenkins drove a Firestone-equipped Pierce-Arrow car 2710 miles in 24 hours over a circular 10-mile course—an average speed of 112.91 miles per hour—breaking all existing world records.

"Fall should be the time for a general check-up of the car," continued Mr. Hejl. "The battery soon will be called upon to turn over a motor siff from cold, and lights will be burning for longer hours. The generator charging rate should be

'Kongo' Shows How Natives Are Tricked

For dark and tricky ways the "heathen Chinese" is not nearly so peculiar as the ways of Walter Huston in "Kongo," a weird jungle melodrama which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is sending to the screen of the Yucca theatre starting today.

In bringing to the screen his celebrated New York stage role of "Deadlegs" Flint, Huston resorts to tricks of black magic in holding the rebellious savage tribes in subjection. According to William Cowen, who directed "Kongo" and who once lived in the part of Africa with which the story deals, black magic is not advanced and the battery inspected that might fall when you need them most. Spark plugs need adjusting for hard winter starting and radiator hose connections should be inspected so that you will not waste antifreeze solution or alcohol. "If the motorist checks his tires, battery, brakes, spark plugs and radiator hose, he can rest assured he will have safe, trouble-free winter driving."

ing more than the tricks which all white magicians play on their theatre audiences, but the black tribesmen believe they are supernatural. For this reason there is a governmental ban on such practices, but there are times, says Cowen, when it is necessary for self-preservation. Among the tricks which Huston plays are feats of fire-eating, turning a man into a skeleton, and the chopping off of Lupe Velez's head in front of the astonished blacks. Needless to say the head is restored and Lupe goes on her grinning way.

Says Senator Owes Him $21 Interest

DETROIT, (UP).—Councilman John C. Lodge figures that Senator James Couzens owes his $21 in interest charges, but he doesn't believe he will ever present a bill. Years ago, Lodge claims, he was sitting in a bootblack shop when Couzens gave him a piece of paper to hold until he was returned. It was a check for $30,000,000 Couzens had received for his Ford Motor company stock. "I held that check for 12 minutes," Lodge said. "To my way of figuring, interest charges would be $21 for that length of time. I can't decide whether the experience was worth it."

And this is the will of him that sent me, that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life; and I will raise him up at the last day.—St. John 6:40.

SPECIAL OCTOBER CLEARANCE TRADE-IN SALE on Firestone NON-SKID TIRES

FISCAL year closes October 31, and we are offering unusual bargains during the month of October.

October and November are the dangerous months of the year for driving. Trade in your thin, worn tires for Firestone non-skid tires, used by race drivers because they are the safest tires in the world.

Glen Schultz recently set a new world's record for the Pikes Peak climb, where hair-pin turns were made at high speeds and where a skid or tire failure meant death.

All world's records on road and track, for safety, speed, mileage and endurance are held by Firestone Gum-Dipped Non-Skid tires.

Come in today and exchange your smooth, thin, worn tires for the safest and best tires you can buy.

They cost you no more—besides, in this October Clearance Sale we will give you a liberal allowance on your old tires in exchange for these safe non-skid Firestone tires.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Captain John Steele, well known polo player, secretly desires a certain pony which he cannot afford. His daughter, Mickey, buys it for him while he is away. Steele hurries the training of the animal in order to be able to use him in a game against Johnny Raeburn, former owner of the horse, and captain of the Riverdale polo team.

Johnny, after the game, asks Steele to play in the open championship. Steele refuses, saying that he doesn't belong on Long Island.

Steele and Johnny leave the polo field together. After being introduced to him, Mickey offers to race Johnny to the club. Johnny, smilingly agrees. During the race, Mickey's car has a blowout, and the car out of control, serves directly in Raeburn's path.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

III.

Raeburn saw Mickey desperately trying to hold the car on the road. He threw his wheel hard to the left, not seeing the shallow ditch at the side of the road. His car jumped into the ditch, somersaulted twice, and came to a rest—a battered wreck.

Mickey, her face a deathly white, pulled her car to a dead stop and dashed out, followed by Steele. Johnny was lying unconscious beneath the car. Steele with the help of the astonished Mickey, tore feverishly at the debris and managed after a few minutes, to extricate Raeburn from the wreck.

"Oh, Skipper!" wailed Mickey almost hysterically. "He's dead—he's dead! Oh, he did it just to save us—can't we do something?"

"Get yourself together," her father commanded in his best military manner. "He's all right."

Johnny Raeburn was taken to their quarters nearby.

The doctor said there was nothing to worry about, but stressed the necessity of the patient remaining where he was for several weeks. So Mickey Steele set about nursing him back to health. And as she nursed her patient she liked him more and more; as for the patient, well, the doctor hadn't said anything about a cardiac injury, but he was sure that something was happening to his heart. But neither revealed their feeling to the other.

Johnny, from the time the ether began wearing off, returned to his task of trying to induce Steele to forsake the red blood of the army for the blue blood of society. Even ashamedly. He didn't run far, as he quickly tired. But he did try to ward them off.

Mickey, while Steele was taking a hungry gulp of society, cavorted with Johnny Raeburn. They went riding often.

"Johnny," said Mickey one day, deeply troubled. "I haven't seen the Skipper all evening."

"Don't worry," Johnny tried to hide his own anxiety.

"Did he practice today?"

"Yes-es," he answered, hesitantly. "He rides like a fool. I hate to see him do it tight and really reckless."

"I know," she said nervously. "Did anyone get hurt today?"

"No-oh," Johnny tried to make light of it. "Hadley got bumped on the knee—nothing serious."

"Johnny, the Skipper and I have to get away from here," she suddenly pleaded. "He came here for my sake—we've got to leave for his."

Johnny's face fell.

"After the game, I mean," she went on swiftly. "Won't you help me?"

Johnny Raeburn put his arms around her quietly.

"Anything you want, I've got a small ranch on the coast. Just the place for the Skipper." He looked at her tenderly. "—and you—darling."

Mickey didn't resist.

The Ardmore team, with much polo and color, invaded Riverdale. Johnny Raeburn introduced Steele to Charles Morrell, captain of the foreign team.

"Steele, I want you to meet Charles Morrell—Captain Steele."

Steele shook hands with him. "Glad to know you."

"So pleased," acknowledged Morrell suavely. He turned to Johnny with a smile. "So this is your friend—your ace-in-the-hole. I've been hearing so much about."

Raeburn grinned. "He's playing against you—at No. 3."

"I have much to look forward to," smiled Morrell.

The customary ball was held for the visiting polo team that night. A colorful distinguished affair, with the decorative gowns of the beautiful women blending harmoniously with the sombre black of the men.

Steele, slightly inebriated, was sitting at a table with Rita Duncan, a sensuous-looking young widow.

Johnny and Mickey were dancing ecstatically.

"Oh, Johnny!" Mickey exclaimed with ardor. "I'm so happy! Happy!"

Johnny drew her closer. "I'm going to keep you that way—forever!"

The music stopped and he took his arm from around her reluctantly.

"I could dance all night!" said Mickey with a little laugh. "I know how it feels to be drunk now—without drinking."

"Just for that," grinned Johnny. "You can have a glass of champagne."

They walked over to Steele's table.

"Having a good time, Skipper?" asked Mickey.

"Don't I look it?" her father asked jovially.

"Yes," she answered, pointedly. "You do. Better count them!"

"First tonight," retorted Steele downing a cocktail. "Keep her off my neck, Johnny."

"Do my best."

The music started and Steele glided off with Rita Duncan. Mickey sipped her drink thoughtfully.

"Johnny—who is that woman?"

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the great animal artist, Paul Bransom . . . inspired by the savage ferocity of the striped tiger, known throughout the world as the terror of the jungle. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Rabbit Defeats Dog in a Fight

TULARE, Cal. (UP)—A snorting, wild-eyed rabbit, who defeats dogs in fair combat, has been discovered here.

The rabbit, which weighs eight pounds, bared its teeth and decisively vanquished a dog who was annoying him one day recently. The "battle," although it could hardly be termed that, came after the rabbit had tired of playing with the dog.

The canine, after feeling the rabbit's teeth once, left the field and ran, yelping, into the M. E. Jones residence. The Jones family own the rabbit.

Votes For First Time at 71 Years

HARWICH, Mass. (UP)—James B. F. Smith, 71, a native of Harwich, voted for the first time in his life in the recent state primary election.

Throughout more than half a century as a fisherman, skipper, and lighthouse attendant, Frizzell always was at sea when election day came around.

He's a pensioner now, and intends to vote in every subsequent election.

FEEDING OUT BETTER

DALLAS.—Fifty cents per bushel for his corn, 27 cents for oats, and $13.50 per ton for cane hay was received by L. E. Campbell of Dallas county from the feeding of 40 head of Hereford yearling heifers, recently finished. In computing his costs he included labor, feed, pasture, improvements, and allowance for depreciation. The report of this demonstration was made at a recent farm meeting arranged by A. E. Jolley, county agent, and was attended by 200 farmers.

FOOTBALL SKETCHES

By R. C. HANKINS
Aha! We have discovered we have Sweetwater bested in one thing. Yesterday The Reporter-Telegram came out with a story on 1703 bales of cotton ginned this season...

Odds and ends: Sweetwater is running a special train to Big Spring Friday. A meeting of the district football papers at Big Spring Friday morning at 10 will go on again into the Sammy Baugh case...

Games this week: San Anelo at McCame (stadium dedication); Sweetwater at Big Spring and Colorado at Midland. The first game is set for Saturday the other two for Friday...

Here's a bit of the composition of Chas. Green of Sweetwater re Midland's opposition for Friday: "Stagner, Wolf wingman, and a holder from last season, is one of the sweetest pass grabbers in the district..."

Wigley, at center for the Wolves would be better material. He is a bit stronger on defensive play. "Church at tackle and Wigley at center were the powers of the Wolf line..."

And Chas. gets panicky for the least fraction of a second as he quotes decisions of Big Spring Sweetwater games of bygone days: "But we got the best of the Big Spring contest will be worth the customers' money..."

Ironhead read from John Galts-worth such and such a passage: "What is the most saving game in the world, with its suit of rules kept, and regard for the adversary, whether the fight is going for or against..."

ury—without hesitation or limit—every cent of revenue it asked for and that, at the end, the administration assured congress and the country that the task had been accomplished.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 20. (UP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived here this morning after his speech last night in Pittsburgh, where he eliminated the soldier bonus issue. He was driven to Hotel English where he was scheduled to speak from the balcony.

While the president claims that he did finally recommend a tax cut in 1931, the fact is that his proposal came two years too late and in for too scanty a measure. It explains "prosperity around the corner." It explains too complete concealment of deficits and the insincerity of the action taken last winter.

Mr. Roosevelt said that "For my distinguished opponent" 1931 was the year when all "this distinctive 1928 economic heresies seemed to come home to roost together," adding that foreign loans to expand export trade could not longer be made, retaliation arose against the

"All the costs of local state and national government must be reduced without fear and without favor."

"The government should take from the states 'nothing more than is necessary to keep abreast of the march of our changing economic situation.'" "We can make savings by reorganization of existing departments, by abolishing many of the innumerable boards and commissions which have grown up over a long period of years have grown up as excrescences on the regular system," he said.

"These savings plus a tax on beer, he said, were in fact a definite balancing of the budget." "At the same time," Mr. Roosevelt added, "if starvation and dire need on the part of any of our citizens makes necessary the appropriation of additional funds which would keep the budget out of balance, I shall not hesitate to tell the American people the full truth and recommend to them the expenditure of this additional amount."

IMPROVEMENT OF TEXAS BANKING IS ATTESTED TO

AUSTIN.—Statistics on bank operations reveal a continuing improvement in the banking situation during the month of September. Dr. J. C. Dole, financial editor of the Texas Business Review, published by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, pointed out in his monthly survey of the financial situation.

The food compartment in a refrigerator should not get warmer than 50 degrees and the milk compartment not warmer than 45. tariff, and debtor nations abandoned specie payments.

Prices Slumped
As a direct result of the influence of our export marks dried up, our commodity prices slumped and our domestic business was declining at a more rapid rate than business in some of the backward and crippled counties," he asserted.

There was no room to fight with rifles. Both simultaneously dropped their guns and started to grapple. Wallace was a match in physical strength for any man in the force, but the Indian was fully as strong and his own covered body gave him a decided advantage.
