THE WAY OF THE LAW

A Cleveland man was convicted of arson not long ago, a jury having been convinced that he caused a factory building to be set ablaze. A few days ago an appellate court reversed his conviction and ordered a new trial. It based the reversal on several points, among them the fact that the defendant was charged and sentenced erroneously, under the Ohio law.

The charge, as the court points out, was arson; and the law defines arson as the unlawful burning of a dwelling. The building involved in this case was not a dwelling but a factory. Hence the charge of arson was improper, and the man gets a new trial.

This little item is offered, without comment, for the benefit of un instructed laymen who sometimes wonder what that expression, "the law's technicalities," really means.

Japan orders its 1933 conscripts mobilized and sent to Manchuria—more "farmers" entering Manchuria with rifle and knapsack to repulse "bandits" in the military uniform of China in this wholly unofficial war.

A local high school girl told her mother she had to sing at a funeral, but later it developed there had been no funeral that day. She only wanted to wear her new red dress.

The Dalhart Texan, which, by the way, is acquiring national fame for pioneering the tabloid size daily in West Texas, had a story the other day wherein the paper was trying to help locate a missing woman. It seems that she had left her home in another town and come to Dalhart to visit without giving definite information as to whom she was going to visit. The following statement appeared in the story: "I and her parents fear foul play, as she always wrote promptly under similar circumstances."

New and Better Way to Beat Body Odor, by Removing Cause!

Laboratory tests now show that ordinary soap, with its thick, sluggish lather, will cleanse only the surface of the skin. But body odor is deep-seated, caused by stale perspiration curds. Ordinary soap can't remove these curds! That's why deep-pore cleansing is needed—and it is a scientific fact that there is only one way to accomplish this. Kirk's Coco Castile, being a 100% pure vegetable oil soap, goes into an emulsion with the stale perspiration curds, then rinses out completely. Thus it ends body odor in the only effective way—by removing the cause. Kirk's Coco Castile is stimulating to the skin—leaves no offensive M.S. (medicine smell)—ends body odor the odorless way. A BIG cake, half again larger than the average toilet soap, it is today selling at the lowest price in history. Be sure to ask for Kirk's Castile by name—at your grocer's.

Midland Girls Initiated into C. I. A. Clubs

Two Midland students at the Texas State College for Women (CIA) were among those initiated into the Phiomathia and the James H. Lowry literary organizations recently. Jess Edith Carlisle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Carlisle, was initiated into the Phiomathia literary club. The purpose of this club is to study modern music, art and literature. Mary Belle Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Pratt, was initiated into the James H. Lowry club. This club makes a special study of parliamentary law and civics and promotes ideals of citizenship as exemplified by James H. Lowry, in whose honor the club was formed. The literary clubs of the campus are organized for the purpose of furthering the social and scholastic life of the students.

All Pay Homage to Wife of Secretary-Elect of the Navy

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Admirals gleaming with gold braid and civilians who call late on Tuesday evenings wearing top hats and spats, are beginning to pay homage to a lady who lives at 2136 R Street, Northwest, in Washington's most fashionable neighborhood. The lady in question is Mrs. Claude Swanson, wife of the man who is soon to be Secretary of the Navy in the Roosevelt cabinet. Mrs. Swanson does not discourage the admirals or the ranking civilians. She has always had, as she expressed it, "A fondness for the navy." As a youthful belle in Richmond, Va., many of the dashing beaux who called upon her were navy men. She has traveled about the world escorted by the gold lace of Uncle Sam's navy. Mrs. Swanson is the second wife of the next Secretary of the Navy, his first wife having been her own sister, Lizzie. Both young girls—Lizzie and Lullie—were friends of Mr. Swanson when he was a student at Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, Va. He married Lizzie, and after her death, espoused the young lady who had become his private secretary—Lullie. Mrs. Swanson is a lineal descendant of Patrick Henry. Her father, Col. James Lyon of Richmond, was a soldier of the Confederacy.

As a young girl, Lullie Lyon was educated in a girl's school at Alexandria, Va. Her large fortune was inherited from Virginia—both from her father and from her first husband, Cunningham Hall, a distinguished Southern gentleman by whom she had one son, the present Cunningham Hall, a Richmond newspaper man. Mrs. Swanson is not unknown in the whirlwind of national politics here—although she prefers the drawing room to the rostrum. She has been a chum since childhood of Lady Nancy Astor, and is a firm adherent of woman's place in the body politics. As vice president of the National Woman's Country club, and vice president of the Child's Welfare society, Mrs. Swanson has had many opportunities to express her views. This she always does unhesitatingly—after the fashion of her ancestor, Patrick Henry. Her home on B Street is the mecca of women who wish to expound their theories of government. Whether their view coincides with Mrs. Swanson's makes no difference. They are accorded a fair exposition. Mrs. Swanson, blonde, petite, vivacious, is a widely traveled person. She went with Senator Swanson to the League of Nations conference at Geneva, and before her marriage visited many European countries.

New Putting Cup Gets Test

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—A daring preview of the golf of the future—if Gene Sarazen, the American and British Open champion is to be believed—was being made ready here today as the best of America's golfers gathered for a test of the six-inch cup.

The over-sized receptacle, a compromise on the original eight-inch hole proposed by Sarazen, will be used in the Florida Year-Round Clubs open tournament, March 3, 4 and 5, furnishing the first important trial of the big cup in severe competition.

Newest and most novel of all winter tournaments, the six-inch campaign is sponsored by the Year-Round Clubs.

This current radical departure from the ancient pattern of golf may turn the Scots in their highland graves, but innovations are not unknown in golf, officials point out. Six shafts a bigger ball—both have supplanted the older conceptions. Now Sarazen contends the big ball, with same old "humble" cup, is putting too much premium on the putter's touch, not the shot-makers, who lay their approaches up within eight feet of the cup, haven't the right odds on making birdies. And the six-inch cups should stop the moaning and groaning over three-putted greens, Sarazen believes.

CHAMBERS FIGHT EXPENSE

DALLAS (UP)—Taking the lead in an effort to effect a statewide union of chambers of commerce "to prevent unnecessary public expenditures and increased taxation," the Dallas chamber of commerce has submitted copies of its resolution against additional taxation to 544 other Texas chambers and asked similar action.

"If your chamber approves of the resolution adopted by the Dallas chamber it is urged that you adopt a similar resolution and send it to your senator and representative in the legislature," wrote J. Ben Critz, general manager of the chamber in a letter accompanying the resolution.

The resolution, approved unanimously by the directors, said in part that the "chamber stands emphatically opposed to all attempts to levy new taxes... we favor the effecting of all possible economies in operation of the state government, consistent with safety and efficiency and suggest that the legislature be urged to devote its efforts to reduction of expenditures so as to operate within present income.

The chamber believes also that the legislature should effect further economies so present taxes may be reduced. Copies of the resolution were accompanied by copies of a statement from C. A. Jay, executive vice-president of the Texas Commercial, Industrial and Agricultural conference, in which he urged the legislature to "budget the balance" instead of attempting to "balance" the budget with new funds obtained by taxation."

WEEDS TO FLOWERS

ARLINGTON (UP)—A municipal rose garden made from a weed patch here won a nationwide garden contest and a $1,000 award. The project was sponsored by the Arlington Garden Club.

Only $75 was spent for roses. Most of the $470 total cost was for labor of unemployed workmen for the construction of a rock wall and walks.

Other Texas cities which entered the national contest were Brownwood, Dallas and Corpus Christi.

There is no other solution short of immediate and complete government ownership will solve the intricate and complex question.

1. Congress shall declare a national emergency of such threatening proportions as to require and justify the assumption temporarily of such extraordinary powers as are usually exercised in war time by the executive and legislative branches of the government.

2. Organize the Transportation Corporation of America. 3. Transfer to that corporation all of the railroads, inland waterways, pipelines, interstate bus lines, truck lines, aviation and such other transportation agencies as the administrative authority established by this act of congress shall deem advisable to include in its operations.

4. Establish a maximum work day of six hours in order not to add to the distress of the unemployment through the economies in operation which are to be inaugurated under this law. Provide in said law that reduced hours per day shall not operate to reduce the daily wage scale.

5. Cause to be transferred to said corporation all of the outstanding bonds of these several transportation agencies if it can be shown that the proceeds from the sale of these bonds had been used in the construction, equipment or necessary operation of said transportation facilities.

6. Issue in lieu of said bonds in like amount the bonds of the Transportation Corporation of America back of which would be the credit of the United States. 7. As to stocks of railroad companies, pipelines, etc., no bonds of the corporation would be issued therefor unless it could be affirmatively shown that the corporation issuing said stock was earning enough to accumulate surplus, above operating cost and fixed charges, to the credit of said stock.

The extensive surveys recently completed by the National Transportation committee on which there are such able citizens as Bernard

M. Baruch, Alfred E. Smith, Alexander Leggee and a corps of learned technological experts headed by Dr. H. G. Moulton furnishes the information on which a just and equitable adjustment with the several interests involved can be made.

8. In the management of the acquired transportation facilities disturb as little as consistent with efficient operation the present managements but cut out all needless competition whether between one railroad with another or with other agencies.

Organize the whole transportation system with the primary view of adequate and reasonable service to the public and make due allowance in the program for inventive and technological improvement in the several fields of transportation. Under such a plan, for instance, all letter mail, except for remote places and short distances would be carried by aviation.

Certain fields would be assigned to trucks where there is a demonstrated advantage in that method over rail transportation. 7. A schedule of freight, mail and passenger rates should be established. These rates to cover all operating cost and the interest on the bonds of the Transportation corporation. This, of course, would include all proper charges of maintenance, improvements, etc.

I concede that this is a tremendous and daring program but it is not more tremendous than the program we have to meet. This is no time for men with weak hearts and timid souls to be in the public service. The only alternative to this or some equally drastic program is national financial disaster.

This one bold step will inspire the confidence of the people in the virility of their government and remove a crushing burden from the banks and insurance companies of the nation.

Six Hour Day The next proposal—a six hour day and a five day week is an imperative necessity to overcome present and prevent future social maladjustments in the progress of improved processes in industry.

Having listened for three weeks to testimony offered before this committee and the questions asked by its members I will try to answer in advance the objections that will be raised by some of your members.

I agree at once that there is no over-production except within relatively narrow bounds, in our industrial machine. But I submit invention goes on apace even with more rapidity in this depression than in normal times. I repeat that the last sixty years saw more mechanical advancement than all the previous history of mankind.

BIG SPRING—The First Baptist church will enter into a revival meeting March 6 to 17, with Dr. George W. Truett, pastor of the First Baptist church, Dallas, for the past 35 years, doing the preaching.

This is the first visit of Dr. Truett to Big Spring for a meeting. The West Side Baptist church, the East Fourth Street Baptist church are sponsoring Dr. Truett's coming to the city and various other churches of the city have signified intention of cooperating.

The aircraft carrier, U. S. S. Langley was the first electrically-driven ship in the American navy.

In all human probability the next twenty years will far transcend the past sixty in that advancement.

The emphasis of the proof is often illustrated by personal example. Since I was a boy on a Wisconsin farm the effectiveness of a man's labor has increased in that occupation at least 27 fold. What it took our large head working family twelve years to do in clearing 320 acres of timber I have seen a half dozen men with two 110 Holt caterpillars do in a few days and the same two men with a lot of brush and trees, leveled and prepared for seeding eight thousand acres in a single year.

It may be well to say in passing that this wonderfully fertile 8,000-acre farm of irrigated land on the Rio Grande river, near El Paso, Texas, lost its highly competent owner over a million dollars in the last three years due to ruinous cotton prices.

As a very young man I worked on building railroad grades and laying railroad tracks in Washington and Montana. What it took hundreds of us to do with picks, shovels and spike hammers a single machine now does with ease. A few years ago before the railroads were stricken with creeping paralysis they had in use a machine that set the ties, laid the rails, screwed the bolts in the fish plates, drove the spikes and smoothed the roadbed at the rate of ten miles per day.

In the copper smelters at Anaconda it took once thousand of us working twelve hours a day to do what a few hundred working eight hours can do with ease today. Thirty years ago when I first became interested in the oil business we sought a good spot to put a 3,000-foot well in a year. Now we can drill a 4,000-foot well in a week. And so in greater or less degree the process of increased efficiency of labor goes on in all varied activities of modern life.

Forty years ago many of us foresaw the wreckage and ruin of human lives that would accompany the coming industrialization of industry and agriculture unless an intelligent citizenry would adjust the hours of labor and the social life of the people to the changing tempo of production.

A great railroad magnet and several other witnesses stressed before this committee the doctrine that our present distress is due to the fact that labor received too much and lived too high a few years ago. That ossified doctrine was abandoned by all thinking men before those witnesses were born.

If we had set our standard of living high enough we never would have had a depression. They say men bought automobiles and radios who had no business to buy them.

Why shouldn't they buy them? Who built them but the men who labored? How could men busy with their daily toil know that men they were led to believe were great financiers and industrialists had ceased to function in their legitimate occupations and become mere gamblers in a game that would presently destroy the whole business structure of the country?

New Fox Film Offers Laughs

Genevieve Tobin and Chester Morris are co-featured in a delightful comedy romance, "Infernal Machine," which opens today for two days at the Yucca theatre, and we advise you to see it if it's laughs and breathless moments you desire.

Miss Tobin and Morris are both at their best in light comedy roles, with just a touch of drama, and their efforts coupled with those of a strong supporting cast like this Fox Film production excellent entertainment, thanks to the skill of director Marcel Varnel.

Morris is a stowaway on a big ocean liner, having followed Miss Tobin, with whom he has fallen violently in love.

In addition to the stars, the cast includes that brilliant newcomer to the screen, Victor Jory, with Elizabeth Patterson, James Bell, Arthur Honl, Edwards Van Sloan and Josephine Whitell, all of whom are highly satisfactory in their roles.

"Trouble in Paradise" at the Ritz

Ernst Lubitsch's "Trouble in Paradise," which is said to establish an entirely new technique for motion pictures, has been booked for the Ritz theatre, where it will open Sunday with preview showing Saturday night.

Miriam Hopkins, Kay Francis, Herbert Marshall, Charlie Ruggles and Edward Everett Horton play leading roles in the picture, a witty farce adapted from the play by Laszlo Adalar, Vinnisse playwright.

Over and above its technical excellence, moreover, "Trouble in Paradise" is about as delightful a piece of entertainment as has come along since the old days of some of the silent Lubitsch comedies. It is a happy, mature comedy, created not only by a master director, but by a cast of such superior quality that each performance is like a jewel in a very fine setting.

Angelo May Wage War on Criminals

SAN ANGELO—The city commission Tuesday took under advisement a suggestion for enlisting a volunteer army in a drive on crime and deferred until the return of Mayor Brown F. Lee from Texas.

The suggestion was a result of a long action looking toward a settlement of valuations assessed against the Motor Parts Station, Inc., now in bankruptcy.

C. B. Metcalfe brought the proposal to give practical notification to all hi-jackers, killers and kidnapers that San Angelo stands ready to repel their stealthy attacks. He suggested that a list be circulated for signers who would avow their willingness to be placed under arms at the disposition of the sheriff and police chief when needed.

He thought the notice to the criminal element would serve to deter them in their nefarious practices. Crime a Challenge Metcalfe declared the kidnapping at Denver, the shooting of a man in New Mexico, the burning of Texas' sheriffs recently, the hi-jacking of stores and knocking of safes should serve as a challenge to the citizenship and officers. Circulation of a petition here in 1929 to get guarantors for rewards for the capture and conviction of murderers, rapists and gunmen robbers served to put a stop to the crime wave then prevalent and it was necessary to pay a single reward, he said. Similarly an army of minute-men ready at the sheriff's call would be effective, he said.

In the absence of the mayor, however, the commission deferred action until his return. J. E. Whitmore, trustee, and K. W. Cooke, manager for Motor Parts Station, Inc., at North Worth, a branch of which store was located here, appeared before the commission seeking adjustment of the conditions of the store's former operation here on East Twelfth. Valuations for 1931 of $37,000 were scaled down to $18,000 previously when er-

For was shown, and Whitmore suggested that the $21,280 valuations set up by the management in 1932 was for the purpose of securing a loan. He had submitted figures previously suggesting reduction in $1,000. Both R. A. Hall and W. S. Metcalfe thought this figure entirely out of line. They preferred to have the decision of the mayor, however, and suggested that he would return within the next two days and immediate action would be taken. Whitmore represented he had an offer of $1,000 for the properties here, suggesting that the tax lien would expire the most of that. At a previous meeting he had suggested that a scaling down of the obligations to the city would give some of the creditors a chance to realize a few cents on the dollar. J. B. Smith, residing on Live Oak Street, proposed to the city that placing of callie on that street and connecting one block with Avenue J would provide opportunity to reroute the buses to serve a greater area in the southwest part of the city. He was informed that the project is under consideration along with Avenue J extension as one of the relief projects with R. F. C. funds here. John D. Jones asked permission for oiling one block adjacent to a root beer stand in Angelo Heights, and the city manager was instructed that it might be done if given the approval and supervision of the city engineer.
