INDICTMENT FOR MITCHELL VOTED BY GRAND JURY

Basis Found in Net Profit Not Listed In Tax Report

NEW YORK, March 24. (UP) .-The federal grand jury today indicted Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the City National bank, on charges of evading payment of $573,000 income tax in 1929. The indictment resulted from Mitchell's testimony to the senate banking committee.

It was alleged that he received $2,823,000 net income, whereas he reported a loss of $48,000 and did not pay tax.

The conclave will bring advancement to the post of grand commander of an Abilene man, Omar E. Radford, now deputy grand commander. The grand commandership now is held by Thomas Mitchell now is held by Thomas Mitchell Bartley of Waco.

Registration and an evening band concert by the Simmons university Cowboy band will be items on the program for April 24; while the conclave's parade on the morning of April 26 will be the colorful feature of that day. The program also calls for devotional services in the morning, at the First Baptist church, a session of the past grand commander's association, a school of Templar instruction, and competition for drill teams.

Annual session of the grand commandery will be held at 9 o'clock on the morning of the 26th; and a banquet and reception are on the schedule for that evening.

Election and installation of grand officers will mark the conclusion of officers will mark the conclusion of the conclave at 9 a. m. April 27. Several affairs will be given to hon-or visiting ladies, including a musicale and reception, an informal uncheon and a morning coffee.

The new and positive way to beat body odor is deep-pore cleansing. One soap will do that, Kirk's Coco Castile, made by America's largest soap makers. Even in hard water, it breaks instantly into a searching lather. It cleans deep into the pores, actually seawages the embedded nor.

lather. It cleans deep into the pores, actually removes the embedded perspiration—then rinses out completely and in a flash. Thus it ends body odor at its source—the only effective way.

This 100% pure vegetable oil soap is odorless—leaves no offensive M. S. (medicine smell)—is stimulating to the skin. Available everywhere in a big generous cake, half again larger than the average toilet soap, it is now selling at the lowest price in history. Be sure to ask for Kirk's Castile by name—at your grocer's.

At a hinting look from Paul, he bowed and left the Imperial party. The Tsar and Paul looked with concern upon the Empress.

"I had to know some time, Nicholas," she told her husband.

As they started to leave, the Tsar gave some orders for the day to an equerry. The Tsaritsa clung to Prince Paul.

"The president needs the support of every loyal American and today I am calling upon the 10,709 legion posts and our one million members throughout our great organization to uphold the pledge that I have made as the national commander of the American legion. "Yes, papa," the boy answered quietly.

He went out of the room.

"You're all I have now, Paul," the Tsaritsa said sadly.

Paul bowed his head. The Empress turned to the Tsar.

"Isn't he, Nicky?"

"Sergei was ten men. You'll have to be a hundred, Paul," she said earnestly.

"Your Majesty, may I always deserve such trust." Paul said, bowing, his heart swelling with emotion. As he said this, a thought brushed quickly through Paul's alert mind. The Grand Duke Igor's hasty and intemperate character was well known. As Governor of the City he had almost unlimited power in Moscow. This was no time for rashness and cruelty, yet these were the only qualities of mind which Igor could bend to the task of punishing the assassins of the Tsar's uncle.

Turning on his heel, Paul went into the guardroom to inquire what action Igor had taken in regards to the rehabilitation of these American legion officials who have devoted their lives to the rehabilitation of the disabled veterans of the World war.

"There is no question of legion loyalty. The patriotism of every member has been proved in his war service and in his peace time devotion to the welfare of our country, as evidenced by his membership in the legion. In this hour of emergency we are but eager to serve the Stars and Stripes again under whatever orders our new commander in chief may give. Many may disagree with the new law, but now in this crisis we must take orders. We have never asked anything for ourselves but what we felt was just and what was first proposed by the American legion officials who have devoted their lives to the rehabilitation of the disabled veterans of the World war.
