BABY KILLED WHEN DROPPED MEANS TELLS Government Doesn't Credit Story, However

WASHINGTON, May 12. (UP).—Gaston B. Means testified today that he learned during the Linger kidnapping that the child was killed when accidentally dropped by the abductors.
He said he was told that "Max Hassel" and "Max Greenberg," whiskey runners, stole the baby and dropped it when moving from a hideout.
Government investigators are skeptical of the story.

Farcial Track Meet Tonight

Scouts of Troop 51 will hold a comedy track and field meet tonight at their regular meeting, according to announcement by Clarence Day, scoutmaster. The contests will be between members of the two patrols of the troop, DeWitt Carr and W. B. Osborn, leaders. Each has been drilling his scouts intensively for the contests, which will include broad jump, 100-yard dash, discus throw, shot put, high hurdles and other events.
The meet will be held in the scout hall in the basement of the court house and will start at 7:30. Visitors, especially other scouts and boys of scout age, are invited, the scoutmaster said.

Special Delivery Solves Problem

The sentimental value attached to a greeting, either by card, flowers or candy to mothers on Mother's day will, to a certain extent, offset the inconvenience of the special delivery service so that these greetings may be received at the most opportune time.

Policemen Called To Aid Overtaker

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP).—A squad of hefty peace officers from the sheriff's office here dashed through Portland streets on a "hurry-up" call recently, believing they had been called to resuscitate an attempted suicide.
Instead, they found Margaret Farrell, 16, suffering acutely from poison oak—and writhing in agony from eating too much mine pie. Her frightened parents dialed the wrong number in their haste to obtain aid for Marge.

Curiosity Caused Boys Singed Hair

TAFT, Calif. (UP).—Three young Taft boys went about with singed hair today because of their curiosity.
The three—David Hill, 13; Robert Widdien, 12; and Leonard Widdien, 10—tossed a match into an abandoned oil well near here the other day to see what would happen.
Gas remaining in the well ignited with a roar, sending up a blue flame that scorched the faces and hair of the trio as they bent over the opening watching the match fall.

Mt. Rose Church To Give Program

The Mt. Rose Negro Baptist church will have a Mother's day program Sunday afternoon at 3:30. Negro spirituals will be sung.
Aurelia August will be the director. The Reverend Shelman is pastor of the church.
White people are invited to attend the service.

FWLW 10,000 MILES

KINGMAN, Kan. (UP).—Last year Charles Ruff, high school teacher, banded a warbler and let it loose. The bird recently was found in South Africa, nearly 10,000 miles from its release.

Horse Culprit Blamed by Chief

Conjecture as to how Chief of Police Lee Haynes received an oddly bruised eye and chin was settled when the officer's horse was mentioned.
"That blankety-blank bron never will get any sense," he said, or words to that effect.
Trapped, he explained the horse had picked the hardest spot in Midland county in which to pitch his rider. Haynes hit on his face in hard pan uncovered in recent wind storms.

"Battle of Churchill Downs" Through Camera's Eye

Here's the camera version of that Kentucky Derby fight that brought suspension for jockeys Donald Meade, who rode Broker's Tip (No. 16), the winner, and Herb W. Fisher, who rode Head

Tennis Tourney List Increases

Listed in the entries for the tennis tournament which begins Saturday are: doubles—Harry Neblett, James Walton, A. B. Cooksey, Marion F. Peters, Dr. Jno. E. Thomas, Marvin Ulmer, Barron Kidd and J. W. Stevens; singles and doubles—Ralph Blackman, Frank Slubbeman, Murray Fasken, F. H. Lanham, Kenna Johnson, Bill Van Huss, Barron Wadley, C. L. Jackson, M. R. Jackson, Johnnie Mills, J. E. Thomas Jr., J. J. Kelly and R. E. Nelson, Louis Levinson, J. S. Schow, J. P. Ferguson, Theo Ferguson, Alvon Patterson.

Dick Morse will return from Dallas Sunday to enter the tournament. He, with Louis Levinson, R. E. Nelson and Theo Ferguson are seeded players.
The deadline on entries is 8:30 this evening.

U. S. Beat Europe In Night Flying

CHICAGO. (UP).—Because air mail passenger lines in the United States have developed night flying far beyond Europe, W. D. Vanos and Peter Veendall, managing directors of the K. L. M., the famous Royal Dutch Air Transport, are studying operating methods in this country.
Vanos stated that they planned to increase night flying, and pointed out that United Air Lines alone flew eight times as much mileage at night last year as all European lines combined. "The Royal Dutch Air Transport," he said, "operates one of the longest international lines in the world, one of its routes extending from Amsterdam to Batavia, Java, via France, England, Turkey and India."

Stradivarius' Secret Believed to Be Found

STOCKHOLM. (UP).—The secret by which Stradivarius obtained the unexcelled tone of his famous violins is claimed to have been found by Otto Sand, a skillful Swedish violin maker.
For twelve years Sand has tried to solve the problem. As has been previously assumed, the solution lies in the composition of the lacquer used by the old master. Sand does not want to disclose his secret, but states that in analyzing the lacquer he has been guided by the smell, and that by means of a special kind of rosin obtained from Egypt he has been able to invent a lacquer of the same quality as that found on the ancient instruments.

U. S. Changes Airmen Tests

WASHINGTON. (UP).—Ability to recover from plane stalls and to prevent spins from stalled airplanes has been substituted in place of effecting intentional spins and recoveries as a requisite for persons seeking licenses as private pilots, according to Col. Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary for aviation.
"The amended regulations require 50 hours of accredited solo flying time as a pre-requisite for the private grade, instead of the former 10 hours," Col. Young continued, "and specify that the flight test for the private grade shall be the same as that given commercial pilots except that no cross-country flight is required."
Col. Young went on to say that persons who now hold private pilot licenses, but formerly were licensed in a higher grade, and who had reduced their ranking voluntarily for reasons of their own, will be classified in the new private grade without further flight tests.

Sand Storms Are Just Breezes to Midland Woman

Mrs. Walter Cowden is glad to be back "where the wind blows straight and exchanges real estate." She, with Mr. Cowden, visited cyclone struck towns of Minden, Magnolia and Many, La., on the return to Midland from Shreveport, where she visited Miss Dora Wall.
At Belton she visited with her daughter, Miss Walter Faye Cowden, student at Baylor Belton college for women.
The Louisiana towns were in a frightful condition as a result of the recent tornado, she said.

Defective Powder Saved Girl's Life

EL PASO, Texas. (UP).—Josefina Villa Gomez, 7 today owes her life to the fact that powder in a bullet fired from her father's pistol was defective.
The child got the pistol from under her father's pillow and was toying with it when suddenly it fell to the floor and discharged.
She was struck squarely in the forehead by the bullet, but inferior powder failed to provide sufficient momentum to send the missile into her brain.

"Super Bow" Dream Of Wisconsin Man

RACINE, Wis. (UP).—Attempting to perfect a "super bow" that will shoot an arrow a half a mile and surpass flight records established by Turks in the 18th century, Roy I. Case, retired Racine business man, is working diligently in his home here.
Case started his work when he learned that a Milwaukee engineer had discovered the records established by Turkish archers in 1797, Sultan Selim, a Turkish nobleman, shot an arrow 838 yards, and 11 other Turkish archers shot arrows at least 625 yards the same year, Case said. Previously it had been believed that Homer Prouty, Portland, Ore., held the world's record. His longest shot was only about 450 yards.
For the past five years Case has been spending time and money in an attempt to popularize archery in Wisconsin. Soon he hopes to complete his super bow and bring the world's championship to America.

Trace the Origin Of Queer Names

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP).—How do the West's mountain lakes and trout streams get their unusual names? Oregon has its Ginkgo Creek, Jumpoff Joe Creek, Mudpuppy, Tumtum or Mosowamp lakes.
Washington's map contains such titles as Homptulips, Dunk, and Hoh creeks. Ryegrass and Hem creeks in Idaho cause tourists to wonder about their origin. Legend has it Hem Creek was named after an old gold miner, who cleared his throat. He called him "Old Hem" and the creek he named "Hem."
Humboldt Creek gained its name when an old Oregon prospector sold his valueless quartz claim to another miner. Joe McLaughlin, son of the famous Dr. John McLaughlin, fell off a bluff into a small southern Oregon stream, which since then was known as Jumpoff Joe. He died of his injuries.
Fondness of Indians for gambling gave a name to a little rivulet at Plush. One redskin drew a "flush" in a card game, but in his excitement called it a "plush."
CONDITION UNCHANGED
The condition of Mrs. Tom Holcombe, ill of pneumonia, remains serious, according to reports of friends this morning.

MACHINERY SET FOR BEER VOTE

AUSTIN, May 12.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson Thursday signed legislation that will submit to a vote of the electorate on August 26 the question of legalizing beer and setting up regulations for its sale if authorized.
The qualified voters would decide if the Texas state constitution should be amended to permit the manufacture and sale of beverages containing not more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol.
A regulatory bill provides for the licensing of manufacturers and retailers of beer. It also directs that political sub-divisions that were dry prior to acceptance of constitutional prohibition should remain in that status unless in a local option election the voters should sanction the sale of beer.
The bill provides that political sub-divisions may hold local option elections any time after July 1 to determine if they want to legalize beer.

Unique Tangle Can Puzzle Sociologists

PROVO, Utah (UP).—Here's a problem for sociologists with a twist. Delia Irene Peterson married Truman G. Atwood, whose sister, Mrs. Mary A. Springer, married Francis T. Peterson, father of Miss Peterson.
The problem is, what relation is Peterson to himself?
WASHINGTON, May 8.—It may be difficult for those who live in areas remote from factories and other industrial plants to understand what a serious problem there is in the matter of hours of labor, working conditions and wages.
Days and days of testimony have gone into the records of house and senate committees about the conditions prevailing in sweat shops and in cloth making establishments. Undisputed evidence of children's working long hours for as low as 60 cents per week and women and girls working long hours to earn as little as 98 cents per week fill the records and the testimony is verified by authentic proof.
It was the known existence of such conditions which inspired Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt recently to appeal to the women of America not to buy goods produced under such inhuman conditions. No doubt, the same thing induced her to bring Isabel McDonald and sit through a full half day of the hearings before the labor committee of the house while Secretary Frances Perkins testified for the six-hour day and a minimum wage.
Before the same committee representatives of organized labor testified that they had voluntarily accepted repeated cuts in their wages in order that decent employers for whom they worked would not be financially ruined by the cut-throat competition of sweat shops and textile plants which paid their employees starvation wages.
For the same reason, Mrs. Pinchot, wife of the governor of Pennsylvania, has joined the strikers and labor committee withheld it until Wednesday for the purpose of effecting amendments to cover the control of industry in line with the policy outlined by the president.

Late News

AUSTIN, May 12. (UP).—The Texas house today voted 114 to 32 for submission of the $20,000,000 employment relief fund. It backed the senate in concurrence in amendments to the original resolution. The popular vote would be August 26.

WASHINGTON, May 12. (UP).—Roosevelt is reported to favor the bill compelling the J. P. Morgan company to give up deposit accounts.

WASHINGTON, May 12. (UP).—Roosevelt today signed the inflation and farm relief bill urging creditors to abstain from foreclosures until the mortgage refinancing phase becomes effective.
Chairman Morgenthau of the farm board hailed the bill's credit section as the beginning of an attack on the farm debt oppression.

LONDON, May 12. (UP).—A tariff truce was adopted unanimously by the organizing committee of the world economic conference. It affects the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, Belgium, Norway and Japan and is effective until the end of the conference, June 12.

PEIPING, May 12. (UP).—The Japanese pressed toward Peiping, and hospitals prepared for evacuation. Chinese resistance is stubborn.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 12. (UP).—Wind, rain and hail did thousands of dollars worth of damage and made hundreds homeless in a dozen Oklahoma counties. No deaths were reported.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, May 12. (UP).—American and British consular guards, Messrs. James and Charles, after bombs had been found on the premises.

BROWNWOOD, May 12. (UP).—The death of Edgar P. Richardson, 50, brings the storm death toll here to four. Richardson is the third of his family to die.

FORT WORTH, May 12. (UP).—Mounting meat sales and prices resulted in 10 to 15 per cent employment increases in the major packing plants. The top for hogs was 4.25 at Kansas City and 4 at Fort Worth. These were highs for the year.

HOUSTON, May 12. (UP).—Walker county authorities plan charges of robbery with firearms and kidnaping of a state highway patrolman against Floyd Seay, Loren M. Seay and Ralph King, North Texas jail breakers captured yesterday.

The charges resulted from the kidnaping of patrolman M. L. Berry and the hijacking of a Houston cigarette truck.

WASHINGTON, May 12. (UP).—The house approved the supply bill granting economy powers to Mr. Roosevelt and effecting a direct savings of four hundred and sixty millions, mostly in reduced veterans' expenditures.

Means' Accuser

600 SEE COMEDY AT HIGH SCHOOL

Last night's audience at the presentation of "If You Be Long Now" senior class play, brought total attendance of the four commencement programs to an approximate 5,300, estimates Supt. W. W. Lackey.
Through an arrangement whereby matinees were held for grade students and children, more seats in the auditorium have been reserved for night presentations. South ward, north ward and junior high schools had already been presented. Attendance last night was from 600 to 800, it was estimated. A total of $128.75 resulting from the play will go to the Cataloo, yearbook fund.
The play was well presented and its continuity was filled with humorous situations. Foyche Pollock, J. E. Hill, Joe Beane, Allen Dorsey, Nell Wayne Carlisle, Tom Collins, John Philip Inman, Read Thomas, Olga Trammell, Edward Baker, C. B. Hallman, E. B. Evans, Ernestine Holder, Viola Ingham, Joe Roberts and Johnnie Sherrod.

Acrobatic Mice Were Egg Thieves

MONROE, La. (UP).—A barnyard mystery was cleared up here recently with the explanation of Mrs. C. H. Sutton, an authority on the cunning of rats.
Eggs had been missing from nests, and one farmer, while digging around his hen house, found several eggs still intact, in rat holes.
The question arose as to how the rats could carry the eggs into a hole. Mrs. Sutton explained the rat system of nest-robbing.
Two rats do the work. One lies flat on its back with its feet in the air while the other rat rolls the egg up on the stomach of the reclining rat, which holds the egg in that position with its four legs. The other rat then takes the tail of the rat holding the egg and drags it into the hole.

Race Driver Rides, But at No Cost

A man who spent the night here said the race sulky parked on the sidewalk before the hotel was his mode of conveyance, and that he had ridden in it all the way from New York—without a horse.
Paul DeMoss said he was a race driver but that the pacing days are almost over in the east, despite a slight revival induced by society on some tracks.
He said he had hailed motorcars and had tied on behind their cars. Evidently the novelty of pulling a sulky attracted them, he said.
He is going to visit a son at Phoenix.

DINING CARS ORDERED

STOCKHOLM. (UP).—New dining cars, each seating 45 passengers, have been ordered by the Swedish state railways from the Linkoping shops. They will be all-steel cars and have mechanical refrigeration.

SEVERAL CARS JOIN MOTORCADE ON ROAD

Midland's motorcade pulled out of the city at 1:30 this afternoon, bound for the Big Spring convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce. Although but nine cars were in line at the arranged start-up, several more were drawn up at the junction of Ward and Front streets east of the city, and several moved on ahead to join the party at Stanton, in order to avoid the dust of travel in line over the cutoff. Recent work on the roads, which necessitates detouring over dirt stretches was responsible.

PRES. HAWK OF WTCC REVIEWS WORK OF YEAR

Marshal George Phillipus was in the van of the line. Several persons who did not drive cars were given seats.
Most of the party expected to attend afternoon and evening functions, including a dance tonight at the Settles hotel, convention headquarters.
A wire from Big Spring said Midland was the most represented of all towns at the convention. Abilene and other towns were running motorcades to the convention today, the wire contained.
Officials of the chamber of commerce Thursday offered the organization as an agency for obtaining government aid, in its various forms, for member cities.
The annual convention's first group conference also recommended that the state participate in relief work by submitting to the people the proposed $20,000,000 bond issue now pending in the house.
Get Instructions
By approving the bond issue, the chamber and public works figured in the recommendations of the convention work committee that the government be asked to continue extension of relief funds without requiring a bond issue of Texas.
Committees representing a hundred or more towns heard state officials and federal department representatives discuss projects for which government loans may be obtained, then remained until after the conference ended to obtain detailed instructions on procedure.
Government funds for unemployment relief, emergency conservation and public works figured in the discussion. Speakers encouraged efforts to get away from purely relief methods and adopted wherever possible projects of rehabilitation.
Proposed federal conservation camps in Texas were enumerated by John A. Norris, chairman of the board of water engineers.
B. F. Williams, state reclamation engineer, told of proposed locations for federal relief projects along the state's navigable streams, and where danger from floods exists.
Exclusive of the cars leaving earlier and those going late today, the following have gone to Big Spring: Mrs. J. E. Ryan, Eddie Blucher, W. E. Carroll, Leon Hoffman, Roy Stockard, Bill Conner, Geo. H. Halton, Mrs. J. R. Black, Mrs. John P. Howe, Cam Fannin, Clarence Day, Dr. K. F. Campbell, Blanche Moran, H. Kaplan, Mrs. Tom M. Noyes, Jimmie Noland, J. S. Andrews, Paul Jones, George Phillipus and E. W. Ticknor.

MIDLAND REPRESENTATIVES
FITTED AT BIG SPRING
Midland's social representative, Miss Dorris Harrison, accompanied by her maids, Jeanette Edwards, Ruff, Marion, Wadley, Reese and Margaret Francis, attended a breakfast for representatives of West Texas towns at Big Spring this morning and will attend a pastel tea at the Big Spring country club this afternoon.
C. A. Goldsmith, Midland high school speaker in My Home Town contest, was edged out in a close decision last night. Kenneth D. Saunders of Lorraine placed first and B. T. Withers of San Angelo second. A second group will have to pass through preliminaries today, and the finals will be held Saturday.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

I want to bring some startling figures to your mind. In some other states where they were forced to set up an organization to carry out the same relief work that the West Texas chamber of commerce has been carrying out, the cost has run as high as 15 per cent. Suppose it would have cost West Texas, say 10 per cent, and we received $2,500,000. 10 per cent would have been $250,000. Should not our organization, and by that I mean our committee, be credited with saving this amount of money for the most needy people ever known in the history of Texas, while our whole operating budget for all activities this year has not exceeded approximately $40,000.
I want to review briefly another (See PRES. HAWK, page 4)

TWO EXPERIMENTS IN GOVERNMENT

One more nation seems to have decided that the rights of the individual count for nothing in the highly-organized society of the industrial era. Germany, under a Fascist dictatorship, takes a leaf from Stalin's book and mobilizes labor, takes over labor unions and prepares to control all the big industries from top to bottom.

This scheme, which is nothing less than astounding in its scope, may mark the beginning of a new chapter in the history of human society. The combined parallel and contrast between Fascist Germany and Communist Russia is one of the most interesting sights the world has ever been permitted to watch.

Germany, whose government seems to represent chiefly the man at the top, does precisely the same thing. Seeking widely divergent goals, these two countries have adopted almost identical vehicles.

The development begun when James Watt put his steam engine on the market has carried mankind a long way, has brought it through some curious scenery, and now, at last, seems to have brought it to a great fork in the road. Russia has gone one way, Germany is starting down the other; and the most important question before the race today is whether these are the only two paths available.

Must we all follow either Germany or Russia? Must an industrial society, in the very nature of things, crush the last trace of individual freedom and choose between hard-boiled Communism or ruthless Fascism? Or is there, by good luck, a third road?

The answer depends largely on our own United States.

We have started, amid social changes that we have hardly begun to understand, along a third road. We cling to the notion that it is possible to maintain an intricate industrial society without discarding the old ideals of liberty and individual initiative. Our "new deal," if it is to mean anything, must mean that we are now beginning a stupendous effort to prove that the notion is justified.

FIGHTING RACKETEERS

Attorney General Cummings is reported to be studying the possibility of getting additional legislation under which the Department of Justice could set to work to abolish racketeering in American cities.

Under present laws, about the only way in which federal authorities can both the racketeers is to prosecute them for failing to pay their income taxes or for interfering with interstate commerce. It is to be hoped that some code can be devised whereby a straight-out offensive can be undertaken; and it is likewise to be hoped that such an offensive will be determined and energetic.

In all too many instances state and city authorities have demonstrated that they either will not or cannot make any sort of fight against racketeers. If Uncle Sam can find some way of getting into the fight, more power to his elbow.

Prof. Raymond Moley, Assistant Secretary of State and chief advisor to the President, sends word back to Columbia University that there are certain satisfactions for a teacher turned loose in the Government in Washington—such, for instance, as having 120,000,000 home folks, to say nothing of a flock of foreign nations, with which to prove that one's classroom theories are sound.

In this day of plentiful parleys at world capitals statesmanship is coming to mean less and less what a diplomat can do with a portfolio and more and more how far he can get with a suitcase.

Side Glances by Clark

Social note: Jeff Cowden spoke on inflation to a successful business man yesterday. Advertisement: Johnson Phillips is not the only one who is looking for the fellow who poisoned "Pooh." Doctors recommend a trip out of town for who is guilty.

"Spoox" Miles, visiting on the ranch, was watching a cow chewing her cud. "Pretty fine cow, that," said the foreman as he came by. "Yes," said the girl, "but doesn't it cost a lot to keep her in chewing gum?"

G. B. Hallman lets us in on this: An English class here recently was given the task of writing four lines of dramatic poetry. One boy wrote:

A boy was walking down the track. The train was coming fast. The boy stepped off the railroad track To let the train go past.

The teacher said it lacked drama, so the boy submitted the following: A boy was walking down the track. The train was coming fast. The train jumped off the railroad track To let the boy go past.

"And I ask you," said Frank Stubbeman in a recent commencement speech, "what is a home without a mother?" "An incubator!" came a voice from the audience. Frank wants to be D. A. and prosecute the man.

Barber (to young plaster-haired Bill Blair): "What'll you have, a hair-cut or just the oil changed?"

Overheard at the dance at Big Spring last night: He: "I say, doesn't this dance make you long for another?" She (sady): "Yes—but unfortunately he couldn't come tonight."

One of our girl friends has only $3 to her name. She needs new underwear, and wants a "permanent." Which will she buy? Your answer is correct, and you may move to the head of the class. Anyway, summer is here.

Dee McCormick: "I want you to find a new stenographer for me." Employment Agent: "What size lap, please?"

Churches

"Mortals and Immortals" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, May 14.

The Golden Text is from Galatians 4: "Thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ."

Included with other passages to be read from the Bible will be the following from John 14: "In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know. Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whether thou goest; and how can we know the way? Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me."

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following from the citations to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 495): "If sickness is true or the idea of Truth, you cannot destroy sickness, and if lap, please?"

Mrs. Bryan Henderson: "May I speak to the physical instructor?" "Why certainly, he is always glad to see pretty girls like you."

Mrs. H.: "Is that so? Then you may tell him his wife wishes to see him."

Baker, S. M. Warren and J. S. Schow and Miss Mollie B. Bagley; lesson, Mrs. J. M. White and benediction, Mrs. A. B. Cole. All mothers are invited to attend this meeting.

It would be absurd to try. Then classify sickness and error as our Master did, when he spoke of the sick, whom Satan hath bound, and find a sovereign antidote for error in the life-giving power of Truth acting on human belief, a power which opens the prison doors to such as are bound, and sets the captive free physically and morally. "When the illusion of sickness or sin tempts you, cling steadfastly to God and His idea. Let Christian Science instead of corporeal senses, support your understanding of being, and this understanding will supplant error with Truth, replace mortality with immortality, and silence discord with harmony."

AT THE LIBRARY

New books on library shelves are: "Infants and Children" by Bartlett; "A specialist in pediatrics not only describes simply and carefully the approved methods of caring for and feeding infants and young children, explaining the reasons for the different foods. Includes chapters on emergencies and common diseases." "Growing Up" by de Schweinitz; "The story of how we become alive, are born and grow up. A simple and straightforward account, intended for children between the ages of six and twelve." "The Art of Helping People Out of Trouble" by de Schweinitz; "This is a practical book about the troubles that arise in the life of every human being and the way in which they can be met. It is both an interpretation of the art of living and a description of a method of helping people to overcome their difficulties. The author, who is secretary of the Philadelphia Society for Organized Charity, is definite, lucid, informing. His book will be found invaluable by social workers and teachers, by parents, physicians, clergymen, and lawyers, and by everyone who is in a position to influence other people, and as well by the person who is himself in trouble." "Roaming the Rockies" by Faris; "The national forests of the west and ten national parks, from the Black Hills to New Mexico, are described for prospective tourists who want an introduction to the history and natural features of these wonderful spots. The book contains useful information about routes and points of special interest with many descriptive bits quoted from famous travelers. Interesting photographic illustrations." "Butterfly Book" by Holland; "A standard book for the study of butterflies and caterpillars. Nearly a thousand species of butterflies are illustrated and discussed and their capture and preservation described." "Sutter's Gold" by Cendrars, translated from the French by Henry Longan Stuart; "John August Sutter sought his way to California when half of America was a wilderness. There in the desolation of the Sacramento valley he created 'New Helvetia,' that gigantic domain which made him the first of America's multi-millionaires. Then came the discovery of gold on his territory. The cry of Sutter's Gold echoed around the world. The hordes of '49 swept over Sutter's land like a tidal wave, carrying him to an amazing and pathetic destiny." "Mistress of Shenstone" by Barclay; "Basquerie" by Mercier and two juveniles, "Little Elephant" by Williamson and "Yellow Shop" by Field, complete the list. All of these are seven and fourteen day books.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Rioting and strife are prevalent in the small African port town that borders on huge oil fields. Jim Bradier, who is responsible for the greatness of the Alianza Petroleum Corporation and who has been in America for sometime, returns to the oil fields. George K. Lentz, general manager of the Alianza, visits Bradier at the Louis Sixto Cafe, where Bradier is drinking with Teresita, a dancing girl of the place.

CHAPTER TWO

Lentz keenly disapproved of Teresita and the type of women she typified. It was evident in his glance, though he could say nothing.

"I was under the impression we were to meet at the office," said Lentz to Bradier.

"What luck brought you back?" Lentz spoke with forced, strained affability in an attempt to conceal his deep interest in Bradier's mission. "I hope it's luck. We had cables from New York, but they neglected to tell us why we were so fortunate."

"There was nothing to tell you. Bradier came to the point. 'Well, Lentz, what's on your mind?' 'Well, I thought you might like to learn what happened around here since you went away.' He stopped as Bradier downed a glass of Iraq, and then continued. 'What with one thing and another, it's getting more difficult all the time. There's a new bandit came up from the South that's giving the company a lot of trouble. His name is Rayon—he calls himself a general—and as far as Alianza is concerned—'

Bradier interrupted rudely. "I don't want to hear anything about Alianza. I'm out of the company! That's what I went to New York for, Lentz—to sell out my interest in it. Haven't got a cent invested in oil. I don't care if they never get a drop out of the ground again. Here or anywhere else. I'm through with oil!"

"Really? Then your visit to the oil fields—"

"Personal," said Bradier bluntly. "Oh, uh—how long do you expect to stay?"

"In that case I'm glad I ordered one of the company's planes for you."

"Planes?"

"Yes. We bought a few after you left. We found them faster—and safer. Corey's been having a lot of trouble with this bandit Rayon—but then you're not interested in that, are you? About Corey—I don't mean to question your judgment, of course, but Corey hasn't quite made the grade. Lentz watched Bradier's face closely for the reaction to this. "I don't like to discuss Corey for a reason you well know—you brought him out here and put him in charge of the field. I've never been fool enough to question your decisions in this country, but I've been tempted to about Corey—he has certain drawbacks."

Bradier looked intently at Lentz. "I'll tell you his drawbacks in three words—he's too honest! It's a disease with him. Outside of that he's the most highly trained and intelligent man you've got. But do as you like about it. I'm out of the picture."

"You'll never be out of the picture. Not you. After all, whether you're with the company any more or not, they're in the field. We all know that. You built them. Ci-marron of the oil fields. That was my name for you. And you can't blame me for wondering just why you came back."

Bradier grinned. "Does my presence worry you so much?"

"No, no—why should it? It's only that everybody—I mean, I'd like to do what I can to make your life comfortable as possible."

"Thanks. But all I want is to get to the fields as quickly as possible."

Lentz started to leave. "The plane's in charge of a man named Deleker. He'll get you up there in an hour." He paused in the doorway. "If there's anything you want to know—I keep regular office hours."

"Thank you, I don't."

Lentz walked out. A look of undisguised contempt came to Bradier's eyes. "Lentz—just another slimy efficiency expert," he growled. Teresita, who had listened to the conversation between the two men without speaking, leaned over playfully and powdered Bradier's nose with a fluffy powder puff. He submitted, looking at her with amusement.

"You know, you're the only one I've run into who hasn't burst a blood vessel trying to find out why I came back," said Bradier.

"That's because I know why you came back," said the girl.

"Why?"

"I prayed for you to come back," Teresita pointed to the image of St. Mary. The candle burned steadily before it. "You see? I've had a candle burning ever since you left." Bradier laughed. "You monkey! You think I came back on account of you?"

"A man doesn't come half-way across the world for nothing. You say it's not oil—it must be a woman—and I'm a woman."

"You're a fool!"

"Maybe I'm ignorant—but I know about some things. People say to me: Teresita, make love with me—forget Mr. Bradier—he never come

HOG LED WAY

ELKHORN, Wis. (UP)—A ground hog was responsible for the discovery of a rich deposit of lime now being used as a fertilizer on southern Wisconsin farms. Two hunters found a woodchuck hole dug in limestone several months ago and an investigation resulted in the establishment of an unemployment relief project at the spot. Farmers of Rock and Walworth counties are being supplied with limestone.

LOVER SOUGHT SOLACE

EL PASO, Texas. (UP)—A jilted lover who sought to punish the girl who refused to marry him received little solace when he appealed to District Attorney John W. Penn here. There was no recourse, the prosecutor told the disappointed one.

ed had it not been for the work done by our local expenditure committees. In addition, we requested that no new taxes be imposed, and what new taxes, may I ask, have been imposed by this session of the legislature. The answer is NONE. In addition, it appears likely that because of curtailing expenditures the ad valorem tax will be reduced even over and above the reduction caused by the homestead amendment.

The third major activity has been our West Texas beautification program, so well and wisely launched by our former president, Houston Harris and during the past year, under his efficient leadership, as chairman of the beautification program.

The beautification program is a five year program. A second year contest will be begun at the close of the Big Spring conference.

We are just now completing the organization of another major activity which is to render a service to our communities as well as create much work for the unemployed. That is the securing of the benefits of the self-liquidating program from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for West Texas, and this will be known as our public works and self-liquidating loan, bureau, which proposes to serve our member towns by getting a portion of the self-liquidating loan funds and to help in the preparation of necessary data for the chairman of the committee to furnish the engineer in order to present and sponsor the application in Washington. We believe this service will prove to be of greater benefit to West Texas at this time than any other we could undertake, as it will afford cities an opportunity to obtain much needed improvement at rock bottom prices.

Our work on curtailing state expenditures started in November, 1931, when we submitted a brief to the legislative tax survey committee asking that the state budget be balanced by imposing new taxes. We followed up most vigorously at the beginning of this session of the legislature, requesting that a biennial budget of no greater than thirty-two million dollars be chargeable to the general fund be adopted. In this manner, we had practically laid before their own representatives and senators this program, and urged their support. In addition, we, at the same time, through our public expenditure committees, called upon our legislature not, at this time, to impose any new taxes.

What has been the result of this work at Austin? At the present time, the appropriation bills passed by this legislature total less than thirty-two million dollars, the amount called for in our program. This is a saving in expenditures of from 30 to 35 per cent over the last biennium. This is the first legislature in the history of Texas that has ever adopted a biennial budget less than the preceding biennium and I am confident that this work would have never been accomplish-

Today We Live Pair of Stars To the Yucca

The greatly anticipated co-starring vehicle for Joan Crawford and Gary Cooper, "Today We Live," opens preview Saturday night, Sunday and Monday at the Yucca theatre as one of the major productions to come from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. Miss Crawford, whose work in "Letty Lynton" and "Grand Hotel" definitely placed her as the outstanding emotional player on the screen today, and Cooper, who recently contributed a memorable performance in "A Farewell to Arms," have never appeared together on the screen before.

An auspicious event in cinema history, for it takes place in a filming of a story by the brilliant American writer, William Faulkner, whose novels, "Sanctuary" and "Light in August," have created a literary furor. In "Today We Live" Faulkner has written a story about the dramatic experiences of an English society girl who offers her services to England during the World War in an ambulance unit, and falls in love with an American flyer. The production was directed by Howard Hawks, who produced the successful "Scarface" and the supporting cast includes Robert Young, the New York stage juvenile, Franchot Tone, Roscoe Karns, Louis Closser Hale, Rollo Lloyd and Hilda Vaughn.

"Today We Live," Miss Crawford finds herself the center of an emotional conflict between three men, two of them lose their lives in her behalf. The powerful story shifts from the aristocratic country estate of the heroine to dynamic episodes in the battle zones of the war, with what is said to be one of the most terrific climaxes ever devised for the screen occurring when one of the star's lovers gets a "death order" to blow up a ship from which there will be no return. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is said to have placed all the facilities at its disposal to Director Hawks in the filming of this picture, which is reported to be one of the outstanding talkie productions of the year.

No-Man's Land Fifteen Years After the War

PARIS (UP)—Although meadows and flourishing fields cover most of No-Man's Land, that historic strip from the English Channel to Switzerland relinquishes constant reminders of the World War.

Under the direction of the War Ministry, a small army of men work constantly in the regions where the most sanguinary battles were waged, charged with finding and identifying, if possible, the remains of tens of thousands of soldiers still recorded as "missing," 15 years after the Armistice.

A typical report of the searchers' efforts is that for March, 1932, Germany, 39 identifiable, 165 unidentified. France, 28 identifiable, 42 unidentified. Belgium, 39 identifiable, 165 unidentified. Total: 274.

The total recorded as "missing" among the French war dead is about 237,000. Each month as the lists are made public they are scanned by relatives who hope to bring the remains to a family cemetery.

Snails Bring Girl A Growing Income

ST. PAUL, (UP)—Eleanor Pepin, 16-year-old, raises and sells snails. And her growing business soon may afford an income sufficient to support her mother and brother. Starting last fall with five snails which a neighbor was about to throw away, Eleanor now has 500 young snails and 500 eggs ready to hatch. Already she has sold 150 snails.

Miss Pepin's customers are persons keeping goldfish. The snails, placed in a goldfish bowl keep the water clean. The snails, a Japanese variety, are kept sorted according to size and age. The cost of feeding is about one cent a month per snail. Small fish food is their menu.

A state-wide organization to oppose gasoline tax on fuel used for airplanes has been formed among pilots of Oklahoma.

Wistful Delmar Romance Gripping Drama of Screen

The screen has done it again! Once more the wistful, tender romance of two youngsters buffeted by fate comes from the pen of Vina Delmar. First featured in Red Book Magazine, it bursts into life of the screen. This year's "Bad Girl" is "Pick Up," the new Sylvia Sidney-George Raft picture, which opens Sunday at the Ritz theatre, with preview showing Saturday night. It is heart drama in every foot of its compelling story, a fine, moving drama played with matchless spirit by Sidney and Raft. Directed by Marion Gering, who was the stage director of "Bad Girl" when Sylvia Sidney starred in that play on Broadway, "Pick Up," produced by B. P. Schulberg, moves swiftly, always holding interest in its story of a boy and girl who find their love on the streets. In Vina Delmar's crisp telling, the drama gains potency and flavor, emerging a pungent and observant photograph in the heart interest tradition.

The conclusion of the picture is a gripping affair, pitched to the tragedy of this heart-hungry girl and the man she loves.

To the role of the girl, Sylvia Sidney imports the historic charm of her personality. She makes the small, storm-tossed character a real, living being, aching for love and finding it, almost to lose its precious reward at the last moment. Raft, the suave and somewhat sinister performer, is a revelation in "Pick Up." He matches his superb performance in "Night after Night."

Hurricane House Defies the Winds

Strength to withstand the impact of hurricanes, plus equipment to meet the hazard of low air pressure present at the heart of a hurricane, feature the "hurricane" house designed by Wal-Ward Harding, architect, for construction in sections visited by destructive wind storms.

This house, the result of first-hand experience in hurricanes, was planned in every detail to overcome the dangers of severe winds. Structurally it is a unit, reinforced concrete being specified for the whole house—foundation, walls and roof. Architecturally, simplicity has been capitalized to produce an attractive, livable and economical house.

One of the most dangerous aspects of hurricanes—hitherto overlooked in construction—is the low air pressure area in the heart of such disturbances. The lack of breathable air becomes a threat to life, just as it does at very high altitudes. To meet this condition, provision is made for a "home oxygen" similar to bank-vault installations which assure a supply of good air to persons accidentally trapped at closing time.

Window and door battens which, open, are decorative, close flush with the walls so that there are no projections of any kind for the wind to catch during a hurricane.

Construction of the type specified, with its flat concrete foundation, is so rigid that according to Harding, "a ship, driven ashore by the gale, could butt the house out of position without doing any serious damage to it."

WOOD ON INCREASE

STOCKHOLM. (UP)—Sweden's foreign sale of wood for 1932 delivery by the middle of March amounted to 235,000 standards against only 125,000 at the same time last year. The understate of the international timber market is better than in 1932, according to a report published by the Swedish Exporters association. The total sales for the past year were over 749,000 standards.

TO SELL OIL LEASES

SAN ANGELO (UP)—Oil and gas leases in more than 30 sections of West Texas land will be offered for sale May 20 by the Board of the Lease University of Texas Lands. The lease sale is the first in this section since September, 1932. University acreage under lease for oil and gas development at present totals approximately 2,000,000 acres in 19 counties, according to J. H. Walker, State Land Commissioner.

Under recent legislation the lease board is permitted to include 6,000 acres in one lease. A minimum yearly rental of 25 cents per acre, a minimum bid of $1 per acre, and a royalty of one-eighth of the gross production of oil and gas, are required by the lease board.

BEER TEST CASE

FORT WORTH (UP)—District attorneys are preparing Tarrant county's first test case on the legality of 3.2 beer sold here.

Lee Copeland, arrested after a raid which netted several bottles of beer brewed in New Orleans, was charged under the Dean Law, the state's prohibition yardstick.

W. F. McLean Jr., Copeland's attorney, said he would defend his client on two grounds: first, finding policemen had no search warrant; second, Congress has held 3.2 beer is not intoxicating.

The recent death of Rear Admiral W. H. H. Southernland, recalls to mind that he was one of the few enlisted men of the navy ever to reach the grade of admiral. He was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1869 from the enlisted ranks, reached the grade of admiral in 1910, and was retired in 1914. During his long career, he saw service in a number of famous vessels including the Constitution and Hartford.
