Hull Says Liberal Trade Revision Would Save the U. S.

"CONFISCATORY" TAXES PROTESTED

WORLD WOULD BE LED FROM CHAOS, SAYS Freer Exchange Bids To Bring Eight Billions in

WASHINGTON, April 8. (UP)—Secretary of State Hull indicated today that the United States is prepared to lead the world out of the economic nationalism morass. He declared that it is time to halt high tariffs and trade restrictions and to adopt more moderate policies of stimulating international trade.

Secretary Hull estimated that a free exchange would increase world trade fifty or sixty billions annually and that America's share of increased trade would be from six to eight billions.

His liberal views will be introduced in coming conferences between Roosevelt and foreign representatives.

AUTO INDUSTRY HIRING THOUSANDS

General improvement in the automobile industry was reflected in the recent hiring of thousands of men and the increasing of production to over one hundred per cent in some factories.

Increased sales necessitated increase in production from 200 to 2,000 daily. Workers in groups of 1,500 to 26,000 were re-employed for spring production and increased demands through general business improvements.

General Motors hired additional employees. Production of 2,000 Ford daily was not meeting the demand. Chevrolet produced 15,000 more cars in the first quarter of this year than in the same period last year. Packard reported an increase in sales of 142 per cent in the last ten days of March. Others gained similarly.

Midland Man on State Program

The program committee of the Texas Commercial Executive association has placed Paul T. Vickers, Midland secretary, on this year's annual convention-school program, for an address on "Applied, Practical Specific Ethics." The convention-school will be held in Tyler on the 11, 12 and 13. The Midland man was toastmaster at one of the banquets of the state meeting last year at Mineral Wells.

Chamber Offers Poison Formula

Ranchers and farmers are reporting depredations by rats and mice that are the worst in years. Texas A. & M. college extension service, on request of the Midland chamber of commerce, has sent to Midland directions for killing the pests. Directions for killing mice are as follows: Mix 1 quart of barium carbonate with 4 parts of flour or meal, or 1 part of barium carbonate with 8 quarts of oatmeal; add a little cold water and mix thoroughly into a stiff dough. The barium carbonate may also be sprinkled on fresh toasted bread or moistened bread and butter.

Return from Rites Of Aged Relative

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gann and daughters, Barbara and Lorena, and Mrs. W. J. Fessler returned Friday evening from Abilene, where they attended the funeral of Mr. Gann's mother, who, after a long illness, died Tuesday noon at the home of a daughter, Mrs. W. R. Spence at Brownwood.

Mrs. Gann left four daughters and two sons. All were at the funeral except one son who lives at Alamosa, Colorado. Sixteen grandchildren and four great-grandchildren also survive.

Mrs. Gann had visited in the home of her son at Midland several times in the last few years.

Teaspoon Found In Inner Tube

Emptying a container a teaspoonful at a time can be more rapid than generally believed, especially in the case of an automobile tube, Ned Watson finds.

Repairing a flat last week, Watson found a spoon in his inner tube.

Watson and his "jinties" have bumped into a variety of petty troubles. Several times he had mechanics look for a "knock" in his motor, only to find out weeks afterward the rattle came from a small tin he had placed under the rear deck the spring before and forgot.

Mammoth Size Hound Is Here; Easily Managed

"The biggest and best looking dog I ever saw" was the exclamation of several Midland people and tourists who paused to look at a Stag hound who breakfasted at Midland Saturday morning.

Riding majestically in the rumble seat of his master's Buick coupe, the huge dog jumped neatly in and out of the car while it was parked on a Midland street.

He shook hands agreeably with all who greeted him, stood on his hind feet, to show his extreme height and otherwise went through his paces at the slightest command of his master, a virile looking, he-man sort of a fellow from California who "would" have that sort of a dog with him. The hound had his ears cropped in such a way that he resembled a Great Dane. He weighed 160 pounds, the owner said.

Spectators, admiring the animal, remarked that one should own a meat market along with a dog of that size.

EXHIBITS PLANNED IN CLUB CONCLAVE

Three exhibits will be held in connection with the convention of the Federated Women's clubs of the Sixth district to be held in Midland April 24, 25 and 26.

To stimulate Midland interest, Mrs. John A. Haley, president of the Federated clubs of Midland offers for the clubs a first prize of $2 and a second prize of $1 for the best rug exhibited by a Midland county woman. In addition to these prizes, Midland county women may also win one of the district prizes. Rural women particularly are invited to enter their rugs.

Mrs. W. E. Stagner of Eastland, chairman of the American Homes committee of the Sixth district, will preside at the American Homes luncheon April 25 and will be in general charge of the exhibit.

Mrs. A. G. Hoover of Ozona will bring a fine arts exhibit to Midland. Mrs. F. H. Lanham, Midland artist, will manage this exhibit.

Texas A. & M. college will send a craft and goods exhibit for the convention.

Mrs. Haley Saturday asked that all women not members of the Federated clubs who would entertain any of the women visitors in their homes call her at 203. She pointed out that all hostesses to visitors would be entitled to attend all of the social functions during the three days. The president also pointed out that Midland women would be expected to attend the various luncheons, as that would be one of the best ways to express Midland's hospitality to the visitors.

Trades Days Revived For Spring Months; Presents Given April 22

Thursday and ask about Trades days. Various stores will have special sales events, and a general meeting of farm men and women will follow the drawing. The meeting will be held at the court house with Miss Myrtle Miller, new home demonstration agent, in charge.

It is the plan to establish in the minds of the people that the third Saturday of every month will be Trades day. Farmers can have their products auctioned off free or bring things to town to swap. The drawing will be on the vacant lots across from the Cowden-Epley Ford company.

Heads Bank

Walter S. McLucas, above, is the new president of Detroit's "Roosevelt" bank that is purchasing the sound assets of two closed banks. The new institution, financed by General Motors and the R. F. C. will release an additional 40 per cent of deposits in the old banks. Mr. McLucas resigned as chairman of a Kansas City, Mo., bank, to head the Detroit bank.

40 ATTEND FARM MEETING CALLED HERE SATURDAY

About 40 men and women attended a farm meeting Saturday afternoon in the county court room to hear Miss Myrtle Miller, county home demonstration agent, explain the work she hopes to do here with the next three months.

County Judge Elliott H. Barron presided at the meeting and introduced Miss Miller following announcement by a chamber of commerce representative that April 20, 21 and 22 and each third Saturday hereafter would be Trades Days in Midland, and he also announced that April 28 would conclude farm loan application work.

Arrangements were made to conduct a demonstration in tile irrigation at 9:30 a. m. next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. E. Wallace, 4 miles northeast of Midland and at 2 p. m. Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. H. Gwyn, 3 miles northwest of Midland.

April 22 was set as the date for the next county-wide meeting of men and women. This meeting will be held at the courthouse at 3:45 following the Trades day drawing.

On April 27 at 2 p. m. a farm meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Floyd Commins in the Cotton Flat community, and on April 28 at 2 p. m. at the home of C. Flowers in the Stokes community.

Mrs. Harvey Sloan announced at the meeting Saturday that work will be continued in the building of sanitary pit toilets with labor furnished free from R. F. C. funds.

Miss Miller stressed the importance of farm women and men using her services to the fullest extent, as she was here for only three months, having been sent by Texas A. & M. college without any expense to Midland county. The county judge pointed out that since the tile draining experiments could be made at such low cost, as low even as 10 or 15 cents, perhaps many women would be interested in attending the meetings Tuesday at the homes of Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Gwyn.

Miss Miller said that through us (See FARM MEETING, page 6)

Teat for Tat and Calf Grows Fat—How About That?

The secret of how E. B. Dickenson raises such fine calves may or may not be explained in a photograph hung at the chamber of commerce.

One husky calf called "Tat" is shown suckling a mare. Dickenson owns the V-Bar ranch, one of the finest in this section of West Texas.

GOODMAN NAMED DIRECTOR W.T.C.C.

Leon Goodman was re-elected the Midland director of the West Texas chamber of commerce at a meeting of directors of the Midland chamber Saturday at 1 o'clock.

The directors were called to meet in session with the petroleum committee, and President Marvin C. Ulmer used this occasion to take place of the regular monthly meeting. J. E. Hill presided as president.

Goodman is a member of the executive committee of the regional organization. He made an address to the Brownfield Rotary club Friday.

Easter Service for School Announced

Plans for a community sunrise devotional service at the high school auditorium at 7 o'clock on Easter Sunday morning have been announced.

Supt. W. W. Lackey is in charge of the music and will use many high school singers as well as musicians from the various churches.

The Rev. Winston F. Bonum, pastor of the First Baptist church, will deliver the address, and the Knights Templar will attend at special guests.

Pygmies "Smarter Than Brethren"

Pygmies may not be so large as their brethren, but they think fast, claims Walter Latendorf, manager of the company of midgets here last week.

"This is because they recognize they have to make up with mental strength," he said. "The same principle works in the case of the physical weakness of standard size. He generally is a bookworm and scholar."

However, this mental alertness causes the manager of that industry to sneer at them, Latendorf says.

"Believe me, the smaller they are the bigger the person who cares for them must be," he said with a smile.

HERE FROM COLORADO

Judge and Mrs. C. H. Earnest of Colorado arrived Saturday afternoon to spend the week-end with their daughter, Mrs. Don Sivalis.

DELEGATION TO AUSTIN NAMED IN SAT. MEET

Oil Men Hope a Halt Of Legislation May Result

Opposition to what was termed confiscatory taxes on the oil industry was vigorously voiced Saturday afternoon at a called meeting of the petroleum committee and directors of the Midland chamber of commerce.

Harry Adams, independent oil operator, was elected to represent independent oil men and the chamber of commerce, at Austin this week in an effort to halt legislation which oil men and others say will drive the oil business from Texas as if passed.

James S. Noland, chairman of the petroleum committee, will head the Midland delegation to Austin. Adams will accompany him and other oil men may go later.

Big Spring and other towns depending on the oil industry for much of their support have sent delegations.

The following attended the meeting: Noland, Bob Patterson, Goodman, J. E. Hill, T. Paul Barron, M. F. Peters, J. L. McGrew, R. M. Barron, Dr. W. E. Ryan, Louis Link, Adams, W. G. Riddle, K. Fitzgerald, Earl Tichen, George Phillipus and Harry Johnson.

Trash Is Hauled Free This Week

Get your trash hauled away this week without cost. Just telephone the city hall at 565 and ask for a wagon.

All the city asks is that the trash be placed in boxes, sacks or other containers, and that it be hauled more easily by trash haulers.

Midland is said by transcontinental travelers to be one of the cleanest cities in the state. New York and San Diego, but these tourists seldom see far beyond Wall street or the highway through Midland.

On April 24, about 200 of the most prominent women of West Texas will be in Midland for the convention of the Sixth district of Federated Women's clubs. These women will be guests in homes over all parts of the city.

They'll see the whole town. That's why the drive during the week of April 9 is an extra special effort to make the city clean. People are called on to rake up their yards, clear vacant lots of unsightly refuse, mow their lawns and otherwise beautify their premises.

There are more than 50 men in Midland who want jobs. These may be obtained for yard work or clean-up work by telephoning the Midland chamber of commerce.

Theory Tested On New Highway

Deep sand on a segment of the Potash highway connecting supply houses at Odessa and office headquarters at Midland with operations in Lea County, N. M., and the potential areas in Andrews and in Gaines counties, has been treated with topping of heavy oil and asphalt, rather than the usual chert topping. This new type of oil field road work in heavy sand is an experiment, which, if it proves successful, will be much more economical and much faster, engineers say.

TEXAS BEER RULING LIKELY MONDAY; GANGDOM BOMBS FIGHT LEGAL BREW

AUSTIN, April 8. (UP)—Attorney General Allred probably will rule Monday on the question of transportation of beer through Texas and on serving it in dining cars, he indicated today.

Dr. Atteus Webb of Dallas, superintendent of the Texas Anti-Saloon league, asked Allred to file an injunction petition to restrain common carriers from transportation through the state, serving beer on dining cars and otherwise.

Major breweries were guarding against intrusion of gangdom. It was feared that control by racketeers would bring sentiment against repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Hilarity had subsided but the demand was so great that supplies were being rationed to retailers. Most orders were cut in half. Brewers were trying to check "beer hoarders." It was estimated that the nation consumed 150,000 barrels of beer Friday.

Gangdom was "muscling in" on legal breweries today. A bombing in Chicago was the first act of violence. Beer barons were buying in small breweries near New York.

Mrs. Floyd Cites Value Of Electrical Appliances

The days have passed when mildly gingerly sticks a toe from under the cover to test the goose-bump prickling atmosphere, shrugs into her rough "slave garments", shoulders a buffalo gun and heads for the spring for a bucket of water preparatory to beginning a day of toil.

Electricity is the modern version of the Aladdin lamp that places a soft complexion on modern household duties.

What would be the morning schedule by the clock of a 100 per cent efficient, automatic precision school sessions of The Reporter-Telegram, beginning at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning?

Let Mrs. Stella Floyd, school instructor, tell you.

Mildly today (she began in a Saturday interview) is awakened by the compelling alarm of a Telechron, electric clock. At the same moment, with automatic precision of the modern age, the radio is turned on in the front room and a bending exercise is broadcast. (Today's housewife must bend by no effort, and coffee, ready the night before, set on to percolate—and in 15 minutes, while she is taking her exercises, and plunge, the breakfast is ready.)

Naturally, she will have to go shake friend hubby a few times to get him out of bed, but this comes under the classification of exercise; in fact, it is the most difficult task of the "electrical appliance" user.

General Electric engineers will have to conduct their experiments with a view to perfecting some appliance for getting the drowsy, matter-of-fact male out of bed. Mrs. Floyd suggests an electrical poker.

Breakfast on the dishes are placed in the electrical dish washer and come out on the drain board thoroughly cleansed and dried. No red hands for electrical appliance users today. Mildly makes the beds, takes the electric vacuum cleaner and does a bit of walking, dashes to her boudoir for a bit of artistic make-up with her powder puff and, after showing her husband where he left his hat, gets him off to work—and finds she will have to read a short story before time for the cooking school to begin.

She goes to her seat in the Yucca, where the school will be conducted, prim and secure in her mind that her automatic range will have luncheon ready when hubby comes back from the office to eat and lose his hair again.

That's about the usual routine for one who has equipped her home with the "fewer steps, fewer bending" method. Mrs. Floyd not only does this to the housewife but she shows each day how much more easily it is to conduct the cooking in that manner than it is to tell about it. At the same time, she shows how the average housewife can cut the corners and avoid drudgery—whether she has the electrical appliances.

Mats of the picture of Marion F. Peters, together with articles setting forth his record of leadership in Lionism and in civic affairs in Midland were sent out Friday to most of the daily newspapers in West Texas by the Midland chamber of commerce.

This publicity was a follow-up on stories sent two weeks ago by the Midland chamber to every weekly newspaper in District Two of Texas.

The main literature sent out by the Lions committee some days ago was a composite picture drawn by Chauncey Garrison, postal clerk and recognized as one of the leading younger cartoonists of Texas.

This committee is now working on the model luncheon program which Midland Lions will present in Amarillo April 17. The committee is also organizing a Midland delegation to go to Amarillo to help elect Peters governor of District Two-T.

18 Days More for Getting Crop Loans

Only 18 days will elapse till all chance to obtain crop production loans this year will end, Field Supervisor John S. Andrews pointed out Saturday.

On April 29, the application offices will be closed for this year. Farmers desiring loans are warned to go to the Midland chamber of commerce office and get their loans made out. A last minute rush may mean some farmers may not get their loans made out, Andrews said.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Strawn of Big Spring are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Souze of Midland, who recently returned from an extended visit to San Angelo, Abilene, Sweetwater, Merkel and Big Spring.

New Potential Might Result from Meeting

Notice of a hearing at Midland Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock covering the Crane-Upton oil field has been mailed all operators of that field by W. R. Bowden, deputy supervisor of Midland.

Bowden, under instructions from R. Frank, chief supervisor of the Oil and Gas division, Austin, has asked that all interested parties also attend, and sets the probable attendance at 100. Parker will attend the meeting.

He asks that all operators come prepared to submit the following data:

1. Estimated potential of each well based upon its present actual capacity to produce.

2. Estimated amount of water each well will make on a 24-hour test.

3. Number of wells shut in, or not now being produced on each lease.

5. Lifting cost per barrel for each lease.

Probability of discussion as to the taking of a new potential of the field looms.

The daily allowable is now 12,000 barrels, the potential 56,488 barrels. There are 892 producing wells.

JOHN A. RITTER SUCCEEDS JOHNSON

HOUSTON, April 8. (UP)—John A. Ritter of Dallas was elected chairman of the Southwestern district of the American Petroleum institute, production division, today, succeeding Blaine Johnson of Dallas.

J. E. Warren of Texon was elected vice chairman for West Texas and R. D. Reiser of Kilgore East Texas vice chairman.

Midland Asked to Enter a Speaker

The Midland high school has been asked to enter a student speaker in the annual My Home Town contest at the fifteenth annual convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce at Big Spring, May 11, 12, 13.

The entry blank and rules of the contest were received by Supt. W. W. Lackey from C. M. Caldwell, chairman of the contest.

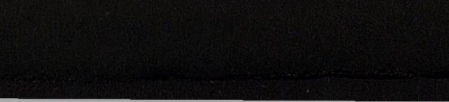

Contestants must be high school students and each town may select its contestant in any way it desires. The speech must be original and about the home town of the student. The rules provide it shall not contain poetry and shall not be over five minutes long.

A new loving cup is to be offered to the winner this year at Big Spring—the Thos. Etheridge cup having been won three times by Joe Witherspoon, Jr., of Wichita Falls, who becomes permanent owner. Witherspoon will not be a contestant this year, according to Chairman Caldwell. In addition to a loving cup, the high three contestants will each receive a substantial cash prize and the winner will be given a choice of a number of college scholarships.

The Home Town contest has been a feature of the West Texas chamber of commerce conventions for the past ten years, and the final contest is held before the entire convention on the last morning.

POLITICIANS AND PROFESSORS

It seems that the politicians at Washington do not take kindly to the predominance of college professors in the president's inner circle of advisers.

Politicians and college professors do make an odd combination, when you stop to think about it. The arena of practical politics has little in common with the seclusion of the campus.

Yet in the differences that are now appearing, it is a fairly safe bet that the sympathy of the general public will incline toward the professors and not toward the politicians.

The college professor, to be sure, is by tradition an impractical and visionary fellow. He is long on theory and short on practice. He can cook up endless schemes which look well on paper but don't work out in real life.

That, at any rate, is the tradition. But the college professor, today as never before, is entitled to sit back and emit a coarse, "Oh yeah?"

Consider the situation for a moment. For the past decade all of our affairs have been in the hands of men who, if they were nothing else, were at least practical. We have had a set of eminently practical politicians at Washington; we have had highly practical bankers and industrialists running the worlds of finance and industry.

The most visionary of collegiate dreamers could hardly have devised a system which would crash more completely than this system erected by our practical and hard-boiled realists.

Isn't it, then, about time that we entrusted the wreckage to some new hands? Can't we afford, at last, to indulge in a little theory? Is there, in the record, one good reason why the politicians should poke fun at the college professors?

If it irks the politicians to find the professors stealing the show, that is too bad. But it isn't likely that the public will shed many tears.

JUSTIFIABLE OPTIMISM

That the new feeling of optimism prevalent in this country is shared by impartial observers overseas is made evident by a speech recently delivered in the House of Commons by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer for the British government.

"Looking over the world," says Mr. Chamberlain, "one can see indications that the industrial situation is likely to improve within the next few months."

A few weeks ago anyone looking at the situation in the United States could have done so only with a feeling of gravest anxiety. Today, thanks to the initiative, courage and wisdom of the president, a change has taken place which is almost miraculous."

Our optimism seems to be justified. We aren't out of the woods, of course—not by a long shot. But we are, at last, on our way.

The Town Quack

ing from a comedian at a show: "Yes, I have a brother who lives down on the farm. He was up to see me the other day and I took him to a doctor as he wasn't feeling well. There isn't anything much the matter with you, the doctor told him. 'All you need to do is to relax.' 'What do you mean?' asked my brother. 'do you mean I have to take one of those chocolate coated things?' My brother tells me that down on his farm his hens have gone on a strike. Eggs are selling for three cents a dozen. The roosters aren't laying particularly but the hens say that that three cents won't even pay for the wear and tear. And oh yes, when my brother was up here he drank something that didn't agree with him. He became deathly sick at his stomach and he had to get somewhere. He hurried into the lobby of a hotel and stopped a bell boy. 'Where is the rest room?' he asked. 'Why it's right around the corner,' the bell boy said. 'Listen, here, boy,' said my brother, 'you can give me any of that Hoover propaganda. I've got to get to the rest room.' And my brother when he was here also met up with some folks who put on a lot of uptown manners and who talk about their ancestors. He visited with one of them who remarked that they came originally from England. 'Why, Queen Elizabeth laid a sword on my great, great, great grandfather's head and made him a knight.' But my brother was not impressed or taken back or anything. 'That isn't anything,' he replied. 'Chief Hole-in-the-Ground laid a tomahawk on my grandfather's head and made him an angel.'

"Now for the cigarettes. 'Old Colds' were created to give you old colds. But the makers also considered your breath, your bankroll, your gullibility, your mother-in-law and other greasy artificial flavorings. They created a cigarette free of hard coal, axle grease and old shoes. Here's the proof: Open up a pack of Old Colds. Open up a dozen packs. See if we care. Smell the tobacco. You can't because there isn't any tobacco in it. 'Ah, the pity of it, you was once a happy-go-lucky, care-free youngster! Admired by all! The most popular boy around in your set! Even climaxed a successful career with a brilliant marriage! Then came the denouement! And you did not carry allmy insurance. Guard against such tragedies! Send for our illustrated booklet, 'How to Keep the Cat from the Door.'

"In your underwear what do you suppose you look like to your wife? Brother, you probably thought you were a gift to women. All wrong! You look like the back of a Black and White taxi going south. 'Men, we are ruined. The public no longer considers 'spit' a horrid word. 'We will be looking for you in the Quack column. If not you're a very poor Quack. Arthur Unknwvned. Remember the spot is hot.'

Brother, it's a pleasure to handle your copy. It shows you read the ads in our paper. It shows that you recognize men's frailties, as well as his frailties. It shows you got tired of my column and see the need of something better, yet watch for it every day. Come on with more of your bunk. It's very little worse than mine.

A West Texas columnist visited Washington and heard the following: "April First, Two Falls, Neither Niagara. Bravery or weak intellect, what have you? Standing on a church lawn imagine me trying to mind my own affairs. A fair maid steps down and casts her lovely eyes around and gives a look see. I wonder who the heck could be so cruel as to disappoint such a lovely vision. Wondering, I pass, evidence is against me. One week later the above is repeated, surely I must be dreaming. I pinch myself. No, no, still I pass and the vision vanishes into the evening shadows. Between a switch of the key, shifting old Lizzie into high soon the dream is overtaken. A pleasure indeed, asking for a date later. The answer—'I will.' And lo: April the first, two falls in one day. One did not hurt—just slipped through space, the chute opened nicely. Excuse me while you pour the other."

"Our Betters" Most Lavish Production In Meteoric Career of Connie Bennett

The lengths to which producers sometimes go to create elaborate settings for glamorous stars is noted in Constance Bennett's new RKO Radio picture, "Our Betters," showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Yucca theatre, with Anita Louise, Gilbert Roland, Charles Starrett, Phoebe Foster, Violet Kemble-Cooper, Grant Mitchell and other equally important names.

"Our Betters" was adapted for the screen from W. Somerset Maugham's novel of the same title. Its action occurs in the ultra-smart and royal circles of Great Britain, with intimate glimpses of ballrooms and galleries of Buckingham Palace.

Before the actual work of set building and decorating was begun, cables between Hollywood and London were kept busy. These messages were interspersed with boat and airmail shipments of hundreds of photographs and architectural drawings of Buckingham Palace, various English mansions and estates, and written explanations of the various court functions.

For "Our Betters," furniture, draperies, tapestries, decorative standards of gold and silver, facsimiles of the Royal jewels and other items were gathered over a wide field and rented. The appointments contain many genuine antiques and Chippendale pieces. Their value runs into many thousands of dollars.

Miss Bennett and supporting women players, make the production her most elaborate to date.

Mae West Captivates Local Movie Crowd As She Appears at Ritz in Own Story

"She Done Him Wrong" breezed into the Ritz theatre at the previous last night and gave local film patrons an idea of what the real Mae West is like when she is starring in a play of her own authorship. They had a glimpse of her in "Night After Night," but it has remained for "She Done Him Wrong" to bring out the real Mae West—the Mae West that Broadway knows. See her picture! It's a different kind of a treat and a different kind of a thrill!

The film tells a vivid story of the Bowery, with Miss West as the lady known as Lou, who sings for her diamonds at Jordan's Diamond palace. She sings "Frankie and Johnny" as it's never been sung before, and also introduces two new numbers. "A Man Who Takes His Time" and "Haven't Got No Peace of Mind," both especially written for her by Ralph Rainger. And if ever there were no story to be told, Miss West's singing of these three songs would be worth the price of admission.

You will enjoy Miss West's colorful story, her racy dialogue, her stunning performances as Lady Lou. And you will also enjoy her singing of the famous old "Frankie and Johnny" as well as the two hot new numbers.

The fine supporting cast includes Cary Grant, Noah Beery, Owen Moore, Gilbert Roland, David Landau, Rafaela Ottiano, Rochelle Hudson, Grace LaRue, Fuzzy Knight, Tammy Young and others. Lovell Sherman wielded the megaphone.

But the film is first and last—

Magazines Needed By Lions Library

Magazines are needed for distribution to rural and town people who depend on the source of supply provided by the Lions club for their reading.

The supply at the Midland chamber of commerce office is exhausted. Ten people called for magazines on Friday and Saturday, and were unable to get them. Cooking School Program Announced

Mrs. Stella Floyd to Demonstrate Full Course; School Hours from 9 to 11 in Mornings, Beginning Tuesday at Yucca

The cooking school to be conducted jointly by The Reporter-Telegram and the Texas Electric Service company, beginning Tuesday, is novel from many approaches: The sessions will be held in the mornings, from 9 until 11 o'clock, allowing women to finish morning home work and get home in time to arrange their luncheons.

The school will be conducted exclusively through the use of electrical appliances—

Menus for each morning's session were released today by Miss Stella Floyd, conductor of the school so all may understand the thoroughness of the work contemplated.

The school, as in the past, is free—

And numerous other factors which cannot fail to be appreciated by the modern housewife.

The school will be held in the Yucca theatre, which assures all of comfortable chairs, uniform temperature and correct visibility while Mrs. Floyd makes her demonstration on the stage of the big play-house.

Souvenir programs which contain all recipes of the four-day school will be given those who attend, and blank pages in the program allow for taking of notes.

A glance at the dishes and pastries to be made on the stage will afford some idea of how much will be demonstrated:

Tuesday—Chocolate cake, peach bread, dixie meat loaf, veal supreme, apple delights, deep dish spinach cake, chicken pie, banana pudding, macaroni and chicken salad.

Wednesday—Pineapple cake, steamed brown bread, ginger cream pie, honey meringue, cheese and celery rolls, stuffed bacon slices, gum drop bars, and vegetable casserole.

Thursday—Tomato bread, turban of parsnips, date-nut-marshmallow pie, mixed grill, chocolate meringue cake, chicken pie, banana pudding, and macaroni and chicken salad.

Friday—Lazy daisy cake (orange cream filling), Spanish rice with shrimp, surprise dessert, toasted sausage rolls, tongue in chery-raisin sauce, cheese pudding, lemon pie, and veal supreme.

The housewife can arrange an ordinary dish so that it would appeal to an epicure," she says. "This may be done by changing of dishes on which it is served, the use of garnishes, the setting of pot plants and flowers in proximity to food and in other manners. A man appreciates art, or he would never have settled on his selection of the woman he married. The housewife possibly who is awaiting company to arrange her table with ordinary care is overlooking a bet, she should be thinking of her husband and the satisfaction that comes from pleasing him. It is surprising how many more boxes of chocolates, boxes of flowers and new dresses that would result.

Change the atmosphere of the table like you would your frocks. This gives a refreshing moment that spurs the jaded appetite and promotes health. Significantly enough, it promotes better domestic relations. Food thrown on the table haphazardly is like appearing at breakfast with stubble on the chin, or hair uncombed; change foods regularly, serve differently, and you'll find the budget not only does not increase, but reflects the business in cookery that you have achieved by arranging left-over food into palatable dishes.

"The new frocks are a natural result."

YOUTH MUST BE SERVED—and Here's One How Says Mrs. Stella Floyd, Expert

A hint to the college boy and girl who not only let spring turn their fancies lightly to love, but to entertain.

Something in the spring air seems to inspire the youthful appetite to different foods; they have little time for ceasing their nervous activity. Vacation is ahead, with golf and riding and swimming and tennis. Youth must be served, and how!

Mrs. Stella Floyd, in Midland to conduct The Reporter-Telegram's All-Electric cooking school, which begins Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock and continues each morning at that hour through Friday, gives a hint to the hostess how to serve the voracious appetite of youth, at the same time serving with the utmost in charm and novelty.

locked the cellar window to bar pursuit for a few minutes. Turning again, he picked up the staret, and half-carried, half dragged him to the river's edge.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

It was not difficult to find Paul. Natasha's message brought him swiftly to her at the hospital where she and the Empress served as nurses during the day in order to do their share of the war work.

Paul looked at her for a moment and his lips compressed into two white lines. Pressing her hand, he hastened to the room where the Empress was sitting at a desk.

In the long drawing room of the prince's town house, the scene was taking place several days later. Samarov, a minor official who owed his post to Rasputin's kindness, had been bribed by Prince Paul to bring Rasputin to the house under the pretext that a friend of his was having a party.

In the kitchen Prince Paul looked down at Dr. Remezov as the physician bent down over the table, in order to bring his eyes on a level with the little chocolate cake that stood with several others on the plate.

"There's enough cyanide in that cake to kill a squad of men. I've never seen it fail. A single drop of cyanide on your tongue could kill you like that," the doctor snapped his fingers to illustrate.

"From upstairs in the living room came a shout of laughter followed by guitar music and a chorus singing a gypsy song. A line of an excellent party," Rasputin shouted to Samarov. Then he caught the waiter's incredulous, unbelieving eyes upon him.

"This is Chegodieff's house!" he shouted. "Samarov—you Judas—you have betrayed me!" "Search the house! Search the house!" Rasputin shouted. Suspicious as he was of everything and everyone in Prince Paul's house, the thought of poison never entered Rasputin's mind.

Paul, who had caught sight of him biting into the cake as they came through the doorway, smiled maliciously and bowed. "So," Rasputin bellowed at him. "You plotted to murder me! You should know better by now. Nothing can kill me."

"The idea amused Rasputin. "Prince," he said in mock courtesy, "they tell me that your cellars are famous—rare wines and huge pantries—won't you show them to me?" "Certainly," Paul said, and led the way to the cellars.

Rasputin seated himself on the sofa. In his right hand he held the pistol in his left hand was a half-eaten cake. Paul looked at it. It was one of the chocolate cakes that had been heavily poisoned. "How does it feel to die?" Rasputin asked, threatening Paul with the revolver.

"How does it feel to die?" Paul said. "You'll know. You've been poisoned. Already you're dying. Look at your face—it's turning green." "You swine!" Rasputin shouted and brought up the revolver, aiming at Paul's face.

With a shout, Paul leaped forward, cleared the sofa top and landed full onto the revolver. It was discharged in the monk's hand. The bullet flew wide. Paul wrested the revolver away from Rasputin and hurried it in to the fire. Then with a powerful thrust he sent Rasputin staggering back.

In the bedroom of the Tsaritsa, the Imperial family was assembled. The Tsar, learning of Rasputin's murder, had come back post-haste to the capital.

There was a knock at the door. "Come in," the Tsar said sadly. Paul appeared with General Orloff. Aloysha made a movement toward him and was restrained by the Tsaritsa.

"Your Majesty," Paul said, bowing low. Aloysha had never taken his eyes off Paul. He was bursting with suppressed admiration: The Tsar handed the General a document.

"I want you to see that this order is properly executed. There is no justification for murder, Prince," he said. The Tsar went on severely to Paul. "My ministers have demanded that you be punished with death. But I cannot take a life that has been so devoted—in the past—to my punishment. I have therefore fixed your punishment at exile. Who else was implicated in this?"

As Paul looked somewhat puzzled the Tsar turned to the waiting general. "Leave us, general." He left with a salute. As the door closed behind him, the Tsar dropped everything and seized both of Paul's hands in his own. The Tsaritsa and Aloysha came up breathlessly.

"This is how we reward your patriotism," the Tsaritsa said sadly. "This had to be done, Paul," said the Tsar. "All Rasputin's creatures are still in power."

"Where will you go, Paul?" the Tsaritsa asked. "England, I've been offered a commission, in the line," the Tsar said. "Take Natasha with you," the Tsaritsa said.

"Your Majesty," Paul said, suddenly impulsively. "I never believed that madman before—but one thing he said is roaring in my brain—that when he died, Russia dies. Already revolution is in the air—and never like it has been before. This time it's the end of everything! I leave while you have a chance! Save yourselves!"

"Save yourselves!" Has Paul reason for his fears? Will the murdered monk's prophecy bear bloody fruit? Read tomorrow's, the final, installment of this story.

Chevrolet Auto Sales Increasing

During the first quarter this year the Chevrolet Motor company manufactured 148,336 new cars and trucks as compared with 133,363 units in the first three months of 1932. W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, announced today.

In March, despite the unsettled banking situation, total production came within 300 units of equalling March of last year. Comparative figures as announced by Knudsen are 38,665 units this March and 38,000 last March. Both January and February production ran well ahead of the corresponding months of 1932.

In the month just ended, restricted banking facilities for clearing cars to dealers seriously interfered with production schedules, especially during the first half. "We had to operate on a 'hand to mouth' basis," Knudsen said. "We didn't know one week or one day what we would do the next. In the second week we were able to run our plants only one day. But at no time were we closed as long as one full week."

"Emergency measures to get cars to dealers kept field stocks up, although there was some reduction in new cars in dealer's hands during the second ten days. We were especially taxed to get enough direct play cars of the new 'Standard' line in the field to make our public announcement on March 11. But in the full month we built 10,743 'Standard' cars."

Sunday school at 9:45. Morning worship, preaching by the pastor. Evening session of the church school at 6:45. Evening service at 8:00.

It is still too early to estimate exact production for this month, but generally April is our best production month of the year. Last April we built 55,000 cars, the largest month in 1932. This year we have already exceeded that figure. In January we built 60,000 cars as a result of the gratifying public acceptance of our products."

Gas Warfare Shows Grim Continuance

PARIS, (UP)—Despite League of Nations conventions against gas and chemical warfare, virtually every nation is busily engaged developing and inventing the most devastating devices for aerial conflict. Recent political disturbances in Europe have drawn public attention to the possibilities of a sudden frontier flareup, and aerial defenses are in question.

In connection with projects for a complete reorganization of the French Air forces, by Premier Daladier, the opinion of certain experts has been sought by leading Paris newspapers. Le Matin published one of the most significant of these in an interview with General Niessel, former member of the Superior War council, former inspector general of aeronautics, and at present of the active specialists studying chemical and bacteriological warfare. General Niessel advocates the most extraordinary diligence on the part of the government in the immediate development of adequate aerial defenses.

General Niessel said in part: "All diplomatic pacts possible will not guarantee us that the Germans of the future will hesitate to employ chemical bombs, just as much if not more than did the Germans in the late war. The use of projectiles is still too early to estimate exact production for this month, but generally April is our best production month of the year. Last April we built 55,000 cars, the largest month in 1932. This year we have already exceeded that figure. In January we built 60,000 cars as a result of the gratifying public acceptance of our products."

TWO LINES OF CARS—TWO PRICE RANGES ONE HIGH STANDARD OF QUALITY. First, came the Chevrolet Master Six—and America responded with the greatest welcome given Chevrolet since 1929. Then, up stepped the leader with another entirely new line of cars, the Standard Six. And down went the Chevrolet base-price to the lowest figure in history for a full-size six-cylinder closed car. Now—for the first time—there are two Chevrolet Sixes—the Standard and the Master. Body-styles for everybody. Prices for several different groups of buyers. But only one standard of quality running throughout the complete line. And that's the very same high standard that has made CHEVROLET the greatest name in low-price transportation! Both Standard and Master models offer wood-and-steel bodies by Fisher—equipped with safety plate glass in the windshields, and featuring Fisher No Draft Ventilation. Both have silent second gears and smooth, fast, six-cylinder engines. In the Standard Six, you enjoy all these advantages—at the lowest operating cost of any full-size car. In the Master Six, you get all these advantages, and many more, in an unusually large, luxurious car, along with the greatest all-round economy of any car of its size. And Chevrolet prices are now as low as $445—for the Standard Six Coupe! CHEVROLET MOTOR COMPANY, DETROIT, MICHIGAN. ELDER CHEVROLET COMPANY 107 South Colorado St. Midland, Texas

HORSE RACING NATIONAL PAS-TIME OF U. S. A.

By BILL BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—Horses, ball players and golfers are coming back from the south this year by a different outlook. The horses are ahead, and baseball's boast of being the "national pastime" lingers in the back stretch.

Following hard upon hard times, the horse has galloped into the legislatures of 20 states. The people's choices in many states have heard his hoof beats and have moved swiftly to attach a part of the $500,000,000 annual traffic the thoroughbred has diverted.

Quick action to legalize wagering in northern states following the tidings that Florida, in little more than a month, collected $308,000 as the state's share of more than $8,000,000 that passed through the pari-mutuel totalizer at Miami's Hialeah.

Bank holidays and all, the Hialeah betting exceeded by $2,000,000 the handle of a like period in 1932. Ohio promptly joined the sisterhood of Maryland, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Montana, Nevada and Florida where betting was already legal. Evidently New Hampshire checked her New England conscience outside and joined the parade.

The fever for improvement of the breed of thoroughbreds—and state revenues—spread to the banks of the Wabash where Indiana went some of the others one better by sanctioning wagers on dog races, too. Missouri spurned a law by a close vote but the campaign was continued. Washington, where horse racing had been illegal for 24 years, passed a pari-mutuel measure. New Mexico's Governor Seligman signed a similar bill.

Alabama, Connecticut, Colorado, Georgia, Idaho, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming and Utah—in all these states, bills were being pressed.

Legislative research unearthed some amazing figures. In New York, where a decision of Judge Gaynor in 1913 placed horse wagering in the same class as a cigar but between friends at a golf course, the amount bet on races was estimated at $69,000,000 a year. The state, with no income from these "oral" wagers made with bookmakers at the various tracks studied the profits other states had clipped from the mutual handles.

The success of Arlington Park was cited as an example of how racing might flourish under statutes that give both the track stockholders and the state a definite percentage of the money wagered. In the year of 1931 Arlington distributed $667,250 in purses and stakes during 30 days of racing. The total of purses in Illinois that year, in 183 racing days, was $2,182,700.

The Arlington management, headed by Samuel Insull, Silas Strawn and John Hertz, paid off in two years its capital indebtedness on an investment of $3,000,000. Yet from the New York tracks, with no cut from the betting, run into the red each year.

Maryland, which has state and county laws assessing the sport more than any other state, takes upward of $1,000,000 a year in taxes and license fees from its tracks at Havre, Bowie, Pimlico and Havre de Grace.

The 44-day meeting at Hialeah, near Miami, where more than $8,000,000 was wagered this spring, offers a striking comparison to the popularity of baseball. Big league baseball, in 16 cities, grosses about $10,000,000 receipts over the playing season of 154 games.

Mechanical genius played a part in the increase of betting at Hialeah, where a huge totalizer displayed the odds. After each bet on a horse the odds would change on every entry in the race, the intricate and accurate machinery figuring like lightning the effect of each $2 wager on the price of each horse.

These machines cost from $100,000 to $300,000 to install, but the "tote" at Miami was rented at 5 per cent of the take. Since the take was over $8,000,000, the rent came to more than $400,000.

It would almost pay the state to set up the "tote" itself.

NEW CAMP ESTABLISHED

Establishment of a new oil camp at Wicket for the Gulf Production company is in progress. Warehouses, offices and residences for the men are either being moved from other camps or erected on the O'Brian lease at Wicket. Tom Pickering, production superintendent, is in charge of opening the camp, which will be occupied by about 17 families.

Gas Pressure Sets Oil Men Thinking

Gas pressure in the Barnsdall Oil company and Harry Leonard No. 1 Mary Dodd is so much heavier than in any other wells in the vicinity in Eddy county, N. M., that drillers believe an entirely new field has been opened. The Dood discovery flowed 6,742,000 cubic feet per day from 2307 feet, which is about four times more than the old Leonard and Levors gassers. The old wells are declining rapidly. The new gasser is in the SW SE SW section 22, 17S-29-E.

College Meal

over big with the college man or woman. After all, many times they don't have time to wait for full course dinners—and are just as apt to tuck into their lively repast and continual volley of collegiate conversation excerpts from lectures on Freudian psychology, vivisection of frogs and lizards or the relative merits of the various exponents of the school of tragic drama. They are voluble, filled with nervous energy. They want action, informally. Why not give it to them?

Consider the following. Mrs. Floyd advises, for a modern, efficient way of serving these helter-skelter youths:

Open cheese and tomato-ginger conserve sandwiches. These are good to serve for tea or for any informal occasion. You will need to make plenty of them for they are so delicious that they will disappear rapidly. We suggest, however, that you make a feature of spread-your-own sandwiches, made on the spot by your guests. Equip a large tray with a generous supply of crackers, a bowl of soft cream cheese and one of tomato-ginger conserve, and the necessary implements for spreading. Add a small metal cake decorator for putting on the cheese and offer a prize for the most professionally decorated sandwich.

The recipe for the tomato-ginger conserve is as follows: Drain juice from fresh or canned tomatoes. Mix 2 cups pulp with 2 cups chopped apple, 1 lemon put through the food chopper and 4 tablespoons preserved ginger chopped. Cook 15 minutes, add 3 cups sugar and continue the cooking until the mixture is thick and clear. Pour into clean hot jars and seal.

We filled six jelly glasses from this rule. Drain the tomatoes as dry as possible so that you may not have to give the mixture a long cooking. (Use the tomato juice for cocktails or in a soup.) Cook 15 minutes. The easiest way to prepare the remaining ingredients is to put them through the food chopper one after the other. The apple will lose its identity, the lemon will be chopped fine and the ginger will be in fine pieces. Cooking the ingredients without the sugar for 15 minutes permits the bits of lemon skin to become soft and transparent whereas if they were cooked first in the sugar syrup they might become hard.

ing tile irrigation, gardens could be made to show 100 per cent increase in production in some cases. The tile costs only about one cent a foot, and an entire garden spot can be irrigated for only a few nickels. Miss Miller will visit various communities and work with the farm women as fast as they will call her.

GREAT GATHERING OF PILOTS SOON

CHICAGO.—The greatest single gathering of airplane pilots in aviation history is expected to take place here July 1, 2, 3 and 4, during the American Air races.

Every one of the 27,000 pilots and airplane mechanics who hold active department of commerce licenses have been asked to attend the four day spectacle as guests of the American Air Race Association, Inc., which is managing the show.

An elaborate program is being worked out, which will make the American Air Races the year's outstanding aviation event, according to Major R. W. Schroeder, internationally famous flyer and president of the American Air Race Association.

Numerous noted racing pilots have expressed their intention of entering high-speed airplanes in the four-day program here. Leading acrobatic flyers also will participate. Substantial cash prizes will be placed in escrow 30 days before the show's opening and many valuable trophies will be up for competition.

As an outgrowth of the American Air Races here, it has been determined to establish a circuit of more than 50 cities throughout the country and conduct a similar spectacle in each of these places.

"This plan marks a new era in aviation," Major Schroeder declared. "It will mean that air racing on a major scale will be brought to many persons, who, because of the big races being centered in one locality in the past, have been unable to view the performance of world-famous pilots."

"The plan has been in process of formulation for more than a year," Major Schroeder continued. "Now that we possess certain agreements with famous racing pilots we are ready to go ahead with the project."

All air meets conducted by the American Air Race Association will be operated on a charitable basis under local sponsorship in each city. Each of them will be a reproduction of the American Air Races here in July on a smaller scale. Many of the pilots entering high-speed airplanes in the American Air Races have agreed to fly in all association shows. Thus the public outside of Chicago will be given a preview and an after-view of the year's major aviation event.

Arkansas Spurs High Motor Taxes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Declaring the state could function if it economized, and eliminated inefficient or useless departments, the Arkansas legislature today passed a law which would neither increase old nor levy new taxes this year. It spurned all proposals further to tax gasoline and to impose taxes upon soft drinks, auto tires, motor vehicles, or anything else.

It established something of a record among state legislatures also by reducing the tax bills of the motorists. The horsepower tax was reduced to 6 1/2 cents from 12 1/2, and the weight tax was cut to 27 1/2c per 100 pounds from 55c and 65c. The gasoline tax law was amended in an effort to prevent bootlegging and tax evasion. And finally the governor signed a resolution calling for the establishment of reciprocal relations with Tennessee, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Mississippi, and other states in order that motor vehicles using the highways in interstate traffic may not be subjected to oppressive and varying rules and regulations.

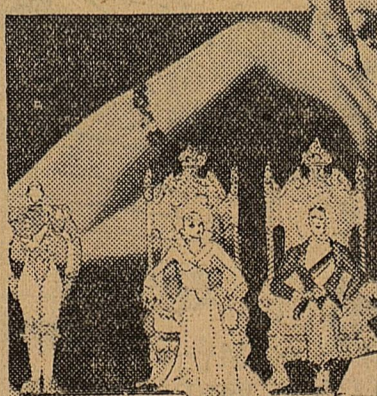

MANUFACTURE PRETZELS

EL PASO. (UP).—Notwithstanding that Texas law prohibits sale of beer in this state, a father and his two sons have started a pretzel factory here and have set about to make El Pasoans pretzel conscious. "In sort of coming on beer coming back in Texas before long," declared the father, Bernard Hawk, as he and Henry and Carl Hawk went to work. "And even if it does not, we intend to impress folks here with the fact that pretzels are good with soda pop and ice cream as well."

The trio is optimistic as to success in the new venture, particularly inasmuch as they have no competition here.
